Among those who attended the shower of Mr. and Mrs. H. O'Connell at Harwood on Wednesday were Messrs. Neil Brisbin and Jack Murney, Misses Jennie Covert and Jessie Mouncey.

Mr. Jack Mouncey, of Fenella, was in the village on Wednesday.

Reeve Gordon Parker was on a business trip to Kingston during last week and has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Dawe and Mrs. C. Bowen, of Warkworth, were calling on friends in the village on Wednesday.

Mr. McGrath has been extra busy grinding chop for the past week. There has been considerable activity among the farmers lately, getting harness, machinery, feed and horses ready for steady work on the land, which will be very soon now, as the land is drying up rapidly.

Mr. J. Parker, of Norwood, visited Mr. and Mrs. G. Parker during the week.

Hastings

Mrs. Lloyd Fleming spent a few days with William Fisher, of Campbellford.

Mr. Ford Stinson, of Guelph, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Arthur Stinson.

Mr. M. McDonald, of Toronto, and daughter, Florence, were called to Hastings on Monday, owing to the death of Mrs. McDonald's sister, Mrs. Fred. Richardson.

EARLY SELECTION ASKED BY SOCIETY

Premium Lists Will be Submitted Shortly to Members of Havelock Horticultural Society.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, April 21. — At the third meeting of the Havelock Horticultural Society, held in the Council Chamber Tuesday evening, April 19th, a list of nineteen varieties of flowers, bulbs and shrubs was submitted for the approval of the members, from which to make their choice of premiums. It was suggested by one of the officers that the directorate be left to choose the premiums which would be given, and that the latter be confined to three varieties, each member to receive the same. The objection to this plan was that in cases where a member had been growing many varieties for a number of years, that member was likely to have all of the kind chosen for which he had any space in the garden. It was also thought there would be a tendency to sameness in the gardens of all the members, and that a wider choice would suit the larger number. Lists of the choice offered were ordered to be printed and distributed at once, and members are asked to make their order from the list, sign, and forward to the secretary, not later than Monday, April 25th.

A member may choose any three of the varieties listed, and it would be well to make selection as soon as possible, to facilitate the work of the secretary, which will be very heavy for a few days.

A committee was appointed to wait on the village council at their next meeting and ask that they set a time for a general clean up. The first week in May was suggested as a fitting time, and the school will be asked to observe Arbor Day, and have the school grounds put in first class order.

Mr. Moore, first vice-president, at the meeting of directors held after the general meeting, suggested that it would be well for the society to form a concrete plan, regarding the planting of trees on the village streets. He believed that if a time were set aside to improve certain streets, to set out trees, to clean up when all interested would be invited to help, better progress would be made. There are a number of dilapidated looking places in the village, vacant lots, which it is believed could be seized for arrears of taxes, which if the council will acquire, could be cleaned up, and be given a more inviting aspect to the visitors and residents of the village.

The city of Stolberg, Prussia, has a library containing about 20,000 volumes made up entirely of funeral sermons, including those for Martin Luther and Philip Melancthon.

MASSEY-HARRIS RECOVERS LOSS

Montreal Leaders Suffer Small Losses in Moderate Trading Session.

MONTREAL, April 22. (C.P.) — Stock prices turned lower on the Montreal stock exchange this morning, the leaders suffering small losses. Trading was only moderately active.

Massey-Harris opened at a new low level of 2⅞ but recovered to 3 unchanged from yesterday. In the noon trade, Canada Cement preferred sold down 3 points to 43. Canadian Pacific Railway lost ¾ at 14. Brazilian sold at 9½, off ¼ and Nickel lost ⅛ at 6¾. Quebec Power eased ⅛ to 15⅛ and B.C. Power sold off ½ at 17½.

Atlantic Sugar advanced to a new high for the year at 22, up 1½ from the previous close.

Canadian Car and Smelters were unchanged.

ROBBERS RELEASE YOUTH, FLEE WITH BANK LOOT

COALGATE, Okla., April 22. — (C.P.)—Releasing Estel Hanson, 18, in the wooded country south of Atwood, Okla., two bank robber officers, believed to be Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, Oklahoma desperado, and his aide, George Birdwell, fled to-day before possemen.

The youth reached his home in Ada, Okla., unharmed. Hanson said the robbers, accused of looting the Stonewell, Okla., State Bank of $600, kidnapped him when he rode his motorcycle up to their motor car parked south of Ada yesterday.

"You'd better come along with us," one said. Hanson related he believed they were Floyd and Birdwell.

MOSS REGISTERS GAIN OF 4 POINTS

Wright-Hargreaves, Dome and Teck-Hughes Among Issues to Show Losses.

TORONTO, April 22 (C.P.) — With changes confined to an unusually small portion of the last, prices displayed a somewhat easier tendency on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market to-day. Turnover continued at yesterday's low rate.

Hollinger managed to sell up 5 to $4.65, but Wright-Hargreaves was down 4 to $2.26 and Dome and Teck-Hughes lost 10 apiece, the latter establishing a new low for many years of $3.60. Among cheaper golds, Moss displayed the only change, with a gain of 4 to 35.

Noranda turned easy from the opeing, price dipping below $16 for a 25-cent loss. Nickel was off 10 to $6.75, and Eldorado slipped a couple to $1.10. Other base metals and the oil section were in the discard.

Closed Speakeasies Will Shelter Poor

PHILADELPHIA, April 22 (C.P.). — The law's padlock on speakeasy doors is going to be opened to give haven to the homeless.

Common Pleas Judge Frank Smith in a unique court order has approved a plan to give destitute families shelter.

Under the plan padlocks will be removed from buildings closed for prohibition law violations, and the needy will occupy them rent free.

COOPERATION IS URGED TO CUT PLANT MISHAPS

TORONTO, April 22.—(C.P.) — E. E. Sparow, works manager of the Imperial Varnish and Color Company, Toronto, to-day urged members of the Ontario Industrial Accident Prevention Association to aid each other in reducing the number of mishaps in their plants.

Mr. Sparrow said such action would result in a lowering of contribution by all members to the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Boards fund. He suggested members might assist each other by exchanging information on measures each had taken to eliminate or reduce accidents.

R. J. A. Curry, chairman of the Wentworth division of the Association, Hamilton, reporting on the work of his division for the year, urged constant repetition of safety warnings and safety talks. "It is the constant repetition of effort that brings results," he said.

TORONTO LIST CONTINUES ON EASIER TREND

Losses Are Small This Morning Except in One or Two Cases.

WALKERS HOLDS FIRM.

TORONTO, April 22.—(C.P.) — Thursday's late rally did not carry over until this morning and the Toronto exchange market again resumed the downward trend. With one or two exceptions, losses were small and incurred after the opening, with the market rather even in dull trading the remainder of the morning.

Bell Telephone, which shot up to 90 before the close Thursday, came out a point lower this morning and by mid-day had reacted to 88. Brazilian and C.P.R. were each down approximately ½ point. Steel of Canada lost ⅛ and Nickel, Noranda, Loblaw and some of the oils lesser amounts. Photo-Engravers dropped 1 to 15.

Walkers, both common and preferred, was firm and Ford of Canada did not go any lower. B. A. Oil was unchanged at 9. Massey-Harirs dipped below 3 for the first time in a long period.

WOOL DISTRICTS DISLIKE TARIFF

Claim Cut From 50 to 20 Per Cent Will Not Exclude Continental Product.

STEEL TRADE PLEASED.

(By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Writer)

LONDON, April 22.—(C. P. Cable) —Keen disappointment was recorded from the Yorkshire wool district today at the reduction from 50 to 20 percent in the import duty on all manufactured textiles except yarns, effected in the additions to the import duty list which in this case replaced the emergency tariff of 50 percent, while recognizing the 50 percent duty was purely an emergency measure the wool traders declare the new duty is incapable of excluding continental wools.

An appeal will probably be launched for an increase in this duty 33 1-3 percent. Presumably only yarns received the benefit of the general 10 percent duty.

Iron Trade Satisfied

On the other hand, the iron and steel trade does not conceal its satisfaction at the imposition of a duty of 33 1-3 percent on semi-finished steel for a limited period until the advisory tariff committee is in a position to submit a more permanent scheme. The tariffs advisory committee announced it is alive to the fact that in some instances the re-establishment of an industry may be dependent quite as much on proper reorganization and equipment as the degree of protection accorded.

The committee also reiterated earlier sentiments about protecting the consumer against exploitation.

Guardian Critical

The Liberal Manchester Guardian condemns the whole new tariff proposals as placing the country under a system of Protection which "is only paralleled among the high Protectionist countries of the world."

The Times expressed fears serious criticism would be provoked from some quarters by the reduction of the protection accorded certain industries in the Abnormal Importations Act, but on the whole the scheme gives the impression the Government advisers are developing a tariff policy with resolution and moderation, The Times added.

Barren Tract To Become Fertile Land

MUSSOLINI VISITS RESTORATION PROJECT.

Formerly a barren tract of land, the Pontine marsh in Rome is being transformed into a fertile section of land by the National Combattenti Corporation, working under the authorization of Premier Benito Mussolini. More than 200,000 workmen are employed in this work, partly solving the Italian unemployment problem. Photo shows Mussolini talking with a working family as he visited the scene of restoration.

COOTE ASKS WHY CANADA'S PART IN GREAT WAR NOT PUBLISHED

Duty of Compiling Official History Given Historical Section 11 Years Ago.

BRITISH RECORDS OUT.

OTTAWA, April 22 (C.P.).—Failure of succeeding governments in Canada to push forward the work of an official history dealing with Canada and the Great War is again being drawn to the attention of Parliament, a question on this matter having been placed on the order paper by G. G. Coote, U.F.A., McLeod. The Western member asks:

How many volumes of an official history setting forth Canada's participation in the Great War have been published to date?

How many have still to be published?

How long has this work been in progress?

When will it be completed?

Who wrote (A) whatever volumes have been already published, and (b) volumes, if any, that have not yet been published?

Only One Volume Out

Mr. Coote's questions cover matter which was given to the House of Commons last year when W. G. Ernst, Cons., Queen's-Lunenburg) and H. E. Spencer, U.F.A., Battle River) enquired of the Minister of National Defence, Hon. D. M. Sutherland, in much the same strain. According to last year's answers nothing had been published in the way of an official history beyond one supplementary volume, written by Sir Andrew Macphail on the "Medical Services."

The duty of compiling an official history was assigned to the Historical Section eleven years ago, but nothing has so far issued therefrom.

Some weeks ago in the Senate, the question was raised by Major-General W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., who recalled that many volumes of the British official history had already appeared, while Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa had also issued theirs. He deplored that Canada was behind in this respect and urged that the work be proceeded with immediately.

Various ex-soldier organizations have pressed on the Government that the history should be written while those who took parts in the war are still alive.

PRAIRIES ARE WATCHING WEATHER MAN'S TRICKS

WINNIPEG, April 22. —(CP)— Western Canadians are wondering today what new tricks the weather man has up his sleeve. While marooned motorists are plowing their way out of drifts in Alberta and ranchers are checking up on their blizzard beaten herds, citizens of Manitoba are keeping discarded winter clothing ready in case the winter weather comes eastward.

Yesterday the west's weather map was a variegated one. The howling blizzard did serious damage in Calgary and district. Edmonton escaped. In Saskatchewan a light fall of rain put an end to annoying dust storms. In Manitoba the sun shone brightly and early season golfers played in their shirt sleeves. Early today crews of linemen were still at work restoring tangled telephone and telegraph wires in the Calgary district.

Pleasure-Seekers Nab A Prize

CHASE FLYING FISH WITH SPEEDBOAT.

The flying fish are earlier this year, reports from Catalina Island, Calif., say, but not too early for these four island pleasure seekers who have just snared three with a net from a flying speedboat. The fishermaids are, left to right: Mary Jane Boston, Mickey Esther Newerf, and Lida Everett.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET CLOSE.

NEW YORK, April 22.—(C.P.) — Stocks found the market thin to-day and closed with a heavy tone, losses ranging from 1 to 5 points in representative leaders. Volume, however, was less than 1,000,000 shares. American Telephone, Santa Fe, Allied Chemical and Norfolk and Western declined in the neighborhood of 4, while Union Pacific was down about 5. Standard Oil of New Jersey, U. S. Steel, American Tobacco, New York Central and American Can yielded 2 to 3.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 22 (C.P.) — Following an irregular forenoon, prices took a downturn in the afternoon on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market to-day, weakness again being attributed to softness on industrial boards.

Teck-Hughes established a new low price, closing off 20 on the day. Hollinger managed to show a small gain; Dome was quiet, but Lake Shore and Wright-Hargreaves lost ground.

Nickel and Noranda turned easier late in the day, both finishing with recessions of upwards of 50 cents. Hudson Boy lost 15, and Eldorado and Mining Corp. slipped 5 apiece.

Among cheaper stocks, Moss firmed a couple, and Big Missouri was up a fraction. Grozelle lost 3, Howey, Bidgood and Caanusa a fraction to a cent each.

Oils were easy, with Chemical Research off another 5, Ajax down 2, and Acme Gas fractionally lower.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 22.—(CP)—Although in light volume, Toronto Stock Exchange market was nevertheless weak today. Losses ranged from fractions to more than 3 points and the decline uncovered more new lows.

Bell Telephone dropped back below 87 for a net loss of more than 3-points. This is the lowest the stock has ever sold in Toronto. C. P. R. at 13¼ was off more than a point while Brazilian, Ford of Canada, Nickel, Steel of Canada lost approximately ½ point each. Ford equalling its former low of 8¾. Canadian Dredge lost a point, selling at a new low of 11.

Foods and chain store stocks were soft, down slightly, and the oils all receded from the level at the close last night.

Distillery stocks were firm, distillers unchanged, Walkers common up slightly and the preferred unchanged.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 22 (C.P.). — Prime commercial paper, 3½-3⅝ per cent. Foreign exchange easy. Demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents): Great Britain, 3.74 3-8; France, 3.93 15-16; Italy, 5.13⅜; Germany, 23.73; Canadian dollars at 10⅛ per cent. discount.

MINERS' UNION SIGNS TWO YEAR AGREEMENT

LETHBRIDGE, April 22 (C.P.).—Lethbridge Miners' Union, an independent organization formed after a break with the Mine Workers' Union of Canada recently, yesterday signed a working agreement with mine operators for the next two years. Wage scales remain unchanged, with only change in the contract providing for the use of shearing machines in the mines so that brigade of lump coal may be produced.

None of the miners of the independent union took part in the recent strike vote taken by the Mine Workers' Union of Canada.

ANCIENT BOWLS PROVES PUZZLE

Pair Dating Back to 2400 B. C. Dug Up in House of 400 B.C. Era.

FOUND AT UR.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22. (C.P.) Archaeologists have uncovered another ancient mystery to puzzle over, the University of Pennsylvania museum has made known.

Two were preserved Sumerian objects, an unbroken mug of gray stone and a straight-sided bowl of dark, polished soapstone, both dating back to about 2400 B.C., were discovered at Ur of the Chaldees in a house of the 400 B.C. era. The joint expedition of the University of Pennsylvania museum and the British Museum made the discovery.

"How an object dating from 2400 B.C., came to be in a Persian house of the fourth or fifth century, B.C., is something of a mystery" said C. Leonard Woodley, director of the expedition, in a report to the university museum. "It is possible that the owner was a collector of antiquities, but in any event we are very much indebted to him."

The bowl, he said, is one of the finest examples of its period ever found.

In addition to the mug and bowl, more than 450 seals were uncovered by the expedition, which has just completed its tenth season. The seals were found in a coffin of the Persian period.

Bonner-Worth Men Honor Boss Dyer

A Linton, boss dyer of the Bonner-Worth factory of Canadian Woollens Limited, was tendered a dinner at the Elite court last night by the men of his department. Mr. Linton is leaving on a two month's trip to Europe. Among those who attended were J. Carr, G. Pryde, V. Lazure, J. Trotter, E. Wright, D. Hillier, S. Sullivan, Jim Carr, S. McMeehan, R. McMillan, D. McKay, Wm. Cavanagh, Geo. Woods, Len McDonald, L. Riley, T. Cavanagh, T. Hillier, D. Smith, B. Merritt, J. Heffernan, A. Linton.

Exchange Rates

TORONTO, April 22 (C.P.). — Exchange rates at noon to-day were as follows:

Pound sterling, Montreal, 4.17¼.
Pound sterling, New York, 3.74⅝.
Canadian dollar, New York, 89¾.

TWO END LIVES.

LYNN, Mass. — Josephine Williams, 65, did not believe her failing health would mend. Forrest Williams, 70, felt his infirmities would not permit him to care for her. So brother and sister early to-day opened four gas burners and sat before their kitchen stove until death came to them.

Don't Keep Your Dollars Where They Can't See Daylight . . .

THE DOLLAR down deep in the sock; imprisoned in the boodle bag or locked up in the strong box is surely blinded to to-day's bargain opportunities. Get them out; get them working; give them the chance to see the light of to-day's bargain opportunities.

At to-day's prices . . . the lowest in 15 years that dollar can work for you as it never has before . . . in clothing, furniture, food, furs, almost all things it can deliver from 40% to double what it purchased in years when you spent it freely. Now is the time to store commodities, not dollars.

The purchasing power of the dollar is to-day at its fullest . . . hold on to it and it will shrivel up as surely as to-day's bargains will fade and disappear with the return of higher prices. That return is very near at hand . . . so near that the procrastinator is sure to be caught napping.

MANION URGES OLD WAR SPIRIT TO AID RETURN OF PROSPERITY

Believes Stabilizing of Dollar Would Aid in Averting Depressions.

REVIEWS C.N. TROUBLES

TORONTO, Apr. 22 (C.P.)—"We are suffering from a national headache, induced by a financial debauch," said Hon. R. J. Manion, Dominion Minister of Railways and Canals, in the course of an address before the Toronto Liberal Conservative Businessmen's Club here yesterday.

"There is indue pessimism, just as there was undue optimism in the boom days of 1929," he said. "Let us practice some of the spirit shown during the war, and we will be one of the first countries to return to prosperity."

The Canadian National Railway was the greatest problem the country had to-day, he maintained. It constituted a second national debt, for the government guaranteed its bonds. In the period between 1903 and 1911, two railways had been built where one would have sufficed. The duplication was bad for the railways and the Dominion too.

One of the worst faults committed by the national railway was the chasing after passenger traffic, forgetting the freight traffic which was the most important. As a result, the railway had lost $24,000,000 last year in passenger traffic alone.

Huge Debt

When the Conservative Government came into office in 1930, he said, there was still a debt of $158,000,000 hanging over its shoulders for expenditure on passenger accoutrements alone. In his office, there was no trace of any check ever having been put on the management of the railroad.

Duplication was one of the greatest handicaps, he declared, but coupled with that was the tremendous competition from motor trucks, and the business setback which was a general condition.

The Conservative Government, he continued, had done its utmost to reduce unnecessary expenditures. The new directorate had done a great deal to help and was an excellent directorate in every way. The management had also assisted greatly "but much remains to be done."

Dr. Manion held out great hopes for the success of the coming Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa in July. It would assist greatly in bringing about normal conditions, he thought, inasmuch as it would lead to an exchange of opinion between the countries concerned. Both Canada and Great Britain could incease their imports considerably, he said, and if these goods were obtained by empire countries all would be directly benefitted.

Premier R. B. Bennett had the confidence of the people of Canada to a greater extent than any premier had ever had before, he continued. The opposition, led by Mackenzie King, had confined itself to "destructive criticism" all during the session of parliament. They had supported the Imperial Conference "with their lips, and hoped in their hearts for its failure," he said.

Blames Mob Psychology

The present depression was a serious one, one which was world-wide. But most of it could be attributed to "mob psychology," the desire to do as others did, to get rich quick, he said. "We have been looking at the world through an optimistic golden haze which should have been ignored," the minister declared.

A great deal of Canada's debt was due entirely to the war. But the entire financial crisis was due to the "unfair competition of Bolshevik Russia," the price boom of 1929, the low price of commodities, and the decreased purchasing power in western Canada as the result of drought.

Mr. Manion suggested a method of bringing about the stability of the dollar would assist greatly in averting depressions. The dollar was as good now as it was a year ago, he said, and a stabilizing system would "prevent these acute periods of depression."

DOUBLE SLAYING BAFFLES POLICE

"I Love You" Ring is Found Missing, No Money Taken.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

MINEOLA, N.Y., April 22 (C. P.). — A gold "I Love You" ring, curiously missing, puzzled police to-day as they sought to solve a double killing, latest in Long Island's series of mysterious deaths.

The ring, a gold band with a single diamond, was torn from the finger of Edward B. Brinkner, electric light salesman of multiple romances by persons who hammered him and a young woman friend on the heads and left them dying on a lonely farm at Williston Park yesterday.

Brinker's money was not taken. Police wondered whose the ring was. It bore the letters, "I.L.Y." (I Love You), and was given to the salesman, detectives learned, by Mrs. Josephina Tillotson, black-eyed matron who had called herself Brinker's second wife.

Mrs. Tillitson and four relatives were questioned all night. At 4 a.m. to-day District Attorney Elvin Edwards told them they could go. As they started for the door they were called back and the quizzing was renewed

Edwards said they would not be held, however, and the killings looked as though they might be as hard to solve as the deaths of Starr Faithfull or Benjamin Collings, two of the more recent string of Long Island mysteries.

The girl who died with Brinker was Miss Rose Welk, 24-year-old private secretary. Her family had looked on him as her fiance. He had been divorced in 1926 from a Brooklyn woman, to whom he was paying $10 a week for the support of an 11-year-old daughter. Although Mrs. Tilliton had called herself his second wife, detectives said they were not married.

SUGGEST NAVY USE COAL AGAIN

Deputation From Mining Districts in Wales Interviews Baldwin.

FOREIGN OIL BURNED.

(By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, April 21.— A renewed plea that the Admiralty consider a return to coal for the vessels of the Royal Navy, now largely oil-burners, was made by an important deputation from South Wales which to-day interviewed Stanley Baldwin, Acting Prime Minister.

The deputation, consisting of Mayors of the chief towns in South Wales, representatives of coal owners, miners, churches and Chambers of Commerce, outlined the desperate plight of the South Wales coal industry.

Last July a similar plea was rejected by the admiralty on the ground that coal-burning vessels could not face oil-fired opponents on even terms.

The deputation, however, declared this assertion was challenged by high naval officers, and further declared the navy was now largely dependent on oil from foreign sources. They asked for establishment of an impartial commission to consider the question, and Mr. Baldwin promised to bring the matter before

PHYSICIAN TREATS PATIENT FROM AIR

Dr. Victor Mader Pilots Plane From Halifax to Fishing Village.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 22. (C.P.)—Separated from a patient by twenty-one miles of almost impassable roads, Dr. Victor Mader of Halifax recently piloted a Halifax Aero Club plane to Prospect and dropped a package of medicine a few feet from the stricken girl's front door.

The flight was made with such little ceremony that beyond those who were actually interested few people of the city knew about the unusual errand of mercy.

Dr. Mader received a long-distance telephone call from Councillor William T. Hardiman of Prospect, who said his 14-year old daughter, Clara, was seriously ill. The Councillor had started for the city with the girl but had been forced to turn back because the roads were almost impassable. Thus the doctor knew it was useless to attempt to reach the fishing village by automobile.

An enthusiastic member of the Aero Club, he lost no time in deciding upon a course of action. He ordered some medicine, telephoned the airport to have a plane ready, and twenty minutes later he was piloting the machine over Prospect. Unable to find a place to land, he swooped to within fifty feet of the ground and dropped the package, which landed a few feet from the front door of the Hardiman residence.

Village Council Sets Wage Scale to be Paid Men and Teams.

HORTICULTURISTS MEET.

NORWOOD, Apr. 22 (Examiner Correspondence)—The regular meeting of the Young People's League of the United Church was held Monday evening. The meeting was in charge of the citizenship department with A. McMillan in charge of the meeting. Miss Eva McNeely read the scripture lesson. Rev. Mr. Stillman gave a most interesting address on the second part of the book "The Challenge of Russia" by Sherwin Eddy dealing with the religious conditions as they are to-day in that country. Mr. Stillman gave the first part of this book a few weeks ago at the league so those who were fortunate enough to hear both parts found it most interesting indeed. Alex Fairweather rendered a very fine piano solo. A guessing contest was then participated in by the five groups, the citizenship group winning out in guessing the most numbers correctly.

Horticultural Rally.

A rally in behalf of the Horticultural Society was held in the town hall on Friday evening with a splendid attendance of members and prospective members, as the society are very anxious to have as many of the citizens as possible join and help in the splendid work of beautifying their homes and the vacant lots around the town.

Rev. A. C. Reeves, B.A. made a most efficient chairman for the evening, his address being the first number on the program.

Wesley Wildman gave several piano selections. Mrs. C. Renaud rendered two very fine solos. The slides were shown by the president of the society, Rev. G. E. Downing who also gave the address, describing the various means of beautifying your home and town by the planting of trees, shrubs and flowers.

Mrs. R. Dobberman gave a solo and James Mullins played two violin solos accompanied by Wesley Wildman on the piano. At the close of the musical numbers Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton moved a hearty vote of thanks to all those who had contributed to the program during the evening. With the singing of the National Anthem the meeting was brought to a close.

Council Meeting

The April meeting of Norwood village Council was held with Reeve Montgomery in the chair and all the council members present.

Fire Chief Longhurst was present asking council to consider purchasing two or three small fire extinguishers.

Moved by Parcels, seconded by Brown that Elliott and McConnell get prices on these; also rubber coat and hat for hose man, carried.

Rev. Mr. Downing president of Horticultural Society and J. E. Thompson, secretary were present asking assistance for further filling for the Horticultural Society.

Moved by Parcels, seconded by McConnell that council furnish two teams for one day to assist this work, carried.

Mr. Evans of the A. E. Wilson Co was present in the interests of municipal insurance.

T. Patterson and J. A. Stevens were present asking for a culvert near the Baptist Church. This was referred to committee to investigate.

H. T. Squire was present and addressed the council protesting against the grant to the Norwood Athletic Association.

Council authorized the clerk to notify the Dept. of Highways that the bridge at upper mill pond was considered very unsafe.

F. Fry, village assessor, returned the assessment roll.

Moved by Brown, seconded by Parcels that the roll be received, carried.

Council decided to look over the streets for general repair work as a great number of them are in a very rough condition.

Moved by Parcels, seconded by Elliott that Mrs. McLean receive $15 from Foley estate, carried.

Notice was received from Mrs H. Beavis of her accident on King street and her intention to file claim for damages.

Moved by Parcels, seconded by Brown that council advance the sum of $80 to relief committee, carried.

Moved by Parcels, seconded by Elliott that the clerk notify the insurance company of above intention, carried.

Moved by Brown, seconded by McConnell that corporation wages be 45c per hour for teams and 22½c per hour for labor, carried.

Accounts: C. P. Pearce, 12 months storage fire engine, $30; W. J. Stares, rep. to stage scenery, $$20; I. Puffer, salary, March, $65; Fred Fry, salary assessor, $50; Rod. Barrie, service at fire, $1; Wilson Small, service at fire, $1; William Rogers, services at fire $1; Cliff McConnell, service at fire $1; Roy Longhurst, fire chief, $2.

Moved by Brown, seconded by McConnell that the accounts as read be paid, carried.

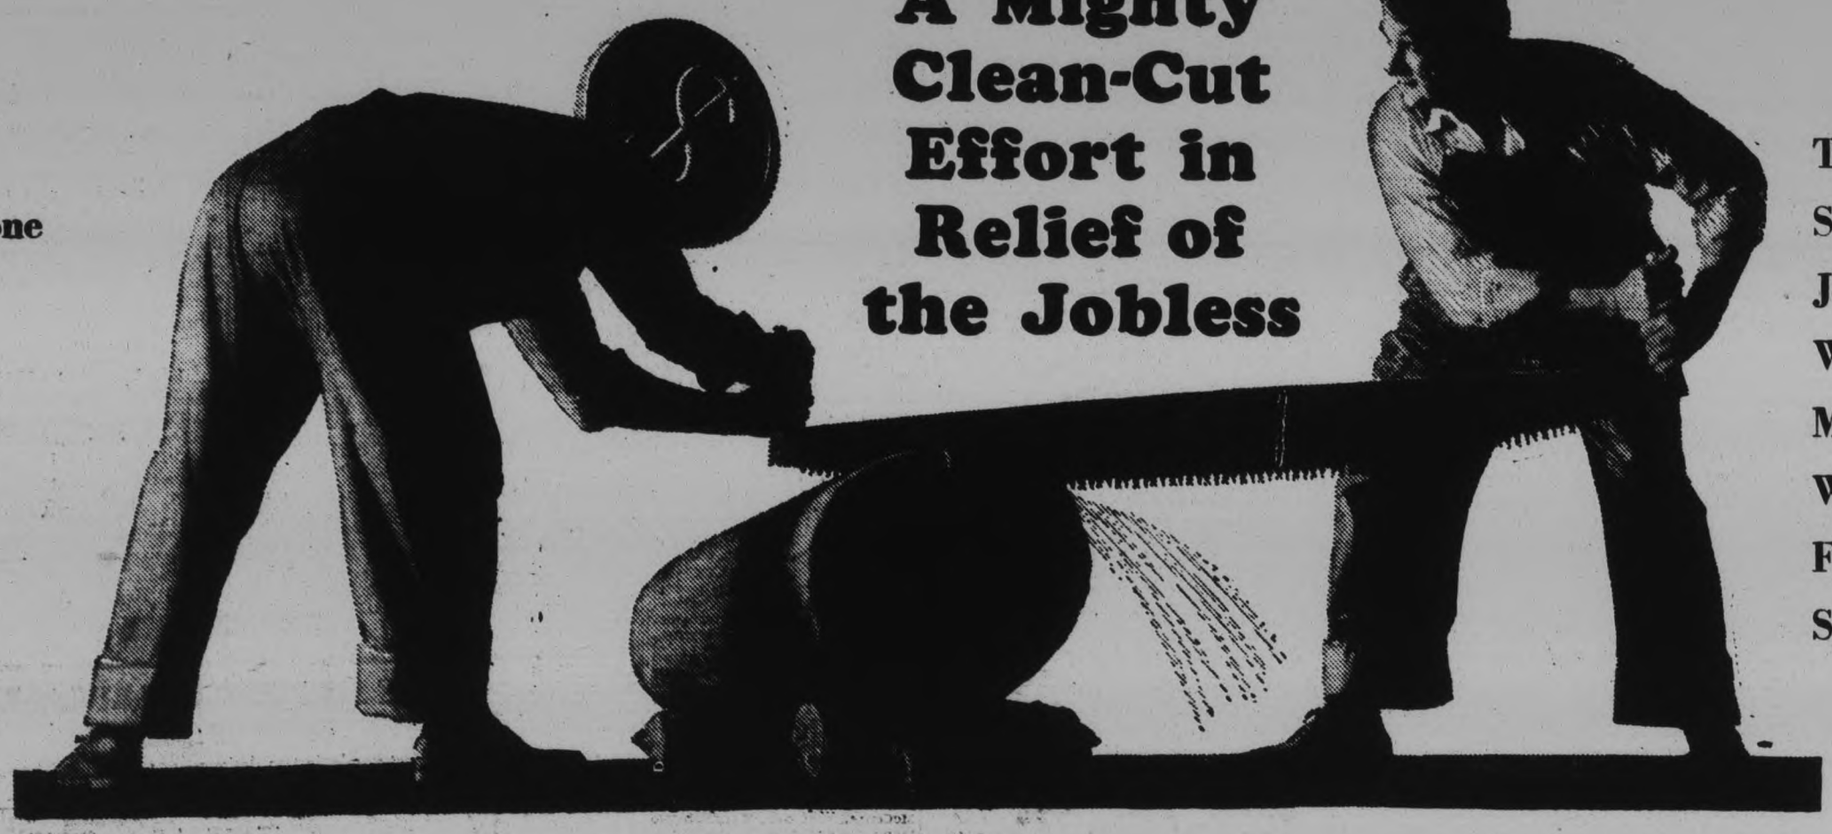
CITY-WIDE CAMPAIGN TO

GIVE A MAN A JOB

Let Everyone Who Can Do His Or Her Part



A Mighty Clean-Cut Effort in Relief of the Jobless

The Smallest Job Will Mean Work For Someone

Campaign Starts Saturday, April 30th

YOU can help yourself and at the same time very materially help the other fellow–the men of Peterborough who are now unemployed – and you can extend this helping hand without seriously obligating yourself and at NO ADDITIONAL EXPENSE.

There are, for example, thousands of improvements, alterations and repairs needed in and about Peterborough homes, factories, stores and offices right now – WORK that has for one reason or another, been deferred until a later date–but WORK nevertheless that sooner or later will become absolutely NECESSARY.

There are many idle men in Peterborough right now perfectly capable of doing this WORK, and these men NEED THAT WORK NOW. You can do YOUR share toward reviving and stabilizing business generally by improving and modernizing your property and for purely selfish reasons you should do it now while the prices of both the necessary materials and labor are at their present low levels.

If every citizen, in a position to do so, will do his part it will provide work for the unemployed–it will release idle dollars, which will make for vastly improved business

EMPLOYMENT SUGGESTIONS

Paint your house, store, office or factory, repair your verandah, fences, shingle your house, changing partitions, some plumbing or tinsmithing, interior decorating, hanging paper and painting your home, taking down storm windows, putting up screens, house cleaning, digging gardens, raking lawns, washing winds, repairing, washing or ducoing your car—ANYTHING TO GIVE A MAN A JOB AND CLEAN UP THE CITY.

Applicants for work may register at the Provincial Employment Bureau, Charlotte Street, where citizens requiring men can also be supplied.

ALMA GLUCK, FAMOUS SINGER RAPS WAYS OF MANY MOTHERS

Claims Younger Generation Not Problem, But Women Between 35 and 50.

POVERTY GREAT DYNAMO.

NEW YORK, April 22. (C.P.) — Alma Gluck, former Metropolitan Opera singer and wife of Efrem Zimbalist, violinist, to-day criticized mothers who hire people to bring their children up.

"A woman doesn't have to be a psychologist to be a good mother, she merely has to give some of herself to her children," said Miss Gluck, who is one of the speakers on the child health day program, sponsored by the American Child Health Association.

This slender Rumanian, who has entranced audiences in various parts of the world, has had time to raise three children and manage several homes. She is a grandmother too.

"I think I am a rotten mother and a rotten housekeeper, but my conscience keeps spurting along" she said.

Maria Virginia, 16, and Efrem Jr. 13, both love music but they have to be "policed" by their mother before they will practice. Mrs. Marcia Davenport, the elder daughter, is mother of a seven-year-old girl, and an author.

"I felt like a Cowbird after Maria was born," the singer said. "I was on a tour then and had to leave her to be raised by friends in Philadelphia.

"My children haven't the great privilege my husband and I had—poverty. It is the great dynamo of all living."

Mothers are to blame when children lack ambition, she believes.

"We talk of the younger generation being a problem," she said. "It's the women between 35 and 50 who have found their liberty and dancing partners who have gone berserk."

U.S. IMPORTERS SCORE TARIFFS

Claim Measures Created Foreign Enmities Needing Generation-to Live Down.

TRADE NEARLY RUINED.

NEW YORK, April 22. (C.P.)—A general attack against the tariff barriers erected by this country was made at the annual dinner here of the United States council of importers and traders.

Howard S. Cullman, commissioner of the port of New York, led the onslaught when he charged the Smoot-Hawley tariff was mainly responsible for the crippling of this country's foreign trade and commerce.

"We are reaping the fruit of our own folly in the retaliatory tariff measures which other nations are rapidly setting up against our products" he said.

Senator Alban W. Barkley of Kentucky, said the present American tariff, and the barriers which other nations had put up in retaliation, were doing more to continue the depression than any other sets of circumstances here or elsewhere.

"The Smoot-Hawley measure was the most indefensible tariff law and one of the greatest examples of provincialism, selfishness and sectionalism ever enacted," he said. "It has almost destroyed our commerce, which lost $2,413,000,000 last year. And it has provoked among other nations jealous, envious enemities which it will take us a generation to overcome."

In a glass factory fire at Halle, Germany, 1,000,000 bottles were destroyed.

BANDIT IS SLAIN IN PISTOL SCRAP

Companion and Policeman Wounded as Officers Answer Hold-up Call.

CHASE THROUGH PARK.

DETROIT, April 22.— One bandit was killed, another probably mortally wounded and a policeman was shot in the hip in a pistol battle that began in a small downtown park and ended in a nearby rooming house early to-day.

The dead bandit was identified as Willis Irwin, of Detroit. His companion, Ben Mitchell, a bullet wound in his abdomen, was taken to receiving hospital. The wounded patrolman, Charles K. Elyson, also was in receiving hospital. His condition was thought to be not serious.

Ellyson and Patrolman Otto Schoenege, in a police scout car, responding to a broadcast of a hold-up in Grand River Avenue, came upon Irwin and Mitchell in Elton Park, at Elizabeth and Fifth Avenue. Elyson was shot in the hip by one of the two as he stepped from the car.

Schoenege, taking cover behind the police car, shot and killed Irwin. The other bandit fled after emptying his pistol at the two policeman. A third patrolman, Andrew Spisak, walking a beat, took up the chase and cornered Mitchell on the third floor of a Michigan Avenue rooming house.

Spisak met Mitchell at the top of the stairway. The bandit levelled his pistol at Spisak and pulled the trigger just as the patrolman fired. Mitchell's weapon was empty. A bullet from the policeman's pistol struck him in the abdomen.

NORWOOD DAM BREAKS BANKS

Bridge on Provincial Highway is Also Washed Out.

BRIDGE WAS UNSAFE.

NORWOOD, April 22.—The dam at the big pond broke away about four o'clock Wednesday morning. The old bridge on the provincial highway adjoining the dam was completely destroyed and the Hydro lines narrowly escaped disaster as one of the big poles had its foundations almost swept away by the rushing waters. Fortunately no one was hurt and little damage, beyond flooding, was done to the property in the flats below the dam.

In was known for some time that the dam and bridge were in an unsafe condition, and last week the Norwood Council authorised Clerk Dean to notify the Department of Highways that the bridge was considered very unsafe. Mr. Sanderson of Port Hope, district engineer for the Department of Highways accordingly made an inspection of the bridge last week and authorised Superintendent Chamberlain to engage a watchman in case of a washout taking place. It was fortunate this precaution was taken. Barricades closing the road were hastily put up and Supt. Godin was advised at once and was able to save the Hydro lines by supporting the big hydro pole which was endangered, otherwise the whole Hydro system might have been put out of commission.

SIMON MOTION IS APPROVED

Resolution a Compromise Between Britain, United States and France.

TWO METHODS.

GENEVA, April 22.—(AP)—The world disarmament conference approved today the principle of qualitative disarmament presented by Sir John Simon, British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, specifying that it should be achieved either by prohibition or by internationalization of certain aggressive arms.

The resolution as adopted was a compromise of the British-United States position with that of the French, leaving the way open for realization of the French proposal to fortify the League of Nations.

The choice between the methods—prohibition or internationalization—has yet to be made.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson did not attend the conference today. He conferred with M. Paul Hymans, chairman of the League committee of 19 on the Sino-Japanese situation which was described a very critical.

NO SPEED LIMIT IN NOVA SCOTIA

Drivers Going Over 40 Must Be Able to Show Rate is Prudent.

20 MILES AT SCHOOLS.

HALIFAX, April 22. — (C.P.)—Under an amendment to the Motor Vehicles Act, given third reading in the Legislature yesterday, an actual maximum speed limit for motorists is removed from the statutes as far as Nova Scotia is concerned. Drivers, however, who travel more than 40 miles an hour must be prepared to establish that in so doing they are proceeding at a reasonable and prudent rate. The measure also provides that drivers after being held to blame for an accident must establish financial responsibility before operating again.

Any driver not exceeding 40 miles an hour when being "clocked" by an officer will be protected by the Act. But if he exceeds that rate the burden of proof that he was going at a reasonable and prudent speed will be upon himself.

The rate for passing school buildings during recess is set at 20 miles.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS LOOM UP LARGE

Christie and Mr. Griffiths of Beauharnois as soon as possible.

Ferguson in Box

Mr. Slaght then questioned Mr. Ferguson. Two letters, dated Feb. 19, 1929, and March 16, 1929, from C. A. Magrath, former Hydro chairman, to Mr. Ferguson and an unsigned letter purporting to have been sent by Mr. Magrath to Strachan Johnson were introduced. These were not included in the "official" file which Mr. Ferguson went to the Parliament Buildings to obtain yesterday, but were handed to Mr. Tilley to-day, he said, by "an assistant to the Prime Minister."

In the first letter, Mr. Magrath had said the difficulty confronting the Commission was to make the purchases "fit in."

"How was the difficulty solved?" asked Mr. Slaght.

"You'll have to ask the Hydro Commission," Mr. Ferguson replied.

Beauharnois File Light

The Government Beauharnois file was then introduced. The Hydro file on the same matter was placed before the enquiry.

Only one letter from Mr. Magrath to Mr. Ferguson was contained in the Beauharnois file. Mr. Slaght expressed his surprise at the paucity of evidence. "Are you sure that is the whole file?" he asked.

"Quite sure," said witness. "I would like to impress on you the Hydro Commission attended to all these matters. The Government had no regard of all negotiations."

"I find it was around Nov. 1, 1929, you first took an interest in Beauharnois," Mr. Slaght continued, and read a letter from Mr. Sweezey to F. A. Gaby, Hydro engineer, regarding negotiations for power.

Mr. Ferguson said he was not consulted with regard to the negotiations. Another letter of May 12, 1929, was read by counsel. Mr. Ferguson denied all knowledge of this letter.

"You were kept in the dark?"

"No, not kept in the dark. Don't use that phrase. No one was kept in the dark about anything. But it was a Commission matter," said the High Commissioner.

Mr. Justice Orde protested against Mr. Slaght's inference that Hon. J. R. Cocke, Hydro chairman, had signed the contract as "a member of the Cabinet."

Mr. Slaght declared he would show "the Conservative Party received $125,000," and that his statement was relevant to evidence which would be forthcoming.

Unfair Said Justice Orde.

"That is unfair," said His Lordship. "Mr. Cooke was a member of the Hydro Commission, and you can leave the Cabinet out of it."

The Beauharnois contract was signed two days before the Provincial election in Ontario, said Mr. Ferguson.

"If Beauharnois were ready to sign earlier, can you tell me why Hydro was not?"

"No, I can't tell you that," responded Mr. Ferguson.

Messrs. Magrath, Gaby, Johnson, his own secretary, had accompanied him on the trip to Montreal, when the contract was signed, Mr. Ferguson said. The Ontario Cabinet was familiar with the situation, he said. Hon. G. S. Henry, now Premier, had signed the Order-in-Council, but the Lieutenant-Governor's signature was necessary before it became authoritative.

Of the $135,000, this money was given to Aird on December 5, 1929, or seven days after the Order-in-Council was signed.

"It had nothing to do with it," Mr. Ferguson said. Mr. Sweezey and Mr. Griffith had been in town on November 29, 1929, and the contract was signed in the Hydro office, but he had seen neither of them and knew nothing about it, he insisted.

Evidence in the House of Commons enquiry of last year, referring to the statement of Mr. Sweezey was read by Mr. Slaght. In this, the Government's "gratefulness" was a factor in the payment of $125,000 to Mr. Aird.

"You have no doubts the Mr. Griffiths who gave the money to Aird was the same one who came to Toronto to discuss the contract here?"

"I don't know," replied Mr. Ferguson. "I suppose it is. I don't know very much about that part of it."

Getting Nowhere.

John Aird's evidence was also read because "I'm going to ask Mr. Ferguson a question and I want him to hear both sides of the story first," said Mr. Slaght when Mr. Tilley protested, objecting "it is getting nowhere."

Mr. Aird had said he received the bonds for getting the contract, but said he was not representing anyone. He had told Sweezey he could help him get the contract. Mr. Aird had also said he ran a woollen mill at one time "which went broke."

"I tried to run a woollen mill at one time and nearly went broke," interjected Mr. Ferguson, amid laughter.

"If Mr. Sweezey's oath were true regarding the $125,000 who would be the person in the Ontario government to get the money."

"I don't know," said Mr. Ferguson. "People have come to me, after an election and told me they had contributed, and I believed them."

"I would like to make this statement. I personally know nothing, nor heard anything, that the Beauharnois Company or anyone in its organization have ever contributed to any Conservative organization," Mr. Ferguson said. "And anyway, if any Conservative Association did want funds they wouldn't start a Liberal around to collect.

"How do you know he is a Liberal?" asked Mr. Slaght.

"Reputed—the Aird's have always been known as Liberals," said Mr. Ferguson.

"No," said Mr. Slaght, "the only record of any political affiliation of Mr. Aird was his testimony that he had driven Conservative voters to the polls."

Mr. Slaght pressed Mr. Ferguson to say who would normally collect contributions for the Conservative party at the elections of 1929.

Nothing To Do With Funds.

The former Premier refused to even suggest who it might be. "I can't give evidence of that kind because I don't know," he said repeatedly. "I had nothing to do with campaign fund contributions, although I knew of course there must be some."

"Then you are going back to England without even giving us an idea as to who it might be, in this matter of public interest?"

"We could subpoena the person and perhaps find something"

"I can't do it," replied Mr. Ferguson. Mr. Aird might have been 'persona grata' with the Hydro, but the Government had nothing to do with him. I only met him once and only for three minutes then."

He would venture no opinion as to the veracity of Mr. Sweezey or Mr. Aird as to the "$126,000 payment." "That is unfair," said Mr. Ferguson.

If Mr. Aird had had negotiations with Hydro, he would not know it. "He might be at the Hydro office every day and I'd never know it," said the High Commissioner.

"I hadn't anything to do with the —what you might call the material things," said Mr. Ferguson, as the crowded court rocked with laughter. "My job in the 1929 election was to reason with people—to step on the gas."

"Thank you, Mr. Ferguson," said Mr. Slaght.

"Thank you, Mr. Slaght," said the High Commissioner.

"Would you say that neither you nor any member of the Government authorized John Aird to negotiate with Beauharnois?" D. L. McCarthy, K.C., asked.

"They did not," said Mr. Ferguson, leaving the stand.

Engineer Is Called

E. L. Cousins, consulting engineer, was called next. He had discussed with Aird and Millard, power developments in June, 1928. They were undecided whether to develop or sell their power rights at Madawaska.

He knew Mr. Gaby and had gone to him to ask what the Commission was likely to do. He had later told Millard about his visit to Gaby. He had not, however, asked Mr. Gaby what "his report would be" on Madawaska.

He had told Millard Mr. Gaby's report would be presented in "two or three weeks" and that was all. He would bring his diary, containing dates of these meetings, later to-day. His work often brought him into contact with Hydro and Mr. Gaby, he said.

The reason Aird and Millard had not been to Mr. Geby personally was because they did not want to "appear over-anxious." He had received no remuneration from Aird or Millard. It was simply a personal favor as one engineer to another.

Witness insisted he had merely asked the Hydro engineer when the report would be submitted, but did not ask for the contents of the report.

John H. Black was then called. He was the father-in-law of Hugh Aird, John Aird's brother, and had had some dealings with the Madawaska matter. He was not sure of the date. He had spoken to Mr. Ferguson on behalf of John Aird on the Madawaska.

A letter from J. G. E. Kerry, consulting engineer, to Mr. O'Brien, in which reference was made to Peter White, K.C., and Mr. Black was "news to me," witness said. "Peter White and J. H. Black were working on the matter," the letter said. But he personally knew nothing about it, and had had absolutely no dealings whatever with Mr. White.

He knew nothing of Dillon, Read & Co., New York, which yesterday was mentioned as having been concerned with financing the Madawaska.

Saw No One By Premier

He had asked to see the Prime Minister, and asked Mr. Ferguson if he could "help the boys" get the contract. He had seen no one else in this connection, Mr. Black said. The two had never discussed their progress in connection with Madawaska with him, he insisted.

Mr. Black declared he had no knowledge of the $50,000 payment to Aird and had not discused it with the prime minister.

Mr. Slaght then questioned witness. Witness imagined he had "tried to give the matter a friendly push along" whenever he saw Mr. Ferguson, but could not recall having made specific trips solely to discuss the Madawaska. He objected to a letter written by Aird, in which the latter said Mr. Black had given him reason to be very optimistic.

He knew R. O. Sweezey rather well, he admitted, and had often met him in 1929.

They were mutually interested in the newsprint institute conference at Montreal in that year, he said, but had never discussed Hydro or Beauharnois with Mr. Sweezey.

Nor did he know who handled the Ontario Conservative campaign funds of 1929.

"That's all said Mr. Slaght, and the hearing adjourned for lunch.

NATIONAL CAR WIDENS FIELD OF ACTIVITIES

Forms Working Plan With William Hamilton Co., Limited.

HOLDS POSSIBILITIES

Peterborough Company Has Affiliation With R.R. Equipment Maker.

(From Financial Post)

MONTREAL—National Steel Car Corp. has further broadened the scope of its operations by affiliating its activities closely with those of William Hamilton Ltd., one of the oldest and largest industries in Peterborough. Official details have not been made public; it is understood, however, that the arrangement as yet is more in the nature of a working agreement rather than asquisition.

Production of the two companies is closely co-ordinated and benefits are expected to arise from the increased merchandising scope which attends the affiliation. Wm. Hamilton is engaged in manufacturing products for the pulp and paper and mining industries, while it has a substantial output of hydraulic equipment.

Active in Mining Field

In the mining field the company holds the exclusive Canadian rights for Wifley sand pumps and Marcy mills and in the past has fulfilled substantial orders for leading mining companies. Water turbines under the James Lefell Co., of Springfield patents are made in the hydraulic division and hoists, made under the Lidgerwood patents, have been supplied to leading Canadian power companies.

Seeks New Fields

National Steel Car is continually widening its manufacturing range. Entering the field of motor boat construction over a year ago the company has made progress with the sale of a product new to its shops. In March this year negotiations were completed with the La Plante-Choate Mfg. Co., of Iowa, whereby National Steel Car will manufacture all machines in that company's line exclusive for distribution in Canada. These machines include snow ploughs, dump waggons, brush cutters and similar equipment.

Plants of National Steel Car are relatively slack, at least as far as railroad equipment is concerned. It is stated, however, that the company is fairly busy on motor car body contracts; a division of its activities which has been substantially improved from a manufacturing viewpoint in recent years.

Stimulate Miscellaneous Work

Railway equipment companies have to be alert for new business opportunities in these days. With drastic economies enforced by the two roads, orders for new cars are kept at a low level, and the usual volume of new orders which generally makes its appearance at the turn of the year did not materialize in 1932.

Consequently equipment firms have had to turn to other sources for their revenue, and the broadening out of their activities in recent years indicates that they have striven to build up a wider miscellaneous business to help them when orders for railway cars fall off. In the main, however, railway equipment must remain their greatest source of profit for their plants primarily have been constructed to supply rolling stock.

Foresee Better Times

Those who follow the affairs of equipment manufacturers point out that so long as they are able to tide over the present difficult times their outlook is not as unsatisfactory as the present state of plant operations would indicate. Railroads must maintain the standard of their rolling stock; when their revenues show an improvement they will come into the market with large demands. It is also held that inactive rolling stock tends to depreciate more quickly than that in use; a factor which also has a bearing on the prospects of equipment makers.

As far as ability to withstand present conditions goes, National Steel Car has made preparations for a rainy day. Its large plant constructed in 1929 was built without resort to funded debt; substantial cash reserves were established in more prosperous times while a recent award by the Exchequer Court of Canada has placed some $575,000 in the company's treasury on account of war claims.

At the end of the last fiscal year, June 30, 1931, the balance sheet of National Steel Car showed some $750,000 in cash, investments and call loans, while there were accounts receivable of $1,442,001 which should find reflection in the forthcoming statement. Working capital was $1,693,510 and capital and surplus totalled $5,619,960.

Obituary

MISS MARGARET ELLIOTT

TWEED, April 22. (Examiner Correspondence). — Miss Margaret Elliott, 76, a former well known resident of this district, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Oscar Fargey, in Detroit. The late Miss Elliott is survived by one sister, Mrs. Robert Morton of Detroit. The remains were brought to Tweed and taken to the home of Mathew English. The funeral was held from St. Johns' Anglican Church, Thomasburg, the services being conducted by Rev. E. N. Grant, rector. The pallbearers were J. H. Blakely, S. D. Prindle, Samuel Coulter, William Peterson, James Brown and Fred Blakely.

CHARLES F. NOLL

On Friday word was received here of the death of Charles F. Noll at his late home in Niagara Falls, Ontario. He had formerly resided in Yorker, but for the past twenty years had been in Niagara. The late Mr. Noll was a brother-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. McAvoy and Sylvester Burns of Tweed. The deceased was well known in Tweed and district. He was a member of the Roman Catholic Church and took deep interest in church work. He is survived by his wife; one son, Father Frederick Noll of the Jesuit Fathers, Toronto; two daughters, Mrs. D. Spence of Toronto and Mrs. E. Hewer of Simcoe.

MRS. HECTOR WOODS

Mrs. Hector Woods, aged 74, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Woods, White Lake, on Tuesday. She was well-known in the district and also had many acquaintances throughout the country. She was a member of Bethesda United Church. The deceased was a daughter of the late George Rollins and her husband predeceased her eight years ago.

The funeral was held on Friday and interment made in White Lake cemetery.

BABY OLA THOMPSON

Sudden bereavement entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thompson of Northbrook, when their eleven month's old daughter Ola, died in her sleep.

Twice during their night, the baby had been restless but had been soothed by the mother. In the morning the child was found to be dead.

The remains were laid at rest in the United Church cemetery, with the funeral services conducted by Rev. F. Edwards.

GERALD BRENNAN

CAMPBELLFORD, April 22 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — While visiting with his parents at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brennan, Campbellford, Gerald Brennan, aged 1 year, 5 months and 13 days, died yesterday. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Brennan and was born at Glenmiller, Ont. Pneumonia was the cause of death after the baby had sustained an attack of measles. The funeral was held this morning from the Campbellford residence.

MRS. FRED. RICHARDSON.

HASTINGS, April 21.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A gloom was cast over the community when it became known that Fannie Maud, beloved wife of Fred. Richardson, had passed away at her home on Monday morning April 18.

The deceased was 39 years old and a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen West, of Percy Township. She was the youngest of a family of nine, one sister, (Edith) Mrs. Cook, of Saskatchewan, having predeceased her. The remaining sisters and brothers are: William, of Hastings; James, of Percy Township; (Minnie) Mrs. Lonsberry, of Los Angeles; (Ennie) Mrs. Linton, of Eyebrow, Sask.; (Teresa) Mrs. McDonald, of Toronto; (Maggie) Mrs. Morrow, of Moosejaw, and Harry, of Saskatchewan.

The funeral service, held at her late residence, was conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. J. Bell, of Trinity United Church, on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Bell in his discourse spoke words of sympathy and consolation to the family who are bereaved of a wife, mother and sister, for the deceased was most loyal to her family ties. She will also be missed by a large circle of many friends, who with genuine sorrow mourn her passing.

Her sorrowing husband, her daughter Thelma (Mrs. Fred. Morrow) and six children, all at home—Elmer, Harold, Luella, Helen (3 years old), Howard (2 years) and infant baby girl of 3 weeks—are left to mourn the loss.

It was a large funeral cortege which wended its way to Trent Valley Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon, and the many beautiful floral tributes received by the family gave tangible evidence of the esteem of a host of friends.

The bearers were Herb McCracken, James Webb, Donald Beamish, Herb Oliver, Harry Buck and Fred Lynch.

A. SCOTT.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, April 22. — There passed away in this village on Saturday, April 16th, one of the most highly respected and well known citizens, in the person of A. Scott.

Two weeks previous to his death the late Mr. Scott contracted a cold which developed into pleurisy, and on account of his advanced age he gradually grew weaker until death overcame him. The deceased was born near Ottawa 79 years ago. When a young man he left home and learned his trade as a tanner, and settled in Fitzroy Harbor, where he was married to his late wife, Annie J. Knox, of Almonte, and after residing here for some time moved to Perth, and then to Ottawa, finally coming to Omemee to take up his permanent residence.

The deceased gentleman was one of the leading laymen of Trinity United Church, and held the position of treasurer in the Sunday School for a period of 30 years.

The funeral service was held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Trinity United church, with the Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard officiating.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. R. Bradley, T. C. Ivory, P. Race, O. T. Williamson, D. Weir and H. Lamb.

The late Mr. Scott was pre-deceased by his wife, who died two months ago, and three daughters, Etta and Margaret, who died in young womanhood, and Eva, who died in infancy.

Left to mourn the loss is one daughter, Mrs. D. Clare of Norham, 5 grandchildren: Florence and Ida Clare of Victoria College, Toronto; Margaret Clare of Schrieber, and Wesley and Earl Clare of Norham; also Mrs. Snow of Parry Sound, and Miss Jennie Smith of Orono, who were raised in the home of the deceased, and two half brothers, James Blair of Granum, Alta., and Albert Blair of Metcalfe.

The Rev. W. L. Wright of Hamilton, attended the funeral of the late Mr. A. Scott.

MRS. MORRIS JAYNES.

The funeral was held recently of Mrs. Morris Janes, formerly Mrs. Weir of Cobourg, from Mark street United church to Little Lake cemetery.

The late Mrs. Jaynes was an active worker at Mark street church where she held many offices. She was also an officer of the W.C.T.U. Her

We Want Blatchford's because we want to be like the chick in the Blatchford Trade Mark, or like these:—

Leghorns—2½ to 3 lbs. at 10 weeks. "My mortality lowest on your mash than any I have ever fed. The Leghorn cockerels averaged 2½ lbs. at 10 weeks. Some weighed 3 lbs. I have yet to see their equal on any other feed."

Lost Only 4 out of 256. "I lost 4 out of 256. I started one of my neighbours but he would not take my advice until he lost 28 out of 250—then he changed to Blatchford's and not one died since."

What Blatchford's has done for others it can also do for you.

It costs only 1 to 2 cents to raise a chick for 30 days on Blatchford's Chick Mash; for 2 months only 3 to 10 cents.

This Trade Mark of Blatchford's Chick Mash is from an actual photograph and is your guarantee of quality.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

NEWCASTLE IS HOME OF LARGE FISH BREEDING ESTABLISHMENT

Originated by Samuel Wilmot Many Years Ago—Now Extensive Industry.

INTERESTING WORK

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, April 22.—The great Dominion fish-breeding establishment, situated near Newcastle, is deserving of special mention.

From a very small beginning originating with Mr. Samuel Wilmot, the fishery assumed large proportions. On the edge of the stream near Mr. Wilmot's residence, the building, a large low structure, was situated, called the "reception house." Here a permanent weir was thrown across the stream, which prevented the upward passage of the salmon. Being thus stopped in their progress up the main channel they were attracted by the rapid outflow of the water coming through the reception house, and rushing up the current they passed an ingeniously contrived triangular wire and became entrapped within the house, where they were kept confined until they became ripe for spawning.

The Nurseries.

From this building the stream runs downwards a distance of some two miles to Lake Ontario. There were several nurseries and retaining ponds. In some of the latter the parent salmon were retained for a while to recuperate after the exhaustion produced by spawning. Others were used as nurseries, in which the young fry were kept for a time just after they were hatched out. There was a gateway and general outlet from the ponds. An old mill pond formed a large reservoir from which a sufficient head was obtained to force through an underground pipe a large flow of water into the breeding rooms, thus giving a constant and sufficient supply at all times for the hatching troughs.

Cover Several Acres

The premises and ponds covered some ten acres of land. After the parent fish had been entrapped they were transferred into smaller pens—the males and females being separated.

The hatching trays were made two feet long and ten inches wide, with a division in the centre, and held four thousand eggs each. When filled they were carefully laid in the breeding troughs, which were supplied with a constant flow of living water from tanks fed by the raceway regulated in quantity by wooden taps.

Eggs Laid.

The following is a memorandum of the eggs laid down in the several Canadian fish-breeding establishments during the autumn of 1876:

Newcastle, Ont.: Salmon eggs, 1,500,000; whitefish eggs, 150,000; California salmon eggs, 10,000.

Sandwich, Ont.: Whitefish eggs, 8,000,000.

Tadousac, Que.: Salmon eggs, 1,000,000; sea trout eggs, 30,000; California salmon eggs, 5,000.

Gaspe, Que.: Salmon eggs 920,000.

Miramichi, N.B.: Salmon eggs, 940,000.

Bedford, N.S.: Salmon eggs, 1,000,000.

Family History.

Mr. Samuel Wilmot was appointed Inspector of Fisheries in 1868, born in Clarke Township, and was the youngest son of Major S. S. Wilmot, who surveyed Clarke, Darlington and other townships. His grandfather was Captain Lemuel Wilmot, formerly of the Loyal American Regiment, who settled in New Brunswick at the close of the American Revolution. Major Wilmot emigrated to Canada previous to 1812, and took part in the battle of York and other engagements. He also held a seat in the Provincial Legislature. Mr. Wilmot was an active local magistrate for upwards of 30 years, Warden of the United Counties. He also earnestly interested himself in the agricultural movements of the country. His attention for some years was more particularly turned towards the practical application of the science of fish-culture in which he had been most successful, and did much in promoting this important Canadian industry.

Hard, Large Pimples Lasted a Long Time. Healed by Cuticura.

"I had pimples all over my face. They were hard, large and red and festered and scaled over. The pimples also itched a great deal. The trouble lasted a long time, and I lost sleep at night on account of the irritation.

"A friend told me about Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some and after using six cakes of Cuticura Soap and about four boxes of Cuticura Ointment the pimples disappeared. I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Almeada Smith, R. R. 2, Kelley's Cove, N. S.

NO DEPRESSION WITH CLEANERS

Cleaners and Pressers in Peterborough Are Real Busy.

OLD CLOTHES DOING

Cleaners and pressers here are not chanting any dirge of depression. They are blithe and optimistic, moving along in high gear. They only know that there is a depression on and money is tight because their business is booming.

One might say its only the Spring rush and be inclined to let it go at that. But its more than that, as several managers of cleaning and pressing establishments explained to The Examiner to-day.

Racks Are Filled

"Busy? Busy you ask? Say take a look," they said. The Examiner did take a look into the back rooms where the mysterious business of making old clothes look new goes on. Clothes and dresses of all colors and shades hung in well-ordered profusion all about these great hot steamy rooms. Racks on racks of them. There was no doubt left the cleaning and pressing establishments are busy.

And all because of the depression. Yes, they admitted that and then went on to explain. Instead of buying many new clothes, folk, married and single, old and young, are sending their old suits, coats and dresses to the cleaners to have them freshened up and pressed so that they can still make something of a brave appearance.

Few New Clothing Coming In

The cleaners said that it is seldom they get new clothes to press these days. "Many of the clothes we get here to clean and work on would have been regulated to the old clothes box in normal times," the cleaners said. "But now back they come time after time and work on 'em, clean 'em an' press 'em, and you'd be surprised how nice they look."

The repair departments of the establishments have been called upon to do some ingenious overhauling on many of these aged, decrepit garments; well-concealed patches, trousers recuffed and the full run of the other secrets of the trade.

Yes, business is booming for the cleaners in the battle to keep Peterborough citizens looking smart.

Statistics recently compiled in Europe show that, barring accidents, a child of 10 may live until 60, at 21 the expectation of life 45 years more, and at 40, 28 more.

Bush Fire Breaks Out North Of Crowe Lake

MARMORA, April 22 (Examiner Correspondence). — A bush fire of unknown origin was detected in the noon hour of Thursday on Lot 13 of the 2nd Concession of Marmora Township, which is to the north of Crowe Lake.

The fire was reported to Provincial Constable Percy Gray by Denis McGrath. The officer took in a small party to fight the blaze and through back firing the flames were confined to the area of approximately six acres. It was subdued about 4.30 p.m. Only the promptitude of the men in answering the call and the efficiency of their work prevented the fire assuming greater proportions.

More Than Two Hundred Delegates Take Part—News of the District.

LINDSAY, April 22.—The annual session of the Association of Sunday School teachers of the Anglican Deanery of Victoria County convened in Marsh Memorial Hall on Wednesday, with delegates present from Bethany, Bobcaygeon, Cartwright, Cannington, Coboconk, Dunsford, Millbrook and Omemee. A civic reception was accorded by His Worship Mayor Alcorn. The afternoon session opened with prayers by Dean Weir, of Omemee. Two excellent addresses, emphasizing the need of great care in conducting classes, as well as valuable hints for teachers, were delivered by Mrs. D. B. Rogers and by Rev. D. B. Rogers, of Toronto, H. Hill, of Omemee took as his subject the Bible Class. A banquet was served at the close of the session.

The sudden death took pplace yesterday afternoon of Mrs. George Coombs, wife of Street Commissioner Coombs. The deceased is survived by her husband and three sons.

The C. N. R. auxiliary was called to Howland, four miles north of Kinmount, on Wednesday afternoon, when two cars loaded with wood jumped the I. B. & O. tracks. No great amount of damage was done.

The congregation of Knox Presbyterian church, Woodville, has extended a call to R. W. McKay, B.A., who recently graduated from Knox College. If the call is accepted, ordination and induction service will be arranged immediately.

Dirt and grime—"take them for a ride." Quick and easy as can be with Bon Ami Powder or Cake! Spots and stains—all kinds of dirt—just disappear when Bon Ami gets after them!

It cleans and polishes kitchen sinks, pots and pans, bathtubs, mirrors, windows, metals, etc. But unlike coarse, gritty cleansers it does not scratch or mar any surface. Nor does it make your hands red, rough and unattractive. Furthermore, Bon Ami leaves no gritty sediment in tub or sink—does not clog drains and pipes. And it has no odor.

Bon Ami Powder and Cake contain the same ingredients. Most women like to keep both forms always on hand.

INTERESTING LETTER DESCRIBES GOVERNMENT'S 'SCHOOL CAR'

Coach Fixed Up Like Combined School and House Visits Isolated Districts.

MEANS MUCH TO CHILDREN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, April 22. — A very interesting letter has been received by Mrs. J. R. Brown, of Bonarlaw, from her daughter, Mrs. G. K. Reid, who lives in Laforest, Ont., where Mr. Reid is employed as a telegraph operator by the Canadian National Railway. Laforest is a rather lonely place 114 miles west of North Bay, near Capreol, and without many of the advantages enjoyed by residents of this district. The most serious disadvantage, however, is the lack of schools. This does not mean, however, that their two bright little boys, Max and Douglas, just starting to school, will be deprived of an education while there. In addition to home instruction they will be able to receive instruction every few weeks from a "Government School Car" teacher. It is of this school car that Mrs. Reid is writing, and as she has the happy faculty of being able to write interestingly and in flowing style the letter is given just as it was received. She writes:

"It has seemed quiet since the school car left. It came last Thursday and went away on Tuesday. Had school for 2½ days. Mr. Sloman is a splendid teacher, but it isn't long enough. I called on Mrs. Sloman Sunday p.m. She took me through the car. It is the cutest thing out, and she has it arranged so nicely.

"The car has been a superintendent's car. Half of it is taken up for the school. Individual seats and desks. One side is nothing but books. He has everything in it. He is very handy and has everything for little kiddies. Up above one blackboard there is a little village he has made, and at night he turns the lights on in it. Also airplanes lit up. On one wall I noticed the words, '27 trees of Canago in their bedroom. In it she go in their bed-room. In it she has her bed, in the day time covered by a lovely blanket and about six blue and rose covered cushions to match her curtains. A walnut chiffonier and cedar chest, a small walnut rocker and a pretty little rug. Then you go in the little girl's room. It is sweet looking.

Just Like a House.

There was not room for two beds so Mr. Sloman made a small bed and one above it. A little ladder swings down when the older girl goes to bed. It is all white enamel. He has made a cute little dresser and two chairs, puts mirrors on the walls and has white curtains on and rose over-curtains to match the floor covering. It is just like a house itself. Between the two bed rooms there is a table that lets down when they eat. Then you go on out to the kitchen. On one side there is the cupboard above, and below it, part sink, and part table. Also the stove and her sewing machine. Farther out is the furnace and large refrigerator. The toilet is between the school and bedrocms.

"They are lovely people and have the sweetest kiddies. They are clever and certainly know how to act. No slurring. You hear the last letter as plainly as the first. This is their sixth year on the car. They like it. She taught in Toronto. Sunday night he showed the picture 'Robinson Crusoe.' Max could tell me all about it the next day. He has a moving picture machine and camera. On Monday he showed pictures he had taken on his travels. They were good. He also had a picture of Italy where a lot of the Italians from here came from. He said he wrote the Eastman Co. asking if there were any rich Americans touring Italy from whom they could get some pictures for his car. He heard nothing from them for some time. Then along came these pictures as a gift to him, omitting any name.

Interesting Film.

"The picture was interesting and the Italians when they saw it went crazy. Their Italian tongues were sure warbling, picking out people they knew on the streets. The section foreman here saw his home and a farm. Talk about kids. There sure were swarms of them in the picture. Queer looking houses, all stone, and joined together, and long winding streets. Women carrying baskets on their heads, and donkeys with their loads. The Italians here were tickled to death to see it. The teacher took pictures of Max and Doug. and the other two kiddies climbing rocks, etc. We will see it when he comes again, if we are here. They will not be here again for six weeks.

"In one picture he showed up the line there were castles and monuments he built for the kiddies of snow. I wish you could have seen it. Another one of an engine he built out of barrels and boxes. It looks real.

"At another place he took a bunch of squaws. He said they were proud to have their pictures taken but you would have have a good laugh at the look on their faces. She gave me some lovely flower slips of all kinds. She has lovely flowers in her car. He gave Ken some magazines. Ken liked him and was up a lot talking to him. He said he gets a film every month. Said he had pictures of the girls he wouldn't part with for anything."

HOW CITIZENS VOTE IN FRANCE

Close Checking at the "Urns" Make Slip-Ups Difficult.

PARIS, April 22 (CP, Cable).—Citizen Jean Dupont of France, when he goes to the polls—"to the urns" as it is called here—on May 1 and again May 8, will be confronted with an electoral system altogether different from that in Canada.

Voting begins at eight o'clock in the morning and ends at 6 p.m. Well before the first hour district workers will be out with printed ballots all ready to be slipped into the famous blue envelope of Citizen Dupont. There will be other ballots displayed on plain deal tables inside the polling places, which are in schools and town halls, never in stores or improvised booths—and Citizen Dupont may take his pick from them.

Citizen Dupont then goes before the "Bureau," the group of the first five fellow-citizens to arrive at the polls and who, under the vigilant eyes of the party tellers and municipal or township officials, are supposed to run the election.

"Dupont, Jean," the voter calls out. The members of the bureau run their eyes over the registry list. If "Dupont, Jean" is on there, they give him his blue envelope. With it and printed ballots he proceeds into the "isolow" or voting booth to fill his envelope with the ballot of his choice.

He then presents it to the "bureau," holding out at the same time his voter's card. The blue container is then solemnly deposited in one of the urns on the "bureau's" table and an attendant rubber stamps M. Dupont's card with the date. Finally the president or chairman of the bureau pronounces: "The citizen Jean Dupont has voted."

Six hundred undergraduates can't be wrong! They chose Miss Phyllis E Hamlin as the "Queen" of the campus at Colby College, in Waterville, Maine. Miss Hamlin is flaxen-haired, blue-eyed, twenty-one, and a senior.

HONOR IS PAID MISS OLIVE FIFE

Social Evening is Spent at Home of Mr. and Mrs. David Fife, East Emily.

EAST EMILY, April 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—About sixty people, members of Lakevale Presbyterian Church and friends of Miss Olive Fife gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David McAdam on Tuesday evening for the purpose of presenting her with an Aladdin lamp and a miscellaneous shower on the eve of her marriage.

Miss Fife has been a valued member of the church, and has also been organist for some time and will be greatly missed in this community. The early part of the evening was spent in contests, after which the presentation took place, with the bride-elect standing under a large white bell with flowing streamers. Miss Jean Tulley read the following address:

East Emily, Ontario,
April 19, 1932.

Miss Olive Fife:

Dear Olive.—We, the members of the Lakevale Presbyterian Church, take this opportunity, on the eve of your departure, to bid you farewell and Godspeed.

You, Olive, have not only been an associate but a helper who has shown much interest in active service. No doubt your tireless efforts will be repaid with richer honors than those inferred by man.

We have lived to know that you are faithful and persevering and that you will be so in your future undertakings.

Although the distance is not great our connections are severed and you will adapt yourself to new surroundings. We feel this a very opportune time as well as a privilege to bestow on you some little remembrance. We, therefore, would ask you to accept this lamp, not for its intrinsic value, but as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held in our midst.

Wishing you and your husband: health, happness and prosperity in your new sphere of life.

(Signed) Lakevale Congregation.

Two girl friends then opened the various parcels and Miss Fife read the names out aloud and in a few well-chosen words, thanked all those present and invited them all to go and visit her in her new home. After which all joined in singing, "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The ladies then served a sumptuous lunch, and the remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing until the wee small hours of the morning.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Have you ever tried to do two things at once?

• • • • • • •

Perhaps you answer "No, because it can't be done." Everyone is familiar with the expression, "killing two birds with one stone."

• • • • • • •

It sounds like a difficult feat and literally it is. However, in housework there are a surprising number of times when two things can be accomplished with but one effort.

• • • • • • •

For example now, when you are looking over your wardrobe, seeing what can be of continued use during the spring and summer and what must be discarded, an opportunity to accomplish two things at the same time occurs.

• • • • • • •

You can clear your closet, thus providing extra space, and you can supply someone less fortunate than yourself with a garment.

• • • • • • •

If some child in the family needs a frock and the one you cannot wear can be made over for her, the result of doing two things at once still holds true.

• • • • • • •

The person who has a piano too large for the room of a dwelling into which she is moving has a chance to kill two birds with one stone. She can find some person who longs for a piano, yet finds it impossible at the time to buy one, and she can let her have the instrument.

• • • • • • •

Thus she accommodates herself; saves storage on the piano, has it in an evenly heated place and kept in tune. It will get some use, too and all of these things are good for the instrument.

• • • • • • •

Sending magazines to church periodical clubs is another way of following the proverb. The room old magazines take up, the bother they are to have around when once their contents have been devoured, make them undesirable, unless needed for reference.

• • • • • • •

The good the magazines do where they go is inestimable. The reading matter, so hard to procure where the magazines are sent, is like food to hungry minds.

• • • • • • •

As will be seen by these few examples, it is easier than at first imagined, this killing of two birds with a single stone, which is significant of reaping two rewards from one act.

WHEN SOUTH SCORED

I confess an abiding sympathy for South. In published Bridge hands at least he is always in the position of being compelled to lay his cards face up on the table, as it were, and start something.

Even a pass by South is significant, while the passes of West, North and East may or may not mean something. So with this confession I must admit that I rather enjoy the story a correspondent sent me the other day in which South had the opportunity to turn the tables on the other fellow, even though it started with his own inadvertent lapse.

A correspondent in Butte, Montana, sent me the following hand:

South dealt.

When the deal was completed, this particular South opened his eyes in amazement. He had 6-½ honor-tricks and 2 honors in the third suit and his intention was to open with a Forcing bid of two. Just then the telephone rang and South was called. Meaning to say "Excuse me," he said instead, "I pass" and arose to answer the impertinent query coming over Mr. Bell's great invention. Returning to the table West said:

"You passed."

South elevated his eye-brows, but hoping he would have another chance to speak, he made no remark. Whereupon West, who worshipped at the shrine of distribution, opened the bidding with one heart. North and East passed in turn and South now doubled. This was what West thought he wanted, so now he bid two diamonds, and East with a trickless hand decided for no reason at all that he would rather play it in hearts than in diamonds and so bid two hearts. South passed. West was emboldened by that will-o'-the-wisp distribution to go out looking for game and his response to his partner's preference bid was a cheery four hearts. North and East passed in turn, but South felt that his hour had struck. He doubled. All passed and the massacre began when South opened a spade and the paucity of the Dummy was revealed.

West hoped to save something from the wreck and decided to test out the distribution of the seven hearts adversely held. The worst was realized. He was now down to four trumps which South quickly reduced to three before leading another spade for West to ruff. Thus, West won three trump tricks and the Ace and King of diamonds on a contract to take 10, and South, for whom as I previously said my heart has often bled, had the satisfaction of scoring a total of 1900 points in his honor-score. Had it not been for the fortunate telephone call and the inadvertent pass which followed it, South would have played the hand in hearts, and as you can see by a study of the cards, would have taken only 7 tricks.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: May an honorless suit, or one headed by a Knave or Ten ever be bid?

Answer: Yes, if it is of six or seven cards and the hand has 2-½ honor-tricks. It will normally develop three or more long tricks and is therefore a biddable suit.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE DANGER OF A GOOD APPETITE.

I have spoken before of the man who had reached his seventy-fifth year and was being congratulated by a friend on his good health. The friend asked him to explain why he had lived to this good age whilst his brothers, much more robust in appearance, had all died about the age of fifty, of heart and kidney ailments.

"Well," he remarked, "you see I always had a poor appetite."

It was Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes who said, "a slight ailment often prolongs life."

As you think this over, numerous cases will come to your mind of friends and acquaintances apparently in excellenthealth, who have passed away in a we minutes or hours, whilst others who have been 'ailing' for years continue to live along without any real sickness.

The whole point of course is that the 'ailing' individual must take care of his health, as it is his biggest asset in life, whereas the very healthy individual because he feels so well takes chances with his health.

During the Christmas holidays, I was asking a young chap about his parents.

"Mother and dad are not feeling very well; they have been eating too much lately."

"What about you?" I asked.

"Oh, I feel all right. As you know, I have diabetes and have to take two doses of insulin every day. As I have to be careful about my eating I always feel well."

Now, I believe we'll all agree that if we had to live by strict rules—certain food for each meal, chewing each bite so many times, a definite hour for each meal, a definite number of hours between one meal and the next, the same hour to retire, the same regular hour to get out of bed—life would be very monotonous.

Fortunately, Nature does not demand this of you. Nature will let you miss a meal any time, will let you miss an hour or two of sleep occasionally and will take care of you when you have to do various things different from the usual routine of life.

Nature does demand, however, that you do not overload the system with food without making any effort to 'work off' that food by exercise.

"You will find that very often when you are wondering why you feel depressed, tired, discouraged, that the use of a purgative, and doing without two or three meals will soon restore your interest in life.

None of us really want any 'ailment' to keep us careful. We should be very grateful for a good appetite and good health, and not abuse it.

10 Per Cent. Cut Made In Otonabee Wages

To clarify the report of the recent meeting of the Otonabee township council, The Examiner has been asked to point out that the recent wages of the road employees in the municipality were $6 for the overseer; $5 for a team and man; and $2.50 for laborers.

At this week's meeting of the council Deputy-reeve Davidson moved, seconded by Mr. Bolin, that the wage scale be cut 10%.

An amendment by Reeve McIntyre, seconded by Mr. Burns, proposed $5 a day for the overseer; $4 for man and team; and $2 for laborers.

The amendment was defeated, and the motion carried with Mr. Reid's support.

CHARGE WYATT WITH SELLING

Murray Street Resident is Charged With Selling Liquor.

CROWN PRESENTS CASE.

After many adjournments, John H. Wyatt, of 290 Murray street, came to trial this morning before Police Magistrate Langley on a charge of selling liquor on the night of March 26.

So much time was taken in the hearing of the evidence of five Crown witnesses that there was no time left to-day to hear any of the defence, and the case was adjourned for further hearing until 7.30 Monday evening.

Clarence Carey, farmer of Otonabee township, told of going to Wyatt's home early in the evening of March 26 and buying five bottles of homebrew and some vendor's beer. He remained at Wyatt's, he said, drinking the liquor and became somewhat intoxicated. When he entered the house he had three ten dollar bills and some other bills of small denomination, but when he left he had only the three tens. He admitted that he must have spent the rest on liquor.

Submitted to a gruelling cross-examination by J. A. O'Brien, counsel for Wyatt, Carey admitted that he had been in hospital for about two weeks previous to March 26 but denied the suggestion that he had been ordered there by Dr. Loudon because he was suffering from delirium tremens. He told of being picked up by a taxi at eleven o'clock that same evening in front of James Akey's garage by Tony Ronco, a taxi driver, and then being driven to another man's home who is now serving a sentence in jail for selling liquor. A girl, a friend of Ronco's, accompanied them.

Questioned for many minutes, concerning the events of the evening, Carey said that both statements were the same. Mr. O'Brien suggested that Carey was so intoxicated when taken to the station later that night that he could not make a proper statement, but the witness denied this.

Philip (Tony) Ronco, next witness, said that he had been called to Wyatt's home for Carey about 9.30 on the evening of March 26. He went into the house, accompanied by the girl, who was riding with him in the car. There he saw beer on the table, but could not remember whether he saw anyone drinking. He observed Wyatt give back to Carey three ten dollar bills. He then drove Carey to the other man's house where Carey had more beer to drink. Witness denied that he or his girl companion had had anything to drink. Later the party went to a restaurant where they were arrested by Constable Joseph Wheeler. Ronco said that he had given a statement to police and about 3.30 on the morning of March 27 he and the girl were allowed to leave the police station.

The girl, who said she was employed by a local doctor, substantiated the evidence of Ronco. She said that Carey when arrested "might not have been tight but he was talking a lot."

Constable Wheeler and Sergeant Thomas told of visiting Wyatt's house immediately after Wheeler had arrested Carey, Ronco an. the girl. They said that they confiscated two dozen quart bottles of homebrew at Wyatt's. "There were about 100 empties and an empty keg there," commented Constable Wheeler.

This completed the Crown's case and the hearing of the defence was adjourned until Monday evening.

Attention Fishermen, Get Our Your Tackle

SPRING IS HERE—AND SEE HOW PERCH ARE RUNNING.

Even fishermen of little experience are catching strings of perch in the Muskinonge River at Cameron Brothers' Bridge a mile south of Keswick, Ont. Douglas Brett is seen in (1) happily displaying a string of fish. The largest of Douglas' string is shown in (2), a perch weighing three-quarters of a pound. C. W. Steele (3) smiled when he hooked the prize shown on his line. Tom Scott and Harry Jones nearly sunk their punt when they pulled in the string of fish shown in (4). Several parties were unable to secure boats to go up the river, and a larger crowd is expected to be on hand on Sunday. The run of perch will be at its height during the next two weeks.

He claimed that it was only by producing the apples in large quantities that the grower could hope to make any profit at all under existing conditions.

Extensive Knowledge

An apple grower now had to be fully acquainted with soil chemistry and entomology and required an extensive knowledge of tree surgery if he was to produce the apples which the market demanded.

The booster for the day was Albert Barton, manager of Knitters Limited Peterborough plant. He was boosted by I. P. McNabb.

Herb McCannan contributed to the program with the presentation of harmonica solos. He was accompanied at the piano by W. H. Freel.

Obituary

JOHN MILBURN ELLIOTT.

The death occurred early yesterday at his nephew William's home, 280 Thomas street, of John Milburn Elliott, after an illness of two weeks' duration. The deceased, who was in his eightieth year, was born in North Monaghan, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Smith Elliott. He lived in this city all his life, attending the George Street Church. Mr. Elliott was well known in this district and his many friends will be grieved to hear of his sudden death.

Besides his sorrowing wife, he leaves a sister, Mrs. Fred Dobson of this city, and one brother, Isaac Elliott of Selwyn. The funeral will be held Monday at two o'clock from the family residence, 522 Rogers street, to the George Street United Church and thence to Little Lake cemetery, the Rev. J. E. J. Millyard officiating.

ALFRED SHEWARD

Alfred Sheward died last evening at his residence, 162 Gordon avenue, following an illness of eleven weeks duration, in his 59th year.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sheward the deceased was born in England and came to Peterborough twenty-six years ago, since which time he had been almost continuously employed by the Brinton Carpet Company. He was a member of St. George's Anglican Church. During the Great War he served for a short period with the 247th Forestry Battalion, although he did not go overseas.

Besides his wife he is survived by four daughters, Mrs. William Chamberlain of this city; Mrs. George Lovesy of Piapot, Sask.; Mrs. John Simon of Minneapolis; and Mrs. Caroline Farr; also three sons, Walter of Peterborough, Harold of Lindsay and Arthur of Newburgh, N.Y.

The funeral is to be held on Saturday at 2 p.m. at St. George's Anglican Church at which the Rev. J. L. Hughes will officiate. Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

B.C. LIQUOR PRICES JUMP.

VICTORIA. — Liquor prices in British Columbia will go up five per cent almost immediately it was announced yesterday. Contradicting previous reports that there would be no increase at present, the increase takes the place of the five per cent liquor tax proposed in the budget at the last session of the Legislature but which was not proceeded with.

their duty to express the opinion that Senators of Canada should not place themselves in a position of receiving contributions from or being interested in an enterprise dependent on specific favor, franchise or concession to be made by a Government whose conduct is, under the Constitution of Canada, subject to review by both branches of Parliament."

After quoting from the House of Commons report on Beauharnois, the statement that "Senator McDougald's action in respect to the Beauharnois project cannot be too strongly condemned," the Senate Committee declares its finding in the following words:

"In the judgment of the committee the conclusion herein set up are amply justified by the evidence that Senator McDougald's actions were not fitting or consistent with his duties and standing as a Senator."

Haydon's Evidence Not Correct

In the case of each of the Senators referred to, the report of the Commons Committee on Beauharnois is quoted and commented upon. Referring to Senator Haydon's declaration that he was informed Premier Howard Ferguson refused to permit the signing of a contract between the Beauharnois company and the Hydro-Electric until he got $200,000, the committee concludes that "it is impossible to find otherwise than that Senator Haydon's evidence in this regard was not correct.

"Senator Haydon's conduct was unfitting and inconsistent with his position and standing as a Senator of Canada," concludes the section of the report referring to this member of the Senate.

In respect to Senator Raymond the committee accepts his denial that he exercised any influence for affecting government policy in regard to Beauharnois. On the other hand it asserts that he accepted very large sums of money by way of campaign contributions and that the contributing company was dependent on government concessions. The government, the report remarks, was one "of which Senator Raymond was a very prominent supporter."

The Beauharnois scheme has already been the subject of exhaustive investigation in the House of Commons. Last session on motion of Robert Gardiner (U.F.A., Acadia) a committee was appointed to investigate the project. Exhaustive evidence was taken, and this brought into prominence the three Senators named in today's report. Subsequently the Senate, at the opening of the present session appointed its committee to investigate the Beauharnois power project, insofar as the Commons report affected any members of the Senate.

The Beauharnois project involves the construction of a power and navigation canal between Lakes St. Francis and St. Louis on the St. Lawrence river. A charter for the project was obtained from the Quebec government but its approval had to be secured from the domini-

DEBATE UPON BUDGET CONTINUES NEXT WEEK

OTTAWA, April 22.—(CP)—Contrary to general expectations, debate on the budget will continue next week. Tuesday is now regarded as the probable day for the division, with Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Opposition leader, and Premier R. B. Bennett winding up the debate. It had been expected that the debate would conclude yesterday, but apparently there were so many members still anxious to participate that it was decided to carry it over until next week. Last night the house devoted to consideration of estimates in committee of suppply, and the same order of business will be followed today. The budget debate will go on again Monday afternoon.

Skeeters Defeat 6-2 in Final Game

CLEVER FIELDING PLAYS ROB LEAFS OF VICTORY OVER PESTS

Clancy, Brown and Hunnefield Stars of Fast Game at Jersey City.

BEARS GOING STRONG.

JERSEY CITY, April 22.—The Leafs lost their second series of the year, yesterday when the Skeeters, playing astounding ball in the field behind Willard Morrell, got a 6-to-2 decision over them. Expert press-box accountants figured that the Tufts graduate should have had thirteen hits, not seven, charged against him when he made way for Larry Irvin in the ninth with no one out, two on, and Toronto trailing, 6 to 1. "Bud" Clancy was given credit for taking three hits away from the losers, Joe Brown, with two and Bill Hunnefield with one. Three times "Bud" saved Morrell by startling catches of liners ticketed for the rightfield barrier, and two of these retirements felled him to the ground.

Had any of these smoking wallops escaped the Skeeter first-baseman, Morrell would have been uptown and dressed long before the game ended. The Dalyites went down fighting and had the bases filled when the last out was recorded. A home run from the bat of Tom Hughes would have tied things up, but Tom was not in the fourbagger mood and his best was a fly that Clyde Barnhart caught.

Leafs Finish Strongly

The Leafs came strongly at the end, after the Skeeters had overcome their pernicious habit of making astounding catches and stops behind the winning pitcher of the afternoon. They made a run in the eighth on a double and triple and another one in the ninth on a double and two singles. In the finishing period both Ray Morehart and Ralph Michaels came through with hits as "pinches" but regulars Sax, Fritz, Doljack and Hughes failed. Frank's life was spared when Clancy fumbled his grounder, the fans agreeing that "Bud" was entitled to assume the leading part in "Kid Boots" in this inning, after what he had done in the role of lifesaver in previous rounds.

Glenn Liebhardt, rescued for Frank Barnes on Monday, didn't pitch a bad game for the Leafs, but his support was unlike Morrell's and his passes were damaging. He issued transportation to Hunnefield in the opener, Bill hurrying to third when Moore singled. Clancy hit a double-play right at Sax, who kicked it, the misplay enabling Hunnefield to score and Moore to reach third. Joe tallied when Barnhart rolled to Walker.

The run that ultimately decided things was made in the third by Brown and was the result of some strong arm work by Walker. Joe leading the inning, bunted toward third and was at first when Hub threw. The peg landed out against the bleachers and Joe sped to third. Hunnefield couldn't score him, but Moore did with a hit through the infield, which was playing in close.

Bears Cutting In

Those reinforcements New Jersey's two International League clubs received from the New York district are paying steady dividends.

The Newark Bears, for instance, received from the parent New York Yankee organization able assistance in the shape of pitchers "Bo" Neokola and Rufus Meadows, outfielders Jesse Hill and George Selkirk and shortstop Bob Rolfe.

Jersey City can thank the long friendship between Manager Hans Lobert and Manager John McGraw of the Giants for such players as pitchers Willard Morrell and Jim Chaplin, infielder Bill Hunnefield and outfielder Joe Moore.

Hill, Rolfe and Meadows all were a distinct help as Newark turned back the Rochester Red Wings, 6—5, in 11 innings yesterday and won the series four games to one. Rolfe scored the winning run when Buck Foreman let loose a wild pitch with the bases filled. Before that, he had driven in one run in the eighth when the Bears scored three runs to the score. Hill scored the tieing run later in the frame, while Meadows, last of four Newark pitchers, blanked Rochester with two hits in the last four frames.

Buffalo's rampaging Bisons remained in a tie with Newark for the lead by trouncing Reading, 13 to 7. With the score at 8 to 7 at the end of eight innings, the Bisons punched out five runs in the ninth to settle the battle beyond question. In Buffalo's collection of 17 hits were doubles by Carnegie and Tucker, a pair of triples by Smith and one by Winsett, and home runs by Werber, Winsett and Tucker.

Royals Beat Orioles 7 to 2

Jimmy Ripple's home run with the bases loaded in the second inning enabled the Montreal Royals to whip Baltimore, 7 to 2, in the final game of the series. The Orioles outhit the Royals, eight to seven, but Bill McAfee was strong in the pinches.

Canadian Player Back Of Wilson Deal

One of the years biggest deals in baseball has had more than usual interest for Canadian followers of the diamond pastime in that a former sandlotter from this country has been in the background. The deal is that which sent Hack Wilson, the veteran slugger, to Brooklyn from Chicago, via the St. Louis Cards. The Canadian is Vince Barton, who learned his baseball around Toronto and who claims Edmonton as his native heath. It was Barton who was assigned by Manager Hornsby to patrol the Cubs' right field last year when Wilson fell down, and Barton, by his long distance hitting, made Cub fans, according to various baseball writers, "forget about Hack." Barton is still in the clean-up position in the Cub line-up this year. He will probably continue there, provided his base-running improves. Incidentally, it was the late Jack Dunn of Baltimore Orioles who developed Barton and it was Dunn who is given major credit for producing Babe Ruth, whose greatest slugging rival undoubtedly is Hack Wilson.

Bill Terry's 5th Homer Aids Giants Cop 5 to 4 Win From Phillies.

CUBS DOWN REDS.

Cochrane's Circuit With the Bases Loaded Accounts for Macks' 8-6 Victory.

(By Gayle Talbot, A. P. Sports Writer)

The Boston Braves, who couldn't hit the size of their collective hats last season, apparently have found a much needed punch in their two prize young infielders, Art Shires and Bill Urbanski.

The Great Shires, talking much less and playing a lot more baseball than on his previous visit to the majors two years ago, at last is proving he is a first baseman, and Urbanski, who was only a fair third baseman after joining the club in mid-term last season, looks like a real star at short.

With the veteran Rabbit Maranville to balance things at second base, they have made a smart combination and have had much to do with planting the Braves out in front of the National League race at this stage. Both Shires and Urbanski were hitting at a .370 clip through yesterday, and they have been getting them where they count.

Frite Knothe, another rookie whom Manager Bill McKechnie has installed at third, hasn't shown any indication he will burn up the league at bat, but his fielding has been first rate. Between them, Shires and Urbanski accounted for four runs to help beat Brooklyn, 6-3, before yesterday's opener crowd of 20,000 at Boston. Urbanski drove in a pair, while Shires knocked a run across and scored another. 'Red' Worthington knocked intwo more with a double.

Terry Equals Record

The day's best individual feat was witnessed at Philadelphia, where Bill Terry of the Giants slapped his fifth home run in three days to tie the major league record and provide a 5-4 victory over the Phillies. Fitzsimmons held the Phils to six hits.

The Chicago Cubs collected only four blows off St Johnson, but two walks, a sacrifice, an error and Bill Herman's single scored two runs in the eighth and game them a 3-2 win over Cincinnati. The last place St. Louis Cardinals took it on the chin again at Pittsburgh, this time by a score of 7-6 in 10 innings. Lloyd Waner's double scored Grace with the deciding run.

Cochrane's Home Aids Macks

Mickey Cochrane's ninth inning home run with the bases loaded was the blow that sank the Yankees, 8-6 in the American League's main attraction. Al Simmons hit one in the fourth with Cochrane on to further aid the Athletic's cause.

Detroit's surprising Tigers took over first place all by themselves by defeating Cleveland, 5-3, while the Washington Senators were dropping a tight one to Boston, 1-0. The Tigers made only six hits off Mel Harder, but bunched four of them in the fifth for three runs.

Oliver's double and McManus' single after two were out in the seventh provided the Red Sox with the run that sank the Senators. It was a tough loss for Alvin Crowder, who allowed only four hits. The losers collected 10 hits off Jack Russel's delivery, but could not ring the bell in the pinches.

The White Sox were rained out at St. Louis.

STEPS TAKEN TO ORGANIZE NORTH HASTINGS BALL LOOP

Sulphide, Stirling, Madoc, Bonarlaw, Havelock, Tweed and Hastings Invited to Enter.

HOLD INFORMAL MEETING

MARMORA, Apr. 22 (Examiner Correspondence) — First steps towards the inauguration of a baseball league to be known as the North Hastings Baseball League were taken at an informal meeting held at Deloro Hall on Tuesday evening under presidency of R. A. Elliott, past president of the O.B.A.A. W.M. Regan, convenor of the meeting recently sent a circular letter to Stirling, Madoc, Bonarlaw, Havelock, Tweed and Hastings asking each community to send to Tuesday's meeting, two voting members if the idea of running a team in this suggested league was favorable to them. The desirability of entering section "B" of the intermediate series was also mentioned in the letter.

Word was received from Sulphide on Monday that that village could not support a team this summer. At the time of Tuesday's meeting a communication was received from Hastings that no representatives would be present but that they would enter a team in the league. Messrs. P. Yuill, F. McLaughlin and G. Kennedy, who were present in the interests of the Havelock Albion Club concurred with the Deloro representatives in the idea of holding another meeting on May 10th for the election of officers, the drawing up of the schedule and the acceptance of a constitution.

In the meantime, the four places unheard from will possibly be approached again as to the possibility of their fielding teams to strengthen the league.

SOFTBALL NOTES

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, April 22.—A fairly well attended meeting of the girls interested in a softball league for the summer season was held on Wednesday night and it was decided to hold a practice on the school grounds at as early a date as possible and to organize four teams as equally matched as possible to compete for the trophy promised by the L.A.A.A. and from these teams an all-star team will be picked to play games with outside teams if these can be arranged.

Mr. C. S. Tanner, president of the L.A.A.A. was present and promised a bat and ball and with the equipment already on hand, it seems that the initial financing will not be heavy. Mr. E. Briant, manager of the team was present and also Mr. N. Kyle, treasurer of the L.A.A.A.

ARTHUR HUNTER IS DISQUALIFIED

Fails to Make Appearance Along With Other Entries at Hamilton Show.

MEL GLIONNA BEATEN.

HAMILTON, April 22 (C.P.).—Simon pures from various sections of the Province are in attendance here to-day for the Ontario amateur boxing championships. Forty-eight of the cleverest amateur pugilists in Ontario are among the long list of fighters who are battling for the seven titles at stake. Several of these, however, were weeded from the ranks last night when a lengthy semi-windup program of 20 bouts eliminated a number from further competition.

Although no knockouts were recorded on the well-balanced card a number of surprising upsets featured the program. One of the biggest upsets came in the lightweight class when Harvey Fleet, hard-hitting Kitchener 135-pounder and champion of this division last year, lost a close decision to Billy Humphrey of Toronto.

Several Upsets.

Other upsets were recorded in the 126-pound class when Joe Gagnato, diminutive Toronto Italian, hammered out a victory over Mel Glionna, another Torontonian. Frankie Genovese, rugged Toronto newsboy, surprised the critics when he went through three rounds at top speed and earned the decision over Chester Gabriel, highly-touted Kirkland Lake featherweight.

Several prominent entries failed to make their appearance at the show, and as a result were disqualified. Horace (Lefty) Gwynne, Toronto, regarded as a leading contender for the flyweight title, Ray Cook, promising young Toronto lightweight, Art Hunter, Peterborough bantam, M. Cherrie, Walkerville flyweight, and Gordon Duncan, Walkerville, 118-pounder, were among the missing.

The eliminations will continue to-night.

Yesterday's Stars

Lloyd Waner, Pirates — His tenth inning double drove in winning run against Cardinals.

Fred Fitzsimmons, Giants — stopped Phillies with six hits and won own game with double in eighth.

Bill Herman, Cubs—Drove in winning runs against Reds with single in eighth.

Jack Russell, Red Sox— His great pitching in pinches beat Senators 1-0.

Mickey Cochrane, Athletics—Clouted homer with bases filled in ninth to beat Yankees.

WINDSOR BEAT TROJANS 28-18

Border City Alumni Outclasses Maritimes in Senior Basketball.

TOILERS WIN IN WEST.

TORONTO, April 22.— (By the Canadian Press.)—Winnipeg Toilers, senior monarchs of Manitoba, to-day stand ready to meet the Eastern champions in the Canadian senior basketball finals. The rangy six-footers from Winnipeg captured the Western Canadian title and qualified for a place in the Canadian finals last night with a 36-22 triumph over Raymond Union Jacks, far western champions.

Toilers' victory gave them the two-of-three game series in straight triumphs as they annexed their first game 33-30. Away to a late start, Toilers bungled many chances during the first half but their scoring mechanism got going in the final period and they outscored the game westerners 19-9.

Windsor-Walkerville alumni, Ontario champions, will carry a 10-point lead into the second game of their total-point series with Saint John Trojans in the New Brunswick centre to-night as a result of their 28-18 triumph last night.

Crippled through the loss of several stars who were unable to make the trip as well as two who were banned from further amateur competition, the Windsor squad failed to give their most pleasing display although they clearly outclassed the pick of the Maritimes. The two-game series will conclude to-night with the winner of the round meeting Winnipeg Toilers for the Canadian title.

Take a tour of a Tip Top suit with me —and see why you can't buy first-class clothes for less than $24 IT IS UNNECESSARY TO PAY MORE

"Beautiful piece of serge, isn't it? The customer had his choice of hundreds of patterns from the world's best-known mills. Just feel the softly firm texture. These serges give protection against air, sea and sun. And it's cold-water shrunk. Anywhere else a suit of that material would cost at least forty or fifty dollars!"

"You'll notice the style is about half-way between the most conservative and real collegiate. Our styles cover the whole range."

"See those chalk marks. They represent twenty-one personal measurements of the customer. His suit will fit."

"Irish linen canvas to make the suit hold its shape. Courtaulds' Art Silk linings, guaranteed for the life of the garment. These are all Tip Top features which you can't buy in a cheaper suit, or for fifteen or twenty dollars more money."

"Hundreds of thousands of customers have created for Tip Top the biggest buying power in the clothing industry. The resulting cash savings and the many extra refinements in trimmings, workmanship and finish go back to the customer."

"If first-class clothes could be made for less than $24, Tip Top Tailors would make them."

Canuck Champion To Enter Contest

CINCINNATI, O., April 22 (C.P.—The letter carrier's reason for bunions will become a sport here May 15. A walking race of 50,000 metres will be staged from Neville, O., to Cincinnati.

The event, sponsored by the American Walkers' Club of Cincinnati and sanctioned by the A.A.U. will find competing Harry Cieman, Toronto, national walking champion of Canada; Charles Foster, Detroit Y.M.C.A.; Sebastian Linehan, Ohio, A.A.U. walking champion, and Joe Tigerman and Elmer Hawley, of the Illinois Athletic Club, Chicago.

The first three Americans to cover the stretch of 31 miles and 135 yards will go to New York for tryouts for the American Olympic walking team in June. The Canadian is already assured of a place on the Canuck team.

Battalino Signed

BAT BATTALINO

CHICAGO, April 22. (C.P.)—Bat Battalino, former featherweight champion, and Billy Petrolle of Fargo, N.D., will meet in a ten round bout at the Chicago stadium in May—provided Battalino shakes his National Boxing Association suspension.

The bout has been tentatively set for May 17, 19 or 20 and will be their second meeting.

CASUAL COMMENT

The annual meeting of the Men's City Softball League has been set for Monday night at eight o'clock in Duffus'. It's open to anyone interested, and teams wishing to enter this summer should have representatives on hand as this session will take care of as much business as possible, including the election of officers.

• • • • • • •

Percy Harrison's outfit will be back again after being out of it last year. He had some of his players working out at Central the other night. The Sugar Bowl champs hold their first workout at 1.30 this Saturday at Central, with their regular players and also newcomers asked to be on hand. That hot sun is waking up ball leagues again.

• • • • • • •

Another senior baseball workout at the "Y" is billed for this evening at seven bells. Manager Art Primeau would like to see a bigger bunch of prospective seniors out, and hopes to have them doing their stuff on an outdoor diamond some time next week. Depends on the weather, we suppose.

• • • • • • •

Peterborough, London and the Toronto Cricket Clubs are the only three Ontario clubs to challenge for the Ross Robertson Cup competition this season. The reason for so few entering is that the winner here must go to Montreal in an attempt to wrest the trophy from the West Indians C.C., and that will be an expensive trip. The local club may be the one to make the journey after the coveted silverware.

• • • • • • •

A letter to George Dormer yesterday from Tom ("Dinty") Diamond of Batavia, N.Y. asks how chances are for Tom to appear here in one of the pro wrestling shows to start shortly. Many will remember "Dinty" here, as he only left some eight or nine years ago to continue barbering in the States.

• • • • • • •

According to his letter, Diamond has taken up the pro grappling game seriously—if such a game can be that way—and has done his stuff around Southern Ontario recently. He must be about thirty years old and in the lightheavyweight class, but we're not sure of that. At anyrate, he will be given Charlie Hallat's address.

• • • • • • •

Another practice that' sset for Saturday afternoon is the lacrosse one at 2.15 down at the Exhibition Grounds. Manager Bud Fisher is inviting everyone interested to attend, as he wants to see just what players and prospects there are for box lacrosse here. Bring along sticks, running shoes, and sweaters.

• • • • • • •

A couple of more hockey players figuring on taking a try at the speedier lacrosse game this summer are Jimmie Ellis and Archie Weir. There'll be a bunch willing to play if the lacrosse games and practices do not interfere with baseball and softball workouts and contests. That's always the case, and is one reason why schedule-makers are prematurely grey.

• • • • • • •

All Saints' Athletic Club will enter a bantam and a juvenile team in the City Baseball League this season, and a softball outfit in the Men's League. They're holding a meeting in the club rooms at 7.30 this evening concerning these entries, and every member should attend.

• • • • • • •

Next Friday night, at the Legion Hall, the Alpha Club will stage a boxing show for the War Vets. Eight bouts and a decision wrestling match between Jack Gardner and Mic McGee. Paul Amato and Frankie Pidgeon will appear in the semi-final and final bouts against good boys from Toronto, and two classy Queen City mittsers will be obtained for Roy Hope and Art. Hunter.

• • • • • • •

Arrangements will be completed with Billy Green, Toronto manager, and the Foster A.C. over the week-end to make it an outstanding show. The best boxers in the city will be seen in action as well as the cream of Toronto amateur scrappers. Efforts to obtain a few of the Pioneer Club fighters were unavailing. This may be the last indoor show of the year, depending on the weather.

PEDEN AND AUDY LEAD BIKE GRIND

Canadian Cyclists Have Point Total of 375 in Montreal Race.

MONTREAL, April 22 (C.P.)—"Torchy" Peden, giant Victoria cyclist, and his partner, Jules Audy, Montreal, were leading at 8 a.m. to-day in the fifth day of the six-day bicycle race. Their point total of 275 gave them the advantage over Fielding and Van Slambrouck who have travelled the same distance but had amassed only 247 points. Peden and Audy, favored team in the race, held a lead they gained in the early part of the night after positions of the leaders had changed several times in hard sprints.

One lap behind, three teams were tied, Crossley and Bartell, Letourneur and Lepage, and Baggio and Schaller. The rest of the ten surviving teams were spread out.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE

PUBLIC SCHOOL LEAGUE

The Public School Baseball League begins its schedule on Wednesday, April 27, when Queen Mary team meets the King George team on the latter's grounds, and Queen Alexandra plays Prince of Wales on the westerners' grounds. The home teams, as in former years, will be responsible for the umpire for the game.

As a special request, the school officials are asking other leagues not to use any of their players until the schedule is finished.

JERRY MAKES AN ACQUAINTANCE

Sometimes politeness may not pay,
But then again perhaps it may.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Anyway nothing is lost by politeness even though nothing is gained by it and more often than not it does pay. Jerry Muskrat found this out a long time ago.

Jerry had just had the narrowest of escapes. It made him shiver just to think of it. He had been sitting at the end of the dam of Paddy the Beaver wondering about that nice pond and the big house in it when there had come the sudden, sharp sound of the slap of a tail on water and Jerry, having learned when he was a very little fellow that such a sound was a danger signal, had plunged into the water. Now as he looked back there where he had been sitting and on Old Man Coyotte's face was a look of bitter disappointment.

"He almost got you that time," said a voice just back of Jerry.

Jerry turned quickly to discover a brown head not unlike his own but very much bigger and showing the biggest teeth he had ever seen. "I'm Paddy the Beaver," said the stranger, "and I take it that you are Jerry Muskrat."

"Yes," replied Jerry somewhat timidly, for he couldn't keep his eyes off those great teeth of Paddy's. "Yes, I'm Jerry Muskrat. I've often heard about you and I'm pleased to meet you." He said this in his most polite manner.

Paddy grinned. He guessed just how Jerry was feeling. "I saw Old Man Coyote just in the nick of time," said he. "He was just getting ready to spring on you. It is a good thing that you recognized my danger signal. If you had stopped to look around you would have been caught."

"So it was you who signalled!" cried Jerry. "I've been wondering who it was. Thank you so much. I owe my life to you and I'll never forget it."

"You owe your life to your good sense in acting first and looking afterward when you heard me slap the water," retored Paddy. "A signal is useless unless those who hear it heed it. You must have heard such a signal before."

"It is the same danger signal we Muskrats use, only we cannot slap so loud," replied Jerry. "Never have I heard such a signal as that." He said this admiringly.

"Oh, that was nothing," replied Paddy. "It is all in the tail. Yes

"I'm Paddy the Beaver," said hte stranger

sir; it is all in the tail. Such a big, broad heavy tail as mine is bound to make a loud noise when it slaps the water hard. By the way, where have you come from?"

"From the Smiling Pool down on the Greeen Meadows," replied Jerry. "That is where I live. It is very nice down there. I mean it it very nice when there isn't a flood," he hastened to add.

Paddy shook his head. "I don't think I should like it down there," said he. "In fact I know that I wouldn't. I want the Green Forest all around me. I must have trees, for you know I live on the bark of certain kinds very largely. How does it happen you are up here so far from home?"

Jerry grinned a bit ruefully. "I haven't any home just now," said he.

Paddy opened his eyes very wide. "Haven't any home!" he exclaimed. "Why not I should like to know?"

"I had two and both are under water now," explained Jerry. "The Smiling Pool has disappeared and the Laughing Brook is out of its banks and Mrs. Jerry and I had to go somewhere, so as I had always wanted to see something of the Green Forest we folowed the course of the Laughing Brook and here I am."

"And where is Mrs. Jerry?" asked Paddy.

"She turned back," replied Jerry. "I'm glad I didn't," he added.

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If April 22nd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m., from noon to 1:15 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and from 4 p.m. to 5:20 p.m.

The planetary aspects for April 22nd leave much to be desired. The position of the planets is apt to bring confusion and complications, if not actual failure. Untie, do not cut the knots which are obstructing the threads of Fortune at this time! A widening of the family horizon, possibly through a marriage.

The child born on this April 22nd will have an even temper, a placid stubbornness, a slow but sure mind and an extreme love and loyalty toward home, kith and kin. It will have a dry, chuckling sense of humor and will find amusement in unexpected places. It would be useless to try to get speed out of an April 22nd child; it will be born with no high gear.

Other factors of birth not intervening too much, you should possess a great amount of physical vitality if born under the planetary aspects of April 22nd. You should be too red-blooded and strong-nerved to ever exhibit symptoms of anemia or neurasthenia. You give a great amount of strength and magnetism to others who are deficient in vitality, and the best of doctors and healers are born under this date.

You think your way through the world, and do not trust to your feelings. You view life from the dispassionate standpoint of pure reason. Dreams are of little use to you; you are too busy building with material and visible agents. You do not believe in being sentimental about things, and do believe very strongly in personal privacy and the avoidance of interference in each other's affairs. You would rather go down in a boat under your own captaincy than to cruise under the guidance of another.

You have sufficient strength of character to make your will ascendant over desire, and there is no habit which you could not break your. You can be the best of Spartans called upon to be so. You should n... suffer from materia! wants and ... to be a favorite of the Goddes... Plenty, but not such a favorite o... Goddess of Love.

ROCKEFELLER SUMMONED.

WASHINGTON. — Percy Rockefeller, nephew of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., has been subpoenaed to appear in the U.S. Senate Banking Committee's investigation of short selling.

The calling of Rockefeller was announced by Willam A. Gray, committee counsel.

FRASERVILLE LOSES DEBATE TO CAVAN

Victors, R. Staples and A. Matchett, Next Meet Team From Peterborough.

CAVAN, April 22 (Examiner Correspondence). — A debate, "Resolved that the man in the country has more opportunities for happiness than the business man in the city," was given in Cavan United Church, on Monday evening.

The debaters were Melville Wood and Ralph Hanbidge of Fraserville for the affirmative and Ralph Staples and Archie Matchett for the negative. The negative won.

Splendid debating was done by both sides showing careful, thoughtful preparation.

The points were presented in good form and many of them were hotly contested.

The judges were Mr. H. Snider of Cavan, Miss Reesor of Fraserville and the Rev. Mr. Jones of Millbrook.

There was a large attendance who gave good attention. Lunch was served by the Cavan young people.

A number from Fraserville accompanied their debating team, among them, the Rev. Mr. Swayne, Mrs. Swayne and Miss Swayne.

The winning of this debate made the Cavan team, Archie Matchett and Ralph Staples, victors in the debating contest in this district of the Peterborough Presbytery.

They will in the near future, debate with the winning team in Peterborough.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 77 By Edgar Rice Burroughs
(Metropoli tan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Within a day's march of the bungalow Tarzan discovered the spoor of a considerable body of warriors. Several days old it was, yet plainly legible. Suddenly the ape-man displayed the sharpest interest, for among the men's footprints he saw the smaller ones of a white woman, a loved footprint that he knew as well as his own. "The Waziri returned and told her I was missing," he soliloquized, "and now she has set out to search for me."

He turned to the golden lion. "Well, Jad-bal-ja, once again we turn away from home; but no, where she is, IS home!" But the trail mystified Tarzan of the Apes, for it did not lead toward Opar. The sixth day, his keen ears caught the sound of approaching men. Sending Jad-bal-ja into a thicket to hide, Tarzan took to the trees and moved rapidly toward the on-coming men, who proved to be his own Waziri.

At their head was Usula, sad and dejected. Throwing down his spear and shield and stretching his arms wide, he bared his great breast to Tarzan. "Strike, Bwana!" he cried. "Lady Jane is no more. We failed in our duty to protect her." Tarzan could not believe his ears. He made Usula tell each detail of the events leading up to her death. When this was done, Tarzan of the Apes spoke but three words: "WHERE is Luvini?"

"Ah, that we do not know," lamented Usula. "But I shall know!" said Tarzan. "Return home to your wives and children. You are needed among the herds and in the fields. And when next you see me, you will know Luvini is dead." Bidding them good-bye he turned about in search of Luvini—and revenge. He whistled once, a single, low, long-drawn note and a moment later, Jad-bal-ja, the golden lion, bounded into view along the jungle trail.

IN MEMORIAM

MILLEN—In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Jane Millen who died, April 22nd, 1931.
She has taken her last journey
In God's beautiful ship called rest
Away from this world of sorrow
To a home of eternal rest.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last
This world's weary troubles and sorrows are past.
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore.
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
We loved in life let us not forget her in death.

EDITOR'S BODY FOUND.

WINDERMERE.—The body of E. T. Scott, editor of the Manchester Guardian, who drowned yesterday in Lake Windermere, was recovered this afternoon and brought ashore at Downess.

Mr. Scott, son of the famous C. O. Scott, who was managing director of the Guardian, was with his son in a dinghy on the way out to his yacht in the lake. The small boat capsized.

RUMOR GARBO TO WED.

STOCKHOLM, April 23 (C.P.).—Whether Greta Garbo is to marry Wilhelm Soerensen, son of a wealthy Swedish financier, this summer remains a mystery, the Svenska Dagbladet said to-day.

The Stockholm correspondent of the London Daily Mail said yesterday the famous movie star would wed Soerensen, who is a close friend of Prince Sigvard, second son of the Swedish Crown Prince, late this month.

OLD BOWMANVILLE BOY DIES.

HAMILTON. — Rev. James Lambert Alexander, B.D., pastor of the Pilgrim United Church, died at the General Hospital this morning following an illness of about ten weeks. Rev. Mr. Alexander was born in Bowmanville, Ont., and received his early education in schools of that town. He later attended McGill University, and became a student of the Congregational College, Montreal.

HOME AND BARN BURN

GALT—Fire of unknown origin early today destroyed the barn of James S. Wallace and the home of Mrs. Annie Patterson in the village of Glenmorris, seven miles south of Galt. For a time the village was threatened, but firemen from Ayr, St. George and Galt responding to an appeal soon conquered the flames

ARSENAL CLUB DEFEATED 2-1 IN ROUGH GAME

John and Allen Score for Respective Teams in First Period.

MOSS STARS IN GOAL.

92,000 Persons Witness Battle—King George Also in Attendance.

LONDON, April 23. (Canadian Press Cable)—The English Football Association cup and the soccer championship of England passed into the hands of Newcastle United when they defeated the London club, Arsenal, at Wembley Stadium to-day by a score of two goals to one. It was a rough and tumble encounter, characteristic of cup soccer, with players on edge and tempers flaring up occasionally. Several of the players were slightly hurt in the vigorous tackling. Arsenal were the first to score through John, left outside, who goaled in the 14th minute of the first half. Newcastle equalized in the 38th minute, through Allen, centre forward. The winning goal came in the 70th minute of the match, Allen again finding the net. Brilliant work by Moss, the Arsenal goalie, kept down the Newcastle score, which might well have been much higher.

Arsenal forwards, notably their international, Jack, who was hurt early in the game, missed a number of opportunities to score. Hulme, another Arsenal international, who was only yesterday pronounced fit to play after an injury in a league match, played brilliantly throughout the struggle. In the second half Arsenal switched their forward line around in an effort to find a goal-scoring combination, but it was no good. In the scramble of wild kicking with which the game ended Newcastle easily held their own and finished strongly.

The match was witnessed by King George and the crowd in attendance was estimated at 92,000.

GENERAL MAH HELD PRISONER BY OWN TROOPS

Reported to be Spy for Chinese Government—Split With Pi-Yu.

OFFICERS ANGERED.

Leader's Home is Looted and Family Taken Prisoners.

(By Glenn Babb—A.P. Staff Correspondent).

TOKO, April 23.—The censorship on news of the movements of General Mah Chan-Shan was lifted today and local newspapers published despatches from their Manchurian correspondents saying the General was a prisoner by his own lieutenants in Northern Manchuria.

Chinese reports recently quoted General Mah as saying he joined in the regime of the new Federated State of Manchuria only as a spy and that he was now dissociated from it and loyal to the Chinese Central Government at Nanking.

The Manchurian version of General Mah's recent adventures, as published here, is this:

He left Tsitsihar on April 3 on the way to Taheiho, where he found his former subordinates enraged because he failed to divide up the 1,000,000 Mexican dollars (about $250,000) which he received from popular subscriptions in China proper last fall when he was defending Manchuria against the Japanese Army at the Nonni River.

Home Looted.

These subordinates, the despatches said, looted his home at Taheiho and imprisoned the whole family. They are the leaders of the present re-

PROBE UNRAVELS LONG MYSTERY OF AIRD PAPERS

A. L. Richardson Using False Name Admits Calling Sir John to Get Rid of Fyle.

TWO OTHERS INVOLVED.

Ferguson Concludes Evidence —Enquiry Adjourned Until May 9.

TORONTO, April 23.—(CP)— The Royal Commission investigating certain transactions of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission and the payment of $125,000 to John Aird, Jr., by the Beauharnois Power Corporation has concluded its labors for two weeks. An adjournment was made last night until May 9, owing to pressure of business on Supreme court judges at present. Five of them are ill, and Mr. Justice J. F. Orde, commissioner declared he was unable to continue until that date.

Meanwhile, counsel concerned are busy digesting a mass of documentary and oral evidence surrounding the various phases of the investigation. The $125,000 payment; the $50,000 to Mr. Aird by the Hydro for his services in connection with Madawaska and the purchase of the Dominion Power and Transmission company of Hamilton for $2,000,000 by Hydro are being investigated.

Ferguson Concludes

During yesterday's long session, G. Howard Ferguson, former Premier of Ontario and Canadian High Commissioner to London, concluded his evidence on the stand, with a reiterated denial that any of the $125,000 had reached the coffers of the Conservative party, and refused to even hazard a guess as to the identity of the person who would have collected the money for the party in 1929. R. O. Sweezey, head of Beauharnois, testified before a parliamentary committee at Ottawa last year he gave the money to John Aird Jr., with the understanding it was to go to the Conservative party.

The missing file of Aird papers was also discussed at length during the sitting. Arthur L., and H. M. Richardson were both called to the stand. The former admitted having telephoned Sir John Aird, under an assumed name, and offered him the papers. His father declared the papers had been left in his office by one Kenneth McLeod, who owed him some money.

Efforts of a newspaperman to obtain photostatic copies of the papers were outlined by the senior Richardson, who declared McLeod had offered to pay the money he owed in return for the missing file, which was locked in the Richardson vault.

Papers Found in Vault

"McLeod came back and told me he had a man named Sissons of The Border Cities Star who wanted to take photostat copies," he said. McLeod offered to pay my account if I would allow him to take the papers out. I refused. I consulted my lawyer, opened the vault and found the papers. What I wanted was to get Mr. Aird to get a search warrant and seize the papers in my vault. He, too, denied any attempt to sell the file, but had eventually delivered it to a bank messenger, who in turn gave it to Sir John Aird.

Sir John himself was on the stand for some time. He denied all knowledge of the Madawaska transaction other than what his son had mentioned to him from time to time. He did not know, he said, his son had received $50,000 from Hydro until after it had been paid. The Beauharnois payment of $125,000 also, he said, was news to him until publication of reports of the Parliamentary enquiry last year, when John Jr., had come to him because "he was somewhat worried."

Asked as to the reason his son was worried, Sir John declared it was because "he had never been in court before."

5 CIVIL CASES ARE SET DOWN FOR HEARING

Chief Justice Rose Will Preside at Non-Jury Sessions of Supreme Court.

SESSION OPEN MONDAY.

Hon. G. N. Gordon is Suing Three Residents of Toronto for $3,271.41.

Among the five civil actions set down for hearing in the Supreme Court of Ontario non-jury sessions which open here on Monday afternoon before Chief Justice Hugh E. Rose, is one in which the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., is plaintiff. He is claiming the sum of $3,276.41 from defendants W. Gladstone Brown, Jessie H. Perrin and A. A. Perrin all of Toronto.

Defendant Brown is contractor, and the defendant, Jessie E. Perrin is a married woman, the wife of A. A. Perrin a commercial traveller.

In the statement of claim it is alleged that the defendants Brown and Jessie Perrin entered into partnership for the purpose of constructing houses for reselling on a profit-sharing basis. They applied to plaintiff for advances of money for carrying out the scheme.

The amount claimed by plaintiff, represents the loan plus interest from the date of each advance till the date of the issue of the writ.

Gordon and Elliott are acting for the plaintiff and William Henry Ford of Toronto for the defendants.

RETIREMENT OF LIEUT.-COL. PARK IS ANNOUNCED

Popular Commander of the Rangers Has Tendered His Resignation.

OFFICERS BANQUET.

Major James Winterbottom Will Take Over Command of Regiment.

The resignation of Lieutenant Colonel Maurice H. Park, V.D., as Commanding Officer of the Peterborough Rangers somewhat tempered the joyous occasion of the annual banquet of the officers of the Rangers at the Armouries last night. It came as a surprise and a shock to the other twenty-eight officers gathered in the Mess when the guest of honor, Colonel W. B. Anderson, D.O.C., M.D. 3, of Kingston, informed them that the popular colonel was withdrawing from command for personal reasons.

The gathering had just enjoyed a fine banquet when the news was given them by the guest of honor. Following a toast to the King, Captain Joe Dunkerley, President of the Mess who occupied the chair, called upon Captain the Reverend Dr. R. C. Blagrave to give a toast to "the departed officers." He replied with a touching tribute to those who had gone before, and th Last Post was sounded in an impressive manner with dimmed lights. A toast to Headquarters by Major Mills was responded to by Colonel Anderson. He was given a rousing reception with cheers and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow led by Colonel Park.

Colonel Anderson thanked the officers for the excellent time he had in Peterborough, saying he gladly walk up from Kingston for such an occasion. He praised the tactical work of the Rangers, giving Major G. G. Winterbottom credit for his direction of it.

Commends Unit

"There is not a city this size in the country can present a better unit, or as good a one for that matter" he said, "and your Commanding Officer is responsible for that. I regret very much that Colonel Park finds it necessary to leave as he has done great work and has improved the regiment a great deal while he has been in command."

He went on to say he hoped Major Winterbottom would receive the same fine support when he took command he also outlinedd the work that lay before the Peterborough Rangers this year. The colonel received a big hand when he concluded his remarks.

Captain Joe Dunkerley spoke feelingly of the Rangers' loss when Colonel Park left. He then called upon Major Winterbottom for a toast to the Peterborough Rangers, responded to by Colonel Park. The major said, "Now that the mantle is thrown upon my shoulders, I

Trade Will Expand Not By Bargaining But Co-operation

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, M.P. For Centre Vancouver, and Mitchell F. Hepburn, Leader of the Ontario Liberal Party Address Big Rally in the Legion Hall.

PRINCIPLES EMBEDDED IN DUNNING BUDGET BRING SUCCESS TO CANADA AT CONFERENCE

Economic Condition of Canada After Two Years of Conservative Rule Are Discussed by Both Speakers — Blame Government's Trade Policy.

"The Liberal party of Canada stands for the expansion of trade with the world, for trade within the Empire on a basis of friendly co-operation and not by fixed bargaining that will only tie our hands."

And the Dunning budget, announced on May 1, 1930, as Liberalism's covenant of opportunity and progress, remains after two years' experiment with the "Canada First" policy of the Hon. R. B. Bennett more securely and confidently set in the faith of Liberals as the only trustworthy fiscal chart for the Canadian people.

In this avowal of adherence to the essentials of trade policy and experience, two young and gifted members of the House of Commons, the Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, Centre Vancouver, and Mitchell F. Hepburn, West Elgin, who is also leader of the party in Ontario, addressed last night the Peterborough Liberals who comfortably filled the Canadian Legion Hall.

Accompanying them was William A. Fraser, M.P., Northumberland, Hon. Nelson Parliament, and Harold Holton of Belleville, secretary of the newly organized Liberal Association of Central Ontario, of which J. J. Duffus is President.

Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Hepburn are both college graduates. Mr. Mackenzie, a lawyer in Vancouver, of Edinburgh University, the alma mater of many great scholars. Mr. Hepburn, a farmer, is a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College. Apparently they both made an excellent impression upon their Peterborough audience, and revealed the abilities in debate which have placed them high up in the ranks of the Liberal Opposition at Ottawa.

John Dewart was chairman of the meeting; J. J. Duffus introduced Mr. Mackenzie and Hon. G. N. Gordon introduced Mr. Hepburn. The only variant to the political atmosphere were two vocal solos by Miss Jessie Pattison who was accompanied by Martin Chenhall.

Mr. Mackenzie concentrated his address upon the Bennett administration. The Rhodes budget, recently submitted to Parliament, CAMPBELLFORD, April 23. — Threatening the complete destruction of the Hydro-Electric Power Pulp Mill situated in the south of the town, fire is to-day raging through a large stack of pulpwood.

Believed to be due to internal combustion, the outbreak first occurred in one of the smaller stacks of wood at 5 p.m. yesterday and was got under control within a space of 45 minutes.

Shortly after noon to-day the outbreak was renewed in a large pile which adjoins the mill, and at the time of going to press was reported to be blazing furiously, fanned by a strong northerly breeze

AUTO DEALERS PLAN PARADE

Parade Will Start Next Saturday at 2.30 From Confederation Square.

SHOW FOLLOWING WEEK.

The citizens of Peterborough and the surrounding districts will have an opportunity of seeing a monster parade of 1932 models of passenger automobiles and trucks on Saturday next, April 30, commencing at 2.30 o'clock from Confederation Square, headed by a band from the 57th Rangers under Lieut. Peryer. The following dealers and the cars they represent will be in the parade

Brewer Motor Sales—Hudson and Essex.

J. J. Duffus Limited—McLaughlin-Buick, Pontiac, Cadillac, La Salle.

Gillespie Show Rooms— Chrysler and De Soto.

Hood and Cumming Motor Sales —Ford.

J. K. Hughes Limited—Chevrolet and Oldsmobile.

Howzon Motors—Willys-Knight.

Lilico Motors— Dodge and Plymouth.

T. H. Ruth and Son—Graham

J. S. Selkirk, Limited— Durant and Frontenac.

This is the first occasion in Peterborough that automobile dealers have arranged a parade of this kind. The week following all dealers will have an automobile show in their own show rooms. The year above any other year buyers of motor cars of every kind will get more for their money than ever before. Style, comfort, speed, miles per gallon of gas and many added features are noticeable in this year's cars.

See the parade next Saturday, visit the automobile show rooms and you will notice the wonderful car values this year.

FIRST TREE PLANTED BY ALDERMAN STOCKER

To Alderman Walter Stocker, chairman of the Parks committee of the city council, was accorded the honor of planting the first and dedicatory tree in the Arbor Day proceedings this morning at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

About fifty or sixty trees were set out to-day. They were hard maples, about seven or eight years old, and part of quite a number received as a gift from S. D. Carver, a North Monaghan neighbor of the Kawartha Club. The program included the recitation of the Joyce Kilmer poem and a talk on trees by Rev. C. D. Daniel. This morning's planting was confined to the high ground on the north-east side of the property.

St. George's Day banquet, held last night on the eve of St. George's at the Paragon Hall, under the auspices of the Sons of England Lansdowne Lodge, and attended by about eighty-five people, including members and their wives and friends, and deputations from Port Hope, was a decided success in every way.

The banquet, served by Messrs. Coleman Brothers and their assistants, was a very fine one, including the roast beef, the little individual mince pies, and the plum pudding of Old England.

Special speakers for the occasion were the visiting Supreme President, R. Patching of Ottawa, E. A. Peck, M.P., who described himself as the oldest member of the organization present last night, and the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Past President A. F. Harris presided in efficient style, speaking briefly in introduction and proposing the toast to The King, which was honored by the singing of the National Anthem, while the singing of "Rule Britannia" accom-

She took off from Kovno at 11.20 a.m., and was last reported Vollyntzi, inside Soviet territory, at 1.30 p.m.

Mayor Denne Sets an Example

Contrary to Mayor Denne's wishes we are going to mention in this column his contribution to the "give a man a job" campaign.

The Mayor is a public official as well as a private citizen, and a certain latitude is permitted to the press in regard to his dual position.

Before the "Give a Man a Job" campaign was launched as a constructive community effort, Mayor Denne decided to replace the wooden sills or bases in all the windows of his Water street property with cut stone slabs.

This was a permanent improvement that could have been delayed. The expense could have been avoided for another year or two at least.

But, to quote that persuasive slogan of trade—"If eventually, why not now?" He helps twice as much who helps now. Mayor Denne turned the work over to an expert stone cutter who will have a couple of men on the job. That's a real investment every way you look at it, and there is surely no serious breach of the newspaper code in making it public.

G. A. Gillespie is completing a commodious extension to the Chrysler garage on Aylmer street, a job that has been in progress several months.

William Tinker is making an apartment and store building of the old Albion Hotel in Ashburnham.

These are substantial expressions of confidence in this community and in the future. Roofers and painters and plumbers tell us they are getting a fair share of work during the last two weeks.

This is a time of great opportunity for helping one another and getting work done that will benefit those who can afford it.

Won't you help this cause by telephoning 571, Hugh Robertson, at the employment bureau on Charlotte street. Tell him you have a job for a laborer, carpenter, painter or some other man who is hoping and praying for work.

McDOUGALD, HAYDON HELD UNFIT FOR SEATS IN SENATE; RAYMOND IS REPRIMANDED

Government Majority in Upper House Expected to Press for Expulsion.

DEBATE WEDNESDAY.

Senate Committee Outlines Parts Played in Beauharnois in 42 Page Report.

OTTAWA, April 23 (C.P.)—With political interest focused on the Senate, Parliament closed the week in a blaze of speculation. The special Senate Committee investigating the parts played by three Liberal Senators in the promotion of the Beauharnois power and navigation project, tabled its report yesterday afternoon. It administered strong condemnation of the activities of Senators W. L. McDougald and Andrew Haydon, and added a temperate rebuke of Donat Raymond.

Debate on the report will open in the Senate next Wednesday and Liberals have given notice they will move several amendment, one of which would refer the document back to the committee for further consideration. On the other hand, it was reportetd the Government majority in the Upper House would press for the expulsion of Senators Haydon and McDougald.

Relying on one section of the British North America Act—Canada's written constitution—Conservatives, it was reported, would insist the Senate possessed power to declare vacant a seat held by a member who had been censured. And the Liberals, it was said, would contest this opinion, pointing to another section of the Act which listed five specific grounds for vacating a seat—none of which, it was believed, applied to any of the three Senators.

Never since the Senate was constituted in 1867 has a seat been declared vacant, and it will be this privilege and power that will be debated. The House of Commons has expelled members on more than one occasion, the most famous being that of Hon. Thomas McGreevy, in 1891, who was censured for his actions respecting Federal contracts.

The report of the committee—which was not concurred in by the four Liberal members—passed severe strictures on Senators Haydon and McDougald. Actions of Senator McDougald "were not fitting or consistent with his duties and standing as a Senator." Similar language was used in castigating Senator Haydon. Of Senator Raymond, the criticism was milder, but fault was found with him for accepting campaign funds from a company which was "dependent vitally on Government franchises or concessions," particularly when the government was one of which the Senator was a prominent supporter.

How to Relieve Head Noises

Good Advice For Those Who Fear Deafness.

People, who are growing hard of hearing, should take warning from that stuffy feeling of pressure against their ear drums, those buzzing, rumbling head noises, like steam escaping, and take prompt, effective measures to stop this trouble. For head noises are almost always the forerunners of deafness and most deaf folks suffer from them constantly. Often the never-ending, nerve-racking "hum" drives the sufferer almost frantic and complete nervous breakdown may result.

Thanks to a remarkable medicine, it is now possible to lessen head noises and often completely overcome them, and with their disappearance the hearing also greatly improves, and frequently can be restored to normal. From your druggist secure a 1 oz. bottle of Parmint (Double Strength), take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and little sugar. Take one tablespoonful four time a day. Parmint is used this way to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, and also to correct any excess secretions in the middle ear. Parmint usually gives quick, effective results.

Every catarrh sufferer should give Parmint a trial.

WARDEN SCORED BY McINTYRE

"Not Doing His Duty" Declares Reeve McIntyre of Otonabee.

ROAD SUPERINTENDENT.

"The Warden is not doing his duty in letting this matter stand in abeyance," Reeve Fred McIntyre of Otonabee claimed in reopening the discussion at yesterday's joint meeting of the County Roads and Suburban Area Commissions respecting alleged irregularities in connection with the recent appointment of the county road superintendent. The question was referred to the June sessions of the Council.

Held under the joint chairmanship of Reeve Rork Ferguson and Commissioner Harry Gainey, the meeting was held primarily to consider tenders for the supply of gasoline to the County. After the question had been disposed of Reeve McIntyre rose to his feet requesting that he be allowed to open discussion regarding the appointment. "There has been great agitation as to whether the appointment is legal. Personally I do not think it is," he said.

The matter was fully discussed during which Commissioner Gainey remarked that when he and Reeve Ferguson had occasion to consult with the road superintendent last week it was arranged that Reeve Ferguson should see Warden Montgomery with a view to having all members of the Council come into Peterborough at the time of the joint meeting of the Commissions in order that the question of Mr. Chalmers appointment might be straightened out. The meeting could have been called at little expense, he believed, as most of the members of the County Council had to come in for the meeting of the County Roads Commission anyway.

Commissioner Morley Smithson in disagreeing with what Mr. Gainey had said, remarked: "It is not the fault of the Suburban Area Commission that there is any question as to the legality of the appointment, and if we are to take KARACHI India, April 23 (C.P.). — C. W. A. Scott, British aviator who is flying from England to Australia in an effort to establish a new record time, arrived here to-day slightly ahead of the time of the present record holder, O. A. Butler.

Scott left Lympne, England, at 5 a.m. last Tuesday. He once held the record for the flight himself, having flown the distance of 12,157 miles in 9 days 4 hours 11 minutes. Butler, flying one of the smallest planes in the world, later clipped 1 hour 42 minutes off this time.

PEACEFUL REVOLUTION THROUGH APPLICATION OF GOLDEN RULE

W. Ross Strike Urges Adoption of More Christian Business Principles.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 23. — "There must be a keener sense of responsibility on the part of employers today. It was not a case of 'Am I my brother's keeper', but 'am I my brother's brother'." declared W. Ross Strike of Bowmanville, speaking in St. John's United church, Campbellford Thursday evening to the Laymens' Association of that church. Officers for the season were elected at this meeting, resulting as follows: Honorary president, Rev. R. C. Tait; president, E. H. Craig; first vice president, Dr. H. B. Longmore; 2nd vice president, T. E. Hall; secretary treasurer, E. C. Dolman; committees—program, G. A. Kingston; membership, G. A. Ironside; congregational activities, J. A. Irwin; community welfare, Harvey Donald; boys' work, Walter Henson; fellowship, A. D. Bennett, refreshments, W. S. Wiggins.

"We were living in potential days" said Mr. Strike, "out of which improved conditions must evolve. At present our minds are cluttered with prejudice, tradition and worn out creeds and we have lost our proper sense of values. Very few men today are thinking the situation through without allowing these things to influence them, and yet all clear thinkers, as Sir Josiah Stamp had evidenced had come to the same conclusion, although approaching the end from different angles, and this was that we had to apply the principle of the Golden Rule. Many of these thinkers were not thinking in terms of Christianity but in plain common sense. There was hope of no salvation unless we were prepared to give our fellow men a square deal."

For a long time production was behind demand, the speaker pointed out, but today demand had fallen behind. We had progressed in making things but fallen down in our social relationships. This, he said, could be solved in two way. Either by revolution or by means of a gradual commercial recovery. This latter would be a gradual recovery, remaining as we are, and would mean gathering our strength for another and worse situation.

Peaceful Revolution

Mr. Strike declared that he believed in revolution as the solution of the situation. Not the bloody revolution, but the peaceful and uniform one. This as far as Canada is concerned is bound to come, he said, and could be only done through the application of Christian principles. "Who are the people to apply these principles but the members of the Christian church?" he asked. The difficulty was that the people were sitting complacently by, waiting for something to turn up. The United church was in closer touch with the

DARROW BLOCKS ALIENIST TEST

Prosecutor States He Will Ask Jury for Second Degree Murder Verdict.

4 WITNESSES REMAIN.

(By William H. Ewing)

HONOLULU, April 23 (A.P.) — Circumvention of the insanity defence of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie was attempted to-day by Prosecutor John C. Kelley under a handicap Clarence Darrow declined to lift.

Darrow, aged leader of the defence of the four persons accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai, refused to permit Kelley's alienists to put the young navy officer under observation.

Montgomery Winn, Darrow's assistant, said:

"We don't contend Mr. Massie is insane now, so we fail to see why their examination of him is necessary."

Kelley held Massie never was insane, and he hoped, with testimony of alienists, to convert the jury of his belief.

Marshalling his forces for resumption of the trial after two days of delay, the prosecutor said he would ask the court to instruct the jurors that the accused quartette could be convicted of second degree murder, as charged, even though the jury might believe Massie was mentally deranged when he held the pistol that killed the native.

Counted On Alienists

Kelley had counted upon the alienists, Dr. Joseph Catton of San Francisco and Dr. Paul Bowers of Los Angeles, for testimony to offset that of defence alienists who pronounced Massie insane at the moment Kahahawi allegedly sat before him and admitted attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie, his wife.

There being no territorial law compelling the defence to subject Massie to a prosecution examination, Kelley requested that privilege of Darrow yesterday.

Darrow, master of defense strategy, vetoed the idea.

Four prosecution rebuttal witnesses remain to be called.

Although Kelley's immediate problem was the opening of the rebuttal, he asserted one of the hardest battles of the spectacular case would be over the instructions to the racially varied jury.

He said he expected the defense to ask that the jury might include among its possible findings a verdict of "not guilty by reason of insanity," but that he would fight this contention.

HITLER FIGHTS TO GAIN CONTROL

Makes Whirlwind Tour in Effort to Head Diet Elections.

VOTING SUNDAY.

(By Louis P. Lochner—A.P. Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, April 23. — Feverish eleventh-hour activity in five-sixths of Germany preparatory to to-morrow's Diet elections marked to-day the close of a campaign which, in many respects, has been more bitter than that preceding the recent Presidential elections.

In the Presidential campaign the issues were clear cut, between Republicanism, Fascism and Communism, and centred around the two colorful personalities of President Von Hindenburg and Adolf Hitler.

In the Diet elections, however, there is a multitude of parties with a complexity of issues and a diversity of promised remedies which is a confusion to the plain citizen.

Herr Hitler again bore the brunt of the campaign for the National Socialists, making personal appeals in a number of sections of the Reich, flying from place to place in an aeroplane, pleading with the voters.

Braun Chief Opponent.

His chief opponent was Premier Otto Braun of the State of Prussia, who is slated to-night to wind up the fight with a broadcast speech, the only one of the campaign. Chancellor Bruening, occupied with the parleys at Geneva, has not participated in the electioneering.

Into the campaign, like a bombshell, dropped President Von Hindenburg's decree dissolving Hitler's National Socialist storm troops. In Government quarters the belief prevailed to-day that the backbone of Hitler's movement was broken by this dissolution, but this is not likely to be apparent until considerably later, and it is not likely to have any effect on to-morrow's elections.

SHELL COMPANY GIVEN CONTRACT BY THE COUNTY

Joint Meeting of County Roads and Suburban Area Commission Held.

TENDERS FOR GASOLINE.

New Arrangement Will Save County at Least $1,000 Per Year.

Written tenders from five gasoline and oil companies were yesterday afternoon considered at a joint meeting of the County Roads and Suburban Area Commissions under the joint chairmanship of Reeve Rork Ferguson and Commissioner Harry Gainey respectively.

On motion of Reeve F. McIntyre seconded by Commissioner Frank C. Kitney a contract is to be awarded to the Shell Company for the supply of gasoline and oil to the county for one year, and the company is to be asked to install a gasoline pump and tank for the storage of gasoline in bulk, free of charge. It is expected to effect a saving to the county of $1,000.00 during the year.

Under the new arrangement county officials will be enabled to keep a close check on all the gasoline used during the next year, and by so doing will be enabled to obtain from the Provincial Government full rebate of the gasoline tax and in addition put an end to petty pilfering of gasoline which was reported to have been prevalent in the past. Gasoline has been syphoned from county machinery while lying idle out on various sections of the roads.

Reeve Ferguson told The Examiner that the new arrangement will probably result in the saving of $1,000.00 per annum to county taxpayers. He further intimated that an effort is to be made to secure from the government a refund of the gasoline tax which was paid by the County last year and which would amount to approximately $500.00.

The matter was discussed at considerable length, after the tenders had been opened by County Road Superintendent A. E. Chalmers. An amendment to the motion by Mr. Gainey and Reeve Allan B. Mann in favor of the contract being awarded to the Imperial Oil Company was defeated. Other companies submitting tenders included The British American Oil Company; and Conger-Lehigh Coal Company (Sunoco). None of the companies tendering specified definite prices; one and all they offered to supply gasoline at the prevailing tank wagon prices.

During the course of the discussion the question arose as to whether it was advisable for the county to have an oil company install a gasoline tank and pump free of charge, in which case the county was obliged to buy gasoline from that company alone; or whether the county should install a tank and

FRANCE STICKS TO QUOTA PLAN

Prefers Method of Restricting Imports to Increasing Customs Tariffs.

TARDIEU SEEKS RETURN.

PARIS, April 23 (C.P. Cable).—The Government of Premier Andre Tardieu to-day stood firmly behind the policy of restricting imports to France by means of quotas, rather than through increases in Customs tariffs.

In an election campaign speech last night Louis Rollin, Minister of Commerce, warmly defended the quota scheme on the ground it served to keep unwanted imports out of the country and did not create a danger of dumping by foreign producers. At the same time he hinted there might be further developments in the economic policy of the Tardieu administration, should it be returned to power. The quotas had reduced imports into the country, he said, but the scheme should be completed by a network of agreements between the great industries.

Defends Action.

In defence of the Government's restriction of importation, the Commerce Minister declared, France might have had cheap living by allowing foreign goods to flood her markets, but she would have had it at the expense of seeing her factories closed and her countryside ruined by outside competitors. Unemployment and widespread poverty would have been inevitable without restrictions, he maintained.

M. Rollin said the Government made no claim that its quota scheme was perfect, but it did claim it took care of the situation in such a way as to minimize the affects of the economic crisis on France.

He made one brief reference to Great Britain when he reminded his hearers the economic crisis had not affected France alone. One great country, known as the champion of free trade, had suddenly become protectionist, he said.

$10,000 will be paid on the 65th anniversary of your birth. This amount will be paid in one sum, or if desired, in instalments. (In the latter event, excess interest dividends will be added to the instalments.)

If you live to age 65

the Policy may be continued as an Ordinary Life Contract at a reduced yearly deposit or surrendered for its cash value which may be taken in one sum or as a monthly income.

Dividends

Liberal dividends are allotted yearly, the first distribution being at the end of the FIRST policy year.

Make Life Worth While Before It Is Too Late

I'D rather have one small rose now
From the garden of my friend,
Than to have the choicest flowers
When my stay on earth must end.

I'd rather have the kindest words
Which now you say of me
Than to be flattered when I'm gone
And life has ceased to be.

I'd rather have a loving smile
From friends I know are true,
Than tears shed o'er my casket when
I've bidden this world adieu.

Towards a Christian Social Order

An Article in The Christian Century (Chicago).

IS the nation sufficiently awake to the importance of the actions taken at the recent convocation of the Protestant ministers of Ohio? The full reports of this gathering which have appeared have commanded the attention of churchmen. But does the public in general realize how indicative the actions taken at Cleveland were of the growing social realism and demand for drastic change which characterizes the Protestant ministry?

More than six hundred ministers, drawn from the whole gamut of denominations, sat in the gathering at Cleveland. These men represent a fair cross-section of American Protestantism. They lead churches in a state which has traditionally been a stronghold of that agrarian and industrial conservatism which has operated to fill the evangelical pulpits with preachers who have found vent for their social and political conscience in fighting the liquor traffic. Beyond that, they have been, in the main, content to vote the Republican ticket. If now the ministers from the churches in such a state are espousing radical positions, that is good reason for believing that the Protestant clergy as a whole is getting ready to adopt a much more critical attitude toward the present social order than has hitherto seemed possible.

The ministers who made up the Ohio convocation approached their consideration of the present social order under the impetus supplied by their discussion of the war issue and the conscience issue. On both these, they had, by close votes after exciting debates, in which the younger men seemed in general ready to take more advanced positions than their elders, adopted resolutions which naturally claimed the major atention of the daily press. In respect to war, the convention voted: "We renounce completely the whole war system. We will never again sanction or participate in any war. We will not use our pulpits or class-rooms as recruiting stations. . . We will not give our financial or moral support to any war." In respect to conscience, the convention adopted as its own the "Declaration of an American Citizen" which has been published in so large a portion of the church press.

It is perhaps not remarkable that a gathering which was ready to take such positions as these should, when it moved on to scrutinize "the principles upon which the present economic system is based," have adopted what amounts to a declaration that the capitalistic order is in opposition to the principles of Jesus and that only a socialist society can be consistent with the ethical requirements of the kingdom of God! In the light of the stand taken by the Ohio ministers, the charges made against the Protestant churches by outraged officers of commerce associations, by professional red-hunters, and by frightened ladies who tremble at any possibility of change in the status quo are seen to be justified. The Protestant ministers of Ohio have definitely aligned themselves as opposed to the present social order, and as demanding its complete re-making. And they have done this in the name of religion!

The report adopted at Cleveland opens with an extended and brilliant analysis of capitalism. Against this as a basis for society three principal indictments are brought in the name of the human values which religion is set to conserve—that it has led to unbridled individualism in business practices; that it has led to the exaltation of profit as the chief end of business, and that it has made competition its chief method of action. After developing these three charges—with incidental acknowledgment of certain benefits which have flowed out of capitalism—the report proceeds in this fashion:

"A just regard for human beings has never been central in the capitalist system. Labor has ever tended to become an instrument to further the acquisitive aims of those who own and control. We are driven by the very logic of the facts to look upon this tragic tide of human misery as directly the result of the operation of these principles which we cannot square with the teachings of Jesus:

"1. We do not believe in the principle of socially irresponsible individualism as it operates in economic affairs. No man in a Christian society has a right to live wholly unto himself. They that are strong ought to bear the burdens of the weak. The family, the state or the church would disintegrate on any other basis, and society cannot survive without a social aim.

"2. Human life is paramount and its safety is only guaranteed when the aims of life are spiritual and not material. The profit motive as a dominant aim in life cannot be reconciled with the Christian ethic. The handwriting is on the wall against any system which puts a material goal above the interests of human life.

"3. A Christian community must necessarily be built upon the co-operative method of life. If this means that the strong and the privileged will get less, it also means that the weak and the underprivileged will get more. It means that the competitive struggle for bread will give way to a co-operative effort to insure security and the necessities of life. The achievements of co-operation already attained in many agricultural fields may well be extended to other areas of the social order."

On the basis of these general principles, although without charting "the details of a new economic order," the Ohio convocation demanded that there be a change in society to achieve these ends:

"1. The objective for which all economic activities should be carried on is the enrichment of the life of the whole people. Human well-being, not profits, is the end to be kept in view.

"2. In order to attain this end we should bring about:

"a. A more thorough social control of economic activities to replace the anarchistic individualism which characterizes the present economic order, by means of co-operative industry, government regulation or government ownership.

"b. A more equitable distribution of wealth than now obtains. The immediate steps in this direction are a minimum wage level adequate for healthful living for the wage-earner and increased taxation of the higher levels of income to support such common services as education, health, recreation, unemployment insurance and old age pensions.

"c. Economic planning. This should include a co-ordination of economic resources, an elimination of the enormous waste of the present competitive system, and an adjustment of production to fundamental needs. In any scheme for such planning the government must be an important factor.

"d. A harmonization of the economic activities of separate nations with the requirements of wholesome international relations. This would recognize that world peace and good-will cannot be secured or maintained unless present economic imperialism be definitely curtailed and separate nations cease to attempt to build their own prosperity at the expense of other peoples."

A Chat with Young Peterboro

ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR APRIL 24.

HARRY came home the other day. He had got into a fight and got licked. Said he was only standing up for his rights. I told him it doesn't always pay to stand on your rights. Look at Abraham, I tells him. He knew how to fight when it came to helping his foolish nephew, Lot, out of the troubles he had made for himself, but he was too proud to quarrel with Lot, when he and his shepherds wanted to grab off all the best pasture. And what did Lot get for it after all? First, here's a story. There was a missionary in the South Sea Islands, John G. Paton by name. When he first settled, he built himself a nice house in a very lovely spot near the coast. Well, they had so much trouble with mosquitoes and fevers, they thought they would die, if they couldn't do something about it. Of course, they couldn't stop the mosquitoes breeding and the evening mists that brought the malaria, so what were they to Why, they just left that lovely spot and moved higher up on the hills Then they were above the mist and mosquito level, and they weren't troubled any more. It wasn't quite so nice in one way, but in another it was miles better. That's like Abraham. He had his rights, he was the elder, and the choice of pasture was properly his. But Abraham knew it was better to get above the mosquito level of petty quarreling and bickering, and so he let Lot have his way. You know, the best steel will bend, but the hard brittle kind breaks when a strain is put on it. Well, Lot got his own way, and it brought him no end of trouble. Abraham went up to the highlands, Lot stayed down in the beautiful plain country, and got in among the wicked people that lived there. Pretty soon, he was hand in glove with them, and when their punishment came, he shared in it. First, he lost all he had in one of their wars, and he had to thank Abraham for getting his property back for him. Then when the final trouble came and the wicked cities were destroyed, it was only Abraham's prayers that saved him, and all he escaped with was his life. Lot's life began on the downward track when he selfishly insisted on having his own way, and trying to quarrel over it with Abraham. The fellow that's always watching out to see that nobody puts one over on him, generally gets it in the end.

The Blessed Task

LONG ago Emerson wrote: "A man's task is his life-preserver." This seems to be remarkably correct in our modern life. The man without a task is like a ship without ballast and anchor; he is all too often merely a drifter. Few men seem to have initiative enough to choose a task for themselves if they do not need to work. And when the inevitable disappointments come, as they assuredly will, they are completely overwhelmed. But the man who has his task has no time for vain regrets, and he escapes the disastrous fate which overtakes his less fortunate brother. Work is one of the greatest safety valves which was ever invented, and youth especially needs it.

We sometimes pity the man who is a slave to his task, and perhaps we are right, but the man who has no task is often a slave to his ennui, which is very much worse. Even a disagreeable task is better than none, and the man who does work which is disagreeable to him will yet live longer, and as a rule more happily, than if he had had no task at all.

And the man with the task is easier to live with, and will prove a more contented citizen, and a more valuable one than the one who lacks such a task. Even so-called invalids are often the better for some task which is suited to their powers, and they often live all the longer if they work hard. The man who starts life with a solid task which taxes his powers had better thank God, and do his best, for this is one of humanity's greatest beings.—W. A. McMullen.

Worthiness

THOUGH I am a leader,
Surging in the van,
Or a straggling trailer,
Dubbed an also-ran,
As I struggle forward
On the dreamer's quest,
Lo, it matters little,
If I do my best!

Though I win the plaudits
And the laureled prize,
Or the jeering laughter
And the scornful eyes,
As the crowd turns from me,
Crumpled on the sod,
Lo, it matters little,
If I have pleased God!

—Edgar Daniel Kramer.

SUCCESS.

The successful men I have met were neither optimists nor pessimists, but men of just plain common sense.—Coleman Cox.

Encouragement

A WORD of encouragement! How it oils the wheels of life, and yet how seldom is it given. It is true that the thing one likes doing is generally done well, but it is equally true that when one is given a little encouragement it inspires one always to do one's best.

The child at school does the best lesson, not when she is told that she is exceedingly dense, but when she receives a word of praise from her teacher. The employee accomplishes her best work when her employer, instead of taking so much for granted, expresses some recognition of her services.

The wife's humdrum tasks take a different shape when she hears from her husband that word of appreciation of the way she carries out her daily household duties. The husband goes on his way feeling happier when, from his wife's lips, he is told how much she values all that he has strived and struggled to attain.

If thus by more thoughtfulness we can make a heart the lighter, let us see to it that we wait not until those whom we love and who have worked for us so faithfully are called away, before we remember to sound their praises, but let us, while we have the opportunity, give to those around us that word of encouragement, and so shall we help to make life a little sweeter for each other.—Eileen Evill.

"Ivory Interval"

THE wimpled silence over the chill
Face of the field is white,
And still
Is the lonely poplar,
Gripped by frost;
In a copse of hazel
The silver-bossed
Line of the drifted fence is lost!
And fruits of crystal shatter and fall
On the silver reach of the pond,
Where tall
Boughs of the alder trees beyond
Were leafed for an ivory interval!

—Phyllis B. Morden.

Judge Wisely

THE wise man moves far above the common level; he observes everything from a different point of view; in his employments there is always an aim, in his views always freedom, and all with him is above the common level.—Richter.

Destiny

THERE is a destiny that makes us brothers;
None goes his way alone;
All that we send into the lives of others
Comes back into our own.

—Edwin Markham.

Goodness

TRY to be as good as all think thee to be, because many have great faith in thee, and, therefore, I admonish thee to be nothing less than people hope of thee.—Francis d'Assisi.

If moral delinquencies and shortcomings do not cause us to forfeit our place in the Church, surely that place cannot be forfeited by our intellectual confusion and doctrinal aberrations.

THE ANNUAL MUDDLE.

To-night at midnight most of the large centres in the United States and Canada will shove their clocks ahead an hour and another period of daylight saving will have been launched.

From time to time during the next two months other communities will swing into line, thus adding to the confusion and the inconvenience inevitably occasioned by such a haphazard adoption of summer time.

Were the system universal on this continent with the United States and Canada regulating their activities by daylight saving during the same period, as is the case in Europe where Britain, France and Belgium all advance their clocks at the same time each spring, a good deal of the complaints over the method would be done away with.

However, rural opposition to the plan in both the Dominion and in the United States have killed all chance of it being established on a national basis, and as a result people will have to make the best of an involved situation.

Until Peterborough, for example, joins the daylight saving line-up in June local people will have to take the hour's difference in time into consideration in regard to radio schedules, business appointments in other centres and many other activities that will be affected.

In other words, the annual muddle is on.

UP GOES THE TARIFF.

Great Britain has taken another long step away from her old free trade policy in the decision of the import duties advisory committee that the duty on practically every type of manufactured goods imported into Britain shall from Monday next be 20 per cent., doubling the general tariff imposed by the National Government a few months ago.

In addition, manufactured articles of the luxury and semi-luxury class will have to pay duties of 25 or 30 per cent., as the case may be, on entering the British Isles.

These new duties will not for the present at least be applied to goods manufactured in the British overseas dominions, the home Government being of the opinion that such goods should not be subject to tariff until the results of the Imperial Economic Conference are known.

The United States and European countries which formerly took a large share of the British market will be hard hit by the increased tariff, which in turn should give Canadian and other British dominion manufacturers a decided advantage so far as exports are concerned.

One immediate consequence of Britain's action should be another influx of American manufacturers seeking to establish branches in Canada, and wide-awake municipalities will be on the alert to add some of these branches to their list of industries.

SENATORS CONDEMNED.

It is not surprising to learn that the majority report of the Senate committee on Beauharnois has condemned the actions of Senators Wilfrid L. McDougald, Andrew Haydon and Donat Raymond, nor is there anything novel in the fact that the Liberal members of the committee refused to agree with the findings.

Committees appointed, as this one was, usually stick to party lines, and when political reputations are at stake it would be a miracle to find an unanimous report.

The Conservative majority has found that Senators McDougald and Andrew Haydon performed actions which were not fitting or consistent with their duties and standing as Senators of Canada, and that Senator Raymond accepted very large sums of money by way of campaign fund contributions from a company which was "dependent vitally on Government franchises or concessions."

Chief interest in the report will lie in what follows in the Senate where the Government has a slender majority.

First, as to the adoption or rejection of the committee's findings, and then on the motion that Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Government leader in the Senate, is likely to make calling for the expulsion of Senators McDougald and Raymond from the Upper Chamber.

One of the most interesting political battles in years is expected as a result of the Beauharnois report.

ENGLAND'S DAY.

This is a red-letter day for every Englishman and all people of English descent, and while the race is notoriously undemonstrative, every son of old England should rejoice to-day in the anniversary of the birth of Saint George.

For more than one reason, April 23 is a remarkable occasion: it is not only St. George's Day, but it is also the birthday of England's greatest poet and writer, William Shakespeare, and the anniversary of one of the most gallant feat of arms in the whole glorious history of the British Navy, the blocking of the Zeebruge Canal.

For Canadians the date has particular significance, too, for seventeen years ago to-day the 1st Canadian division was showing the utmost gallantry and determination in its first major engagement, blocking the road to the channel ports after the first gas attack of the Great War had almost enabled the grey-clad German hordes to break through and roll up the whole Allied armies.

The rose of old England should have been worn proudly to-day, for this particular anniversary finds the world admiring another exhibition of the manner in which British courage rises triumphant over what might well be considered almost insurmountable difficulties.

The battle to balance the budget and the sporting way in which Britishers have accepted onerous taxation burdens to achieve that end have written another splendid page in British history since last the memory of St. George was honored.

B. W. I. FRUIT AND VEGETABLES.

One of the peculiarities of the fruit and vegetable crops of Bermuda and the British West Indies that is mentioned by the Canadian National Railways, which have done a great deal to develop business between Canada and the islands, is the successive dates at which these crops mature.

While it is true that the tomato crop of the Bahamas, which have sent thousands of crates of these vegetables to Canada during the winter season, is almost finished for this year, other tomatoes from islands in the eastern group, such as Montserrat, Antiqua and St. Vincent, will continue to arrive in Canada until the middle of May. By that time Bermuda will have commenced shipping tomatoes to this country, so that a steady supply of tomatoes from the islands is assured for some weeks to come.

At the present time Bermuda is making heavy shipments of carrots to Canada, which will be followed by cabbage and beets. The Bermuda onion crop is estimated at 30,000 crates, an increase of 50 per cent. over last year's figures, and the island will also have about 40,000 crates of celery, the first arrivals of which may be expected early in May.

The Jamaican orange crop is now almost at an end, but grapefruit are still arriving from that island as well as from Trinidad and Dominica. According to reports, these grapefruit are of excellent quality and are commanding a ready sale.

Development of the off-season trade in fruit and vegetables between Canada and Bermuda and the British West Indies is enabling this country to be supplied with fresh commodities of this description without having to rely upon sources outside the Empire. Canada's ready acceptance of these articles is also instrumental in enabling the islands to become purchasers of Canadian manufactured and other products.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

THE FUTURE OF RELIEF.

The country awaits with considerable expectancy enunciation of the policy which the Dominion Government proposes to pursue in regard to relief after the close of the present month when, as has been announced, the unemployment relief works that have been under way during the winter months will come to an end.

That a continuation of relief, in one form or another, will be a necessity during at least part of the summer becomes only too obvious. While there is improvement in employment in some branches of industry based upon seasonal demands, it is not readily apparent that this improvement is general. For instance, while employment is being afforded to sailors and port workers, one of the railway systems is dispensing with the services of some thousands of its operatives, and the manufacturing industry as a whole has yet to respond in any marked degree to any revival of purchasing that may accompany the opening of the spring season. There may be—perhaps will be—some improvement as the weeks pass, but no person is optimistic enough to believe that the summer will witness such a regeneration of industrial enterprise that all those now in receipt of relief will be absorbed in profitable work. It follows that if those unfortunate enough to remain out of work, together with their dependents, are to be kept from starving (albeit in the midst of plenty), provision must be made for their support and sustenance during the months that lie immediately ahead and, if unemployment relief works are to be abandoned, direct relief will have to take their place. That is, as a matter of fact, the decision reported to have been reached when representatives of the Dominion and Provincial Governments conferred at Ottawa a few days ago, and an early statement of future policy is confidently expected.

While direct relief savors very much of "the dole," which has been so whole-heartedly condemned by political leaders in this country, it is not at all certain that Canada will be the loser as a result of the exercise of such a policy. Administration of relief upon the basis of employment on public works has been an expensive and not altogether efficient piece of business. It is estimated that so far, to carry out the various relief schemes that have been under way has cost the people a sum in the neighborhood of $150,000,000 Of this sum, the Dominion Treasury has borne more than a third. The remaining burden has been assumed by Provincial and municipal Governments—in almost every instance with an accompanying elevation of debts that were already quite high enough. The country, in return, has, together with works that were really required, other works that were not at all necessary and that may never be of much use, and, what is more, has given steady employment, notwithstanding the heavy cost of the various projects, to not more than 25,000 individuals.

It is easy to understand that the Government, facing formidable financial burdens, has grown tired of such a method of dealing with employment which furnishes relief only at heavy expense for other commodities than labor and which has, in reality, proved thoroughly inefficient and led to a heavy drain on the Treasury. The scheme was devised as an experiment to meet an emergency situation and evidently it is now to disappear, its place to be taken by direct relief. People who are opposed to transfer of "the dole" to this country may bemoan this decision, but if it means a saving of public funds, while conferring a greater amount of benefit, they will scarcely be justified in continuing their opposition.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Hitler a Menace to Germany and to Europe

By H. W. L. Mahood

In these times the nations of the world demand constructive leadership. Europe has two men who do not belong to this class: Hitler of Germany and De Valera of Ireland. Hitler is as great a menace to Germany and to Europe as De Valera is to the best interests of Ireland.

To understand the Hitler of the politacl realm it is essential to know something of him as a private citizen. He was born in Bavaria, in a small town on the border of Austria. His father was a small farmer. By dint of hard work and self denial he managed to extract a lean livelihood from the rocky soil, for his small family. He was thoroughly committed to the ideal of honest toil. The littles of savings were laid aside each year for old age. His thrift won for him an unimportant position as a petty tax official. Herein began an interest in public affairs.

Not secondary to the cultivation of his little farm was the training and discipline of the son in honest toil and steadfast character. For his son his hope was that he should inherit the old farm, and like him rise to a public position; and thus serve his country in some humble capacity. But the son did not take whole heartedly to the work of the farm during his tutelage. Secretly in his heart he despised dirty, hard, drab farm toil. Then came the day of his majority. Bluntly, he told his father that farm work did not appeal to him; and that he would not consent to make it his life work. Decidedly, the father was informed that the career of an artist was to be his. They quarreled. The father was very angry. The son left home. He travelled to Vienna in Austria, with his head full of dreams of being an artist. Application was made at the Academy of Arts. Great was his disappointment when he found a University degree was necessary for admission. But he must make a living. He considered returning to the old farm if his father would take him back. The old loathing of farm labor arose in his heart more strongly than ever. One thing remained. If he could not paint on canvas, he could paint houses. Thus he began to make an independent living. While painting houses he became interested in books. A history of Germany written from the imperialistic view point fell into his hands. Eagerly it was devoured. The author drew a picture of how Germany was surrounded by evil enemies. France was the black-hearted villain. Then Germany must hold herself strong against the oncoming of the Slavic riff-raff. There was one race that was poison to the Germans—the Jews.

Hitler the painter was brought in close contact with the labor unions. They invited the young Bavarian to join their organization. Here began his conflict with the working man. The invitation was received with disdain. He was a painter and he refused to be recognised as a workman.

Rumors of European trouble, and possibly war, were in the air. Hitler left Austria and returned to Bavaria. Contact with artists, and draughtsmen, and arts students, was made. This experience was short lived. The World War broke out. Immediately Hitler volunteered for the German army. He went to war with his head full of the great mission of Germany. Soon, he was wounded severely, and was sent home. The second disappointment had come and almost overwhelmed him. Then Germany was beaten and all that he suffered had done no good. This was a bitter pill for him to be forced to swallow.

And now there is a blank in the biography of Hitler. What he did following the close of the war has not been made public. Probably he continued to paint houses. In this interlude arose the Bavarian Soviet Republic. He joined the counter revolutionary movement, after the overthrow. That he had brains was soon discovered. He was sent to report on labor meetings. Later was in sympathy with the Republican movement. In attending the meetings he acted as a spy. That was dirty business. But it let light fall upon his character. In these meetings he had a first taste of political propaganda and intrigue. He was an apt pupil. In these meetings and in contact with the counter revolutionists. He heard the slogans of the Nationalists, or revolutionists. These slogans became his watchwords. Read them. "The Entente is responsible for the ruin of the middle class. A liberated Germany will free its people from debt. The money power of the Jews must be wiped out." Soon he assumed leadership in this propaganda. Then came an event of high importance. French imperialism was not satisfied with the treaty of Versailles. France demanded the partition of Germany. She had a plan. Catholic German Austria was to be united with Catholic Bavaria. Here was a chance for Hitler to strike a blow at the German Republic. He joined hands with Ludendorff to form the new South German State. Events did not move in the right direction for the accomplishment of the scheme. France withdrew from the Ruhr valley. The bottom fell out of the proposed South German State. Ineffectually, Crown Prince Ruprecht would wash his hands of the part he took in the negotiations with French representatives to disember the German Republic.

This review gives some idea of the background of the political life of Hitler. Instead of being a statesman he has shown himself to be a demagogue of the first water.

SON OF THE GODS

By REX BEACH

INSTALMENT NO. 1.

Sam Lee stood at the open window of his apartment overlooking the park, and the very fact that the window stood open gave him a feeling of freedom which amounted almost to intoxication.

He was restless, eager, dissatisfied, elated. His notes on today's lectures needed elaboration but—it was spring; a gay rebellion had broken out in him, a thousand mischievous tongues were whispering in his ears, his thoughts were as unruly as wild horses. Who was it who defined a college lecture as a process by which the contents of a professor's noteboow are transferred by mechanical means to the student's notebook without passing through the mind of either? No matter, it was a good definition and particularly true at this season of warm sap and bursting buds.

There was his brand new Hispano-Suiza standing at the curb below. People invariably stopped to admire it and at this moment Sam could make out a group of figures on the sidewalk near the car. He could hear their voices. Girls' voices! Laughter!

The telephone tinkled discreetly, then came Moy's soft "Allo!" A moment and he entered the living room, bowed and announced:

"Mister Spuggum calling you, sir." Moy was a Korean; the simplest English names were baffling to him.

Sam went into the hall, took the instrument and spoke.

"Hello, Sam!" came a cheerful voice. "This is Spud Gorham. "Are you working?"

"Not—yet. I was just getting ready—"

"Say! There's some skullduggery afoot. I'm downtairs with Kicker and three does. They're outside now petting your petting wagon. You'd better come down; we found a moth stamping around on it. They'll ruin the paint—I mean those moths."

Sam laughed and framed a pleasant comment, but Spud talked through his words:

"It's too nice a night for the movies and anyhow Kicker and I are down to our last cigs. You sound like a fellow who'd enjoy taking us for a ride. Girls and everything. Am I right?—Think of it, Sam; we couldn't make a borrow in front of them! You'll save money by going—Aw, come on! They're nice Janes. They won't stick gum under the seats."

"Are you sure it would be—all right?"

"Certainly!" Mr. Gorham spoke with heartiness. "Absotively oh kay! It'll be a polite expedition in search of scientific knowledge and no parking whatever. They'll have to be home early. Make it snappy, Sam, before they change their alleged minds."

Sam Lee called for his polo coat and a few moments later he ran down the steps of the apartment house and joined the group on the sidewalk. He was greeted enthusiastically by Spud Gorham and Kicker Wade, who introduced him with something of a theatrical flourish to their three companions. The latter were no little impressed at meeting the owner of a fifteen-thousand-dollar car.

All of them addressed him simultaneously and in some confusion, at which Kicker said breezily:

"Don't let royalty rattle you, girls. Cut out the high voice and talk in the natural register. Sam is a timid, flickering spark and he wouldn't blaze if you fanned him."

"What a beautiful car, Mr. Lee"—"Aren't you afraid somebody will steal it?"—"How shall we ride?"—"I'll ride with Mr. Lee. Unless one of you would prefer—"

"Go ahead," Gorham addressed the last speaker the while he lowered the folding seats in the tonneau. "You're intellectual and so is Sam. He's the mental giant of the Sophomore Class and he does all our heavy thinking. He's full of exciting gossip. Eh, Sam?"

Sam Lee's white teeth gleamed as he fitted his key to the lock and pressed the starter. "I'm not a gladiator at small talk," he admitted, "but I'm a thrilling listener."

"It makes me nervous to ride with a driver who talks too much," declared the girl at his side. "My this car runs like silk, doesn't it?"

There followed a moment or two of general chatter. Then Wade gained attention:

"Say, people! How about some close harmonizing while we get better acquainted? Who knows the words to something? Anything? I'm a tiger on tunes but words bother me."

One of the girls began to hum the chorus of a popular song and the others joined in.

After a while the girl at Sam's side—he believed her name was Hart, but he was not sure—inquired of him?

"Where is your home, Mr. Lee?"

"New York."

"I'm a Westerner—Bartonville, Ohio!"

Sam looked at her and again his teeth shone in a smile. "I was born in San Francisc," said he.

There was an interruption from the quartet in the rear. A moment and then Miss Hart addressed him in some curiosity:

"I thought wealthy fellows like you always put up at the frat houses."

"A good many do. I don't belong to any fraternity."

There came a gale of laughter from the back seats. Kicker, Spud and their two companions were talking like parrots.

A traffic policeman grinned and waved his hand at the silent running car and its noisy occupants. Those youngsters yonder were out for a good time, a flask on every hip, no doubt, and he bet they'd give some bicycle cop a race before they docked.

Through the upper end of the city and out into the country Sam drove.

Sam Lee felt enormously grateful to his two friends for inviting him to join their party. It was nice of them to admit him to such close fellowship with them and to introduce him to their girls, for he was a pretty lonely persons. It was nice of the girls, also, to treat him so graciously. Miss Hart, Alice was her given name, had quite recovered from her first constraint and was exerting herself to be agreeable. She no longer shrank over against her end of the seat as if he had measles; on the contrary, she took the wheel wherever the road was open and at such times her body pressed close to his, her shoulder rested against his chest. Her hands were soft and warm and velvety and when they touched his he was acutely conscious of unaccustomed sensations.

A dog rushed out from a farmhouse gate and raced along beside the running board. Kicker Wade waved his cap and jeered at the animal as it fell behind, then with a sudden change of tone announced that he was hungry. Gorham inquired irritably:

"Why bring that up?"

"How can I help bringing it up? Sa-a-y! Don't kick me! If you want to step on my foot, step on it under a table with a napkin in your neck. That dog makes my mouth water; he started a sequence of though. Remember Prof. Austin's lecture on thought sequence—He calls it successiveness. 'Thought flows like a stream of water and one channel leads into another.' Follow me, Dog! Running dog! Dog overheated! Hot dog! Plural, hot dogs!—With mustard! Ain't culture wonderful?"

Somebody suggested it would be fun to get a bite somewhere and then dance for an hour.

Came another panicky protest from the bankrupt Gorham aimed at his pal Wade:

"Hunger is good for people. It sharpens their intellects and Lord knows yours needs it, Kicker. For me, I couldn't eat a thing. So help me!"

But Wade was shameless in money matters, financial obligations rested upon him as lightly as thistle-down. With no hint of embarrassment he declared: "We won't press you, big boy. Live on your fat like a bear, if you will, but I famish. Having fasted since dinner time, my brain grows feverish, fancies come and go, visions pass before my eyes. Beautiful visions like those that tantalize the thirsty traveler in a desert. Look!—I see a swell roadhouse. It's all lit up. There's music in the air. And smells! Smells of Welsh rabbits! rabbits—Do I dream? Is it all a cruel mirage? But no, six people are entering that heavenly roadhouse and I am one of them. They are led by a handsome, open-handed youth in a polo coat. Who is this princely fellow? Is it—? It is! It is—Sam Lee!" Above the laughter Wade went on in a hollow voice: "Are we his guests? I—can't make out. I think I see him lending me money to pay the check. Yes—! And now the scene changes; comes the dawn. It is tomorrow. I am returning Sam's loan."

"There's no doubt, now, it's a mirage," Gorham asserted.

Sam Lee turned his smiling face to inquire: "What do you say if we go back the shore road and stop at the Bird Cage?"

This query brought a shout from Wade but half-hearted protests from the girls. Not the Bird Cage. That was altogether too spiffy. They weren't dressed for a place like that. Of course it would be wonderful just to see it but—Wade who usually constituted himself a majority in any group broke in by declaring:

"It's a positive inspiration. You girls look like three plush horses, and anyhow Sam's known there."

"It's so—expensive," Alice Hart ventured.

"Pish! And two tuahes! You're not with Spud and me, you're with Sam. He should worry about the high cost of caviare with millions out at six per cent. My heart bleeds for that poor bonded bloat-holder."

Sam felt a certain embarrassment, especially as he was aware that Miss Hart was staring at him with new interest. Kicker was frequently embarrassing with his talk of money. It was characteristic of him to invite everybody to dine at another's expense, that was his way. He, and Spud, too, had practically been living off Sam's bounty for months, but what of it? Money could buy so little. What really mattered was the fact that these two fellows liked him, had accepted him as a friend and an intimate. They actually kidded him and introduced him to their girls. A feeling of gratitude absurdly out of proportion to its cause came over the driver of the car.

The Bird Cage was the most popular roadhouse on the north shore. It had been done in the Chinese fashion, with miniature flower gardens and dwarfed pine trees surrounding the dancing floor and with tiny pebbled pools spanned by toy bamboo bridges separating the tables. Scores of bird cages, each with a twittering canary of imperial yellow, swung from the lacquered beams, and all the attendants were in Oriental costume. That cover charge amounted to more than most of the students at Eastern spent on themselves in a week and in consequence it was not liberally patronized by the college crowd. But Sam went there frequently to dine alone.

He let his companions out under the porte cochere, parked his car and returned to the porch, then led the way inside. The three girls were chattering animatedly as he removed his coat and cap and tossed them to the coat man.

Attendance Mark Is Set At Supper

A new high attendance mark was established last evening at the closing meeting of the Friday Night Supper Club, when close to ninety boys gathered for the final banquet of the year.

Chairman C. A. Salmonsen reviewed the activities of the club during the past season in a brief after-dinner speech and expressed the desire that when the club re-opened again next Fall there would be that same fine enthusiasm that had characterized the activities to date.

"For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," led by Jerry Duffus was sung for Mr. Salmonsen, followed by three rousing cheers to which the chairman made fitting reply, brought the meeting to a close.

Following the supper, the club members were the guests of their chairman to the Capitol Theatre, where they occupied a solid block of seats, specially reserved for the occasion.

International Nickel Manages to Hold Steady But Noranda is Soft Spot.

TORONTO, April 23. (C.P.) — Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market saw a hectic short session to-day, another wave of selling resulting in losses ranging up to 75 cents among higher-priced issues. Volume was relatively heavy, total sales of 127,000 shares comparing with 112,000 for a full five-hour session Thursday.

Teck-Hughes was under pressure from the opening, and at the close showed a net loss of 26 cents and the lowest price since early in 1926. Hollinger and Wright-Hargreaves were relatively firm, but Pioneer of B.C., Dome Mines, McIntyre and Lake Shore dropped 10 to 50 cents apiece. Among cheaper golds Ventures lost a couple, Kirkland Lake Gold a cent, and Big Missouri and Moffatt-Hall were down fractions.

International Nickel managed to hold steady at $6.40, but Noranda was a soft spot, price recording a new decline of 75 at $1.25. Mining Corporation fell 10 to a new low for the year and Sherritt Gordon and Falconbridge were off a cent or so each.

CHILL WIND BLOWS OVER OPEN MARKET

Eggs Plentiful and Sell at 15 Cents Dozen; Butter, 23-25 Cents Pound.

A warm sun and a chilly wind held contrary fingers of heat and cold over the farmers' market to-day. Yesterday's heat brought the vendors out in light clothing that kept them shivering in the open section of the market. The upper hall was fairly comfortable.

Eggs were very plentiful and had the appearance this morning of having been laundered, so very clean and spotless and carefully arranged were most of the baskets, with many white eggs predominating. In larger sizes, they sold at 14 and 15 cents a dozen, with smaller specimens at two dozen for a quarter.

Ducks' eggs were 50 and 60 cents a dozen and there were enormous double yolk goose eggs that looked like the product of an ostrich.

Butter was 23 and 25 cents a pound; hens were 20 cents, and chickens 23 to 25 cents a pound, the latter price asked for milk-fed cockerels.

Little bunches of violets were a dime apiece. There were tiny cedar trees for hedges at 6 for a quarter, and miniature spruce trees at two for 15 cents.

A small lad brought quantities of pussy willows that were bursting with silvery, furry growth, at a nickel a bunch.

Gladioli bulbs sold at 25 cents a dozen and dahlias at 35 cents.

Spy apples were 70 cents a peck; LaSalles were 45, Staarks 35, and Ben Davis 25 cents.

Long eels, or water snakes, at the fish man's stall, drew the attention of many a passer by. They were selling at 10 cents a pound. Delicious-looking little silver herring were 15 cents a pound, pike was 12 cents, and white fish 25 cents.

Maple syrup was $2 a gallon.

Pork was priced at 7 and 9 cents, in front and hind quarters.

Potatoes were 40 cents a bag.

Clover honey sold at 35 and 60 cents, in five and ten pound pails. Home-made horse radish in glass jars was 30 cents. Cabbage plants of the Golden Acre variety were 20 cents a box.

Little Yorkshire and Tamworth pigs were priced from $4 to $5 a pair.

An Indian from Madoc brought gay sweet grass baskets, beautifully made, in bright colors. They were 50 and 60 cents each.

MIXED TREND AT MONTREAL

Brazilian Traction Attracts Most Attention During To-day's Short Session.

CANADA CEMENT DOWN.

MONTREAL, April 23. —(CP)— Stock prices moved in a mixed trend during today's short session of the Montreal Stock Exchange. The volume of business transacted was small with Brazilian attracting most attention. Bell Telephone was traded in board lots only.

At the close Canada Cement had lost 3½ points at 39½. Consolidated Smelters ended the day with a drop of one point at 38. Brazilian moved in a narrow range throughout the session and closed with a gain of ⅛ at 9½. Canadian Pacific Railways was a bright spot ending the day with a gain of 3-8 at 13 7-8. International Nickel eased ⅛ to 6½.

Atlantic Sugar, British Columbia Power "A" and Charles Gurd were unchanged. Canadian General Electric preferred lost a small fraction.

STOCK EXCHANGE OPEN HOUR EARLIER MONDAY

In order to synchronise with summer time by which New York Stock Exchange will be working on Monday next, Toronto Stock Exchange is also to work to the same standard, although it is a week earlier than the scheduled time at which the clocks will be put back an hour in Toronto.

The change in time will affect local stock brokers offices in so much as they also will work to summer time, and will open at nine o'clock in the mornings instead of at ten o'clock as at present. The board will close an hour earlier at 2 p.m.

Ferguson Sails Back to England

MONTREAL, April 23. — After three weeks in Canada, during which he testified before the Senate Beauharnois Committee and the Ontario Royal Commission on Hydro, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in London and former Ontario Premier, returned to England to-day on the steamship Montclare.

As a parting message, Mr. Ferguson smilingly said: "I was glad to be here and I hope to be back again soon." He stated he would be in Canada during the Imperial conference opening at Ottawa towards the end of July.

VOLUME LIGHT TORONTO LIST

Fractional Losses Appear in Nickel, Noranda and Teck-Hughes.

BELL SUFFERS SETBACK.

TORONTO, April 23 (C.P.)—The market on Toronto Stock Exchange worked lower to-day. Only fractions over the general list, it is true, but these were sufficient to show the tone has not altered any. Volume remained quite light.

Bell Telephone, after opening higher, sold down and made a new low at 86¼, a fraction under its previous close. Fractional losses also appeared in Nickel, Noranda, Teck Hughes, and the oils. Walkers, Common and Preferred, were firm. Steel of Canada showed a small gain, and C.P.R., Ford of Canada and Brazilian were just above their previous close.

Canada Cement Preferred broke 6 points to a new low of 39, reflecting current uncertainty over the safety of the dividend.

CAPONE RENEWS OFFER TO FIND STOLEN BABY

HOPEWELL, N.J., April 23. — C.(P.)—The Lindbergh kidnapping mystery, now 53 days old, continued to-day to baffle attempts at solution.

The highlight of the past 24 hours was a high official's statement that Al Capone had offered a flat guarantee to effect Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.'s return in a few days if he were released temporarily from the prison cell he occupies in Chicago. The ganster chief denied making the offer.

Capt. G. C. Dickens, grandson of Charles Dickens, the novelist, has just been appointed Rear-Admiral of the British Navy.

IMPROVED TONE IS KEYNOTE OF WALL STREET TRADE TO-DAY

Fractional Gains Predominate as Rather Dull Session Brought to Close.

STEEL OPERATIONS UP.

NEW YORK, April 23 (C.P.)—The Stock Market finished a week in which reactionary tendencies predominated with a somewhat improved tone to-day.

The two-hour Saturday session was one of the dullest of the year, but the list closed with a firm tone. Fractional gains predominated, although some issues managed to close a point or two higher.

There was some continuance on yesterday's selling movement in the early dealings, but it soon dried up, and enough short covering and buying appeared in the last hour more than to erase the early sag. The turnover, however, was less than half a million shares.

Brokerage opinion was a little more cheerful at the close of the week, apparently as a result of the indications from Washington that the Senate Finance Committee will bend every effort to hurry the tax bill through, and in anticipation of some belated seasonal recovery in business.

Steel operations in the Youngstown area were estimated as likely to reach 30 per cent. of capacity next week, compared to 26 per cent. this week, presumably reflecting further belated buying by the automobile makers.

GENERAL MAH HELD PRISONER

volt against the Pu-Yi Government at Changchun and are believed to be still holding General Mah prisoner in the Taheiho vicinity.

For this reason, the Manchurian story claims, recent telegrams originating at Blagoveschchenck, Siberia, addressed to the Chinese Government and signed with General Mah's name, are believed to have been fabrications, probably, the despatches said, written by the Consul of the Chinese Government at Blagoveshchenck, whose recall was recently requested by the Soviet Government at Moscow.

The Manchurian Government spokesman recalled that General Mah is unable to write or to sign his name, and added that, regardless of the General's whereabouts or intentions, the Government's control of the Province of Heilungkiang and its policy there remains unchanged.

The Pu-Yi Government announced to-day the appointment of four Japanese, who formerly served as officials of the Japanese Government, to key positions in its regime, a Rengo News Agency despatch from Changchun said.

FIREBUG ACTIVE

OTTAWA.—A tip received a month ago set police and fire officials in search of members of an arson ring here, but their watchfulness was eluded when flames swept the J. B. Lefebvre shoe store, the corner of Dalhousie and Murray streets, last Sunday. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

A passenger train in England recently covered 105 miles in 106 minutes.

VIOLIN PRODIGY LOOKS DOWN ON FATHER

Yehudi Menuhin was just a little chap when his violin technique attracted world-wide attention. But he has grown since his debut ten years ago and when his father met him on his return to San Francisco from a European tour, Yehudi was taller than his father. (Continued from Page 1)

alleged to have slipped on the ice-coated sidewalk at the intersection of Dalhousie and Reid streets.

J. A. O'Brien is counsel for plaintiff, and J. R. Corkery for the Corporation of the City of Peterborough.

Claims $25,000 Damages

John Lesurf, merchant of this city is claiming $25,000.00 damages and costs from W. E. Cooper, merchant of Cobourg in respect to injuries he received while riding in a motor vehicle belonging to the defendant and which was being driven by one Leslie Jolly, on October, 7, 1931.

Plaintiff states that he became a passenger in the vehicle at the invitation of Jolly. The vehicle proceeded westerly on Highway 2 in the vicinity of Colborne when it is alleged Jolly proceeded to operate the car at an unreasonable speed, despite the protests of plaintiff. It is further alleged that the vehicle was not properly equipped with brakes.

In his statement of defence, the defendant Cooper claims that plaintiff had gone along as a passenger in the vehicle at his own request so that he might become acquainted with merchants on the driver's route. The plaintiff who was conducting a wholesale business in Cobourg, took along with him on the drive samples of merchandise and solicited business along the route.

It is further denied that the vehicle was operated at a dangerous or unreasonable speed, and it is alleged that the plaintiff's injuries were sustained when he leaped from the moving vehicle without warning, after a tire had burst. The driver who remained in his seat was uninjured.

J. A. O'Brien is counsel for plaintiff, while Thomas Field Hall, K. C. of Cobourg is counsel for defendant.

Damages in the sum of $5,000 and costs are claimed by Frederick T. Mahood against the Corporation of the County of Peterborough, for the alleged loss of an eye due to an injury received while in the employ of the defendant Corporation as caretaker of the County Buildings.

R. R. Hall, K.C. is counsel for plaintiff and Peck, Kerr, and McElderry for the defendant Corporation.

Set Aside Mortgage

Ross Lobb, carpenter and contractor of Otonabee Township on behalf of himself and all other creditors of the defendants Jessie Lancaster and Harold Lancaster is seeking to have set aside a chattel mortgage and mortgage on the lands and premises of the defendants.

John Faux a famer of Douro Township is named as a co-defendant, to the suit.

J. A. O'Brien is counsel for plaintiff; W. F. Huycke is counsel for defendant Jessie Lancaster; Emmett F. Sheehy for defendant Harold Lancaster and Gordon and Elliott for the defendant John Faux.

Defendants Jessie and Harold Lancaster it is claimed were indebted to plaintiff in the amount of $491.98 for work done and materials supplied by plaintiff. With respect to that indebtedness plaintiff recovered judgment in full amount with costs of $24.00 on February 1, 1932. The judgment remains wholly unpaid.

It is alleged by plaintiff that the defendants entered into a fraudulent scheme and conspired to place the goods and assets of Jessie and Harold Lancaster out of reach of their creditors.

In her statement of defence Jessie Lancaster claims that plaintiff agreed to construct a barn for her, for a certain amount. He exceeded the amount stipulated and obtained a promissary note from her upon the promise that she would be able to renew the note until such time as she could finally pay it.

By way of counterclaim defendant Jessie Lancaster asks for cancellation and delivery back to her of the said promissary note and the setting aside of the judgment in order that she may carry out the true content and meaning of the agreement between plaintiff and herself.

FIRE SWEEPING

which was sweeping the flames directly towards the mill property.

Johnson Motors Come to Aid

The town's volunteer brigade which is fighting valiantly with the assistance of a large body of townspeople, was handicapped seriously, by a lack of water pressure. Aid was requested from Peterborough Fire Department, but in view of the fact that the Canadian Johnson Motor Company promised to send two portable pumps to the scene of the fire, the services of the fire department at Peterborough were dispensed with.

So fierce was the blaze that it was impossible to get within 200 feet of the fire. Flames shooting sky-high burned through a high tension power wire carrying 44,000 volts, cutting off the power supply to the mill.

After the blaze was first brought under control last evening, guards were placed on duty throughout the night to prevent further outbreaks. Despite precautions that were taken the fire again broke out this afternoon.

16,000 Cords of Wood

It is estimated that there are 16,000 cords of sprucewood in the piles. The pile of wood is estimated to be 780 feet long, 75 feet high and about 80 feet in width. The south end of the wood pile adjoins the mill, but the fire which broke out at the north end is spreading in the direction of the mill fanned by a strong wind.

When working at full pressure, the plant which is completely equipped for turning out pasteboard right from the crushing of the pulpwood, employs about thirty men. It is under the management of Elie Brunelle, and although the plant has not been working at normal for some time, it is stated that plans have been contemplated for an early resumption of work.

WORLD HONORS SHAKESPEARE IN MEMORIAL THEATRE OPENING

Notables Flock to Quaint Warwickshire Market Town for Occasion.

PRINCE OFFICIATES.

(By Edward Stanley, A. P. Staff Writer.)

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, Eng., April 23.—William Shakespeare was honored by the world to-day when the Prince of Wales opened the new and modern Shakespeare Memorial Theatre here.

The theme of the occasion was not merely the pride of this quaint Warwickshire market town in its most famous son, but there was more than a touch of that sentiment in its picturesque and winding streets.

Here Shakespeare lived and loved and laughed; here he was born and here he died. And here he lies buried under a simple stone in Holy Trinity Church. Tradition has it, too, that this was both his birth and death day.

Great and near great made pious pilgrimages here to-day, but all seemed dim against the lustre of the butcher's son who wrote pieces for the theatre 300 years ago.

The Prince of Wales made a speech for the occasion by John Masefield, poet laureate, was recited.

Toast Proposed.

At a luncheon, Sir Archibald Flower presided, Sir Frank Benson, founder of a great school of Shakespearean acting, proposed the toast 'The Immortal Memory.' Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council, responded for England, A. De Fleuriau, the French Ambassador for France, and Ambassador Andrew Mellon for United States.

Nine ambassadors and 10 ministers represented their nations. From the British Dominions and colonies came eight representatives and from other countries lesser officials.

In the afternoon, after the ceremonies, the permanent Shakespeare company presented part of Henry IV. This evening the second part will be given.

Many of those who came could not be seated in the theater, and those who did not stroll by the cool, green banks of the Avon, or make sentimental journeys to Anne Hathaway's cottage or Shakespear's birthplace, watched school children dancing old English folk-dances in the open air.

Bells Peal Out

Early this morning, at 6 o'clock, the bells of Holy Trinity rang the day in. Soon after, sellers of Rosemary—for remembrance, you will recall—appeared in the old world streets dressed in Elizabethan costume lending a touch of pageant.

Just before noon a floral procession wound its way from the Bard's birthplace to his grave, where the vicar received the marchers and wreaths were placed on the tomb.

Distinguished visitors were received by the Lord Mayor, Sir Archibald Flower at noon in New Place Gardens, which is the site of the place Shakespeare bought after his retirement from the theatre. In its charming walled garden are all the flowers and herbs mentioned in his plays.

Flags of all nations were unfurled in the gardens adjoining the theatre. The Prince of Wales unfurled his father's flag, and the respective ambassadors and ministers the flags presented to Shakespear's town by their governments.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

ST. JOHN'S MEN HEAR REV. ROSE AT BIG DINNER

First Annual Dinner of St. John's Men's Bible Class Big Success.

150 MEN WERE PRESENT.

Speaker Was for Many Years a Missionary in India.

More than 150 men attended the first annual dinner of the St. John's Men's Bible Class held last evening in the St. John's Parish Hall and, following a splendid program, heard a remarkably entertaining and instructive address by Rev. D. M. Rose, of Orillia, who was for many years a missionary in India, on the subject, "India Under the Brow of the Himalaya."

"The brightest jewel in the Empire," was Rev. Mr. Rose's introductory description of India. "Anyone who has not spent some time there can not begin to imagine the tremendous work that Britain has accomplished in Hindustan during the past 100 years," he stated. "There are troublous times in India.

"Britain has brought to the 350 millions of people teeming in India, the most heterogeneous population in the world, whatever feeling of nationhood, they possess. History will record that the greatest work that Britain has accomplished outside the Anglo-Saxon world was accomplished in India in welding its peoples into a national unity."

Pictures taken by Rev. Mr. Rose during his wide travels among the hill tribes of Northern India illustrated his address, which was rich in its expressed understanding of Hindu customs and religion and the mysteries that shroud its people. His first picture showed a calf walking aimlessly up the centre of a village street. "It is known that the cow is sacred to the Hindu and if we killed one it is quite probably that our mission would have been destroyed," commented the speaker.

Showing the little fields that cluster up the sides of the hills, he denied the Western opinion that Eastern peoples are intensely lazy. "Perhaps they do not work with the same regularity or consistency, but for the most part they can not be said to be lazy," he stated. Most of the fields produce two crops and the land is tilled with the laborious use of the most ancient agricultural implements.

"Hinduism of the books is much different from the popular Hinduism of the peoples," he said in briefly describing some of the main features of that strange religion. The temples are not churches and are constructed with no space for a congregation or assembly of worshippers. The worship is entirely individual and the temples are merely shrines in which the images worshipped are housed. Hinduism is a complex faith which has absorbed all manner of faiths and at its base is great mass of nature worship and a large amount of animal worship. "There are 225,000,000 of Hindus and 330,000,000 of gods for them to worship," said Rev. Mr. Rose.

Hinduism lacks the beauty that sometimes is apparent in Buddhism, and not only is it ugly but in many cases it is absolutely obscene. One of the reasons for the poverty of the Hindu people is that they are called upon to maintain in idleness more than 5,000,000 religious men, who wander from village to village and are a moral menace to every community to which they pass.

J. E. Patte presided as chairman of the banquet and in his remarks stated that the success of the affair was but another proof of the energy of the members of the Bible Class. He announced that next Wednesday evening the class is bringing Denton Massey, of Toronto, to this city. Mr. Massey will give an address in St. John's Church, but in order to accommodate the many hundreds who may not be able to gain admittance to the church, he will repeat the address later the same evening in the Parish Hall.

Dr. G. S. Cameron proposed the toast to "Our Church," which was replied to by Archdeacon Blagrave, rector of St. John's. The need of the church is co-operation and helpfulness, stated Dr. Blagrave. "We should serve it and maintain it so that it may carry out its program and so accomplish its purpose in the world." He pointed out that in service will the members of the church develop and in their development the church is doing its work.

W. G. Howden proposed the toast to the guests which was responded to by R. F. Downey. D. M. Melton, the class leader, introduced the speaker of the evening.

Splendid vocal solos by Victor Coleman and Gerald Perks, of the boys' choir, won great appreciation, as did also the music of the orchestra led by Jack Marshall and the community singing led by Jack Trotter.

PATRON SAINT OF OLD ENGLAND

panied the toast to St. George and Merrie England, coupled with it.

Past District Deputy B. J. Lemmon, in a concise speech, outlined the historical significance of the naming of St. George as Patron Saint of England. Born of Christian parents in Capadocia before the beginning of the third century, St. George was a tribune of the Roman Army who, after conquering the historic dragon, caused the conversion to Christianity of 15,000 people, and was later beheaded, on the 23rd of April, 303 A.D. In the reign of Edward III., in England, he was decreed as the Patron Saint of England, in place of Edward the Confessor, and the date of his martyrdom has since that time been observed as a national festival.

Outstanding Traits.

St. George, said Mr. Lemmon, stands for chivalry, undaunted courage, boldness and fearlessness, all of these being traits of character in the finest of men and women.

R. Patching of Ottawa, Supreme President of the Order of the Sons of England, also past president in Ottawa of the kindred organization St. George's Society, and for forty years a member of the same society in Toronto said that he expected to be in Brantford on Saturday night and in Toronto on Monday night for similar celebrations as that observed here last evening. He reviewed briefly the objects of the Order, which are six. In the first, the society members profess to uphold the simple teachings of the Holy Bible and the principles of the Protestant faith. The second professes allegiance to the British Crown, the flag and the Empire. The third pledges the members to do everything in their power to uphold those wonderful traditions which have made the Empire what it is and to inculcate the virtues of truth, justice, and square dealing. The fourth principle obliges the members to train their boys and girls in the same principles, to make them good English men and women and consequently good Canadians. The fifth endeavors to cultivate good relations among the members. And the sixth principle makes them promise to succor one another in need, sickness, and adversity, to try to materially aid and to give helpful advice and suggestions. In speaking of the National Anthem, Mr. Patching regretted that its petitions do not include the whole Royal Family of Britain.

The toast to Our Society preceded Mr. Patching's address.

The Rev. Mr Sutcliffe aroused the interest of his hearers with several humorous anecdotes before proceeding to the more serious aspect of his discourse. "You have some very fine principles and noble traditions. You have something to aspire to, a challenge, something to live up to. These are not easy to attain, because nothing is easy that is really worth while, and that which comes easily is, for the most part, not worth while, especially in the moral and spiritual realm."

Red-blooded Citizens.

"We hear much about the English being good fighters, but the real interpretation should be placed on that word—fighting in the real, true sense and the highest sense—for if the world needs anything just how, it is people who are loyal and true and genuine, and the Sons of England have been and will be that. Patriotism is in your hearts. Some people think that to be true patriots they must hate other people, but the greatest Patriot of all time said just the opposite. The one way to show the finest spirit of patriotism is not to hate other people, but to love them more, for the more we love other people and other nations, the more we will love our own. There is a way to be mighty, and in my judgment it is not the way of force, but the way of peace and if there is any nation making strenuous efforts for peace now, it is England. Some think that to be peaceful is to be weak. They don't know that the true synonym for peace is power, and the people who exhibit the most power are the peaceful people. The time will come when all the great things with which Christ was concerned will be brought about, when we will have a peaceful and a powerful people, with these principles inculcated in their lives."

Following the toast to Canada, and the singing of "O Canada," E. A. Peck, M.P., addressed the gathering briefly in his characteristic, dignified and kindly fashion, his evident popularity with the audience being manifested in the singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow" and three cheers and a tiger which greeted him when he rose to speak.

Referring to himself as the oldest member of the Order present, Mr. Peck asked: "What can I say about Canada? Well, there is nothing that can be said against Canada. Providence has placed in our hands the control of a very substantial slice of this earth. We have here conditions which make us practically self-supporting, with millions of acres of arable land, and timber land, and countless mineral resources." Referring to that "aggregation that assembles at Ottawa for three or four months every year to try and regulate the affairs of the country," Mr. Peck said, "We find ourselves criticized in the press for what is termed our partisanship and for the time we waste in senseless debate. I am inclined to agree with the press when they say we are too partisan and when we get up to debate and leave 'alf a brick' at the other fellow. But the length of time is a different matter. After all, this is a free country and when we send representatives down there, they feel free to say what they want in the interests of the country, and so the debates are not to be limited to a few of the leaders on either side. It is quite the right and sometimes the duty of a back bencher to get up, and he may say some very sensible and useful things. It may often happen, and it happened this session, that a matter that is quite a debateable question occupied about three weeks because about seventy-five of the members wished to have a say in it.

Empty Ears.

"It is odd sometimes," went on Mr. Peck, "to go into the House and find about forty members there, with someone getting off a long speech and no one listening to it. But it must be claimed on behalf of the members that they all go down there seriously trying to do something on behalf of the country. We do a great deal of our work in committee, however, even though we may not spend too much time in the House."

Mr. Peck referred to the thousands of signatures appended to documents received by him this year, when the question of radio was being considered, all asking that the Government keep its hand off the present distributing stations. "Yet that is only one way of looking at it. There is the other way—that the country should take hold of it and give the benefit of radio distribution to all the people."

Speaking of the report on the unemployment situation, Mr. Peck said that it showed a total of thirty-three million dollars of Dominion money expended for relief, with 300,000 persons receiving more or less employment and an aggregate number of over six million days' work provided.

"We have to pass more legislation still to give assistance in this way, although the mists of depression appear to be lifting gradually.

"But, we are bound to go ahead, and as Canada progresses, so will the Sonds of England progress and continue to do good work; to uphold the hands and give assistance and consolation to our brothers and the members of the great British Empire.

In the absence from the city of Mayor Denne, who sent his regrets, the toast to "Our City" was voiced by Alderman Stocker, in a few sentences that extended congratulations and good wishes to the Order and its members.

The program of the evening was enlivened by some attractive music. Miss Phyllis Rome's very pretty soprano was heard to splendid advantage on two occasions, each receiving a rousing encore. Her selections included "The Piper of Love," "Wind in the Leaves," "When the Great Red Dawn is Shining" and "Wake Up!", with accompaniments played by Arthur Collison.

Little Victor Coleman, boy soprano and gold medallist, had two finely-sung numbers in his clear, ringing treble tones. He sang "Rosebud" and its encore, "Common Sense," with accompaniments played by Eric Quilter.

Spencer Hope and Jack Olaveson, in black face and in coon outfits, gave a humorous sketch, "Smashing Baggage," which was well done and very well received.

Arrangements for the evening were in charge of the secretary, W. G. Shiner.

The hall was brightly and appropriately decorated for the occasion. The lights had long shades of red, white and blue shredded paper and the same tricolor of national import appeared in the festoons of twisted paper which centered the tables and in the large emblem of the S.O.E. which decorated the white cloth of the head table. The flag of the Empire rested at the rear of the head table and little flags decorated the expanses of white cloth. Deep crimson Premier roses were in slender vases on the side tables, and a lovely large bouquet of them gave a brilliant note to the head table, placed in a bowl of wine-red glass. These roses were presented later to the lady soloist of the evening, Miss Phyllis Rome.

WARDEN SCORED

part in the discussion or vote on the question we are placed in a very unfavorable position.

He and the other members of the Suburban Area Commission at a later juncture, definitely stated that they wished to be entirely disassociated from any of the discussion regarding the question.

Reeve McIntyre while believing that the appointment was not in order stated that he did not desire it to be interpreted that he had anything personal against Mr. Chalmers. On the contrarty he stated: "he is the right man in the right place. My only desire is to see that the appointment is ratified at the earliest possible date, in all fairness to the superintendent himself.

"I do think," he remarked, "the Warden is not doing his duty in leaving this matter in abeyance."

He also believed that if the matter was left over to the June sessions of the County Council further complications might develop. He accordingly moved that Mr Chalmers' appointment be legalized as soon as a meeting of the council could be conveniently called. It also embodied in the motion clause requiring that in the event of a special Council meeting the Councillors should attend at their own expense. The motion did not get a seconder.

Reeve John McIntosh of Monaghan Township expressed the decided opinion that the appointment was legal. In order to go further I will say that the motion was regular, but the amendment was irregular. I will stand by my opinion win or lose," he exclaimed.

Reeve McIntyre—We should have had a by-law passed, apart from any question of irregularities in the motion or the amendment.

The matter was left over to be dealt with at the June sessions of the Council.

On motion of Reeve McIntyre, seconded by Reeve Leahy the buying of culverts was left in the hands of the County Road Superintendent and the chairmen of the joint commissions.

A further motion was placed on the minutes on motion of Commissioner Kitney and Reeve McIntyre, that the joint commissions purchase two car loads of calcium and also a spreader.

pump at their own expense, and thus be free to purchase gasoline from any company the county chose.

A. H. Fellowes of the Provincial Department of Highways favored the plan whereby the County would pay the cost of installing its own tank and pump. He would not be in favor of any one company having the monopoly.

Commissioner Morley Smithson agreed with Mr. Fellowes and said he could anticipate trouble with local gasoline dealers if the county was to purchase gasoline through one dealer.

Mr. Fellowes explained that the estimated cost to the County of installing their own tank and pump would be between $700 and $800.

Reeve Leahy—I move that we give the contract to one oil company for a year.

Mr. Fellowes—Have you decided which company that would be?

"No," Reeve Leahy replied, "but I believe that we should adopt that procedure."

Reeve McIntyre expressed himself as being in favor of one of the companies installing a tank and pump for the county free of charge.

He was against the expenditure of $700 by the County for a tank of their own.

Commissioner Smithson — We might try it for one year, but eventually we will want to install our own tank.

Reeve Leahy again objected. He said he did not wish to see any increase in taxation.

Mr. Fellowes—The increase in your taxation would not amount to one-tenth of a cent. The independence of the County is worth $700 or $500 or whatever the tank would cost.

Reeve McIntyre—But we could do a lot more good with $700 worth of gravel for the roads.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

TORONTO, April 23.—There was fair activity on the butter market a few days this week, but generally trading was slow, with prices easier. At the end of the week the market was very soft and buyers were not taking offerings at reduced levels. Montreal reported weakness at the week-end, prices in that city being substantially lower than previously. Supplies from Ontario points were heavier this week end, with Western butter offered on spot and for delivery at about current prices, the trend locally was downward. Buyers were taking some supplies at the declines during the week, but yesterday trading was very slow and lower prices did not reduce receipts to any extent. At the close of trading yesterday, prices had declined to 18¾c for No. 1 creamery solids and 17¾c for No. 2. Wholesalers reduced their prices on prints during the week to the new levels of 22¾c for No. 1 and 21¾c for No. 2.

Cheese

Cheese prices were about steady at the close of the week. New makes were quoted generally at 10½c for large, 10½c twins and 10¾c for triplets. Prices to retail-previous levels, the new range being 20c to 21c for special, 19c to 20c for No. 1 and 16c to 17c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

Eggs

Plenty of eggs and only a fair demand for storing resulted in prices on the local market weakening considerably this week. Country shippers suffered while consumers benefitted by lower prices to the trade. Brokers' prices struck bottom for the week on Thursday and held steady yesterday. They offered ordinary packed, graded supplies at 14c to 15c for extras, 12c to 13c for firsts and 12c for seconds, while storage packed eggs were quoted 12c for extras, 10c for firsts and 8c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Retailers were offered extras in cartons at 19c, extras loose at 17c, firsts loose at 15c and seconds loose at 13c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 23—With butter and eggs continuing their lower price trend, new potatoes advancing and cheese holding unchanged, the produce and dairy market was active here yesterday.

Another cent to a cent and a half decline was experienced by fresh and regraded No. 1 butter, in carlots or less, which closed at 16½c a pound. The market is close to the export level, but unsuitable and inadequate stocks are preventing the beginning of exports to Great Britain. Receipts were 1,587 boxes.

Egg Quotations

Easiness again prevailed on the egg market. Ontario graded fresh eggs, in carlots or broken lots, losing half a cent, extras being quoted at 16c to 16½c, firsts at 14c to 14½c and seconds at 12c to 12½c a dozen. To retailers quotations of fresh eggs, in cartons, lost a cent, specials selling at 23c, extras at 22c, firsts at 20c, and seconds at 18c a dozen. Receipts were heavy, totalling 4,813 cases.

New No. 1 Florida potatoes per 150-lb., net barrel, advanced $2 to $2.50 at $11, while No. 2 brand was up 25c to 50c at $7.25 to $7.50. Old potatoes held steady, being quoted in broken lots as follows: New Brunswick Green Mountains, per 80-lb. bag, 42c to 45c; Quebec Mountains, 40c to 45c; Quebec Whites, 30c to 40c; P.E.I. Green Mountains, per 90 lbs., 55c. Carlot prices were 10c a bag cheaper than the broken lot levels.

Cheese Holds Steady

Current cheese was unchanged at 10c to 10¼c, as was summer make at 12c to 12½c a pound. Receipts were 239 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 23.—Shaken by stock market unsettlement and by stop-loss selling of big speculative holdings of wheat, all grain values pitched downward yesterday.

Export demand for wheat from North America was disappointingly meagre, indications pointed to wet weather in domestic winter wheat territory, and no fresh developments until after the close were heard regarding proposals that $100,000,000 of reconstruction corporation funds be used to promote overseas credit sales of United States wheat. On the downward swing of prices, corn and oats both broke the season's bottommost record.

Losses are Moderate

Wheat closed nervous at almost the day's low, 1c to 1½c under Thursday's finish; corn, ¼c to ⅝c down; oats, ¼c to ½c off, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 2c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG April 23. — Responsive to reports of a general fall of moisture over Prairie wheat lands, and a breakup in the drough situation in the South-western States, wheat prices turned down-grade in the grain pit yesterday. Closing values were 1c to 1¼c lower for the day.

May dropped 1c to 62¾c; July, 1¼c to 64¾c; while October eased 1c to close at 66¾c.

Some export trade was worked overnight, but it was believed to have been in light volume. Rainfall in Alberta and Saskatchewan early gave bears the advantage, and a gradual decline set in, which continued until the closing hour, when the low points were reached.

Rainfall in Alberta.

The rainfall in Alberta was considered quite important, and while in the dry areas of Saskatchewan it was not sufficient to do much present good, the fact that points almost without rain since early last summer had received moisture seemed to give the trade the idea that the long drought was broken.

Cash wheat and coarse grains continued their indifferent trade. Spreads generally were unchanged to ¼c better than previous close.

LAKEFIELD PLANT AWARDED TROPHY

Cement Company Operates 396 Days Without Lost Time Accident.

LAKEFIELD, April 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Lakefield plant of the Canada Cement Company, Limited, was successful in operating the year 1931 or 396 days without a lost time accident, which qualifies the plant as a winner of a Portland Cement Association Trophy, as recently reported in the columns of this paper.

In addition to winning the trophy they have the privilege of sending two delegates to the Portland Cement Association convention to be held in New York City on May 31 and June 1 and 2 to formally receive the trophy awarded by the Portland Cement Association.

The selection of the two delegates to represent the Lakefield plant at the eighth annual convention has just been carried out by ballot among the employees with the result that Mr. Harry T Armstrong of the Stores Department, and Mr. R. G. Mulkins, master mechanic, have been elected as delegates.

The Canada Cement Company's plant No. 12 at Exshaw, Alberta, was also a successful winner for 1931.

PEACEFUL REVOLUTION

people than any organization, commercial or otherwise, in the Dominion and has a tremendous opportunity before it. If the laymen would only perform their duty as followers of Jesus Christ, many disasters in the future would be avoided. Up to a year ago the men on the street had considered the church a closed corporation, and were not interested in it. The west had talked secession, but since the wonderful gesture on the part of the church in sending supplies this talk had ceased, for the west had realized that the east were more than interested in their welfare.

Start In Own Community

"The trouble in the past with the churches was professionalism", said Mr. Strike. As this was detrimental to sport, so was it to the church, he pointed out. We are content with our splendid church buildings, a fine ministry and an invitation to attend but we have forgotten to get out and practice Christianity. This has been the sore spot with the man on the street and one that has to be remedied, he stated. Large corporations talk of big and hard boiled business. A man was but a name and salary on the register and if conditions were not prosperous, his name and salary was struck off. This is all wrong and has got to be stopped in big and little business, the speaker said. There must be a keener sense of responsibility on the part of the employers and they should realise that it is not a case of "Am I my brother's keeper" but "I am my brother's brother." If we would only adapt that principle such a situation as the present one would not arise. The test that Jesus laid down was not conformity to creed, but the giving of help where needed. And the place to start this, he said, was right in our own community.

Contributing to the musical portion of the program S. A. Maguire gave a reading; Elmer Jordan, a vocal solo and community singing was indulged in, led by W. Henson. G. W. Lucy was the accompanist for the evening.

feel very diffident, and hardly know what the Rangers are entitled to as a Commanding Officer. However, we can but do our best, and with plenty of support from my brother officers, I suppose we will carry on."

He mentioned the good work of Major J. E. R. Munro, Major M. Yelland and Captain R. C. Blagrave as fine officers who had been loyal in the past. The major also outlined briefly the good and the bad points of the regiment, and what he hoped to do. He finished up by saying there was never a better Commanding Officer than Colonel Park and he trusted the colonel would always remain the same good friend and adviser. As Colonel Park rose to respond, he was greeted with thunderous applause and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Sorry to Leave Regiment

The colonel said he was awfully sorry he had to sing his swan song, that he was sorry to leave the regiment but circumstances made it necessary. He paid tribute to Colonel Andersen, the district commander, and his staff for their help in the past. He then went on to say that he had always tried to command the respect and support of the Peterborough citizens as that was most important. He thanked Colonel E. B. Cleg, who was Commanding Officer when he began his military career, for his presence, and remarked that he would always have the warmest spot in his heart for the Officers' Mess, both past and present.

Mills Second in Command

Colonel Park praised highly his brother officers and said that, while he was sorry to leave, it meant the advancement of his friends and that helped make it easier. He also thanked Colonel Gordon Hall for his help, advice and presence, and he stated that Lieutenant Colonel Mills was well able to assume the responsibilities that would fall to him as second in command. He concluded by wishing success to all the officers, thanking them for their co-operation in the past and trusting they would continue, and by hoping he would see them often in the Mess in the future.

When ex-Commanding Officer Colonel Gordon Hall was called upon, he received a big ovation." The Colonel replied appropriately, and expressed his regrets that Colonel Park was severing his connections with the regiment before his full term was up. "I hope and believe the same fine spirit will prevade in aiding the new C.O." he said, "as was apparent before." He advised the officers to work hard in all departments to make the Peterborough Rangers the best in Canada, as they should be.

Mr. John Crane played while the party joined in a number of songs, after the Peterborough Rangers' Band, under the direction of Sergeant A. E. Paterson, had played popular numbers during the dinner. Those present included the guest of honor, Colonel W. B. Anderson, D. O.C., M.D. 3, of Kingston; Colonel M. H. Park, V.D.; Colonel W. G. Hall, V.D., O.C. 9th Inf. Bdge.; Colonel E. B. Clegg, V.D., Past C. O. Peterborough Rangers; Major G. G. Winterbottom, M.C., D.C.M.; Major Bruce Mills, V.D.; Major M. Yelland M.O.; Major J. E. R. Munro, Paymaster; Captain the Rev. Dr. Blagrave; Captain J. Dunkerley, M.S. M.; Captain R. J. Bolton; Captain E. E. Nicholls, M.C., D.C.M.; Captain G. Monkman, M.C.; Captain D. Melton all at the head table.

Others present were: John Crane, A. Stanley, D.C.M., M.M.; B. Park, J. McGraw, M.M.; J. Kelman, F. Hart, R. C. R. Cummings, F. Brooks, J. Parsons, R. Haddow, C. McWilliams, W. Peryer, bandmaster; D. Munro, G. Clegg and H. Young.

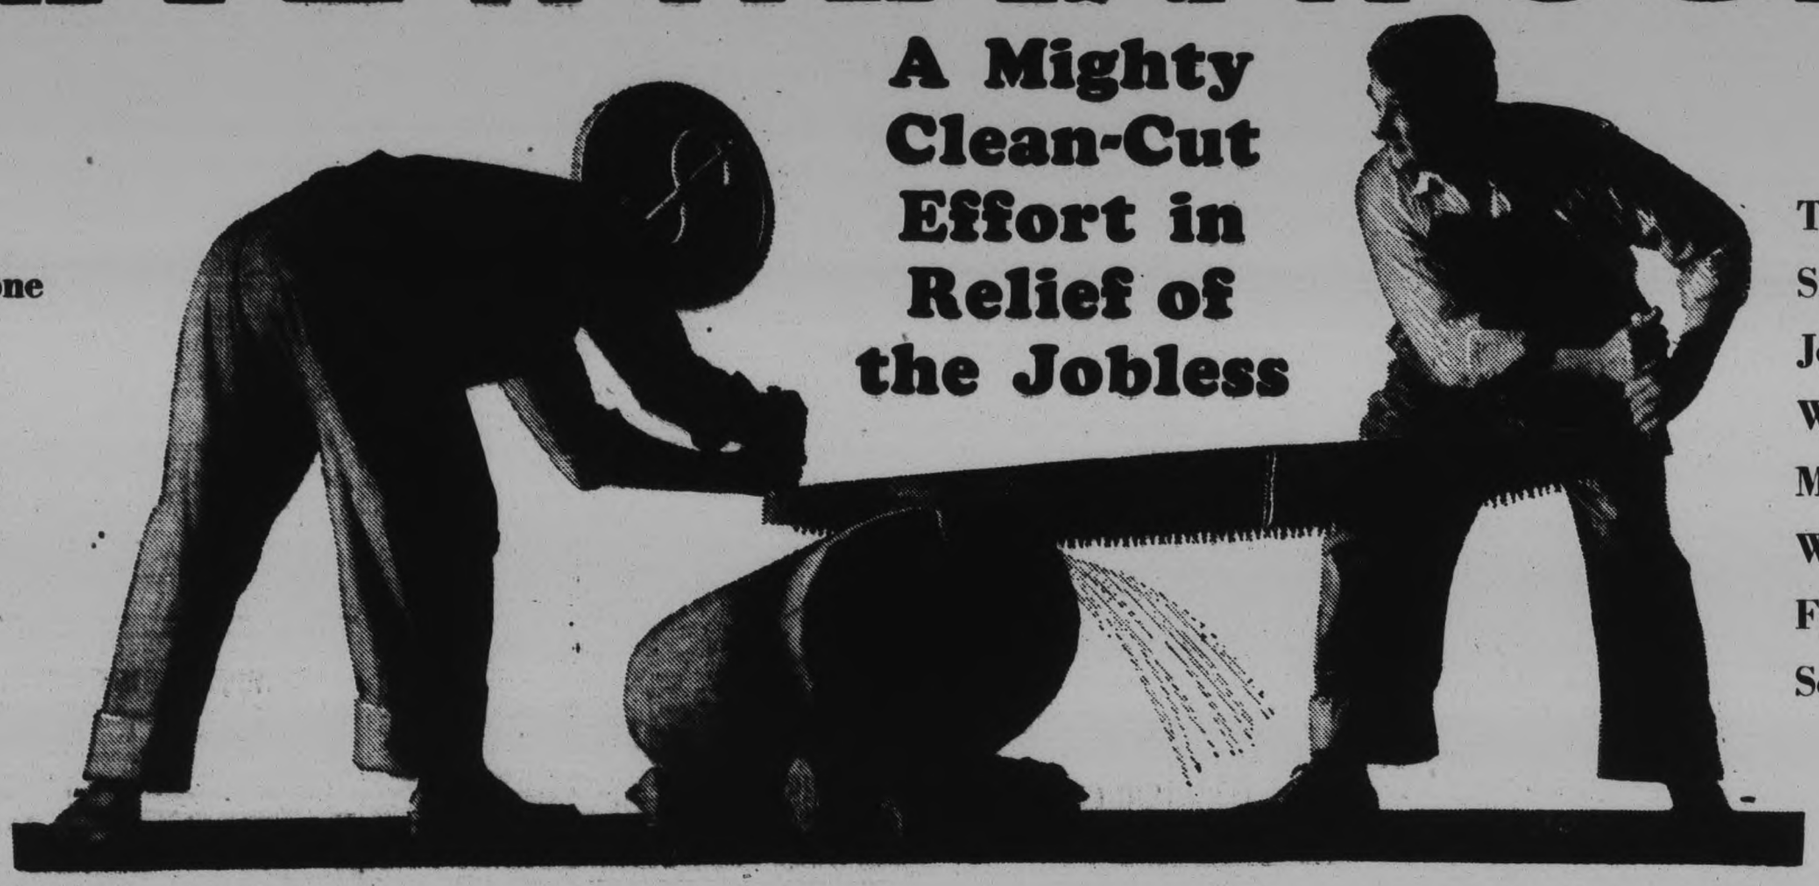
CITY-WIDE CAMPAIGN TO

GIVE A MAN A JOB

Let Everyone Who Can Do His Or Her Part



A Mighty Clean-Cut Effort in Relief of the Jobless

The Smallest Job Will Mean Work For Someone

Campaign Starts Saturday, April 30th

YOU can help yourself and at the same time very materially help the other fellow–the men of Peterborough who are now unemployed – and you can extend this helping hand without seriously obligating yourself and at NO ADDITIONAL EXPENSE.

There are, for example, thousands of improvements, alterations and repairs needed in and about Peterborough homes, factories, stores and offices right now – WORK that has for one reason or another, been deferred until a later date–but WORK nevertheless that sooner or later will become absolutely NECESSARY.

There are many idle men in Peterborough right now perfectly capable of doing this WORK, and these men NEED THAT WORK NOW. You can do YOUR share toward reviving and stabilizing business generally by improving and modernizing your property and for purely selfish reasons you should do it now while the prices of both the necessary materials and labor are at their present low levels.

If every citizen, in a position to do so, will do his part it will provide work for the unemployed–it will release idle dollars, which will make for vastly improved business

EMPLOYMENT SUGGESTIONS

Paint your house, store, office or factory, repair your verandah, fences, shingle your house, changing partitions, some plumbing or tinsmithing, interior decorating, hanging paper and painting your home, taking down storm windows, putting up screens, house cleaning, digging gardens, raking lawns, washing winds, repairing, washing or ducoing your car—ANYTHING TO GIVE A MAN A JOB AND CLEAN UP THE CITY.

Applicants for work may register at the Provincial Employment Bureau, Charlotte Street, where citizens requiring men can also be supplied.

CANADIAN TRADE WILL EXPAND BY CO-OPERATION SPEAKERS SAY

had been received with dull and dumb submission throughout the country, and with none of the buoyancy which the budgets of the late James Robb of the Mackenzie King government has created. The present Conservative administration had slid into power on the question of butter and would slide out again on the same question.

Mr. Mackenzie recalled briefly various speeches made by Premier Bennett in his appeal to the electorate in 1930, pledges of employment for everybody, and of a new era of prosperity under the magic influence of the "Canada first" tariffs.

"In Mr. Bennett's speech in Calgary when he was proposing to remedy things, the only true words in that long speech was when he said 'I am not a genius'."

In 1930 there were 117,000 men out of work in Canada, Mr. Mackenzie said, and according to a recent assertion by the president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada there are today 550,000 unemployed.

"The number of unemployed has increased five-fold, and you as taxpayers are saddled with the expenditure of $150,000,000 contributed from federal, provincial and municipal sources."

In enunciating the Liberal position with respect to the forthcoming Imperial trade conference, Mr. Mackenzie said: "If any abiding success for Canada and the British Empire comes out of Imperial conference the only principle upon which it will be attained is the principle embedded in the Dunning budget which was rejected by the Canadian people in 1930."

Mitchell F. Hepburn

Mr. Hepburn's address covered two subjects. As a member of the federal parliament he discussed the economic conditions of Canada after two years of Conservative administration under the leadership of the Hon. R. B. Bennett, with special emphasis upon the present government's trade policy which he blamed for a large share of the country's difficulties; and as leader of the Liberal party in Ontario he dwelt upon the increase in the provincial debt, and concluded with a criticism of the Ontario government's power program, which, he declared, had departed from the policy laid down by Sir Adam Beck, and had become merely a system of public ownership with political management.

"The condition in which we find ourselves today," said Mr. Hepburn, "is an indictment of our economic system. We used to be told, not so long ago when I first began as a young man to pay some attention to the study of economics, that consumption would outstrip production and mankind would be faced with a most serious situation of supplying even the food it would need. But, today we have a great surplus of products. So, our problem is an economic one. It is man made, and therefore is capable of solution. It has come about as a result of following false policies."

In so far as the basic producer is concerned, Mr. Hepburn said, and he referred to himself as a farmer, there is over-production so long as the basic producer is not receiving returns equal to the cost of production. Every country today was trying to adopt the policy of increasing exports and shutting out imports. In such a situation the question naturally should be asked, who was going to be the purchaser. This condition had already reacted seriously against the farmers Mr. Hepburn asserted, quoting his own county of Elgin where farmers have had to let their hired men go in a large number of instances during the last two years.

An Economic Anomaly.

"These same men are going into the cities looking for work there, swelling the number of unemployed, having to be given relief, and on the other hand we as farmers have to pay taxes to meet the cost of keeping them. In other words we can't hire them gainfully on our farms, but we are taxed to help keep them."

This state of affairs, Mr. Hepburn said, had been brought about by the adoption of a policy that was economically unsound. Harking back to the election of 1926, he recalled that a former Federal Cabinet minister had urged in Elgin speeches an excise tax on wheat because Canada had virtually a monopoly on that grade and should make the world pay "through the nose" for it. In its ultimate effect this was done by the action of the wheat pool in withholding wheat from the market, and thereby creating a false value. At the same time, President Hoover in the United States had appropriated a huge sum of money for the Farm Relief Board, by which hundreds of millions bushels of wheat were bought and held by the Board. At that time this continent was keeping out of the world market 700,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Hastened the Collapse.

In that opportunity, the Argentine and other wheat producing countries were able to unload their grain supplies, and when America went into the market, forced to sell at the world prices, it contributed to the total collapse of the wheat business. The same experience resulted in both the rubber and cotton market, Mr. Hepburn said, because of the adoption of an economic policy that was false and unsound. First tariffs and then subsidies for basic industries, followed by commodity prices going to lower levels forced the governments to apply taxes to meet these subsidies, which in the final analysis had to be paid by the people.

The Bennett tariff policy Mr. Hepburn continued, began by increasing the cost to the basic producers. Of the two chief dairy products of this country, cheese had graded 96 per cent. No. 1 and brought a premium on the Liverpool market, while butter graded only 70 per cent. No. 1. While New Zealand was selling cheese to Great Britain, The Hon. R. B. Bennett decided to shut out New Zealand butter, with the result that New Zealand turned more to cheese production and Canada increased its production of butter.

"What we did, and every dairy farmer realizes it, was that we tried to sell a product, butter, which did not measure up to anything like the standard of our cheese. And then our price of butter dropped to twenty cents a pound because that was the price we had to meet in the world market. And in that same deal, Oshawa lost its automobile business with New Zealand, and a company in London, Ont., lost a trade amounting to $1,000,000 in its products.

What the People Rejected

What I can't forgive Mr. Bennett for, is that in his lust for power he aggravated the situation by his appeal to selfishness. The Liberals could have followed the same course and voted millions for subsidy purposes, but we brought down the Dunning budget lowering the cost of production in order that the basic producer, the farmer and dairyman could be better equipped to meet the competition from other countries, and then we offered to open up a greater market for our products in Great Britain. We proposed the same kind of policy in 1911. Mr. Bennett in 1930 beclouded the whole issue, and now we are paying for our folly. He has contributed to the distress we see all around us. Australia went through the same experience. The lesson was plain before us. They put on a tariff of 40 per cent., which increased the cost to the basic producer. They they offered a six cent a pound bonus, which they had to provide through a subsidy. With their increased cost, they failed to meet competition; their exports declined, and then came financial chaos."

Says People Are Exploited

Mr. Hepburn turned briefly to a consideration of the decline in the people's purchasing power, which he said was due to the fact the mass of the people had been exploited by the privileged interests. The Canadian people owe six billions of dollars in municipal, provincial and federal debts.

"Suppose the Island of Vancouver set up a separate government, and special privileges were granted to special interests. They begin to take out more than they put in, as usually happens. In other words, these few exploit the many. The result is that the mass of the people can't carry on at that rate and they are forced to borrow from those who have the money.

In that way a natonal debt is built up, and the people are exploited in the interest of the few. During the last two or three years that condition has been aggravated in this country, and we have reached the point where we are paying a million dollars a day interest on our carrying charges. In fact, I don't believe we can continue to pay that overhead."

Referring to recent bond issues at 6 and 6½ per cent., Mr. Hepburn said such high rates of interest would have to be paid out of the taxes levied upon the people, and which should have been borne to a considerable extent at least by the financial interests of the country.

The Provincial Bank of Ontario which had been organized by the Drury Government, paid 4 per cent. interest on deposits, and gave farmers a substantial advantage on loans. The Ferguson Government forced the rate down to 3 per cent. which had the effect of stopping the development of the bank, and forcing people to get their loans from the money interests at a higher rate. The Manitoba Bank incident of a few days ago, Mr. Hepburn said, was another example of the power of the privileged interests. He declared that Premier Bennett had forced the government of Manitoba to abandon the provincial banks after Manitoba had appealed to Ottawa for aid. At the same time the chartered banks were guaranteed against loss after it had been refused to the provincial banks.

Annuities Clipped

Canada's annuity system would perhaps be forced out of existence by the Bennett Government's restriction of a maximum $1,200, thereby falling in with the interest of the insurance companies.

"You belong to one class or the other." Mr. Hepburn remarked; "either to the exploiters or the exploited."

"At a recent meeting in Sarnia, the Hon. Thomas Kennedy, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture, shed crocodile tears about the taxes the farmers have to pay, but he failed to point out that he was one of the Ministers who increased his salary $2,000. Coming down to Peterborough he told an audience that we were going to have dollar wheat. I don't want you to think that I am a pessimist, but I know that is no way to deal with the serious situation that is before us. We've got to get down to cause.

Ontario's Debt Increases

In this province we have a system of government bookkeeping that is misleading. We have a current account of revenues and expenses, and a capital account representing our indebtedness. That capital account has been increasing by leaps and bounds. In the South Wellington election I quoted the Provincial Treasurer as saying that the provincial debt would not be increased a million dollars for the year, and I said the deficit would be between forty and fifty millions. The Tory press ridiculed me as a man who was given to making wild statements, but when the Hon. Mr Dunlop tabled his record we found that the debt of this province had been increased from $471,000,000 to $518,000,000. If the deficit were less than $1,000,000 do you think the government would borrow $25,000,000 to pay it off?

We are contributing $17,000,000 for the privilege of driving on the highways. This money is raised through the gasoline tax and various license fees, and not one dollar of the gas tax is applied for the purpose for which it is levied. We have a debt of $160,000,000 on our highways, and we are paying the interest on it. Instead of being applied for its proper purpose, this tax money is being put to other uses including the keeping up of the great Tory political machine in this province. Millions are voted to the Hon. Mr. Finlayson to be spent in Northern Ontario, and he is given a free hand. In 1929 they voted five millions and came back in 1930 for ten millions. On the eve of the Federal elections they threw three and a half millions into Northern Ontario to create a slush fund to elect Tory candidates in that part of the province. If the people realized it they would rise up and smite this government out of existence. On the Mount Pleasant highway the cost of cutting weeds was $25 under the county system, but when it was taken over by the province the cost ran up to $225 for the same work, because they have got to keep the political machine going.

Evidence of "The Machine"

In the Grenville election I was driving out of Prescott on a winter day and saw how the machine worked down there. It was on February 4, and around 13 degrees below zero. They had a lot of men out trimming trees along the highway in the middle of winter. Some of them were up in the trees and others were around fires under the trees. They have three speeds: slow, slower and stopped. The worst of it is that these bills have to be paid by the people. Governments have not money except what they collect."

Declaring himself an adherent of the Beck policy of public ownership of electric power and production at cost, Mr. Hepburn said that by its contracts to purchase power from the Ottawa and St. Lawrence, the Hydro had become merely a distributing agency for power developed in other places.

"I don't know that they will get much on Howard Ferguson and his associates in the present enquiry. Mr. Ferguson has a distinct cleverness which I can't say that I admire. I fancy he could take the Mauretania out of the ocean or an airship out of the air and not leave a trace of either of them."

"In the power development at Chats Falls, Mr. Killiam, the owner of The Mail and Empire, is selling to the Hydro one-third of the output, according to the prospectus, on a basis that will take care of twice the entire carrying charges of that works and also provide a sinking fund. That deal ought to make a good Tory out of any man. Toryism has always been reactionary. Ferguson put the provincial banks back to the three per cent. rate, and he set back the public ownership of power. We have contracted for 3,000,000 h.p. and the contracts are such that power costs to manufacturers in Quebec are going to be cheaper than to manufacturers in Ontario."

High Cost of "Scrap."

With a parting thrust, Mr. Hepburn cited the purchase of the Dominion Power Transmission Company for which he said the Hon. Adam Beck had refused to pay $9,000,000 and which had been taken over by the province for $22,000,000 and most of the property obsolete.

"We have 112 municipalities in this province. Do you know what that purchase means to you in Peterborough? Your share of the expenditure of that $22,000,000 is around $100,000 and you have nothing to show for it but a lot of stuff that is fit only to be scrapped. You know the record of this government, and if you give them a further mandate, you can't expect anything different."

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie

"What the Liberal Party stands for is the expansion of world trade, but first of all it stands first for Canada and not for Canada first", declared Captain the Honorable Ian Alistair Mackenzie, M.P. for Centre Vancouver after having briefly touched upon the forthcoming Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa.

The Liberal Party was seriously anxious for the success of the Conference, he assured his audience, but if it was to be truly fruitful The Right Honorable R. B. Bennett would have to depart from the method of approach he used on the last occasion of an Imperial parley. Only on a basis of friendly and mutual co-operation could such a conference reach a successful issue.

Recalling the special session of Parliament that was held prior to the last conference in 1930, the speaker said that on the very eve of the Conference Bennett had raised the tariffs against the motherland and other portions of the Empire, with a result that he came back from London empty handed and almost empty headed.

Introduced to the gathering by Mr. Duffus, the speaker launched into a lengthy address which constituted a scathing tirade against the administration of the present Conservative government, and also included a comparison between the nine years during which the Liberals were last at the head of affairs and the period of two years since the Conservative regime was placed into power.

A forceful and engaging speaker, the Hon. Ian Mackenzie articulates with a slight Scotch accent.

At the outset of his address he expressed pleasure at addressing an audience of Liberals. That pleasure had been increased, he said, due to the fact that the meeting was held in a Canadian Legion Hall. He recalled that at the time the late Earl Haig visited Canada to unite the Great War Veterans of Canada with the Imperial Organization, he was responsible for moving a resolution at Ottawa which resulted in the unification of the veteran's organizations. He paid a personal tribute to the wonderful work that has been carried on, no only by the old G.W.V.A. but by the Canadian Legion throughout the Dominion.

He also paid tribute to Mr. Fraser, M.P. for Northumberland and to Mitchell Hepburn, Liberal Leader in Ontario, both of whom occupied the platform with him. Of the latter he remarked, "he is young, vigorous, forceful and a real man. Mitchell Hepburn is the next Prime Minister of Ontario."

Arrogant Administration

"We are up against the most arrogant administration Canada has ever seen since the days of Confederation and the present Prime Minister has violated all the rules of responsible government", he charged in warming up to his subject. "We have seen powers that belong to parliament exercised by a secret cabinet legislating for Canada. Parliament is the people. You are the people of Canada and you can change the personnel of the people who represent you", he said.

"For colossal self conceit for appalling egotism", he continued, "Mr. Bennett has not had an equal in Canada since Confederation."

Reviewing the present situation in Canada, the speaker went back to the days of 1930 when the present administration came into power, he also outlined features of the previous nine years under Liberal administration during which a financial surplus of forty-four million five hundred thousand dollars was built up. "Last year", he stated, "we had a deficit of eighty-three million dollars, while this year that deficit has increased to one hundred and nineteen million five hundred thousand dollars. Not only have current expenditures been paid out of current revenue, but so also was capital expenditure made out of current revenue under Bennett".

Under the King administration, the speaker further declared, the financial policy had reduced interest charges by twenty million, five hundred thousand dollars. In one year under the Bennett government interest charges had increased by thirteen million dollars, and at the present time they stood in the neighbourhood of one hundred and thirty-five million dollars.

Similar proportionate increase he said, was also noted in the public debt. He enumerated the increases in the sales tax, as compared with an annual reduction of the sales tax under the last Liberal government. "The present Rhodes budget", he remarked, "has been received by the Canadian people in an attitude of dumb submission".

"It is our duty. It is the duty of every Canadian to wake up to the serious condition facing this country," he warned.

Proceeding to touch upon the recently floated National Service Loan to which the people of Canada subscribed two hundred and twenty-one million dollars, he informed his audience that the interest alone on that loan in ten years would amount to one hundred and fifteen and a half million dollars, which would further increase the burden of taxation.

Future Liberal Task

"It is one of the great tasks of Liberalism in the years to come to tackle the problem of financial reform. We must develop a policy that will be more flexible and which will provide for a complete readjustment of the present system of currency and credit."

Captain Mackenzie also dealt with the record of trade of the Liberal government in comparison with what he termed the failure of trade under the Conservative rule. One of the unfortunate results of the Conservative policy was the condemnation among other things, of the New Zealand treaty. "I wonder if Canada is receiving more for her butter now than in 1930", he queried, adding, "the Conservatives slid into power on Canadian butter and they will also slide out on the same question."

He predicted that the only chance of success at the forthcoming Imperial Conference rested in adoption by Canada of the principles as embodied in the famous Dunning budget.

Scattered Promises

"Why was the Liberal record of service rejected by the Canadian people", he asked. "You know why. It was because of a mistaken judgment on the part of the voters. Bennett went from shore to shore in this Dominion and scattered such promises as had never been heard before", he said.

He contended that if those promises had to be implemented it would cost the people of Canada over a billion dollars.

Respecting the unemployment policy of the Bennett administration, the speaker claimed that the only concrete result of that policy had been to saddle the taxpayers with a debt of one hundred and fifty million dollars, and an increase in the number of unemployed. The total number of unemployed now in Canada was officially given as 550,000. It was an urgent question that was going to tax the utmost sincerity and singleness of purpose of every person in the Dominion, he said.

Vancouver's Unemployed

He spoke of the severe situation that exists in his own constituency of Vancouver where there are 30,000 people receiving direct relief. All the Provinces of the West, he maintained were in the same unfortunate condition, as a result of the unemployment, policy of the present government, the leader of which had stated during his election campaign that there was no excuse for unemployment in a young country like Canada.

In a brief summing up of his impressions, the speaker, exclaimed that the Prime Minister had bedevilled the trade situation; he had bedevilled the financial security of the Dominion; he had bedevilled the Canadian National Railway and he had bedevilled Beauharnois. On top of that he was in a state of complete bewilderment.

Agriculture was at low ebb, the policy of the government having taken the markets from under the farmers, while Canadian industry also showed a similar unfortunate state with 200,000 more unemployed in the factories than in the year 1930.

In brief reference to the Hon. H. H. Stevens the speaker referred to him as "Honolulu Harry" and the "Wizard of Waikiki."

In closing he outlined the tenets of Liberalism and said, "we must face the future with intelligence and courage. A combination of those qualities", he said, "are unconquerable."

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet
Or dims the radiant light
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind;
But each shall seek the common weal—
The good of all mankind

WARSAW

Program planning for the next Institute year will soon be necessary. Some branches leave this wholly to the executive, others ask the members for suggestions before the program is planned. It is the right of any member to suggest even if she is no definitely asked. Naturally, with only twelve meetings in the year, there cannot be too many subjects. However, with careful consideration, two or even more subjects may be taken at one meeting. The roll call is a great help, those branches using it have often found, and a few minutes given to current events is a most helpful and useful number. The department considers a few minutes given to current events one of the strong points.

Miss Emily Guest says that in the Institute more than in any other organization we "are looking for talent that lies hidden in everybody, and we find it." The aims are the education and development of the women themselves, and the development of a sound public opinion. There is no one, no matter how wise, who cannot learn a little more, indeed the wisest are those who feel the need of knowing and understanding more.

The "Ontario Institute movement is founded on the base of healthy branches, which brings us to a consideration of programs, and our old rule of balance, between the cultured, practical and social—something to hear, something to see, something to do," and so concentrate on the study of the human family in the home, the school, the community and urge a church relationship.

It is advised once a year at least to have a short talk and discussion on each Institute activity, whether or not that activity is given an actual place in the branch work. Very few branches are able to, or would be wise to attempt all activities, though they are so interwoven, that one activity comes in touch with another, and when we look over the list—education, health, agriculture, home economics, immigration, legislature, community activities, relief, historical research, Canadian industries and publicity, there is hardly a branch which does not, more or less, deal with each one, even though they have no convener.

It saves time and expense if the branch convener of each committee sends in her annual report to the district convener before the annual meetings, and these same reports are presented at the area conventions.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, April 23. — A good number of members and some visitors attended the much postponed Women's Institute meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Uriah Payne, on Thursday afternoon.

After the regular routine business, the president announced there would be two summer series lectures in East Peterborough, one at Lakefield, and one at Norwood. The one at Norwood on June 22, probably, and that probably Mrs. Lang, Provincial Convenor on Legislation, would be the lecturer. This date and the lecturer are provisional and may possibly be altered.

The play will be given at Hall's Bridge, on May the 3rd.

The Warsaw W. I. annual meeting, will be held on Thursday, May 12, when all reports of the branch will be in. The president asked for a nominating committee, which is composed of Mesdames David Miller, Wallace Anderson, and Theodore Douglas. The Lunch Committee is Mrs. Uriah Payne and Mrs. Arthur Edwards.

Reports Read.

Mrs. Fred Crowe in Current Events, spoke of the cessation of hostilities between China and Japan, Von Hindenberg, the great German war lord, having been re-elected as standing for peace; Great Britain having paid the debt to the U. S. six months before due; the wheat surplus, and the attempts to recover the Lindbergh baby.

Mrs. W. H. Clements gave a report of some relief.

Mrs. Thos. H. Crowe had charge of the program on Agriculture, and introduced it by speaking of the possibilities of a market for garden and dairy produce at the lake; also of more effort being made to beautify the farm homes.

Mrs. Arthur Edwards read a paper prepared by Mrs. J. A. Crowe on Rose culture.

Miss Anna McMurray recited in her own delightful manner "When the Teacher Came to Tea." Mrs. Thomas Cooper gave a splendid paper on "Insects of the Flower Garden," and their control, in which she mentioned several which people often kill, but which are beneficial, among them the lady bug.

Mrs. T. H. Crowe read a paper on Agriculture.

Mrs. E. N McDonald had a paper but was unavoidably absent. Her paper is on Evergreens, Woody Creepers and Climbers, and will be given later.

Word had been received about a cooking class, but as practically all the girls who had formed the junior institute were gone away, some married, the required number could not be guaranteed, so the class could not be held.

Mrs. Weller is willing to work the names on any of the quilt blocks after the ladies have secured the names.

Meeting closed by all repeating the Mizpah benediction.

The hostess, assisted by several of the members, served a delicious lunch, and a very pleasant social half hour was spent. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Payne for her hospitality.

LIFFORD LINE

Helen G. Campbell a popular Institute director gives some helpful rules on "Pastry making."

"Ask any man to name his favorite dessert and the chances are many that he will say "pie."

The making of good pastry is a housewifely art which any woman may master if she is willing to pay the price of strict adherence to a few rules. Little enough, surely, for the royal road to a man's heart.

First of all, be methodical in your preparations, collect all ingredients and utensils, arrange an adequite clear space on which to work and if necessary attend to your oven. In the preliminary stages have everything cold; thorough chilling of ingredients and utensils is one of the secrets of success. The oven, however, should be very hot when the pie is put in as the rapid heating of the dough will tend to make a light, flaky crust.

Ingredients are of the simplest—flour, shortening, salt and water and occasionally a little baking powder. The quality of each should be, above reproach and the right method of combining blending, rolling and baking must be followed.

Pastry flour is preferable, although with extra care it is possible to get good results with an all-purpose type. Shortening should be fresh and firm but not necessarily hard. Have the water ice cold using only enough to blend the other ingredients. Too much liquid is often the besetting sin of even an experienced cook. A soft dough results in a tough pastry. Salt is added for flavor and sometimes a little baking powder to help in producing lightness of the crust.

Correct and accurate measurement is important. Sift the flour once piling it lightly into the cup and then level off evenly and carefully. Be equally exact in measuring shortening for although the proportion of this ingredient may vary according to the richness desired precision is essential to uniformity of results. The correct quantity of water depends on the absorptive power of the flour and the amount of salt governed by the type of shortening.

For one double crust pie the quantities of each ingredient are 1¼ cupfuls of flour, ¼ teaspoonful of salt, ⅓ cupful of shortening and about ¼ cupful of water.

It is important that the two main ingredients, flour and shortening, should be properly mixed. When the shortening is quickly and lightly worked in with the tips of the fingers the mixture should resemble a coarse meal. In rolling use a light pressure and never roll over the edge as this forces out air incorporated in the mixture.

Good pastry is worth the time and effort necessary to master the technique of making it. Careful measuring, mixing, handling and baking at the correct temperature are factors essential to success.

MILLBROOK

"Dainties for the Convalescent" was the topic discussed at a recent Institute gathering, being particularly appropriate in view of the amount of sickness there has been lately, with folk on the way to recovery in practically every home.

Three things to be given attention in the choice of foods for convalescing persons were emphasized by the speaker of the afternoon, namely, personal preference, and whims incident to the weakened condition; the nature of the illness through which the patient has just come; and what the doctor will allow.

"Most invalids crave the citrous fruits, the tartness being what is desired; and it is well for us to remember that these are more palatable to well folk and certainly to those just recovering from illness, if kept on ice, or in some manner as cold as possible, until it is time to serve. We all know that a tepid orange, or a warmish grapefruit, are not appealing, and this is particularly true of a jaded or finnicky appetite. Temperature is also important to make the invalid's tray present a tempting appearance; if things should be hot, have them really hot, and if cold, have them quite cold and served on cold dishes."

Recalling that dietitians have proved that the natural salts and minerals of the citrous fruits have a high vitamine content, and actually assist in the rebuilding of the depleted tissues of the convalescent, the speaker went on to mention the importance of eggs in the diet, and the need of variety in the ways of cooking. "Don't for goodness sake keep offering your sick one soft boiled eggs, or eggs poached on toast, which is the time-honored way of serving; try smothering them in a fluffy omelet, or in nourishing puddings and custards, and in ice-cream which is now allowed to invalids by medical science as a healthful dish."

Some light desserts were given as samples of food to be served to one just recovering from illness, that were copied down in note-books, and would likely appear on the trays of invalids in the various households in the near future.

Fruit Snow sounded quite good: "Beat two eggs whites stiff, add one-quarter cup orange pulp or juice, sweeten with powdered sugar to taste, and continue beating until the mixture will hold its shape. Add, if desired, a few spoonfuls of whipped cream, pile in individual glasses and chill thoroughly before serving."

Golden Gelatine was another that won favor by its 'tasty' sound: Soften two tablespoons (one envelope) of gelatine in one-half cup cold water; add one pint boiling water, and sugar to sweeten (some invalids like things sweeter than others, so you must try and find out individual tastes); add the juice of two lemons and two oranges, pour into a mould, chill and serve. This is particularly rich in vitamines.

A somewhate heavier dessert for one well on the way to recovery is Rice Delight made as follows: One-quarter cup cooked rice, blended in one cup scalded milk, and when soft add three tablespoons sugar, and one egg well beaten. Cook until it begins to thicken, preferably in the double boiler as the mixture burns easily; add flavoring, and one-half cup orange juice and pulp, pouring then into a small mould and chilling. Serve with plain or whipped cream. Besure the rice is thoroughly cooked in the double boiler before starting the pudding.

Golden jelly was recommended as "very good either for children or invalids": Soften two tablespoons gelatine in one-quarter cup cold water, then add two cups boiling water and dissolve; then put in three-quarters cup white sugar, the juice of one lemon and one cup orange juice, and strain through a cloth. Set away to harden, and serve with plain or whipped cream, or even with a soft custard.

CAVAN

At the April meeting of the Cavan Women's Institute, the members were requested to bring seeds or slips of which they might have a surplus.

This has been the custom for several years, and has been found very helpful. This year the membership is larger than it has ever been.

Naturally in so many homes, there will be a great variety of vegetable and flower seeds saved from last season; also many house plants.

Lovers of flowers are always eager to add a new species to their collection, and in the matter of vegetable seeds, it is in the interests of economy to make an exchange.

The material gain is not the only asset at this annual exchange. The interesting discussions relative to the different varieties grown by the members, the methods used to ensure success, and the friendly exchange cultivates the spirit of neighborliness which is always evident in Institute meetings. The well-being of the members of each home represented and the need realized, that vegetables should be grown, to maintain health, and the beautification of the home and grounds, forms a topic of never-failing interest where homemakers are gathered.

"For Home and Country" is our motto, and phases of this subject furnish profitable discussions, even during the social hour, over the tea cups.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Institute members and homemakers are in general interested in gardening at this season of the year and as the warm days begin the attraction of the average housekeeper leads in new ideas for gardening, the following information on "The Perennial Border" will be of real assistance to any who wish to start one of the ever popular perennial borders.

There are fascinations about such a border that are not found in other forms of gardening and the chief of these is watching for and greeting with delight last year's treasures as they spring up one by one after the snow and frost are gone. Some hardy ones even push up their tips through the melting snow and send out their flower buds on the first mild day.

In a small garden there is frequently no choice of position and following the line of the fence is the obvious place. A position in the open away from the roots of trees, is best though shade during pail of the day, is beneficial to some plants. The width of the bed depends on the length and also on the size of the garden. From five to ten feet is generally recommended. The edge should be straight if the lot is small and rectangular, but a curved edge frequently is effective in a larger space. If the ground is of different levels, or if there are any special perennial features, note should be made of them and the border planned to emphasize these points of interest.

When the position is selected, the soil must be considered. As the border is expected to remain for some years the soil must be well prepared. The best way to do this is by trenching in the following manner. Mark off a strip across the bed, about one and one-half feet wide, dig out the soil about the same depth and remove this soil to the end of the bed. Break up the soil at the bottom of the trench, then put in a thick layer of well rotted manure. Cow manure is best for light soils and horse manure for heavy land. Mark off the next strip of ground and fill up the trench with the soil. Continue this process until the end of the bed is reached, when the soil that was removed from the first trench is used to fill up the last one. Many people may not be able to take so much trouble in preparing the bed in which case a heavy covering of the manure should be spread over the surface of the ground and dug in.

Which ever method is chosen the work is much better done in the fall and the soil left rough so that it will benefit as much as possible from the action of the winter weather. In the spring heavy soils should be given a dressing of hydrated lime and then dug and forked well to get the surface into good condition for planting. The lime tends to lighten the soil. Lime should also be applied on soils that are inclined to be acid and the surface worked up and levelled before planting.

If it is decided to have a border with a straight edge, a line the required length should be fastened to two strong wooden stakes and stretched, a drill can be marked out along the cord or the line can be left in position. When the edge is to be curved, the desired shape should be marked out with labels and the cord guided around these.

The time to plant perennials depends a great deal on the species. Bulbs must be planted in the fall, October is, no doubt the best month, or at least, four weeks before the freeze up. As a general rule spring-flowering plants should be planted in early fall and fall-flowering ones in early spring, although they can be successfully planted at other seasons. When one wants to move a plant in active growth, if the earth is dry, soak it well, then dig up the plant, taking care that a quantity of soil is left around the roots. Make the new hole large enough to take in all the roots and if the soil is dry, fill the hole with water, let it drain away, then put in your plant, being careful to firm the soil well all around. Great care must be taken that the plant does not dry out until the roots have fixed themselves in the new position.

If the weather is hot the plant should be shaded for a few days. The points to remember when planting are few but important. The hole must be deep and wide enough to take in all the roots without crowding them. The crown, that is the point where the stems and roots join, should be just below the surface of the soil and the earth must be made very firm around the roots. A good way to test this is to take hold of the stems of the plant and see if it can be moved by a gentle pull. If the earth is not packed around the roots, air spaces are left and the root may dry out and die.

"No repairs in 22 years," says home owner

"Visitors are delighted with the noiseless operation of my doors," says a home owner of Monongah, West Virginia. "The locks and hinges have been in active service 22 years, and during this time I haven't spent a cent for repairs. I've never used anything but 3-in-One Oil."

Many housewives who pride themselves on the spotless appearance of their homes are careless about the lubrication of hinges and locks. Try a few drops of 3-in-One Oil today and see how quickly it brings out rust, dirt and squeaks. For 3-in-One, a blend of animal, mineral and vegetable oils, is distinctly different from ordinary oil: it cleans and protects as well as lubricates.

For 35 years 3-in-One has been recognized as the best oil for sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, hinges and general household lubrication. Insist on 3-in-One Oil. At good stores everywhere. For your protection look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.

President: Mrs. Joseph Greenly.
First Vice: Mrs. Lorne Hutchinson.
Second Vice: Mrs. Frank Bowen.
Sec.-Treas.: Mrs. James H. Black.
District Director: Mrs. George Walker

HAVELOCK TEACHERS' BONUSES TURNED OVER TO RELIEF WORK

Extra $5 Salary Was Paid to Increase School Grants Board is Informed.

INSPECTOR PLEASED.

HAVELOCK, April 23. (Examiner Correspondence). "What the people don't know won't hurt them" were the words used by trustee Alex Leeson at the regular meeting of the school board, held in the school last night. Mr. Leeson was referring to the bonuses of five of the public school teachers recently, in order to obtain larger grants from the Provincial government. These are based on the proportion of salaries paid to the amount of the county equivalent.

All the members were present except Trustee Post. Chairman F. J. Squires presided.

Principal G. F. Coates of the Continuation School addressed the board and reported the wiring in the basement had been completed and a permanent installation made for the rifle ranges. He also said that a satisfactory job had been done by the workmen in repairing the slate on the north side of form one.

Mr. S. S. Joyce addressed the meeting and asked for the renewal of the three insurance policies that he holds for the school. These were dealt with later and all renewed. Fred McAdam waited on the board in reference to the removal of the ashes from the school yard. He offered to remove all the ashes and a load of other refuse at the north side of the school for the sum of four dollars. Mr. Leeson was in favur of leaving this matter until a later date, saying that the people are saying: "that McAdam has too many jobs now, while some haven't any." On motion of Ketchen and Crawford, Mr. McAdam's offer was accepted.

Mr. Yuill, principal of the Public School reported that he had offered some maps that had been recommended and had divided the primer class as suggested by Leo. Copp, I.P.S. One half of the class attend in the morning from nine until eleven forty-five. The second half attend in the afternoon from one thirty to three forty-five. He also said the five teachers receiving the five dollar bonus each, had turned them over to the secretary of the relief committee. Miss Massie is absent on account of illness and Mrs. C. Hubbel has been engaged until her return. The principal said that since the board was contemplating adjusting the teacher's salaries that it was advisable for the board to arrange a meeting with the staff sometime before the May meeting.

Troublesome Floor

The following correspondence was read: A letter from the Trenco Mfg. Co. in connection with that very troublesome floor in the basement of the school. Their representative had inspected the floor and reported that it required just forty more gallons of the mulsamastic treatment. The cost is $1.35 a gallon and they said they would come half way and give the board a 50% reduction. They suggested having an expert do the work. All enormous amount has already been expended by the board for the floor and it looks as though they are not yet through with it. Mr. Leeson said an expert should have been engaged last Fall in place of the carpenter who did the work.

After considerable discussion the following motion by trustees Smith and Ketchen, carried:

"That the offer of the Trenco Mfg. Co be amended to read that the board was willing to pay for twenty gallons of the mulsamastic treatment, f.o.b. Havelock and also pay for the necessary sand and labour, also that the company supply the balance of the material and the services of their expert, Mr. Goodfellow, who they recommended. If this is acceptable to them they may start the work early in July.

A letter from the Ontario Ratepayers and Trustees Association acknowledged the board's membership fees and enclosed a rebate of $5.00. This was a surplus left over from the board's payment. The correspondence as read was ordered filed on motion of trustees Crawford and Ketchen.

Board Complimented

An extract from the report of Inspector Hoag of the continuation school was the best report on the school that has been seen for a long time. The newly installed system was a great asset to the accommodations and the inspector highly complimented the board on its installation. The work of the janitor was above the average and the teaching methods employed were satisfactory.

The lecture hall method is used extensively and the teachers have a tendency to tell too much and not ask the pupils enough questions. He found fault with the students for their inability to adequately express themselves. Inspectors throughout the province are all bringing this fault to light. When asked a question they don't answer in a clear concise manner, but in short incomplete sentences. The rooms are bright, clean and cheery. The condition of the building is a credit to the janitor and to the community. He recommended that Bibles should be on the desk in each room and the opening exercises commence with a reading of the sacred Scripture. The board was of the same opinion as the inspector in this respect and Bibles will be procured and used.

Mr. Copp's report on the public school was then read and was very similar in most respects regarding equipment and accommodation. The teachers all appear to be doing excellent work and the school in fine condition.

Altogether the reports of both inspectors were most favourable and encouraging.

Teachers' Bonuses

It was at this juncture that the question of bonuses was brought up. All the teachers in the public school with the exception of Miss Inkster, who is already receiving a larger salary than the four lady teachers in the school, were given a bonus of five dollars. This was to bring the salaries up to where they would increase the grants. The teachers have all turned these over to the relief committee to be spent on relief in the village.

Trustee Leeson then said that it was not wise to publish the news of the teachers' bonuses. "What they don't know won't hurt them" were the words he used. Mr. Crawford thought they should be told why the bonuses were given so there would be no misunderstanding.

Mr. Leeson then asked what could be done to change the method of sending out the school board's cheques. He was referring to a cheque in favour of the Trustees and Ratepayers Association that had been returned by the bank for the signature of the chairman, Mr. Squires. A motion by Mr. Leeson and seconded by trustee Smith "that the motion requiring the signature of the chairman as well as the secretary-treasurer on all cheques be rescinded and a copy of the resolution permitting the treasurer to sign alone be sent to the bank." Trustee Crawford then asked if the chairman's signature had been appearing on all the salary cheques. His query was answered by the chairman in the affirmative. Mr. Crawford then moved an amendment that they continue as they have been doing and not permit the secretary to sign salary cheques alone. The motion carried three votes to one, Crawford only dissenting.

The following accounts were read and ordered paid on motion of Smith and Crawford: R. Buchanan, repairs to pump, 50c; A. E. Wilson, repairs to belt, 65c; P. Yuill, supplies, maps, etc., $7.17; H. Yeo, work on black-board, $5.20; Hydro light bill for the school proper, $7.04; light bill for the pumping, $9.40; F. J. Squires & Son, 30 gallons of oil dressing for floors, $22.90; E. Armson, 5 hours work on pump, $2.50; repairs in cellar, five hours work, $2.50; The Northern Insurance Co., $1,500 policy, premium, $21; General Accident Insurance Co., $1,000 policy, premium $16; Caledonian Insurance Co., $1,400 policy, premium, $19.60; Guardian Insurance Co., $2,000 policy, premium $28; Commercial Insurance Co., $3,000 policy, premium, $42.

On motion of trustees Crawford and Smith the meeting adjourned until the third Thursday in May or at the call of the chair.

A delegation from Central Home and School Association waited upon the pupils of Miss Doughty's room on Friday afternoon and gave them a treat of ice cream and fancy biscuits, this being the award promised the room having the largest amount of paper in the recent collection. The pupils of Central School made a splendid response, and this collection was a real success as over eight tons of paper were collected. Master Donald Fair, on behalf of his class, thanked the ladies for the treat in a neat little speech, and asked the class to give a hearty cheer, to which they responded.

A delightful dinner was held last night in the Elite Court by the Ladies Liberal Association in honor of Miss E. Lillian Mowat, president of the Women's Liberal Association of Kingston and vice president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association. Miss Mowat is a niece of the late Sir Oliver Mowat and a sister of Judge Mowat. The tables were prettily arranged with vases of daffodils, narcissus and pink and mauve sweet peas and pink candles in low silver holders. The walls were draped with large Union Jacks, kindly loaned by the Canadian Department Stores, and on the side walls were hung two splendid framed pictures of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Rt Hon. Mackenzie King, which were presented to the local Ladies Association by Dr. J. J. Craig, president of the Men's Liberal Club. The gift was acknowledged by a hearty clapping of hands, after being announced by the president, Mrs B. F. McNeely, who was in charge of arrangements for dinner. Seated at the head table were Miss Mowat, Mrs. B. F. McNeely, Mr. M. F. Hepburn, M.P., of Ottawa, the Hon. Ian Mackenzie, M.P., of Ottawa, the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., Mr. J. J. Duffus, the Hon. Nelson Parliament of Toronto, Mr. W. A. Fraser, M.P., of Belleville and Mr. G. H. Holton of Belleville. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. W. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dewart, Mrs. Brueston of Toronto, Mrs. J. Mackness, Mrs. E. A. Grose, Mrs. J. D. Deyell, Mrs. A. O'Grady, Mrs. D. Halton, Mrs. Paquette, Mrs. F. Byers, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. M. Copson, Mrs J. Brady, Mrs. M. Burnley, Mrs. P. J. Doris, Mrs. K. Braund, Miss Nellie Brady, Messrs. W. F. Huycke, R. Goring, H. Martin, Jas. Ellis, Raymond Paquette, W. Rudkins, Mr. Tanner of Lakefield and Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield. The toast to the King was proposed by Mr. J. J. Duffus and was responded to by the singing of the National Anthem.

FASHION SERVICE

The smartest Paris houses favor the printed crepe silk dress of spectator sports character.

Note the clever diagonal lines of the bodice closing in this youthful model. The skirt gives rather a straight slender appearance cut in gores that are slightly circular toward the hem. It produces a flat long line, much appreciated these days, when slenderness is so important.

Sheer woolens and plain and crinkle crepe silk are also nice mediums for this simple day dress.

Style No. 2656 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with 1⅛ yards of binding.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Soft effects are being featured today in interior decoration more than they have been for nearly or quite a generation.

• • • • • • •

We have become well accustomed to wall hangings instead of pictures as ornaments. It is interesting to note that this revival was coincident with the peculiar type of paintings called modernistic.

• • • • • • •

Handsome hangings evidently appealed to decorators and owners of homes as more artistically pleasing than lopsided houses, trees of any verbage for leaves, human figures of distorted proportions, etc.

• • • • • • •

Hangings mellow the austerity of walls. Moreover it is quite within the province of the homemaker to work beautiful hangings for her house.

• • • • • • •

Another instance of the return of soft effects in decoration is noticed in dresser and bureau sets. No longer are these given the hard finish of plate glass covering.

• • • • • • •

The sets themselves top the furniture and many of these have fluted edges or lace edged ruffles.

• • • • • • •

And speaking of lace it certainly is in evidence in rooms to-day. Its beautiful softness lends charm to dining room tables and sideboards.

• • • • • • •

And spreads of heavy or sheer patterned lace often of real lace, give a luxurious daintiness to beds and pillow covers. Windows, too come in for their share of exquisite handmade lace curtains to vie with plain net.

• • • • • • •

From the point of view of softness, lace holds the highest place in this modern decoration.

• • • • • • •

A striking note is sounded in the revival of textile trimmed boudoir furniture. It has been many a long day since this furniture flaunted this particular style of softened beauty.

• • • • • • •

Fascinating dressing tables have padded tops covered with lace or net over silks and satin, with full frills of the same down sides and fronts.

• • • • • • •

Or it may be that glazed or unglazed chintz fulfils this same mission of softening furniture. Cretonnes, hand-blocked linens, silks and textiles in variety have their place in this revived type of furniture upholstery.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

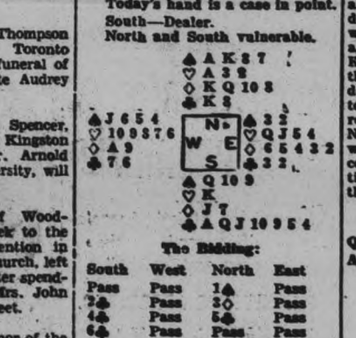
TIME VERSUS THE ACE

An Ace is a common measuring stick to determine trick-taking power and all writers on Bridge correctly say that an Ace is worth a trick. There is, however, one important qualification of this statement and that is that the Ace must take the trick before it comes in contact with the time element which is one of the most important factors in the game of Contract Bridge.

Today's hand is a case in point.

South—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♣	Pass	3◇	Pass
4♣	Pass	5♣	Pass
6♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding requires no particular comment. North has a very strong hand in honor-tricks and South has exceptional strength from the distributional standpoint. The combination of the two should produce game, or in exceptional cases even Slam. The Slam was properly contracted for.

West decided that his Ace was good for a trick any time and selected the top of his heart holding as the means for seeking the trick with which to defeat South's ambitious contract. South, of course, won this trick with his Singleton King and then proceeded to draw six rounds of trumps. West discarded three hearts and one diamond, leaving the Ace bare. He knew nothing about the location of the spades, hence felt it was essential to retain the four spades to the Knave. In the meantime all Dummy's diamonds had been discarded. Before selecting another discard from the Dummy, South decided to discard himself, so the nine of spades was led and won in the Dummy. The Ace of hearts was then led and the small diamond discarded in the closed hand. South now returned to his own hand with the Queen of spades and West's decision that he must retain the Knave of spades was confirmed as it was apparent that South must hold another spade. South now laid down his last trump and West was hopelessly squeezed. Hoping against hope that East held the Knave of diamonds, he discarded the Ace, whereupon South laid down the Knave of diamonds and took the thirteenth trick with the remaining spade honor in the North hand. While West's Ace was worth a trick once, it had to contend against the barrier of time which in the later play of the hand proved insuperable.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: Name the Forcing bids.

Answer:

1. An Opening bid of two in a suit except when but 2 tricks are needed for game.
2. Then with Slam strength bid three if wishing partner to respond.
3. A Jump response in a different suit.
4. An Overcall in opponents' suit.
5. A Takeout Double.
6. A Jump Rebid in another suit.

She will continue to represent England in many coming tennis tournaments, including the international competition at Wimbledon.

CAN YOUR GOLDFISH WHISTLE OR DO THEY ONLY CLIMB TREES?

One Variety Even Carries Around a Six-Shooter in His Mouth.

SCIENCE REPORTS

(Special to The Examiner)

VICTORIA, B. C., April 23. — (SNS).—Have you trained your goldfish to whistle yet?

If not you can secure a little more hope and perhaps derive a little more patience by perusing the report of J. P. Babcock, deputy commissioner of fisheries for British Columbia, who has just revealed all the oddities in the world are not in a circus.

According to Mr. Babcock, there are fish that can hop, skip and jump. Others can talk and still others arm themselves with flashlights around with them and still others arm themselves with a marine revolver with which to slay their enemies. And then there is the variety that is more merciful and puts an end to its foe by electrocuting them with a charge sufficient to give an adult a considerable jolt.

All these interesting items are contained in a report made public by Mr. Babcock. So far 17,000 varieties of fish have been classified, and a study of their life and history reveals that fish far predates animals and other living things.

It apparently is a misnomer to say "like a fish out of water," for fish breath air just like human beings, Mr. Babcock declares. There are several types that can stay out of water for a considerable time, including the mud-skipper, which quite frequently comes out to bask in the sun.

Carry Guns.

The archer fish carry guns in their mouths with which they shoot flies with squirts of water very much like a young boy would play a prank on his sister with a water pistol.

Mr. Babcock in his report tells of fish that go on an all-winter diet and eat nothing during that period, while other fishes can swallow things bigger than themselves, very much like a snake.

Some fish are quite venemous, having poisonous spines and sometimes poisonous darts, while others are electrically charged, in some cases sufficiently charged to knock down a man. Others carry lights.

Strange as it may seem, some fish can make a distinct gurgling sound so that there is still hope of training one's goldfish to talk. Mr. Babcock gives an interesting account of fishes' internal ears and their keen sense of smell. Some species are particularly sensitive to the smell of blood.

There is also a serious menace to cock fighting from the colony of Siamese fighting fish. It is quite common in Siam, Mr. Babcock revealed, to charge admission to see fish fights.

The tale of strange fish is almost interminable, but probably the strangest of all is the one about the fish that hibernates in summer by burying itself in a mud bank until winter comes in a similar manner as the bear which hibernates for the winter. There also are fish that can be frozen in ice for several weeks without dying. But this latter tale is quite common because most people who have goldfish know what it is to thaw out their pets after a night when the temperature has been probably forty below.

On the whole the tales are quite fishy, but nevertheless true.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

SORE THROATS AND RHEUMATISM.

Physicians are now of the opinion that just as shortness of breath may be a symptom of a defective heart, so also is rheumatism just a symptom, not a disease in itself. Dr. J. D. Hindley-Smith, London, England, during the past three years has carefully analyzed 500 cases in which chronic rheumatism was a prominent symptom. He found that in about 75 per cent of the cases the rheumatism was due to organisms affecting the throat. The evidence indicates that most of these throat cases begin in childhood between the ages of three and six. The affection appears to begin first in the throat, with sore throats, infected tonsils, and so on. A secondary stage with general disturbances throughout the body, affecting the blood, heart, and nervous system, occurs at the age of nine to fourteen. Later in life a third stage occurs which causes chronic rheumatism, and deposits about, or enlargements of, the joints.

There is no clear interval between these stages as in some other ailments, but each stage can always be recognized in the history of each case, and in each successive stage the throat symptoms, while not so noticeable to the patient and doctor, have just as severe effect as ever.

The thought then is that if so very many cases with rheumatic symptoms are definitely due to sore throat, as every attack of rheumatism actually follows these throat conditions, that the prevention of rheumatic attacks and the heart ailments that follow them, should be our first thought.

This means that sore throats should be treated early—by first clearing the intestine and then using antiseptic throat solutions twice a day. The use of antiseptics on healthy throats is not advisable, although the use of a mild antiseptic once a day where the individual may be exposed to cases of colds or sore throats, is good sense.

Where the tonsils are inflamed in youngsters it is not advisable to have them removed at the time, nor should they be removed after one attack of tonsilitis if they again become healthy in appearance.

Tonsils should not be retained where there are repeated attacks of tonsilitis because tonsilitis causes rheumatism, and rheumatism causes heart disease.

COUNCIL OF WOMEN CONCLUDE SEASON

Mrs. J. A. McKone Speaks on C.G.I.T. Work.

At the regular meeting of the Local Council of Women, on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. J. A. McKone spoke on work done by the groups interested in Canadian Girls in Training.

Her address, which emphasized the need of more tolerance and understanding in relation to young people and their problems, was very much appreciated by the ladies.

Mrs. T. W. H. Young presided for this, the last regular meeting until the Fall season.

After the regular business was disposed of, the treasurer, Mrs. E. Wand, announced that funds are very low and that even a society such as the Local Council, which does not attemot to garner money, must have some means in order to carry on.

It was decided to hold a tea in the Y.W.C.A. on May 12th, when it is hoped that all the affiliated societies will unite to make it a success.

More than $1,000,000 was raised for highways in Brazil last year through a surtax on the importation of automotive vehicles, tires, parts and accessories.

Handy Recipes

By Edith Barber

SPANISH RICE

1 cup rice
4 tablespoons bacon fat or olive oil
5 onions, chopped
2 cloves garlic
2 cups strained tomatoes or 3 ripe tomatoes
1 red or green pepper, chopped
2 teaspoons salt.

Wash rice, place in frying pan with fat, add onion and garlic, minced fine. Let fry ten minutes, add rest of the ingredients and one cup water, cook slowly about one hour and as water evaporates add more to keep it from burning, until rice is tender. The garlic may be omitted.

OLD-FASHIONED RICE PUDDING

4 cups milk
¼ cup rice
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
Nutmeg.

Wash the rice, mix it with the other ingredients, and pour into a buttered baking dish. Bake two hours in a very slow oven (275 degrees Fahrenheit), stirring at least three times during the first hour to break the crust which will form. One-half cup of raisins may be added when the pudding is mixed. Serve very cold.

RICE AND MEAT CROQUETTES

1 cup boiled rice
1 cup finely chopped meat
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon onion juice
Pepper
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup milk
1 egg.

Scald milk; add meat, rice and seasoning and beat. Add egg, well beaten; stir one minute. After cooling, shape, dip in egg and crumbs, fry in boiling fat.

YPRES DINNER AT ARMORIES

Red Patch Club Re-union on Seventeenth Anniversary of Battle.

COL. McLAUGHLIN HERE.

Eighty members of the Red Patch Club sat down to their annual dinner in the Recreation Room of the Armouries last night in the most successful re-union of these First Division veterans since the club was organized. It was held on the occasion of the seventeenth anniversary of the Battle of Ypres, where the gallant Canadians saved the day against overwhelming numbers of Germans who released deadly gas for the first time in a futile attempt to drive back the heroic defenders.

Colonel L. T. McLaughlin, C.M.G., D.S.O. and Bar, who for more than two years commanded the Second Battalion in France, was the guest of honor last night, with other distinguished guests being Lieut.-Colonel D. Lawrie, Lieut.-Colonel C. Ackerman, Lieut.-Colonel E. Wood, Major C. Stuart, and Mr. A. E. Everett, president of the Canadian Legion (local branch).

Major H. K. Clifton, M.C., Med. Militaire, was toastmaster, and called upon Lieut.-Colonel Lawrie to toast "The First Canadian Division,' following the King's toast. This he did in impressive order, and it was ably responded to by Colonel McLaughlin. Other toasts were: "To the Empire," "Fallen Comrades,' 'and "Our Guests" Lieut.-Colonel Ackerman, in reply to the toast "The Empire," concluded his stirring speech by saying he hoped that all the nations of the British Commonwealth would get behind the Empire and work for her at the Ottawa Conference in July as they did during the World War.

There were several other notable addresses by officers and a number of fine solo efforts by well-known entertainers. Herb. McCannan and his instrumental trio proved very popular with song and music. Jack Smith and the inimitable Bob Hendry were fine with their solos and recitations, while E. Cutmore's "In the Old Town Hall" brought down the house.

Later in the evening old-time comrades-in-arms gathered in knots about the large room in reminiscent mood, speaking of Ypres, Verdun, and Vimy, their thoughts winding backtrail to those years which will never be forgotten—1914-15-16-17-18. The Red Patch Club re-union last night was generally believed to have been the most successful and enjoyable since the inception of this organization.

DISLIKING LAW MANY GOOD MEN MAKE WRITERS

Adrian Macdonald Addresses the Women's Art Association.

FINAL MEETING OF SEASON.

John Galsworthy and Forsyth Saga Subjects of Address.

"It is amazing how many writers started as lawyers,—then, disliking it—turned to writing. Thomas Hardy is one notable exception. He commenced as an architect."

Adrian Macdonald of the staff of the Normal School, spoke on John Galsworthy and the Forsyth Saga, at the final scheduled meeting for this year of the Lyceum Women's Art Association, held yesterday afternoon in the studios of the Conservatory of Music, with a good attendance.

It was a very interesting address, delivered in the manner characteristic of Mr. Macdonald, who seems to be poking a little sly fun at his subject, as he outlines it, a manner which he declares is characteristic of Jane Austen, who was one of the first English authors to write a realistic novel.

Sir Walter Scott, the great romanticist, was interested in the adventures of his characters, in the complexities of their lives and in the glamor of the past. Jane Austen, on the contrary, inclined to the realistic type of writing, which presents in detail the characteristics of the people in her books.

Galsworthy, declared Mr. Macdonald, is thoroughly in the tradition which Jane Austen established, with a detached point of view which causes many to dislike him, writing always as an observer who stands back and looks, analyzes and examines and evaluates. Jane Austen poked sly fun at her people, but, although Galsworthy has a sense of humor, it is not his outstanding characteristic as a writer.

Galsworthy's personality never obtrudes itself on the notice of the reader, as did the personality of Robert Louis Stevenson, permeating all his work. One does not, as in the case of R.L.S., wish to know more about the author. One is never curious about the man himself.

Disliked the Law

The descendant of an English family that was always well to do, without any great wealth, "the type of family stock that has learned that money is an opportunity for work, rather than for the giving up of all effort," John Galsworthy was a student at Harrow and a graduate of Oxford, in law. He says that "he read in various chambers, practised hardly at all and disliked the profession heartily."

After travelling about the world, he returned to England to write and has continued to do so for the past year, producing plays, in which he made his initial success, also novels and short stories.

In his plays, he worked more for social reformation than for art. Yeats said of him that he had "sold his birthright for a pot of message." But his later novels contradicted this tendency entirely, proving to be extremely artistic productions.

"The six volumes of the 'Forsyth Saga'," said Mr. Macdonald, "are unlike anything yet written in any language. They follow the fortunes of the same family through two or three generations, although, when Galsworthy wrote the first novel of the series, "A Man of Property," he had no intention of continuing with such a lengthy series. The possibilities of the theme grew and expanded as time went on."

This series pictures the England of the Victorian era and progresses to the England of modern times. The Forsythe were a typical family of that period, animated by a tremendous sense of the value of property. The Victorian era, with its solidity, its sense of security, its worship of wealth and property and of the things which stand for stability, has its contrasting treatment in the modern post-war period, pictured by Galsworthy as a rather crack-brained epoch, when the spirit of former days is dissipated and broken up in the hurly-burly of life as it is lived to-day.

"But one has the feeling that Galsworthy has not comprehended the inner feeling of modern life, the feeling of idealism."

Mr. Macdonald read several snatches from the series; the preliminary description of the funeral of Queen Victoria in the novel entitled "In Chancery," a little bit from "The Silver Spoon," and that enchantingly worded description in another of the books, which deals with the death of the old man, sitting in the sunlight waiting for a visit from the lovely Irene.

The first three novels of the series are called the "Forsythe Saga," while the last three are entitled "The Modern Comedy," with no continuity in their sequence.

Mr. Macdonald described Galsworthy's style as "the best novel style in modern English—simple, limpid and clear."

A sincere expression of appreciation to the speaker was voiced by the president of the association, Mrs. W. Blackwell, who presided and made the opening announcements. Tea was served at the conclusion of the address.

Cantrell Slugs Leafs to 3-2 Win Over Orioles

GUY CANTRELL HOLDS ORIOLES TO 5 SAFETIES

Toronto Hurler Hits Double and Homer to Score Winning Runs.

ROYALS BEAT BEARS 3-2.

Curly Ogden Pitches Skeeters to 3-1 Victory Over Buffalo Club.

BALTIMORE, April 23.— Opening a five-game series with a 3-to-2 victory which ended with Oriole runners crowding the bases, the Leafs were outhit by the Birds yesterday afternoon, 7 safeties to 5, but packed a winning punch, due to the lusty bat swung by pitcher Guy Cantrell.

Cantrell, who once upon a time wore Oriole livery, was both the hero and the near-villain of the game. For eight innings he stood the Birds on their individual and collective heads, exploded in the ninth by walking Linton, who batted for Holloway, and Bill Regan, who had replaced Packard at third when Boyle retired and Packard went to right field.

When Heffner sacrificed both runners along, Manager Daly waved Cantrell out and Lefty Milligan went out to the hill. Milligan's tenure of office was brief, for he filled the bases by walking Jordan on four successive balls. That was enough for that particular southpaw, and big Frank Barnes, another portsider, took up the burden. Ariett grounded to Michaels and Ray Walker, who was running for Linton, was out at the plate. Barnes walked McGowan, forcing in Regan, but Packard's hot grounder was speared by Owen, who tossed to Morehart, retiring McGowan for the final out.

Cantrell's Hitting Features.

However, Cantrell's lapse to wildness can be excused in light of the Leafs triumph, for his double to left in the fifth scored R. Smith and his homer over the centrefield fence in the eighth with none on was the margin of victory. Cantrell fanned seven and walked six, his fast breaking hook proving an enigma to the Orioles.

Ken Holloway, veteran righthander, deserved a better fate, for he passed but one batter, while allowing but five hits. The Leafs played good ball, despite errors by Morehart and Owen.

OGDEN HOLDS BISONS.

Curly Ogden of Jersey City, turned in the best performance when he held the hard-hitting Bufallo Bisons to four hits and won 3-1. Only Buck Crouse's eighth inning home run prevented a Buffalo shut-out. Jersey City made only six safeties off Joe Bloomer, but produced them when they were most needed.

Rochester made use of five hits off Clayt Van Alstyne and beat Reading, 6-5. George Puccinelli's home run with two on in the fourth produced three runs and three more came across in the seventh. Ray Star was nicked for eight bingles, but was tight in the pinches.

Harry Holsclaw, bidding for his third straight victory, walked Doc Gautreau with the bases filled in the eleventh inning nad Montreal beat Newark, 3-2. It was a well pitched game in which Walter Brown had slightly the better of a duel with Holsclaw.

The defeat of both Buffalo and Newark left these two clubs in a tie for the lead with seven victories and three defeats. Rochester stands third and Jersey City fourth, the other four clubs being in a deadlock for fifth place with four wins and six defeats.

U.S. TENNIS STARS LOSE SEMI-FINAL

Rainville and McCauliff Defeat Allison and Van Ryan.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 23.—Major upset of the Mason and Dixon tennis championships came about yesterday in the semi-final round when Marcel Rainville of Montreal and Dr. Eugene McCauliff of Yonkers, N. Y., defeated Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, United States Davis Cup pair, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Playing together as a team for the first time this week, the Canadian Davis Cup star and the Yonkers physician furnished thrills for a surprised gallery, as they outplayed their highly touted opponents after dropping the first set.

Ellsworth, Vines and Frank Shields, other United States Davis Cup players, advanced to the finals by defeating J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N.J., and Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., 6-2, 5-7, 7-5.

Allison, originally selected to play only in the doubles on the United States Davis Cup team, today made a strong bid for the No. 2 singles berth when he defeated his teammate and chief rival for the honor, Frank Shields, in the semi-final round of the singles.

Vines gained the singles final round with a straight set victory over McCauliff by 8-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, me calling the A's and the Cards to cop the 2 big league penants seems to be poison to both Mister Connie Mack's talent and to Mister Gabby Street's lads, because to-day (Thursday) both of them is looking up at nearly all the teams in their loops. The A's has lost 3 games in a row and the Cards 5, which ain't exactly what you'd call a championship pace. With the Mackmen the trouble seems to be so far that they ain't got enough 1st string pitchers, and after Mister Grove and Mister Earnshaw has worked they ain't nobody to be relied on much. And when it comes to them larruping Yanks, not even Big Jarge or Left seems able to stop 'em. Some of the American L. teams is playing over their heads right now, however, and it wont' be long before the race will settle down into a 3-cornered scrap between the Yanks, the A's and the Senators, all of which has plenty of batting power, and it will get down to a question of which outfit will show the most pitching skill. Just at present the Yanks have the edge at least over the Mackmen, for this here Mister Gomez can lay the A's like a carpet, while, on the other hand, none of Mister Mack's heavers seem to have what it takes to tie up the Yankee bats. But over the long campaign Mister Grove and Mister Earnshaw may repeat their 1931 performance and pitch the White Elephants, as I used to call the Athaletics, into their 4th pennant in a row.

In the National, Mac, the Cards is too good a ball club to be down where they are. Right now their pitchers ain't clicking, but when they level away and the Street machine gets momentum I think you'll find that St. Louis outfit crashing its way to the top of the heap before long. The season is too young yet to say either the Cards or the A's is through.

Well, old-timer, outside of some ball training the chief local sporting excitement is the box fights which is being pulled off every few nights and providing plenty of entertainment for good-sized crowds. What with 3 local boxing clubs they ain't no lack of promoters, and some good boys is being developed, mostly on the lines that the best defence is a strong offensive. The fight fans and often the judges seem to favor that principle, and the lad who swings the oftenest gets the call usually, whether his punches land or is blocked. The bird who goes in swinging may absorb a couple on the way in and then get tied up by a clever defensive boxer, but evidently the score is being kept on the number of swings rather than on the points registered, for the crowding style nearly always gets the verdict. That's all right here on the home lot, but if the local talent wants to get anywhere in the boxing game they better pay a little attention to their footwork and their defence. Wide-open stuff ain't likely to win many provincial championships when you're stacked up against birds that can hit just as hard and at the same time know how to keep covered up.

Well, that's enough for this week. We'll have some baseball soon, eh Mac?

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

TROJANS TRIUMPH OVER ALUMNI FIVE

Saint John Cage Team Wins Eastern Canada Honors.

SAINT JOHN, N.B., April 23. — Overcoming a handicap of ten points against them as a result of the first game Thursday night, Saint John Trojans fought gamely last night to win their second match with Windsor-Walkerville Alumni, 47 to 28, and take the round for the senior Eastern Canadian basketball championship by total points of 65 to 56. As a result, Trojans will meet Winnipeg Toilers here for the Dominion title.

The score at the end of the first half last night was 22 to 14, in favor of Saint John. Needing only two points to even the count for the round, Trojans renewed their efforts against the Ontario champions and left no doubt as to the decisiveness of the victory.

BATTLING BOSTON BRAVES TAKE FIRMER GRIP ON FIRST PLACE

Brown, Rookie Righthander, Makes Major Debut by Holding Dodgers 4-1.

GIANTS WIN 3RD STRAIGHT.

BY GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The critics who claimed the New York Giants couldn't possibly be as bad as they looked in dropping five of their first six games have been well borne out by the manner in which the McGrawmen have ripped into the Phillie the last three days.

From a team that couldn't do anything right and did it often, the Giants have begun to display the form that featured their exhibition games and established them among the favorites in the National League race. Three straight victories over the Phils, all of them featured by the vicious slugging of Bill Terry and company, have boosted the team from last place into a tie for fifth.

Big Star of Game

Terry has had a big part in the uprising. In the last four days the big first baseman from Memphis has clubbed six homeruns, tying the major league record for circuit blows over that period, and has led his mates in driving in runs. He got No. 6 yesterday to help down the Phils, 13-8, in a hitting bee. Seven pitchers paraded, four of them for the losers.

The battling Boston Braves took a firmer grip on first place, winning their fourth straight when Bobby Brown, rookie righthander from Binghamton, made his major league debut by setting Brooklyn down, 4-1, on five hits. The victory may have proved costly, however, as Art Shires was knocked unconscious in a collision with Joe Stripp at first base and might be out of the line-up for a time.

Thanks largely to four errors by their opponents, the St. Louis Cardinals broke a six-game losing streak with a 5-3 win over Pittsburgh in 10 innings. Lloyd Waner's muff of Bottomley's short fly provided the champions with the winning run in the extra frame.

Strengthen Hold

Rogers Hornsby's Chicago Cubs strengthened their griup on second place with their second straight over the slipping Reds, 5-4. They grouped seven of their eight hits in the first three innings off Larry Benton.

Whitlow Wyatt, Detroit's sensational rookie, scored his third victory in as many starts as the Tigers rolled up a 16-3 decision over the Cleveland Indians. Five Indian flingers gave up 22 hits, including homeruns by Wyatt and Stone. The triumph put the Tigers further in front of the American league field, their closest rivals being idle for the day.

Sam Gray was called upon to quell a ninth inning rally and give the St. Louis Browns a 4-1 win over Chicago's White Sox. Dick Coffman held the Sox well in hand the first eight frames.

Four other American League clubs were not scheduled.

Yesterday's Stars

Whitlow Wyatt, Tigers—Pitched effectively against the Indians and collected double, home run and two singles himself.

Bob Brown, Braves — Beat Dodgers and Dazzy Vance, 4-1, giving up only five hits.

Bill Terry, Giants — Clouted sixth homer in four games against Phillies.

Frank Frisch, Cardinals—His three singles helped beat Pirates.

Oscar Melillo, Browns—Cracked home with one on against White Sox.

Riggs Stephenson, Cubs — Continued his powerful batting with three hits against Reds.

SPORTS BODY IS ORGANIZED

Thomasburg Athletic Association to Sponsor Horseshoe Pitching and Softball.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

THOMASBURG, Apr. 23 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Thursday evening, April 14th at 8.15 p.m. some twenty citizens gathered in the I.O.O.F. hall with the object of forming a club for the coming season's sports. The meeting called to order by Mr. Flatt and business got under way.

After addressing the citizens Mr. Flatt, briefly stating what he thought was generally required the club was formed, the following being named were decided on:

Moved by W. Harrison and seconded by Gerald Reid the club be called "Thomasburg Athletic Association" and that for the time being only horse shoes and softball be discussed, carried.

The following officers were elected for the association: president, Lewis Morton; secretary, Earl Bateman. Mr. Elliott declined to act and Earl Bateman was the unanimous choice; treasurer, Melbourne Adams. That accomplished the matter of electing officers for the horse shoe division was referred to; manager, Mr. Flatt; assistant manager, Edward Carter. Next item the election of officers the softball referred and the following elected: manager, Ray Oliver; assistant manager, Gerald Reid.

The subject of securing grounds to accommodate both branches of above sports was discussed and the following committee was appointed to report to the president as soon as possible to the possible sites for same.

Horse shoe division, Melbourne Adams, James Brown and Herman Elliott. Softball division, Howard Thompson, Laurison Kennedy and Athol Dudgeon.

The subject of what would compose the executive committee was discussed and the following officers finally decided upon: the president, the secretary and the treasurer, the horse shoe manager and his assistant, the softball manager and his assistant, two from the grounds committee, assistant horse shoe division, Herman Elliott; softball division, Laurison Kennedy. This being put to a motion by Walter Harrison and seconded by Clifford Adams, carried.

Howard Thompson was appointed grand convener.

The next issue discussed was the financial side and after considerable discussion the following was decided. A committee for obtaining members was discussed and appointed as Lewis Morton, Clifford and Mr. Melbourne Adams.

The subject of the ladies entering the association was discussed and it was decided that an invitation be extended to the ladies to hold a meeting and if they decided to join with the association. Also when the ladies decided to meet it was decided that the president, secretary and treasurer of the Athletic Association attend this meeting and discuss this question with them.

AMATO IS WINNER IN HAMILTON SHOW

Frankie Pidgeon Loses in Welterweight Division to Kirkland Lake Boxer.

HAMILTON, April 23. —(CP)— Five of Ontario's seven amateur boxing titles are today the property of pugilists from Toronto. In the 15 bout card which wound up the final program of the Ontario championships at the Arena last night, the Queen City aggregation practically made a clean sweep of the championship slate, annexing five titles and providing the runners-up in the other two titular affairs.

Only in the feather and welterweight divisions did a Toronto boxer fail to come through with a victory. Don Richards, classy young Hamiltonian, was given the nod in the 126-pound final when he outslugged Joe Bagnato, Toronto, for three rounds. The other title to miss a Toronto resting place was in the 147-pound class when Howard Williams, hard-slugging youth from Kirkland Lake proved too clever for Frankie Pidgeon, Toronto. This was the only fight in the final round which failed to go the three round limit the referee stopping the bout in the second.

The Toronto winners of titles were Tony Canzano in the fly weight division; Brian McLaren in the bantams; Frankie Genovese, lightweight, Paul Amato in the 160-pounders and Teddy Phillips in the light-heavies.

"Time and tide wait for no man."

Nor are the low prices of to-day and the turn of the tide toward higher prices going to wait for those who haven't the vision, courage and foresight to buy when prices are at the lowest ebb in 15 years.

And this changing of the tide as applied to prices is more than a mere simile . . . it's a certainty . . . price tides change as surely as ocean tides.

To-day's prices on food, clothing, furniture, furs, cars and other things are from 40% to 100% lower than they have been in years and lower than they will be before the turn of another season.

Don't be caught off your guard when it's so important that your savings be guarded.

CLUB SCOUTS COMB CANADA FOR MATERIAL

Tentative Plans Call for Six-Team League in New Pro Sport.

OPENS MAY 15TH.

Toronto, Boston, Brooklyn, Baltimore and New York Will be Represented.

NEW YORK, April 23. —(CP)— Canada, which has proved such a fertile recruiting ground for big time hockey, is now beckoning scouts interested in establishing another popular Canadian sport on a firm foundation in the United States. In this instance, magnates have sent out their so-called ivory hunters in search of promising material for clubs which will comprise the American professional lacrosse league, now in the process of organization.

Tentative plans call for a six-team league, with options on franchises already granted to interests in Toronto, Baltimore, Boston, Brooklyn and New York city. Two teams will operate in the United States metropolis.

Seized with the growing popularity of box lacrosse in Canada, the American League will adopt that system of play. Games will be played at night under artificial floodlights in the parks of organized baseball in the cities represented.

No Schedule Drafted

Pending final organization plans of the various clubs, a definite playing schedule has not yet been drafted, although the inaugural league game has been tentatively set for May 15, in Yankee stadium. Under this arrangement Toronto is slated to open the season here as opponents of the Yankee lacrosse club.

One of the principal directing personalities behind this latest venture, is the only native-born Canadian to wear the heavyweight boxing championship of the world — Tommy Burns. He hails from Hanover, Ont. and incidentally it was lacrosse that started Tommy upon his successful ring career.

Back in the days when dad was a youth and when lacrosse was at the height of its popularity in the Dominion, a youngster called Noah Brusseau flashed into prominence almost overnight. His speed, aggressiveness and scoring punch placed his services at a premium with the result that he alternately saw action with such famous teams as Galt, Woodstock and Mount Forest. Those were the days of rugged exchanges and from the hard school of give and take, Brusseau emerged as a colorful personality—even a better fighter than a player. It was this same Brusseau, after changing his name to Tommy Burns, scaled the fistic ladder to the title rung.

"Ever since I retired from the ring, I have been yearning to get back to lacrosse," Burns confided today. "Of course I've taken on a bit of weight since that day in Sydney Australia, back in 1908, when Jack Johnson divested me of the title, but then I don't propose to don a uniform. I think however, I can show the youngsters a lot of inside stuff that won games back in my days."

Heads Yankee Club

Burns, is president of the Yankee club and along with the other promoters has been keeping the wires hot trying to line up a strong combination.

"We have already obtained some first class material, Burns said, "but before the season starts we hope to have a number of other Canadian stars on our roster." With competition so keen for the services of good players, Burns said he was not in a position to disclose the identity of those who had already signed contracts. "But we'll have a team that'll make them all sit up and take notice," he warned.

CASUAL COMMENT

The annual C.O.B.L. meeting takes place in Kingston this afternoon and plenty of interesting business will be transacted. We hope the schedule gives the Petes what they want in the way of home games, that is three Tuesday night contests, one with each team, and the remainder of the games on Saturday. The opening guns will be fired, most likely, on May 24th as per usual.

• • • • • • •

Oshawa, in the West Toronto Senior Loop, starts off May 7th, with thirty games to be played including nine home affairs. Typos, Native Sons and New Toronto are the other three teams. First and second teams play off at the end for the circuit title. Most of the Oshawa players signed up are more or less well known here.

• • • • • • •

They include: Dainty, Willis, Mathews, Ogden, Gower and Frink on the pitching staff; Whitley and Elliott, catchers; Hubbell, Gummow, Peacock, Sutton, C. Elliott, Goodall, Wallace, McDougall and Morrison, infielders; Reg and Walt Fair, Rowden, Gray, Hurst, Little and Ross in the garden. George Hill is the manager.

• • • • • • •

The Motor City Seniors certainly have plenty of players on their roster, but many of them are veterans who have seen their best days. Players like Dainty and Reg Fair must have started playing ball when the catcher took the spalding on the hop. While they should be able to sift out a pretty fair outfit from that bunch, we still figure Oshawa is no stronger than C.O.B.L. calibre, if as strong.

• • • • • • •

The Public School Baseball League opens the season once again, the curtain being lifted next Wednesday afternoon. Queen Mary play at King George School, while Queen Alex visits Prince of Wales. Four and five games are run off each week till the windup early in June. The teams are: King Edward, King George, Prince of Wales, Central, Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra.

• • • • • • •

Charlie Hallet, Toronto professional boxing and wrestling promoter, informs us he will be here shortly with another fine pro. card to be run off at the Brock. He has lined up a classy bantam scrapper in the main bout, Frisco Grande, colorful Filipino, to meet a suitable opponent. Complete dope will be out later.

• • • • • • •

This boy Grande is a real topnotcher. He formerly held the U.S. Navy title, and later became a strong candidate for the world's flyweight championship. He holds two decisions over Frenchy Belanger, drawing a gate of ten grand in his last meeting with the Canuck champ, one of the hardest battles seen in Canada.

• • • • • • •

Other champions Grande has met are Frankie Genaro, Midget Wolgast, Kid Chocolate, and Izzy Swartz. The Filipino, like his famous countryman, now dead, Pancho Villa, fights furiously all the time he is in there, and he should make a worthy headliner here. Jack Dane, who has a good following here, will appear on the fight card, too.

• • • • • • •

Meantime, plans are being made to put across a great amateur show in the Legion Hall next Friday night, the Alpha Club staging it for the benefit of the local War Veterans. The best boys of the city will be paired off with outstanding Toronto mittsers, including Paul Amato and Frankie Pidgeon. It should be a good entertainment, and for a good cause.

CAGE FINAL ON MONDAY NIGHT

Primeau's and Riley and Hickey Will Decide Senior Basketball Title.

BALANCED OUTFITS.

With both teams holding a game apiece, Primeau's and Riley and Hickey will meet Monday night at the Y.M.C.A. in the third and deciding game for the Men's City Basketball Title. Both these squads are very evenly matched but the Fashion-Craft team have shown up slightly better as far as season games with their rivals are concerned.

The Riley and Hickey outfit are a nicely balanced team with high scoring forwards in Zimmel Levine and Rus Kitchen while their opposition seem to have a slight edge in speed and combination with Carlos Routley, Vern Armstrong and Ed. McKeagen doing most of the scoring.

Neither team lacks for backing and the supporters of the two clothiers will be out in full strength Monday evening to cheer on their favorites.

Howie Macdonald and Arnold Reynolds will be the officials for this crucial fixture and the only charge will be a silver collection at the door.

Preceding this game and starting at 8 p.m. there will be a girls' tilt and the men's affair will follow at 8.45 p.m. The probable line-ups for the men's game will be:

Riley & Hickey— Levine, Mott, Kitchen, McLeod, Stanger, Swartz, Sager.

Primeaus — Ward, Armstrong, Routley, McKeagan, Chesler, Taylor, Smith.

Winnipeg Leaves For East Sunday

WINNIPEG, April 23.— (By the Canadian Press.)—Winnipeg's Toilers, senior basketball champions of Western Canada, strike the trail tomorrow night in an effort to regain the honor they lost four years ago. They hunt the Dominion title last held by them in 1927, and the chase will lead them half way across a continent, for their only obstacle is the team of ballchasers from Saint John which last night brushed aside a 10-basket drag and romped through Windsor-Walkerville Alumni to take the Eastern title after losing the first game of the series Thursday night.

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

Australia banned "Ladies of the Big House."

Renee Adoree, returning from Arizona in June, where she has been taking the cure for a lung ailment, has been notified by all studios that they will have parts for her as soon as she is available.

Laurel and Hardy feature will have 12 collaborators on the script with Hal Roach heading. The two comics will also be in on the writing. All others will be classed as gaggers.

Robert Young and Maureen O'Sullivan have been added to the cast of "Strange Interlude," at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. Norma Shearer and Clark Gable head the cast of this picturization of the Eugene O'Neill stage play, under the direction of Robert Z. Leonard. Alexander Kirkland, Ralph Morgan, Henry B. Walthall and May Robson are also among the players.

Returning to star rating at Paramount, Jack Oakie will be toplined in an Olympic games story to which Joe Mankiewicz has been assigned on the story end. Oakie was dropped from stellar billing after his contract woes last year.

Among the cast in "Love Me Tonight," Maurice Chevalier's next picture, will be Jeanette MacDonald, Charlie Ruggles, Charles E. Buttersworth, Myrna Loy, C. Aubrey Smith, Blanche Friderici, Elizabeth Patterson and Ethel Griffies.

Four ducks, "actors" in Harold Lloyd's new comedy, "Movie Crazy" have been insured for the duration of the picture production for a total of $10,000. Other ducks which had been trained for their "roles" were stolen, and protective measures were deemed necessary.

Walt Disney, creator of the Mickey Mouse animated cartoons, will move his bizarre animals from the Columbia lots to those of United Artists some time in the middle of July. There are several Mickey Mouse and "Silly Symphony" cartoons to be completed for Columbia.

Zasu Pitts, Robert McQuade and Gloria Stuart have been assigned roles in Fannie Hurst's "Back Street." The featured parts in this Universal picture are taken by Irene Dunne and John Boles.

How do motion-picture actors and actresses memorize their lines? Hollywood gossip has it that some heed seclusion and quiet and others crave music or companionship. Warner Baxter, according to Fox Film officials, likes music with Spanish rhythm while studying his lines. Joan Bennett writes her lines out in longhand. With Will Rogers matters are somewhat simplified, for he is given considerable latitude for improvisation; but he is one of very few who are allowed such liberty. Another of those few is Marie Dressler.

Under a new RKO vaudeville contract commencing April 9, Kate Smith will gross $136,000, a leap of $57,000 over a prior deal with that circuit. The average weekly increase is $1,200. Miss Smith's previous contract called for $5,200 a week, of $79,500 for 15 weeks. Since only six weeks of time have been added, the radio singer's salary for the extra booking reaches $9,500 a week.

GARBO AT BEST IN 'GRAND HOTEL'

All Star Cast in Vicki Baum's Melodrama—Metro Film.

TWO BARRYMORES.

In Metro's production of Vicki Baum's melodrama, "Grand Hotel," whose recent premiere at the Astor Theatre in New York was one of the major events of the cinema season, Greta Garbo "rises to new heights and provides what must certainly be her finest performance, according to Richard Watts Jr. in the Herald-Tribune.

"Miss Garbo is surrounded by a galaxy of screen stars, including John Barrymore, Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Joan Crawford, Lewis Stone, Jean Hersholt, Robert McWade, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Tully Marshall, and others.

Advance reports hinted that Joan Crawford had stolen the honors of the picture. "It happens that she does no such thing," Mr. Watts comments, "but in the role of the susceptible stenographer she plays with a simple earnestness that would have been the feature of the average production.

"The only portrayal that seems inferior to the one in the stage play is that of Wallace Beery as the industrial leader. He is, I think, definitely inferior to Siegfried Rumann of the original cast, but even Mr. Beery's work is good.

165 Weeks At Astor.

The Astor was darkened for the first time more than a day since February 1929 when Metro-Goldwyn launched "Broadway Melody," first of the musical talkers. The succeeding 165 weeks were split as follows: Broadway Melody, 27; Hollywood Revue, 19; Devil May Care, 5; Rogue Song, 21; Big House, 18; War Nurse, 9; New Moon, 6; Trader Horn, 17; Free Soul, 15; Guardsman, 9; Champ, 6; Hell Divers, 13.

ADVENTURE FILMS ARE SEASON'S MODE

Iceland to South Sea Isles in Camera Range.

Carl Laemmle Jr. says that adventure films are the mode for the coming season. He is sending Dr. Arnold Fanck, maker of "White Hell of Pita Palu," "White Frenzy" and "Avalanche" to film "Iceberg in Greenland" in a hitherto unphotographer locale.

"Early sound problems prevented us from sending companies outside the studio," Mr. Laemmle said. "Out of 500 pictures not more than fifteen or twenty were made off the Hollywood lots. Sound is now a stable thing and we are having little trouble in photographing with our portable equipment.

"We have almost ready for release 'The Doomed Battalion', made in the Austrian Tyrol. The Greenland picture, one in the Straits Settlements, one in Shanghai, another in Africa and one in Yellowstone National Park."

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is sending W. S. Van Dye of "Trader Horn" to Iceland for an untitled yarn. Douglas Fairbanks is home with his stuff from the South Seas. Sol Lesser is editing a number of travel and adventure films from far places.

MEMBERS OF BOYS' PARLIAMENT VISIT PETERBOROUGH

Six members of the 11th Boys' Parliament met in Peterborough over the week-end to have a conference with the convenor of their district, John Hunter.

Saturday afternoon the members had a meeting in the Y.M.C.A. A discussion of their problems was the main issue. New group projects were presented to the members to be discussed and recommended; such as leathercraft and puzzles for Trail Ranger group work. The members attended the Grand Camp at the Y.M.C.A. Here they saw a demonstration of Group activities.

On Sunday morning the members attended St. Andrew's Church, where Wilbur Howard, Africa's son, editor of The New Citizen, Parliamentary paper, and John Hunter spoke on "Making a Friendly World."

In the afternoon the members met in George Street Sunday school to continue their discussion. After this they attended Knox Sunday school, where Wilbur Howard also spoke.

In the evening they attended Mark Street Church, where a boys' service was held. Here Wilbur Howard and J. Hunter spoke on "Youth Problems." After church the members met in the board room of the Y.M.C.A. to finish their work for the week-end. They then attended the Sing-Song at the Y.M.C.A. After which, Mr. Daniel closed the meeting of Members of Parliament by instructing them to arise, and go to their work in the district which they came from.

GRAND TRAIL RANGERS CAMP HELD

On Saturday night in the Y.M.C.A., the Trail Rangers of the city met to hold a Grand Camp. Seventy-five Trail Rangers were present. The purpose of this camp was to demonstrate group meetings.

The meeting opened with Max Parnell's group demonstrating the Opening Ceremony, after which Wilbur Howard installed the grand officers into their chairs. Ross Allen from Ace-Hi Trail Rangers was installed as Grand Chief. Bob Thornton from Viking Trail Rangers, was installed as Grand Sub-Chief; Lawrence Henry from Osprey Trail Rangers was installed as Grand Tally, and Henry Blade from Live Wire Trail Rangers was installed as Grand Cather.

A devotional period was then led by the Grand Chief, Ross Allen, who led a wonderful discussion on "Clean Speech."

A business period was conducted by the Grand Chief. The Camp decided to form a Trail Ranger Council of the city. They decided to hold a Grand Camp every year.

In the group project period Max Northey of the Viking Trail Rangers demonstrated how to qualify for the Handicraft badge. Then Max Parnell put 18 boys through the Observation badge. Then Douglas Carruthers introduced Leathercraft to the Trail Rangers. Doug. showed the boys how to make book marks and belts from leather.

James McClenaghan introduced two new games. Mr. Daniel introduced the closing ceremony from a group. This was the Omaha Tribal Prayer.

Wilbur Howard led in sing-songs and also told a very impressive story of a blind Indian boy paddling across a lake to save his tribe.

The Grand Camp came to a close by the serving of doughnuts and coffee.

Wilburn Howard, a negro boy, born in Toronto some twenty years ago visited Peterborough over the week-end. Wilbur has been a Trail Ranger and a Tuxis boy; now he is a Mentor of a large Explorer group in Toronto. Every summer he attends the boys' camp and is very attractive to all boys because he is such a good leader in many things that boys like.

He is a member of the Boys' Parliament for his second year. He is in the Cabinet as the Minister of The New Citizen, the Parliament's paper.

Wilbur has a ready reply to every question asked him. Every time an attempt is made to pull a fast one on him, he has a faster one to respond with.

He made many friends in Peterborough over the week-end and by his being here the boys of the city should have a better attitude to people of other races and creeds. Wilbur is nominated to run for Premier for the next Boys' Parliament.

TRAIL RANGERS SING IN CHOIR

The Live Wire Trail Rangers of Mark Street Church took part in the boys' service by singing in the choir. The boys made a good impression with the people. The boys sang, "Stand Up for Jesus."

INDIAN LEADER ARRESTED.

NEW DELHI, India, April 23 (C. P.) — Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya, president-designate of the thirty-sixth session of the Indian National Congress, was arrested today as he entered the city, after refusing to comply with a notice forbidding him to do so. He was coming here for the scheduled session of the National Congress tomorrow, which has been forbidden by the Government.

PADDY DOES SOME EXPLAINING

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

Let some wise purpose underlie
Whatever you may plan to try.
—Paddy the Beaver.

"This is a very nice pond," said Jerry Muskrat as he looked about admiringly.

"I'm glad you like it," replied Paddy the Beaver. "It suits me, and what is even more important, it suits Mrs. Paddy."

Jerry grinned. "That is important," said he. "I suppose you have lived here a long time? I have often heard of you from Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter and Mrs. Quack, who often visit the Smiling Pool. You were lucky to find such a place."

It was Paddy's turn to grin. "Yes," he replied. "I was lucky to find the place. I saw at once that it was just the place for a pond."

"What do you mean by the place for a pond? Wasn't there a pond here?" exclaimed Jerry.

Paddy shook his head. "Not a sign of a pond; not even a pool," said he.

"Then where did this pond come from?" demanded Jerry.

"I made it," replied Paddy pridefully. "I had to have a pond and so I made this one."

Jerry looked puzzled. He was puzzled. "I don't understand," said he. "How could you make a pond?"

"Easily enough," replied Paddy. Then he corrected himself. "No, I won't say easily enough, but simply enough. The making of it wasn't easy, for it required a lot of hard work after careful planning. But, after all, it was a simple matter. All that was needed was a dam. When the dam was finished I soon had the pond. I made the dam and the dam made the pond. So really I made the pond. Do you see?"

"I do and I don't," replied Jerry. "You see, I don't know exactly what a dam is."

Paddy opened his eyes very wide in surprise. "You don't know what a dam is!" he exclaimed. "Yet you are a builder I am told."

"I build houses, if that is what you mean, but I don't know anything about dams," replied Jerry.

"Follow me," said Peddy. "Old Man Coyotte has gone, so there is nothing to fear from him. Follow me and you will learn something. Your education has been neglected, sadly neglected."

He led the way to the end of the dam where Jerry had plunged into the water at the danger signal just in time to escape Old Man Coyote. He took Jerry below the dam and showed him how it was built of

"But wasn't that a great deal of work?" asked Jerry brush and sticks and mud. He explained how it had been built little by little across the Laughing Brook, as it grew holding more and more water back, until at last there was a fine pond in which he now had his home. He explained how, last fall, he and Mrs. Paddy had made another pond above this one by building a second dam in order that they might float their foodlogs down to the food pile in this pond.

"But wasn't that a great deal of work?" asked Jerry.

"Of course, it was a great deal of work, but anything worth having is worth working for," retorted Paddy. "The important thing is to have your work well planned before starting it. Working without a plan is time and effort wasted. Whatever I do is first carefully planned. This dam had to be built in just the right place and it was. It was the same way with that other dam up there. My house over yonder was just as carefully planned and so were all my canals."

"Have you canals?" cried Jerry.

"Of course," replied Paddy. "There are times when canals are almost as important as a dam. Would you like to see one of my canals?"

50 Armenians Sent Turkish War Cheques

ST. CATHARINES. — Fifty-five Armenian residents of St. Catharines have just received cheques in payment of claims for damage to property in their homeland by the Turkish army during the Great War. The cheques range up to $1,000. Payment was made by the Turkish government through the British government.

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If April 23rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date, are from 10.15 a.m. to 11.30 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 9.45 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 6.45 a.m. to 8 a.m. and from 1.30 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The uncertainty of life will be demonstrated in more than one way on this date (April 23). Unexpected handicaps, hitches in engagements and delayed trips are amongst the planetary predictions. Romantic flirtations may tempt the men of the family, and there is a possible estrangement therefrom with someone dear to them.

Children born on this April 23rd will know what they want in this world and will make a fuss if it is not forthcoming. They will have domineering, inquisitive, materialistic and practical natures, with fierce tempers when aroused. They will be babyish when ill, but should be too robust to be subject to many ailments.

Born on April 23rd, you have rather a timid, plastic and an indifferent nature. You will be a rather willing victim of circumstances, taking the good and the bad in your stride with little effort to change them. There are two opposing camps of people; those who want excitement at any price and those who will pay the required toll for security. You belong to the latter group. Your policy has both its good and its bad points, but it is not one which spells progress with a capital P. It makes you hesitating when hesitancy is fatal; passive when active resistance is called for, and satisfied when a little more ambition would be to your good. You are wax in the hands of all kind-hearted bullies who have so easily scared you.

You are unselfish, willing and good-natured, and lack the grit to say "no." You do not seem to realize the difference of being imposed upon and just normally playing the game. You cannot be a pack-horse and have time to attend to your own jobs and to take up those interests which might mean so much to you individually. You love the smiles of the world and are too distressed at the frowns. As you are not very materialistic and have both religion and philosophy upon which to fall back, your life will probably yield to you more happiness than it does to the average run of humanity.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOR ALL KIDNEY, BACKACHE, BLADDER TROUBLE, RHEUMATISM for Backache!

"TAURUS"

If April 24th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:10 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Sunday, April 24th should be a day of pleasant memories, as the world will be in a friendly mood. Family life should be peaceful, spiritual participations enjoyable and pleasures of the day intoxicating. Both laughter and tears for young lovers.

The child born on this April 24th will have a brisk, alert, fun-loving, and likeable personality. It will be obedient without being servile, and independent-minded without being rude. It will strive to excel in school and outside work and will have both the brain and [illegible] to succeed.

Born on April 24 [illegible] a great deal of intell[illegible]d resolution to assist you in your attempt to get from life your share from its bounteous storehouse. You are not a dreamer and your lack of imagination limits your mental vision. To the task of the day, however, you bring application, no small amount of skill, unlimited patience and a spirit of to do or die. If caught napping because of your lack of foresight, you always have good sound common sense upon which to fall back.

You have quick but controlled emotions, are conventionally sentimental, witty but not humorous. You have much pride, very little conceit, observance, but no curiosity. On the whole you are made of very sound wood and are a person to be trusted, and upon whom to pin one's faith. You have plenty of courage and are not easily unnerved. You believe in minding your own business, and refuse to worry about your neighbor's morals. You try as much as possible to separate yourself from those you do not like and loathe warfare of any kind, domestic or otherwise.

Your life will not be a cut and dried affair without adventure, thrills and romance. You are without snobbery as the word is ordinarily interpreted, but you have social pride and do not lower yourself through your friendships.

Warsaw

Mrs. J. A. Crowe spent a few days with friends in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Payne are moving to Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. John Payne and family are moving into the house which they have purchased from Mr. Rufus Payne, and Mr. and Mrs George Moore are occupying the house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Payne.

The United Church choir social evening has been postponed on account of a death in the family of one of the members. For the same reason the play which was planned for this Saturday evening is postponed until Thursday, May 12.

Roads are drying as well as the fields, and some farmers are on the land. Allan Payne is cultivating. Thomas Cooper has his rolling and stoning done, and is cultivating.

Mrs. Seymour is visiting her sister, Mrs. Fred Crowe.

Mesdames Munro, James Greystock and T. H. Crowe attended the Presbyterian W.M.S. Convention afternoon session on Wednesday.

Millbrook

Among those from St. Thomas' Church Sunday School who motored to Lindsay on Wednesday, and attended the Sunday School convention were the rector, Rev. William Simpson, B.A., and his daughter, Miss Margaret; Miss Ella Grandy, Winnifred Lord, Nellie Miller, A. A. Needler, R. Stone and Mrs. L. J. Morton from St. John's Sunday School, Ida, Miss Vivian Lough and Clare Winslow.

Councillor J. R. Eakins has returned from Preston Springs, where he had been taking two weeks' treatment at the mineral springs and is apparently considerably improved in health.

St. Thomas' Anglican Church will change to the hour of seven-thirty for the evening service, and continuing through the summer months, on Sunday, April 24. Following the service, at 8.30 on Sunday, there will be an organ recital by Mr. J. Edward Fisher, of Toronto, his son, Master Earle Fisher will sing. Mr. Fisher and his son are in town for the spring recital given by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham and her pupils in the Town Hall on Friday, at 8.15 p.m., and are guests for the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. W. McKee Bingham.

Grace Presbyterian Church Women's Missionary Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. S. E Eakins, Anne street, on Wednesday April 27, the regular date, Wednesday April 20, having been changed as a number of the members were in Peterborough attending the sessions of the provincial W.M.S. convention.

I. W. Larmer, Seventh Line, Cavan, did some cultivating on his farm on Tuesday of this week, and was apparently the first farmer of the immediate neighborhood to begin work on the land this season. A number of others have been out since mainly rolling meadow land, though one or two have been cultivating preparing for seeding in the near future.

Franklin Bannister, who preached in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday morning when a reception service, and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, were special features of the occasion, has been listed among the prize winners in the results recently published among the students of Emmanuel College, Toronto.

Mr. H. A. Kerr, formerly of Stayner, and now manager of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto, expects to be joined here by his wife and two sons, Billie and Donald, this week. They will occupy the house belonging to W. J. E. Gillett, on Centre street, which Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Britton were living before his appointment to the bank at Petrolia.

Born—At Dr. H. A. Turner's private hospital, on Friday, April 15, to Mr. and Mrs. John R. Thompson (Anna Hawthorne), a son, Donald John.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Kidd, and family motored to Indian River on Sunday and were guests of Mrs. Kidd's father and sister, Mr. J. and Miss F. Pallin.

"SICK HEADACHE?"

IT is not necessary to give-in to headaches. It is just a bit old-fashioned! The modern woman who feels a headache coming on at any time, takes some tablets of Aspirin and heads it off.

Keep Aspirin handy, and keep your engagements. Headaches, systemic pains, come at inconvenient times. So do colds. You can end them before they're fairly started if you'll only remember this handy, harmless form of relief. Carry it in your purse and insure your comfort while shopping; your evening's pleasure at the theatre. Those little nagging aches that bring a case of "nerves" by day are ended in a jiffy. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking Aspirin! You'll find these tablets always help. In every package of Aspirin tablets are proven directions which cover colds, headaches, sore throat, toothache, neuralgia, neuritis, sciatica, and even rheumatism.

The tablets stamped Bayer won't fail you, and can't harm you. They don't depress the heart. They don't upset the stomach. So take them whenever you need them, and take enough to end the pain. Aspirin is made in Canada.

WALTER HUSTON IN WET DEBATE

Faced Aimee McPherson-Sutton Before Her Temple Crowd.

ALL WITH AIMEE.

HOLLYWOOD, April 23.—The prize publicity of the year was staged in behalf of "The Wet Parade" when Walter Huston and Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton tangled on the radio on the question, "Is Prohibition a Success?"

During Huston's entire talk, the Aimee adherents cold-decked him. The audience was a mass of dead pans. When their leader started her side of the argument, they went wild. Animation ruled. Nothing but smiles and applause was given to the evangelist. She also handed Hollywood plenty of slams which went well with the faithful.

With some 6,000 jammed into the auditorium and 2,500 more overflowing into the Sunday school, Aimee saw to it that the collection plates were given a break. Her husband, David Hutton announced that every one should give double because they were enjoying the privilege of lamping a flock of picture celebs. The offertory was an organ solo. Hutton suggested that the organist was disturbed by silver dropping into the plates. Bills made no noise. The gross was probably heavy.

About 10,000 people jammed the streets around the Temple. They heard, but didn't get a chance to contribute. Somebody muffed.

After it was all over, both Metro and Sid Grauman realized it was a mistake to stage the debate at the Temple. As it is, no noticeable increase in box office business resulted from the ballyhoo.

And now that it's over, Aimee and her husband are eating midnight lunches at Henry's and the Derby in Hollywood.

KIWANIANS PLAN BIG CELEBRATION

Week of April 24-30 is to be Known as United States-Canada Week.

BERT WEMP TO SPEAK.

The Kiwanis Club of Peterborough will participate during the week of April 24-30 in the celebration of United States-Canada Week. "Local members will join with all other Kiwanians of both nations in this observance," declared Harry Boyle, president of the club, today.

The anniversary of the Rush-Bagot treaty will be observed during United States-Canada Week. This treaty has been the means of keeping both countries in a condition of unarmed friendliness and has kept their borders open and unfortified for 115 years with no naval forces on the Great Lakes sufficient to be used for warlike activities.

At the Peterborough meeting one of the impressive events will be the reading of the inscription on the Harding Good Will Memorial located in Vancouver, B.C. This memorial, erected by Kiwanians of the United States and Canada in 1925, is a gesture of the good will and friendship between the two great nations, in which are contained the membership of Kiwanis International.

"The inscription on the Harding Memorial," said President Boyle, "tells a great story to the world today. During these troubled times when a great percentage of the man power of the world is under arms the inscription is worthy of repeating. It is 'What an object lesson of peace is shown by our two great countries to all the world. No grim faced fortifications mark our frontiers, no huge battleships patrol our dividing waters, no stealthy spies lurk in our tranquil border hamlets. Only a scrap of paper, recording hardly more than a simple understanding safeguards lives and properties on the Great Lakes, and only humble mile posts mark the inviolable boundary line for thousands of miles through farm and forest.

"'Our protection is in our fraternity, our armor is our faith, and the tie that binds, more firmly year by year, in every increasing acquaintance and comradeship through interchange of citizens; and the compact is not of perishable parchment, but of fair and honorable dealing which, God grant, shall continue for all time.'"

Ex-Mayor Bert Wemp is the speaker for the observance of this special occasion in Kiwanis and it is expected he will bring a message to strengthen the ties of this friendship between these two great nations.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 78 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Wedged in the crotch of a large tree, three white men greeted the coming dawn with weary eyes. "I'll let the lions have me," said one of them, "before I spend such another night." Footsore and hungry, in a vain search for game they blundered on. Unschooled in jungle craft, with the dull perceptive faculties of civilized man, there might have been fierce or savage warriors on every hand for all they knew.

And so it was that shortly after noon, as they crossed a small clearing the zip of an arrow, barely missing Peebles' head, brought them to a sudden halt. Kraski threw his rifle to his shoulder and fired. "There," he cried, "behind those bushes!" and then an arrow from another direction pierced his forearm. "Down!" he yelled, "and let them have it!" Scarcely had they dropped when a score of pygmy hunters came into the open.

© 1931, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. All rights reserved. P-78

Now a volley of arrows whizzed above the prone men, while from a nearby tree two steel-gray eyes looked down upon the ambush. Fighting for their lives but unafraid, the three whites pumped lead into the band of yelling pigmies. Suddenly the foe withdrew into the concealing safety of the surrounding jungle. Utter silence reigned; and then a voice came from a nearby tree. "Do not fire until I tell you to," it said in English, "and I will save you!"

From the tree whence the voice had come there now sounded a single low, whistled note—and again silence. The pigmies, surprised, ceased their activities, but presently, hearing nothing more to arouse their fears, they emerged from cover and launched arrows toward the three whites. A white giant leaped from the branches of the jungle monarch, as a great black-maned lion sprang from the thicket below.

RECITAL OF SONGS

Music lovers are invited to attend the recital to be given next Monday night by Margaret Dickson, soprano, and Maurice Park, tenor, in the Conservatory Hall. The program will feature the great duets from the operas "Faust" and "Madam Butterfly." Miss Dickson will include in the her numbers the well-known coloratura air, "Lo, Here the Gentle Lark", the dazzling Mozart. "Alleluia," and other famous soprano arias. Mr. Park will sing three Handelian songs, including the lovely "O Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me?" a French operatic aria, and will conclude with the beautiful "Ah! Moon of My Delight", from Omar Khayyam, set to music by Liza Lehmann. This is one of the most exacting tenor arias ever written. Agnes Logan-Green will be at the piano. There will be an admission charge of 35c to defray the expenses of this recital. 1d-97-655

Y.W.C.A. Pageant

Obituary

ALICE MARY SHEWARD

There passed away on the evening of Friday, April 22, Alice Mary Sheward, beloved and only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sheward of 539 Edison avenue at the early age of 27 years.

Miss Sheward was formerly employed at the Canadian General Electric office but had been an invalid for the past four years. Besides her father and mother she is survived by one brother Jack who is at home.

The remains will rest at Comstock's Funeral Home, 305 Water street until Monday morning. Funeral will be held from All Saints church at 3 p.m. Monday, April 25, 1932. Interment Little Lake cemetery.

JOHN MILBURN ELLIOTT

The death occurred early yesterday at his nephew, William Elliott's home, 280 Thomas street, of John Milburn Elliott, after an illness of two weeks' duration. The deceased, who was in his eightieth year, was born in North Monaghan, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Smith Elliott. He lived in this city all his life, attending the George Street church. Mr. Elliott was well known in this district and his many friends will be grieved to hear of his sudden death.

Besides his sorrowing wife, he leaves a sister, Mrs. Fred Dobson of this city, and one brother, Isaac Elliott of Selwyn. The funeral will be held Monday at two o'clock from the family residence, 522 Rodgers street, thence to Little Lake cemetery, the Rev. J. E. Millyard officiating.

MISS ADELAIDE DAVIDSON

The funeral of Miss Adelaide Davidson, victim of Thurday evening's automobile fatality at the corner of Simcoe and George streets, is to be held on Monday at 2 p.m. from her residence, 453 Mark street, to Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, will conduct the services.

Miss Davidson was a member of one of the oldest and most respected families and was widely known and honored throughout the district. She was born in Smith Township, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davidson; but the greater part of her life had been spent in this city. She was a lifelong member of St. Paul's Church.

Surviving her are two sisters Mrs. Hall, widow of the late J. Hall, and Mrs. Ann Brealey of Ridgetown; and one brother, Robert Davidson of Antrim street.

ROBERT NEWMAN.

OMEMEE, April 23.— (Examiner Correspondence.)—During the past week, death removed from this community one of its life-long residents in the person of Robert Newman, who passed away at his home on Sunday, April 17th, after a lingering illness.

Deceased was born in Emily township south of the village, 66 years ago, where he spent all his life as a young man and for the past 23 years he and his sister Mary have resided in Omemee. For some time he has been in failing health and last winter developed a severe illness which proved fatal. Deceased was a member of the Orange Order and a life-long Conservative.

The funeral took place at 2.30 o'clock from his late residence on Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard conducting the services at the house and graveside. The pallbearers were brother Orangemen, and included J. White, Alex Lang, L. Windrim, W. Monbrief, H. James and B. Sanderson. The attendance of a very large number of neighbors and friends who came to the funeral to pay a tribute of respect to the deceased was in itself a testimony to his standing in the district.

Mr. Newman is survived by two sisters, Mary and Francis C., Omemee, and three brothers, Tom and George of Omemee and S. J. Newman of Portage La Prairie.

Interment was made at Emily cemetery.

FRISCO GRANDE MATCHED HERE

Colorful Filipino Bantamweight Featured on First Pro Fight Card.

DANE ALSO TO FIGHT.

Frisco Grande, the colorful and sensational Filipino bantamweight, who formerly held the championship of the United States' Navy, and later became a strong and outstanding candidate for the world's flyweight title, is going to box here this spring. The little brown man from the Far East will headline Charlie Hallet's opening show at the Peterborough Arena. Grande against a worthy opponent should sell the house out.

Grande holds two decisions over Frenchy Belanger, Canadian flyweight champion. He drew a gate of $10,000 with the hard-fighting little Frenchman at Toronto and put up one of the greatest bouts ever seen in Canada.

Matchmaker Hallet is now in touch with Hughie Shannon, well known Buffalo manager and promoter, who is manager for Grande. Shannon, an old friend of Hallets' has promised to let Grande box in Peterborough. Working on a good opponent for the Filipino Matchmaker Hallet expects to be able to announce a card soon.

Grande has fought five champions of the world including Frenchy Belanger, Frankie Genaro, Midget Wolgast, Kid Chocolate, Corp. Izzy Schwartz. He outpotted "Kid" Chocolate over ten pounds in weight in their bout at New York. Grande weighs 116 and Chocolate 126.

Among others Grande has boxed are: Willie Davies, Tommy Paul, three times; Phil Tobias, Eugene Huat, the French champion; Black Bill, Blas Rodriguez, Mexican champion; Art Giroux, Montreal; Ruby Bradley of Boston, Johnny McCoy and many others famous in the ring.

Like all Filipinos, especially similar to the greatest Filipino of them all—Pancho Villa, former world's flyweight champion and conqueror of Jimmie Wilde, Grande gives action. His fists are flying from start to finish and he gives the fans real action.

It is possible that Pedro Linda, another Filipino, stable mate to Grande, will also box here. Jack Dano, the Peterborough youngster will also have a place on the card. His victory over Izzy Russell at Toronto was a fine bit of fighting and it is predicted that he will surely get somewhere as a top-notcher.

East Emily Farmer Has 15 Acres Sown

EAST EMILY April 23 (Examiner Correspondence).—Frank Hickey is the first farmer in this district to start seeding. Mr. Hickey has 15 acres of grain already sown. Many farmers in the district have started ploughing, but few have been able to get on the open land.

HOPEWELL, N.J., April 25 (C.P.)—Police announced to-day that motion pictures of a baby left in a nursery at San Jose, Cal., had been shown to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, but that after seeing the pictures they had said the baby was not their missing son.

Communists Loot Changchow City

AMOY, April 25 (A.P.)—Advices from Changchow to-day said Chinese Communists had occupied the city and the soldiers were enjoying a carnival of looting which included raids upon the home of missionaries, schools, churches and other foreign property.

The Communists raided the warehouses, stores and homes, the reports said, distributing the contents among themselves.

Airplane observers reported that the approaching Cantonese army had arrived fifteen miles southwest of Changchow.

Conditions here remained tense. At night the foreign warships in the harbor trained their searchlights on the foreign property along the mainland waterfront, to guard against possible depredations.

CAVE-IN TRAPS SIX WORKMEN

Two Die in First Crash—Second Slide Buries Four Rescuers.

FIVE BODIES FOUND.

MARMET, W. Va., April 25 (C.P.).—Hampered by rains and dangers of crumbling walls of earth, rescue workers to-day delved into mucky pit where at least six men lost their lives in a cave-in on the new Federal Government dam near here.

They expect to find only the body of Charles Ryan, but will make a complete search of the area for other persons before ending their work. Five bodies have been recovered.

Two members of the night shift working on the landward side of the dam were trapped Saturday night as the banks of the Kanawha River slipped down on them.

As between 50 and 75 workmen sought to rescue them, a second and larger cave-in sent hundred of tons of sandy earth into the pit, burying at least four more men.

Rains which caused the slides were renewed yesterday to add further difficulties.

A third cave-in, abetted by spectators near the edge of the pit, failed to catch rescuers, but several of the onlookers were slightly injured.

Ramesbottom To Die On Tuesday Morning

OTTAWA, April 25 (C.P.).—The law will take its course in the case of Wallace Ramesbottom, sentenced by the courts to die at London, Ont., to-morrow morning. Ramesbottom was found guilty by the courts of the murder of a grocer named Weinstein during a hold-up.

PRIVY COUNCIL HOLDS DECISION IN NEW SOUTH WALES' APPEAL

Question of Abolishing Upper Chamber Draws Big Array of Eminent Counsel.

3 WEEKS' HEARING.

(By Thomas T. Champion, C. P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, April 25.—(C. P. Cable.)—After a hearing extending over three weeks the Judicial committee of the Privy Council to-day reserved judgment on the appeal concerning the abolition of the Upper House in the State of New South Wales, Australia.

Premier J. T. Lang and the Labor Government of the State are appealing from a decision of the Australian High Court, which confirmed an earlier judgment by the New South Wales court that abolition of the Upper Chamber in the State could not be effected without submission of the question to the people in the form of a referendum.

One of the biggest array of eminent counsel seen recently in the Council Chamber appeared before their Lordships for this appeal. Sir Thomas Inskip, Attorney-General, was present on behalf of the British Government. Sir Stafford Cripps, former Solicitor-General in the Labor Government, was leader for the Government of New South Wales. Originally Sir John Simon had been briefed and, it is under-

PENSION PROBE WILL BE PUSHED BY GOVERNMENT

Will Name Representatives to Confer With Veterans on Amendments Needed.

REPORT BEFORE FEB. 1.

All Recommendations Will Be Submitted to Parliament Next Session.

OTTAWA, April 25. — (C.P.) — While present pension legislation is being given a fair trial every effort will be made to improvement and speed up its machinery and veterans and government representatives will meet together to decide what amendments to the pension act are necessary, it was decided after a week-end conference here of cabinet council and veterans' organizations heads.

Proposed by Hon. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions, a joint committee will be appointed by the government and the veterans' bodies to which the whole matter of administration of the act will be referred. Before Feb. 1 next the committee will report to the government so that if legislation is necessary to give effect to its recommendations it may be submitted to parliament next session.

Positions of the government and the veterans were presented at the conference Saturday and the appointment of a committee was developed later in correspondence between Mr. McLaren and Major John S. Roper, Dominion President of the Canadian Legion.

Fair Trial.

Pointing out that when the present legislation was passed in 1930 it was suggested it should have a fair trial before further amendments were made, the Minister stated it is the Government's opinion that the time it has been in operation has not afforded a real opportunity to test its effectiveness. Every effort would be made, he said, to improve administration of the Act and to expedite its decisions. When Parliaments met again, he thought the Government would be in a position to definitely determine the weakness of the present Act. He then proposed appointment of the joint committee.

Replying, Major Roper pointed out veteran complaints resolved themselves into three major classes —congestion of cases in the Board of Pension Commissioners and the Pension Appeal Court, length of time it takes to get a final decision and unnecessary appealing of cases by Commission counsel.

Major Roper accepted the proposal for a committee after, he states, taking into consideration statements made by the Government to the veterans at the Saturday conference and having due regard to the times through which Canada is passing.

Poor Picking!

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—Cries of "kill him" and "tear him to pieces" were heard in St. Mary's Ukrainian Church of the Immaculate Conception in North Philadelphia yesterday as a pick pocket darted from aisle to isle and leaped over pews with angry worshippers at his heels. He was cornered in the church court yard.

Timely arrival of the police prevented the alleged thief from being seriously hurt.

Divorce Is Granted To Dr. F. G. Banting

TORONTO, April 25.—(C.P.)—Dr. F. G. Banting, co-discoverer of insulin, to-day was garnted a divorce from his wife, the former Marion Robertson, of Elora, Ont., on grounds of infidelity. They were married in June, 1924. The case was not contested.

With Dr. O. H. Best, of Toronto Dr. Banting in 19... climaxed years of research by discovering the famous insulin treatment for diabetes. The Nobel prize was awarded to Dr. Banting three years later but he immediately announced his intention of sharing the prize with his co-worker.

Free Matches to Smokers Stopped

TORONTO, April 25.—(CP)—Effective today as a result of an agreement between tobacconists and dealers throughout the province, buyers of cigarettes, cigars and tobacco, will no longer receive the courtesy packet of free matches formerly presented to them. According to spokesmen for the trade the abolition of free matches follows the increase in the federal sales tax from 4 to 6 per cent.

RELIGIOUS RIOT GETS 25 JAILED

"Holy Rollers" Stoned By Group of Youths—One Stabbed in Fracas.

MOUNTIES TAKE HAND.

MAHONE BAY, N.S., April 25 (C.P.)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police to-day were rounding up the last of 25 young men charged with violence in connection with a series of religious riots at Martin's River, where one man was stabbed. Two houses were damaged and a number of members of the Pentecostal Society were stoned. The outbreaks occurred three nights in succession and ended early Sunday morning, when the police were called into the usually quiet village.

Trouble had been brewing for two years—since the "Holy Rollers" first organized in this district. Minor disturbances had occurred from time to time, but nothing of a serious nature had been reported, although animosity of a large number of district residents had become more marked as groups of youths gathered around meeting places of the sect.

Hostilities opened on Thursday night when a group of the Pentecostal faith, headed for the home of a communicant to hold service, were pelted with mud and stones.

Free-For-All

On Friday night a free-for-all was staged, in which Wilbert Swicker was stabbed in the arm by an unknown assailant.

Defying their persecutors, the society members attempted to hold another meeting on Saturday night at the home of Albert Langille. A mob of about 100 gathered around and started a siege of the house which lasted from eight o'clock that night until two o'clock the next morning. They stoned the building and broke every window in it. A section of the mob adjourned to the dwelling of B. Shupe, leader of the sect, and set about smashing windows there.

Mounted police arrived from Bridgewater and scattered the mob, arrested four men on charges of mischief and issued summonses for twelve others for the same offence. Ten more were summoned for interference on the highway in connection with Thursday's disturbances.

Snowfalls In West Holding Up Farmers

CALGARY, April 25 (C.P.) — Weather-tired folk in Southern Alberta to-day were peering into the clouds wondering what it was all about as the fall of rain and snow that started last Wednesday continued to soak the countryside. Old timers struggled to recall such lengthy precipitation, and farmers in some sections were beginning to fear it would seriously retard seeding operations.

To-day a fine, thin snow was tumbling over Calgary and district while other Central and Southern areas reported rain. The dismal, murky weather still gripped Lethbridge district as rain fell over an already dripping countryside. Abundant moisture has been received by the wheat farmer who has seldom, in the last ten years, had such a start for his crop.

WORKMAN BADLY HURT IN PLANT EXPLOSION

BUFFALO, April 25 (C.P.). — A workman was seriously injured and part of the Niagara frontier fruit terminal, on the east side of the city, was badly damaged by a gas explosion early to-day.

Joseph Dilauro, 19, was taken to a hospital, where he was reported in a critical condition, with severe burns on almost every part of his body.

Firemen said a pilot light on a gas water heater had gone out during the night, allowing gas to accumulate in the basement. Dilauro scratched a match to light the water heater, and the explosion followed.

TOWNS SHATTER BEFORE TORNADO IN TENNESEE

Twister Leaves Two Known Deaths and Several Reported Killed.

SCORES INJURED.

Planes Rush Doctors From Memphis—All Ambulances on Duty.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 25.—At least two persons were killed, several others were reported killed and a score or more were injured by a tornado that twisted into the northern end of Shelby County, Tennessee to-day.

Mrs. T. J. Dale, 65, a farmer's wife, died at a Memphis hospital after the roof of her house near Kerrville caved in. A negro, Robert Harris, 65, of Millington, died en route to a hospital. Mrs. Dale's husband, who was working in the fields, was injured, as were three negroes working with him.

All were brought to hospitals here.

Buildings Wrecked

Newspapermen who visited the town of Millington said about a dozen negroes were injured there and that although houses and other buildings were wrecked, there were no deaths there. The reporters hurried on a survey at the other towns reported hit.

First reports said Millington, Rosemark, Kerrville and possibly other towns were in the path of the twister and there were a number of persons injured. Airplanes rushed physicians from Memphis and all ambulance crews in the city were pressed into service.

Authorities are checking reports that several persons were killed at Rosemark. The injured are being rushed into Brunswick, another Shelby County community, nearby.

Twister in Arkansas

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., April 25.—A tornado struck in the vicinity of Osceola, 18 miles north of here, today, injuring several negroes and demolishing two cotton gins.

The tornado followed a severe hail, wind and electrical storm last night that up rooted trees and broke windows in houses. Thus far, no deaths have been reported in this community.

FARMER TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Gilbert Lohnes, Residing Near Frankford, is Found Dead in His Bedroom.

LIFE-LONG RESIDENT.

FRANKFORD, April 25. (Examiner Correspondent).—With the top of his head completely shattered, Gilbert Lohnes, sixty-year-old farmer near here was discovered to-day lying in a pool of blood in his son's bedroom. He was dead, having taken his own life, by means of an old-fashioned muzzle loading shot gun which lay at his side.

The victim of the tragedy had resided in the district all his life, and was held in highest respect and esteem by all who knew him. A prominent farmer and thresherman, he also owned a large amount of property at Frankford. Recently it is stated he had been worried over financial matters and during the past month had been acting strangely.

It is stated that his wife and two sons were in the farmyard, at noon to-day when they heard the report of the gun and rushed to the bedroom to find Mr. Lohnes was dead.

Dr. D. W. McMullen of Frankford and Dr. Alger of Stirling were summoned, and later Coroner Dr. W. B. Crowe of Trenton arrived. The latter found that it was a plain case of suicide, and deemed an inquest unnecessary.

The deceased man was a prominent member of the Free Methodist Church at Trenton. He is survived by his widow and by three sons and one daughter.

RUMOR PRINCE ISLAM DROWNED.

CAIRO, April 25.—(A.P.)—There was a report that Prince Seif Ul Islam, second son of Imam Yahya the Imam of Yemen, had drowned while bathing in the sea at Hodeida.

The News created a sensation throughout the Yemen, that extensive region of South-western Arabia which the Imam rules.

Firemen Battle Against Big Odds At Campbellford

Mounting Flames of Pulpwood Pile Light Up Wide Zone During an All Night Fire at Campbellford Which Causes $125,000 Damage.

8,000 CORDS OF PULPWOOD ARE DESTROYED PETERBOROUGH FIREMEN AID IN BIG FIGHT

Johnson Motor Company Also Rendered Valuable Assistance With Two Pumpers—Employees' Quarters is Also Destroyed—Mill is Saved.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 25.—(Examiner Staff Reporter)—In a spectacular fire that totally consumed an 8,000 cord pile of seasoned pulpwood at the Hydro Electric Commission Pulp Mill here, damage estimated at $125,000 was caused over the week-end. The loss is covered by insurance.

A smouldering pile of ashes and strangely contorted railway tracks adjacent is all that remains today of the immense pile of pulpwood, the glare from which lighted up the countryside on Saturday night in a radius of many miles. A two-storey frame dwelling and contents situated near the blazing pile and formerly tenanted by Ben Ibey, was also destroyed.

Starting at noon on Saturday at the north end of the larger pile of pulpwood, the fire gained rapid headway, the flames being fanned by a stiff breeze to the southward and threatening destruction of a smaller pile of rossed wood and the mill buildings.

Appealed for Assistance

Campbellford Town Fire Department battled valiantly, assisted by a large body of townspeople. A small pumping engine was also rushed from Healy Falls by Jack Nesbitt Equipment and water pressure was totally inadequate and Elie Brunelle, plant manager requested aid from Peterborough, Belleville and Trenton. Peterborough responded, the Canadian Johnson Motor Company sending two Johnson-Tremblay 32 h.p. engines which performed splendidly, outclassing all other equipment at the fire; and in the evening a steam fire engine arrived from Peterborough City Fire Department, along with six men under Fire Chief George Gimblett.

Eight high pressure lines were brought to bear on the fire, along with two other streams of water through one-and-a-half inch hose, and after a terrific battle the fire was got under control shortly before 2 o'clock on Sunday morning.

The origin of the fire is obscure. First intimation of trouble was received on Friday afternoon when a small outbreak occurred in the pile of rossed wood immediately adjacent to the mill premises. It was easily extinguished.

Second Outbreak

The second outbreak of fire, which ended so disastrously broke out at the extreme north end of the larger pile of pulpwood, and made such rapid progress that it was soon doomed to complete destruction.

Upon the arrival of the Peterborough Fire Department steam pumper at 9.45 Saturday night, the fire presented the appearance of a great mountain glowing at white heat. Covering an area of about two acres and rising to a height of about 75 feet the great pile was glowing almost from end to end.

Equipment already at the scene including the two Johnson Motors pumps and the Campbellford Fire Department water lines was concentrating its entire attention to the south end of the pile which was in imminent danger of breaking through and involving the rest of the plant in destruction.

Taking command Fire Chief Gimblett brought two other lines to bear on the end of the pile in

FREEDOM GIVEN TO TWO FLIERS

Pretty Miami Girl Claims She, Not Mrs. Keith-Miller, Was Clark's Fiance.

INQUEST TO-DAY.

MIAMI, April 25. — Both Mrs. Keith-Miller, Australian flyer, and her partner, Capt. W. N. Lancaster, have been released from custody and authorities turned to other lines of investigation today in their attempt to solve the death of the woman's finance, Haden Clarke.

State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne conferred last night with Peace Justice Thomas S. Ferguson and the two decided to postpone pending further enquiry an inquest that originally was set for today. The two said they wished to go into all possible angles of the case before the inquest is held.

Mrs. Keith-Miller and Lancaster were listed as witnesses for the inquest along with Miss Peggy Brown, pretty young Miami woman who appeared at the State Attorney's office Saturday as a volunteer witness saying she, and not Mrs. Keith-Miller, was Clarke's finance.

Smuggling Story Checked

The woman flyer was released from jail here Saturday after she convinced authorities she could not aid them in classifying Clarke's death as a suicide or slaying. Lancaster also was released only to be re-arrested by federal officers for questioning about a plan to smuggle narcotics into the United States from Mexico by aeroplane. The Federal authorities freed him yesterday saying they were certain he had no knowledge or part in the plot.

Clarke was found fatally wounded in his bedroom in Mrs. Keith-Miller's home here several days ago where he and Lancaster were guests. He was shot a few hours after he and Mrs. Keith-Miller told Lancaster of their plans to marry. Both flyers expressed the belief he shot himself.

BILL RIGHTS COMEDY

LONDON.—The comedy which bean last Thursday with the discovery by Lord Hailsham, war minister, that presidents of the British Board of Trade were not technically entitled to a seat in the House of Commons, ended this evening when a bill regulating the position became law. The bill, introduced hurriedly when Lord Tailsham announced his discovery, has been passed by both the Commons and the House of Lords.

BOMBINGS CONTINUE.

NELSON, B.C., April 25 (C.P.).—Another bombing outrage, the fifth in areas near the Doukhobor settlement in seven days, was reported here when rumors that the Robson Irrigation District's flume had been dynamited in the vicinity of the dam, were confirmed by a resident of Robson over the long distance telephone.

POSSIBILITIES OF CONFERENCE ABLY DISCUSSED

W. S. Campbell Outlines Some Problems of Great Empire Trade Parley.

DIRECTORS CHOSEN.

Rotarians Name Their Managing Board at Regular Luncheon To-day.

The election of directors for the coming year and a most informative address on the Imperial Economic Conference by W. S. Campbell of the Canadian General Electric Co., Toronto, and formerly of Peterborough, were highlights of the weekly luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel today.

From the ten names selected by the nominating committee the following Rotarians were chosen as directors: James Juby, Dr. A. Moir, Jack L. Gillespie, Doug. Loomis and Chris. G. Graham. Rotarians Percy Borland and R. J. Kidd acted as scrutineers.

Introduced by Rotarian John Bell Mr. Campbell pointed out that the coming conference was the first of its kind to be held in Canada and called attention to the statement of Canada's High Commissioner that the British delegates were coming to Ottawa in the spirit of generous co-operation.

The visit to Canada last year of representatives of the Federation of British Industries was recalled with the recommendation made by Sir

TROOPS RETURN TO MANCHURIA

Japs Prepare for Trouble as Insurgent Movement Grows Alarmingly.

REBELS RAIDING.

TOKYO, April 25 (A.P.)—The 39th Japanese Army Brigade, which was ordered to return to its normal post in Korea recently, has been instructed to remain in Manchuria indefinitely because of the growth of the insurgent movement there, it was announced to-day.

This unit previously had been stationed in the Chinchow area. It was replaced there by the Eighth Division and was passing through Mukden on its way to Harbin when the orders were changed. The new order means that Japan will keep four full divisions in Manchuria, besides auxiliary troops.

The rebels under General Li Hai-Tsing, who raided Sanchao yesterday, had retreated northward by the time Japanese troops arrived there to oppose them. Although they were cleared from the railway line traffic on the southern branch of the Chinese Eastern has not yet been restored because several considerable stretches of track were destroyed.

An international train, which was reported to have been seized by the rebels, returned to Harbin today with all the passengers safe.

Let Us Forget That Corner

Assuring ourselves that "prosperity is just around the corner has not helped us in our business difficulties.

Catch-phrases may serve political ends in the brief period of an election campaign, but hopeful slogans are not of much power when wheels are to be turned, goods produced and the public persuaded of the need of buying and spending.

If we would forget all about that corner idea, and visualize our position in its reality, we should at least be free from the sluggish effect of a drugging notion that we don't have to do anything to help ourselves, but that from some vague source a new tide of prosperity will overtake us and sweep us back to the comforts of solvency, abundant employment and the accustomed standards of living.

As a community we should accomplish more by forgetting the fiction of the corner of prosperity, and provide for one another as much work as we can. Then, if we do suddenly come upon that corner of the optimists we will be in a better position to catch its tide and rhythm.

Furthermore, as a community we are in a comparatively favorable position due to the diversity of our industries and the soundness of our municipal methods.

Many of our citizens can do something to put substance into this "Give a Man a Job" campaign, and respond to the appeal which many who are unemployed are anxiously hoping will produce some material results.

Is is not the work that has already been started, but the numerous other jobs, even the odd jobs, that will count if those who can will only do their share.

"Oh, the little more, and how much it is—"

DOMINION SIGNS TRADE TREATY WITH N. ZEALAND

Five Cents Per Pound Tariff on Butter Set by Canada.

RAW WOOL FREE.

Parliamentary Approval Expected Before Prorogation Next Month.

OTTAWA, April 25. — Canada and New Zealand, it was reported last night, have signed a trade agreement. The pact was executed on behalf of the two sister Dominions during the week-end, it is understood. An official announcement of the terms of the agreement is expected to be made within the next 48 hours when certain arrangements have been completed. In the meantime, no official confirmation is available.

The agreement gives Canada, it is understood, considerable concessions under the British preference to exports of this country, largely manufactured. The duty on butter coming into Canada from New Zealand, it is reported, will be five cents per pound. This rate is similar to the duty on Australian butter. Imports of New Zealand wool will likely be on the free list under the British preference.

Agreement Shortly.

The agreement is fully expected to be tabled in the House of Commons this session. Parliamentary approval will probably be given to the pact before prorogation next month.

In May, 1925, it will be recalled, Canada and Australia entered into a trade agreement. The provisions of the treaty were extended shortly afterwards to New Zealand by Order-in-Council. On May 1, 1930, notice was given to New Zealand that this arrangement would be cancelled on November 1 of that year.

Negotiations towards a trade treaty have been under way for some time between Canada and New Zealand. In December last, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Hon. Downie Stewart, New Zealand Minister of Customs, conferred in Honolulu on the subject.

U. S. Senate Is Undecided On Exchange Probe Move

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(A.P.)—A decision faced the U. S. Senate's banking committee to-day on whether to send agents into Wall Street brokerage houses to obtain the full story of operation and effect of stock market pools, in which widely known figures have participated.

The trial of testimony so far taken, in the committee's investigation of the New York Stock exchange, has been led to establish existence of these combines, formed to profit by rise or fall of a particular stock, but have stopped dead when it came to proving what the pool traders did to force prices in the direction by which they planned to profit

Lindsay Man Held On Arson Charge

LINDSAY, April 25 (Special to The Examiner). — William V. Mitchell, of Omemee, appeared before Police Magistrate Jordan on Saturday on the charge of arson, and was remanded without bail until Tuesday. His arrest followed the destruction by fire on Friday night of a shack situated on the Mill Pond at Omemee, and owned by Albert Brooks. Brooks had been at the shack that evening and about half an hour after his departure, it was discovered on fire. Besides the building, a rifle, traps, two boats, clothing, and a valuable violin were destroyed. Brooks estimated his loss at $500. As a result of certain information furnished the authorities, Constable Nelson visited Mitchell's house late on Friday night and placed him under arrest.

MILLIONS TO INVEST

VICTORIA, April 26.—Millions of dollars of British investment funds are available for the development of Empire enterprises where fair returns can be shown for bonafide industrial projects, Major Gordon C. Home, official of the Empire Development Association of London, England, said Saturday, after a call at the Legislative Buildings.

Two Lose Lives In Spring Storm

DENVER, April 25.—A man and a woman lost their lives when snow storms displaced Spring weather in the Rockies over the week-end.

Mrs. B. E. Snowden, school teacher near Trinidad, Colo., apparently died from exposure while wandering in a blizzard. Her body was found in a deserted cabin four miles from her rural school.

Over-exertion and heart disease caused the death of C. C. Johnson, Marion, Kas., who was walking from a snowbound bus west of Cheyenne, Wyo.

ALIENISTS DENY MASSIE INSANE

Prosecutor Brings Third Specialist to Show Killing Done in Revenge.

WILY DARROW WAITING.

HONOLULU, April 25—(CP)—The insanity plea of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie on trial with three others for the slaying of a native, faced a final attack today by another expert in the workings of the human mind.

To the testimony of two physicians that Massie was not insane when he slew Joseph Kahahawai, whom he was convinced criminally attacked Mrs. Massie, the prosecution was prepared to add the testimoney of a third—Dr. Joseph Catton, Stanford University psychiatrist.

Dr. Catton was to take the witness stand to again stress to the jury of mixed racial origin the prosecution's contention the Hawaiian was slain by a sane man, killing with revenge in his heart. The defence contends the United States naval officer became temporarily insane while trying to obtain a confession that would restore his wife's good name.

Dr. Catton is the last witness by which Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley hopes to send Massie, his society matron mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and two navy enlisted men, Albert Jones and E. J. Lord to prison.

Submits Long Report

The psychiatrist was brought here from the mainland last week and court was adjourned Saturday to permit him to complete his study of the case. Yesterday he submitted a long report to Kelley. Its contents were not revealed, but as was learned Dr. Catton agreed with Drs. Paul Bowers and Robert Faus, the physicians who testified Friday, that Massie was sane when he fired the shot that killed Kahahawai.

With the defence resting upon Massie's plea of temporary insanity, Kelley was concentrated upon trying to convince the jury that he was not insane, for, under Hawaiian law, if Massie is innocent by reason of insanity, then all of the defendants are innocent.

Strange Sea Beast Is Washed Ashore

MIAMI, April 25.—Natural historians here are puzzled over the classification of a strange sea beast whose body was found on the beach at Upper Matecumpe Key, South of Miami.

James E. Carey, near whose home the beast was found, described it as being five feet long, with an estimated weight of 75 pounds. A small head surmounted a thick body that ended in a blunt tail. The body was covered with reddish-brown hair, about four inches long, except for the centre of the back, where a mane of coarse white hair, resembling pig bristles, was found.

The beast's teeth were long, triangular and set in double rows.

GREECE CABINET VOTES TO QUIT GOLD STANDARD

ATHENS, Greece, April 25 (C.P.). — The Cabinet voted to-day to suspend the gold standard.

It had been generally expected that Greece would go off the gold standard, for Premier Venizelos has been conferring for several days with outstanding financiers and industrialists.

They made no announcement, but it was generally known that the advisability of abandoning gold was the subject of the several meetings.

On Friday Kriakos Varvaressos, councillor to the Bank of Greece, was appointed Minister of Finance to succeed G. Maris. This was regarded as significant inasmuch as the new minister advocated abandoning the gold standard.

Meaning of Arkansas Judge's Jokes Left for Supreme Court to Decide

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Apr. 25—The Arkansas Supreme Court has been asked to decide whether Judge John L. Bledsoe's jokes contain humor or prejudice.

When Fulton circuit court jury trying Richmond and Lester Harris for the theft of four hogs was unable to agree, Judge Bledsoe told the joke about the deadlocked jury.

The vote, said the court, stood 11-1 and when the trial judge ordered the sheriff to prepare 12 dinners a juror suggested the order be changed to 11 dinners and a bale of hay.

The Harris jury listened, retired and brought in a verdict of guilty.

Defense attorneys told the supreme court the joke inferred that the man who would not agree with the others "probably was a jackass or some other kind of four-footed animal."

Lindberghs Moving From Sourland Hills

HOPEWELL, N.J., April 25 (C.P.). —The Lindberghs will move back to Englewood this week, probably on Wednesday, away from the Sourland Hills home that has been the scene of so much sorrow for them in recent weeks.

Headquarters of the New Jersey State police, in charge of the hunt for the kidnapped Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., will be at Trenton. Only two or three State troopers will be left at the estate to guard it against trespassers.

There have been no developments in the child hunt for several days.

SCOTT MAKING FAST TIME.

SINGAPORE.—C. W. A. Scott, British airman seeking to establish a new record for the flight from England to Australia, arrived here to-day at 5.55 p.m. local time. HITLER FIGHTS GREAT BATTLE TO HEAD DIET

Natonal Socialists Become Strongest Political Party in 4 of 9 States.

LACK COMPLETE CONTROL.

Need Support of Bruening's 67 Followers to Form Ministry.

BERLIN, April 25. (A.P.)—Adolf Hitler's National Socialist had become the strongest political party in four of the five German states to-day, as a result of a sweep of yesterday's diet elections, but it still lacked a clear road to control of any of them. In Bavaria alone did they run slightly behind.

The election, which came as a climax to the preceding two presidential elections in which Hitler's Fascist legions fought bitterly and futilely to place him at the head of the Reich resulted in three deaths, many other casualties, hundreds of arrests and many minor disorders.

Big Gain in Prussia

In Prussia, which covers two-thirds of Germany and where the fight was most bitter because of the theory that whoever controls Prussia controls the Reich, the Hitlerite forces garnered in 162 seats, in comparison with the nine they held heretofore.

This left the Nazis exactly even with the coalition which makes up the present government. The coalition also secured 162 seats.

The consensus to-day was that the result of the Prussian election would probably mean the resignation of Premier Otto Braun and his government, but that he would be likely to continue to hold office, perhaps indefinitely, while a struggle took place over the formation of a new workable coalition.

The National Socialists, with the four minor opposition parties, command only 203 out of the 422 seats in the Prussian diet. They could form a government only if the 67 members of the Centrist party, which is that of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, were to support them.

The rule is that the present government holds over, in any event, until a new one is formed with the support of 51 percent of the diet.

Communists Go Ahead

The only other party in Prussia to make a gain was the Communist which now has 57 seats compared with its former 48. The Social Democrats (Socialists) were the heavy losers. They dropped from 137 seats to 97. Even the Catholic Centrists lost four seats.

The Hitlerites polled 7,444,000 votes in Prussia; the Socialists 4,251,000; the Centrists, 3,241,000; Communists, 2,620,000; German Nationals, 1,427,000; People's party, 325,000; State's party, 291,000; Economic, 179,000; smaller parties, 279,000.

The National Socialists led also in the less important State Diet elections in Wurtemburg, Hamburg and Anhalt. In Bavaria, they ran neck and neck with the Bavarian People's Party for first place, losing out only by 1,000 votes. The People's Party received 1,272,000 votes; the Nazis 1,271,000. The best of the vote was scattered among the Social Democrats and four other minor parties.

Head the Polls

In Wurtemburg, the Nazis polled 328,000; the Social Democrats, 206,000; the Centrists, 254,000; the Communists, 116,000, and the German Nationals, 254,000.

In Hamburg the National Socialists led the Socialists by a slender margin, 234,000 to 226,000. The Communists polled 119,000; and six other parties dwindling votes as low as 5,000.

In Anhalt the National Socialists led with 90,000. The Socialists received 75,000; the Communists, 20,000, and other parties less, down to 1,000 for the Socialist Labor party.

SEVEN ARE HELD IN MURDER CASE

Oklahoma Sheriff Claims Prisoners Belong to Organized Forgery Gang.

EXPECT RESCUE ATTEMPT.

TISHMONINGO, Okla., April 25 (C.P.).—Under heavy guard in the Johnston County Jail, seven men were held here to-day on charges of murder in connection with the death of Jim Wood, wealthy Indian farmer, while officers investigated charges the slaying was by an organized forgery and stolen bond gang.

Sheriff Fred Hunt said he had information the men who killed Wood were part of an international ring which has been dealing in bonds, diamonds and Canadian liquor.

Three men, arrested on the charge at Oklahoma City and said to have confessed to participation in the shooting of Wood, were brought here yesterday under special guard after Oklahoma County officers received a "tip" that Chicago gangsters were on their way to the State to kill three of the seven men and liberate the others.

DENY ARCHBISHOP ILL

LONDON, April 25 (A.P.)—The private secretary of the Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, to-day denied reports from Cannes, France, that the Archbishop was ill there of sciatica.

"The report is entirely without foundation," the secretary said. "He is quite well."

If you want an ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR you can have it now

... and it means real savings in food, health protection for your family, and great convenience as well.

THERE is no need to wait to enjoy the benefits of an electric refrigerator. A few simple arrangements will put one in your home at once, and the moderate purchase price can be spread over many months.

An important advantage of an electric refrigerator — particularly where there are children — is that it protects health. Most foods, you know, spoil rapidly at temperatures higher than 50 degrees. An electric refrigerator maintains a temperature lower than this, so that even the most perishable foods are kept fresh and wholesome.

These are times for thrift . . . that is another reason for an electric refrigerator. It permits you to keep for future meals, food that might otherwise not be used. It allows you, also, to take full advantage of special sales of vegetables, meats, and fruit.

And last, but not least, the convenience of an electric refrigerator is to be remembered. You have ice cubes always on hand. You can make frozen salads and desserts easily and quickly. And you have never a worry as to whether the milk and cream will keep fresh.

Go to a dealer today. Ask for a demonstration. See how much food can be accommodated in the electric refrigerator you would like to own.

A delightful birthday party was given on Friday afternoon by St. James' Ladies' Aid in honor of the members whose birthdays fall in April. Mrs. H. J. Davidson, the convenor, with her clever committee, arranged a pleasant afternoon's enjoyment in the splendid program presented. The president, Mrs. W. D. Sargent, presided over the meeting, which opened with a short devotional service. A musical program followed including charming vocal solos by Mrs. H. Turner and Mrs. Bert Cutmore. Piano duets were contributed by the Misses Olive Prest and Aileen Rose, while Mrs. Emery gave a group of very interesting readings. The balance of the program was taken over by Mrs. Munn who greeted, with all good wishes the ten ladies in whose honor the party was given. The pastor of the church also congratulated the ladies and extended his best wishes for success, not only in a personal sense but for the work in which they are engaged.

Later the guests were invited to the tea-room where the social committee, under Mrs. Pratt's capable direction, served delicious refreshments. The tables were lovely with Spring flowers, especially the guest table, at which were seated the ten "April" members. Great regret was expressed at the absence through illness, of three other members, who were also to have been honored at this fete. During the afternoon several appropriate hymns were sung, and at the conclusion the Doxology was followed by the Benediction.

OUR MAIL

Dear Miss Wilcox:

I would indeed be grateful if you would tell me in what month the George Wade Street Dance took place in Peterborough. I am not sure whether it was in August or September, 1931.

As it means so much to me, could you publish it in the Women's Page and oblige.

A SUBSCRIBER.

The event to which you refer was held in the Armories at Peterborough on August 28, 1931.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS REPEATS COMEDY DRAMA

The Excelsior Class of St. James' United Church presented the comedy-drama, "The Gate to Happiness," under the direction of Mrs. Ernest Kitney, in the auditorium of George Street United Church Sunday School, on Friday evening to a very appreciative audience.

The plot, which is extremely interesting throughout is full of dramatic complications arising out of the masquerading of a beautiful dancing star who impersonates the sweet little school teacher in a neighborhood where everybody knows everybody else.

The audience was moved to tears, quickly followed by laughter by the clever impersonation of these young actors.

A splendid musical program between acts was rendered by Jack and Ashton Fife and Clifford Russaw.

13-YEAR-OLD GIRL MISSING

WINNIPEG.—Police to-day are searching for Ileane, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Hart, of Norwood, a suburb of this city, who has been missing since Saturday, when she was returning from a visit to friends.

THE MODERN MAN BURNS HIMSELF UP.

Excepting trained athletes, we moderns are puny creatures compared with our forefathers. Even athletes soon burn out eating acid-forming foods, the great cause of modern physical inferiority. From 32 to 50 Dr. Jackson was one of the unfit. At 50 Dr. Osler gave him four months to live, dying from acid-forming foods He then invented alkali-forming Roman Meal. Before that he had lived on the ground floor, unable to climb stairs. Four years afterwards he climed the fifty storeys in Washington's Monument, up and down, solely due to the alkalinizing properties in Roman Meal. In January, 1930, when seventy-two, he ran five miles in forty-seven minutes—was not even winded; again due to Roman Meal. Write for free booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL," and other literature, also sample of Roman Meal and Kofy-sub, the new alkaline beverage to ROBT G. JACKSON, M.D., 503 Vine Ave., Toronto 9, Ont.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

A buffet supper is a most popular way of entertaining friends.

• • • • • • •

It is in high favor with the friends because of its informality, and the hostess gives it a good word because it makes it possible for her to entertain easily a large number of congenial friends at the same time and with less help than is demanded by a formal meal.

• • • • • • •

A buffet supper is often served before a theatre party, but will do in a less elaborate form for an after the theatre supper. The same menu may be used for a luncheon as well.

• • • • • • •

In planning such a supper be sure that some generally liked foods are included. There will usually be among the guests the man who "just can't bear" oysters and the woman who loathes cheese.

• • • • • • •

Don't banish these two delectable foods from the table, but include a staple such as cold ham or chicken, which will provide even the professional food hater with something satisfactory.

• • • • • • •

A creamed chicken may be used to supply the hot dish which should in some form always be included in the menu.

• • • • • • •

A buffet supper should please the eye as well as the palate and a little care in garnishing will be worth while. Foods which attract because of color contrasts may well be considered.

• • • • • • •

A ring of jelly surrounding a vegetable salad on a silver platter is the more attractive if small tomatoes stuffed with crab, lobster or tuna salad are placed around it.

• • • • • • •

Potato croquettes, hot rolls and coffee will give the warmth which such a supper needs unless a chicken a la king or Newburg is used to replace the cold cuts.

• • • • • • •

In such a case the bread and butter sandwiches may take the place of the rolls. Tiny baking powder biscuits are sometimes served. Either should be split and buttered before being passed.

• • • • • • •

Everything for the first course should be on the table before serving is begun. The coffee in an urn or pot should be at one end of the table with the cups and saucers nearby.

• • • • • • •

The plates, napkins and silver should be next with the dishes containing food following each other so that the guests may help themselves.

• • • • • • •

A second course of an ice and small cakes is already prepared in the kitchen can easily be served by one person directly to the guests. This is more simple than clearing the central table for dessert service.

• • • • • • •

A parfait, mousse or creamy gelatine can be attractively arranged in sherbet glasses and passed on a plate with the cake.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

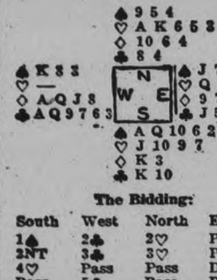
TAKE TWO MINUTES NOW

Down in the Mexican oil fields centering around Tampico, there are some very keen Contract players, and one of the notable students of the game there is Mr. E. K. O'Brien, to whom I am indebted for the hand which is the text of today's article.

Mr. O'Brien, in sending the hand, stated that he failed to make game, but that after going to be he mulled over the distribution and in two minutes saw how the contract could have been made against any defense. Therein is a very fine lesson for every player at the Contract table; that is, do your thinking when you can convert your thoughts into the contract-making trick.

Both sides vulnerable.

South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	2♣	2♡	Pass
2NT	3♣	3♡	Pass
4♡	Pass	Pass	Dbl.
Pass	5♣	Pass	Pass
Dbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

West, although his partner had maintained continuous silence, had reached a contract of five clubs, which was doubled by South. South had opened the bidding with one spade, North had bid hearts, and South had assisted that contract to four, after showing a stopper in the club suit by bidding two notrump.

North opend the King of hearts and when the Dummy went down it was apparent that only the most accurate play could make the contract. The location of the King of diamonds and the King of clubs was plainly marked. South must hold these cards to justify the Opening bid of one spade, vulnerable. To make the bid therefore required two entries in the Dummy. How were these to be obtained? Mr. O'Brien did not find the solution in play, but I am sure that the readers of this article, if they will devote sufficient study to the hands given above, will reach it.

I will assume now a sufficient time given to the play of the hand and, in order that you may see I have reached the same conclusion as you, I will indicate my line of play.

The first round of hearts, of course, is ruffed in the closed hand. The second and key play of the entire hand is now up to the Declarer. The choice of the lead upon which his contract depends is before him. Under these conditions, I would lead the Queen of Clubs, hoping that the clubs were divided two in each hand and that South would thus be compelled to win a trump trick at once. The readers will observe that this situation develops exactly as I planned. South must either take the club trick now or give it up forever. His choice is not a difficult one as tricks are very vital when he knows there are none obtainable in the heart suit, and his King of Diamonds may well fall prey to the Declarer's Ace. South, therefore, must win the club trick and his correct return is a heart which is trumped by the Declarer.

A trump is now led to the Dummy and the Knave holds the trick. The 2 of diamonds is led and the diamond finessed. When the finesse wins, the Declarer cannot sacrifice his remaining entry in Dummy to lead a second round through South's King. The apparent distribution of the South hand is four hearts, five spades, two clubs and two diamonds. One of the diamonds is certainly the King. West, therefore, now lays down the Ace of Diamonds and the King falls. The remaining diamond honor picks up North's last diamond and the nine spot of diamonds in the Dummy affords a second entry to the hand.

Now a spade is led and it is immaterial how South plays. If he plays the Ace, West, of course, plays low. If he plays any other card of the suit, West plays the King, concedes a spade trick and makes his contract of five-odd.

The hand is both unusual and extremely interesting because its sucess depends entirely upon the factor of time—in other words, upon compelling South to win the first and not the second round of trumps.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: What inferences may be drawn from Forcing bids?

Answer: That the bidder sees game and possibility of Slam if partner has additional values.

ANSWERS TO QUESTION

Exaggerated Timidity

Question: North and South are vulnerable and have 40 on rubber game. South bid two hearts. North held:

Spades A Q J 9 8 6
Hearts —
Diamonds A J 10 9 7 6
Clubs 9

South held:

Spades x x x
Hearts A K J 10 x x
Diamonds K x
Clubs A K

North bid two spades, South three hearts, North four diamonds, South four notrump.

Even though the hands made five notrump South criticized North for bidding at all. Please give your opinion on this very interesting hand. I was playing North and felt that we had Slam possibilities and we would have made Small Slam in spades as the King lay West two deep. The diamond Queen was four deep on the East.

Answer: The hand is an almost sure Small Slam in spades which should be arrived at without much difficulty (after North has shown two strong suits. South could raise the spades, although holding slightly below adequate trump support, in view of the powerful outside holding). South's criticism is entirely unjustified.

Response to Opening Two Notrump Bid

Question: North dealt and bid two notrump. (Not vulnerable and no part-score). South holds:

Spades J
Hearts J 10 9 8 7
Diamonds J x x x
Clubs x x x

What should he bid and why?

Answer: Although ordinarily a two notrump bid should not be raised or taken out with less than 1 honor-trick, the unbalanced distribution of this hand makes a bid of three hearts advisable. This bid should still be safe especially holding touching cards from the Knave down and four hearts might even be made if partner's hand is very strong.

Procedure after Overcall of Partner's Opening Two-Bid

Question: Must partner respond to an Opening two-bid even though there be an intervening bid?

Answer: An intervening bid to the left of a player opening with a two-bid releases his partner from any obligation to respond on that round. He should not make any call with less than I honor-trick unless holding a distributional Raise which might be given under those circumstances. For instance, South two hearts; West two spades; North holding:

Spades x
Hearts J x x x x
Diamonds K 10 x x
Clubs x x x

could bid thre hearts. A pass will be the most eloquent way of showing a weak hand.

S.O.S. and Penalty Doubles

Question: When is a Redouble made by the Opening bidder over an adverse Takeout Double intended to penalize the opponents or to score game and when is it meant as an S.O.S.?

Answer:

South	West	North	East
1 NT or 1 heart	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

Redbl.

In this situation the Redobue by South is not a cry for help, but rather an attempt to score at a low contract or penalize the opponents if they bid. The reason is obvious. Partner (North) still has an opportunity to bid if the Double is left in by West and his hand should be totally unsuited for South's bid, but offers a comparatively safe rescue.

South	West	North	East
1 NT or 1 heart	Dbl.	Pass	Pass

Redbl.

This time the Redouble is an S.O.S., showing an evenly balanced hand and requesting partner (North) to takeout in his best suit. Both opponents have shown strength and if South passes North will have no opportunity to bid a weak five or six-card suit. His first pass was made without knowledge that the Double would be left in and merely denied Takeout values, which, however, does not necessarily mean that some other bid is not safer if South has a weak notrump or only four cards in hearts with the trumps bunched against him.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.
YOUR HEALTH BANKER.

Some years ago I wrote a short series comparing the body to an automobile—the stomach was like the gas tank, the small intestine like the carburetor, the gas was the food eaten, and so forth.

Once or twice a year I like to compare the body to a business, with its assets and liabilities—the assets being the body the folks gave you and what you have done with it, and the liabilities any inherited weaknesses, and any lack of care, or unfortunate happenings to your body.

A short time ago I came across a little booklet called Who's Your Health Banker? written by Dr. George B. Lake, Chicago, which likened your health to your financial resources.

"You start life with a deposit of energy and resistance to disease bequeathed to you by your parents. You make deposits from day to day in the form of food, air, and sunshine

Every physical act of work or play, every mental act, and every emotion (fear, anger, excitement) is a check drawn against your energy balance.

Do you keep your health balance in a sock under the mattress and and spend from it hit or miss Or have you made contact with your health banker (your family doctor), so that he can assist you in keeping your energy account in a sound and flourishing condition.

A burglar, in the form of a long and serious illness, may steal the savings of a lifetime to-morrow night.

To prevent losing your savings, your health, you should consult your family doctor and spend not less than an hour and a half having him examine you thoroughly. Tell him everything about your family and yourself that may have any bearing on your health. With all that you tell him, and all he can find for himself during the examination, he will be able to advise you whether to increase your deposits—food, air, and sunshine—or decrease your expenditures—mental, physical and emotional—or both.

He may discover that some of your investments from a health standpoint have been unsound and are likely to result in serious loss (disease). In that case he can almost always tell you how to escape from the threatening situation, or at least lessen the risk to the lowest possible point.

The thought then is that you should see your family doctor at least once or twice a year, and find out how your health balance stands.

Remember, good health is the greatest human asset.

TWEED, April 25.—The regular monthly meeting of the Mission Circle was held at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) Dales. Departing from the usual custom of meeting at 8 o'clock, the members numbering 22, assembled at 6:30 and sat down to a dinner provided by the members of the organization.

Following the dinner, the president, Miss Mary Logan, called the meeting to order. Mrs. M. Ardenne gave an interesting account of the first part of Chapter VI of the study book, "Korea, Land of the Dawn."

Miss Dorothy Sager favored with a solo. Miss H. Grindell, of the High School staff continued the discussion of the Study book. The president who had been in attendance at the Presbyterial which met recently in Belleville, gave a detailed report of the proceedings.

NEW RECIPES TO 'DRESS UP' SPRING MEALS.

Yorkshire Pudding.

1 cup milk.
½ cup flour.
2 eggs.
¼ teaspoon salt.

Mix salt and flour, stir in milk gradually and add beaten eggs and beat mixture until smooth. Cover bottom of a shallow pan with some of beef fat tried out from roast, pour mixture in pan one-half inch deep. Bake in hot oven over (450 degrees Fahrenheit) twenty minutes. Cut in squares for serving. Bake, if preferred, in greased hissing-hot iron gem pans.

Southern Spoon Bread.

2 cups white cornmeal.
2½ cups boiling water.
1½ tablespoons melted butter.
1½ teaspoons salt.
2 egg yolks.
1½ cups sour milk.
1 teaspoon soda.
2 egg whites.

Add cornmeal gradually to boiling water and let stand fifteen minutes. Add butter, salt, egg yolks, slightly beaten, and sour milk mixed with soda. Add whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) forty minutes.

Fruit Stuffing.

3 cups chopped apples.
1 cup seeded raisins.
1 chopped onion.
1 teaspoon salt.
Paprika.

Mint Sauc

½ cup vinegar.
1 tablespoon sugar.
1-3 cup chopped mint leaves.

Heat the vinegar, remove from the fire, add the sugar and stir until dissolved. Add the mint leaves and stand in a warm place for one hour. More sugar may be used.

RICE CREAM

½ cup rice
1 pint milk
1 teaspoon butter
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cold granulated gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 pint whipped cream
1 tablespoon sherry flavoring.

Steam rice, milk, butter and sugar one hour, then press through a ricer, or strain. Soak the gelatin in the warm water and melt over hot water and add to the strained rice. Cool and fold in the whipped cream flavored with sherry flavoring. Put in mold to chill. Serve with crushed fruit or chocolate sauce.

RADIO RECEPTION.

Apparently there has been a change of front at Ottawa in regard to radio inspection service, for W. F. Lytle, local part-time inspector who had been notified some time ago that his services, along with those of other inspectors, were to be dispensed, has now been informed that the interference service is to be continued.

It was a mystery to radio owners why the Government should double the cost of radio licenses and at the same time eliminate the inspection work for the carrying on of which the license system was originally established, and the announcement now that set-owners are to still have the advantage of this service will serve to make the increased fee a little more palatable, in spite of the knowledge that the revenue from this service far exceeds the expenditures made in the interest of radio reception.

With a $2 fee it should indeed be possible to materially improve reception conditions, in so far as the elimination of interference is concerned, and so long as the fiction is maintained that the license revenue is intended for just such a purpose, the public has a right to expect that everything possible to make conditions better for those who pay the license fee will be done.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC OFFICER.

The resignation of Lieut.-Col. Maurice H. Park from the command of the Peterborough Rangers should serve to concentrate attention upon the very splendid service rendered by that officer and the intense enthusiasm he has always shown in the interest of the Canadian militia in general and of his own unit in particular.

In recent years it has been no easy task for the men at the head of our militia units; the tendency of the powers-that-be has been to cut down steadily the grants for military training until the problem of financing has become a serious matter indeed for all militia organizations.

They have had to fight against the active opposition of such members of Parliament as Miss Agnes MacPhail, and against the indifference of a great many other people who fail to recognize the necessity of having some sound foundation for military training, and it speaks volumes for the sense of duty and the patriotism of militia officers, the vast majority of them veterans of the Great War, that in spite of all these obstacles the units have been maintained and excellent progress has been made.

Lieut.-Col. Park has been foremost among the officers who have worked in season and out for the building up of their respective corps; his zeal and enthusiasm have been a material factor in maintaining the Rangers as a worth-while unit, and with his retirement now he has earned the thanks of all those who sense the value to the nation of the nucleus of a citizen army ready for a time of emergency.

SIR HENRY DRAYTON RETIRES.

A re-organization of the Liquor Control Board, made possible by the retirement of Sir Henry Drayton, the chairman of that body, has been announced, with the intimation that the two remaining members of the board will carry on alone and thus a saving of some $25,000 a year will be effected.

Retrenchment in any department of the public service should be popular under present conditions, but The Examiner has never been able to see eye to eye with those people who have contended that there was no need for a highly paid control board and that its duties should be turned over to some department of the Government.

There is a moral aspect to this matter that cannot be ignored, and this paper is firmly of the opinion that the salary paid to Sir Henry Drayton and to his predecessor, Mr. Hanna, has been money well spent.

It was worth the expenditure to have the Government sale of liquor controlled by men in whom the public could place their trust, men who appreciated the responsibility of their position and have been alive to the fact that the system they have been administering was not intended to push the sale of liquor in Ontario but rather to control and check that sale.

It is to the credit of Sir Henry that he, like the first chairman, has done everything in his power to check irregularities, to impress upon vendors that their value was to be judged not by how much but by how little they sold, and to interpret the Liquor Control Act in the spirit rather than the letter of that legislation.

Ontario's liquor laws are acknowledged to be the most effective from the viewpoint of control in the Dominion, and for that condition much is due to the leadership of Sir Henry Drayton, who has earned general thanks by reason of his wise and conscientious carrying out of his important duties.

POLITICAL RE-ALIGNMENTS.

One of the striking things said by Mr. Hepburn in his Friday night address here was his remark that an interesting political re-alignment was in progress, that many of those now in the Liberal camp really belonged to the Conservative forces and many others who had been giving their allegiance to the Conservative cause would henceforth be found under the Liberal banner.

There may be some such shifting about, as the Liberal leader claimed but the thought will not down that there is a more significant change developing, although Mr. Hepburn and other leaders among the two old political parties are apparently not alive to the situation.

It is simply this, that there is an ever-growing proportion of the electorate which is becoming dissatisfied with the whole game of politics as it is being played by the old parties, and which is looking to some leader or some organization who will put the needs of the people and of the country before party advantage.

When men are out of work and their families are in want, when farmers are trying to carry a heavy burden of taxation with incomes cut to pieces by a collapse of farm commodity prices, when business is stricken and industry half paralized, this never-ceasing battling between political parties striving to enhance their own chances and destroy the prestige of their opponents is beginning to lose any glamor it may once have possessed.

The old game of the "Ins" and the "Outs" which disregards altogether the suffering and distress of thousands of Canadians at the present time, is making no friends for either of the contending parties.

What the people are looking for to-day is a way out to firmer ground, for a new deal that will give them a chance to live.

They don't care very much about what Mr. King did in 1929 or what Mr. Bennett promised in 1930, or to be fed a lot of statistics comparing this year with that; they realize that this country, in common with practically every country in the world, is suffering from an unusual condition, that it doesn't seem to make a great deal of difference what Government is in power or what policies are followed, the result is pretty much the same everywhere, and they have lost interest in political speeches that are merely destructive and in political battling that has a party rather than a national objective.

DANGER IN WORN TIRES.

It has been pretty definitely established that the rear right tire is the first to wear out, the rear left next, the front right next and the front left last of all.

As a result, practice has become almost general to shift the worn out rear tires to the front wheels with the idea of evening up the wear.

This, however, is dangerous. When a worn tire blows out on a rear wheel, while the car is travelling at a high rate of speed, the driver still has enough control of the front wheels to guide the car safely out of a dangerous skid.

When, however, a front tire lets go, and the car is moving fast, there is almost nothing the driver can do. The steering is thrown out of his control, the car is forced into a serious skid and there are great possibilities of injuries to all in the car.

Rather have a worn tire on a rear wheel, even though it will wear down so much faster, than risk it to the front. For greater safety, however, a tire that shows the first mark of a tread worn down to the fabric should be taken off and used only as a spare.

Even as a spare, it should be in use only long enough to get a good replacement. — Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

THE FIVE-DAY WEEK.

With an election just around the corner and Labor, as usual, arguing for shorter working hours, President Hoover is quoted as having come out for the five-day week. He looks upon this as a major means of increasing employment and re-establishing business on a firm foundation. To start with, he proposes application of the idea to the Government service. He estimates that the five-day week would provide jobs for 35,000 additional federal employees and at the same time reduce the total payroll about $90,000,000.

In taking this stand, Mr. Hoover equals in boldness the proposal made a few days previously by a man who may—possibly—be his opponent in the coming elections, ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith. Mr. Smith called for a 20-year lapse of memory by the United States in collecting war debts, and suggested a method by which purchases of goods from the United States would mean large discounts to be applied against the permanent reduction of the debts. Perhaps, indeed, Mr. Hoover's five-day week is designed to counteract the public reaction of Mr. Smith's stand. Affairs work out that way sometimes in politics.

Mr. Hoover's statement should attract a large Labor following to his banner. It may be just the factor which will throw preponderance of votes to the Republicans, instead of to the Democrats, next fall.

Up to a certain point, the five-day week idea has merit. No one can deny that a spreading out of labor opportunity would provide work for many more men and women. The chief difficulty in carrying the theory into practice lies in the fact that most employees, working for five days, would want to be paid on the old six-day basis. Offsetting this to some extent, of course, is the fact that salaries and wages of all kinds have been reduced in drastic fashion and that, with many more persons working, business of all kinds would pick up and permit industrialists and merchants to get by on the basis suggested by the President.

If the five-day week idea becomes general—and many observers believe it will—there are necessarily thousands of persons to whom it could not apply—employers themselves, their executives and certain highly skilled workers in whose absence the business machine could not function properly. So far as ordinary labor goes there is nothing to prevent the change—providing business is able to afford it. That can only be learned through experience. — Border Cities Star.

True Enough

Mother had placed sticky flypaper about the house. Shortly afterward, she found little Richard holding the screen door wide open. When she remonstrated, Richard said, "Well, how are you going to catch 'em if you don't let 'em in?"—Christian Herald.

Remarkable Speed

Mrs. Murphy had received a cablegram from her son in India, saying that he would be home shortly. She showed it to her neighbor, Mrs. Casey.

"Wonderful quick things these telegraphs, ain't they?" said Mrs. Casey.

"Quick ain't the word for it; the gun ain't dry yet what's on the envelope."—Church Administration.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 25.—Widespread moisture relief in drought districts gave a sharp setback to grain values Saturday, but stock market rallies later helped overcome part of the loss.

Down-swings carried wheat temporarily to about 7c a bushel lower than last week's top prices, and tumbled corn and oats to new bottom quotations for the season and for many years back. Contributing to subsequent recoveries were reports of wheat crop deterioration in Mississippi and Illinois, together with prospects of clear skies.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼c to ½c under Friday's finish, corn unchanged to ¼c to ¼c lower, oats unchanged to 5c off, and provisions unchanged to 5c down.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 25. — The spring cheese export trade from Montreal began over the week-end, steamers between them taking 2,092 boxes. Destinations were London, Liverpool and Havre. There were no butter and egg exports from here last week.

Receipts jumped compared with the week previous. Egg arrivals totalled 18,601 boxes, compared with 14,507; butter, 8,061, against 6,127 and cheese 2,589, against 1,165.

Egg Prices Drop

Increasing production led to lower prices. Butter dropped 3½c per pound; eggs were down 2c per dozen, while cheese lost ½c, as compared with the previous Saturday. Closing prices were: Butter, cartons or less, fresh or regraded No. 1, 16½c per lb.; cheese, current receipts, 10c per lb.; summer make, 12c to 12½c; eggs, cartons or less, extras, 16c to 16½c per dozen; firsts, 14c to 14½c per dozen; seconds, 12c to 12½c. These prices being for graded eggs, including Ontario and prairie produce. Local ungraded receipts were 1c to 2c under the graded levels.

New Potatoes

New potatoes were the only line to advance last week, Number 1 Floridas rose to end the week at $10.50 to $11 per barrel, ex-track, with No. 2 quality quoted $7 to $7.50. Old potatoes were quoted: New Brunswick Green Mountains, per 80-lb., bags, 42c to 45c; Quebec whites, 30c to 40c; P.E.I. Green Mountains, per 90 lbs., 55c. Carlot prices were 10c cheaper per bag.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 25. — Influenced by rainfall over winter and spring wheat fields, grain prices closed the week with a slight recession in value. Late-session buying by Continental houses brought the market back fractionally from the low points to close ¼c to ½c lower for the short session.

May and July each dropped ¼c, to close at 62½c and 64½c respectively, while October eased ½c to 66¾c.

No estimate could be obtained of any export trade worked overnight.

Evangelists Will Speak At Havelock

HAVELOCK, April 25 (Examiner Correspondence) — Beginning on Tuesday evening, April 26th, two evangelists, members of the Faith Mission of Great Britain and Ireland, Misses Gibb and Denyer will conduct a series of services in the Havelock Mission Hall, for the remainder of the week. On Sunday Mr. Eberstein, superintendent of the Faith Mission branch in Canada will be present at all three services in the hall. Tuesday will be a joyous occasion for all those interested in the Mission Hall, as on that date the mortgage on the little Mission will be burned. A special program will be given on this occasion, and clergymen of local churches will be present and assist in the celebration. An invitation is extended to all friends of the Mission to be present and help make the occasion a memorable one.

PREMIER LANG'S APPEAL REFUSED BY HIGH COURT

SYDNEY, Aus., April 25 (C.P.)—The high court of Australia Saturday refused the application of Premier J. T. Lang of New South Wales for permission to appeal to the judicial committee of the Privy Council regarding the validity of the Commonwealth Act which empowers the Commonwealth Government to seize the revenues of a defaulting state, the act being aimed principally at New South Wales.

The high court previously upheld the validity of the act against the contentions of New South Wales and two associated states.

SON OF THE GODS

By REX BEACH

...from Saturday's

It was the first chance to see them together, and he was curious to observe another these friends of Spud's and Kicker's, especially Miss Hart, would prove as attractive in a revealing light as in the semi-obscurity of the night. He was not disappointed. They were healthy, charming, animated girls; Alice—Alice Hart—was unusually pretty. Sam had learned by now that she was an advanced student at the School of Design. Of the other two one held a position of some importance in a publishing house and—

Sam felt his gaze drawn from Alice's face to that of Kicker's girl, perhaps his attention was attracted by the fact that she broke in the middle of what she was saying and stared at him out of startled eyes. A look of incredulity succeeded her smile! She opened her lips to speak but the obsequious proprietor of the Bird Cage bustled up at that moment with a word of welcome to Sam and an inquiry as to where he wished his party seated. When the latter had made his wishes known, the girls were on their way to the dressing room.

The orchestra in the cafe started playing, the dance floor filled and the three college men moved forward and looked in.

Sam Lee was staring at the gyrating throng, his face was placid, his eyes were as expressionless as onyx discs, he did not seem to hear what his friends were saying.

When several moments had passed, Wade inquired irritably: "What ails those sopranos? I require nourishment."

"Give a date free lip-stick and face powder and she'll stretch it into a permanent wave."

Wade felt a touch on his arm; a maid in an Oriental blouse, blue silk trousers and felt-soled slippers advised him that one of the ladies wished to speak to him. He followed her.

A stormy face peered out at Kicker from the dressing-room door, an angry voice greeted him.

"You've got your nerve!"

"Hello! What's wrong?"

"You know very well. You get us out of here this minute before anybody sees us." The speaker was furious, her eyes were glowing. "The idea!" Alice is crying. She's almost in hysterics and—"

Illumination came to Kicker. "You mean—Sam? Aw, see here! Don't be a goofer."

"I recognized him the minute we got in here. If this is your idea of a practical joke—" the excited young woman choked. "—Well, I think it's pretty rotten and I'm going to tell my father. The Regents will hear about this, Mr. Fresh, you see if they don't."

"But listen, dearie—"

"Listen nothing! You get us out of here, that's all. The idea of your daring to take us out with a Chinaman!"

Spud Gorham's seatmate now revealed herself in the door opening. "That's what I say. I've got a brother and you'll hear from him."

"For Heaven's sake be reasonable! Don't make a scene in a place like this," Kicker implored. "Sam isn't an ordinary Chinese."

"Bah!"—"What's the difference—?"

"Anyhow we don't think of him as one. He's a high-class gentleman. If I'd had any idea you felt like this—But it's too late now. You've got to go through."

"And have him ask us to dance?"—"That's just what he'd do. I'd die."—Are you going to take us away?"

"I can't. Think I'm going to bawl myself out, and him, too? What would I tell him?"

"We should worry what you tell him."

Angrily Wade exclaimed: "You just want to start something. Who the devil do you think you are? The Astor girls? Sam doesn't look Chinese, and nobody here knows him."

"I know him!"

Gorham had observed storm signals and was approaching; Sam Lee stood in the doorway absorbed in watching the dancers. His back was to his guests.

When Spud learned what was amiss he joined his entreaties to Kicker's, but with no success.

"Do you think we'd be seen in a public place with an Oriental?"

"Yes and his name isn't Sam Lee, at all; it's Lee Sam." The indignant instigator of the scene made herself heard. "I never thought when you introduced him, but the instant I got a good look—"

"Lee Sam is the Chinese way to say his name," Kicker explained. "They get everything backwards. Now listen; he's a big guy; his father is the richest Oriental in New York and he owns more stores than Carter has pills. He's the Chinese Marshall Field. Sam's a kind of a prince. He's an honor man at the university and—

"Are you going to call a taxi?"

"Is who going to call what taxi?" Gorham demanded roughly. "You'd wear out a new one on the way home. We're further from home than Cape Town. If you must go, Sam will drive us back."

"He won't drive me back."

"Nor me, either!"

"I should say not!" Alice Hart now added her voice to the others.

The two young men exchanged apprehensive glances, each waited for the other to speak. Spud finally began. "Well, I'm not going to break it to him. We asked him to take us out and we accepted his invitation to come here."

"'We asked him!'" snapped one of the girls. "Tell him somebody is sick! Dying! Anything!"

"I wish it was the truth."

Kicker nodded his complete agreement with Gorham's desire. "I'd like to tell him truthfully and with tears in my eyes that you all had hydrophobia. I bet it would cheer him up—All right! I talked us into this buggy ride, I suppose I can talk us out of it. Anyhow I'll try. But you ought to walk back." He and Spud returned to their host.

"Our party has blown up," Wade began as casually as might be. "Maude has got something the matter with her and wants to go home."

Sam turned from his patient observation of the dancers and said politely: "I'm sorry. Can anything be done?"

There were times when Sam Lee's college mates argued that he looked not at all Chinese, and again times when they were not so positive about it. At this moment, however, there could be no doubt as to what he was; Spud and Kicker saw in Oriental facing them.

"Would she like to leave at once?" Sam inquired.

Kicker made a hopeless gesture. "At once, or sooner! And they want me to call a taxi."

"Too much air in that open car," Spud explained desperately. "It's—neuralgia, or toothache, or something. Grabbed her just like—that! At least—"

"Would you mind—?" Wade, in spite of his case-hardened nerve, hesitated, stammered. "Could I—er, borrow a ten spot until the first? I'll pay it back, this time, Honest!"

Sam smiled and took a new banknote from his bill-fold. He always carried new money, as his friends had learned. "If she's suffering I'll ask you to say good night for me and express my regrets. You fellows must see them safely home, of course."

"This is mighty decent of your, Sam."

"You're a prince!" Both youths were greatly relieved. "Too bad our party was a bust, but—we'll see you tomorrow."

As they crossed the lobby Kicker breathed to his friend, "Gosh, Spud! I feel as if I'd stamped on a baby's finger." A moment later they and the three girls passed out into the night.

Sam explained to the cafe proprietor that he would not require that table for six after all and for a while he continued to look on at the dancers. Outwardly he was unruffled, his face wore a faint smile, his eyes were stony; inwardly he boiled. In an effort to retain his self-control he repeated in a sort of panic: "The superior man can find himself in no situation in which he is not master of himself"—"Noble natures are calm and content"—"The lowest order of men are vicious in spite of instruction."

In moments like this he had learned to console himself, to seek refuge in the benign philosophy of the Orient. It had been a hard lesson; it was difficult to swallow abstrations, for he was young and a lively spirit blazed within him. He belonged to a people who have cultivated restraint and forbearance as virtues, nevertheless he was in revolt at this moment.

He had supposed, of course, when Gorham invited him to come out and assured him that everything was "all right," that the girls knew who and what he was. Otherwise he would not have subjected himself to the risk of humiliation. Who was the honor man among eight hundred sophomores at Eastern University? A despised Chinese! To whom did they look up in the lecture rooms? To whom did they come for help outside of class hours? To Sam Lee!—The gods were laughing. He, too, should laugh, but there was no laughter in him.

He stopped the blonde cigar girl as she passed him and bought a package of cigarettes paying double price for them. Disdainfully he left the change from his dollar bill on her tray. She dimpled and eyed him encouragingly. A white girl! When the coat-room attendant took his check Sam dropped a coin into his hand much as he would have dropped it into the dirty paw of a beggar. The man was delighted.

There was a film over Sam Lee's eyes, a derisive smile was on his lips as he walked out of the cafe and climbed into his fifteen thousand dollar car.

"Resentment is a plant that bears nothing but misery," he told himself. A moment later he repeated a favorite proverb of his father's, "A wise prince never departs from gravity and repose."

Slowly he drove back towards the city, lost in meditative contemplation of the beauties of the night.

Dairy Notes

CAMPBELLFORD, April 25 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — Douglas Turney, who was the maker at Norham cheese factory will take charge of the Morganston plant this year. One of the improvements he will make will be the installation of a steaming system.

Ideal cheese factory at Norham will be operated this season by Curtis Fowler, who for the past nine years have been the assistant of W. V. Drewry in the Warkworth plant. Arthur Timmins will take his place under Mr. Drewry.

The next meeting of the Campbellford Cheesemakers' Association will be held in the Campbellford grading station on Friday evening, May 27. It is expected that the session's schedule will be drawn up at this gathering and the places of meeting through the summer months arranged.

The Cheese Factory Patrons Farm and Herd Competition under the auspices of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association will be open again this year. There will be a little re-arrangement in the schedule however, classes in some cases being grouped according to acreage. In all $460 will be awarded by the association in prizes.

Dave Wallace, an old cheese maker of the district, will make cheese at the Kimberly factory this year. He takes the place of Mr. Robert Maybee, who is taking a season off.

TORONTO LIST FAIRLY STEADY

Pressure Eases This Morning Due to Light Trading Volume.

BELL DROPS POINT.

TORONTO, April 25 (C.P.)—Toronto Stock Exchange market was moderately firm in its dealings this morning. This was due to a easing of the pressure to liquidate as buyers were not anxious to take on commitments. Volume, consequently, was quite light.

Bell Telephone was the only prominent issue to react widely, dropping a point to a new record low of 85. Other utilities, including Brazilian, B.C. Power "A," Consumers' Gas, were unchanged to a fraction higher. C.P.R. was also unchanged from the level of last week.

Nickel sold unchanged to a small fraction lower. Noranda was slightly higher and the golds, generally easy. Most industrials held to the level of Saturday's close. F. N. Burt, Massey-Harris, Pressed Metals, Cockshutt Plow, Canadian Dredge were all unchanged. Ford moved within a very narrow range, unchanged to slightly higher. The beverage and the food stocks were unchanged. Oils were firm and inclined to work upward.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 25 (C.P.) — Mixed and narrow price movements marked Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market to-day, values rallying around mid-day from early weakness and closing with losses and gains about evenly divided.

Teck-Hughes, after touching a new low of $3.10 in the first hour, met good buying support and finished the day with a net gain of 10 cents. Hollinger and Wright-Hargreaves also firmed a few cents, but Lake Shore and McIntyre lost 25 apiece.

Noranda strengthened in the early sales, but finished steady. Nickel and Sherritt Gordon were off a few cents apiece, the latter establishing a new low. Mining Corporation lost 7, but Eldorado managed to firm 3 cents.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 25 (C.P.)—Tone of the market at Toronto Stock Exchange still was soft as trading resumed for the new week.

Canada Cement Preferred was the most spectacular actor on the list, swinging widely during the day. At one time the stock was selling at 30, nine points under Saturday's final and at a new low. Then again, it swung upward to 35, where it steadied. At the close the bid price was jumped to 39½, where it actually showed a fractional gain over the previous close. No sales were made at that price, however.

Bell Telephone declined 1 point to 85, another new low for this issue. Brazilian, Steel of Canada, Walkers Common were slightly below previous finals.

C.P.R. was firm during the morning and closed with a small gain. Nickel, easy for a time, closed unchanged. Smelters was up a couple of points and Ford of Canada, Consolidated Industries and the oils were firm and some higher. F. N. Burt sold down more than 2 points to 19.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 25. (CP) — Most pivotal stocks closed with narrow changes to-day after a lifeless session marked by small fluctuations. In a quiet afternoon rally some leading issues got a point net higher, but gains were not fully maintained. Allied Chemical showed late weakness, sagging 2 points to a new low. Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey were fairly firm. U.S. Steel, North American, American Can, American Telephone and General Motors finished close to Saturday's final prices. Transactions approximated 700,000 shares.

CANADIAN INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY BUYS NEWS INTERESTS

Acquires Plants in New Brunswick and Newfoundland in Recent Dealings.

LARGEST IN WORLD.

NEW YORK, April 25 (C.P.). — Canadian International Paper Company announced to-day that it had acquired New Brunswick International Paper Company and International Power and Paper Company of Newfoundland. Limited, thus forming the world's largest producer of newsprint paper.

The entire capital stock of the New Brunswick Company has been acquired from International Paper Company and all common stock of the Newfoundland Company from International Paper and Power Company. The transaction is being effected through exchanges of securities and involves no new financing.

Canadian International Paper will control a daily capacity of more than 2800 tons of newsprint from four mills. Canadian International's plants are at Gatineau and Three Rivers, Quebec, while its subsidiary mills are at Dalhousie, N.B., and Corner Brook, Newfoundland.

"This transaction" said a statement, "represents a further step in the program of International Paper and Power Company for grouping its properties for maximum efficiency in operation and control. With a few exceptions all properties now controlled are now divided into two groups. In the first group, power and utility properties owned by subsidiaries of International Hydro-Electric system; and in the other group paper and pulp and other industrial properties all owned by International Paper Company and its subsidiaries."

All the common stock of Canadian International Paper is controlled by International Paper.

MID-DAY RALLY GIVES STRENGTH TO MINING LIST

Nervous Liquidation Carries Teck-Hughes to New Low for Six Years.

NORANDA SHOWS GAIN.

TORONTO, April 25. — (CP) — Accumulation of selling orders in Teck-Hughes and pressure on other parts of the list gave the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market a weak appearance in the first couple of hours today. Prices showed a tendency to rally towards midday, with volume falling off on the recovery.

Forced and nervous liquidation resulting from last week's declines carried Teck-Hughes on the opening to $3.10, a new low for the last six years. Buying support appeared at that level and price at noon was off only 5 at $3.20. Wright-Hargreaves and Hollinger showed a firmer tendency, but Lake Shore was off $25 to $36. McIntyre $10 to $15.90 and Granada another 4 to 80.

Noranda and Hudson Bay managed to sell up a few cents each but Sherritt Gordon slipped another 4 to a new low of 30 and Mining Corporation was easy. Ventures dropped to 22 in the second hour but rallied to show a small gain at 25 when taken. Oils displayed no change.

Congress To Follow Its Present Policy

WASHINGTON, April 25 (C.P.).— The U.S. Farm Board said to-day it would dispose of its stabilization wheat holdings only in such a way to be in the best interests of farmers and that its present restricted sales policy would be strictly followed.

This statement was made in answer to reports that private grain traders had asked the board to turn over its stocks to grain dealers for disposal.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the Board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and a former private trader, has conferred several times with board members on the subject within the last month. A year ago Barnes sought to have the board agree to hold the wheat off the market indefinitely.

Arthur Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, is out of the city, but at his office it was said he has had no conferences with Barnes or members of the grain trade at the Agriculture Department.

Scottish Trade Ship Will Visit Canada

LONDON, April 25. (C. P. Cable) Carrying exhibits of the products of 90 leading Scottish firms, the steamer Patricia of the Anchor Donaldson line will sail from Glasgow for Montreal on May 5, Major J. D. Colville, secretary to the Department of Overseas Trade said in the House of Commons this afternoon in answer to a question from Sir Robert Horne, former Chancellor of the Exchequer.

GAS SMUGGLING STIRS PROTESTS

Canadian Companies Claim Motorists Fill Up in Detroit—Speed Boats Active.

REQUEST CHECK-UP.

WINDSOR, Ont., April 25 (C.P.) —Gasoline companies are planning a request to Federal officials that some steps be taken to check gasoline smuggling into Canada from United States by motorists and also on an alleged commercial basis.

Investigations being carried out by gasoline dealers indicates that motorists fill up the tanks of their autos in Detroit. He also stated that gasoline is being brought to Canada in speed boats and is then offered for sale. It is also alleged that at one gas station where a certain customer bought 40 gallons a week, he now buys but two or three, and frankly admits that he is having his tank filled at Detroit.

Gasoline in Detroit is selling at 12 gallons for $1.50.

Son Enlisted At Fourteen

"BABY" SOLDIER'S MOTHER SEEKS PENSION.

"Mine was the biggest family that went to war out of British Columbia sir," Mrs. Edith Bessy Bradley (2), now living in Toronto, told General Sir Richard Turner before the Pension Tribunal. Mrs. Bradley said 28 of her relatives, all told, answered the call to arms. Youngest was her son, Herbert Bradley (3), who enlisted in Vancouver at the age of fourteenteen, saw war service, was gassed, and died during the 'flu epidemic at the age of sixteen. Her husband, Harold Bradley (1), former warrant officer R.A.M.C., died aboard an Ottawa street car in 1926.

ELECTION DRIVE RICH HARVEST TO FRENCH PUBLIC HALL OWNERS

Government Opens Schools to Parties With Small War Chests.

LIVELY SESSIONS.

PARIS, April 25.—(CP)—Owners of large public halls in Paris and the country over are rubbing their hands with satisfaction at the rich harvests they are reaping during the French election campaign, which entered its last and most busy week today.

The government and municipal authorities see to it that the parties whose war chests are slimly lined have free access to schoolrooms, city and town halls and other community edifices in which to hold their meetings. But the principal groups with large political funds naturally prefer to stage their gatherings in the largest auditoriums obtainable.

The average French political rally, hundreds of which are taking place daily, affords a real lesson in democracy. Once the orators of the party sponsoring the "reunion" have spoken the floor is thrown open to the opposition. Speakers of all shades of opinion are welcomed and the chairman of the meeting does his best to afford them a fair hearing. Then at the close he or another of the sponsoring party furnishes a rebuttal.

End With Resolution

The rallies usually culminate with the voting of a resolution by all present, putting them on record as favoring a certain policy. This has no direct bearing on the elections but merely serves to crystallize the thought and sentiments of those present.

More often than not the French political meetings are stormy ones and such implements of popular rule as rotten eggs, over-ripe tomatoes and wooden benches are frequently thrown about. Last year there was some gun-play in the Marseilles municipal campaign resulting in two casualties, but that is rare in Paris.

One Young Man For Sale

TORONTO, April 25. (C.P.) A desire to "pay off all my worldly debts and start life anew" is the reason given by a young man who to-day offered himself for sale here. His selling price is given as $2,000. And here is his personal description of himself:

"Twenty years old, weight 135 pounds, five feet eight and three-quarter inches in height, blond, grey eyes, capable and willing, healthy and sane."

DOCTOR PERFORMS UNTRIED OPERATION

Fergus Surgeon Pierces a Blood-clot Deep in Woman's Brain.

FERGUS, April 25.— Attempting to remove a blood clot three inches down in the brain of Mrs. Hubert Mann, 33, mother of a week-old baby, Dr. W. A. Groves, Ferguson surgeon, performed an unusual and delicate operation here when he trephined the skull of his patient in an effort to dissipate the cerebral hemorhage which was causing paralysis. The operation has never been performed before, so far as is known.

With one side of her body completely paralyzed, Mrs. Mann was admitted to the Groves Memorial hospital on Monday morning. Dr. Groves said Saturday he had never seen anyone who remained conscious under so much paralysis. Securing the permission of the husband and parents of the patient with some difficulty, he decided to operate.

"I had never heard of the operation being done, but I have been thinking about it for a long time. It seemed to me that this was a time to make the attempt. It took me 48 hours to secure the permission of relatives, and in that time the blood was coagulating more and more. But as soon as the husband said 'Yes,' I went to work."

Carefully Measured.

Paralysis is caused by the bursting of an artery in the internal capsule of the brain, Dr. Groves explained. The artery then ceases to function, paralyzing that part of the body controlled by the brain. the brain, and with it the parts

"A pool of blood had formed in the internal capsule, causing additional paralysis because of the pressure," Dr. Groves described. "My object was to remove the blood while it was still fluid and in any case to pierce the clot and remove any blood still liquid within it. There was only one way of doing it."

Trephining the skull is the usual medical term for opening the brain for any kind of operation. When the skull was opened, Dr. Groves took a small instrument like a large hypodermic needle, and worked it slowly through the tissue ad cells into the capsule.

"I had to measure carefully to locate the place, Dr. Groves said, "but the location of the internal capsule is known, and that was the least of my difficulties. The hard part of it, of course, was getting down to the clot without injuring the brain and to draw off the blood in the clot."

SAGUENAY RIVER OPENS

QUEBEC. — The commander of the icebreaker Saurel has notified the Department of Marine here the last of the ice floated out of the Saguenay river yesterday and the river is now open to regular navigation.

HOPES OF PEACE RAISED.

BREAD DRIVER DIES.

HAMILTON.—David Joss, driver for a local bread company, died while driving his delivery wagon to-day. Death was believed due to a heart seizure and no inquest will be held.

LOCUSTS SWEEP OVER COUNTRY

Hordes Travelling 100 Miles a Day Outdistance Attackers in Trucks.

FIELD LAID WASTE.

CAPE TOWN, S. A., April 25. — (A.P.)—A horde of locusts is moving in an irrestible tide at the rate of 100 miles a day through the districts of West Africa and the adjoining portions of the Union of South Africa.

Farmers in the area said it seemed as though the cloud of insects was 500 miles wide in some places and three times that long.

There was an attempt to attack them from motor trucks, but the trucks were quickly outdistanced. Airplanes could accomplish little and the authorities said all they could do was to wait until these locusts begin to breed and then to attack the swarms separately.

The Cape district was in the greatest immediate danger, but it appeared certain that the swarms, which already have laid waste to great sections in the north, would soon spread over hundreds of thousands of acres in the rest of the Union.

Duties Not Shirked By American Press

NEW YORK, April 25. — The newspapers of America "have not shirked their duty to the public of publishing the news in adequate form, in spite of present conditions," Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, said to-day in his annual report of the board of directors of the association.

"To maintain the standards reached in recent years, all publishers have had to sustain severe losses," Mr. Cooper said. "Although advertising revenues have fallen off tremendously, circulation has not decreased materially. Sustained circulations in such times show that newspapers have established themselves as a necessity."

POSSIBILITIES OF CONFERENCE

James Lithglow, head of the delegation, that "the development of Great Britain's trade with Canada must depend on acquiring business at present in the hands of foreign countries, on developing new lines, on complementing and assisting Canadian industries rather than competing with them, and on the investment of home capital in Canada."

"I should judge the first part of the deliberations will deal with broad principles within the compass of which there may be enacted trade preferences of equal advantage to all," said Mr. Campbell.

"It will require to be determined just how far the Empire can and should go in the matter of assessing levies on the exchange of products with the outside world, because there will still be export and import trade with the world apart from the Empire.

"Much will depend on the extent to which the Empire is independent of the world, and this is of the greatest importance.

It is not to be forgotten that the Empire at present has Treaty obligations with other countries and will still have Treaty obligations after the conference is over. The power and the expediency of the various units of the Empire to enact treaties with foreign countries will still remain a serious question.

"There are also treaties within the Empire, based on equalization of advantages to the contracting parties, and the more we reflect upon these trade preferences the more complex the subject becomes.

"In the final analysis, and in detail, operations will get down to a question of commodities, and further, as to what commodities can be most economically produced in the various Dominions, and these commodities will divide themselves into two main channels, viz., natural and agricultural products and those which are manufactured, and, inasmuch, as manufactured products are largely the basis of employment, they are therefore equally as vital as are the natural and agricultural products.

"The question of an Empire currency is almost certain to be considered at this conference, and it offers extremely serious difficulties in its solution, if indeed a solution be at all possible."

"One cannot imagine the British people forsaking the currency of pounds, shillings and pence, any more than we, as Canadian citizens, can imagine our people dispensing with our decimal system."

"As matters stand to-day, the market for world currencies seems to have centered largely in New York, at least insofar as the appraisal of currencies is concerned, particularly is this true since England went off the gold standard.

"It is difficult for some of our people to understand that after having a Canadian cheque marked accepted at one of our Canadian banks in Canada, that same bank operating a branch in London, England, the cheque, for the purposes of valuation, is appraised through New York, and collected through that source.

"Since we hear so much about the gold standard these days, it may be of interest to some people to know that Great Britain only adopted the gold standard in 1816, and that the U.S. went on a bi-metallic basis in 1834, adopting silver and gold as the standard in the ratio of 16 to 1, but that country did not adopt the gold standard until 1873, and only definitely established in March, 1900.

"Now after the question of preferences, based on principles, has been disposed of in the Conference, matters will then come right down to the plain business proposition of bargaining and trading, and in the final analysis this will be the vital accomplishment of the Conference, because trading is the basis of national life."

Mr. Campbell here gave some most interesting percentages in regard to British, Canadian and Empire trade.

In 1930 Great Britain imported five billion dollars worth of products, of which one and a half billion worth was produced within the Empire. Canada produced 12 per cent of the Empire's proportion. In other words 70 per cent of British imports were from outside the Empire.

As to exports Britain disposed of 64 per cent to outside countries and 36 per cent within the Empire, Canada taking 11 per cent of the Empire's share.

In the same year Canadian imports were 77 per cent from outside the Empire and 23 per cent from within the Empire. 16¼ per cent of the Empire total coming from the United Kingdom. On the other hand 64 per cent of Canada's exports went to other countries and 36 per cent were disposed of within the Empire.

Dealing with one commodity alone, machinery of iron and steel construction, Mr. Campbell pointed out that the fact that Canada imports 45 million dollars worth from the United States as against 3¾ millions from the United Kingdom gave an opportunity for trading. On the other hand the invisible balance represented by the tourist trade would have to be considered.

The impossibility of laying down a set formula for the guidance of Canada's government in regard to the conference was stressed by Mr. Campbell who concluded by endorsing Mr. Bennett's plan of allowing conference delegates a chance to see all parts of Canada.

Rotarian G. A. Gillespie expressed Rotary's thanks to the speaker.

In welcoming today's visitors Rotarian Fred L. Roy called attention to the election of a Peterborough old boy, M. J. Hutchinson as president of the Toronto Rotary club and announced that through the kindness of Rotarian Percy Borland, Rotary had been given the use of the old LeBrun store as headquarters during the carnival campaign.

Rotarian Bob Abbott urged a large attendance at the Rotary District conference in Hamilton next month and his plea was seconded by President R. F. Downey.

For the carnival committee Rotarian John H. Seels reported good progress being made and that tickets would be available for distribution at next Monday's meeting.

U. S. COMPANIES OFFER NEW PLAN

Guarantee Grain Prices to Canadian Farmers if Machinery Bought.

ON EQUAL FOOTING.

NEW YORK, April 25. (C.P.)— Leading United States farm implement manufacturing companies plan to extend to Canadian farmers the same guarantee of wheat prices in connection with instalment sales of their products as already apply to Fall payments of merchandise purchased this year by farmers of this country. The offer to Canadian farmers will be announced early in May, it is learned.

Under the Canadian plan, as under the one already in effect in this country, implement manufacturers would guarantee certain prices for wheat and other farm products when used for purchasing farm machinery, tools, etc. The arrangement, it is believed, will recognize the spread in prices between American and Canadian farm products resulting from the tariffs. The probable guaranteed price for Canadian wheat will be 80 cents a bushel, against 70 cents for American wheat.

Operation of such a plan would place the American companies on the same footing in Canada with the Massey-Harris company, which recently announced a plan providing, among other things, a 10 percent cut in price on farm machinery sales made up to Nov. 30, this year, as well as a like discount on receivables paid on or before that date.

In the Canadian as well as in the American plans the guarantee of price on farm products would apply only to a portion of the total cost of machinery or implements sold—generally 50 per cent. If the price of farm products is not at or above the guaranteed level by the time that payments to the implement companies fall due payments are discounted to the extent of the spread between guaranteed price and market quotations.

PRIVY COUNCIL

One Among Six

New South Wales is the only one of the six Australian states having an upper house which is not an elected body. Its members are appointed for life. Victoria, South Australia, Tasmania and Western Australia have upper houses that are elected by certain classes of the electorate, while there is only one chamber in Queensland.

The question of the upper house in South Wales came to the fore shortly after the Labor party went into power in the state elections in the autumn of 1930. There remained an anti-Labor majority in the upper chamber and Premier Lang, charging the upper house with blockade tactics, endeavored to have Governor Sir Philip Game appoint sufficient new members of the Labor persuasion to vote the upper chamber out of existence.

The governor refused to comply, holding the question of abolition of the upper house was one for the electorate, a view confirmed by the Australian courts. Recently, however, Sir Philip approved the appointment of 25 new members of the upper chamber and this gave the Labor government a slight majority there. Consisting as they did almost entirely of trade union officials, the appointments raised a great outcry in Australia. Even these failed to swamp the upper house as Premier Lang desired and he cannot count on Extremist legislation being approved.

Speculation Rife On Radio Report

OTTAWA, April 25 (C.P.) — "While we are deeply appreciative of the assistance which has been advanced by some of the newspapers to aid the committee in making up its mind, I can only say that one guess is as good as another so far as the nature of the report is concerned," Hon. Dr. Raymond Morand, chairman of the House of Commons committee on radio, said to-day. The Conservative member for Essex East, who heads the House committee of nine which will shortly made recommendations to Parliament for reorganizing Canada's broadcast system, was busily engaged to-day in preparing the mass of evidence collected in six weeks of public hearings, for the attention of his colleagues. The first private session will be held to-morrow, and a report may be ready for Parliament by the end of the week.

Monthly Meeting Havelock Society

HAVELOCK, April 25 (Examiner Correspondence)—The regular meeting of Knox Presbyterian Church Y.W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Johnston recently.

A letter was received from the secretary of the Christian Endeavor, asking that the girls help make the get together meeting planned for May 9th. One or more numbers are asked from each organization of the church and the society is also to help with the refreshments which will be served. This is to be open night in the church and everybody is welcome, no admission fee charged. After the business had been concluded the girls produced their sewing and got to work on their quilt blocks. After a short time spent over the fancy work, refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Stanley Barlow. A delightful evening was brought to a close by a half hour of social chatter.

Two New Directors On Dunlop Tire Board

TORONTO, April 25.—At a meeting of the board of directors of Dunlop Tire and Rubber Goods Company, Limited, held at the head office of the company on Friday, the following new directors were appointed: George W. Huggett, and James I. Simpson, both of whom are directly active in the management of Canadian Industries, Limited.

The board re-organization results from the establishment of a more intimate management relationship on the part of Canadian Industries, Limited, which company, as is well known, holds an important financial interest in Dunlop. As a further result of the arrangement whereby Canadian Industries, Limited, will, in future, take a more active place in the Dunlop management picture, W. R. Walton, Jr., will, as active manager, represent the Canadian Industries, Limited, interest. J. Westren, remains as vice-president of the company in an advisory capacity.

FIREMEN BATTLE

a short space of time and after hours of persistent effort succeeded in keeping the protecting wall between the fire and the adjoining pulpwood pile and the mill premises. Flying sparks repeatedly set fire to the log chute, which runs over the top of the smaller pile of wood up to the mill, and just as frequently firefighters rushed up the incline with buckets of water, while another fireman was perched aloft on the chute playing a continuous stream of water on the pulpwood pile below.

Fortunately there was an abundant supply of water on hand, the mill being situated on an island bounded on the west by the canal and on the east by the swift-flowing river. On the east also are situated the Ferris woods, a large tract of bushland which was in grave danger of catching fire. Men were stationed in the woods throughout the long seige extinguishing incipent fires with wet sacks.

Heat from the burning pile was intense, keeping the thousands of spectators who had gathered from far and near at a good distance from the fire and allowing the firefighters to work unhampered. It was an eerie, awesome spectacle; flames leaped to a great height wreathed in small volume of white smoke, and lighting up the sky and adjoining woods.

Around eleven o'clock Saturday night The Examiner reporter found Elie Brunelle, manager of the plant in his office. He showed signs of fatigue and was in consultation with an official from Toronto. In reply to a question, he said the damage would exceed $125,000. Asked if the loss was covered by insurance, he said, "Yes," and in reply to a further query as to the amount of wood destroyed, he stated there was about 8,000 cords.

The mill is located about one and a half miles south of the business section of the town, and when working full time employs from 35 to 40 hands. Of late, it has been on a three-day schedule. The pile of wood that was destroyed was about 700 feet long; approximately 75 feet high; and about 80 feet in width.

In comparison it was approximately as large as the Peterborough Armouries.

Following the call for aid which was received at Peterborough on Saturday afternoon, Canadian Johnson Motor Company at once sent two Johnson-Tremblay 32-h.p. pumps which deliver water at the rate of 125 pounds to the square inch. The outfits went down under the command of Harry Wood, superintendent of the Johnson factory, Virgil Carr, master mechanic of Peterborough Fire Department and "Hap" Bradshaw accompanied Mr. Wood, and accomplished splendid work.

The pumps which have been demonstrated from time to time in local waters and which are in wide use by the various Forestry Departments, outclassed all other equipment at the fire in their splendid performance.

A special train was run over Canadian National lines and the City Fire Department steam pumper was transported to Campbellford on a flat car, which left here at seven o'clock in the evening.

Delay in Unloading.

A non-stop run was made to the mill town in an hour and ten minutes, but delay was caused in unloading the pumper and in getting it towed by motor truck around the circuitous two-mile route to the fire.

It arrived at the scene at 9.45 and before 10 o'clock had got up a full head of steam and was pumping two steady streams of water into the south end of the pile.

The men accompanying Chief Gimblett were all off the day platoon and at the time of leaving this city had already completed a full stretch of duty. They were Firemen George Gimblett, Jr., Thomas Hatley, Harry Carey, Thomas Baxter, and Archie McDonald. The latter operated the steam pumper. The Peterborough contingent returned at eleven o'clock on Sunday morning.

The last occasion on which the steam pumper was out of the city was about five years ago, when it was sent to Fraserville to deal with an elevator fire. At that time the pumper was operated from a flat car.

At the time of going to press water was still being poured onto the smouldering pile, danger being still existent from the fact that a strong breeze was blowing live ashes into the air and igniting grass and buildings near by.

Y.W.C.A. BUSY PLACE PLANNING PAGEANT

Special Rehearsals Were Held at Opera House on Saturday.

The Y.W.C.A. is a busy place these days. Humming with activity, the corridors and big gymnasium resound with the echo of girlish voices and the ceaseless tap of feet, going through the drills and dances that will make up the program for the big Pageant on Friday night.

Rehearsals for the Junior and Intermediate classes were in progress at the Grand Opera House on Saturday morning, while Friday evening saw the Senior classes taking special costume rehearsals at the "Y".

The feature this year is the Mother Goose ballet, when the old-time sedate nursery rhymes come to life in modern guise and do cartwheels and jazz steps in up to date outfits, while the scandalized old lady looks on in a dream, powerless to do anything to keep Bo Peep and the rest of the merry crew, from making spectacles of themselves.

Then there is the Marionettes' Romance, a Russian dance depicting the trials of two lovers who are frowned upon by their stern parents. The hapless sweethearts faint away, and then the mother relents and all goes merry as the proverbial wedding bell, whose faint echoes may be heard in imagination in the distance.

Four special toe lancers do a Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary dance in lovely frocks of blue, gold, rose and green.

The Babies have a special number all their own, when they act as tiny Blackbirds and take the hapless maid's nose away from her, in the garden, in the old nursery rhyme where the obedient servant hangs out the clothes, while the queen eats bread and honey and the king looks over his cash.

A Country Dance in which old-time dances and then the modern interpretation have their swing, is another of the beautifully-costumed portions of the Pageant, and a balloon dance is an airy, fairy number of charming grace.

WIFE DESERTER HUNTED —FOUND IN PRISON

ALBANY, April 25. — For several months Albany county authorities have been hunting Robert Owles, wanted for deserting his wife and three children. Now they know where he is—and it only means that the county must continue feeding the family. Owles is serving 18 months in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta for impersonating a federal officer at Jacksonville, Fla.

Owles, also known as Ownes and Owens is reported wanted at Montreal, where he is said to have broken jail while held on criminal charges.

Only about five per cent of the potential oil land in Alberta has been tested, according to expert opinion.

"MY CLOTHES GOT TOO BIG"

Fat Woman's Delight

LOST WEIGHT AND GAINED ENERGY

There is no joy greater than the joy of an overstout woman on discovering that her waist measurement has shrunk several inches. Read what this one says:—

"I started taking Kruschen Salts about two months ago to reduce my weight, and I am very satisfied with the result. My weight was 181 lbs. before taking Kruschen; three weeks ago I weighed 168 lbs. My clothes have got much too big for me, and I am delighted with the remarks my friends make when they tell me that I am much improved. And what is best of all, I feel splendid in health. I can now walk miles without feeling tired."—(Miss) M. M.

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape, and fill you with vigor and tireless energy.

As a result, instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate, you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

And before very long the fat you don't want and don't need starts to go—you'll know it—feel it—see it—your clothes and the scales will tell the story.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

JOHN WEBB IS 88 YEARS OLD

Oldest Resident of Rawdon Township Celebrates Birthday Last Thursday.

RAISED IN DISTRICT.

BONARLAW, April 25 (Examiner Correspondence).—John Webb, presumably the oldest resident of Rawdon Township, celebrated Thursday at his home near Bonarlaw, his 88th birthday. He has lived there 75 years; first in a log house and for the past 49 years in the present brick structure. Mrs. Webb died three years ago and he now lives with his youngest daughter, Mrs. Charles Benson.

Mr. Webb was born near Cork, Ireland, and was one of a family of five boys and five girls, all of whom are dead except himself. His father, Christopher Webb, his mother and the ten children landed in Canada 81 years ago. He remembers passing through Quebec, Montreal, etc., and finally arriving at Belleville, from where they started to walk to West Huntingdon. The eight children walked the entire distance, but the parents were given a lift by a man driving a team of horses. Sufficient money was brought from Ireland to purchase 200 acres of land. This money was all in silver and was carried in bags on their backs. After living at West Huntingdon about twelve months, they purchased the 200 acres of land on the 11th line of Rawdon which is now owned by Mr. John Burkitt and Mr. P. Tobin. All was woodland at that time and the land was cleared by the father and four of his sons. Wild animals of all description now found only far north of Rawdon township were very plentiful then in this vicinity. Even wolves gathered after sundown. Mr. Webb recalled one incident that seemed to indicate that wolves were a real menace at times. When a lad of 10 his father had been burning some logs in various piles. As darkness drew on the wolves came past the burning heaps and were seen by him and two other boys. They started to run for home and were chased almost to the very door. One boy, Joseph Bateman, fell in a well and had to be extricated later.

Deer were very plentiful. Asked if he ever shot deer, he replied that he remembered well shooting one just back of Springbrook school house. The school house there was of logs. Afterwards a small brick school was built, but as this was found to be too small some years later the larger wooden building was put up, which is still used. Well does he remember when the Springbrook Methodist Church was built, 49 years ago. St. Mark's Church, 12th line of Rawdon, of which Mr. Webb is still a member, was built the same year as was also the house he now lives in with Mr. and Mrs. Benson, the present owners.

When a young man he joined the Orange Order and received the Blue, Purple and Royal Arch degrees. Lodge was held in James Haggerty's log house on the 7th line.

Yokes of Oxen Used

Horses were very scarce in the early days. All had yokes of oxen. The driver would walk with his whip in hand on the left side of the oxen; thus the left hand ox would be the nigh ox and the right hand animal the off ox. If the boys and girls of to-day will remember this they will know something of what is meant when their grandfathers speak of the nigh horse or the off horse. A good yoke of oxen in those days was worth $120.00, and horses nearly $300. One thing was cheap, that is, good liquor, which sold at fifty cents per gallon. The weary traveller could stop in front of a tavern and have it brought out to him in pails at the above price. This, however, did not interest Mr. Webb, as he has always been a teetotaller and has never used tobacco.

Mr. Webb's father owned the first lumber wagon in these parts, and neighbors would come for miles to borrow it to draw grain. Much grain was grown, too. Thousands of bushels of wheat, barley and oats were drawn to Belleville and Trenton. They received as high as $1.00 per bushel.

Sixty years ago often as many as 60 wagon-loads of grain would be seen on the road to Belleville at one time. Another source of making ready cash in the early days was the making of potash, which was made from the ashes of elm, basswood and other trees, being boiled down in large iron potash-kettles until in a hard cake; then broken up and put into oak barrels. The finished product brought a good price, but great care had to be exercised to get it right.

Mr. Webb remembers speeches made by Mackenzie Bowell, and knew Billie Flint when he was in Bridgewater, now called Actinolite.

Wages sixty years ago were anything but high. He has often swung a cradle, cradling grain, from daylight until dark for fifty cents. When still young he became expert at binding wheat. It was a proud day that he was offered 60 cents for this class of work and did so well that his employer insisted that he take $1.00 per day. He helped to open the 11th and 13th lines, and nearly fifty years ago helped to build part of the Central Ontario Railway, now C.N.R.

When asked about some of the winters he remembers, with a twinkle in his eye, he replied that of all the 81 Canadian winters he has seen, the one just ended was the queerest of them all. He has a vivid remembrance of his seven weeks on the Atlantic Ocean in the old sailing vessel. Although only a lad of seven at the time. The captain of the ship used to remark that they seemed some nights to drift back as far as they went ahead during the day, and it was only by a great deal of "tacking" that they reached this side of the pond. At one time a whale followed the ship for two days. The captain seemed to think that there was danger of the animal upsetting the ship.

Mr. Webb does not look his 88 years. His form is erect and his eyes bright. He walks like a boy, and Mr. Benson saw him running quite swiftly a few days ago. He thinks nothing of carrying a bag of grain on his shoulder. Soon he will be attending to flower gardens, as he is a lover of flowers. He tapped trees this spring, cut his own fuel, and made 10 gallons of maple syrup.

He is of an optimistic nature, loves a good joke, and apparently has no grievances whatever. We wish him continued good health for years to come.

KIDNAPPING SUSPECT TAKEN IN SOUTH AFRICA

JOHANNESBURG, Union of S. A., April 25.—(A.P.)—An American citizen arrested here last Friday at the request of the Attorney General of the State of Missouri was identified to-day by the police as John Long.

They said this may be an alias and it was understood that the American authorities sought him as Martin Depew, the kidnapper of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, who was kidnapped some months ago at Kansas City.

C.N.R. FREIGHT JUMPS TRACKS

Auxiliary and Crew Called Out Twice in 2 Days for Mishaps on Haliburton Line.

FLOUR COMING EAST.

LINDSAY, April 25 (Examiner Correspondence).—Two derailments for the same train in two days was the experience of a C.N.R. freight on the Haliburton line. On Wednesday a mixed train had two cars of wood ditched near Howland, and Thursday three cars of the same train were ditched at York river, near Bancroft. The Lindsay auxiliary and crew was called to the scene of the accident and had not returned to the local yards up to last evening.

Local C.P.R. officials announce that four boatloads of Western flour are on the upper lakes bound for Port McNicoll, and it is expected that within a few days trains will be hauling the produce through Lindsay and Peterborough to Montreal.

The Lindsay Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of United Church met in Beaverton on Thursday. Miss E. Dunoon, president, presided, and encouraging reports were presented. The financial statement showed that during the year the sum of $8,892.25 had been received by the society, $6,808 having been sent to the branch treasurer, Mrs. A. P. Latter, of Brechin, was elected president.

A gathering of the branches of the Canadian Legion in this district will be held in Lindsay on June 15. Fully ten branches will be represented.

Weddings

MARCHANT—RASHOTTE

TWEED, April 25 (Examiner Correspondence).—At six o'clock Saturday morning, Miss Catherine Rashotte was united in marriage to James Marchant, by Rev. Father O'Riordan, at St. Cathargh church, Tweed.

Build up Health With Spring Tonic

The fashion of taking a Spring tonic is based on sound medical grounds. Winter has thinned and devitalized the blood stream so that it isn't carrying enough oxygen. That is the reason for the listless, languid, easily-tired-out condition so prevalent at this season.

What is needed is a tonic—one that will build new blood and restore and purify the blood stream, and thus enable it to carry the energizing oxygen that quickly revitalizes the whole system. Thousands have proven that Dr. Williams Pink Pills are the ideal tonic for this purpose.

Mrs. A. Merritt of Welland says: "Again last Spring I became ill. I could not do my work; was pale, weak, and tired all the time. I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they soon made me strong and happy again." Try them and experience for yourself the new strength and vigour they will bring you. At your druggists's in the new glass container. 50c a package.

Bob Colling Re-Elected President of C.O.B.L.

PETES TO PLAY IN COBOURG ON VICTORIA DAY

Triple Schedule Adopted at Annual Meeting of Senior Ball Moguls.

FIRST GAME JUNE 3RD.

Max Swanston Elected Vice-President of Loop—Umpires Submitted. . . . .

Bob Colling, of Belleville, was re-elected president of the Central Ontario Baseball League at the annual meeting held in Kingston Saturday. Max Swanston, Peterborough, returns to the office of vice-president, and Newt Thompson, Belleville, was again elected secretary-treasurer.

With twenty-three present at the meeting, considerable business was pushed through in short order, including the tentative drawing of a schedule. The league opens May 24th, Peterborough playing in Cobourg. The Petes' first home game will be June 3rd, with Cobourg back here. A triple schedule was adopted by the four teams, Peterborough, Kingston, Belleville and Cobourg.

Delegates Present.

Representatives of the four clubs present were: Peterborough, Vic Hamilton and Max Swanston; Belleville, Alex Weir and Walter Gerow; Cobourg, Ted Rollings and Hoot Gibson; Kingston, Frank Smith and Alderman George Joyce. Others from Peterborough present included Jack Belle, president of the local club, and Art Primeau, manager.

With Bob Colling in the chair, Alderman Joyce made a welcoming speech to the delegates and the meeting opened. Following the reading of the minutes and several letters, including regrets from Orono and Oshawa that they couldn't join the league this summer for one reason or another, the officers for the coming year were elected. Two were nominated for president, Bob Colling of Belleville and Art Casterton of Kingston. Mr. Colling was elected, and he thanked all while he expressed confidence that this would be a most successful year.

For the office of vice-president, Max Swanston of this city and Art Casterton of Kingston were nominated, with the former being elected. Newt Thompson, of Belleville, was unanimously re-elected secretary-treasurer. In addition to the officers, one man from each club was appointed to act on the C.O. B.L. executive. They were: Vic Hamilton, Peterborough; Roy Dodge, Cobourg; Frank Smith, Kingston; and Walter Gerow, Belleville.

Twigg Re-instated.

The official league reporters appointed for 1932 were: F. Beaudry, Kingston; E. Foote, Cobourg; C. D. Tice, Belleville; and C. Perdue, Peterborough. Frank Smith of Kingston then made a strong plea to have Art Twigg re-instated as umpire from Kingston. He had been suspended last July by the president at the request of Kingston for unbecoming conduct at the July 1st game in Peterborough. Mr. Twigg applied for re-instatement, admitting his mistake and was censured again by the president. On a motion by Max Swanston, seconded by Vic Hamilton, he was re-instated for this season.

The umpires' names submitted, only two of which can be used by each club, were: Kingston, Art Twigg, Doug Pound and Flat Walsh; Peterborough, Bob Hotrum, Alex Kay and Curly Lebarr; Cobourg, Ed Campbell and Dick Turpin; Belleville, H. G. Woodley, A. Meagher and Ken Colling. Two names must be announced by each team by May 24th. The fees and umpiring procedure that existed last year will be followed this summer, with visiting teams bringing the umpire-in-chief and home teams supplying the base umpire, at the same pay as before. The Spalding baseball was adopted for this season.

It was decided that the president and the secretary of the league will continue to sign the players' certificates, which are to be sent shortly to the four clubs. Max Swanston, as C.O.B.L. representative to the O.B.A.A. convention in Toronto, made his report and expressed the belief that the 1934 annual convention might be obtained by one of the Central Ontario League towns.

Trophy Turned Over.

The Art Johnston Trophy, presented to the C.O.B.L. in 1919, was then turned over by Belleville to Kingston, Manager Frank Smith of the champion Ponies assuring them the cup would be kept in a conspicuous place. It was agreed to run a triple schedule, giving each team nine games at home and nine away. Cobourg objected at first to making the long trip to Kingston three times during the schedule, but finally agreed. The secretary and one representative from each club then sat down to draw up a tentative schedule, subject to change, while the rest of the gathering adjourned.

SENATORS' RECRUIT PITCHER WINS HIS 3RD STRAIGHT GAME

Monte Weaver Downs Athletics for 8-2 Victory—Earnshaw on Mound.

REDS LOSE 8 TO 3.

(By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

Walter Johnson can discover no sound reason for embarrassment over his prediction early this spring that Monte Weaver would win plenty of ball games for the Washington Senators.

Weaver evidently is determined to vindicate his manager's judgment for he already owns three straight victories, two other the champion Philadelphia Athletics.

Starting with a four-hit shutout over the Boston Red Sox and Horace Lisenbee, Weaver beat the A's and Rube Walberg, 7-4, last week although they failed to finish the game.

Defeats Athletics 8-2.

Yesterday Johnson sent him against the A's again. This time the young right-hander went the route, held the A's to seven scattered hits, while Washington clouted George Earnshaw and Joe Bowman to 14, and won 8-2. Carl Reynolds drove in 4 Senator runs with two doubles and a single. Connie Mack shook up his line-up, sending Oscar Roettger to first base and Ed Coleman into right field and shifting Jimmy Foxx to third base and Jimmy Dykes to second with Dib Williams at short.

Detroit's amazing Tigers, however, managed to keep a half game ahead of the Senators for the American League lead by scoring eight runs in the last two innings to conquer the Chicago White Sox, 10-9.

George Pipgras pitched the New York Yankees to an easy 9—2 verdict over the Boston Red Sox in a game remarkable only in that the Yankees failed to hit a home run. Pipgras allowed only six hits and struck out an even dozen.

Earl Averhill, Cleveland outfielder, came out of a batting slump to drive in seven runs with two home runs and a double as the Indians walloped the St. Louis Browns, 14—3.

Cop Sixth Straight

In the National League, the pacesetting Boston Braves won their sixth straight game, nosing out the Phillies, 2—1, in a tight pitchers' duel between Ed Brandt and Ray Benge. The Braves won out in the sixth on Spohrer's single, a walk, a sacrifice and another single by Red Worthington, accounting for both runs.

The Cubs, close behind the Braves in the standing, unleashed a 16-hit barrage that buried the Pittsburgh Pirates, 12—3. Glenn Spencer had the doubtful distinction of pitching the whole game for the Pirates, despite the heavy Cub cannonading. Charley Root stopped the Corsairs with seven hits.

Giants Trounce Dodgers

Behind Carl Hubbell's five-hit pitching, the New York Giants easily trounced Brooklyn, 7—2. Chick Fallis collected three hits in a 16-hit drive by the Giants.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals turned back Cincinnati 8—3. Flint Rhem held the Reds to three hits until the eighth, when they bunched four singles and an error for all their runs. Chick Hafey, making his first start in the Cincinnati outfield, collected three singles against his former teammates.

WOMEN BOWLERS ELECT OFFICERS

Financial Report Shows Balance of $18.12—Tweed Annual Meeting.

(Examiner Correspondence)

TWEED, April 25.—The annual meeting of the Bowling Club was held at the home of the president, Mrs. S. B. McGee, with twenty-one members present. Mrs. Martin gave a very satisfactory report of the finances, showing a balance of $18.12.

The election of officers were as follows: Moved by Mrs. Martin and seconded by Mrs. Morrison that Mrs. McGuire be president. Carried. Mrs. McGuire took the chair and proceeded with the election. Moved by Mrs. Reeves and seconded by Miss Wright that Mrs. Wager be first vice president. Carried. Moved by Mrs. Kerr and seconded by Mrs. Morrison that Mrs. Clark be second vice president. Carried. Moved by Mrs. Morrison and seconded by Mrs. Sager that Miss A. Courneyea be secretary. Carried.

Moved by Mrs. Beatty and seconded by Mrs. Quinn that Mrs. Martin be treasurer. Carried. Moved by Mrs. Morrison and seconded by Mrs. Kerr that Mrs. Hindle be games convenor and appoint her own committee. Moved by Mrs. Morrison and seconded by Miss Wright that the executive be the membership committee, also the social. Moved by Miss Kerr and seconded by Miss Wright that the membership fee be the same as last year ($3.00). Moved by Mrs. Clark that Mrs. McGee be our honorary president, decision unanimous.

Moved by Mrs. Kerr and seconded by Miss Wright that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered to the retiring president. Mrs. McGee thanked all the officers for their kind co-operation and support they had rendered her while in office. Mrs. McGuire thanked the ladies for the confidence they have in her in electing her to the presidency and hoped that she would come up to their expectations. A dainty lunch was served bringing to a close a most summessful meeting.

A mixed train will be run daily on the Canadian National Railway system between Napanee and Tweed. When the first suggestion of the removal of the daily service were mooted, the members of the Board of Trade drew up a petition which they placed with Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P. to bring before the Railway Board. The proposed tri-weekly service which was first suggested, was flatly refused as unsatisfactory for the communities along the line.

In an interview with the railway board, Mrs. Tummon, M.P. presented a very convincing argument and finally gained a favorable decision. Although the oil train will be removed either to St. Thomas or Wingham, a daily freight service will be in augurated which will be beneficial to the business. A passenger coach is to be hooked on to the freight and will not be so satisfactory, but it will not mean the removal of several employees as the suggestion first anticipated.

LUCKLESS TORONTO CLUB DROPS 3 GAMES TO BIRDS

Regan Scores Three Home Runs for Orioles in First of Sunday Games.

BISONS-BEARS ALSO WIN.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 25. — The Orioles put Toronto on the spot yesterday afternoon, winning both games of the first doubleheader of the season by scores of 9-4 and 6-5. As the visitors dropped Saturday's contest, 9-7, it was a lean week-end for them, and they didnt flash any too much pepper or give any indication that they were going places and doing things.

But, after all, it was the home runs delivered by Oriole bats that spelled disaster to the Leafs. Bill Regan, who had been warming the bench and is now playing third for the Birds, dominated the opener yesterday, collecting three home runs and batting in half a dozen markers.

Regan was impartial, too, making one homer each off Art Smith, Liebhardt, and Butzberger, the pitchers who attempted to check the locals. All of Regan's slams travelled over the left field fence, hit first coming in the initial inning with one on; his second in the sixth with two on the sacks and his final blow in the eighth with the bases unpopulated.

Southpaw Beryl Richmond didn't go the route for the Birds, giving way in the fourth to Walter Tauscher, who yielded only two hits and no runs during the rest of the contest.

With Bases Full.

The seven-inning nightcap kept the 9,000 fans on their toes. The Leafs scored four runs in the third, but again a home run figured largely in the situation. Packard coming right back in the Birds' half and sending in three runners ahead of him by a wallop over the left field fence.

Sax, batting for Sewell, was retired, but Morehart beat out a hit to Regan and went to third when Michael's doubled to left. Fritz, who scored Morehart with a single to left, dashed for second only to be retired, Arlett to Smythe to Heffner. Doljack was passed and Owen ended the game by lifting a fly to Packard in right.

Truett Sewell, recent acquisition from Detroit, went the entire way for the Leafs, while Cascarella, Southpaw Harry Smythe, and Ken Holloway only pitched to one batter, Owen, but it was a wise move on the part of Manager Maisel, for Smythe was showing distinct signs of weakening.

To-day is an off day, the final game of the series being carded for Tuesday. The Leafs should welcome the day of rest.

The Newark Bears and Buffalo Bisons, continuing their struggle for the lead without a letup, both did some fancy slugging and scoring. Newark, led by Jimmie Walker, who hit three doubles and two single in six times up, ran up a 16—8 score against the Montreal Royals. The Bears scored eight times in the first inning.

Buffalo's batters slugged four Jersey City pitchers for 16 hits and an 11—5 triumph. Ollie Carnegie set the pace with a homer and three singles in five times at bat.

Rochester Red Wings took Reading for the third time by assaulting three of the Keystone pitchers, and starting with Chuck Willis, star left-hander, for 17 assorted hits. The final count was 8—5, Manager Billy Southworth showed his team how to do it by making three hits for a perfect day at bat and Parham was the only Redwing batsman who failed to connect at least once.

Yesterday's Stars

Earl Averill, Indians—Drove in seven runs against Browns with two home runs and double.

Gerald Walker, Tigers — Clouted White Sox pitching for four singles.

Monte Weaver, Senators — Stopped Athletics, 8-2, with seven scattered hits.

George Pipgras, Yankees — Held Red Sox to six hits, fanned 12.

Red Worthington, Braves— His single in sixth drove in both runs as Braves beat Phils 2-1.

Carl Hubbell, Giants— Held Dodgers to five hits and won game.

Riggs Stephenson, Cubs — Clouted Pirate hurling for three doubles, drove in two runs and scored three.

Flint Rhem, Cardinals— Pitched Cards to 8-3 Victory over the Reds, scattering nine hits.

PEDEN AND AUDY WIN SIX-DAY RACE

Desperate Riding in Final Stages Brings Victory to Canadians.

MONTREAL, April 25.—Taking a one-lap lead at the begnning of the final hour, "Torchy" Peden, red-haired giant from Victoria, B.C., and Jules Audy, his 19-year-old partner, pedalled their way to victory in Montreal's sixth semi-annual six-day bicycle race Saturday night as they fought off the desperate challenge of the team of Alfred Letourneur, Paris, and Henri Lepage Montreal, before a crowd of 10,000. Letourneur and Lepage finished the 143-hour grind in second position, a lap behind Peden and Audy.

It was the most spectacular last-hour finish in Montreal's short six-day bicycle history with the Peden-Audy and Letourneur-Lepage teams providing the fireworks. The brilliant riding of the French "Red Devil," Letourneur, and Lepage, could not overcome the one-lap lead of the piston-like legs of the big Westerner and Audy. Although both Letourneur and Audy crashed into the infield of the pine saucer, they came back courageously with just as much speed as ever.

SINGER'S ORWELL IS DERBY FAVORITE

Field for Two Thousand Guineas English Classic Reduced to 15.

NEW MARKET, Eng., April 25.—(C. P. Cable)—W. M. G. Singer's good colt Orwell, leading money winner of the two-year-olds on the English turf last year, was today installed a warm favorite for the running of the classic two thousand guineas over the mile course here on Wednesday afternoon. Orwell is also the Derby favorite.

The field for the two thousand was reduced to 15 today by the scratching of J. Dwar's Violator.

The betting on the two thousand today was as follows: 11 to 8 against Orwell, 7 to 1 against Cockpen, 9 to 1 against Miracle, 100 to 9 against Rolling Rock, 100 to 8 against Clustine, 100 to 7 against Dastur and Loaningdale, 25 to 1 against Wyvern, Spenser and Paddington, 40 to 1 against Andrea, 50 to 1 against Sir Tricops, 66 to 1 against Hesperus and Irish Rose, 200 to 1 against April Fifth.

The jockeys are as follows:

ESTABLISHES NEW MARK

PRAGUE, April 25.—(AP)—Franz Dolda, of the Sport Club Slavia established what was announced as a new world's record for the shot put today, (a distance of 16.05 metres about 54.44 feet.)

This qualifies Dolda to participate in the Olympic games at Los Angeles. The former world's record was established by Emil Hirschfeld in 1908. It was 15.87 metres.

HOCKEY BOWLING CURLING BASKETBALL AND BOXING

CASUAL COMMENT

The Men's City Softball League holds its annual meeting this evening at eight in the Duffus Board Room. Team managers and prospective managers are advised to be on hand, as entries will be considered, officers elected and a whole raft of business cleaned up at one sitting.

• • • • • • •

Inter-Alley Bowling League games tomorrow night are: Group 1 at the Knights of Columbus, Group 2 at the "Y" and Group 3 at Duffus'. It is the last week for the first two groups, with Group 3 having still another week to go. The play-offs will be announced in the week. This is how they stand now:—

• • • • • • •

In Group 1: Duffus leads with ten points, Knights are next with six and the "Y" have four. In Group 2, the Knights are safe with thirteen points, followed by the "Y" with six and Duffus' with one. In Group 3, the Duffus team is away up on top with thirteen points, the "Y" bowlers have two, while the Knights have a goose egg.

At a lively C.O.B.L. meeting in Kingston Saturday, they did a flock of business. Bob Colling, of Belleville, was re-elected president; Newt Thompson, Belleville, is secretary-treasurer again; and Max Swanston, of Peterborough, was re-elected vice-president. Vic Hamilton will represent this town on the executive along with one man from each city in the loop and the officers.

• • • • • • •

The tarnished but impressive-looking old Johnston Trophy was presented to Kingston by Belleville, the Ponies being league champions. This cup was given to the Central League in 1919 by Art Johnston of Peterborough, and has seen a number of towns, including our own since. It's about due for an old home-coming this year.

• • • • • • •

The schedule as usual opens May 24th, Kingston playing in Belleville and Peterborough going to Cobourg. The Petes' first home game is June 3rd when Cobourg comes here. The triple schedule was adopted, meaning each team plays each other three times away and three times at home, making eighteen games for each club.

• • • • • • •

A tentative schedule was drawn up by a committee, but has not been officially adopted yet as there may be a few minor changes to make. However, the Petes will get most of their home games on Saturdays again with a few on weeks days. July 1 will be just like old times with the belleville ball-chasers here once more, led by Walter Gerow, the Conny Mack of the Central League.

• • • • • • •

Manager Art Primeau announces indoor workouts every evening at seven in the "Y" from now on, with all prospective seniors on hand. Perhaps toward the end of the week, they'll be practicing outdoors. On Saturday afternoon a bunch of players going out with the Petes this year limbered up at Riverside under the direction of Bob Ross. The park is fairly dry now, and should be okay in another week.

• • • • • • •

Jerry Coughlin informs us that the Pioneer A.C. is behind the amateur boxing bout next Friday night for the War Vets, hook, line and sinker. It is being put on by the Alpha Club, and Jerry offers them any of his boxers but those on the injured list, which includes DeCarlo and the Minisola brothers.

• • • • • • •

Word from Toronto this morning has it that Paul Amato, 1931 Dominion middleweight champ and 1932 Ontario titleholder, will fight Cliff Rhamey, another good Queen City pug, here in the headliner on Friday. Pidgeon cannot come for the semi-final bout, so Art Wood will meet George Prince in the 135-pound class. More particulars to-morrow.

• • • • • • • •

A box lacrosse meeting will be held to-morrow evening at 7.30 in the Chamber of Commerce, and a large turnout of devotees is looked for. The Brinton Carpet Company has a team lined up for the City League, and three more are needed to round it out. With quite a few boys out for Saturday's practice, there should be no trouble getting them.

• • • • • • •

Sugar Bowl softballers had a good workout on Saturday at Central, the old guard being on hand, and Archie Weir as a newcomer. The Westclox crew will not be in this year, but Percy Harrison and Bert Deck both figure on joining the loop. Examiner, Quakers, and All Saints will likely be back again, too.

Martin Injured

PEPPER MARTIN.

"Pepper" Martin, hero of the last world series, dislocated his left shoulder when he slid into first base in the eighth inning of yesterdays' game between the Reds and St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards' famous centrefielder will be out of the game for three weeks or a month because of the injury. He was sent back to St. Louis last night for treatment there by club physicians after an X-ray had disclosed no fracture.

BRICKER CAPTURES 15,000-METRE RUN

Beats Rankins by Foot in Silverthorne Road Race at Toronto.

TORONTO, April 25. —The first annual road races of the Silverthorne Athletic Club, under the direction of the Ontario Runners' Association, were held Saturday afternoon in the Silverthorne district. The distances of the races were: Senior 15,000 and 5,000 metre handicaps and 3,000-metre junior scratch race. Weather conditions were ideal, and there was a great crowd of spectators present.

Reeve Alf. Gray acted as starter for the various events. He despatched the 15,000-metre men on their way first. This event proved to be the closest fought of the three. Two of the scratch men, Bricker and Rankine, proved superior to the field, for after giving away handicaps up to eight minutes they gradually worked their way through the field of 60 to place first and second. This pair staged a great finish, and Rankine timed his sprint just a trifle late. Bricker hitting the tape just about a foot ahead of the Preston boy.

Dave Strang of Hamilton, who was in receipt of a good handicap, finished third; Norm Dack, also of Hamilton, fourth. Jack Stewart, Hamilton; Gord. Proctor, Silverthornes; Lloyd Street, Silverthornes, and Bob Thompson, Monarchs, followed in quick succession.

THEATRES

"THE HATCHET MAN."

Hatchet Men, the members of a Chinese tong whose duty it is to destroy their enemies via the ceremonial hatchet, are not regarded as "killers" in China and Chinatown. They are, instead, revered by their tongs and held in awe by enemies. Hatchet men are also designated by the term "honorable." In Edward G. Robinson's latest First National and Vitaphone picture, "The Hatchet Man," which is at the Regent Theatre to-day and to-morrow, the star is addressed as "Honorable Mr. Wong."

The position of hatchet man is handed down from father to son and is guided by a special code of ethics. The "bearer of justice" is bound by oath to carry out the orders of his tong leader, even if this may endanger the lives of the hatchet man's lifelong friends. He is, in fact, expected to hurl the hatchet against members of his own family should the tong so decree. Much of the dramatic action of "The Hatchet Man," is based on this custom.

Hatchet men are not permitted to resign from their position at any time. They are present at all tong council and when ordered to destroy tong enemies they are expected to do so without leaving a trace. In order to develop this ability they are schooled by their fathers in the art of hatchet-hurling. They are also taught all the other intricacies of their craft from boyhood on and are admitted to tong councils when their attain their majority. Only tong members know who their hatchet men are and their identity is never revealed, under penalty of death.

Because of the stern requirements of their trade, hatchet men represent a highly intelligent and ingenious class of Chinese. Edward G. Robinson as Wong Low Get, hatchet man of the Lem Sing tong, is said to portray such a character with an accuracy and understanding rarely displayed by Occidental players of Oriental parts.

Robinson is supported in "The Hatchet Man" by Loretta Young, Dudley Digges, Leslie Fenton, Noel Madison and several native and American-born Chinese. William A. Wellman directed the picture.

Badminton Results

A round robin tournament was held in the armouries Saturday night by the Peterborough Military Badminton club. Lady's prize for the high total was won by Mrs. C. Stuart and Roy Taylor won the men's with consolation awards going to Mrs. Gordon Hall and Col. Hall.

Later the bachelor members of the club acted as hosts to an enjoyable luncheon, arrangements for which were in charge of Gordon Strickland who was thanked by Chris Graham on behalf of the members.

Capt. J. Menkman appointed a committee for the purpose of planning a Bridge and Dance to close the playing season which will possibly be held in the armouries on Friday, May 6th. Definite information will come later however.

ROTARY BANTAMS

The Rotary Bantams, proposed entry in the City Baseball League, will hold a workout at Central School grounds at six o'clock Tuesday evening. Players wanting a place should attend this practice.

Vines And Shields Win Doubles Title

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, West Va., April 25.—Ellsworth Vines Jr. and Frank X. Shields, United States Davis Cup players, won the Mason and Dixon tennis doubles championship here Saturday in straight sets from Marcel Rainville of Montreal, Canadiaan Davis Cup star, and Eugene McAuliffe of Yonkers, N.Y. The scores were: 6—1, 9—7, 6—1.

Rainville and McAuliff, who teamed together for the first time last week, put up their best game in the middle set, and Vines and Shields were forced to the limit to overcome stubborn opposition.

Vines gained revenge for recent defeats at the hands of Wilmer Allison of Texas by defeating Allison decisively, 6—4, 6—1, 6—4, to win the singles title.

GOOD TURNOUT AT PRACTISE

Several Newcomers to Take Part in Gutted Stick Pastime This Summer.

VETERANS PRESENT.

A good turnout of lacrosse players, experienced and newcomers, attended the first practise of the year at the Exhibition Grounds Saturday afternoon. Manager Bud Fisher kept them warmed up for a while looking them over, and expressing satisfaction with their first workout.

Among the players present were Gene Donovan and Hap O'Toole of the old Crescents. Others were Red Creighton, Pete King, Ira Dundas, Fred Meagher, Doug. Hatton, Tom Hewitt, H. Bannon, McGee, Fisher, E. Creighton, Ellis, T. Staunt, H. Jones, Art Lefevre, B. Hatton and Watson. The Brinton Carpet Company has organized a team from the City League, and three more are required. The association expects to have a cup put up for competition, and the Brock Street Rink management reports the Arena will soon be ready for lacrosse.

A meeting is being held tomorrow evening at 7.30 in the Chamber of Commerce to consider entries and other business, and every one interested in box lacrosse is advised to be on hand.

JERRY GOES INSPECTING

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

Who wisely plan must look ahead;
Who fain would lead is never led.
—Paddy the Beaver.

"I didn't know you made canals," said Jerry Muskrat to Paddy the Beaver.

"Of course I make canals," replied Paddy. "They are as important as the dam or my house. Some of them are in the bottom of my pond. These are to give me deep water at all times, especially in the winter when where it is shallow the water freezes clear to the bottom. You will find that over most of this pond the water is not very deep and in winter ice forms clear to the bottom over a large part of it. But part way around my house over yonder is a deep canal from which the entrance to my house opens."

Jerry noded. "I know," said he. "I have a canal from my house to deep water."

"Over there where you see those sticks in the water is my food pile," continued Paddy

"Excuse me," interrupted Jerry. "Just what is your food pile made of?"

"Logs and sticks of freshly-cut poplar and willow and sometimes alder," replied Paddy. "You see, I eat the bark. That is what I live on through the winter and I would starve to death or else be caught by Yowler the Bobcat or Old Man Coyote or Puma the Panther if I had to go ashore to get it. So in the fall Mrs. Paddy and I cut a lot of trees and then cut them up into logs and then towed them out and sunk them in the deepest part of the pond until we had a great pile, enough to supply us with bark all winter. Around the pile we dug a canal so as to always have deep water there. Then we dug a canal from our house over to the food pile and another over to this dam and clear along the length of the dam so that we could come over here any time under the ice and make sure that the dam was all right. Dive down after me and you will see how much deeper the water is here by the dam than it is out a little way."

So Jerry followed Paddy, for you know he is about as good a swimmer under the water as Paddy is. He found that it was just as Paddy had said. Then Paddy let the way over to his house and climbed out on it. Jerry climbed out beside him. The roof was thick and strong and Jerry admired it greatly.

"I have other canals that are not in my pond," explained Paddy. "These are to float logs from where they are cut back from the pond down to the road. I will show them to you later if you would like to see them."

"I have other canals that are not in my pond," explained Paddy

"I would indeed," replied Jerry. "What a fine house you have here. I had a good house, but it is under water now if it hasn't been swept away by the flood." He sighed.

"Too bad," said Paddy. "Too bad. I fear you didn't plan properly. Now, that couldn't happen to me. I never have to worry about having my house flooded or carried away by swift water. That it where my dams are useful. The water spreads out without making a swift current. When it gets deep enough it flows over the whole length of my dam and when such a lot can go over at once it never can increase in depth much because it is carried away as fast as it comes into the pond. The dam protects my house. You should have protected your house with a dam."

"Perhaps you are right," replied Jerry doubtfully. "Only it is very different down where I live and I don't know anything about building dams anyway. I can build a good house. It isn't as good as this, but it is a good house, if I do say so. I guess you and I build in about the same way, only you being so much bigger can use heavier things to make your walls strong."

"Won't you come inside and see how nice it is in there and meet Mrs. Paddy?" invited Paddy.

"No, No, thank you," replied Jerry somewhat hastily. "I appreciate the invitation, but I will remain outside."

Just then a brown head appeared in the water just below them. Jerry guessed that it was Mrs. Paddy.

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If April 26th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4.10 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11.30 p.m. The danger hours are from 7 a.m. to 8.40 a.m., and from 1 p.m. to 2.30 p.m.

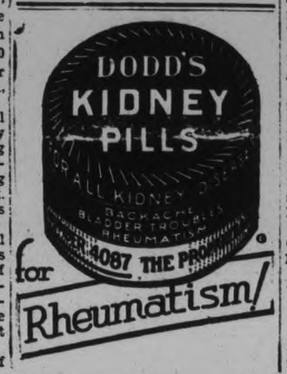
You will feel energetic on April 25th and will accomplish many things which have been hanging over your head. Unsatisfactory affairs of the heart and suffering through jealousy for the young folk. Ratio of probability of accidents is at its minimum on this date.

The child born on this April 25th will be largely governed by its emotions, and will be a seeker of thrills. It wil be warmly affectionate, and will demand considerable love and attention. It will be generous and giving to the last degree.

If born under the influences of "Taurus" you are by nature a fighter, and you are not a victim of fear—especially that of physical cowardice. You are a very hard worker, loyal and headstrong, but you are rather lacking in tact and diplomacy, and your judgments are many times made too quickly. You have a great capacity for endurance, and you will take considerable punishment before you will let go. You take your losses rather too much at heart, and you let "regrets" sadden and sour your nature.

A strong sense of justice colors your "make-up" and you wish to give and to receive a square deal. You are a little bit hard on those whom you consider sinners, and you are very careful to whom you extend a helping hand. You are very honest with yourself and all the world. If your sense of humor were more highly developed you would probably not take life so seriously, and you would be more forgiving.

You are not interested in sports, and care little for outdoor pleasures. You are very fond of reading, and have a keen appreciation for music. You should study the latter, at least for your own pleasure. You know how to enjoy a quiet night by your own fireside. If you be a woman, you are too much of a "stay-at-home." You should cultivate the sociability side of your nature, and take up more outside interests.



Marmora

Messrs. H. O. Loveless and G. Brocks of Deloro are attending the annual convention of the Industrial Accidents Prevention Association held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto this week.

Miss Goldie Jones of Campbellford is visiting relatives here.

The scholars of Mr. Prentice's room at the Public School were treated to an enjoyable weiner roast at his residence on Friday evening.

Mr. Harry Edwards is still in poor state of health.

One of the prized possessions of Mr. Robert Jones, octogenarian resident of Marmora Township is a book published about the year of his birth. It is called "An Evening's Conversation in the Mountains of Derry." It recalls incidents in the history of Derry and was printed by J. Charles, Middle Abbey street, Dublin. It was formerly in the possession of Royal Keys, who died about half a century ago at the advanced age of 107.

Bridgenorth

The Gleaners' Class of Gilmour Memorial Sunday school met at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Gratten Telford of Chemong road on Wednesday, April 20, with about fourteen present. The afternoon was spent in sewing for India.

At the close of the sewing bee Mrs. Telford served a sumptuous supper to the girls.

A number that were present remained over for prayer meeting which was held at Mrs. Telford's home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Earl Mann of Detroit motored home to spend a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Archer and Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Mann of Smith.

Mr. and Mrs Gratten Telford of Chemong road spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Stockdale of Lakefield.

Miss P. Blewett of Toronto is visiting friends in this district.

The manufacture of "caviar" from Gaspe sturgeon has been suggested.

Red-headed Stepchild

BAILIEBORO, April 25 (Examiner Correspondence). — "The Red-headed Stepchild," a comedy drama in three acts, was presented by the United Church Young People's Society to a large audience in the basement of Christ Church on Friday evening. The play was one of Denison's selected plays written by Charges George, and the eight girls and four boys who took part acted their various roles exceptionally well, under the competent supervision of their instructress, Mrs. T. A. Skitch, who directed the play throughout.

The period of the play was the present; the place, the Russell home in Chicago; time of playing, two and a quarter hours.

The first act took place in the living-room of Richard Russell's fashionable home in Chicago. An afternoon in spring.

Act II.—Same as Act I. Evening several months later.

Act III.—Same as Act I. Three o'clock p.m. two days later.

The cast of characters:

Mrs. Edith Russell, Richard's second wife, Miss May Earl.

Mrs. Oliver Woodruff and Mrs. Emory Scott, society matrons, Miss Agnes Brackenridge and Miss Jean Muncey.

Briggs, the Russells' butler, Carl Lang.

Lucia Russell, their daughter, Miss Iva Campbell.

Durley Russell, their son, Joe Barnard.

Richard Russell, a financier, Fred Barnard.

Elizabeth Russell (Bess), Richard's daughter from the West, Mrs. Will Lang.

George Garrison, presumably Lucia's admirer, Will Lang.

Ethel Ashley and Lucille Christy, young society girls, Misses Audrey Barnard and Ruth Dawson.

Flora Farnum, Dudley's inamorata, Miss Dorothy Dawson.

The guest artists who provided musical numbers during the program and between acts, were Miss Grace Johnston, gold medallist, who recently won the gold medal at the Kiwanis competition in piano contest at Peterborough, and her brother, Wilfred Johnston, delighted the audience when they rendered violin and piano solos.

Will Lang acted as chairman.

Cavan

The warm weather has rapidly dried up the roads and is putting the fields in shape for spring work. Already a few have started at the odd jobs, sowing grass seeds, harrowing wheat and a little ploughing There was a good run of sap the first three days of the week, but the season is practically over.

Mr. G. Greer, road superintendent, Cobourg and a couple of other officials of the road were in Cavanville on Thursday afternoon, looking over the road, where the pavement has broken through in one spot in Cavan village.

A meeting of Cavan Circuit Parsonage Board was held at the home of Mr. D. J. Hunter on Thursday evening.

Delegates from St. John's Church, Ida named to attend the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church, of the Diocese of Toronto, May 9th, were Miss at the O.A.C., Guelph, visited Mrs. R. S. Staples for a few days recently.

Mr. Rowen visited Peterborough friends and attended the Presbyterian W.M.S. convention.

C.G.I.T. girls from Cavan who attended the C.G.I.T. convention in Peterborough were Jessie Armstrong, Mary Tinney, Doris Tinney, Pearl Richards, Verda Braithwaite, Dorothy Cobbley, Audrey Nill and Edith Scott.

Mrs. Harry Tinney and Mrs. Albert Tinney kindly took the girls in their cars.

Bertha Touchbourne, Miss Elva Elliott and Mrs. Seeney.

Miss Ina Vander Horne, student

CALEDONIANS HEAR ADDRESS

Rev. J. D. Paterson Gives Talk on Scotland's War Memorial.

REGULAR MEETING.

A large audience of Peterborough Scots greeted the Rev. J. D. Paterson for his lecture on "The Scottish National War Memorial," which with beautiful illustrations he delivered at a meeting of the Caledonian Club last Friday evening in the Woodmen of the World Hall. The chair was occupied by D. Anderson, who fittingly opened proceedings and called upon the reverend speaker, who needed no introduction, being well-known to the Caledonians.

Just before the lecture A. Milne received great applause for a splendid bagpipe selection, as also did a vocal trio composed of Messrs. G. Low, A. Clark and A. Milne, who sang "Scots Wha Hae," the national patriotic song of Scotland.

Rev. J. D. Paterson, who with his son was present at the memorable and impressive unveiling of the Memorial, described it as "the most beautiful and most national memorial which has ever been built." It is characteristic of the genius of Scotland that she alone, among the kingdoms of Britain, set surely and unhurriedly about the solemn task of creating a national memorial to her Hundred Thousand Dead.

Overlooks Edinburgh.

The Memorial stands on the pinnacle of the great rock whose castle overlooks the town of Edinburgh. Never was a memorial built that linked so intimately the immediate with the remoter past. It occupies the same site as the Chapel of St. Mary, founded by David the First in the fourteenth century.

The walls outside the shrine were fully described and the speaker called attention to a group of eight figures representing the motions of the spirit of man, carved on the stones and also to the panels reproducing the old divisional signs such as buttons, badges, etc. Over the door of entry is a great arch, and recessed within it a figure, symbolic of the Survival of the Spirit. After passing through the porch and stretching to right and left, is the Hall of Honor, and directly in front is the Shrine. The Hall is for record and remembrance; the Shrine is an inner sanctuary.

Splendid Work.

In the Shrine is a steel casket, the gift of Their Majesties the King and Queen, and in which there is a written record of the names of those who were faithful unto death. Mr. Paterson fully described this notable example of smith work. On the great hasp that lifts the lid is a modelled figure in iron of St. Margaret of Scotland. In a similar position on the back is a figure of St. Andrew: the sides are enriched with angel figures. Over the casket and suspended from the ceiling is a figure of St. Michael. Round the Shrine is a group of seven windows describing war since its origin, and underneath them is a bronze frieze representing the various types of Scottish soldiers and sailors who fought on the battlefronts, on the sea and in the air. They are shown, not on parade, but in working dress. The women's services are also included, and even the animals and carrier pigeons.

The pictures of the Hall of Honor were very clear and interesting, and the speaker called special attention to the inscriptions on the walls and the Books of the Dead on the bronze lecterns before each regimental bay. The long walls are divided into pillared archades, and in each arch is a memorial of a regiment. The speaker had time to describe only a very few of these individual memorials.

The Shrine that crowns Edinburgh Castle has been subscribed to by Scots alone, and these from every corner of the earth.

A fitting conclusion to this interesting meeting was the singing of "The Flowers of the Forest" by Miss Jessie Paterson, accompanied on the piano by Miss Marian Ralston.

A sincere expression of appreciation to the speaker and his son, Douglas Paterson, who so ably operated the lantern, was voiced by R. Gilmour on behalf of the Club. He also thanked the other artists. Tea was then served and an hour spent in dancing.

Before The Tide Turns

"Time and tide wait for no man."

Nor are the low prices of to-day and the turn of the tide toward higher prices going to wait for those who haven't the vision, courage and foresight to buy when prices are at the lowest ebb in 15 years.

And this changing of the tide as applied to prices is more than a mere simile . . . it's a certainty . . . price tides change as surely as ocean tides.

To-day's prices on food, clothing, furniture, furs, cars and other things are from 40% to 100% lower than they have been in years and lower than they will be before the turn of another season.

Don't be caught off your guard when it's so important that your savings be guarded.

Couple Being Held As Kidnap Suspects

DOWNINGTOWN, Pa., April 25 (C.P.). — Chief of Police Chester Glisson said that state police from Hopewell, N.J., will come to Downingtown to-day to question the man and woman held by the Downingtown police in connection with the Lindbergh kidnapping case.

The couple gave their names as Albert Lacher, of Philadelphia, and Edith Crebeb, of Detroit. They had been staying at an inn here for some time and were suspected of knowing something of the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby after they are said to have sent a letter to the Lindbergh family, and other persons at the inn heard them talking about the case.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 79 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

For an instant the pigmies stood terrified and then their leader cried: "It is Tarzan"; and turning, fled into the jungle. "Yes, it IS Tarzan—Tarzan of the Apes," answered Lord Greystoke in the pigmies' dialect, which the whites did not understand. Then he turned to them. "The Gomangani have gone," he said, "get up." The three men scrambled to their feet. "You are the fellows who drugged me and left me helpless in your camp, a prey to the first passing lion or savage native."

The trio of whites turned pale, not knowing what to expect next. "I search for your black Luvini who has killed my wife," said Tarzan, after regarding them in silence for a moment. "Where is he" Kraski spoke up: "We know nothing of that. Luvini betrayed and deserted us. No white women were in our camp at the time." Then rapidly he told the story of the fight the Wasiri had with Luvini's ivory thieves. "When it was over the two women had disappeared. Where, we know not."

To the ape-man's further questions, they again protested that they had come to Africa on scientific reasearch. "But now," said the Russian, "we are absolutely alone and helpless." He added that they hoped to reach the coast and from there London. "Come with me," said Tarzan after a pause. "perhaps I can help you. Certainly you do not deserve it, but I can not see white men perish here in the jungle." They followed him westward, making camp that night beside a small jungle stream.

The three Londoners had little liking for the company of the golden lion. Squatting about the fire after the evening meal which the ape-man provided, Kraski suggested that they build a shelter. "Not necessary," said Tarzan, "my friend Jad-bal-ja will protect us." An hour later the Russian saw the ape-man rise from his squatting position before the fire. The two other men snored. As Tarzan arose, something fell unnoticed by him from beneath his loin cloth—a little sack made of hide.

GEORGE HAMILTON GIVEN ONE YEAR

Had Pleaded Guilty to Assaulting Napoleon Gravelle.

"Your career in the past has been such that I can not give you anything milder," Police Magistrate Langley told George Hamilton, aged 18, to-day in sentencing him to one year definite and one year indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory. Hamilton had pleaded guilty to assaulting Napoleon Gravelle, a youth smaller than himself, and doing him actual bodily harm.

The assault took place in the southern extremity of the city, Hamilton pounding Gravelle with his closed fists about the face until he fell to the ground bleeding profusely and almost unconscious.

"The assault was unprovoked" continued the Magistrate. "You just caught this boy and beat him up. There is no excuse given. Since boyhood you have been before me again and again and countless talks to you and kindliness has failed to deter you from your lawless career."

Chief Newhall said that there had been several assaults of a similar nature in recent weeks, and addressing the court previous to sentence being passed he reported Crown tAtorney McElderry as requesting stiff disciplinary measures toward Hamilton.

Need Good Beefsteak

"You need some good beefsteak, the kind they give up at the jail; you're getting very white" stated the Magistrate to an aged vagrant, one of the city's most habitual drunkards who has spent more time in jail than out during the [illegible] three years.

"Aw, my teeth are bad, I don't think I could chew no beefsteak" replied the man in a quavering, throaty voice, his head shaking from the effects of his latest debauch with rubbing alcohol and solidified fuel.

"Well, I think you'll be able to chew the beefsteak they serve up there. Some good porridge will do you good" replied His Worship.

He was remanded for a week in order to allow police time to try and arrange to have him go on a farm for the summer.

JOHN P. BROWNE

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon of John P. Browne of 196 Rubidge street, who passed away on Friday after a lengthy illness.

The cortege left Lane and Bano's fneral home at 2.15 p.m. and proceeded to St. Peter's Cathedral for the funeral mass. Interment was made at St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

The deceased was a life-long resident of this city and of Douro Township, having come here at an early age from Lanark County, where he was born. He leaves to mourn his loss one son and one daughter, Mrs. Grose of this city; also two brothers, Thomas of Parry Sound, and Robert of Cornwall. Mrs. Armstrong, a sister, passed away a wee akgo.

MRS. JOHANNA McCARTHY.

The funeral of Miss Johanna McCarthy was held on Friday from her late residence, 292 Simcoe street, to St. Peter's Cathdral, where Requiem Mass was sung by Father Carroll. Father Finn was deacon and Doctor Mathewson was sub-deacon. In the sanctuary were: Father McCauley, of Ennismore, Father Dean O'Sullivan, of Immaculate Conception, Father Begley, of Immaculate Conception, and Father Corkery, of St. Joseph's Hospital.

The sermon was preached by Father Carroll in which he referred feelingly to the deceased's charitable works, especially in connection with children and the orphans of St. Vincent's Orphanage.

The funeral was attended by many of Miss McCarthy's relatives. Mrs. Dan Byrne and her son, Walter, being present from Rochester, and her nieces from Lindsay.

Pall bearers were: James Lynch, James Murty, F. J. McPherson, Joseph Maher, Fred Overend and William Rudkins.

MRS. ELIZABETH DAFOE.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Dafoe, Downer's Corners was held on Saturday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. Lyman, to Norwood Cemetery, with the Rev. A. Morehouse, St. James' United Church, Peterborough, officiating. Pall-bearers were six neighbors: M. Hiscox, J. Rogers, A. Gillespie, W. Arnott, P. Row, and E. Frost.

The late Mrs. Elizabeth Dafoe was the widow of W. F. Dafoe, formerly of Norwood. She was taken suddenly ill on April 16th, and moved to Nicholls Hospital, where she passed away on Wednesday evening last, in her 87th year. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. A. Torrance, Murray Street, Peterborough, and Mrs. A. Lyman, Downer's Corners, and one son, J. Homer Dafoe, Oakland, California. Five sons predeceased her.

Weddings

LANGLEY—PARSONS

An interesting wedding was solemnized quietly Saturday at one o'clock in St. Luke's Church, when the Rev. G. J. Bousfield performed the ceremony which united in the holy bonds of matrimony Ann Grayson, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Parsons of Douro street, and Mr. John Edgar Thornborough Langley, son of O. A. Langley, K.C. and Mrs. Langley. The immediate families and friends of the bridal party were present.

The church and altar were decorated with spring flowers and ferns. Mr. W. Thompson, the church organist, played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a frock of eggshell tinted lace, made in sleeveless style with long matching kid gloves. Her wide picture hat of fine mohair straw had a band of mauve velvet and a bunch of purple violets.

Her slippers of violet brocade were worn with eggshell hose and her jaquette, doffed at the church, was of violet velvet, with flowing sleeves.

Her corsage bouquet was of orchids and lily of the valley.

Attendants to the bride and bridegroom were the former's sister, Miss Lahring Parsons, and Mr. Stanley Lytle Duncan of Toronto.

Miss Parsons wore a gown of figured crepe in brown hues on a white ground, with cinnamon brown hat and shoes and a corsage bouquet of pale yellow roses.

After the ceremony, the wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, where the rooms were decorated with a profusion of spring flowers. The table was done very charmingly with the bride's cake as the centerpiece, banked with tulle in shades to match the mauve and pink sweet peas, pale pink rosebuds, lily of the valley and maidenhair fern which were placed in silver vasss.

Later, Mr. Langley and his bride motored to Toronto to take the train for Port Arthur, where they will spend the next fortnight before going to live in Hamilton.

The bride travelled in a suit of glass blue travelling tweed with blouse of hand-embroidered georgette, blue straw hat and blue shoes. She wore pepper colored hose, blue accessories and a cravat tie of beige lapin.

OUTWATER—LANE.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of George Street United church on Friday, when Ethel Lane, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lane, Lake street, became the bride of Carman Outwater, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Outwater of Grandview avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. E. J. Millyard.

Attendants were Miss Margaret Outwater, a sister of the bridegroom, and Walter Lane, brother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Outwater will live in Peterborough.

WATKINS—McRAE.

The wedding took place quietly at half-past seven o'clock on Saturday evening at the manse of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, of Albert Wallace Watkins, son of Mr and Mrs. Joseph Watkins, of this city, and Wanda Fay McRae, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, daughter of Charles McRae and the late Mrs. McRae, of Hopetown, Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Watkins will live in Peterborough.

TORONTO MAN GETS 9 YEARS

Shopbreaking Count Adds 2 Years to Seven for Receiving Stolen Goods.

BREAD COMPANY HOLD-UP.

TORONTO, April 25 (C.P.) — Melville Campbell, Toronto, found guilty of receiving stolen goods and with shop breaking, to-day was sentenced to a total of nine years' imprisonment. On charges of receiving and retaining part of the proceeds of a bread company holdup, he was given seven years in Penitentiary. On the shopbreaking charge, he was given two more years, to follow the seven.

Stanley Jones, cashier of the Bredin Bread Company here, was attacked and robbed of $2,400. Half an hour after the holdup, police had searched Campbell at his home here and found $802 of the bread company's money in his possession.

The shopbreaking charge arose from an offence in a Young Street store. When Campbell's fingerprints were taken following the Bredin robbery, they were found to be identical to those found in the store which had been robbed.

BUILDING TRADE SHOWS ACTIVITY

Several Building Permits Taken Out in Last Few Days.

TWO NEW DWELLINGS.

Building in the city is steadily forging to the front, and the activity already noticeable this month promises to produce a much better record for the year than for the past two years.

T. D. Miller is erecting a five-roomed, brick-veneer house at the corner of James and Mark streets. It will be finished in bass wood, have hot water heating and is estimated to cost $2,800.

At an estimated cost of $500 the front of a residence at 709 Water street, owned by George Evans, is being greatly altered. The old stone foundation is being removed and a concrete foundation put in. A combination porch and overhead sun-room will be built. The outside of the house will be stuccoed and the roof reshingled. K. Sine is the contractor.

On the west side of Aylmer street near Dublin street a $3,600 dwelling is being erected. It will be brick veneer, have six rooms, and be heated by hot air and an open fireplace. Thomas Ephgrave is the contractor and Mrs. Nibblett is the owner.

This building is going on in addition to that reported by The Examiner last Friday.

Roller-Skating On Streets Dangerous

Many children are becoming reckless in their enjoyment of the popular sport of roller-skating, the police report. Not content to skate on the sidewalks many of the youngsters are venturing out upon the paved roadways, and besides endangering themselves are proving a nuisance to motor traffic. In order to avert an accident, police advise parents to warn their children to skate only on the sidewalks.

Liberal Women Heads For Rally In Chatham

CHATHAM, Ont., April 25 (C.P.) —Liberal women from all over Ontario are journeying to Chatham to-day for the annual meeting of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association, the sessions of which are being held to-morrow and Wednesday. Many of the delegates are travelling to the meeting by motor from the Niagara Peninsula and eastern points.

The annual banquet, which is being held to-morrow evening in the William Pitt Hotel, will be addressed by Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., Ontario Liberal leader; Jean Francois Pouliot, M.P. of Temiscuata, who lone-handed secured a new railway station for Riviere Du Loup, and Dr. J. W. Rutherford, M.P.

No Need For Despair By Port Of Halifax

OTTAWA, April 25 (C.P.). — Alexander Johnston, former Deputy Minister of Marine does not agree that the report of Sir Alexander Gibb, tabled in Parliament recently holds that Halifax has little to hope for in the way of development of the grain trade.

"There is no such language in the report," Mr. Johnston states "that there is little hope for Halifax as a grain shipping port." Mr Johnston said the report finds "difficulties," but there were few problems without difficulties. Difficulties exist to be overcome, stated Mr Johnston, and difficulties have been overcome with a great many problems. "I do not find any such conclusion of despair," Mr. Johnston added.

"Tight buttoned"

Have You, The "Can't Afford It" Habit ?

THE use of that phrase does not suggest the inability to buy so much as the desire to practice rigid economy . . . to save . . . to deny yourself needed and necessary commodities.

But Man, oh Man, and you, too, Madam, how better and more effectively can you practice economy and thrift than to buy when prices are at their lowest ebb in years? How more certainly can you insure economy than to replace worn or out-of-date furniture than when new is selling for one-third of what it sold for 15 years ago? Or to stock up on food products when they are 40% less than at any time since the war? Or clothing when $53 to-day will buy you what you paid $100 for in 1912?

What you really cannot afford to do is not buy because you cannot afford to miss to-day's low levels . . . prices that are an actual boon to reduced incomes . . . to the practice of sensible, far-sighted economy.

SAYS PUBLICITY WRITERS BALLYHOO STOCK VALUES

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(A.P.)—Representative Fiorello Laguardia of New York, charged to-day before the U. S. Senate Finance committee that brokers desiring to boost the value of certain stocks paid financial writers to ballyhoo these securities.

Appearing as a surprise witness, the dynamic New York Republican brought along two trunks filled with papers, some of which were circulars sent out by financial houses advising their clients to buy in anticipation of a bull market.

He said A. Newton Plummer, a publicity counsel, had paid out $286,000 to financial writers for publicity and that he had cheques to show where $171,000 of the amount was paid.

TIE CONTRACTS STIR UP BITTER POLITICAL TILT

Charges and Counter Charges Freely Exchanged in Railways Committee.

MANION EXPLAINS.

States 26 of 27 Contracts in King Regime Went to Liberals—Proposition Now Switched.

OTTAWA, April 26 (C.P.).—Considerable heat was displayed and tempers were ruffled in the House of Commons Railways and Shipping Committee here to-day when, dividing on party lines, members engaged in a bitter political battle that surged around the question of tie contracts. Charges and counter-charges were freely interchanged. The incidence of unusually large tie deliveries in 1929 and the general election of the ensuing year were emphasized by the Conservative members of the committee, while virtual exclusion of Liberal contractors from engaging in current contracts was alleged by representatives of that party.

The conflict ended when Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, asserted that "26 out of 27" contracts issued by the former administration had gone to Liberals, and now the proportion had been "switched."

"Switched on the instructions of the Minister?" asked C. G. Power (Lib., Quebec South).

Wrote Management.

"No," replied Dr. Manion. He received many communications from individuals interested in securing these contracts, and these he sent on to the management, hoping that the representations made would receive favorable consideration.

"And your hopes were realized," suggested Mr. Power.

"Yes, well realized," replied the Minister. But, he added, this realization was not better than in 1929, when nearly 14,000,000 ties were purchased by the Liberal party. In that year more material had been bought for the Canadian National than in any year previously. Dr. Manion requested the management to present a statement showing the total supplies purchased for the system since 1920. As far as the present Government was concerned, he said, the principle followed in purchases was exactly the same as when Hon. C. A. Dunning was Minister of Railways.

Oshawa's Jobless Leader Arrested

OSHAWA, April 26 (C.P.). — Eddie McDonald, local unemployed leader, was arrested here to-day on a charge of causing a disturbance during a meeting of the City Council. He was remanded for one week. McDonald recently usurped the Mayoralty chair in the Council Chamber, and only relinquished the chair when police removed him.

NO PAY ALLOWED FOR MEETINGS OF COMMITTEES

Aldermen in Towns and Cities Cannot Collect for Committee Meetings.

ACT AMENDED.

Only Remuneration Forthcoming Now is for Council Meetings.

Aldermen of towns and cities are prohibited from receiving a stipend or remuneration for their attendance at committee meetings, according to a recent amendment of the Municipal Act passed by the Ontario Legislature.

This measure of economy which has been applied by the Ontario Government may not be loudly applauded by the members of the city council, at least not with as much enthusiasm as if the government had initiated within their own household a paring of the sessional indemnity.

Although the Aldermen were permitted to appropriate to themselves five dollars for every committee meeting they attended, the members of the local council were paid for their work on only three committees: the Board of Works, Finance and Committee of the Whole. Last year, there was no meeting of the Committee of the Whole, and the general impression has been that the council certainly did not abuse the right of granting themselves a stipend for their work in the two major committees.

The practice has been during the present regime to hold only one committee meeting a month, except in special circumstances that required an additional meeting.

Several members of the council informed The Examiner that they have been made aware of the new amendment, and the information has been confirmed by City Clerk Armstrong.

COSGRAVE IS WEDDING GUEST AS FAMOUS FAMILIES UNITE

Diamond Brooch is Gift to Bride, Lady Eileen Forbes, From Their Majesties.

VILLAGERS ATTEND.

NEWTOWN FORBES, Ireland, April 26 (A.P.)—Lady Eileen Forbes younger daughter of Lady Granard, formerly Beatrice Ogden Mills, was married to-day to Earl Dumfries, heir of Marquis Bute at Clonguish Parish Church.

Villagers, especially invited, arriver by the hundreds, and among the guests were former President William T. Cosgrave and Mrs. Cosgrave.

The bride wore a simple gown of ivory white. The bridegroom, who is a close friend of the Prince of Wales, was in kilts.

Their Majesties presented the bride with a diamond brooch. The wedding was held quietly owing to the death of the Dowager Marchioness of Bute.

United Famous Families

The marriage united two of the most famous Catholic families in the Peerage. Lady Forbes is a daughter of the Earl of Grandard, Sir Bernard Patrock Hastings Forbes, eighth holder of the title, a Deputy Speaker of the House of Lords and holder of the ancient office of Master of the Horse to His Majesty from 1907 to 1915. Lady Forbes is 19 years of age.

The groom is 24 years of age, a second lieutenant in the Royal Artillery.

Both the Earl of Granard and the Marquess of Bute, fathers of the bride and the groom, hold Baronetcies of Nova Scotia. This honor was conferred on Sir Arthur Forbes, first baronet in 1628, and upon Lord Crichton, first Earl of Dumfries, forbear of the Marquess of Bute, in 1627.

Exchange Inquiry Nearing Disclosures

WASHINGTON, April 26. (AP).—The U.S. Senate investigators of the New York Stock Exchange, operating under new management, reopened their enquiry to-day in expectation of important testimony from Fiorello Laguardia, the Republican representative from New York city.

It was a suddenly scheduled session, announced last evening amid much mystery by chairman Norbeck, a Republican of Independent leanings, soon after control of further proceedings in the investigation had been definitely taken from administration hands. Norbeck named no witness, promised a "big surprise" and "something to write about."

FORD OUTLINES PLAN TO ASSIST CITY WORKERS

Places Scheme Before Hoover in Surprise Visit to White House.

MANY DETAILS SECRET.

Would Save Factory Employees $500 Yearly by Raising Own Foodstuffs.

WASHINGTON, April 26—(AP)—After a surprise call at the White House, Henry Ford said today he had advocated to President Hoover a plan of combining farming and industry under which factory workers could save $500 a year by raising part of their own foodstuffs.

The automobile manufacturer, surrounded by newspapermen in the White House lobby, said he had been working for three months to smooth out details of such a plan. He added, however, he was not yet ready to announce its details in full.

Ford intimated that the idea he had been experimenting with on his Dearborn farm, with Ford factory hands, was to have men working in the plants, spend part of their time in small scale scientific farming.

He indicated his idea would involve large factories distributing their workers over farm lands, or providing land within reach, on which, during a comparatively small part of the year, they could raise much of the foodstuffs need for their family tables.

FEW VISITORS FOR AL CAPONE

Stay in Jail to be Lonesome as Result of Publicity in Kidnapping.

PRESS BARRED.

CHICAGO, April 26 (C.P.). — The publicity "Scarface" Al Capone received in the Lindbergh kidnapping case is going to make his stay in the Cook County Jail more lonesome.

United States Marshal H. W. C. Laubenheimer has revealed he has to Capone strictly to relatives or limit issuance of passes for visits to Capone; strictly to relatives or persons with "sufficient and legitimate" business.

The order was issued some time ago by Assistant Attorney-General George A. Youngquist, and is directed against newspaper reporters among others, Laubenheimer said.

The United States Marshal was emphatic that overtures to hunt the baby made by Capone through newspapermen were responsible for the order and not the recent reports that the gangster negotiated with the Lindberghs, guaranteeing safe return of Charles A., Jr., if he were released from jail.

Laubenheimer said Capone was not being held incommunicado.

Who Will Discover Mysterious Man?

Just to impress the citizens with the importance of the "Paint-Up, Clean-Up, Give-a-Man-a-Job" campaign commencing Saturday, April 30, The Examiner is letting loose a man in the stores and streets of Peterborough. This man is called Mr. Clean-Up and the person who locates him and complies with the following conditions will receive a good reward.

He will be around for the first time on Saturday and Saturday evening, he will be watching the motor parade on Saturday afternoon. He must be accosted as Mr. Clean-Up and the winner must have a sales slip for some goods of any amount bought in a local store that day. The prize for Saturday is $5 in cash.

If not caught on Saturday the same conditions, except namely, he must be accosted as Mr. Clean-Up and have a sales slip for any purchase made on Monday, the prize on Monday being $6, and it will increase one dollar each day until he is found, up to Saturday evening, May 7, when the prize will be $11 if he is not captured until the last day of the contest.

Apple exports from Halifax for the season just ended totaled 939,955 barrels, or an increase of approximately 25 per cent over the previous season.

Pupil Stamps On Royal Toes

NEWCASTLE, England, April 26 (C.P.). — A youngster named Patrick, who is a pupil at a nursery school near Gateshead probably will be telling this story years from now.

The Prince of Wales visited the school to-day, and as the children crowded about him he stepped on Patrick's foot.

"Oh, I'm sorry, Patrick," said the Prince. "Now you can tread on mine."

Solemnly Patrick stamped on the Royal toes.

BAKER'S TRUCK IS CONFISCATED

Port Hope Confectioner Used Trade Name Similar to Peterborough Man.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

PORT HOPE, April 26.—For selling confectionery under a trade name similar to the words "Hunny Dips" registered trade name of Dawson's Bakeries, Peterborough, John B. Taylor, confectioner's jobber of this town was yesterday afternoon convicted under Section 488 of the Criminal Code, in Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell's court. He was given suspended sentence, while the motor truck bearing the words "Honey Dips" on the back and sides, was also ordered confiscated under the provisions of the section under which the proceedings were taken. The prosecution was conducted on behalf of the complainants, Dawson's Bakeries, by Emmett F. Sheehy of Peterborough.

In giving his decision Magistrate Campbell remarked that while the accused sold goods under a name which was not exactly the same as the registered trade name of complainants, it was so similar as to deceive and apply a false trade description to those goods.

The charge as laid in the information was as follows: "That John B. Taylor, Cavan Street, Port Hope, during the month of April, 1932, at the towns of Port Hope, Bowmanville and elsewhere, in the United Counties, did falsely apply to certain goods the trade mark "Hunny Dips," belonging to the complainant, or a mark so nearly resembling said trade mark as to be calculated to deceive, or did apply a false trade description to goods, contrary to the provisions of Section 488 (b) and (d) of the Criminal Code."

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS WOMAN

Was Washing Clothes Near Furnace—Heat Ignites Fumes.

SISTER BADLY BURNED.

WINNIPEG, April 26. — (CP) — Miss Blanche Gorman, 30, died in hospital this morning from burns she received in an explosion of gasoline in the basement of her home last night. Her sister, Mrs. L. J. Sperry, 50, also was badly burned.

The two women were washing clothes in a tub of gasoline when the fluid exploded. A fire was burning in the furnace nearby the tub and it is believed the heat ignited the gas vapors causing the explosion. Walls of the house were shattered by the blast and fire which broke out in the basement caused damaged estimated at $1,800.

Fastest Plane, Boat To Be Seen At C.N.E.

TORONTO, April 26 (C.P.). — The fastest airplane in the world and the fastest motor boat are expected to be on display in Toronto during the Canadian National Exhibition this year, it was announced to-day.

The J-1596, famous supermarine flying boat which Flight-Lieutenant G. H. Stainforth piloted at 388.67 miles per hour during the Schneider Cup races last year, is to be brought to Canada and placed on exhibition here. In addition, Kaye Don's water speedster Miss England III., with which the British driver expects to regain the world's record, will also be on exhibition in Toronto if preliminary tests are successful.

Upwards of 40,000 young cherry fruit trees, of which 80 per cent will be apple and the balance cherry or plum, are to be distributed by the Quebec government next season.

CLAIM HORSES BADLY SCARED KICKED AT BODY

Son of Accused and Neighbor Admit Offering No First Aid.

PITCHFORK IDENTIFIED.

Young Larocque States He Placed Instrument on Beam in Barn Day of Tragedy.

ROCKLAND, April 26. — A tale of two maddened horses, frightened by a body beneath their flying feet, was told to the court today in the murder trial of William Larocque and Emmanuel Lavictoire, charged with the murder of Leo Bergeron. The victim died on the Larocque farm on March 18, alleged to have been trampled to death by horses.

Arnold Larocque, son of the accused and Alcide Deschamps, a neighbor, were the witnesses who described the actions of the frightened horses and the scene of confusion at the Larocque farm on the death day. Both declared they had seen the horses trampling the helpless Bergeron, young Larocque describing how the animals had struck the youthful farm worker on the head.

Neither was present when Bergeron is alleged to have been first trampled by the animals, but were called to the Larocque barn before the victim could be rescued from under the frantic horses.

Offered No Aid

Bergeron was not dead when rescued, but neither had offered to give first aid. Deschamps, however, had urged a physician be called.

"Why did you not give first aid to Bergeron?" he was asked today.

"I did not know if I had any right to touch the body" Deschamps told the court.

At the opening of the trial yesterday, Dr. E. R. Frankish, medical legal expert of the Ontario Attorney-General's department, declared the wounds suffered by Bergeron could not have been caused by a horse's hoof. He believed they had been made by a sharp pointed instrument, such as a pitch-fork might inflict.

To-day, a pitch-fork handle, stained with human blood, was identified by Arnold Larocque. He had put it up on a beam in his father's barn the day of the tragedy, where it was found by police investigators.

Policy Kept Secret

The senior Larocque was the

EXTORTIONISTS SLAIN IN RAID

Friend of Gang's Intended Victim Does Shooting and is Himself Slain.

40 MILE CHASE FOLLOWS.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., April 26. — Henry Allegrucci, 58, shot and killed two alleged extortionists in defence of a friend last night and was slain himself in the gun fight.

The shooting occurred at the home of Arthur Cioni in Langley, a nearby village, when Peter Larocca, 40, and Cincenso Manteller, 40, both of Springfield, Ill., called with a companion to enforce, Cioni said, payment of $1,500.

Allegrucci, who had agreed to help Cioni in anticipation of the visit, killed Larocca with a shotgun blast as he advanced to the door with a machine gun. Larocca's companions opened fire and in the exchange, Allegrucci was killed and Manteller was wounded.

Flee In Auto

Despite his wounds, Manteller fled with the third man in an automobile and state police were summoned and gave chase. They punctured the tires of the fleeing car after a 40 mile race and forced it to stop. Inside lay Manteller, dead.

The third man escaped and was being sought today. The police expressed belief the three men were the professional extortionists who killed Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Semeri, neighbors of Larocca, two months ago.

Cioni said Larocca and the others had visited his home previously with demands for money, and warned him to have it ready last night.

SENATE REFORM URGED IN HOUSE BY 2 MEMBERS

W. T. Lucas and Humphrey Mitchell Advocate Two Different Plans.

RYCKMAN SPEAKS.

Premier Bennett and Mackenzie King to Close Budget Debate.

OTTAWA, April 26.—(CP)—Senate reform was approached from two different angles in the House of Commons yesterday. Because of recent disclosures involving three members of the Upper House, W. T. Lucas, United Farmer member for Camrose, urged reduction of the membership and disfranchisement of Senators, placing them on the same political level as judges. Humphrey Mitchell, Labor, Hamilton East, went a step further and suggested either should be elected or abolished.

Membership in the Senate would be cut from 96 to 52 under the Lucas plan. Prince Edward Island would have four representatives and each of the other provinces, six. Each Senator would be appointed without regard to his political affiliations and would retire automatically at the age of seventy-five. To give the Upper House a judicial, rather than political complexion, each member would relinquish party activities.

Responsibility to the people was urged by the Hamilton Laborite in suggesting al elected Senate. If it were necessary to provide for the "declining years" of members of the commons, a pension scheme might be advisable, rather than the present custom of elevation to the Senate.

Debate Closes Today

With the end of the budget debate slated for today and the commercial treaty between Canada and New Zealand to be tabled, parliament has a heavy schedule. Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader and Premier R. B. Bennett are expected to close the financial debate which has been dragging on intermittently for three weeks.

The trade pact with New Zealand, negotiated three months ago in Honolulu, will be tabled tonight

SARNIA YOUTH PAYS WITH LIFE FOR HIS CRIME

Ramesbottom Proves One of Youngest to Pay Extreme Penalty in Canada.

SHOT AGED GROCER.

Accomplice in Case, Henry Quinn, Awaits Execution June 24.

LONDON, Ont., April 26 (C.P.).—Wallace Ramesbottom, 18-year-old Sarnia youth, paid with his life on the gallows early to-day for the murder last January of Samuel Weinstein, aged London grocer, in a holdup.

Walking with slow but unfaltering step, Ramesbottom, one of the youngest youths to ever pay the supreme penalty for murder in Canada, mounted the scaffold in the local jail-yard shortly after midnight. Following the recital of the Lord's Prayer by Rev. J. A. Johnston, spiritual adviser to the condemned youth, the trap was sprung at 12.10 by Hangman Samuel Edwards of Toronto. Life was pronounced extinct 14 minutes later.

Fled Without Loot.

The crime for which Ramesbottom was hanged occurred on the evening of last January 12, when Weinstein was shot just below the heart by a holdup man who fled without loot. Ramesbottom along with Henry Quinn, an accomplice, also of Sarnia, was arrested the following day by Provincial Police officers. The two men were convicted of the shooting. Quinn is at present awaiting execution on June 24.

OLD ONTARIO BOY DIES IN CRASH

Montana Senator Found Beside Pilot in Plane Wreckage.

BORN IN MILDMAY.

MALTA, Mont., April 26.—Having safely crossed the Atlantic as a passenger in the Graf Zeppelin, J. W. Schnitzler, native of Mildmay, Ont., died Sunday in the crash of his airplane 50 miles northwest of here.

The bodies of the 49 year old Froid, Mont., banker and his pilot, A. L. Hedberg, 24, were not discovered until late Monday due to the inaccessible region in which the plane fell, apparently during a rain storm. The plane struck a hill rising abruptly from woody island creek.

Schnitzler was a State Senator and Republican National Committeeman. He was a passenger on the Graf Zeppelin on its second flight from the United States to Germany, and had travelled widely abroad.

He was born in 1882 at Mildmay, Mr. Schnitzler came from Mohall, N.D., to Montana in 1910, worked as a cowboy, printer, newspaper editor and lumber dealer, and later established himself as a rancher and banker.

He is survived by his widow and two daughters.

Cars at Curb Need Garages

If you find yourself undecided this Spring about redecorating the house or making some repairs or improvements that are really needed, why not let yourself be influenced by this community appeal of "Give a Man a Job."

Call in a painter, paper hanger, carpenter or it may be a cement job, the cellar floor, a frost heave in the cement walk.

You are the judge and jury in a matter which of itself may seem small, but considered as an item in the possible collective enterprise of the community it is to that extent an important item.

The number of automobiles that spend the nights against the curb suggests the need of garages. Some of the ordinary sizes in garages are, for example 8 ft. x 14 ft, 10 by 14 or 10 by 16 feet, averaging around $50 and as low as $30. For decorative touches you can put on a round roof, cottage or gable. The carpenter's wage is a small item, and a little paint will finish the job, spreading the expense among the carpenters, the lumber companies and their employees, and manufacturers of paint and nails.

Obviously the protection for your car warrants this outlay, and incidentally will give a little push to business while it is just beginning to move in low gear.

If every citizen who has a possible job to be done around the house decided not to do it this spring, employment and business would be checked and set back. But if the domestic decision is generally affirmative, the community will move forward to some extent instead of merely marking time.

LAWYERS BEGIN CLOSING PLEAS IN MASSIE CASE

Darrow to Wind Up Defense With Appeal of Honor and Insanity.

JURY, MEDLEY OF RACES.

Penalty for Four Accused is 20 Years to Life Imprisonment.

(By William H. Ewing)

HONOLULU, April 26 (A.P.)—To a jury fashioned out of "melting pot" material from East and West, two groups of lawyers turned today with opposing pleas—one for conviction and the other for the acquittal of the four persons accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai.

John C. Kelley, Public Prosecutor, seeks to convince the 12 men that Lieutenant Thomas H. Massie, U.S.N., was rational when he shot the native and that the other three defendants—Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Albert O. Jones, and E. J. Lord—likewise are responsible to the law.

Mrs. Fortescue, society matron, is Massie's mother-in-law. Lord and Jones are navy enlisted men. Kahahawai allegedly confessed to participation in a criminal attack on Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the lieutenant

Double Appeal

Clarence Darrow, veteran Chicago criminal lawyer, who heads the defence counsel, will follow Kelley with a double appeal of honor and insanity—an appeal which may be the last great plea in his long career. Darrow came out of retirement in the hope of clearing the four accused persons charged with second degree murder, the penalty for which is 20 years to life imprisonment.

Kelley said his argument would not take long. Darrow announced he would speak for several hours. Barry S. Ulrich, Associated Prosecutor, was chosen to make the closing statement for the territory. Darrow said he would do all the pleading for the defence.

The keynote of Darrow's approach to the jury was in the defence contention the killing was legally justified because of momentary insanity on the part of Lieut. Massie at the time he faced Kahahawai with drawn pistol and heard the native allegedly confess taking part inthe attack.

Behind this, however, was the plea of the unwritten law—that the naval officer was justified in slaying the attacker of his wife.

Freedom For All

Darrow announced he hoped to have Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis instruct the jury that if Massie should be acquitted, then the three co-defendants likewise should be freed.

Winn, arguing that planning and execution both are necessary to commit murder, pointed out that if Massie was insane when he fired the shot, it was not a responsible act and that no murder had been committed. On this theory, Winn said, if no murder were committed, none of the accused was guilty of murder. But the fighting prosecutor contended that whether Massie was sane or insane, the part played by Mrs. Fortescue, Jones and Lord in the case was the same—that of planning, and that they therefore are guilty. Against this is the defence contention they never planned to kill Kahahawai, but only to get a confession from him.

SENATE REFORM

by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who represented Canada at the Pacific rendezvous. This will synchronize with its presentation in the New Zealand parliament.

Clearing the decks for the Budget division, the House devoted the entire day yesterday to the debate. Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, making one of his infrequent speeches, defended the Government's fiscal policy. As the Minister who applies the anti-dumping and duty valuing legislation, he said the Government was making a determined effort to exclude from the Canadian market goods purchased abroad at slaughter prices. This was being done with the two-fold objective of protecting Canadian manufacturers and guarding against exploitation of consumers, and, he added, the Government had been uniformly successful in its efforts.

Charges Extravagance.

As side issues, Mr. Ryckman characterized the 10 per cent salary cut, initiated by the Government, as the best item in the Budget, and charged "great extravagance" existed in the Civil Service. Telegrams and telephone calls were made without considering costs, and before coming to Ottawa the Minister had never seen such expenditures for stationery and equipment.

George Spotton, Cons., North Huron, said the Dominion Treasury would save $50,000 a year through the Government's action in abolishing free automobiles for Cabinet Ministers. When the ministry adopted a policy of giving each minister $2,000 a year in lieu of an automobile, it instituted a dollar-saving program that would amount to a large figure over a period of years, he said.

Other speakers during the day were Charles Bourgeois, Cons., Three Rivers; D. B. Plunkett Con., Victoria; Angus MacInnis, Lab., Vancouver South; Oscar Boulanger Lib., Bellechasse; and J. A. Denis, Lib., St. Denis-Montreal.

QUESTION OF SALARY CUTS FOR TEACHERS DISCUSSED BY BOARD

Matter Left in Hands of Internal Committee of Campbellford Board.

MAY DECREASE STAFF.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 26—The question of a decrease in teachers' salaries of the High and Public schools of Campbellford came up for discussion at the regular session of the Campbellford Board of Education last evening, presided over by George O'Sullivan, and also the matter of a decrease in the High School staff by one teacher, when T. E. Hall, chairman of the Finance Committee asked the Internal Committee of which Dr. H. O. Richardson is chairman, for some recommendations before the years' estimates could be presented to the town council to enable the tax rate of the town to be struck.

Mr. Hall stated that he wanted to know if the board was going to make any cuts this year in expenditures for the purpose of being able to make an intelligent statement to the council. He did not feel this year, he said, willing to go ahead with the estimate unless he received some instructions from the board. The matter was not brought up by him to force any issue, but to enable him to have something to go on.

Mr. O'Sullivan thought the matter centered around the teachers' salaries and the question of decreasing the High School staff. This he thought was a matter for the Internal Committee to study and bring in a recommendation on. This also led into the question of the bus services he pointed out, stating that from the financial point of view the west bus was running at a loss to the board. This service was the one A. J. Meyers had the contract for. Complete satisfaction was expressed by the board however in the way the bus services had been handled.

Dr. Richardson was of the opinion that this was a matter, that should be dealt with by the board as a whole for it involved the future

PILOT OF TRAIN WITHOUT LIGHT IS UNDER ARREST

C.P.R. Engineer is Charged in Belleville With Criminal Negligence.

FOUR WERE KILLED.

Pleads Not Guilty and Elects Trial Before Judge and Jury.

BELLEVILLE, April 26.—J. Sinclair of Smith's Falls, engineer of Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train No. 19, appeared before Magistrate Mikel in Belleville police court yesterday charged with being criminally negligent while operating his train, resulting in the death in a level crossing collision of Everett Mastin, Rennotta Storr, Miles Cummings and Dorothy Darlington on the evening of March 22.

Sinclair was arrested yesterday morning by Provincial Constable Gordon Campbell.

On the advice of his counsel, A. W. Roebuck, K.C., of Toronto, Sinclair pleaded not guilty and elected trial before the next general session of the County Court. B. C. Donnan, K.C., appeared for the Crown.

The fatal accident occurred at Gibson's crossing on March 22. The illfated automobile was dragged along by the train for over two miles, caught partially under the train between the engine and the first car, while the engine crew was unaware that there had been an accident.

Says Head-lamp Out

James R. Byers, fireman of the train, stated at the inquest held by Coroner Dr. R. W. Tennent, that the lights of the engine had been turned on when dusk fell but that at Kingsford, 1 miles east of Belleville, the headlight had gone out.

When questioned by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan as to how he knew this, Byers had replied, "I could see the light on the tracks before it went out. I am sure that it went out."

The Crown Attorney asked whether the engineer had known about the light, and Byers had replied in the affirmative, stating that Sinclair had mentioned it to him.

Byers told the jury that it was too dangerous to attempt to fix the light by climbing on the running board, as it was icy and covered with sleet. He stated that they did not have time to stop the engine and repair the headlight.

Byers had said he was looking out when the accident occurred. He did not notice anything wrong until nearing Belleville, when he detected an odor of oil. When the train was stopped and Dr. J. J. Robertson was called, all four of the passengers of the taxi were dead.

Wig-wag Working

The wig-wag signal at the crossing was tested by the city police on the morning following the accident, and it was found to be in good working condition.

Orville Brown, a transient who was riding between the tender and the first coach of the train, told the coroner that he had felt a slight jar when the train crossed the highway at the crossing.

Parts of the automobile were strewn along the track between the crossing and Belleville.

State Is Converting Young Communists

SYDNEY, Aus., April 26.—(A.P.)—As part of its drive against Communism, the Federal government recently took a number of children from the homes of their Communist parents and placed them in a State home.

The purpose, officials said was to prevent broods of revolutionists being raised. While preparing to overthrow the State they said many of these families were supporting themselves entirely on the dole.

TARDIEU SPOILS WELL LAID PLAN

Fails to Attend Conference Arranged by MacDonald and Stimson.

WAS TO MEET BRUENING.

GENEVA, April 26 (A.P.)—A joint plan of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain and Henry L. Stimson, U.S. Secretary of State, to bring together, in their presence, Premier Andre Tardieu of France and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany for an effort at Franco-German reconciliation went awry this morning when Premier Tardieu failed to show up.

Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Stimson thought they had the French Premier's promise to meet them and Chancellor Bruening at Secretary Stimson's villa at Bessigne, but Mr. Tardieu remained in Paris.

Chancellor Bruening was present, however, and conferred with Mr. Stimson and Mr. MacDonald all morning.

Cold Chills

The results of the Diet elections in Germany, Sunday, have given cold chills to the leaders here who are seeking a solution of international problems, especially on the eve of the French elections.

According to well-informed circles, Prime Minister MacDonald and Secretary Stimson agreed that the time had come to bring Dr. Bruening and M. Tardieu face to face.

The Disarmament Conference suspended its activities to-day and the land, sea and air commissions went to work to try to designate which weapons of war might be considered as distinctly aggressive.

WYATT DENIES SELLING LIQUOR

Complete Denial is Put in by Defence in Liquor Case.

JUDGMENT WITHHELD.

Complete denial by John H. Wyatt of 239 Murray Street, that on the evening of March 29 he sold liquor to Clarence Carey, Otonabee farmer, featured the defence evidence produced last evening before Police Magistrate Langley in the continued hearing of the case charging Wyatt with selling.

Wyatt, his wife, and brother-in-law, Walter Beavis, all said that they had been at Wyatt's home throughout the evening of March 29. Carey, they stated, came to the house early in the evening. He had been drinking, but was not intoxicated. He was treated to some vendor's beer which Wyatt's father-in-law, G. D. Douglas, had purchased a few days previous. Carey was not charged for the drinks, and soon after he came in he gave Wyatt three ten dollar bills to keep for him since "he didn't want to be rolled while in the city," all three witnesses swore.

Later a taxi called for Carey and he asked for the return of the money, saying he was going to spend the night at a local hotel. The money was then returned to him.

On the completion of the evidence, Magistrate Langley withheld judgment until May 2, allowing Wyatt his freedom without bail until that time.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted and J. A. O'Brien conducted the defence.

SAULT STE. MARIE. — Arvo Heikkala, of the Sault, was sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary by Judge Fred Stone to-day on a charge of stabbing John Kostiniuk on May 23, 1931. The accused was found guilty a week ago. The attack followed a dance at a local Finnish dance hall.

2 Different Methods of Shopping

WHICH DO YOU USE?

There are two methods of shopping. But which method you use makes a great deal of difference, since you always want satisfaction from the things you buy.

Some people shop in such a trustful fashion. They merely ask for a can of peaches, a tube of tooth-paste or a box of aspirin. Because they never specify what brands they want, they are always at the mercy of the clerk. No wonder people who buy this way are often so dissatisfied!

Other shoppers, who know by experience or the reputations of certain products which brands are dependable, ask for these brands specifically by name. And they insist on getting the products they ask for, even though some clerk may urge them to try something "just as good."

Isn't it better to buy this way? Isn't it wiser to ask for what you want, what you know is always good—refusing other products of which you know nothing?

Stores which try to sell you unknown products in place of those you ask for, usually do so for a selfish purpose. The dealer often reaps an extra profit, or the clerk a commission, by switching you to the unknown merchandise!

Many of the best stores everywhere forbid this practise. When you buy from them you are always sure of getting exactly what you ask for, with full value in the merchandise you want for every penny you spend.

But if you are offered something "just as good" as the thing you ask for, refuse it! Demand packaged products which you know by experience, by brand, or by the reputations of their makers. You will often see such products advertised in this newspaper.

Ask for what you want! Insist on getting it! Millions of women have found this simple rule the surest guide to shopping satisfaction.

HON. W. FINLAYSON PLEASED WITH WORK OF ROAD ARMY

Minister Comments at Cobourg on Battalion's Crimeless Record.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS.

COBOURG, April 26. — Faith in Canada as an integral part of the British Empire and the ultimate successful outcome of her present difficulties was voiced by Hon. William H. Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, and W. A. Fraser, M.P., who were the principal speakers at the St. George's Day banquet here last night.

Dr. T. S. Boyle, rector of St Peter's Church, expressed the opinion that 98 per cent. of Englishmen were trustworthy and it was this quality which had helped to build up the Empire. He then called upon F. J. McArthur, M.P.P., Northumberland, to introduce the speakers.

Hon. Mr. Finlayson said that the remarkable thing about Canada was the manner in which the Irish, Scots, French and English peoples were working in harmony.

"We are producing a new people," he said, "bringing the traditions of our different countries with us to form a nation which is entirely British, out of chaos gradually developing a great people."

The speaker told of the difficulties which were anticipated when it was proposed to form labor battalions in the North and how those in authority were surprised at the way in which the men taken from the cities had made good, working themselves into the life with the lumberjacks with the true Canadian instinct.

"In December about 44,000 cheques were paid to these men," he said. "They were scattered over a distance of thousands of miles, and stayed perhaps six months. In all that time there was not one crime to record. Surely a remarkable tribute to the Canadian people."

W. A. Fraser, M.P., spoke on Canada and her Imperial relationship, dealing briefly with period following the Great War. "Perhaps nothing did so much for Imperial relationship as the war," said the speaker. "From her services during and after the war Canada earned her nationhood. We are prone to talk of our natural resources and there is no question about them, but it is not in our resources that lies our strength, but the indomitable spirit of the British people. England to-day is battling her way out of the aftermath of the war. Canada's most important duty is one of co-operation within the Empire.

Hymns to Replace Hiccups at Club

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—Hymns instead of hiccups will issue from a club here as the aftermath of a dry raid.

The building, raided recently, was padlocked, but a Federal judge lifted the padlock order to enable the owner to lease it to a congregation to be used as a church.

Advertising for the Merchant of To-Day

Conducted by HAROLD S. EDGAR

A series of weekly articles on advertising and merchandising prepared for the merchants of Peterborough District with the co-operation of The Peterborough Examiner.

SHOPPING BY SIGHT

Mr. Grocer, do you realize the extent to which your shelf and floor space can be made an effective selling medium? You can make it a most effective silent clerk and a very profitable sales force.

Size up the floor space in front of your counter. Is it just a narrow space for customers to stand while waiting to be served or have they sufficient room to walk around a bit and look over the goods displayed on the shelves and throughout the store? It is said that goods well displayed are half sold—sight shopping proved that they may be fully sold. Sight sales to the people who come in to buy a few things and purchase additional articles, run into big totals and merchants find it pays to keep the aisles clear and the goods on view.

Many women coming into your store to-day with a shopping list of the things they know they need would buy many additional lines if they could conveniently reach the shelves on which were neatly displayed in classified groups some of the articles they have read about in the newspaper, magazines, or have heard about over the radio, or from their friends.

But if they have to step over half empty boxes or baskets waiting to be delivered, they will buy only what they came in for and you will lose possible sales. Make your shelves the "pantry" of the housewife.

To make full use of your shelves, group related products. I have been in some stores where one brand of canned fruit may be on one shelf and other brand on a shelf many sections away. All canned vegetables should be grouped for easy selection. All canned fruits in another group and so on through your stock.

Little strips of card fastened along the edge of the shelf giving the names of the types of goods, such as catsups, marmalades, jams, salt, etc., and smaller cards with prices will be found informative and helpful to your customers as well as profitable to you.

Keep your shelves well filled as partly emptied shelves reflect back on you by giving the impression of depleted stocks. On the other hand, don't jam them full—a package missing shows the goods are moving. Keep packages clean. Frequent dusting of shelves and packages is quite as essential in the store as in your own home.

In order that your customers may make their selections easily, give careful consideration to the positions you allot to certain types of goods. There are some items that move more rapidly than others. Place them so they are easy to get at.

Shopping by sight is to-day a very important factor and is so vital that no merchant should neglect to consider it. Manufacturers have carefully studied and are constantly considering the effect of different packagings on the consumer; frequently trying one color scheme after another—above and alongside of competing lines so as to get the best effect. The careful study of this has produced new and attractive packages with surprising results and increased sales.

You, Mr. Merchant, will only profit to the fullest degree if you will also study your display to get the best appeal from your own standpoint.

Place related products together—fast moving products at your hand.

Goods in glass—where people can see contents.

Group colors to give prominence to each—by contrast.

Hawaii's Last Princess

POSES FOR CAMERA FOR SECOND TIME

Princess Liliokalani Kawananakoa (right), last of the ancient royal line of Hawaiian Island native rulers, has no secret ambition to be a movie star. She confided this to Dolores Del Rio, with whom she became friendly when the picture player visited Hawaii. As a matter of fact, Princess Liliokalani doesn't like cameras. This is said to be the second photo for which she ever posed.

TRADE TREATY REVIVES HOPES

Premier Tolmie Hails Pact With New Zealand of Great Importance.

B. C. TO BENEFIT.

VICTORIA, April 26 (C.P.). — Signing of the Canada-New Zealand trade agreement announced in Ottawa was greeted with interest here. Premier S. F. Tolmie, and other members of the British Columbia Cabinet expressed lively satisfaction at the forging of another link in the chain of inter-Dominion trade. While the terms of the treaty will not be known until disclosed in Parliament, the agreement is expected to have important bearings on British Columbia products, including lumber, fish, newsprint, and to a lesser extent, fruit and vegetables in season.

"Personally I regard the new agreement with New Zealand of the very greatest importance. I am delighted to hear it is signed and believe it will lead to the development of much closer trade relations with our sister Dominion. Insofar as British Columbia is concerned we are eagerly watching for the results we feel sure must accrue through this means of bringing the component parts of the Empire yet closer together," said Premier Tolmie.

Young's Point

On Thursday evening last a very successful dance was held in A. Wilson's cheese factory in aid of St. Aidan's Church, Young's Point. Music for dancing was suplied by Messrs. James Irwin, Rex Wilson and Mrs. A. Wilson and the "callers" for the evening were, Oswald Brooks and Aubrey Wilson.

Among those from out of town who attended the dance were, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Kyle of Lakefield; Mr. and Mrs. Davey and son Norman, of Burleigh Falls; Mr. and Mrs. James Irwin, of Lakehurst; Misses D. Harvey of Lakehurst, M. Wilson and G. Armstrong of Hall's Bridge and Messrs. R. Armstrong, V. Harris, L. Blewett of the "Sixteenth," and Messrs. D. Sage, W. Hockaday and W. Ayotte of Selwyn and M. Wilson of Hall's Bridge also Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stenner, Mr. and Mrs. C. Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. C. Banning of Peterborough and Mr. V. Raham of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson and daughter Daisy were visitors to Hall's Bridge on Friday last.

Mr. and Mrs. G. McIlmoyle of Selwyn were in the village on Sunday.

Mrs. E. Heard has returned to her home in the village after spending a number of weeks with her parents in Peterborough.

Mrs. Dave Darling spent Friday afternoon visiting friends in Hall's Bridge.

SINO-JAPANESE PEACE EFFORTS MAY RESUME

SHANGHAI, April 26.—(A.P.) — Prospects for an early resumption of the Sino-Japanese peace negotiations here brightened to-day.

Since the last conference on April 9, when the Chinese requested an indefinite postponement pending receipt of further instructions from their government, Sir Miles W. Lampson, British minister, has completed a new formula through which, it is hoped, an agreement settling the Shanghai conflict may be reached.

Both the Chinese and Japanese indicated this proposal would be considered willingly and this resulted in the anticipation that the conference would be resumed soon, although no date was announced and the British minister's plan remained a secret.

A three-year old Ayrshire cow at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Fredericton, N.B., recently created a new Canadian record for her class by producing 15,491 pounds of milk and 765 pounds of fat in a year.

Devil's Food Layer Cake

½ cup butter	½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups sugar	3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
3 eggs
1 cup milk	1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2½ cups pastry flour (or 2 cups and 3 tablespoons of bread flour)	3 sq. unsweetened chocolate, melted

Cream butter thoroughly; add sugar slowly. Add beaten yolks; mix thoroughly. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt, alternately with milk; add vanilla and melted chocolate. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Put into 3 greased layer cake tins and bake in moderate oven at 350° F. about 30 minutes. When cool, put together and cover thickly with Chocolate or White Icing (recipes are in the Magic Cook Book).

Miss Gertrude Dutton tells why she makes her

Devil's Food Layer Cake

with Magic Baking Powder

"I know from experience," says the cookery expert of Western Home Monthly, "that Magic makes most baked dishes look and taste better. Its uniform leavening quality gives dependable baking results."

And Miss Dutton's praise of Magic is seconded by the majority of dietitians and cookery experts throughout the Dominion. They use Magic exclusively because they know it is pure, and always uniform.

Canadian housewives, too, prefer Magic. In fact, Magic outsells all other baking powders combined.

For luscious layer cakes, light, tender biscuits, delicious pastry—follow Miss Dutton's advice. Use Magic Baking Powder.

SALARY CUT IS DISCUSSED

action of the board regarding the obtaining of pupils and the effort that should be put forth to bring them to Campbellford.

Questioned regarding the attendance at the High School, Principal E. H. Gregg stated that it had not dropped off beyond the average this year but that severe sickness in the district had naturally kept many pupils away. This of course had decreased the average attendance. In the matter of the number of teachers he pointed out that this was mainly controlled by the way the classes were evened out. This year more subjects were being taught in the school than previously.

The matter was finally brought to a head when a motion by T. E. Hall and D. J. Lynch that the Internal Committee consider the matter of the decrease in the teachers of the High and Public schools and the salaries paid and bring to the board a report was passed.

A report by Mr. Hall, delegate from the board to the Trustees' and Ratepayers' Asscciation annual convention in Toronto was accepted on motion of Mr. Lynch and J. Loucks. This report dealt with the content of the various speakers and some o fthe resolutions presented to the board. These were given in brief, having been noted in the press at the time of the convention. Seventy-one resolutions in all had been presented, 47 of which were general, 23 relative to rural schools and one to urban schools.

At the request of Principal Greig medals from the Strathcona Trust Fund will be purchased for the officers of the school cadets this year. Mr. Greig was authorized obtain these, the annual inspection will be held on May 11.

G. A. Thompson, chairman of the Property Committee, brought up the matter of people using the grass on the High School ground before it was ready, stating that the caretaker had placed signs forbidding this, but these had been torn down by boys he thought, who wanted to use the field for play, before it had dried out. Action regarding this matter was left with the Property Committee. This committee was also authorized to fill a cave-in on a sewer right-of-way across the property of Mrs. Lynn. This had been caused by sinkage.

A letter was read from the board of trustees of the Bowmanville High School asking what action the Campbellford Board was taking in the matter of teacher's salary reductions. Clerk Wesley Stephens intimated to the board that this communication had been answered in a satisfactory manner.

HORNER AND DAY GIVE GOOD BATTLE

Maple Leaf Defense Stars Surprise Fans at Toronto Grappling Match.

TORONTO, April 26. — Although billed as "the season's biggest wrestling show," last night's stellar card, supplied by the 50,000 Unemployment Relief Fund officials, attracted only forty-five hundred fans to Maple Leaf Gardens. Naturally, this caused plenty of disappointment, as it was hoped that twice that number would attend. However, the wrestlers came through with a vengeance, and made it a night to be remembered.

Strange as it may seem, two wrestlers, who, as far as is known, never appeared in a ring before, drew the loudest applause, the same being none other than "Happy" Day and "Red" Horner, Maple Leaf defence stars. It was expected that this would be a farcical bout, but the athletes crossed the guessers, and made it an honest-to-goodness struggle, with nearly all the modern tactics on display.

Horner-Day Draw.

Horner and Day insisted that Jack Forbes referee, as they did not wish to be the victims of inexperienced officiating. In this they made a wise decision and won a friend, Forbes unhesitatingly declaring it a draw. It was surprising the way those hockeyists tossed discretion to the winds and waded in to take reckless chances. Said chances, incidentally, had Conny Smythe worried into a state of illness, and it is a foregone conclusion that Day and Horner have ended their wrestling careers for some time. "Never again," said Smythe, as he wiped his fevered brow. "No more of that for me."

The contenders for the Maple Leaf title elected to wear no shoes, much to the amusement of their supporters. Day scored a point, or something, in the initial brush when he caught his opponent napping, and laid him down neatly with a Sonnenberg flying tackle. After that Horner was more careful, but while he had the greater strength, this advantage was offset by Day's remarkable speed. Mr. Day can move around with the rapidity of a Zarynoff when in danger, and he just wouldn't allow the red-thatched Horner to take any undue liberties with him.

Beavermeadow Club Elects New Officers

It being a certainty that the new Kawartha Golf and Country Club will not be available for play this year, it was decided at the annual banquet in the Empress Hotel last night of the Beavermeadow Golf Club to operate as usual again this year. Robert Simmons was elected president for the year, and J. E. Girven, secretary, succeeding Frank Bowness and Robert MacMorran respectively, both of whom had decided to retire after having served in these capacities faithfully since the club's beginning. Upon retiring they were tendered a wholehearted vote of thanks by the meeting through Thomas Pitchford, who was unanimously made vice-president. Alexander Sollitt was chosen as treasurer, and Jack Dishart was elected to the vacancy on the executive.

It was decided to commence immediately to prepare the greens and make such improvements deemed necessary to get the course in condition for an early start. It was intimated that the membership would be large again this year, and the new executive will strive to make this season one of the best.

SIGN PACT TO-NIGHT.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., April 26. — (C. P. Cable.)—The trade treaty negotiated between Canada and New Zealand will be signed here to-night and a customs resolution giving effect to the agreement will be introduced in Parliament to-morow afternoon at the same time as the treaty is tabled in the Canadian House of Commons, which will be about 10.30 o'clock this evening, Ottawa time.

You Can Benefit From This Delicious Food

ARE you somewhat below par? If so, it is altogether likely that the regular use of Post's Bran Flakes will help you back to health. Those who are below par are often victims of constipation, and Post's Bran Flakes—a bulk food—has been made to ward off constipation arising from insufficient bulk in the diet.

Post's Bran Flakes gives best results when eaten regularly. Eat it with milk or cream as a cereal. With berries or fruits, or plain. Millions enjoy the appetizing flavour of these golden, crisp, toasted flakes. Made in Canada.

Ordinary cases of constipation, associated with too little bulk in the diet, should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. If your case is abnormal, consult a competent physician at once and follow his advice.

WORLD UNEMPLOYMENT.

Some idea of the extent to which the world is suffering from the problem of unemployment may be obtained from the figures just made public at Geneva by Albert Thomas, director of the International Labor Office.

The statistics given by Mr. Thomas reveal the staggering fact that one out of every 26 people in the world is at the present time deprived of his customary means of existence.

According to the report, there were between twenty and twenty-five million persons out of work last year, which the director interprets as meaning that some 60,000,000 to 70,000,000 persons are without the means of existence arising from their own activity or that of those upon whom they are dependent.

The unemployment of so many of the world's workers naturally has a cumulative effect.

Not only are many millions without jobs and thus have completely lost their buying power, but that very condition effects the jobs of other persons who in turn are forced out of their income-earning positions.

It is not a rosy picture that the director of the International Labor Office paints, but it is necessary that people may get a world view of the present crisis.

A CAMPAIGN NEEDED.

It is worth the attention of the local authorities that Montreal has been staging a campaign against law-breaking motorists with such successful results that in one day recently no fewer than 247 drivers appeared in court and fines aggregating more than $1,000 were collected.

At this season of the year when automobile traffic increases and many drivers are just getting the feel of the wheel again, there is special justification for a check-up in every community.

The Ottawa Journal, for example, complains that in that city many drivers are not yet educated to the necessity of heeding stop signs, that even the red lights are ignored late at night and in the early morning, that there is too much fast driving, too much reckless driving, too little regard by many motorists for the ordinary courtesy which makes driving a pleasure.

Every word of that indictment applies with equal force to Peterborough, and in the matter of fast driving at street intersections, we are probably worse offenders than the Ottawa motorists; certainly there is little attention paid to the legal speed limit or to the safety of pedestrians, and many drivers on through streets seem to imagine that it is their privilege to tear through at top speed.

It is time they were disabused of that idea, and that the Montreal drive should be repeated in this city: there will be no improvement until the offenders are taught that they are breaking the law, and that to break the law even when no accident develops is a practice likely to have a bad effect upon the pocketbook.

THE PENSION SITUATION.

It is announced that a joint committee, one section appointed by the Government and the other by the associated veterans" organizations, is to be appointed to study Canada's pension system and to bring in recommendations as to amendments to be made during the 1933 session.

This plan has been accepted by the officials of the Canadian Legion as satisfactory, although, as might be expected, the representatives of the veterans emphasize the desirability of immediate remedial legislation.

Out of the investigation to be made by this joint committee may emerge an improved pension system that will be without the weaknesses discovered in the present machinery, but it seems unfortunate that ex-service men whose cases are urgent should have to wait another year for relief.

The faults with the present system are the length of time it requires for a final decision, the congestion of cases and unnecessary appealing by commission counsel, and while the drafting of a more workable permanent policy is desirable, the Government should in the interim devote its attention to speeding up the existing machinery and to seeing that justice is done to those whose cases are critical.

To leave the present condition for a year, pending the drawing up of new regulations, would be, The Examiner feels, an injustice to many veterans who are in need of speedy assistance.

THE NEW ZEALAND PACT.

The concluding of a trade agreement with New Zealand is a matter upon which Canadians as a whole can congratulate themselves, inasmuch as the treaty is apparently likely to prove beneficial to both countries, the only kind of a treaty that can possibly have long life.

It is stated that among the concessions to New Zealand will be the admission of butter from that country under a tariff of five cents a pound, which is also a condition of the trade agreement with Australia, and is a cent higher than the duty named by the National Dairy Council of Canada as essential to the well-being of the butter industry in this country.

Wool and hides from New Zealand are to enter Canada free, and powdered and condensed milk are to enjoy a lower rate.

In return Canadian manufactured goods are to be given decided advantage in the New Zealand market, and as the latter's foreign buying has been reduced to a minimum for some time and stocks have been allowed to run low, there should be immediate benefit felt by many industries in the Dominion, although the full effect will not be realized until the exchange situation comes back to normal.

The Australian treaty is working out to the advantage of Canadian manufacturers—we have an example right here at home in the case of the Westclox company—and there is every reason to be hopeful that similar results will develop from the pact with New Zealand.

AGGIE'S OAR IS IN.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, Canada's only woman M.P., got into the budget debate this week, for the purpose of going after the Government for its failure to implement those campaign promises and also to express her views on financial matters.

The member for Southeast Grey quite agrees with Mr. Robert Gardiner, the U.F.A. leader, that the Government should confiscate anything over $25,000 a year in the way of individual income. Miss MacPhail, like the most of us, doesn't make $25,000 a year, so she sees no good reason why anyone else should be allowed to. She even goes a step further than the radical Mr. Gardiner, by calling for abolition of the right to inherit large fortunes. As well as having no $25,000 income, Miss MacPhail has apparently no prospect of inheriting a large fortune.

As we remarked the other day, it's so easy to talk about what you would like to do with the other fellow's money; it's another matter when he starts talking about what he might do with your money. What are we coming to in this country, when members of Parliament rise in their places to advance ideas of this kind? Surely Canada does not countenance the Jesse James school of statesmanship?—Border Cities Star.

THE ARMING OF POLICE OFFICERS.

A coroner's jury, which investigated the shooting of a young automobile thief by a Toronto constable, found that the officer was fully justified. The evidence was decidedly contradictory as to whether the slain youth or his three companions were in possession of firearms. The officer testified that he was fired upon twice during the wild auto chase which terminated in a tragedy. On the other hand, the three associates of the dead boy swore that none of the four had a gun. There is no doubt, however, that the pursuing officer believed that the pursued were armed and were attempting to wing him in order to make their escape. Believing this, he was justified, we think, in what he did. He undoubtedly fired in what he thought was self-defence, and in pursuance of his sworn duty to protect society.

While we regard the verdict as a reasonable one under the circumstances, we hope it will not result in modifying the caution and self-restraint which should govern all police officers in the handling of firearms. Officers unquestionably have the right to return the fire of suspected violators of the law; in fact, they should be ready to fire first if they have reason to believe that those they are seeking are or may be armed. They are justified, too, in firing to halt a chase, but unless they know those whom they are pursuing are desperate criminals, we do not believe that they should shoot to maim unless they are fired upon or an attempt is made to draw a gun on them. In cases of fleeing automobile thieves, for instance, there should be no direct firing by officers save when their lives are in jeopardy. But they should nevertheless be armed for their own protection and for the protection of society. And, moreover, they should be trained in the handling of firearms. Such training will give them confidence and tend to keep them cool in the face of danger, so that there will be no shooting unless it is absolutely necessary.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

WE KNOW SPRING IS HERE.

We had a bit of poetry sent in to-day, some person wrote it after having gazed upon a pussy-willow. You can't always tell that spring is here just because people start to write poetry.

We notice to-day that some men working across on the other side of our little lake are burning brush and rubbish; the office window is open a little and now and then we catch a smell of the smoke; we mind that not the least; we have smelled many things worse. That, of course, is a sign of spring, but it is not infallible.

We noticed in a drug store window where spring tonic was being offered for sale. Merchants, of course, work by the calendar. They know that some time between winter and summer the mind will turn toward a bit of spring tonic; the system needs a little tuning up and all that. If people feel better after dosing with tonic, then by all means let them dose. But the spring tonic season is not truly indicative of the coming of spring; it may be advanced a little owing to the merchandising instinct.

But pause: yet another sign. To-day we heard a man operating a carpet beater; what's more we stopped and looked at him and saw him bend toward his labors. The living-room carpet, we take it, was out to take its semi-annual whacks. Dust puffed out as each whack attained its point of contact; we suppose that in course of time the volume of dust would diminish, otherwise it would be hopeless to operate on that rug. There must have been that usual utter confusion within that home, for spring housecleaning was on in earnest. The good lady of the household would be wearing a cap down to her ears; the pictures would be off the walls, and we fancy that lunch would be served on the back stairs—if at all. Other men will dread the day when the same operation is performed on their premises, and with such protests, though futile, we hasten to become associated. And yet it is the one sign which can be regarded as possessing a degree of accuracy which is denied to poets, makers of bonfires and vendors of spring tonics. We admit there is no romance in referring to the dust cap and the carpet beater as harbingers of spring, but in a season when we yearn to deal with essentials, known values and worthy prognostications, we place a whole pile of perfectly good faith in this housecleaning business. Spring is upon us.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It may be that "Honolulu Harry," as Mr. MacKenzie dubbed Hon. Harry Stevens the other night, has come through with the goods after all in the shape of a successful treaty with New Zealand.

The next political battle is billed for the Senate to-morrow afternoon. It is unusual for the Upper Chamber to get the front page headlines.

Adolph Hitler's success in the German State Diet elections on Sunday should cause some concern, not only in Germany, but elsewhere.

The West York by-election may have four candidates, thus ensuring plenty of employment for the newspaper men who will have to report the meetings.

Officers Elected For Lakefield Band

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, April 26.—The annual meeting of the Citizen's Band was held in the town hall on Thursday evening with an attendance of practically one hundred per cent of the members. The report of the secretary treasurer showed a substantial balance in the bank and a very healthy financial condition. During the past year a quantity of new music was purchased and the interest of the members kept up. Owing partly to the prevailing depression there were six members lost by removal during the past year.

The officers of last year were all re-elected, as follows:

President, Gordon Scriver; vice president, G. G. Connell; secretary treasurer, A. H. Clark; bandmaster, W. Madill; music committee, Messrs Madill, Scriver and Connell.

Plans for the summer activities were made and the band will carry on their usual summer program with probably some open air band concerts.

Five tables of euchre were played at the A.Y.P.A. on Thursday evening with Miss Winnie Payne and A. Windsor the prize winners. The consolation prizes were won by Mrs. Kendall and Mr. Jack Woodhouse.

Thomasburg

Mr. Murney Grills spent a few days recently with Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Way of Peterborough.

Mrs. Forbes Sherry spent a couple of days with friends in Tweed.

Mrs. Ella Way spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Percy Westover of Wallbridge.

Mrs. Walter Harrison and Mrs. Laura Prentice and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Southworth and Mary spent the tea hour on Friday with Mr. and Mrs. George Palmateer and family of Lodgeroom.

Hungarian partridge are being introduced into Brome county, Eastern Townships, Quebec.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office by 5 p.m. on the day before insertion. All letters must be signed by the writer although a pen name may be used when inserting non-controversial subject matter.

N.Z. PREFERENCE

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—All praise must be given Mr. Bennett for the introduction of the N.Z. preference bill. It will, of course, meet with opposition from the selfish and impossible but all true empire-first patriots will support it and will give Mr. Bennett the praise which is now his due.

J. H. Burnham.

BUYING IN DRUG STORES ON SUNDAY

To the Ontario Public:—

In order to give information as to the legitimate business of drug stores on Sunday, this letter is released to the Ontario press by the Ontario Retail Druggists' Association and The Lord's Day Alliance of Canada to advise the public that the Lord's Day Act of Canada, under the head of "Works of Necessity and Mercy accepted" (Section 11), expressly permits "works for the relief of sickness and suffering, including the sale of drugs, medicines and surgical appliances by retail." The sale or purchase of other merchandise on Sunday is forbidden by the Act. The druggists of Ontario, acting through the Council of the Ontario Retail Druggists' Association, are desirious that the public should assist them in the observance of the law by refraining from asking for other merchandise on Sunday.

Signed—Ontario Retail Druggists' Association, F. A. Jacobs, secretary; The Lord's Day Alliance of Canada, Chas. H. Huestis, general secretary.

THE EVICTED TENANT

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I would very much like to make a statement regarding the recent publicity in The Examiner concerning myself as the tenant that was evicted from the Orpington Road house.

The owner claims she paid $5.00 of a light bill. Where she gets that amount from I fail to see, as I have the first bill as it was handed to me by the Utilities. That was my only bill as they cut the lights off then and that was $1.41, as I have the bill to show.

Furthermore, I paid my rent for November, December and January as my receipts will show; that leaves me two months in arrears, which I hope to pay in due course.

As for having no desire to deal harshly with the family, as she puts it, I have a document in my possession which the owner sent requesting me to get out in three days or my goods and chattels would be seized and sold. As for being one of the six men who left work at the Burleigh Camp, I can bring half a dozen witnesses to prove that I was back at the camp the last week it closed and walked the whole distance from Orpington road to Burleigh Falls because of the lack of transportation.

I would also like to add that I wish my means were as slender as my landlord's, if owning a half share in a large instead of a small general store, a pension and working at the same time is what is known as slender means, "Heaven help the poor."

Why she should take it upon herself to inform everyone I got relief all winter is hard to understand from one who has shown such great consideration to us, in the past. Perhaps she has forgotten that we went without necessities to give her our last dollar. I will also add that she has no small children—their ages are 12 and 14 and one of factory age.

I am extending no thanks to the person who took it upon himself to bring this matter before the public. If that party had minded his own business, there would have been no need for this uncalled for unpleasantness to everyone concerned.

Evicted Tenant.

SON OF THE GODS

INSTALMENT NO. 2

Sam Lee's experience at the Bird Cage was not the first of its kind; he was by way of becoming accustomed to humiliations of one sort and another. He had come to Eastern expecting to find a tolerance as broad as the ocean. Among his people the quest of knowledge is considered the most honorable of pursuits and respectful homage is paid to the humblest of students even by the high-born and the wealthy. In the Chinese mind intellect has dignity second only to old age. But he had found it to be quite different with Americans.

Sam's contacts in the classroom were pleasant and stimulating; an admirable democracy obtained there. It did not extend far outside of those limits, however, and he wondered why.

He had been taught to envision the world of knowledge as a real democracy which embraced every race, every creed and every color. Such at least was the picture that had been painted by his tutors.

In reality it was anything but that; he had found it to be a stony and inhospitable place, a bewildering confusion of compounds with race walled off from race and creed from creed.

In Sam's case it did not appear to make the slightest difference that he was American-born, that he had never seen and probably never would see the land of his fathers, or that he had a "white mind"; his virtues and his accomplishments were considered only skin deep.

This phenomenon would have been more readily comprehensible had Sam conducted himself like the other Chinese scholars who lived at the House of Nations along with the hundreds or more students of foreign birth. That little group of Orientals held itself aloof and avoided touch with the student body as much as possible. They liked the whites no better than the whites liked them. But with Sam it was otherwise.

For instance, he served diligently on class committees, a thankless and a profitless task; he wrote for the college paper, he subscribed time and money to every worthy cause.

More than one fellow he coached in those subjects in which he himself stood highest and there were a number of boys, like Gorham and Wade—they called themselves men, of course—who shamefully abused his generosity in money matters. He had even entered into American sports and had earned a place on the Varsity tennis team.

Tonight as he drove homeward it seemed to him that he was the loneliest young man in the whole world and he took a melancholy satisfaction out of indulging in self-pity. He had been attracted by Alice Hart, no denying it. For an hour, hand in hand with her, he had trod the lotus path. Gates had opened, he had glimpsed enchanted gardens, then they had slammed shut in his face. Race prejudice again!

Once before he had suffered a similar hurt. That was soon after his arrival at Eastern. He had attended a social gathering and the memory of it still festered in his mind. He had never gone to another. Following that humiliating experience he had seriously considered quitting college and going home, home to his father's high-perched house that overlooked the roofs of Chinatown.

Lee Ying, his honorable parent, lived in state on the roof of the newest, the tallest, the finest business building in that quarter of New York. A modern fireproof structure of steel and terra cotta it was; and the merchant's home itself was a peaceful refuge, rich in beauty and full of pleasantries. There was a roof garden with shrubs and trees and flowers and a tinkling fountain looking down upon narrow Mott and Pell and Doyer streets with their swarms of yellow men and children.

The home reflected the lofty dignity, the benignant calm of its distinguished owner. But the elder Lee was a sage and a philosopher; he was by nature and by training incapable of understanding resentment at harsh treatment, and Sam very well knew it. Lee Ying would have smiled at such a childish weakness and counseled his boy to rise above it; or told him that adversity is necessary to the development of a man's virtue.

How could one go to a parent of such crystal clear wisdom and exalted sentiments with petty and undignified resentments? People had certainly treated Sam Lee unreasonably but the least he could do was to practice a philosophy as ripe as his teacher's.

Sam came to himself with a start to find that he had run past a crossing light.

Following that ride into the country Alice Hart asked herself a good many times whether she had behaved in a manner to reflect credit upon herself.

It had been an embarrassing situation, to be sure, and she was the person who had most cause for resentment, but Wade and Gorham were responsible; Sam Lee was no more to blame for it than she was. If Mabel and Fay hadn't been so furious the difficulty could have been met somehow.

Miss Hart, be it said, was given to evasions and avoidances; her whole life had been a series of painful compromises with disagreeable situations and she had learned how infinitely preferably is half a loaf to no bread. It is a lesson every ambitious persons learns and she was ambitious. Ambition accounted for her presence here at Eastern for in a truly desperate effort to escape a life of household drudgery she had managed somehow to win a scholarship in Eastern's School of Design and now dreamed of a year or two in Paris, then a studio of her own in New York and independence.

That scholarship, however, covered only tuition and inasmuch as her parents by no means warmly sympathized with her desires for a career it took a deal of wheedling, coaxing and even threatening, to keep herself in funds to meet living expenses.

It had sincerely thrilled her to meet that unknown Mr. Lee, a man of fabulous wealth, and that evening with him had been an experience. Alice did not realize how keen was her disappointment at the outcome until several days had passed.

Mabel was still devoutly thankful that she had recognized Sam Lee "in time," as she put it, and she seemed to feel that her alertness and her resource had saved them all from some unspeakable calamity.

"Has your father been to the Regents about it?" Fay inquired.

"Not yet. I haven't told him."

"I though: you were—"

"Oh, I was! I was burning up. But Kicker is scared pink and begging me not to say anything!"

"You'd only get him and Mr. Gorham into trouble." Alice ventured. "Sam Lee was innocent enough."

"I suppose so. And the college authorities would be mighty slow in calling him down. Goodness knows how rich he is. All the same, it's a fine note when girls like up can meet a Chinaman and never know it. It was the car, of course. Imagine a Chinaman with a car like that! Why, anything could happen to a girl!"

"I'll say so," Fay agreed. "The trouble is you'd never know he's a Chinaman to look at him. Did you have the faintest idea, Alice?"

Alice shook her head.

"The funny part of it is," Fay interrupted, "we wouldn't be mad at all if he was an honest-to-goodness prince. I mean even a Chinese prince. They have princ , don't they? We'd be all swelled up."

"I suppose so. And I guess he's richer than most princes at that. He won't have anything to do with the other Chinese fellows. All his friends are white."

"That's because he looks like a white man. Well, if he's silly enough to lend his money to Kicker and Spud, I guess we can afford to keep quiet and let them spend some of it on us." Mabel laughed; plainly she had a practical mind.

Sam was reading a Chinese story, one of the colorful folk stories which are repeated on the eve of the feast of Lanterns. It was the humorous, lightly told tale of little Ching Ting, disconsolate daughter of Sun Hou the oil merchant, whose unfeeling parents locked her in the house with one dull lantern to console her while they went off to attend the New Year celebration. An audacious youth of the village, to whom the story teller attached the name Fun, had concealed himself in a porcelain jar in Sun Hou's house and, after disclosing his presence to the daughter, impudently made love to her.

Sam lowered the book for his telephone was ringing. He glanced at the ormolu clock on his cabinet of tiny ivory and gold and porcelain curios. It was after eleven. Who could be calling? Amid a soft rustling of silks he went into the hall. A woman's voice answered his hello.

"Don't you know who this is?" it inquired. "This is Alice Hart speaking."

Sam all but dropped the receiver.

In some constraint they exchanged greetings and pleasantries. Alice had spent a quiet evening in her room; it had occurred to her that she had failed to thank Sam for his courtesy on the occasion of their meeting. She hoped he wouldn't consider her rude.

Sam asked himself in bewilderment if he could have misconstrued the meaning of that episode at the roadhouse. Was it possible that Miss Hart did not understand? It seemed incredible, and yet—how account for her friendly tone of voice? Embarrassment smothered him; he must spare her feelings.

"I was reading when you called," he told her. "An old Chinese story—"

"What about?"

"About a little Chinese girl who was not allowed to attend the Feast of Lanterns—our New Year celebration. We Chinese attach great importance to New Year's; it's our principal holiday. Something like your Christmas or Fourth of July."

"Why wasn't she allowed to go to the feast?"

Sam hesitated. Miss Hart knew. She knew everything and yet she called him up, wanted to chat. Here was a miracle. A new resonance, a new quality was in his voice when he said:

"Poor little Ching Ting's parents were unkind, they locked her in the house while they went off to the festival. But a boy of the village, who of course loved her, managed her escape and they saw the lanterns and the fireworks and had a wonderful time together."

"Hm-m! It sounds like an ordinary American story. I suppose there's more to it?"

"Oh, naturally! It's quaint and amusing, in the original script."

"Do you read Chinese?" Miss Hart was incredulous.

"Of course—"

"But isn't it awfully hard? Doesn't it take years to learn?"

"Years and years. I couldn't speak English until I was half grown!"

"No! Isn't that extraordinary? You certainly speak it well enough now; better than I do." There was a pause. "I wish I knew more about—well, about foreign people and countries and customs and such things. I'm terribly ignorant and curious. All I know is a little bit about drawing—Was Ching Ting pretty?"

"Lovely!" Sam laughed. It was perhaps the first time he had ever laughed naturally while talking to an American girl.

TECK-HUGHES LEADS ACTION ON STANDARD

Issue Registers Gain of Nine Points When Taken at Mid-day.

NORANDA ADVANCES.

TORONTO, April 26 (C.P.).—Teck-Hughes, adding to yesterday's recovery, provided leadership for a stronger movement on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange Market in the forenoon to-day.

In better demand from the opening Teck showed a gain of 9 at $3.45 when taken at midday. Hollinger recovered 10 to $4.80, and Wright-Hargreaves 4 to $2.32. Pioneer of B.C. was under selling pressure, price dipping 17 to $3.02. Among cheaper golds, Kirkland Lake Gold was up 3 at 33, Buffalo a cent at 31, and Bidgood and Big Missouri fractions.

Eldorado was well taken at $1.16, up 6, and Nickel and Noranda advanced a few cents to $6.50 and $15.35 respectively. Amulet lost a cent or so to 10. Acme Gas gained a fraction to 12.

PAYS PREFERRED DIVIDEND.

The United States Steel Company to-day declared regular preferred dividend but omitted the payment on the common due at this time. Net loss for the quarter was approximately $13,000,000.

DOMINION STORES DECLINES TO NEW LOW FOR THE YEAR

Liquidation From New York Forces Stock Lower on Toronto Exchange.

SMELTERS EASES.

TORONTO, April 26 (C.P.).—Dominion Stores reached a new low for the year this morning as liquidation from New York forced the local market lower. Practically all the selling was reported by arbitrage houses and came from Wall Street where the stock was weak. Local Buyers were taking the offerings and purchase orders, which have been standing for weeks were filled this morning when the stock got down to 16.

Ford of Canada was another issue at a new low, declining point to 8 5-8. Smelters eased fractionally from its opening price of 40.

Prices were holding elsewhere throughout the list. Nickel was unchanged to a minimum fraction higher. Noranda, opening lower, strengthened towards mid-day. Bell Telephone picked up point, as did Brazilian, and C. P. R. was up from its opening. Montreal Power, which had been pegged until this morning, came out around 27.

Oils were firm, mostly unchanged, in a slight trading market. Liquor and beverage stocks were practically motionless. Turnover spasmodic.

Too Much Money Is Spent Buying Milk

TORONTO, April 26. (C.P.)—The Board of Control to-day was advised by A. W. Laver, Comission of Public Welfare, that in his opinion the House of Industry has received from the city $37,000 more than it should have for milk purchased by the house since last July.

The board ordered the commissioner, city auditor and chairman of the House and Industry Board to investigate and report.

PRICE ILL WITH FLU

TORONTO.—Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General of Ontario, is confined to his home with an attack of influenza. Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, is acting attorney general during Col. Price's absence.

C.P.R. OFF 1-4.

MONTREAL, April 26 (C.P.).—Despite weakness in Montreal Power, on which the minimum was lifted today, prices were generally higher on the Montreal Stock exchange half-way through today's session. Trading was active.

Montreal Power opened at 26 and then gradually climbed back to 27 where it was 8 points lower than its former pegged price of 36. It was the active leader. Montreal Tramways, on its first board lot appearance in many weeks, lost 29 points at 101. Canadian Pacific Railway at 73 5-8, and Quebec Power at 15, were both off ¼.

The largest advance during the morning session was registered by Canada Cement preferred, which advanced ¾ points at 74. The upturn was the continuation of yesterday's rally, which brought the stock from a new all low at 31 back to 40, where it closed with a half-point gain. Atlantic Sugar advanced 1 points at 23, which was a new high for this year.

Brazilian Traction at 9 5-8 and International Nickel at 6 were both up 1-8, while McColl-Frontenac gained at ½.

GEESE GO NORTH.

KINGSVILLE.—The Canada geese that visit the Jack Miner bird sanctuary on their semi-annual flights have all left and migrated north to the nesting grounds.

During the last six weeks nearly 1,000 have been tagged by Jack Miner to study their migration route.

EXEMPTIONS CANCELLED

WASHINGTON.—The U.S. senate finance committee struck out of the revenue bill to-day the exemption from income taxes allowed United States citizens residing abroad and working for United States firms.

Senator Bingham R. Conn protested the action declaring it would be a "serious blow to our foreign trade."

FOREMAN SHOT.

WARSAW.—A Frenchman, Gustav Keller, manager of Poland's largest cotton and linen mill at Zyrardow, was shot and killed in Warsaw's busiest thoroughfare today by a former workman in the mill.

The assassin said that he was bent on revenge because he was discharged.

DISCOUNT AIDS BAKERS

BROCKVILLE—Because the discount on Canadian funds gives bakers in this country an advantage in marketing bread across the international border, bakers in Northend New York are reported to be organizing with a view to having a tarrif placed upon importations of bread.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, April 26. —(CP)—Prime commercial paper 3¼-3½ percent. Foreign exchange irregular, demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents) — Great Britain 3.63½; France 3.96 3-16; Italy 5.14; Germany 23.75; Canadian dollars at 10⅜ per cent discount.

FORMER MEMBER HOLLAND'S OLYMPIC TEAM

If this Dutch resident of Los Angeles should win a Pacific Coast fencing championship in the 1932 competition, he will be in a unique position as regards competing in the 1932 Olympic games. Mr. De Jong is a former champion of Holland and is a member of Holland's Olympic fencing team. But if he wins a Pacific Coast title, he automatically becomes a member of the United States Olympic team. The chances of the latter are excellent as Mr. De Jong, who has been in Los Angeles for four years as an importer, has previously held the Pacific Coast foils championships. Tournament officials have made a specific ruling that if the visitor from Holland does become the 1932 Pacific Coast champ in any of the classes, the second place man will receive the American Olympic appointment.

Storm Damages Shipping Off Pacific Coast

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HIT BY 50-MILE GALE.

Driven by a 50-mile north-west wind, three large fishing barges were in imminent danger of being wrecked near Redonda, California, while a score of small boats had been flung on the beach and badly damaged. Photo shows the Thomas P. Emich as she crashed up on the beach. The Emich was one of the largest fishing boats off the Southern California coast.

OPERATING REDUCTIONS OFFSETS MONTH'S DECREASE IN TRAFFIC

Monthly Statement of Canadian National Railways Revenues Issued To-day.

FOR MONTH OF MARCH.

MONTREAL, April 26 (C.P.).—A heavy decrease in traffic during March, as compared with the corresponding month of last year, was almost offset by reductions in operating expenses, it is shown by the monthly statement of revenues and operating expenses of the Canadian National Railways issued today. Gross revenues of the national system in March were $12,248,624, a decrease of $2,781,428 from the revenues of March, 1931. At the same time, operating expenses for March 1932, which totalled $11,690,019, showed a reduction of $2,559,093 from March, 1931, giving a net revenue for last month of $558,604. This was a decrease of $222,334 for the net of March last year.

Net revenue for March, 1932, showed an improvement of more than one million dollars, as compared with that of the preceding month. Gross revenues increased by $1,244,227, operating expenses increased by $96,194 and the net revenue in March of $558,604, compared with a net revenue deficit in February of $589,428, an improvement of $1,148,032.

For the first quarter of the current calendar year, gross earnings were $34,201,350, a decrease of $7,999,610, as against those of the first quarter of last year. Operating expenses for the period were $31,320,296, a decrease of $7,282,231.

There was a net revenue deficit for the first quarter of 1932 of $618,946 against net revenue in the corresponding period of 1931 of $98,161.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 26.—(CP)—Activity increased somewhat in late trading on Toronto Stock Exchange today but the general tone of the market showed no appreciable improvement, although some of the leaders did better towards the close. Gains were more noticeable today than on Monday, though they were mostly of a fractional nature.

Ford of Canada, which had made a new low low at 8⅝, rose to 9 before the close where it was just above Monday's close. Bell Telephone and Nickel closed unchanged with Brazilian, Atlantic Sugar Cement common up fractions. F. N. Burt recovered more than 2 points after Monday's deeline.

Oils and beverage stocks put in a dull day, closing unchanged to unimportant fractions higher. Smelters lost a point and Noranda was off a few cents.

Montreal Power, which had been pegged at 36, fluctusted within a fractional range of 27.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 26. (CP) — The stock market worked unbertainly higher in apathetic trading to-day. The list softened somewhat during the early afternoon, but hardened later, with numerous gains of fractions to more than 2 points. American Telephone and U.S. Steel reacted after rising a point or so, but issues up 1 to 2 in the late trading included American Can, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Consolidated Gas, Standard of N.J. Woolworth and others. The late tone was firm. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 26 (C.P.) — While a few issues recorded losses on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market to-day, general tone of the list was definitely stronger. Higher-priced stocks displayed some fairly significant gains, while smaller advances predominated among movements in cheaper issues.

Teck-Hughes added 15 to yesterday's recovery to sell at $3.50; Hollinger was up 20, and Dome firmed a similar amount. Pioneer of B.C. was a soft spot with price down 10 on end despite an afternoon rally. In the cheaper golds Ventures regained a couple and Macassa, Sylvanite, Bidgood, Kirkland Townsite and McLeod River a fraction to a cent apiece.

Eldorado was in better demand and up 7. Mining Corp. slipped 5 to a new low. Hudson Bay also was easy, while Noranda and Nickel registered minor gains. Among the lower-priced oils Ajax was up 5 and Peninsular Pete and Acme Gas fractionally higher.

One New Director On Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 26. — Paul Patterson of the Baltimore Sun, was elected a director of the Associated Press, and four of the present directors were re-elected at the annual meeting of the organization, it was announced to-day.

Those re-elected were: Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press and publisher of the Washington Star; Adolph S. Ochs, New York Times; Robert McLean, Philadelphia Bulletin, and Frederick E. Murphy, Minneapolis Tribune.

Mr. Patterson succeeds B. H. Anthony of the New Bedford (Mass.) Standard, who was not a candidate for re-election.

LADY CYNTHA MOSLEY ADDS SON TO FAMILY

LONDON, April 26.—(C.P. Cable.)—The family of Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the new party which had three members in the House of Commons, but was wiped out in the last general elections, and Lady Cynthia Mosley, has been increased by the arrival of another son.

Sir Oswald, wealthy young socialist, married Lady Cynthia Curzon, daughter of the late Marquis Curzon of Kedleston, in 1920. They now have two sons and one daughter, the eldest son being nine years of age.

SHOTS HALT DRIVER FLEEING IN STOLEN CAR

BRANTFORD, Ont., April 26 (C.P.). — Roy Wilson, Hamilton, was arrested here to-day by Motorcycle Officer Campbell, in possession of a car stolen, it is alleged, in Hamilton, and owned by Miss Mildred Hunter of Brantford. Campbell had to fire several shots, one hitting the car, before Wilson would stop.

MAY CANCEL RED TRADE TREATY.

LONDON.—The British government is considering the possibility of cancelling the Anglo-Russian trade agreement with a view to a more equal distribution of trade between Russia and Great Britain, Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, declared this afternoon in the House of Commons.

France will open many new airports.

COMMONWEALTH FIGHTS FOR N.S. WALES TAXES

CANBERRA, Australia, April 26 (C.P. Cable).—The Commonwealth Government has decided to serve notice on the State Taxation Commissioner of New South Wales demanding production of the taxation documents in his custody.

Under the provisions of the Financial Agreement Enforcement Bill empowering it to seize revenues of defaulting States, the Commonwealth government specified income tax and various other taxes of New South Wales as payable to the Commonwealth, in return for the amounts paid out by the Commonwealth when the State defaulted overseas debts payments, Feb. 1 and April 1.

Premier J. T. Lang of New South Wales countered this by closing up the taxation offices, which also stopped collection of Commonwealth income tax, ordinary collected on Commonwealth account by the State.

Paris will hold its International Aeronautical Show next fall.

17TH ANNIVERSARY OF GALLIPOLI IS CELEBRATED BY NEW ZEALAND

Memorial Services Held After Parades by Ex-Service Men, Territorials.

COSTLY BATTLE.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, April 26 (C.P. Cable). — The 17th anniversary of Gallipoli was celebrated in New Zealand yesterday with parades of ex-service men, territorials, and cadets. Religious and memorial services were held throughout the country and wreaths were laid on war memorials and on the graves in the soldiers' cemeteries.

The war memorial carillon at Wellington was dedicated in the presence of Lord Bledisloe, governor-general, Premier G. W. Forbes and members of the cabinet. A large naval detachment and navy and army chiefs, with church dignitaries, were present.

Great Sacrifice of Life

The attempt to take Gallipoli came six weeks after the unsuccessful attempt to force the Dardanelles. Three major and two minor landings were affected at Gallipoli early on April 25. At the tip of the peninsula, but at a great sacrifice of life. Heavy losses were also sustained at Gaba Tepe where the Anzacs secured a footing. The Allied forces occupying the disconnected sectors of Cape Heles and Gaba Tepe entrenched themselves against heavy fire from the German and Turkish guns on the heights commanding the positions and by April 27 advanced two miles in the southern sector after desparate struggles. Fighting continued with some allied success until on August 10 heavily reinforced Turkish troops decimated the holders of the Rhododendron ridge. No further offensive was attempted and the evacuation of Gallipoli was carried out successfully by Sir Charles Monro, who succeeded General Sir Ian Hamilton. Between December 8 and January 9, 1916. The losses were 115,000 in killed, wounded and missing, and another 100,000 suffered through sickness. The campaign had been successful to the extent that allied forces in the sector immobilized almost half a million Turks for nearly 12 months.

Delightful Banquet

Between thirty-five and forty laymen of St. John's Parish sat down to a banquet held on Friday evening at the Commercial House, with Mr. J. F. Harvey, chairman of the finance committee, presiding.

A very informal discussion of parish affairs took place. Death has removed so many pillars of the church during the past six months that it was felt that the younger men should be organized to carry on. The church wardens were present and representative members of the parish.

Auxiliary Tea

The Girls' Auxiliary of St. John's Church had a very successful afternoon tea and sale of home cooking on St. George's day (Saturday) in the parish hall. In spite of several counter attractions there was a good attendance and the financial returns exceeded the expectations. Assisting the young girls were Mrs. W. J. Creighton, Mrs. F. G. Kendall, Mrs. E. J. Robertshaw and Miss Winnie Payne.

Children's Parade

A parade of school children numbering about fifty took place on Saturday afternoon from the school grounds to the post office corner and back to the Tanner Drug Store where the parade was lined up in front of Dr. Morris' residence, where the judging took place. The children were dressed in a variety of fancy and comic costumes and were thoroughly enjoying themselves. The parade was arranged and organized by Miss McKechnie, the representative of the Canadian Chautauqua, which is at present in the village. Prizes were won by Misses Assunta White, Nora Webster, Joan Balkwell and Douglas Smith. The judges were Mrs. W. E. Gillman, Mrs. M. E. Osborne, and Miss Grylls.

Obituary

MRS. JOSEPH LINTON

ROSENEATH, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—Hannah Sherwin, widow of Joseph Linton, died suddenly on Monday morning at her residence in Alnwick Township. She was in her 78th year.

Mrs. Linton was well respected in the township in which she had lived practically the whole of her life. She is survived by four sons: Ephos and Cephas and John and Robert and two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Robins and Miss Maud Carter.

The funeral is to be held on Wednesday afternoon with a service at Centenary Church and interment at Centenary cemetery. Services will be conducted by the Rev. R. W. Patton, M.A., pastor of the United Church.

JOHN R. MILLS

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, April 26.—The funeral of the late Mrs. John R. Miles was held on Thursday afternoon from her late residence, Queen St. and was attended by a very large number of friends and relatives gathered to pay a tribute of respect to a woman who was well known in the district where the greater part of her life was passed. A member of one of the pioneer families of Dummer township, Mrs. Miles had a remarkably wide circle of friends and relatives.

Rev. W. R. Archer, B.A. of Regent Street United church conducted the funeral service and Mrs. H. E. Moore presided at the piano. Three hymns were sung "Jesus, Lover of My Soul", "Rock of Ages" and "Safe In the Arms of Jesus".

The pall bearers were Messrs Richard Crowe, Robert Crowe, William Crowe, Frank Darling, Harold Miles and Chris Hughes (Peterborough). Interment was made in the Warsaw cemetery.

Mrs. Miles was born in Dummer township seventy-one years ago, and was one of the younger members of the large family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Francis Crowe. Her early life was spent in Dummer and there she married John R. Miles who survives her.

In 1910 the family removed to Saskatchewan, where they remained for sixteen years and on their return they settled in Lakefield. Besides her husband and two sons, Howard and Harold of Lakefield there are two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Hall in Regina and Mrs. Conel in Claydon, Sask. A sister, Mrs. Goselin also resides in Regina.

The late Mrs. Miles was a faithful and devout members of the Methodist church and in Lakefield was a member of Regent Street United church.

NATHAN PAYNE

LAKEFIELD, April 26 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Nathan Payne was held on Friday afternoon from his late residence, Queen street, where a short family service was held, proceeding to Regent Street United Church, where the public service took place at 2 o'clock. The church was filled to capacity with friends and relatives who gathered to pay a tribute of love and honor to one who had held an unusually high place in the community. Rev. W. R. Archer, B.A., officiated, assisted by Rev. S. A. Kemp, B.A. (former pastor of the church), and Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., rector of St. John's Church, who was a neighbor and friend of the deceased.

Mrs. H. E. Moore presided at the organ, and the choir was present also. Three hymns were sung, "For All the Saints," "Forever With the Lord," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." Mr. Henry Batten sang very effectively "The Upper Garden."

Rev. W. J. Creighton read the Scripture lesson from the 11th chapter of the epistle of Saint Paul to the Hebrews, and Mr. Archer took the text of his short address from the 1st verse of the 12th chapter of the same epistle, "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."

Mr. Archer paid a well-merited tribute to the splendid character of Mr. Payne; his Christian faith, his remarkable capacity for making and holding friends, and his steadfast support of his pastor and his church.

Mr. Kemp, who was pastor of the church for six years also spoke of what Mr. Payne had meant to him both as a personal friend and a parishioner.

One does not meet with his like often, and earth is the poorer and Heaven the richer for his passing. He is now numbered among the cloud of witnesses in the "Upper Garden," where his life goes on in a richer and fuller sense.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. J. W. Botterill, A. B. Burrows, W. Hamblin, J. H. Payne, P. Spence and M. Thurston.

Interment was made in the Lakefield cemetery.

The late Nathan Payne was born in Dummer township on March 16, 1853, the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Payne, and resided in this county his entire life. He married Eliza Little, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Little, who with their family of one daughter, Mrs. D. H. MacMillen and five sons, Norman and Rufus of Warsaw, Hilliard and Ralph of Point Anne, and Carmen at home, survives him. One sister, Mrs. S. S. Spence, also survives him.

Despite his seventy-seven years, Mr. Payne was never an old man: he had the secret of perennial youth and loved the company of young people with whom he was very popular. He had a keen interest in his community and worked for its best interests at all times. He belonged to no lodges but was the oldest member of the Curling Club and was one of the most active and enthusiastic curlers, taking part in the games all winter and in the Good Friday bonspiel, and was present at the annual banquet held just one week before his death. The presence of the Curling Club in a body, at his funeral among those who mourned the loss of a member and personal friend, was one of the touching tributes paid to Mr. Payne. Until his removal to Lakefield about twelve years ago he was a member of Bethel Church, Dummer, where he was a faithful member and devoted worker.

In Lakefield he was an elder in the Regent Street United Church and was regular in his attendance, loyal in service to both the church and its pastor. In politics Mr. Payne was a strong Liberal, and will be missed among the party stalwarts in this community. He was a strong advocate of religious unity and he worked all his life toward the end "that all might be one, one flock under one Shepherd."

His death, after such a brief illness, was a great shock to the community where he was a universal favorite.

COURT ROOM IS RE-DECORATED

Great Change Has Been Wrought in the County Court Room.

WALLS ARE PAPERED.

Bringing forth exclamations of approval from members of the local Bar who amazedly walked into the glistening newness of the redecorated court room yesterday afternoon for the opening of the sessions here of the Supreme Court of Ontario before Chief Justice Rose, a great change has been wrought upon the storied walls and windows of that place of trial and judgment.

Smoky and dirt-grimed plaster walls have given place to fresh, soft tints of new wall paper. The great windows have been hung with regal purple drapes which add color and charm and dignity to the great room. The ceiling, which former whiteness had become dimmed if not actually black in places with coal dust, glisten again in new sparkling whiteness having been repainted. The two Union Jacks that drape about the British coat-of-arms behind the judge's bench have been thoroughly dry-cleaned and again display their true rich colors.

At that the court room's changes have not been completed. More purple drapes will be hung above the gallery, which is thought will assist greatly in deadening the echoes which make the court room an acoustic bedlam.

The wall paper is also aimed at aiding the acoustics as are also the window drapes. But it was proved yesterday that something further is yet required because the confusing echoes still hung about the place, even Chief Justice Rose having difficulty at times in hearing the speech of counsels and witnesses.

Truman Jewel of Lakefield carried out the decorating, the Canadian Departmental Stores hanging the drapes. Charles Tanner, chairman of the Property Committee of the County Council, under whose direction the improvements were made, stated that when the work is completed the cost will total about $500. It is thought the drapes over the gallery will mean the end of the acoustic problem.

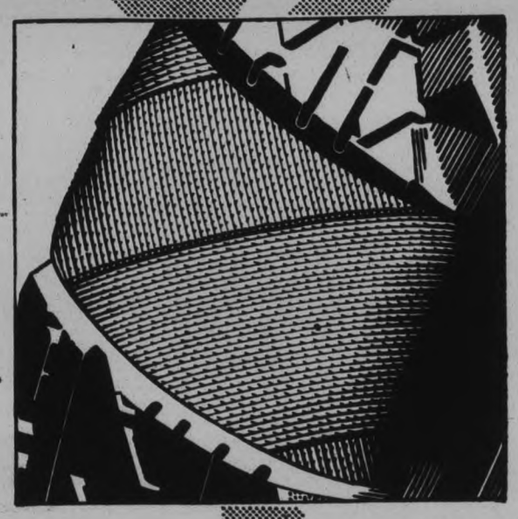
HOW MANY SUPERTWIST CORDS



IN THE AVERAGE GOODYEAR TIRE?

A cool THOUSAND DOLLARS for merely estimating the number of cords in the average Goodyear Tire! Think of what you could do with that $1,000.00. New car?... Cottage at the Lake? ... Trip abroad? ... Education for the youngster? ... Oh, there are plenty of wonderful things one can do with real money and lots of it. And there is no catch in this contest. Someone is going to win the $1,000 first prize for the nearest correct estimate. And others will get the 103 other cash prizes which vary from $500.00 down to $10.00.

You don't have to spend a cent of money to enter. Read the simple conditions of the contest, get a free entry blank from any dealer selling Goodyear Tires and mail your estimate as directed.

The Simple Conditions of the Contest

Anyone from a household in Canada where a car is owned may enter. There is no entry fee, nothing to buy, no special requirement. All tire dealers, all employees of rubber companies and the families of both are debarred.

See the six Goodyear Tires of various sizes, types and ply-thicknesses at any Goodyear tire dealer's, then estimate the number of cords in each, add the six individual tire estimates together, and divide by six to strike the average. Submit the number you estimate on a standard entry blank which may be obtained free of charge at any Goodyear tire dealer's.

The correct figure for each of the six tires has been secretly ascertained by the Development Division of the Goodyear factory. These figures have been deposited with a Toronto Trust Company and the average thus arrived at must be accepted as final.

A section of tire fabric showing the Supertwist cords, is on display in every Goodyear tire dealer's store. This will help you make your estimate.

The closing date is June 5th, 1932. No entry bearing a later postmark date will be considered. Address: "The Goodyear Supertwist Cord Contest," New Toronto, Toronto 14, Ontario.

Y.M.C.A. PLANS ANNUAL CANVAS

Ninety Business Men Will Canvas Citizens of Peterborough.

$7,500 IS NEEDED.

The Y.M.C.A. annual financial canvass is being conducted next week when a group of 90 business men will canvass the citizens of Peterborough in the interests of this extremely important community enterprise. No appeal was made last year owing to the fact that two years' maintenance budget was included in the total raised in the building fund campaign held two years ago. The directors are confident that the splendid reception and generous support accorded them at that time will be again in evidence this year. The amount needed is $7,500.00 which is less than the amount allocated in subscriptions for the last two years.

The amount subscribed by the citizens represents the difference between the actual cost of operation and the amount received from membership fees and other revenues. The dormitory department is a very important source of revenue and a substantial surplus of over $1,500.00 is realized by the association from this branch of the program. The boys' and young men's departments yield comparatively small revenues owing to the modest membership fees for these groups. The business men's section is self-sustaining.

Subscriptions represent but 30% of the total annual budget which compares favorably with associations of similar size in Canada.

The Peterborough association is in a most fortunate position at the present time with a building which ranks as one of the finest and most modern in Canada. The policies and plans of its work are directed by a representative group of leading business men, and these are supported by a strong and active membership in all departments. The financial position is very satisfactory.

The Peterborough association is splendidly equipped to serve the young men and boys of the city, and the directors rely on the generous support and the far-sighted vision of the citizens to maintain this vital and important service to youth during 1932.

Lakes And Rivers To Be Well Watched

The executive of the Fish and Game Association met last night and discussed matters relating to the fishing in this district. The members expressed much surprise at the change from May 1 to 15 in the opening of the pickerel season in this county, as the first intimation that they had that any change was to made was when it appeared in The Examiner. They have asked the Department, why the change was made, but as yet have received no reply. It was also stated that a complete list of fish wardens has been announced and this district will be well patrolled this Spring in an endeavor to put a stop to the illegal fishing.

QUERIES PILE UP AT C.N.R. PROBE

McGibbon and Mac Millan Submit Long List Regarding Management.

ANSWERS, NEXT SESSION.

OTTAWA, April 26.—(CP)—This was question day in the House of Commons railways and shipping committee. From all sides the management of the national system was bombarded with requests for information extending into many phases of railway management. Dr. Peter McGibbon, (Cons. Muskoka,) asked that a Mr. Seguin of Montreal, who, he understood, put through the deal for Sir Henry Thornton's house in that city, be required to appear before the committee and give particulars of that transaction.

New York Offices?

Dr. McGibbon also wanted information respecting the New York offices of the Canadian National Railways, with a copy of all documents relative thereto.

Dr. McGibbon's questions were supplemented by a long list submitted by F. R. MacMillan, (Cons. Saskatoon), in which he wanted to know how much money the C. N. R. spent in furnishing and remodelling the office at 673 Fifth Ave., N.Y., particulars of the overlease of the Cordelia Company; how much the C.N.R. received in rents from the letting of office space there; if the former offices at 505 Fifth Avenue, N.Y. were still occupied; what was the annual rental, and what was the rental of the traffic departments offices in the Woolworth Bldg. N. Y.

Who are the Cordelia Company, asked Mr. McGibbon, who was the architect who remodelled the place at 673 Fifth Ave. and what did he receive for the job?

Hotel At Kingston

Further questions concerned the hotel at Kingston, Jamaica. How much did the C.N.R. invest in this, asked Mr. MacMillan? How much of that investment was lost? On whose authority was the money invested Was an orchestra sent from Montreal to engage in the opening? What is the future of the hotel?

The interrogation ended by Dr. McGibbon asking the cost of the medical services of the system; its personnel and their salaries.

The questions will be answered at another sitting.

Police Court

A secondary figure in Monday's Police Court, Napoleon Gravelle, 19, was this morning the principal.

He was charged with petty theft of cigarettes and other small goods from a booth at the corner of Western Avenue and Lansdowne Street on Sunday, April 17, pleaded guilty, and was remanded for sentence until May 2.

Gravelle is the youth who was severely beaten by George Hamilton, the young man whom Magistrate Langley sentenced on Monday, as a sort of corner bully, to a year in the Reformatory.

The only other case before this morning's Court involved an unemployed man who stole a pair of boots last Sunday from a farmer in Otonabee. His own boots were utterly gone, and in his need, after being given a meal on Sunday, he returned and entered the house, helping himself to the much-needed boots. He was let go this morning on suspended sentence, and was inquiring for a suit of underwear and some other pieces of clothing in the hope that he would be able to get a job in one of the townships.

For failing to return to the scene of an accident, Edward Drumm, of 290 Westcott Street, was fined $25 and costs in Police Court today. Drumm was driving south on Park street at 8.10 last evening, when he swerved left across the road and scraped a car, owned by Thomas Henry, 30 Ware street, parked near the Park street Baptist Church. He did not stop, but drove rapidly away. However, police secured his license number and he was later arrested. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Advertising Pays Says Havelock Paper

Recognizing the value of advertising, The Havelock Standard printed the following item in its last issue:

"That advertising pays was plainly evident in Peterborough on Saturday, when the city stores were literally jammed with purchasers, and hosts of them from Havelock and vicinity, anxious to pick up the bargains that had been freely advertised by Peterborough merchants. Our local merchants complain about people going out of town to do their shopping. Can they blame them when the great majority of them never tell what they have to sell or what they want for it? The merchant who tells the people what he has to sell and what he wants for it, is the one who is going to get the business.

SEE CENTRISTS JOINING HITLER

Predict Coalition Would Be Only Way to Check Nazis' Power.

NO DEFINITE ACTION.

BERLIN, April 26 (C.P.). — A possibility that Adolf Hitler's National Socialists and the Catholic Centrist Party might join hands to frame a new Prussian State Government was discussed to-day.

The Centrists, with their 67 seats in the new Prussian Diet, will have the balance of power and responsible members of the party were arguing that the proper thing to do would be to join with the Nazis and force them into joint control as a means of checking their rising power.

The Nazis have 162 seats which, added to the Centrists' 67, would give such a coalition 229 votes out of the 450 in the Diet, a small working margin.

It was still too early to make any certain prediction of the solution that will be made, however, although the proposed Nazi Centrist Coalition was accepted in many quarters as a promising way of meeting the difficulty of organizing a Government.

Queen Of The Ball

A few yards of calico and a little fluffy ribbon produced the "pioneer creation" for the queen of the celebration of Hot Springs, U.S. National Park's 100th anniversary this week. It will be climaxed with a pioneer day ball at which homes up finery will be the rule. Mrs. Leo P. McLaughlin, wife of the Mayor of Hot Springs, is shown here in the costume she selected for the ball. She is to reign as queen.

FIND ANCIENT TEMPLE UNDER VOLCANIC ASHES

ISTANBUL, Turkey .April 26. — (A.P.) — German archaeologists, looking for the ancient Greek theatre at Smyrna, have excavated an anqique temple with eleven domes and many marble columns buried deep in the ashes of volcanic eruptions.

They called specialists from Germany to identitfy the edifice. Already the German Professor Weygant has offered to finance extensive excavations at Smyrna, one of the greatest of the ancient cities of Asia Minor.

TWELVE YEARS ON DEVIL'S ISLE PRISONER OF WAR FINALLY FREED

Picked Up in 1919 By French on Charge Regarding Corsican Citizens.

FOUGHT UNDER KAISER.

BERLIN, April 26.—(A.P.)—Paul Schwrats ,who went to Devil's Island as a prisoner of war and was forgotten for twelve years, came back home to-day a free man.

He was born in Corsica of German parents, and when he was still an infant the family moved to Alsace Lorraine. When the war came he joined the German army and fought on the western front until the end.

Meanwhile his father had died and his mother, driven out by the fighting, had moved to Kiel. Schwarts went up there when he was discharged, but when he got there in February, 1919, he found the town in the hands of the French.

No Travelling Papers.

He had no travelling papers so they arrested him. When they discovered he was a native of Corsica, they charged him with treason, for the French law is that children of the second generation born on French territory are French citizens no matter what the citizenship of the parents.

A court martial sent him to Devil's Island for life, but some one who remembered called his case to the attention of the Foreign Office and the sentence was commuted.

MANCHURIAN OFFICIALS REPLACE GENERAL MAH

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, April 26. (AP) — The government appointed General Cheng Chih-Yuan as acting governor of Heilungkiang province to-day in place of General Mah Chan-Shan, who the announcement said, is "absent in North Manchuria."

General Mah, who defended Taitsihar and the Nonni river bridge against the Japanese at the opening of the Manchurian campaign last Fall and later became one of the organizers of the new Manchurian state, recently was reported ready to support the Chinese government again. Another report said he was a prisoner in North Manchuria of his former lieutenants.

General Cheng was formerly commander of the Heilungkiang provincial guards.

WHEN MEN CALLED

attracted by her pretty face, their interest vanished before the evening was over. And they seldom came back again. Tragic to think she never suspected why!

AT DANCES

she had to stand aside and see other girls receive all the attentions. Though she danced beautifully, partners never asked her a second time.

WITH OTHER GIRLS

it was the same story. Polite snubs. Smiling coolness. An occasional last-minute invitation to fill in at bridge, but no real friends—never really one of the crowd.

—but now what a difference!

THERE's not a more popular, more sought-after girl in the whole town. She finally discovered her fault and the easy way to overcome it. As soon as "B.O." (body odour) was ended, loneliness vanished, too!

Play safe!

Take no chances with "B.O." Make Lifebuoy your toilet soap—end all danger of offending. Lifebuoy's creamy, abundant, penetrating lather purifies and deodorizes pores—removes every trace of odour. SUPREME COURT SESSIONS OPEN AT COURT HOUSE

G. N. Gordon is Suing Three Toronto People for $3,276.40.

BARRISJER SUICIDED.

Action Arises Over the Loaning of Money to Finance Building a House.

That the day after Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., had threatened to expose him to the Benchers' Society of Upper Canada for alleged deceiving of clients and misplacement of trust E. C. Ironsides, well-known Toronto barrister, committed suicide, was the disclosure made yesterday by Mr. Gordon in testifying before Chief Justice Hugh E. Rose at the session here of the Supreme Court of Ontario. Ironside took his own life on May 5 last.

Ironside had deceived Mrs. Jessie H. Perrin, formerly of this city and now of Toronto, her husband, A. A. Perrin, and W. Gladstone Brown, Toronto contractor, into believing that he was the owner of a certain lot on Bolingbroke Road, Toronto, on which Brown and the Perrins had erected a home, when in truth he had no clear deed since the property was in the name of his clerk, Warburton, and was heavily mortgaged to a man in Vancouver, said Mr. Gordon. Further Ironside had tried to realize $1,275 on the property from these people by offering them a worthless deed, he declared.

Suing For $3,276.40

This was the sensational evidence given by Mr. Gordon as a witness in his suit for $3,276.40 brought against Mr. and Mrs. Perrin and Brown. This amount Mr. Gordon, lone witness in his own case, said he loaned the Perrins and Brown in order to complete the erection of a house on the lot on Bolingbroke Road. He produced cheques and promissory notes to prove making the loans.

He stated that his assistance was asked by the Perrins after they had found that Ironside, who had entered a partnership with them to build a house, had failed to turn over the deed to the property. Mr. Gordon said he that he began by advancing $500 to the Perrins and Brown and then learned the manner in which Ironside had been deceiving them concerning the ownership of the property.

Continued to Advance Loans

Later, he said, he continued to advance loans to the Perrins and Brown so that they might stay off liens against the house until it was built to such a stage that a mortgage could be raised upon. In all he stated he had loaned $3,200 producing the notes signed by the Perrins to prove that the loans had been made.

"I was only endeavoring to help these people who were in danger of losing all their property," said Mr. Gordon. "They were continually phoning me up telling me how hard-pressed they were and that unless I came to their assistance they would be ruined."

He said he made these loans during the first four months of 1931. Later a first mortgage for $6,000 had been taken out upon the house by the Woodmen of the World, but his loans had not been repaid. All loans were for short terms bearing interest of six percent and had been given a small mortgage held by Mrs. Perrin on some Peterborough property as security.

Both Responsible.

He stated that he always understood that both Mr. and Mrs. Perrin and Brown were all financially interested in the house and maintained that all were responsible for the loans, pointing that most of the promissory notes had been signed by both Mr. and Mrs. Perrin, and that Brown's name appeared on several of the affidavits and transfer of monies.

Mrs. Perrin in her evidence said that she alone was responsible for the loans since Brown was merely her contractor on weekly salary, although he was to share equally with her in the profits when the house was sold. "I was to attend wholly to the financing, the arranging of loans and mortgages," she said. "My husband knew nothing of this arrangement and Mr. Gordon was aware of that fact."

She stated that the money advanced by Mr. Gordon had been used as wages and to buy materials for the house. She had been assured by Mr. Gordon, she said, that her husband would not be drawn into it. She maintained that she considered Mr. G. N. Gordon as her lawyer, "and I signed everything Mr Gordon told me to sign because I trusted him implicitly. She admitted that Mr. Gordon had advanced the money in order to help her out of her financial difficulties. Her husband had endorsed some of the notes.

W. Gladstone Brown also testified that Mr. Perrin was never a partner and never was to share in any of the profits.

The case continued until 6.00 o'clock yesterday with a mass of documents being placed in the records as exhibits and file on file of correspondence on the difficulties encountered in completing the house being read and re-read.

R. R. Hall is acting as counsel for Mr. Gordon and W. H Ford of Toronto, is counsel for the three defendants

The case is continuing today.

JOINT RECITAL WELL RECEIVED BY BIG AUDIENCE

Miss Margaret Dickson and Maurice H. Park Heard in Splendid Form.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM.

Selections Were Exacting and Well Chosen by Artists.

One of the most ambitious and difficult programs in the many recitals that have been staged at the Conservatory of Music was heard last night in the joint recital of songs by Miss Margaret Dickson, soprano, and Maurice Park tenor. The selections were extremely exacting and were, in practically every instance, of classical origin, with several from the 17th century.

It was a brilliant recital that was well attended, notwithstanding the damp weather of the early evening. A most appreciative audience listened to the carefully prepared and varied program given by the two singers, with sympathetic accompaniments played by Mrs. Agnes Logan Green, at the piano.

Miss Margaret Dickson's pure, flute-like soprano was at its best last night, especially in those songs in which coloratura trills and cadences had their way.

Three numbers of sacred import formed her opening group: Bach's composition, "My Heart Ever Faithful"; the well-known aria, "With Verdure Clad" from Haydn's "Creation," with its difficult vocalization and its graceful, crystalling stanzas; and Mozart's "Alleluia!" that exacting and brilliant coloratura aria based on the one word, "Alleluia!" which, by the way, in the Latin of the Roman church, is always pronounced with the broad, rather than the flat, opening vowel.

Four songs of a fanciful mode composed the next group. Schumann's imaginative fantasy, "The Lotus Flower"; Schubert's smartly-toned "The Trout", with its glittering "t" and "s" sounds; Grieg's lovely composition, "The Mountain Maid" and the gorgeously-sung Jewel Song, from Gounod's "Faust", its sparkling coloratura trills done in French. Much applause followed this selection.

Miss Dickson's last solo number was one of her finest and most dazzling: Bishop's "Lo! Here the Gentle Lark."

Mr. Park's opening trio matched the three first songs of Miss Dickson, in character, as they belonged to that school of which Handel was such a great exponent, in the type of composition which weaves about a single or double phrase, repeated in various forms, many varied modes of expression and treatment. The three were by Handel: two from Acis and Galatea: "Love in Her Eyes Sits Playing" and "Love Sounds the Alarm", the latter a loud, almost martial strain, vigorous and robust.

The second song of the trio was "O Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me?" from Semele, a very expressive composition distinguished by long, legato treatment and sustained vocalization, particularly for the "o" vowel, and the portamento "up and down" cadences that were so popular in Handel's day. The applause was vigorous for this number.

Expressive Trio

Mr. Park's very expressive, warm tenor tones were heard to splendid advantage in three songs permeated by sentiment and melodic grace, that were applauded very heartily. They were Mendelssohn's lovely composition, "The Garland"; a Brahms' "Love Song"; and Lalo's "Vainement, ma bien aimee" from "Le Roi d'Ys" sung in French, with its moving cadences done in the half voice. A contrast to these three minor-toned songs was the last of the group, the jocund Old English bit, "The appy Lover" arranged by Lane Wilson.

A decorative bit of recitative from Lisa Lehmann's Persian Garden, based on the poetry of Omar Khayyam, was "Ah, Fill the Cup!" with a dramatic aria, "Ah! Moon of my Delight", with its long finale.

Two brilliant duetts were sung by Miss Dickson and Mr. Park, the duett from the third act of Gounod's "Faust", and the Love Duett, from the first act of Madam Butterfly. They were splendidly interpreted, evoking continued applause.

Miss Dickson received some beautiful floral tributes, including a tall basket filled with lovely spring blossoms.

DISCUSSION IS ROTARY THEME

Question of Co-operation Amongst Campbellford Merchants Freely Talked Over.

GUEST SPEAKER ABSENT.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 26 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—The Campbellford Rotary Club found itself without a speaker at its regular luncheon yesterday, when a misunderstanding in dates was the cause of Captain M. Charlong of the Salvation Army being absent. However, after lunch a general discussion by the club was led by President Rev. R. C. Tait.

The question of Ladies' Night was broached by the chairman, and although this event is in the hands of Elie Brunelle, chairman of that committee of the club, after talking the mattef over decided to suggest that this year Ladies' Night be dispensed with and that the club entertain their wives at Castle Inn, Picton, some time in June or July. This suggestion will be passed to Mr. Brunelle, who was absent.

Referring back to the last meeting of the club when suggestions were put forward regarding a campaign in Campbellford to create a better spirit of co-operation between the buying public of town and the merchants, to aid and stimulate business, N. Alex MacColl spoke briefly on the matter, stating that he thought there should first be some co-operation between the merchants themselves, pointing out that if each merchant would limit their stock to specific lines and carry a full variety of these, they would do away with a great deal of local competition and so create a better spirit of harmony. If Rotary could work quietly among the merchants and get this idea across, he thought they would be accomplishing much.

The speaker thought that any attempt to move in the matter would be giving enemies of Rotary in town a handle to use, saying that that the club was interfering with the merchants of town to the detriment of the people.

He further stated that the money, or some portion of it, collected by the club, was public fund, and should only be used for benificent purposes. The move was treading on delicate ground, and he said that Rotary must not endanger the good name it now has among the citizens of town.

H. N. Carr agreed with Mr. McColl regarding the financial question, but thought that something could be done with the merchants, pointing out that the movement would have to start with them.

More Employment

S. H. Neale, who first brought the matter to the attention of the club, said he thought that he had been misunderstood regarding the motive he had in mind. His idea was to get people asking for goods and the merchants would stock them. The idea was clearly to create more employment in Campbellford, especially among the store clerks, carriers and such like. He thought that this could be done through educational advertising under the name of the Rotary Club. He had no particular brief for any class, he stated, but was concerned only with the welfare of the town as a whole.

Dr. H. B. Longmore supported the idea saying that if Rotary was to justify itself in the eyes of the public, it should do something that was evident and such a thing would be beneficial to the whole community.

Bringing the matter to a head, a committee comprised of G. A. Kingston, S. H. Neale, N. Alex MacColl and R. Smith, was named to investigate the subject and report back to the club.

FISH REGULATIONS ARE TIGHTENED UP

Toronto Angler Caught on Sunday Fishing Out of Season in Crow Bay.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 26 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — A recent amendment to the Dominion Special Fishery Regulations for the Province of Ontario provides for a close season for yellow pickerel and pike (so far as the inland waters of the Province are concerned) from April 1 to May 15 inclusive, and further, that the limit of catch of eight per day heretofore provides in case of yellow pickerel being extended to include pike. Such protection for pike automatically removes this species from amongst those, the taking of which by use of dip net and spear during the months of April and May has heretofore been permitted in all waters excepting those in the counties of Victoria, Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham and the River Trent, and the taking of pike in this manner is contrary to fish regulations.

Furthermore, Section 15, subsection 6, reads: "No person shall sell yellow pickerel, pike perch or dore (pike or lake trout), which were taken by angling, or which were taken in any other manner in the Province by any person without the necessary license."

Many people this season have been infringing these regulations and a close check-up is being made. On Sunday Overseer G. Richardson of Northumberland County apprehended a Toronto visitor fishing out of season in Crow Bay while two days ago Overseers Richardson of Northumberland and R. N. L. Ifill of Port Hope located nets in Squirrel Creek, west of the Otonabee River.

Nature's Way to Better Health . . .

Easy recipes for baking bran dishes are found in every package.

YOU can get the roughage you need in food which you like if you use Quaker Natural Bran.

Sprinkle it on the morning cereal. Better still, bake it in muffins or cookies. Add fruit to these to make them even more tempting.

Its health effect is required by all of us every day. It works by nature's method, for by mechanical action it sweeps the intestines clean of accumulated body waste.

By its sweeping motion it encourages the muscles of the intestinal wall to action, thus making them strong and keeping them strong.

If constipation troubles you with its headaches, bad breath, and stomach troubles, start to use Quaker Natural Bran right away. But do not wait for constipation to threaten. Use Quaker Natural Bran now as a preventive. It will tone and strengthen the intestines which must be kept healthy and active for regular bowel action. Far better than those drugs which stimulate bodily organs to abnormal activity, and then leave them weaker than before.

Serve bran muffins or cookies every meal. Add fruit to make them even more tempting. Everyone will benefit by eating this healthy wholesome food. Or, sprinkle freely over your regular morning cereal.

NOMINATE SEVEN FOR REEVESHIP

Two Will Likely Contest Election in Fenelon Falls.

HOTELMAN PASSES.

LINDSAY, April 26. — Nominations to fill the vacancy in the Fenelon Falls council owing to the resignation of Reeve Foster Kelly, took place yesterday at a crowded meeting in the village hall. Seven candidates were nominated, but it is understood that only two of them will seek election. Ex-Reeve Kelly has again entered the ring. The contest will be waged on the question of the erection of a new Continuation School, and promises to be a lively one.

One of the best known residents of the north country in the person of J. E. Jackson, of Coboconk, passed away on Sunday in his 66th year. The deceased was proprietor of the Pattie House, one of the best known hotels in this part of the province.

The week-end saw an influx of cottage owners from outside points to their summer homes at the different resorts in this district, preparatory to the opening of the season. Proprietors of hotels and lodges at these points report the receipt of a great many inquiries from prospective tourists, but not to the same extent as last year.

Supreme court non-jury sittings were slated for yesterday with but two civil cases on the docket. Mr. Justice Garrow was to be the presiding judge, but he was unable to be present because of illness. The cases will be heard at a later date.

Don McEachern, a Lindsay youth of seventeen years, was sent to jail for 50 days at Stratford for the theft. A woman in that city had given McEachern and another youth their dinner and while partaking of her hospitality, stole a quantity of money.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, April 26—Receipts of butter from Ontario points were not as heavy yesterday as at this time last year, but they had increased sufficiently to be quite ample for the demand and, with Western creameries offering, prices were lower. Asking prices of last week-end were no longer heard on the local market and there was a new range that figured ½c to 1c below previous reports. The weakness of the Montreal market did not do the local business any good and brokers were forced to reduce prices to tempt buyers. The general range for yesterday, for creamery solids, was 17½c to 18c for No. 1, and 16½c to 17c for No. 2, with the higher levels for choice lots. Prices to the trade for creamery prints were about steady at 22½c for No. 1, and 21½c for No. 2, with carton prints 1c per pound higher.

Cream

Local buyers of cream reduced their prices 1c per pound fat. The new range was 19c to 20c for special; 18c to 19c for No. 1, and 15c to 16c for No. 2, f.o.b., country points. There was opinion that prices would be still lower before this week's buying was concluded.

Cheese

New cheese was steady on this market. Brokers quoted new large at 10¼c, new twins at 10½c, and new triplets at 10¾c. Price to retailers were steady at 12c for new large, 12½c for new twins, 12½c for new triplets, and 14½ for new stiltons.

Eggs

Prices to country shippers, for eggs, were steady yesterday at the declines of last week, but prices on the brokers' market indicated a slightly steadier tone. Local brokers were trading on a basis of 14½c to 15c for extras, 12½c to 13c for firsts, and 11c for seconds, ordinary packed, and 15½c to 16c for extras, and 13½c to 14c for firsts, storage packed. Retailers were offered supplies at the steady levels of 19c for extras, in cartons, 17c for extras loose, 15c for firsts loose and 13c for seconds loose. Country shippers were quoted 12c for extras, 10c for firsts and 8c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 26.—Radically unfavorable crop reports from Kansas, Nebraska and Southwestern Iowa did much to strengthen wheat prices late yesterday.

Sharp decrease in the United States wheat visible supply total was also a bullish factor helping to overcome the unsettling influence of a crash in corn and oats prices to low levels unequalled in many years. Farm Board rejection of all offers of private dealers for purchase of the board's surplus wheat was not generally known until after trading had ended.

Corn Is Irregular

Wheat closed firm at the day's top prices, ⅝c to 1⅛c above Saturday's finish; corn, ⅛c to ¼c off to a shade advance; oats, unchanged to ¼c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 26.—Butter, cheese and eggs, which declined in price here last week, opened the new week yesterday unchanged from Saturday's level, but with a slightly firmer tone in the car-lot market.

Butter was quoted mostly 16½c per lb. for No. 1 in cariots or less, but some dealers were asking a fraction more. Jobbing houses quoted solids at 19c, and prints at 20c per lb. in small lots to retailers. Receipts were 325 boxes.

On the egg market the carlot or less range for graded Ontario eggs remained 16c to 16½c for extras, 14c to 14½c for firsts, and 12c to 12½c for seconds, with most sales at the higher figures. Receipts were 2,455 cases.

Cheese held around 10c per lb. for currents, and 12c to 12½c for summers. Receipts were 685 boxes.

The potato market held unchanged at Saturday's levels.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 26. — Late session strength at Chicago on predictions of colder weather and frost over South-west winter wheat areas offset bearish reports of soaking rains over Western Canada wheat lands in the grain pit yesterday. Values at the close were ⅛c to ⅜c higher.

May closed at 62⅝c, July at 64¾c, and October at 67¼c.

Some export trade was worked over the week-end, but no estimate was available. Opening lower on the strength of continued precipitation throughout the West the market settled to quiet trading in a narrow range for the greater part of the morning. Chicago led the way to higher levels near the close on predictions of colder weather, with frost threatening winter wheat areas.

An interesting feature of the export trade was the working of 100,000 bushels on a premium for its protein content. The wheat weighed 64 pounds to the measured bushel, with only 12 per cent. moisture and 15 per cent. protein. First sale to be made to Britain on this basis the sale suggests possibilities.

Cash wheat and coarse grains were dull with little change in the price.

PRISON DIET MUST BE LIGHT

Cost Around 17 Cents a Day to Feed Prisoners in Peterborough Last Year.

STRATFORD VERY LOW

Commenting on recent newspaper reports regarding the low cost of feeding jail inmates at Lindsay and Stratford, Colonel T. E. Johnston, governor of Peterborough County jail told The Examiner that while he could not quote specific figures at the present time, he could state definitely that the cost per man per day here was considerably higher. According to last year's jail report the cost per prisoner was around 17 cents here. That figure would probably show a reduction on the present year's operations.

Figures quoted in the press recently placed the cost at Stratford jail at 9.36 cents as the average cost per prisoner per day, and at Lindsay the figure quoted was 10.437 cents.

Colonel Johnston could not agree that the diet specified in the prison regulations could be provided at such low figures. He ventured to suggest that the low figure had probably been made possible as a result of having a large quantity of supplies on hand at the two jails referred to, at the end of the last year.

On two items alone the jail governor, said the cost per man per day was 8 1-3 cents. He referred to bread which is being supplied under contract by Wheeler's Bakery at 5 cents a loaf, and meat which is being provided also under contract by A. W. Jones, butcher of East City. The cost of vegetables, syrup, cereals, and tea or coffee has to be added also.

The cost of feeding jail inmates worked out last year at somewhere around 17 cents per prisoner per day, in spite of the fact that no vegetables had to be provided out of the jail appropriations.

It is an interesting fact that practically all the vegetables used at the jail are grown in the prison garden by prison labor, at no cost to the County. The cost of the seed is borne by the Governor himself, and the prisoners, he states, are glad of an opportunity to work out in the open, tilling and caring for the half acre or so of land.

Remarking upon conditions at the jail here during the winter just passed, the Governor said that the number of prisoners had been the lightest in all his four years of office. With accommodations for 24 prisoners, 18 males and 6 females, the average number during the winter has been 15. At the present time the jail is housing 14 males and 1 female.

Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner in London and former premier of Ontario, who testified before the inquiry. John Aird, Jr., to whom the payment of $125,000 by the Beauharnois corporation and $50,000 by the Hydro is under investigation, is shown in (5).

A Quick Way to.... Restore an Estate

ARE you among the thousands who have suffered from the great depression? Have you had to make a hurried survey of your financial position only to find that you are worth less by thousands of dollars than you were? Do you realize that death compels a liquidation of securities at current values?

How can that situation be met?

You can instantly restore your estate to a healthy basis by taking out more insurance. The sane way is to insure to the point of safety . . . at least.

Over five hundred million dollars of life insurance was taken out in the Sun Life Company last year—much of it by level-headed men who balanced their accounts by this simple method.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Recently I have heard conversations in which housewifes have asked of others just how certain things should be served, so to-day let us consider relishes, marmalades, conserves, fruit jellies and sauces.

• • • • • • •

The most approved ways are given, but it should be remembered that there is no hard and fast rule governing such service.

• • • • • • •

One does not commit an error, but shows a preference, when putting relishes, sauces, etc. on one dish or another. If the sauce is to go on separate sauce dishes, they are provided and the sauce served in them.

• • • • • • •

The filled sauce dishes may be on the table, one at each person's plate, or someone may help out the sauce into the dishes at a home meal and pass them around when the right time comes to have it. If the meal is formal the sauce is served by the butler or waitress, with the correct course.

• • • • • • •

Relish serving dishes, having several compartments, each one filled with a different sauce, pickle, or relish are in high favor.

• • • • • • •

The question of where shall the different things be put will be simplified if homemakers remember that bread and butter are not served at formal dinner, nor at those less formal where families follow prevailing customs.

• • • • • • •

There relishes, etc., therefore have no bread and butter plate on which to be put. They must go on the dinner plate or a separate sauce dish.

• • • • • • •

There are families who insist, except at formal dinners, on having bread and butter and therefore the plates are part of individual service articles.

• • • • • • •

Now it becomes a matter of consideration where to put relishes. Sauces such a cranberry sauce which accompanies turkey and chicken, applesauce which belongs with pork, etc. should go on the dinner plate and any relish which is so liquid that it will moisten bread if it were on the plate with it.

• • • • • • •

Such things as olives, gherkins and whole pickles go on the bread and butter plates. Conserves and jams are apt to be put there also. When, because of its consistency, jam or jelly it put on bread as it is eaten, use the butter spreader.

• • • • • • •

Never spread more than one morsel at a time. The reason why bread is broken and not bitten in separate mouthfuls is that the marks of the teeth should not be imprinted on the bread.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

162

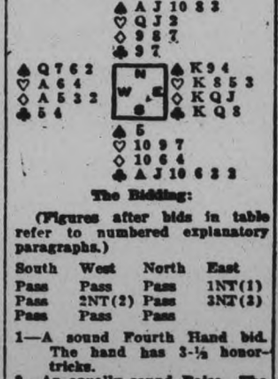
WHEN GREEK MEETS GREEK

An ancient proverb tells us that whenever two Greeks foregather there comes a tug of war. In Contract the same situation occurs when scintillating defense is opposed to brilliant attacking play. The winner in such combat knows that he has been in a fight, regardless of how the tide of battle may go, even as, I assume, the Greeks who gave birth to the proverb were men of mighty prowess when it came to doing things with a rope.

Today's hand is so replete with accurate play on the part of both the Declarer and the defending players that it is well worth the study even of an expert.

Both sides vulnerable.

South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	1NT(1)
Pass	2NT(2)	Pass	3NT(3)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A sound Fourth Hand bid. The hand has 3-½ honor-tricks.

2—An equally sound Raise. The hand has nearly 2-½ honor-tricks. Three notrump should not be bid as partner should be given some leeway.

3—A correct try for game.

South opened the club 6, North played the 9, and East permitted this card to hold. The lead of the Knave would have brought the same situation. This was a splendid play as East holds only a single stopper in the suit and his opponents must get in with both hearts and spades as they have stoppers in each suit. Perhaps North holds these key cards. It can do no harm to see.

North returned the club suit. South won with the Ace and cleared the suit. East then cashed his three high diamonds and led a small heart to the Dummy, winning with the Ace. North on this trick played the Knave. In view of the strength shown in clubs by South, East could place the Ace of spades in the North hand, otherwise South, with a six-card suit containing 1-½ honor-tricks and an outside Ace, would have had the strength to justify an Opening bid.

North's play of the heart Knave was the first step in an effort to create an entry for his partner to run his established clubs. North also had been doing some card placing and felt sure that his partner had no possible entry in spades. The Ace of diamonds in Dummy was led and on this all three discarded spades. A small heart was now led and North played the Queen to complete the unblocking and give his partner an entry with the Ten of hearts to cash his established tricks. It is, of course, clear that North did not know that South held the heart Ten but if he did not hold it then game was lost in any event. The unblocking play by North was very fine. East, however, still had a shot in his locker and refused to win the trick. Now North could do nothing but return a heart and East won two more heart tricks and then threw North in with a spade, thus establishing one spade for the game-going contract.

Both attack and defense were brilliant and accurate, and in this case, as usually happens, when sound strategy is combined with correct tactics, the gods of Bridge fought on the side of the heaviest battalions.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: What is the Rule of Eight?

Answer: Of the 13 tricks made in the play of a hand (by Declarer and opponents) 4 are won with Aces, about 4 with other honor cards, and the balance with lower cards.

Cigaret And Snuff Replacing Pipe, Cigar

LONDON, April 26. (AP)—The Britons' traditional pipe is succumbing to the cigaret.

Pipe-smoking decreased nearly 20 per cent. during the years 1924-30, the Trade Journal declares, and cigaret smoking increased 50 percent. The annual consumption of cigarets has risen to 45,898,982,400.

Cigar smoking has decreased 25 per cent. Snuff taking has increased nearly two-thirds.

De Valera's Measure Violation Of Treaty

LONDON, April 26 (A.P.)—President Eamon de Valera's Bill in the Irish Dail to abolish the oath of allegiance to the Crown is considered by the British Government to be a violation of the treaty which established the Irish Fee State, J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominions, told Parliament to-day.

Mr. De Valera has been informed of that viewpoint in clear and unmistakable terms, he said.

The Dail passed the bill on first reading without a division last week. It comes up for second reading tomorrow.

AVIATRIX TO DEDICATE LIFE STORY TO FIANCE

MIAMI, April 26.—Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, says she will dedicate her life story to her fiance, Haden Clarke, who was fatally wounded in her home as he collaborated with her in its preparation.

Mrs. Keith-Miller and Capt. W. Lancaster, her flying partner, were released from custody here after county officers investigated the case.

For the present, the woman flier said, she has no plans except to seek recovery from the mental strain incident to the death of Clarke. She will turn again to aviation as she seeks to reconstruct her life, she said, but she will make no distance flights or flights for record.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE COMMON COLD MAY MEAN QUARANTINE SOME DAY.

I believe the day will come when an individual with the ordinary "common cold" will be required to remain at home; that he will not be allowed to mingle with other people until his cold is better.

I know this doesn't seem fair to the individual and his family, or to his work or business, but some way may be found to repay him for the time lost by remaining at home.

As you know, the common cold is infectious and contagious and gets passed from one person to the other very easily and very rapidly. The little organism thought to be the cause of cold is very small. It is found in the secretions of the nose of the victims, who have acquired it directly or indirectly from some one else. The cold is transferred by sneezing, and from the articles handled, so that it is almost impossible to prevent colds attacking people.

A few years ago the common cold was just considered a nuisance or inconvenience, but when the time that is lost from work by those suffering with it is counted up, it would show that a great deal of time is lost, and much work left undone.

Further, as you know, some ailments never occur a second time in the same individual, but, with the cold, one attack only seems to break down resistance and other attacks follow every few weeks or months. And the unfortunate point is that these colds are often the forerunner of more serious ailments — bronchitis, broncho-pneumonia, and tuberculosis.

The best method of protection, according to the United States Public Health Service, for both the sick and the well, is for the patient with a cold to go home — to bed if necessary — and to stay there until he has recovered. The patient needs quiet, rest, and proper care, and he cannot obtain these in office, shop, or factory. While thus doing the best thing for himself, he is likewise adopting one of the best methods of protecting the general public.

Until the time comes when everybody with a cold will stay home, and that time hasn't arrived yet, the victim should cover every cough and sneeze and wash his hands many times a day.

Remember, constipation and overeating, besides cold damp weather, can make it easier for a cold to overcome your natural resistance.

A £5,000 Complexion

An Amazing New Idea In Face Powder

Scientific research has now revealed a simple easy way to make face powder stay on all day. This marvellous discovery will enable any woman to keep her complexion fresh and lovely—with not the slightest trace of shine—all through a whole evening when dancing in the hottest ballroom. The ingredient which makes this amazing difference is called mousse of cream, and the patent rights to its use have been acquired at enormous expense by Tokalon. Thus, Poudre Tokolan is the only genuine Mousse of Cream Face Powder. It gives a perfect complexion that is not affected by the worst windy or rainy weather. Every beauty prize winner for several years has used this particular kind of powder. Senorita Yolanda Pereira, Miss Universe 1930, declares: "This simple complexion secret enabled me to win £5,000 and helped make me Beauty Queen of the World."

FREE: By special arrangement with the manufacturers, any woman reader of this paper may now obtain a De Luxe Beauty Outfit containing popular shades of Tokalon "Mousse of Cream" Powder so that she may test them on her own face. The outfit also contains Crème Tokalon Skinfoods for both day and night use. Send 10 cents in stamps to cover cost of postage and packer, etc., to Agents in Canada: H. R. Handy Recipes

By Edith Barber

SCALLOPED OYSTERS.

Strain and wash one quart stewing oysters, reserving liquor. Take fine dry bread crumbs and season with celery salt, a little red pepper, salt and pepper. Dip oysters into bread crumbs as for frying. Butter baking dish. Put a layer of seasoned bread crumbs on bottom, then layers of oysters, bits of butter, spread over oysters layer of finely chopped celery, and so on, till the dish is full. Then two tablespoons cream and milk and two or three tablespoons oyster liquid; finally a layer of coarse bread crumbs and bits of butter. Bake in a moderate oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) twenty minutes.

STUFFED ONIONS.

12 onions
½ pound finely chopped uncooked lean beef
¼ cup melted butter.
1 cup bread crumbs
pepper
Salt
Parsley.

Prepare the onions as for baking and when they have boiled sufficiently, drain off the water. With a sharp knife slice off the top of each onion like a lid and scoop out nearly all of the inside with a teaspoon. Mix the chopped beef, bread crumbs, yolks of eggs, seasoning, and tablespoon of butter; then fill each onion with this preparation, replace the top and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) for three-quarters of an hour. By baking these in gem pans each onion will keep its shape. Pour the remainder of the melted butter over each when serving and garnish with parsley.

CAULIFLOWER POLONAISE

1 pound head cauliflower
2 quarts boiling water
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup fine bread crumbs
2 tablespoons hot butter.

Cook and drain the cauliflower in the serving dish and pour over it the fine bread crumbs, browned in the butter. Serve hot.

BROWN BETTY

3 cups diced stale bread
2 tablespoons butter
3 cups sliced apples
2 to 3 cups sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup water.

Mix the bread with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar, put a layer in a greased baking dish, add a layer of apples sprinkled with sugar mixed with cinnamon. Repeat until the material is used, having crumbs and sugar on top. Add water and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until the crumbs are browned and until the apples are cooked. Rhubarb or peaches may be used in place of the apples.

T. G. Rockstrom of Detroit writes: "I suffered with piles for over 25 years—nothing did me any good. After my fourth box of Peterson's Ointment I am nearly cured. It is the greatest Ointment I ever heard of. A big box costs only 50 cents at any drug store.

Could You use an extra bedroom?

Perhaps your home contains waste space that could be easily converted into useful rooms at small cost. It may be that you have space in the basement for an extra room, or, better still, in the attic. A little planning and a supply of Donnacona Insulating Board with the exclusive roughcast surface and you can add one or two attractive, livable rooms to your home at surprisingly low cost.

Lining attic spaces with Donnacona Insulating Board has a dual advantage. It gives you an extra room—it insulates your roof and brings down your heating costs. This saving will eventually repay you for the cost of the work. The convenience of the extra room will ultimately cost you nothing.

Consult your carpenter or contractor. Ask him to give you prices including the use of Donnacona and Peterborough Lumber Co., Ltd., quality lumber or flooring. We will gladly co-operate with him to give you a satisfactory job.

Braves-Cubs in Tie for National League Lead

PHILLIES BEAT BOSTON BRAVES IN 12TH FRAME

Ball Hits Runner to Retire Side and Give Philadelphia 4-3 Victory.

Indians Down Browns 10-5.

Cards Climb at Reds' Expense —Sixth Inning Rally Wins for St. Louis.

(By Gayle Talbot, A. P. Sports Writer)

The Boston Braves today had lost their undisputed hold on first place in the National League, and the responsibility could be traced almost directly to the fact that one of Bill McKechnie's men failed to duck.

Trailing the Phillies by one run in the last of the 12th yesterday, the Braves started what looked like one of their winning rallies. They got men on first and second with only one out. The next batter, Wes Schulmerich, belted a line single to right. It looked like the tieing wallop, at least.

But Wally Berger, tearing down to second, was hit by the "money ball" and went out automatically under an old major league dictum. Robert (Red) Worthington was held at second. There went the rally and with it the gall game, 4-3.

The Phils had scored what proved to be the winning run in the first of the 12th when relief pitcher Ben Cantwell lost control and presented them with three passes, the third with the corners crammed. Pinky Whitney led the winners' attack with a double and three singles, while Worthington kept the Braves in the game with a pair of home runs and a double.

The defeat, their first in seven starts, dropped the Braves into a tie for first with the idle Chicago Cubs, each with eight victories and three losses.

In the only other National league tilt that survived a day of widespread cold and rain, the St. Louis Cardinals received tight pitching from Bill Hallahan in the pinches to make it two straight from Cincinnati, 4-2.

Playing, without Pepper Martin, who will be out several weeks with a shoulder injury, the champions jumped on Red Lucas for four hits and three runs in the sixth inning. Jim Collins' double knocked a pair across. The veteran Harry Heilmann returned to the Reds' lineup after being out all last season and delivered a single.

The lone American League contest saw the Cleveland Indians take another from St. Louis, 10-5. Clint Brown held the Browns to six hits, one a homer by Dick Ferrell. The Indians collected 12 off three home pitchers, including Sam Gray, and were helped along by four St. Louis errors. Jenkins' muff of Brown's pop fly let three runs across in the ninth.

PONIES FIELD STRONG ROSTER

Kingston Club Looms as Team to Beat for C.O.B.L. Title This Year.

PROPOSED SCHEDULE.

The Kingston Ponies, who won the Central Ontario Baseball League championship last year, appear to be the team to beat this season. With the exception of Peterborough, no other team in the league has started organizing so early or so completely. Cobourg is an unknown quantity this year, but is not expected to prove of championship calibre, due to having been out of senior baseball for some time. Belleville, with a mixture of veterans and youngsters, may surprise all by finishing in their accustomed place in the play-offs, but such does not seem the case as yet.

The Petes will be much stronger than last year, and have an excellent chance of copping the silverware. But first they must beat the Ponies, which is likely to be no easy task. Manager Frank Smith plans to hold outdoor workouts this week for his large squad. The new Kingston diamond at the Fair Grounds is under way, and will be completed shortly.

Following some internal trouble with the Kingston club last fall, after winning the C.O.B.L. title, the club has been completely reorganized. The interest taken in the new Pony outfit is apparent by the fact that three aldermen are on the executive, including President Alderman George Joyce. The others are Aldermen Cliff Reynolds and Tommy Andre. Manager Frank Smith is also in charge of four intermediate and four junior teams in Kingston this summer, thus being enabled to draw the best of his minor league talent at will. His ability as a ball manager was proven last summer when his Ponies came up fast at the last to enter the play-offs with the strong and confident Belleville team, and win out. He believes his chances this year are better than ever.

Several Twirlers.

Some of the twirlers available for the Kingston squad this year are Hooley Smith, Yammy Jamieson, Hewitt Smith, Tommy Goodfrey, Chuck Furnier, Bunny Goodfriend, and Pat Campbell. The catchers are Jim Arneil, Eddie Foxton, and Bernie Tetro. Infielders so far lined up include Abber Joyce, Brick Stone, Lonnie Purvis, Jake Quinn, Don Nicholls, Mickey Compeau, and Tom Boyd. Smith has a bunch of good outfielders, among whom are Ted Scrutton, Bob Elliott, George Clark, and Vinny McQuade.

5 TEAMS ENTER SOFTBALL LOOP

Much Pre-seasonal Business Done at Annual Meeting of City Association.

SCHEDULE OPENS MAY 23.

Walter Firth was elected president of the Men's City Softball League for 1932 at the annual meeting held in Duffus' last night. Ted Lebarr was unanimously re-elected vice-president, and Dave Leether was again voted in as secretary-treasurer unanimously. With a good turnout present, considerable pre-seasonal business was cleared up.

Five teams were entered for this summer, Sugar Bowl, All Saints, Toronto Star, Red & White, and The Examiner. The entry date closes at the next league meeting, May 2nd. Entrance fee this year will be ten dollars again, half to be refunded at the end of the season, with all of it being returned if the league finances warrant it. The schedule will open on May 23rd.

The treasurer's report showed a substantial balance over from last year. The secretary read an exhaustive report on the Toronto O.A.S.A. convention, dealing mostly with new rules and amendments. The complete softball rules, compiled this year for the first time, have been sent to the local league. One point emphasized last night was that no man connected as a player or official with a club could act as officer of the league to which that club was affiliated. The new balk rule, similar to that of baseball, was also pointed out.

Must Have Amateur Cards

Players must have amateur cards this season, all of them to be into the local secretary by July 2nd, while managers of every team must turn in nine players' certificates by the first game. The election of officers then followed. The name of R. M. Glover was added to those of J. E. Sullivan, W. H. Taylor and W. J. Oke as Honorary Presidents. With the withdrawal of Fred Scates as a presidential candidate, three were nominated, Harry McFadden, William Bennett and Walter Firth. The latter was elected. Both Ted Lebarr, as vice-president, and Dave Leether, as secretary-treasurer, were re-elected by acclamation.

Besides the officers, the Executive Committee is composed of William Bennett, George Dormer, Fred Scates and Percy Harrison. The question of obtaining Central School grounds was left to Dave Leether and Walter Firth, who will apply to the chairman of the Property Committee.

Groundkeeper Appointed

The entry fee of ten dollars was then decided upon, half to be refunded, and all if the league is on a good financial basis at the end of the season. It was decided to set a closed date for entries early, May 2nd being agreed upon. There was some discussion upon the opening date for the schedule, some holding out for the middle of May and others for later in the month. A ballot decided the date as May 23rd. Vincent Stewart was again appointed groundkeeper.

The matter of new wire netting for the backstop was left to the secretary who will attend to any improvements necessary for the grounds. The question of umpires, schedule, entry fees, and other matters was left over till the next league meeting, May 2nd. The session was then adjourned.

The Daddy Of Them All

Managers may come and managers may go but Trainer Tom Daly goes on forever. Tom has the enviable record of being trainer for the Toronto Maple Leaf Ball Club for 26 years, off and on. To go along with this achievement is his continuous record with the Toronto Maple Leaf Hockey Club of the National League since that club started many years ago as the St. Patrick's Hockey Club. In his younger days Tom had quite a record as an amateur boxer, and he was good, so they say. When members of the club are asked about Tom Daly there is only one answer, "Tom Daly, why there wouldn't be any ball club without Tom." The Daddy of the Club, he delights in looking after the rookies and his encouragement lightens many a dark day. Wherever you find Tom, you will find a crowd for he is the world's champion story teller, as well as being the champion rummy player of the train squad. Easy going, happy-go-lucky, you will always find this grand chap, sitting on the players bench, during the game, polishing up the baseballs and tossing them out faster than the ump can throw them in. By the way, the manager of the Leafs Baseball Club has the same name as their trainer, Tom Daly.

BEARS DEFEAT ROYALS 1 TO 0

Youthful Newark Rookie Holds Montreal Sluggers to Three Hits.

GAMES POSTPONED.

(By The Associated Press)

To Floyd Newkirk three-fingered right hander of the Newark Bears, goes the distinction of pitching the finest game of the young International league season.

The Newark rookie, just up from the Eastern league, made his debut as a starting pitcher yesterday and blanked the Montreal Royals, 1-0, with three hits.

Those three safeties were scattered over as many innings and to make his performance all the more sensational, Newkirk did not walk a man and struck out eight. He pitched to only 29 batsmen, a double play erasing one of Montreal's safe hitters.

Gowell Claset hurled well enough for Montreal to win nine out of ten ball games but for the second time this season was beaten because of the hitting impotence of his teammates. He lost a 1-0 decision to Reading in the Royal's second game this season was beaten because of the hitting impotence of his teammates. He lost a 1-0 decision to Reading in the Royals' second game of the season. At that time he hooked up in a duel with Chuck Willis when the reading southpaw was at his best. Claset allowed only seven hits yesterday but Newark broke through for one run in the second inning and that was all that was needed.

Newkirk came up to the Bears from Albany where he won 12 games and lost 12 with a second division outfit last year. He pitched 17 complete games, fanned 101 batsmen in 206 innings and ranked in a tie for 12th place in the earned run list.

Cold and wet weather forced postponement of all other league games yesterday.

TORONTO BALL CLUB MANAGER ON SEARCH FOR NEW PLAYERS

Tom Daly Visits Philadelphia —Team Needs Bolstering Quickly.

WEAK IN PITCHING.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 26. — That the Leafs need bolstering and need it quickly if they are to be a factor in the International League pennant scramble, is the opinion of Manager Tom Daly, who isn't satisfied by a jugful with the way his hirelings have been taking it on the chin since the flag race got under way.

It's no secret that Daly isn't at all pleased with the way his athletes have been playing ball, and he has more than one line out for replacements that will result in a rather thorough revamping of his personnel.

The team isn't hitting and it isn't getting the pitching, and no team can go far with pronounced weaknesses in either of these departments. It doesn't seem natural to see the Leafs bringing up the rear of the procession with nearly two weeks of the season over, but at least three clubs of the loop are strong this year, and Toronto must get going shortly or be content to drift along in the second division all year.

In the four games against the Orioles, three of which have resulted in victories for the Birds, the Leafs have only made a total of 32 hits—an average of eight a game, and most of that batting was in spots and untimely in nature.

Pitching Notably Weak.

The pitching hasn't been top-notch, for only one flinger has gone the route. That was Truett Sewell who pitched the nightcap yesterday and that only required a six-inning effort. Sewell wasn't any great shakes and was hit hard in two innings with the bases clogged.

In the other three games the Leafs used three hurlers in two of them and a pair in the other, which would seem to show that all is not serene in the Toronto encampment.

Guy Cantrell up to date has been the only Leaf pitcher to take a decision from the Birds, and he blew up in the ninth inning of the first game. It was eventually kept on the right side of the ledger after Milligan, who had replaced Cantrell, had walked one batter only to be promptly withdrawn, the veteran Frank Barnes finally subduing the Flock.

Daly hoped that Mark Koenig, the infield-pitcher from Detroit, would give the team a boost, but it was reported that Koenig didn't relish coming to the Leafs, and now his departure for the Mission Club of the Coast League is announced.

But Daly hasn't lost hope that he will be able to whip a stronger outfit together.

"Nobody knows better than I our deficiencies," he declared, "and it will be my business to remedy them if I can. We've made a poor showing so far, and I am far from satisfied with the way the team has been playing ball. Neither the hitting nor the pitching has been good and there have been costly errors in the field. We are in the market for a number of men and expect to get some real assistance shortly."

Proposed Schedule

The proposed Central Ontario Baseball League schedule as drawn up at the meeting in Kingston Saturday, but not as yet officially adopted by the league, follows:

May 24—Kingston at Belleville; Peterborough at Cobourg.
May 26—Cobourg at Kingston.
June 3—Cobourg at Peterborough; Belleville at Kingston.

TRUCE LIKELY GRAPPLE WAR

Prospective Match Between Jim Londos and Henri De Glane Appears in Offing.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM.

NEW YORK, April 26 (C.P.)—A truce between the warring camps of wrestling promotion was in sight to-day and in the offing appeared a prospective match between Jim Londos and Henri De Glane.

Ed. White, manager of the statuesque Greek who headlines the troupe controlled by Jack Curley, is waving the olive branch in the face of none other than Paul Bowser, chief of the so-called left wing of the grappling horde.

De Glane, heavyweight title claimant as the result of an awarded victory last year over Ed "Strangler" Lewis in Montreal, ranks No. 1 in the Bowser faction.

White informed the Boston mat mogul he would match Londos with De Glane and two former title claimants, Ed Don George and Gus Sonnenberg. It was suggested the London-De Glane meeting be held in Montreal, out of which city the Frenchman operates.

White's program is even more ambitious. With a world of confidence in his star, he proposes further that Londos meet Lewis, probably in Los Angeles, and wind up the campaign with a match featuring the Greek and Dick Shikat. The Philadelphia German lost his title claim to Londos on June 6, 1930, and since then James has carefully manoeuvred out of a return meeting with Richard.

Opinion here is that Bowser is likely to accept the proposal from the "enemy" camp. It is the belief that Bowser's chain is not as strong as formerly. Some of his Behemoths are reported restless. Joe Devito, who was tossed by Londos last night, and Mihaly Orgovanyi have recently hurdled right out of the Bowser fold into the Curley camp.

If the plans go through, the Londos-De Glane match would probably be held soon, for White plans to have the Shikat-London tumbling act staged in the new Madison Square Garden Bowl at Astoria, L.I., before the approaching outdoor season ends.

Riley and Hickey's Win Cressman Cup By Defeating Primeau's 62-36.

Riding roughshod over Primeau's in the second half of the final basketball play-off game in the "Y" last night, Riley & Hickey's clinched the Senior League championship and captured the Cressman Cup, by defeating Primeau's 62-36. It was their second win in the three-game series. The losers cracked in the last half of the game after holding the Riley squad to a hard-fought draw in the first chapter.

A large-sized gallery witnessed the hectic struggle, which was close classy and exciting, until the Fashion-Crafters went to pieces with the victors completing the rout by a sweeping offensive that carried all before. The count was 22-22 going into the second stanza, but the Primeaumen could only get 14 points in this part while the champions found the mark with monotonous regularity to collect another 40 points.

Little difference was apparent in the two strong senior teams during the initial session, both playing a fine class of cage sport. In the final go, however, the R. & H. team showed much superiority in every department, their teamplay, checking and shooting being of the best. The other side tried gamely to stem the tide of baskets, but could not seem to get going right again. Armstrong played a fine game for them, getting 18 points, with Routly next with eight. McKeagan and Chesler each had four and Taylor counted two.

Kitchen, Mott, Levine and Stanger were outstanding for the victors, though every player shared in their impressive win. Kitchen ran in 20 points, followed by Mott with 18 McLeod and Stanger three apiece and Swartz with two. The teams:

Primeau's Fashion-Craft: E. McKeagan, C. Routley, L. Chesler, A. Ward, J. Smith, V. Armstrong and W. Taylor.

Riley & Hickey's: Z. Levine, H. Mott, M. Swartz, R. Kitchen, H. McLeod, N. Stanger and R. Sager.

Referee: H. Macdonald; umpire: A. Reynolds; scorer: J. Cooper; timekeeper: Doug. Loomis.

Sale Of Jersey Club To Brooklyn Delayed

NEW YORK, April 26.—Sale of the Jersey City Skeeters to the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club was delayed yesterday by a last-minute disagreement between officials of the two clubs.

Brooklyn directors and Sam Colocurcio, owner of the International League club, met at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, to close the deal, but there was a "misunderstanding over a minor matter."

After a conference, a Brooklyn spokesman announced that the transfer "unquestionably will be concluded within a couple of days."

CASUAL COMMENT

The men softballers came to bat last night in their first meeting of the year, and waded through some important work. Walter Firth got the duke as president this year, succeeding Fred Scates, who retired to run The Examiner team. Other entries in so far are Red & White, All Saints, Toronto Star and Sugar Bowl.

• • • • • • •

Percy Harrison is handling the Red & White crew, which rumor hath it will be plenty strong. The Toronto Star outfit was entered by Dick Cowan and will likely have some of the Keo Kids on it, the bunch that played a lot of softball around Chemong last summer. Sugar Bowl and The Examiner both look good on paper, with All Saints something of a dark horse yet. They finished strong last year.

• • • • • • •

The next session is called for next Monday night, and all entries must be in then, and no fooling. No late comers accepted as the loop executives will be satisfied with six teams this season. Players are advised to read up the new rules such as that concerning balks, so as to cut down on dumb plays and useless arguments when the schedule gets under way.

• • • • • • •

For some reason or other, the classy Westclox team won't be in this year, and most of their players are already picked up by other managers. Jake Beckerman's antics on the coaching line will be missed by the fans, although he will likely be somewhere in the crowd. At this time of year, it looks as if the five or six teams composing the men's circuit will be much more evenly-balanced and stronger than was the case last summer. And that won't do the league a bit of harm.

• • • • • • •

Softball is a good game and has its big followings, cutting in some on baseball. With the smaller ball, the game has been speeded up to the point where players must show plenty of skill to play in an organized league. Speed and action spell success to any game these days.

• • • • • • •

It's getting around time for the Girls' Softball League to organize too. No use waiting until a couple of weeks before they are due to start playing. There's always a number of details which take time to be handled before the outdoor work starts. The smarter managers are lining the fair players up now, and not waiting until after the annual meeting.

• • • • • • •

The annual meeting of the Church Softball League will be held on Friday evening at 6.30 in the Public School Inspectors' Office in the Court House. The election of officers, entries of teams, setting of entry and schedule dates, etc., will be some of the business handled. Indications point to more teams in than ever, and there were ten in last year. Everyone interested is advised to attend.

• • • • • • •

And, speaking of meetings, the box lacrosse session this p.m. at 7.30 in the Chamber of Commerce should be interesting. Efforts are being made to have a team entered from the four main sections of the city. Brintons will represent the south-end, and something of the others may be heard to-night. Here's hoping for a big turnout.

• • • • • • •

Ben Stookley of the Premier Club, Toronto, will bring George Prince and Cliff Rhamey down here on Friday for their bouts with Amato and Woods of the Parkdale A.C., run by Billy Green, in the amateur show put on by the Alpha Club under the direction of Gord Garwood, with the proceeds going to the local War Veterans. These four Toronto pugs are prominent Ontario mittsers, and will go big in the main two scraps.

• • • • • • •

Some of the local boys to be seen in action will be: Roy Hope, Art Hunter, Danny Harrington, Jack Watson, Earl Smith, Keith Jarvis, "Dutch" McIlmoyle, and George Spavis, the latter a 118-pound boy from Barrie. The program is not completed yet, and there may be a few changes, but most of these local boys will be in there, and the card looks like a "natural."

In connection with that Turret Cigarette Hockey Contest last winter, a private contest was run off for sports editors of Canadian dailies. Three prizes were offered for one estimate of the goals scored by each N.H.L. team. A. R. Dingman, Vancouver Province, won first money, a century; Fred Beaudry, Kingston Whig-Standard, got $75 for second place, while Archie Murray, Regina Leader-Post, received twenty-five berries for third.

• • • • • • •

The regular Turret Contest results will be published in this paper in a few days' time. More than 470,000 people sent in over 3,380,000 estimates, from the frozen wastes of the Arctic to the southern border, and from ocean to ocean. It proved to be the most popular advertising campaign attempted in years, showing what a hold sports have everywhere.

The senior baseball club executive meets this evening at 7.30 at the Y.M.C.A. Various matters pertaining to the local club will be brought up and threshed out. Meanwhile, the nightly practices of the prospective players will continue at the "Y" at seven.

May Retire Within 10 Years, Says Star

NEW YORK, April 26 (A.P.)—Helen Wills Moody may consider retirement from tennis competition in ten years. Then again she may not.

The undisputed queen of world tennis, here for only a brief visit before she sails for another invasion of Europe, smilingly denied she was ready to quit the game, as reports have had it at intervals during the past year or two.

"I should say that perhaps after ten years more I shall retire," Mrs. Moody said when reporters put the inevitable question.

Mrs. Moody's European invasion again has three major objectives: the French and British championships, and the Wightman Cup matches.

BOWLERS TO MEET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Representatives From District to be Present at Meeting of Central Ontario Association.

The annual meeting of the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association is to be held at the Club House, Peterborough, tomorrow evening at eight o'clock. Representatives from clubs at Port Hope, Cobourg, Brighton, Lindsay, Cannington, Stirling, Hastings, Norwood, Campbellford and Peterborough will be present. Plans for friendly and competitive bowling in the Central Ontario group will be discussed.

There has been a good deal of thought put into the matter of getting the best sport out of the Central Association, and the subject will be discussed thoroughly by the different delegates and perhaps new ideas advanced. All local bowlers are invited to attend tomorrow night's meeting, and give the association the benefit of their views. The bowling season is rapidly approaching and everything should be made ready in the way of plans for a successful season in this sport.

Davis And Benson Winners In Doubles

Alice Davis and Ormond Benson won the mixed doubles tournament, which was held in Knox church during the past week. After winning the semi-final from Roy McDonald and Willian. Wedlock in two out of three close games, they won the final game from May Pollock and Norm Hughes in no uncertain style.

The following are the results, with the number after the names being the handicap allotted.

First Round.

A. Charlton and A. Wedlock won from K. Benson and G. Wallace (1), 16-13,16-5.

M. Pollock and N. Hughes won from V. Huffman and G. Morrison (1), 13-15, 16-13, 16-14.

FOUR TORONTO MITTERS HERE

Plans Going Ahead for Outstanding Amateur Card on Friday Night.

BEST OF LOCALS.

Plans are going right ahead for an outstanding amateur boxing card at the Legion Hall this Friday evening. It is being put on for the benefit of needy War Veterans of Peterborough under the auspices of the Alpha Club. Four Toronto mittsers and boxers from the local clubs will make up a well-balanced eight-bout card.

Paul Amato, Ontario middleweight champ, of the Parkdale A.C., meets a classy lightheavyweight in George Prince, of the Premier Club. Amato is a clever boxer but likes to mix and has the durability of a Bat Nelson. The semi-final is a grudge scrap between Art Woods, who fought four bitter rounds before bowing to Genovese in the Hamilton finals last week, and Cliff Rhamey, outstanding Premier 135-pounder. Rhamey was runner-up in the Toronto semi-finals and he and Woods have a strong dislike for each other, acording to their managers.

Some of the local scrappers who have promised to appear in this show are Roy Hope, Art Hunter, Jack Watson, Dan Harrington, Earl Smith, Keith Jarvis, "Dutch" McIlmoyle and George Spavis, who is a newcomer from Barrie, at 118 pounds. These Peterborough fighters and others from here will be pared off to-day or tomorrow, with full particulars later. With the class on the proposed show and the good cause represented it is expected the largest indoor crowd of the year will attend.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"ONE HOUR WITH YOU"

With the beautiful Jeanette MacDonald and the smiling Maurice Chevalier as headliners, this is a zippy French farce with a musical setting. It takes that beloved theme of the face-makers, marital complications, and plays the strings with many a sidelong quip and implication.

It has something new in the manner in which the central figures step out of the action every once in awhile, to explain the story. They pause long enough to speak directly to the listeners, then step back into the story. And there are numerous interludes where the conversation rhymes, in a poetical manner that is quite enticing.

Chevalier and his lady love, the Monsieur and Madam Bertier of the tale, have some lovely solo songs and duetts, in "One Hour With You", "What You Do" and "Three Times a Day", the latter sung by Chevalier and the sprightly Genevieve Tobin, who is the blonde charmer Mitsi enticing Andre away from the straight and narrow path.

Roland Young, in a characterization where a sort of semi-tragic, humour (and, by the way, although very meticulous in the matter of speech, Mr. Young in this picture pronounces "humour" with a distinct "you" sound on the first syllable) is somewhat foreign to his usual role, is extremely effective, however, as the wronged husband, while Charlie Ruggles is Colette's heavy admirer.

Colette (Jeanette Macdonald) saves her face in unique fashion. When she finds that her husband has taken a little flyer in romance with her very best friend, she summons an affair with Adolf as the remedy and all ends happily.

Those who like sprightly and not too careful French farce will enjoy "One Hour With You" immensely. The singing captain of police and his chorus of policemen give the picture its flavor by their opening song.

ZaSu Pitts and her side kick, Thelma Todd, have the parts in a comedy that pictures their adventures in search of a royal seal.

—Jeanette.

Badminton Series To Open At Montreal

TORONTO, April 26. — (By the Canadian Press.)—Four outstanding badminton stars will open a series of international matches in Montreal Saturday, with the second game of the series to be played in Toronto on May 4.

Jack Purcell and W. W. Aikman, two of Canada's finest players, will meet W. F. Devlin, Winnipeg, and W. B. Jones, Montreal, in the challenge series. Devlin and Jones were both leaders among the players of the British Isles.

In each match, the four expect to play four singles and one set of doubles.

Devlin, now residing in the west, is well known to Ontario badminton enthusiasts for his brilliant play as a member of two teams of British players who toured Canada in 1925 and 1930 under the captaincy of Sir George Thomas. Jones is a former captain of the Welsh international team. Between them, the four participants have held all the important badminton title, and the series has aroused wide interest.

Blue Petes Defeat Westclox 12 To 8

Preceding the men's play-off game in the Y.M.C.A. last night, two Y.W. girl's teams played an exhibition basketball game, with Blue Petes defeating Westclox 12-8, after a fast, close contest. Mary Brooks shoved in eight points for the victors, Hasel Bradley getting the other four. For the Alarm Girls, G. Mortimer counted four, with M. Ferguson and D. Routley each getting two.

The girls on the Blue Petes team, junior champions of the Ladies' Basketball League this winter, were presented with the winners' individual pins last night by Alderman George Macdonald. The teams:

Blue Petes: G. Sorby, A. Mark, P. McClelland, M. Brooks, H. Bradley, L. Lundy, R. Milliard and M. Harvey.

Westclox: M. Ferguson, G. Mortimer, E Merrett, L. Chartren, P. Puddick, M. Terrace and D. Routley.

Steele Is Winner In Toronto Match

TORONTO, April 26.—Ray Steele was at his best against Joe Cox in Toronto charity show last night, working most of his special holds and defences. Cox put up good opposition and had Steele's shoulders shading the mat several times, while he mixed willingly in the heavy exchanges. Steele ended the match with a series of elbow jabs and smashes in 24 minutes.

The second match of the night supplied the weird ending when Ali Hassen and Tony Catalina continued battling after the referee left the ring and another official had to rush in from a ringside seat to stop the fight. After they had tangled in a wild anything-goes type of bout, with the fans really enjoying the fun, Referee Osborne tapped Catalina on the back as victor, with Hassen apparently pinned. The wrestlers were as much puzzled at the decision as the fans, and in the confusion they started to scrap again. Osborne tried to separate them, and when he could not get them apart he threw up his hands and left the ring. Both continued battling until Referee Forbes stumbled in to restore peace.

Gino Garibaldi and John Katen put on a rugged mixing match before Garibaldi clipped the big Canadian with a good old-fashioned kick on the chin and then proceeded to throw him around for a fall. Katan roughened up the bout tossing the rugged Garibaldi in heavy slams, and he had a good share of the points before he took it on the chin. At one time both rolled out of the ring and resumed their battling on the hard cement of the Arena floor, but a little thing like cold cement is nothing in the life of a grappler. Results:

Opener, one fall 30 minutes—Gino Garibaldi, 215 pounds, won from John Katan, 210 pounds, in 17.13.

Second bout, one fall, 30 minutes—Tony Catalina, 210 pounds, won from Ali Hassen, 203 pounds, in 12.39.

Third bout, one fall, 10 minutes—Hap Day, 184 pounds, drew with Red Horner, 184 pounds.

Fourth bout, one fall, one hour—George Zarynoff, 196 pounds, won from Pat McGill, 226 pounds, in 26.50.

Fifth bout, one fall, one hour. —Ray Steele, 216 pounds, won from Joe Cox, 212 pounds, in 24.06.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

ALIKE BUT NOT RELATED.

Relationships don't count at all;
By what you do you stand or fall.
—Paddy the Beaver

"Some people think I am your little cousin," said Jerry Muskrat to Paddy the Beaver as they sat on the roof of Paddy's house, where Mrs. Paddy had just joined them. "I suppose that is because we live alike in many ways. We both spend most of our time in the water. We both are good swimmers and can stay under water for some time. We both build houses in the water in much the same way. So I suppose it is natural for others to think we are cousins. I wonder if we are. I would like to think we are."

"You belong to the Rat family, don't you?" said Paddy, making a statement and asking a question at the same time.

"Yes," replied Jerry, nodding his head. "Yes, I belong to the Rat family."

"Well, I don't," declared Paddy in a most decided tone of voice. "My family is the Beaver family and it stands alone. I take it you are a cousin of Robber the Rat, who I am told is an outcast."

"Yes," admitted Jerry, somewhat unwillingly. "Yes, Robber, is a cousin of mine of whom I am very much ashamed."

"Don't let that bother you," replied Paddy promptly. "Forget it. It is what we ourselves are, not what our relatives are, that counts. Robber the Rat may be a thief, dirty in his habits, an outcast among all respectable people, but what has that to do with you? If you are honest, hard working, commanding the respect of your neighbors, it doesn't matter what your relatives are or may do."

"But it does!" protested Jerry.

Paddy shook his head vigorously. "No, it doesn't. You only think it does," he declared. "If Robber the Rat is as bad as they say he is it does you no harm, because you are honest and industrious, and everybody knows it. That doesn't help him a bit. No more should you allow what he may do hurt you. You say you would like to think that I am your big cousin. What good would it do you?"

"No real good," confessed Jerry, "only you are so wonderful and do such wonderful things that I would be proud to know that we were related."

"If you must be proud about something be proud that we are friends. You'll get exactly as much good out of it," replied Paddy. "You have a lot of relatives, haven't you?"

Jerry nodded. "I should say so!" he exclaimed. "I can't begin to keep

"You belong to the Rat family, don't you?" said Paddy.

track of them. The Rat family is a big family and I suppose I am the biggest member. My nearest cousin is Danny Meadow Mouse. They tell me that excepting for size, we look something alike, but I can't see it myself. Don't you think it odd that if you and I are not relatives we should be so much alike in the way we live?"

"Not at all," replied Paddy promptly. "We both happen to have sense enough to live in the water and in order to live there we have learned to do many things alike. That is all there is to it. I'll venture to say that you wouldn't be happy away from the water for any length of time, and I know I wouldn't. We must have water in order to be happy and we must have water in order to be safe. Old Mother Nature has taught us how to live in the water and has fitted us for that sort of life. So we are somewhat alike as a result but being alike doesn't make us related. Just look at my tail. No Rat ever had a flat tail like this."

"My tail is flat," spoke up Jerry quickly.

"But not like mine," replied Paddy promptly. "Yours is flattened on the sides and isn't so very big. But just look at this great paddle of a tail of mine! There isn't another tail like it in all the Great World so far as I know. Certainly no member of the Rat family has one like it. No ,we are not related. I am not your big cousin, but if you like I will be your big friend."

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If April 26th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8.35 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 1.30 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 9 p.m. to 10.15 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12.30 p.m., and from 4.30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Curious influences will be in force on April 26th and it will greatly depend upon the individual, whether the cards of Fortune are to be played for success or failure. Much emotional activity, with either attendant irirtability or unusual hilarity.

Children born on this April 26th will have careful, prudent natures, and will not be given to extravagant adventures—theirs will be a safety-first policy all through life. They will be lacking in adaptability, and will seek well charted paths. They will be very affectionate.

Born on April 26th your personal quallifcations include a broad outlook, a sense of humor, and a sympathetic understanding of human nature. You exhibit at all times a willingness to learn. Not content to let well enough alone, you are always thinking and planning how to improve existing conditions. You are quick to adopt and to adapt, if it is to your benefit to do so.

You are so capable of appreciating and understanding the artistic things of life, and you can revel in dreams of imagination. On the other hand, you are no fool in the business and commercial world, and you quickly desert your castles in the air when it is necessary to come to earth and deal with the practical bread and butter side of life. There are few who have had the pleasure of "putting one over" on you. You are shrewd but never tricky. You want your share of the good things in life, but you only wish to gain them through honorable methods, and you only want that which you deserve. If you make silly mistakes, you never try to shift the blame on to other shoulders.

You have a sunny smile and optimistic temperament for 'every day" use, but nature also gave you a spice of temper and a shadow of irritability to be used on occasion.

Two Killed When Vandals Wreck Train

BOYS TAMPERING WITH SWITCH BLAMED.

Boys tampering with the switch are believed to have caused the wreck of the Norfolk and Western express, near Portsmouth, O., early in the morning of April 21. Two members of the train crew were killed, but none of the passengers was seriously hurt. The locomotive and several cars were derailed. This photograph was taken after the arrival of the wrecking crews

Queensboro

Seventy young people, some twenty being present from Hassard's Corners made up the group for the temperance evening held at Fox's United Church, Eldorado on Friday evening.

Miss Mutton, president of the Hassard's society took charge and called on Mrs. Mark Howard, who gave a talk on the topic, "Is Moderate drinking a handicap." Miss Francis Harris and Raymond Gunsolus provided a questionaire which was very convincing. Dennis Chapman sang, "Drifting" to the delight of all. Miss Annie McCoy gave a paper entitled, "Two Glasses." Miss Mutton gave an illustrated blackboard talk entitled, "The Key to Failure."

Mrs. Newall Broad gave a talk on the sayings of noted men regarding the use of liquor.

Rev. J. F. Everson spoke on temperance laws in Japan and compared them with the liquor laws of Ontario.

Misses Alma Keene, Francis Harris, Freda and Annie McCoy beautifully rendered a quartet selection. Mrs. Hinchcliffe conducted a contest called, U-Auto-Know.

A three act play entitled "Beads on a string" was given by local talent in the Orange Hall, here on Friday evening under the auspices of L.O.B.A. No. 455.

The cast of characters was, Bennie Davis and Zezales Davis, Mr. Kenneth Sager; J. H. Davis, Thomas Lynn; Benjamin Davis, Allen Love; Harold Beem, John Thompson; Abram Dinkler, Earl Sager; Mrs. J. H. Davis, Miss Jennie Thompson; Mollie Mallerton, Mrs. Allen Love; Jeanette Blue, Mabel Sager and Cleopatria Johnson, Mrs. Goldwin Holmes.

The committee retained the import tax on coal voted by the house of representatives.

TWO CIVIL CASES BEEN SETTLED

Case Against City of Peterborough Settled Counsel Announce.

MOTOR DAMAGE ACTION.

Two cases set for hearing before Chief Justice Rose in the Supreme Court of Ontario were announced to have been settled by J. A. O'Brien, counsel in both actions, when the court opened its session yesterday afternoon at the court house.

One of these, a claim for $1,000, brought against the City of Peterborough by Daniel Kirby, local mechanic, for damages alleged to have been suffered when Kerby slipped on the ice-coated sidewalk at the corner of Dalhousie and Reid streets on January 27 last and fractured his leg. John R. Corkery, city solicitor, was appearing in the suit for the Corporation. He refused to state the sum fixed in the settlement.

The other claim settled out of court was the $25,000 suit for damages brought against W. E. Cooper, merchant and ex-mayor of Cobourg, by John Lesurf, of this city. Lesurf suffered grievous injuries to his right leg while riding in a truck owned by Cooper and Leslie Jolly, when the car got beyond Jolly's control near Colborne on October 7, 1931, and crashed into the ditch.

BY-ELECTION IN ST. MARYLEBON IS WARMING INTO REAL BATTLE

Capt. H. Philipson and Wife Both M.P.'s Take Opposite Sides.

NO LABORITE RUNNING.

LONDON, April 26 (C.P.).—Husband and wife, each politicians of some celebrity, are supporting opposite sides in the by-election in St. Marylebone, where polling takes place on Thursday. Capt. Hilton Philipson, national-liberal member of the house of commons for Berwick-on-Tweed for a brief period from November, 1922, is actively campaigning on behalf of Capt. Alec Cunningham-Reid, conservative candidate.

And Mrs. Hilton Philipson, better known as Mabel Russell, who was herself a conservative member of the house of commons for Berwick-on-Tweed from 1923 to 1929, is working for Sir Basil Blackett, unofficial conservative candidate and former chairman of Imperial and International communications, Ltd.

Capt. Reid and Sir Basil Blackett are the only candidates for the seat vacant by the resignation of Sir Rennell Rodd, conservative, who was elected by an overwhelming majority in this traditionally conservative seat in the last general elections.

No Letter of Support.

Neither Capt. Reid, who is the choice of the local conservative caucus, nor Sir Basil, who was suggested by the central conservative office, have received the customary letter of support from either Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald or Stanley Baldwin, conservative leader. Sir Basil has declared he will withdraw and let Capt. Reid have an acclamation if Capt. Reid is supported by Mr. Baldwin.

The by-election is warming into a real battle and angry recriminations are being exchanged. Sir Basil's supporters charge that a thousand of their campaign posters have been obliterated by Capt. Reid's forces.

The Laborite voters in the constituency, who recorded 6,147 votes for Dr. E. A. Whitfield in 1931 while Sir Rennell Rodd was being re-elected with 39,976 votes, are advised by the local trades and labor council to abstain from voting.

The cities of London, Liverpool, and Manchester absorbed the great bulk of the apple exports from Halifax last season.

About 40 per cent of the apples exported from Halifax for the season just closed went to the London area.

Hotbeds heated by electricity are rapidly gaining favor in British Columbia.

Catch Current Prices

Before The Tide Turns

"Time and tide wait for no man."

Nor are the low prices of to-day and the turn of the tide toward higher prices going to wait for those who haven't the vision, courage and foresight to buy when prices are at the lowest ebb in 15 years.

And this changing of the tide as applied to prices is more than a mere simile . . . it's a certainty . . . price tides change as surely as ocean tides.

To-day's prices on food, clothing, furniture, furs, cars and other things are from 40% to 100% lower than they have been in years and lower than they will be before the turn of another season.

Don't be caught off your guard when it's so important that your savings be guarded.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 80 By Edgar Rice Burroughs
(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Thoroughly awake now, Kraski watched the sack as Tarzan moved away a short distance and, with the golden lion, lay down to sleep. Assured at last that they both slept soundly, little by little the Russian crawled toward the package, pausing often to regard the two. Neither of them stirred and finally Kraski grasped the sack, quickly stuffed it in his shirt, took his place again beyond the fire and pretended to sleep.

He felt carefully of the sack. "Pebbles," he muttered, "ornaments for this savage barbarian who is a peer of England! Fancy this wild beast once sitting in the House of Lords!" Untying the sack he let a portion of its contents trickle forth. "DIAMONDS!" He stifled his cry of amazement. Great, scintillating stones they were, five pounds of pure white diamonds. So fabulous a fortune was before him that it fairly staggered the Russian.

Quickly he replaced the gems inside his shirt. Fearfully he watched Tarzan and Jad-balja; still neither of them moved. "To-morrow!" muttered Kraski, "would I had the courage to make a break to-night!" At dawn Tarzan with the three Englishmen came to a good sized native village. The ape-man was received graciously, almost with the deference due an emperor. The whites were awed at the attitude of the black chief.

Tarzan pointed to the three Europeans. "These are my friends," he said to the black chief. "See that they reach the coast in safety. I, Tarzan of the Apes, request the favor." "The great chief Tarzan has but to command," replied the black. Tarzan thanked him, saying he had other business and might not return. Without a word of farewell, Tarzan of the Apes passed from the sight of the white men and behind him paced the golden lion.

Obituary

MRS. W. L. McCLENNAN.

Mrs. Hattie McClennan, wife of the late W. L. McClennan passed away at her home, 326 Charlotte street, on Monday afternoon, April 25. Mrs. McClennan was the daughter of the late Giles Webber and Elizabeth Harvey and was born in Devonshire, England in 1848 coming to Peterborough when two and one-half years old. Deceased was a member of the Trinity United church and there is left to mourn her loss one son, Bert W. McClennan of this city.

The funeral service, conducted by the Rev. David Wren, will be held on Wednesday afternoon, April 27, at 2.30 p.m. from her late residence, Charlotte street, with interment in Little Lake cemetery.

SAMUEL STINSON

Samuel Stinson passed away on Monday afternoon at his residence at Fowler's Corners. He was 81 years of age and had been ill for a period of nine weeks.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stinson, the deceased was a native of Smith Township. He had resided in this district all his life and was held in highest respect and esteem by all who knew him. He was an active member of Lakevale Presbyterian Church of which he was a member of the Board of Managers at the time of his death. Mr. Stinson was also a member of Nassau Orange Lodge.

Predeceased by his wife fourteen years ago, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Edward Mahood of Smith Township; Mrs. Lionel King of Bridgenorth and Miss Martha at home; also one son, John of Smith Township, and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Bick of Bobcaygeon and Mrs. Agnes Paul of Oshawa and two brothers, David of Buffalo and Joseph of Bobcaygeon.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 1.30 p.m. from the family residence, Fowler's Corners, to Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough. The Rev. Mr. Cannowin of Toronto will officiate at the services.

Icebreaker To Chart Hudson Bay Waters

QUEBEC, April 26.—The Government icebreaker N. B. McLean will make another trip into Hudson Bay waters this summer, under the direction of the Department of Marine, it was learned here.

The vessel will probably leave here early in June with a party of engineers and nautical experts, who will complete the work of marking and charting the waters and facilitate navigation along that route.

The McLean is now carrying on ice patrol service in the gulf of St. Lawrence, and when this service is ended the icebreaker will return to this port and get in readiness for the voyage into the bay.

The McLean made a run to Hudson Strait last summer for the purpose of establishing wireless stations and the proposed trip this summer will complete the organization of these posts.

Chinese Assessor's Status Unsettled

MUKDEN, April 26.—(A.P.) — The status of Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese assessor to the League of Nations' Commission investigating Sino-Japanese affairs, was again brought to the fore to-day, when an exchange of telegrams between the Manchoukuo government and the Commission failed to settle Koo's standing.

As far as is known the warrant of the Manchoukuo government for the arrest of Dr. Koo on the grounds that he was persona non grata because of Chinese non-recognition of the regime, is still out. So far there has been no attempt to arrest him.

MINE WORKERS DEBATE ACTION

Delegates Undecided on Wage Reduction After Two Weeks in Session.

DISCUSS NEW UNION.

NEW GLASGOW, N. S., April 26 (C.P.).—Final outcome of the United Mine Workers Convention, which entered its second week yesterday was still debatable as the delegates from Nova Scotia's colliery areas gathered again today, but there was at least a strong possibility that some agreement would be reached today or tomorrow. Two reports of the policy committee appointed Friday night are still before the convention. The majority report, recommending acceptance of the 10 and 12 per cent. wage reductions rejected by a referendum on March 14, on condition that men displaced by the projected re-allocation of coal areas be cared for; the minority finding adding a rider that a plebiscite be held to determine whether 12,000 Nova Scotia miners remain with the international bounds of the United Mine Workers of America or secede and form a provincial union.

Convention excitement was augmented yesterday when a floor sagging beneath the weight of 100 persons, delegates and onlookers, ended the meeting before the convention hour. A later inspection, however, showed no alarming defects, and the delegates gathered in the same second-storey room today, though the public were not admitted.

GANDHI SEEKS AN ALIGARCHY

Indian Girl Lawyer Laughs at Way America Absorbs Propaganda.

SAYS MAHATMA IMPOSTOR.

NEW YORK, April 26.—"Just an imposter who wants an oligarchy of his own party with himself as dictator," describes M. Gandhi, Indian nationalist, in the opinion of Miss Carnelia Sorabji, a countrywoman of Gandhi and the first woman lawyer in the British Empire.

Interviewed here prior to sailing for England, Miss Sorabji expressed amusement regarding the awarding of a medal to Gandhi by the community church of New York "for the outstanding religious service in the world."

"It is a pity," she said, "that the community church congregation and its pastor (John Holmes), has been so taken in by Gandhi's propagandists and publicity men. I really think Gandhi has the most efficient publicity bureau in the world. Even you Americans could learn from him."

"We must have facts before we can understand India, but Americans have heard only propagandists. They do not realize that Gandhi, by his own admission, represents only 30,000 out of India's 350,000,000 population."

Miss Sorabji states Gandhi's talk of "Revolution" only incited the masses to violence among themselves. They misunderstood completely the accepted meaning of "revolution" in the political sense, and take it as a new excuse for running wild in the streets and knifing their neighbors, she said.

INDIAN WEDDING GALA OCCASION

Ceremony Lasts Six Days as Members of Two Aristocratic Houses Are United.

PRINCES ATTEND.

JODHPUR CITY, India, April 26 (A.P.).—Gorgeous scenes of oriental splendor marked the alliance by marriage of two of the most aristocratic and oldest ruling houses of Rajputana, the ceremonies of which ended today.

The union was accomplished by the brilliant marriage of the 21-year-old Maharaja of Jaipur to the daughter of the Maharaja of Jodhpur.

The marriage ceremony began at Jaipur last Thursday when the Maharaja led his own wedding procession through the city as he set out for Jodhpur, where his bride-to-be remained in the seclusion of Purdah, which forbade any man to look upon her face.

Scores of princes and hundreds of nobles atop gaily-caparisoned elephants welcomed the Maharaja Sunday at the city gates to the accompaniment of booming guns. The young bridegroom-to-be was taken by a glittering elephant procession to his temporary residence at Ratanda Palace, where he was cheered by admiring throngs.

Brilliant Scenes.

The same colorful scenes were re-enacted in the afternoon, when the bridegroom left the palace astride his gold-trappinged elephant with the entire aristocracy and gentry in procession to Jodhpur forty-five miles away.

Here is the main hall where the Rajput princes of the bluest blood were foregathered were enacted preliminary ceremonies which offered a spectacle unsurpassed in wealth and splendor.

Then the bridegroom-elect was led to an inner apartment where he met his bride-to-be, and they proceeded through the complex ceremony of marriage, lasting for two hours.

Then the community embarked upon the remaining ceremonies and wedding festivities which lasted until today.

ELEVATORS BUSY

MIDLAND.—Grain elevators are working at top speed to-day in an effort to clear more than 1,000,000 bushels of grain which arrived in four hours yesterday. The cargoes were chiefly wheat and oats from Fort William, although one boat carried corn from Chicago. The grain was carried on the Budd, Glenbogie, Eads, Holley and McFarland. The latter vessel has already cleared light for Cleveland.

BRITAIN STILL REGARDS MANCHURIA, PART CHINA

LONDON, April 26 (A.P.)—So far as Great Britain's trade relations are concerned, Manchuria is still a part of China, Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, intimated in the House of Commons to-day.

A member asked him what steps were being taken to enter into trade agreements with the new Manchurian government. "Existing treaties with China are applicable to Manchuria," he replied, "and in the circumstances the question of special trade relations need not be considered."

REDS INCREASE CROPS

MOSCOW.—More tractors and other agricultural machines are in the fields of Russia than ever before, and on April 20 the sow area was double than on the same date of last year.

The government's figures showed 16,106,750 acres had been sown on that date as compared with 8,297,360 at the same time in 1931. This year's planting program calls for cultivation of 255,875,000 acres as compared with last year's 243,712,500.

"Tight buttoned"

Have You, The "Can't Afford It" Habit ?

THE use of that phrase does not suggest the inability to buy so much as the desire to practice rigid economy . . . to save . . . to deny yourself needed and necessary commodities.

But Man, oh Man, and you, too, Madam, how better and more effectively can you practice economy and thrift than to buy when prices are at their lowest ebb in years? How more certainly can you insure economy than to replace worn or out-of-date furniture than when new is selling for one-third of what it sold for 15 years ago? Or to stock up on food products when they are 40% less than at any time since the war? Or clothing when $53 to-day will buy you what you paid $100 for in 1912?

What you really cannot afford to do is not buy because you cannot afford to miss to-day's low levels . . . prices that are an actual boon to reduced incomes . . . to the practice of sensible, far-sighted economy.

DAMAGE ACTION AGAINST COUNTY IS BEING HEARD

F. T. Mahood, Former Caretaker, is Seeking $5,000 Damages.

FOR LOSS OF EYE.

Alleged Accident Occurred When He Was Breaking Coal for Furnace.

Peterborough County is defendant to-day in a suit for $5,000 damages, brought by Frederick T. Mahood, former caretaker of the county buildings, for alleged loss of his right eye through an injury to his eye in February, 1925, when in the course of his duties he was breaking coal with an axe and a splinter entered his eye.

The case is being tried before Chief Justice Rose at the session here of the Supreme Court of Ontario. R. R. Hall, K.C., is counsel for Mr. Mahood, and F. D. Kerr, K.C., is acting for the county.

Case for Plaintiff Is In

Mr. Hall announced at 1 o'clock to-day that the case of the plaintiff had been completed. Five witnesses, including Mr. Mahood and his two sons, testified. Mr. Mahood relating the manner in which he had refused to vacate the caretaker's residence following his dismissal in February, 1931.

The county's defence is being heard this afternoon.

At the beginning of the case Chief Justice Rose gave both counsels the right to call as many expert witnesses as they deemed necessary, such permission being subject to revocation by His Lordship when he deemed that sufficient expert evidence had been produced.

Frederick G. Mahood, plaintiff in the action and first witness, said that he was 53 years of age. In 1923, he stated, he was caretaker of the county buildings, one of the biggest duties in connection with his work being firing the boiler to heat the building.

His salary was $800 a year with a free house, light and heat, and he remained as caretaker for nearly eight years, Mr. Mahood said. In the second year his salary was increased to $950, not including some bonuses. About 200 tons of coal were burned annually in the boiler of the building. Much of this coal was in large chunks and it was necessary, he said, to break it up in order to get it through the boiler door and spread it properly in the fire box. He was supplied with an old axe, which was rounded and which often flew off its handle.

Mr. Mahood stated he went to E. L. Elliott, county clerk, and complained that the axe wasn't safe, and he desired a new axe or sledge. This wasn't furnished him.

"A piece of coal struck me on the right eye about February 21, 1925,

Jury's One Glance at Alluring Maiden Gets Kiss Stealer Free, "Not to Blame"

WARREN, Ont., 27.—Lips of Warren maidens are so alluring that a man can't be blamed for trying to kiss them, a jury of five Warren burghers decided in Judge Edmond Proulx's division court. Papa Honore Dabiens sued neighbor Giroux Oliva for trying to kiss his daughter Elizabeth, but the jury took a look at Elizabeth and decided that a man is weak and Ovila was not to blame.

Though the case was a civil action for $199 the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty."

"Not guilty of what," demanded Judge Proulx.

"Not guilt of anything," the jury replied.

HAMILTON, April 27. (C.P.). — Last solemn rites were performed in St. Patrick's Cathedral here to-day for Francis Nelson, dean of Canadian sportsmen and well known figure on the race tracks of all North America. Mr Nelson passed away at Balboa, Canal Zone, being removed from the ship upon which he was travelling and dying in hospital on his way home from Auga Caliente.

All branches of sport in the Dominion were represented in the throng which followed the cortege from the cathedral to Holy Sepulchre cemetery to-day. A service was first held at the home and later at St. Patrick's where solemn Requiem Mass was chanted. From the church the funeral wound its long way westward to the beautiful cemetery across the bay.

BATTLE STAGED BY DOUKHOBORS

Several Injured as Members of Universal Brotherhood Try to Oust Sons of Freedom.

CLUBS WIELDED FREELY.

NELSON, B. C., April 27.—(CP)—Pitched battle between members of the Community of Universal Brotherhood and adherents of the Sons of Freedom faction of Doukhobors was staged at Brilliant, Doukhobor capital, Monday afternoon, according to word received here today. In the presence of a great concentration of Doukhobors from all parts of the district, the community carried out or attempted more evications of Sons of Freedom families from community houses.

One Seriously Hurt

Clubs were weilded, according to the report, and at least one casualty was sufficiently serious to require hospital treatment. William Walsoff, 53, an independent from Grand Forks, was laid low with a

SMITH LEADING ROOSEVELT BY THREE TO ONE

Prospect of Narrow Victory in Pennsylvania Cheers Democratic Hopes.

RETURNS INCOMPLETE.

New York State Leader's Followers Confident Despite Showing.

WASHINGTON, April 27 (C.P.). — Franklin D. Roosevelt's United States Presidential campaign today was up against its first real disappointment — a smashing defeat in Massachusetts and prospect of a narrow victory at best in Pennsylvania.

In delegate-choosing primaries in both states Alfred E. Smith, the "happy warrior" of 1928, stemmed the onrush of the leading Democratic aspirant with a showing superior to the expectations of any but his own partisans, a showing which revived notably the movement to prevent Roosevelt's nomination in the Democratic National Convention despite his enormous lead in delegate strength.

The Massachusetts victory blanketed the state and swept into Boston, which the Rooseveltians had looked to for strength. Nearly complete unofficial returns indicated the New York State Governor's slate of delegates at large had gone down to a defeat of nearly three to one, and that not one of the 36 Massachusetts votes would go to him. His supporters had claimed five or six at least.

Close Race.

The Pennsylvania results, far from a complete tally, showed a close race in the preferential vote which is not binding on the delegates, with Roosevelt inching away from Smith as ballots from outside the latter's Philadelphia stronghold swelled the total. How the delegates themselves will line up may take considerable time to determine, though Roosevelt leaders

WILLING TO LEAD IF IRISH PEOPLE WISH REPUBLIC

Ministry is Defeated on Unemployment Issues by Vote of 74-66.

REFUSES TO RESIGN.

Free State Chief Moves Second Reading on Bill to Abolish Oath.

DUBLIN, April 27 (C.P.). —President Eamon De Valera, moving the second reading of his Bill to abolish the oath of allegiance to the Crown, told the Free State Dail to-day that the moment the Irish people are ready for an independent republic, he will be ready to lead them.

The Abolition Bill was brought up immediately after the Government had been defeated by 74 to 66 on a vote in connection with the unemployment issue. The President made it clear that he had no intention resigning on that vote.

On the contrary, he went right ahead with the day's business, smiling as he moved the second reading of the abolition. He said later that the Dail would debate the unemployment question this evening.

The Motion.

The defeat was on a motion "that the entire day be devoted to consideration of the bill for the removal of the oath of allegiance from the constitution," to the exclusion of the debate on the Government's unemployment program.

Unemployment is a burning issue in Irish politics, and the Government's Labor allies insist that it be kept constantly in mind among the national issues.

Keen debate was promised on the motion for second reading of the bill abolishing the oath of allegiance. On the first reading last week it was passed without a division, but that was a formality, and the party of former President Cosgrave has made it clear it will oppose the measure in all subsequent stages.

The President asserts his party's victory in the recent elections gave him a mandate from the people to abolish the oath, while the British Government insists abolition of the oath is a breach of the Anglo-Irish Treaty.

Mr. De Valera moved Abolition Bill and sat down.

Cosgrave Begins Debate.

Then William Cosgrave, his predecessor, began the debate by describing the measure as "the greatest piece of political chicanery in history."

De Valera replied that to avoid misunderstanding he would pledge his party not to exceed its mandate without consulting the people again.

This, some observers felt, amounted to foreshadowing another election in the Free State.

REPORTER SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Attack Suspected Result of Ohio Paper's Campaign Against Crime.

VICTIM MAY LIVE.

CANTON, O., April 27.—Harry Bouklais, a reporter for The Ohio Examiner, a weekly newspaper published by Grover Fleming, was shot and seriously wounded in front of his home here early to-day. Two men, who lay in wait for the man, opened fire on him with a shot gun.

The Examiner has been waging a campaign against organized crime in Canton and other Ohio cities, and while Bouklais was listed as a circulation manager, it is generally believed that he was the Canton reporter for the paper. The Examiner has carried many attacks against the Canton police and underworld characters.

The shooting of Bouklais came just six years after the slaying of Don. R. Mellett, crusading Canton editor, who was assassinated while waging a newspaper war against crime in the "jungle section" of the city.

Doctors who examined Bouklais at a hospital said his condition was "fair" and not necessarily critical. Approximately 100 shot gun slugs entered his body.

Tenement Blaze Claims 3 Lives

PORTSMOUTH, O., April 27. (C.P.) Three persons were burned to death and another dropped dead early to-day when a fire of undetermined origin swept through seven frame houses in the tenement district.

The dead are Mrs. James Bentley, 30 and her two children Edith, 7, and Lulu, 9. Fred Buckley, 75, an occupant of one of the destroyed houses dropped dead while watching the fire.

JAPANESE MOVE TO QUELL REVOLT IN MANCHURIA

Three Brigades Sent Against 20,000 Rebels in Sungari Valley.

BACKING NEW REGIME.

Nipponese Plan to Sweep Country Clear of Menacing Forces.

HARBIN, Manchuria, April 27.—(C.P.) Japan's Manchurian military machine opened to-day a drive to suppress a Chinese revolt against the government of Henry Pu-Yi.

Three Japanese brigades, under the command of Lieutenant General Hirose, moved out, by rail and river boats, in a sweeping "pincers" movement against the rebel forces, estimated at 20,000, along the eastern lines of the Chinese eastern railway and in the lower Sungari valley.

At the same time lesser Japanese forces sought to crush minor revolts in the Tunghua district, 125 miles east of Mukden and in the Tungliao region, on the Mongolian border, northwest of Mukden.

Lieut. General Hirose's command is made up of Major General Murai's brigade, which is already in the region of Imienpo and Hengtaohotze, on the eastern end of the Chinese Eastern Railway ready to move northward in the direction of Fangcheng and Sanhsin; Major General Yoda's brigade, which recently was in the Chinchow region and is now moving eastward along the Chinese eastern to join General Murai, and the brigade of General Nakamura.

Troops Travel By Boat

General Nakamura's brigade, which recently arrived in Manchuria from Japan, departed from Harbin down the Sungari river, troops loaded in twenty-two river boats.

The Nakamura command includes infantry, artillery and engineer units and the General hoped to meet General Murai and Yoda in the neighborhood of Sanhsin, after crushing the rebels along the way, a then, making Sanhsin the headquarters, to begin further widespread operations in the lower Sungari valley.

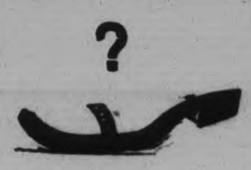
A despatch to the Rengo News agency from Antung said troops which formerly acknowledged the new Pu-Yi regime had revolted there and enveloped Tunghua, where Japan maintains a branch consulate.

The rebels reached Yulengpu, seven kilometres west of Tungliao, despatches said, and the Japanese garrison at Tungliao was preparing to defend the city against an attack.

One Straight Fight In French Elections

PARIS, April 27.—(C.P.)—In all the 615 constituencies of France and the colonies, where voters go to the polls in the French general elections on Sunday there is only one straight fight. It is in one of the seats in the Upper Alps, where the retiring member is opposed by a candidate who styles himself a "Farmer-Opportunist-Radical-Socialist."

But the electors in St. Girond in the Department of Ariege are not so lacking in choices. The seat holds the record with 85 candidates nominated.



MONTREAL HOME IS LIABILITY SAYS PRESIDENT

Sir Henry Thornton Appears Before Railway Committee.

EXPLAINS VARIOUS ISSUES.

$1,600,000 Expense Account is Years' Travelling for 3,500 Men.

OTTAWA, April 27 (C.P.) — A statement in connection with the house purchased by the directors of the Canadian National Railways for Sir Henry Thornton was made to the House of Commons Committee on Railways and Shipping by Sir Henry here to-day.

In September, 1929, the executive committee of the directors passed a resolution, later endorsed by the full board, to the effect that a suitable residence in Montreal for the chairman was essential for the proper conduct of the company's business. In the fall of 1930, this resolution was given practical effect with the renting of Sir Henry's present Pine Avenue residence at an annual rental of $15,725.

Sir Henry referred to his coming to Canada several years ago. He had been willing then to undertake the position of President of the C.N.R. for $50,000 per annum if it was understood that this compensation should be materially increased if operating and earnings results subsequently warranted it.

Wanted to Vote Bonus.

In 1928 some of the directors informed him they wanted to vote him a bonus of $100,000, Sir Henry said, in recognition of what had been accomplished since 1923. Sir Henry rejected this proposal and, having done so, he accepted the offer of the directors to provide him with an official residence. In view of subsequent adverse financial conditions, Sir Henry voluntarily financed all repairs, conditioning, furnishing and equipment.

In this he had assumed a burden running over $50,000, which the original resolution did not contemplate. The provision of the house, however, had been a liability instead of an asset. Sir Henry said that his contract, as finally negotiated, provided for a payment of $75,000 a year, with reasonable expense allowances, amounting to $15,000. The directors also determined it was proper for him to receive a $5,000 contribution from the Ontario Car Ferry Co., owned jointly with the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway. In addition $5,000 was allowed on account of his presidency of the Central Vermont Railway, and a similar amount on account of his presidency of the Grand Trunk Western, both of which are C.N.R. subsidiaries.

BLAZE RAGING AT HILLSDALE

Three Houses and Garage Fall Prey to Fire Started in Rubbish Heap.

BUSH IS THREATENED.

HILLSDALE, Ont., April 27.—(C.P.)—Three houses and a garage were destroyed by fire which swept through this village to-day, and which is at present burning at the edge of a large growth of timber. The fire started from a burning rubbish heap and swept by a strong north-west wind travelled through the village in two hours.

The rubbish heap was burning behind a house owned by Val Kitchen. It spread suddenly into the Kitchen home, which was destroyed, and then leaped to a garage occupied by George Howel and owned by Frank Arksey. The dwellings of the Misses C. and M. Turner, and Charles Faragher were next to be destroyed, and the fire then travelled along the ground to the edge of Copelands' bush. Swampy ground is expected to check it before it reaches the timber, however.

Calls Sent Out.

Calls for assistance were sent to Midland and Barrie and trucks from both towns responded. Though a scarcity of water handicapped them both brigades are standing by ready to render assistance.

The village bucket brigade, assisted by residents of the surrounding district, fought gallantly to check the spread of the fire and were still watching it.

COMMONWEALTH PREMIER ACTS TO SEIZE N. S. WALES' REVENUE

Drastic Bill is Lyon's Answer to Lang's Blockading Tactics.

BITTER STRUGGLE.

CANBERRA, Aust., April 27.—(C. P. Cable). The Commonwealth Government will be empowered to seize "any and every" schedule of revenue of the state of New South Wales, under the terms of a bill introduced in the house of representatives this afternoon by Prime Minister Joseph Lyons.

This is the Commonwealth's answer to the blockading tactics of Premier J. T. Lang of New South Wales, who countered early Commonwealth efforts to seize income tax payments of the state by locking up the taxation offices. The Commonwealth is empowered by the financial agreement enforcement act to recoup itself from a defraulting state for payments made as a result of the state defaulting overseas debt payments.

To-day's bill amends the financial agreement enforcement act and makes it even more drastic than before. Formerly only specified classes of taxation were liable to be earmarked by the Commonwealth. The Commonwealth has already seized the state's bank deposits. As amended, the bill will enable the government to seize state revenues without, as before, having to pass a resolution through both houses of parliament specifying the class of revenue to be seized.

Don't Forget the Unskilled

Work for the unemployed and unskilled laborer is one of the special needs contemplated by the community relief effort "Give a Man a Job."

That word 'give' should not be too strongly emphasized. It smacks too much of charity, whereas the keynote and central thought of this campaign is employment, by which labor is exchanged for wages. Some of the work may not be urgent. Probably it could be postponed, and because it is brought on now in this spring of an abnormally trying and straitened period, perhaps it falls within the exact connotation of the word 'give'.

Work for the unskilled man may be work you could do yourself, but because his need deserves your sympathy it is suggested that you let him do it.

You require a skilled painter for most decorating jobs around the house, but for painting a fence you can buy the paint ready mixed and engage any of the unemployed to do that work for you. And you will prolong the life of the fence.

Or you might have your shingles stained. Even if they have been put on within the last two or three years they are still in fair condition for a protective stain treatment. If you are going to have a couple of rooms re-papered, why not think of this "Give a Man a Job" appeal. Let one of the men who need work strip the walls of the old paper.

The Board of Works took on ten teams and thirty men last Friday for the filling of the Hydro property, Water Street north opposite the Auburn factory of the Canadian Woolens Company. That is a temporary help by the city, but private co-operation is needed to make the "Give a Man a Job" campaign a success.

Governor-General Is To Visit Peterboro'

The Governor-General of Canada, the Earl of Bessborough, will visit Peterborough on Wednesday, May 25.

An announcement of this projected official event was received this morning by Mayor Denne from A. F. Lascelles, secretary to the Governor-General, and will be read to the city council at their meeting next Monday night.

According to the present tentative program His excellency will arrive in Peterborough at 1 a.m. and will leave his car at 9.30 a.m. to meet the city's representatives and to see the industrial and other local features of interest. He will then depart at 12.30 p.m., his stay in Peterborough being limited to three hours.

The Governor-General will not be accompanied by Lady Bessborough on this occasion, the official letter intimated, and the proposed schedule of arrival and departure is based on standard time. This will be the first visit to Peterborough by Canada's present Governor-General.

HOUSE ALL SET TO TAKE VOTES ON THE BUDGET WHEN LABOR MEN FORCE COMMONS TO ADJOURN

Progressive Sub-Amenament is Voted Down 177 to 17.

OTHER VOTES TO-DAY.

King and Bennett Close Long Budget Debate in Commons.

OTTAWA, April 27 (C.P.)— The stage was set in the House of Commons last night for a vote on the Rhodes budget but James Woodsworth, Winnipeg Laborite, delayed the division until to-day. Premier R. B. Bennett and Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, concluded their speeches.

Division bells sounded for the first of three votes. The House voted down 177, to 17, a sub-amendment from the Progressive group advocating nationalization of banking and credit. Then the House turned to the Liberal amendment, criticizing the fiscal policy of the Ministry.

But the Winnipeg Laborite, amid frequent interruptions from the impatient members, said he intended to say a few words respecting the League for Social Reconstruction, of which he was honorary-president and to which the Prime Minister made reference earlier in the evening. Men and women in the galleries leaned back in their seats. The members of the House grew more impatient.

Adjourned House

"Bring on the vote!" "Division!!" shouted the members as a general hubbub developed. "Louder," interjected a backbench Conservative, and from then on, all thoughts of a division were banished. Mr. Woodsworth appealed to the Speaker for order. By this time it was after 11 o'clock, the usual closing hour, and the Labor Leader, amid still greater noise and confusion, asked the Speaker to adjourn the House. The members protested. Mr. Woodsworth said he had not completed his speech and proposed to do so only when order was restored. The Speaker was compelled to adjourn the House.

Conservatives and Liberals united solidly in opposition to the Progressive sub-amendment. It found support among the gingerites and from A. W. Neill, British Columbia Independent.

During the last-minute hubbub in the house, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce tabled his agreement between Canada and New Zealand. Its terms, however, were made public. Canada will receive the full British preferential tariff on all exports to New Zealand with the exception of six. The treaty will remain in force one year only—due to the impending Imperial Economic conference. Canada's potential annual market in the antipodes is $200,000,000.

In return, Canada will concede to New Zealand special rates on goods of outstanding importance and otherwise continue the British preference schedules. The rate on butter will be five cents a pound, the same as the tariff against Australia.

ILLNESS FORCES TARDIEU FROM ELECTION DRIVE

PARIS, April 27 (C.P.). — Premier Andre Tardieu was ill of laryngitis to-day as a result of the strenuous work of his election campaign, and it was announced he would be unable to participate in the projected five-power parley at Geneva next Friday.

M. Tardieu's physician ordered him to quit the campaign and as a result his final speech, scheduled for Belforte to-morrow will be read by one of the members of the Cabinet.

The Premier telegraphed Joseph Paul-Boncour, his colleague at Geneva, asking him to inform Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and other members of the five-power group, that silence and complete rest have been imposed upon him.

STORES BURNED IN DESERONTO

Napanee and Belleville Firemen Helped Save Town.

SIX STORES BURNED

BELLEVILLE, April 27.—Fire of unknown origin, breaking out after midnight in J. A. Consul's furniture store, Deseronto, wiped out six stores, one residence and other buildings with a loss of $50,000 to $75,000 before it was halted.

For a time it appeared as if the town would be wiped out and aid was summoned from Napanee and Belleville, the department here sending Chief Lynch and six men with 1,000 feet of hose.

The other buildings destroyed are: M. Detlor's radio shop, J. McLenny's bakery and residence, H. G. Eddes' restaurant and ice cream parlor, C. Blake's residence, F. McPhail's shoe store, G. H. Harrold's electrical shop and a number of barns. A strong north-east wind hampered the fire fighters.

Old Redden Mill Is Put In Order

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — After many months of idleness caused by fire which destroyed it on June 14 of last year, the old Redden Mill, now owned by R. McKelvie of Campbellford, has commenced operations on the old site. The machinery has been completely overhauled and repaired and put in shape for running. The mill is one of the old sites in town and has been in operation for the past 35 years. Built and run for many years by Henry Redden, it passed into the hands of Mr. McKelvie some eleven years ago, who operated it until the plant was swept by flames last year.

NEW HANGMAN BEGINS WITH DOUBLE EXECUTION

BUDAPEST, April 27 (C.P.). — Two former soldiers, Gustavus Kavi andJoseph Stanislavszky were hanged to-day by Hungary's new hangman, Johann Kovacs, for the murder of an innkeeper.

Hungary's former hangman died of pneumonia contracted at the last hanging.

Only 60 persons witnessed the double execution, but hundreds of others thronged outside the walls of the military prison. Two women who "crashed the gate" were evicted before the hanging took place and a soldier who was standing guard near the gallows fainted when the trap was sprung.

PROGRESS MADE IN BABY SEARCH

Mystery Trips by Norfolk Men Believed Leading to Final Contact.

LIKELY BE AT SEA.

NORFOLK, Va., April 27.—Another act—perhaps the final— in the mystery drama played by three Norfolk men attempting to recover the Lindbergh baby was believed to be drawing towards its close to-day with the sea as the probable setting.

John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk boat builder, is playing the important role of contact man with the men believed to be the kidnappers or their representatives. Reports from Hopewell, N.J., indicate that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh may join the Norfolk intermediary on a boat off the Virginia coast in the hope of bringing the negotiations to a successful conclusion.

While the movements of both Mr. Curtis and the yacht Marcon were soon lost in the darkness of their Sunday night departure, it was indicated that the negotiator boarded the Marcon for another trip through the Virginia capes. The negotiator left the Marcon Sunday afternoon after the boat had docked from a trip out to sea. Rough weather was believed to have caused the boat to seek shelter on the previous trip.

The other two intermediaries, the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, former Canadian rector, and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, said they had received no word from their associate since his departure.

VANCOUVER.—Pilots W. C. Gilbert and Bill Holland have arrived safely at the sea island airport here from Lethbridge, from where they took off at noon Saturday. They made a stop at Trail on account of stormy weather. Otherwise the trip was without incident. They will fly back to Lethbridge probable about the end of this week.

DARROW MAKES HIS FINAL PLEA IN MASSIE CASE

Expect Decision to be Left in Hands of Jury Before Day Closes.

FOUR FUTURES AT STAKE.

Wily Defense Lawyer Sees Menace in Judge's Instructions to Jury.

(By William H. Ewing)

HONOLULU, April 27 (A.P.) — Clarence Darrow, astute criminal lawyer, to-day faced his final attempt to clear four persons in a murder trial which brought the 73-year-old legal veteran out of retirement.

He was to present a 3-hour closing argument before a racially mixed jury which is trying Mrs. Granville Forescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, her son-in-law; and two United States Navy enlisted men for the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai. The Hawaiian allegedly had confessed participation in a criminal attack upon Mrs. Thalia Massie, the naval officer's wife.

Although the prosecution was alloted a period following Darrow's address, counsel for both sides were hopeful the case would be in the hands of the jury before adjournment for the day. An afternoon session of the court was planned. The instructions of Judge Charles S. Davis remain to be given after the closing arguments.

Unwritten Law

Darrow was expected to plead not only the defence contention that Lieut. Massie was momentarily insane when he held the pistol that killed Kahahawai, but also the "unwritten law."

The insanity plea presumably had a jolt coming at the hands of Judge Davis in the structions. This was foreshadowed by a remark of Barry S. Ulrich, associate prosecutor, in his address to the jury yesterday.

Ulrich told the jurors Judge Davis would instruct that the insanity claim would not be sufficient to clear Massie if it merely showed Massie to be mentally deranged the moment the shot was fired. Ulrich said also the judge would rule the insanity defence, in order to be considered, would have to indicate the naval officer was mentally deranged through every step of the tragedy. Kahahawai was slain early in January.

Neither Judge Davis nor the defense challenged Ulrich's statement.

George S. Leisure, Darrow's associate, told the jury that but for Kahahawai's death other women might have been attacked. He sought to minimize Ulrich's statement the political future of Hawaii depended upon the verdict.

Second Degree Murder

Unless Judge Davis's instructions alter the situation, the jury may bring in a conviction of second degree murder, as charged; manslaughter, or acquittal. Second degree murder is punishable by 20 years to life imprisonment.

Darrow appeared in good spirits yesterday, shaking hands with Massie, Mrs. Forescue and the other defendants, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, at the outset of the court session. Had the plans of Judge Davis been carried out, he would have addressed the jury yesterday. Darrow told the court, however, he did not feel equal to speaking after the morning session. Because of Darrow's age, the court sessions have been limited to three hours daily.

predicted 66 of the 76 votes for him on the first ballot at Chicago.

Republican contests in the two states were led in importance by the thorough beating apparently administered the fighting ex-marine, Smedley Butler, by Senator James J. Davis, running for renomination. Representative McFadden was piling up a lead over Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the governor, in the 15th Congressional district, and was likely to win. A vehement attack on President Hoover had placed him on Republican black books, but the Pinchot family is no supporter of the President either.

The President was almost assured of the 109 Republican delegate votes in both states, though a candidate favored by his forces in Massachusetts lost to William F. Whiting, who was Secretary of Commerce under Calvin Coolidge.

Formidable Figure

Smith's supporters to-day were led to a chorus of jubilation with the general theme that the former nominee would prove once again a formidable figure "to be reckoned with" in naming the party's presidential choice.

The Roosevelt men, slower to comment until the full story of yesterday's voting was unfolded, tended to write off the defeat.

"Smith has shot his bolt in Massachusetts. The vote there will strengthen Roosevelt in the rest of the country. He can't be stopped." was the way John F. Costello, district of Columbia National committeeman expressed it.

RULER HONORS JAP WAR DEAD

Highest Dignitaries Accompany Hirohito and Empress to Shinto Temple.

LAST CEREMONY IN 1906.

TOKYO, April 27. —(AP)— Emperor Hirohito and the Empress, accompanied by the highest dignitaries of the Japanese court, officiated at a special worship today, the first of its kind since 1906, in honor of Japanese soldiers who died in battle for their country.

The ceremony took place at the Yasukuni National Shinto temple which crowns the highest hill in Tokyo and where the Japanese believe the souls of soldiers and sailors killed in action are enshrined.

The last previous ceremony was performed by Emperor Hirohito's grandfather, who in 1906 honored and enshrined the souls of those who died in the Russo-Japanese war.

The solemn Shinto ceremony was the climax of a four-day national patriotic religious observance in which the spirits of 331 soldiers who died at Shanghai, as well as of those who died in the Tsinan campaign in 1928 and in the suppression of the rebellion of Aborigines in Formosa in 1930, were added to the empire's pantheon.

NEW ZEALAND GIVES CANADA WIDE BENEFITS

Preferential Rates Apply to All Imports With Exception of Six.

PACT FOR ONE YEAR.

Concessions on Auto and Lumber for First Time Feature Grants.

OTTAWA, April 27 (C.P.). — Canada and New Zealand step into the stride of intra-Imperial trade. Based largely on British preferential, a trade agreement between the sister Dominions was tabled in the House of Commons to-day by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The pact is for one year. The basis of this mutual arrangement concerning time is the coming Imperial Economic Conference opening in Ottawa on July 21. Following parliamentary approval in both countries, the agreement will come into effect by proclamation. A Bill will shortly be introduced in the Canadian Parliament for ratification of the pact. If any debate is precipitated its duration will be short. New Zealand, likewise, it is learned, intends to take prompt steps for the procuring of parliamentary approval on its part.

On All But Six.

In brief, Canada is accorded under the agreement the full British preferential tariff on all of the four hundred-odd imports of New Zealand, with the exception of six. Of these six, Canada receives substantial preferences against the general tariff of the Antipodean nation. Tariff concessions on Canadian exports of automobiles and the receipt for the first time from New Zealand of a preference of $3 per 1,000 feet on lumber, laths, and shingles are features of the tariff grants to Canada.

New Zealand, in turn, receives many of the tariff considerations given to Australia by the pact ratified last session. Other preferences are granted. The tariff on butter is placed at 5 cents per pound similar to the rate on importations from Australia. Under the British preferential wool will enter this country free of duty.

Concluded on Saturday.

Treaty negotiations extending over some months culminated on Saturday with the signing of the pact by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and Mr. Stevens for Canada and Premier George W. Forbes and Hon. Downie Stewart, New Zealand Minister of Customs. Mr. Stevens and Mr. Stewart, it will be recalled, conferred on the subject in Honolulu last December. The conference in mid-Pacific opened on Christmas Day.

The young men's class and the young ladies' class are joining together and will give an evening's entertainment in the church in the near future. Messrs. H. H. Lapp, C. Knight and A. Newman and Misses J. Smith, D. Mouncey and B. Sandercock were appointed a committee to arrange and provide the program.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Nichol, Mrs. E. J. Milne and Mrs. Bradley were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. D. Adams and family at Fenella on Sunday.

FRESH BATTLES ON THE SOMME

Campaign Differs Vastly From Days When Canadians Fought and Died.

HILLS RESUME OLD SHAPE.

(By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

ALBERT, Somme, April 27 (C.P. Cable). — France is again battling on the Somme. But it is a quieter battle than these rolling hills of sacrifice have ever known. Hard by the Church of the Madonna of Albert flaring posters of a Socialist candidate depict a city in ruins. Row on row of white crosses are starkly pictured against a menacing background of red.

Yet Albert has been built anew since the guns were thundering and is taking the French general elections calmly. La Boisselle, Pozieres, Courcelette — villages where so many Canadians fought and died, rise again from the ashes of men. School children to whom the roar of great guns is little more than a fireside story, exchange smiling greetings with the visitor.

Statutes Cover Walls.

The walls of the New Mairie—Town Hall—at Courcelette, which one passes on his way to the old Regina Trench, bears a fearsome list of statutes and ministerial decrees governing the unwary candidate in the elections, which conclude with the first ballot on Sunday and the second ballot on May 8. But the candidates themselves reflect a world crisis in the thrift of their publicity. There are no multi-colored posters, no cartoons, no interminable professions of political faith. Just a brief announcement—the name—the calling—the political group.

For the villages of the Somme do not run to the politically bizarre.

Battlefields Green.

In these days of spring the old battlefields are verdant with new life. Here the scar of a shell crater breaks a gentle slope. There a great patch of white in a sown field reveals where the chalk subsoil was thrown up in the vast convulsion of war. By the site of an old sugar factory and in the fields beyond the plough now and again turns up a rusted rifle barrel, or a tin hat, or a piece of shoe.

But 16 years after the first and greatest battle of the Somme, which lasted from July 1 to November, 1916, the hills are resuming their old contours. Young trees that line the motor roads burst with green. Rows of polyanthus and daffodils glow amid the white headstones of the Canadian dead. And overhead fly "larks still bravely singing."

STRANDED ON CLIFF 200 FEET ABOVE SEA

Boys Rescued From Little Orme With Difficulty

Llandudno, Wales.—Three London boys were stranded on a ledge of the Little Orme here and were rescued only with considerable difficulty.

George Woods, George Thomas, William Edwards and George Simms, all of Wellesley Rd., Kentish Town, who are camping here, went for a ramble on the Little Orme, and decided to descend the head to the sea.

Thomas, Edwards and Simms, started to descend, leaving Woods at the top. When they had reached a narrow ledge, from which there was a drop of 200 feet to the sea, the three boys found they could neither descend nor climb back.

They shouted to Woods, who ran for help to the village of Penrhynside. A rope was lowered to the boys, but they could not reach it.

One of the rescue party then descended, and helped each boy to a higher ledge, from which they were taken by other rescuers.

Clash Between Reds And Cantonese Close

CANTON, April 27 (C.P.).—Cantonese leaders predicted to-day the 80,000 Communist soldiers approaching Amoy and Foochow would turn from their objective to face the Canton troops now entering Fukien Province. Reports here indicated the two forces would soon meet in a decisive engagement.

Amoy and Foochow, principal cities of Dukien Province, are on the coast north-east of Canton.

The Canton army has also started its re-conquest of Kiangsi Province, adjoining Fukien and Kwangtung Provinces.

BRITISH AIRMAN NEARS NEW MARK TO AUSTRALIA

SOURABAYA, Java, April 27 (C.P. Cable).—C. W. A. Scott, British airman, is virtually on the last lap of his flight from England to Australia, and he considers he has already established a new record.

Scott left at 6 a.m. to-day for Kupang, Dutch East Indies, and from there he will fly across the Timor Sea to Port Darwin, which is in Australian northern territory. He took off from Lympne, England, at 5 a.m. on April 19.

"I am tired of records and I'm coming back by steamer," Scott said before leaving here. "I feel completely exhausted." Scott formerly held the record for the England-Australia flight, but this was broken last year by C. A. Butler, who made the distance in 9 days 2 hours and 29 minutes.

Because unemployed men who were given jobs cutting weeds at the Auckland, N.Z., hospital, took a half hour to drink the customary tea at 10 o'clock, they have been deprived of the British mid-meal refreshment.

MR. MASSEY'S VISIT.

The visit to St. John's Church to-night of Denton Massey, leader of the famed York Bible Class of Toronto, gives Peterborough people an opportunity to see and hear a young man whose inspiring leadership has made of this class of over three thousand members a tremendous power for good.

Mr. Massey's bright and earnest addresses, his ability to fit religion into the problems of everyday life and to appeal successfully to young men, and his impressive personality make him an outstanding figure.

Many thousands of Canadians who have no opportunity to come into contact with this inspiring leader have been thrilled as well as helped by the broadcasting of his addresses on Sunday afternoons when his messages are not only delivered personally to hundreds of members but go out over the air to many times that number of listeners-in.

He is to address two services at St. John's Church this evening, the first in the church and an overflow meeting in the Parish Hall, and undoubtedly the available accommodation will be taxed.

THE WRONG SYSTEM.

There is a good deal of truth in the remark of the St. Thomas Times-Journal that the surprise of the public in learning that Sir Henry Thornton has been receiving salary and perquisites from Canadian National Railway units totalling $149,000 a year is not occasioned so much by the size of Sir Henry's remuneration as by the fact that they had been kept in the dark as to what was actually happening.

Most people had read statements to the effect that the C.N.R. president's salary was $75,000 a year, and they accepted that as complete; they are just learning now that his total income is a great deal larger.

It is true, too, as the Times-Journal points out, that there is a great deal of that kind of thing in the public service; information is given as to an official's salary, but as a rule there is no mention of the fact that with the position go certain "pickings" in the shape of fees that substantially increase the yearly remuneration.

The fee system has many disadvantages, not the least of which is the condition that the people who pay the bills are usually kept ignorant of the total income received by those in public positions.

The Examiner agrees with its St. Thomas contemporary that whether it is with the high office of general manager of the Canadian National Railways, the more lowly one of a clerk of the court, a civic official or of a policeman, it is only fair to the paying public that the fee system should be abolished and straight salaries paid to public officials.

NO CHAMPIONS FOR THE TRENT.

It seems the irony of fate that when the vote of improvements on the Trent Canal was before the House of Commons on Friday afternoon that all the members representing constituencies bordering on the waterway had apparently gone home for the week-end and the enterprise was left without a champion in Parliament.

Members whose ridings are many miles away from the Trent assailed the expenditure vigorously, and not a voice, save that of Hon. Dr. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, was raised in favor of the waterway; there was no one to tell the House about the scenic charm of this 240-mile chain of lakes and rivers, no one to tell how many thousands of tourists were attracted into this section of Ontario each year, and no one to argue that the completion of the waterway would mean a material increase in the number of summer visitors.

When the vote was introduced calling for the expenditure of $133,400 this year to provide for plant and channel improvements, structural replacements, aids to navigation, rebuilding old dams, etc., Hon. Mr. Manion remarked: "I think there is a little freight traffic, but it is largely the same type of traffic that is carried on the Rideau Canal. There is some tourist traffic, and after all, the tourist traffic of the country is one of our big industries."

And then Mr. Gardiner, who hails from the prairie and is to be excused for lack of knowledge in regards to the Trent, wanted to know if there was any fishing up there, and the Minister replied that he thought so.

Mr. Munn, a member from far-away British Columbia, then proceeded to pay his compliments.

"I am somewhat familiar with the Trent Canal; I know that country fairly well, and I think this Government should consider very carefully the further expenditure of money on that useless inland waterway," said the Pacific Coast member. "You can sit on the bank for a week and see nothing but an odd gas boat go up and down the canal. I do not think the expenditure of $100,000 in order to provide a canal for a few fellows with gas boats is justified. I lived in Orillia, close to this canal, for several years and I think it is one of the most miserable failures of all our inland waterways."

A little later Mr. Carmichael, from Kindersley, Saskatchewan, trained his guns upon the waterway.

"What I wish to protest against is not only the large vote expended on what is more or less a luxury—a vote of $133,400—but the fact that the vote has been increased from the previous year by the sum of $17,000," remarked the member from the Prairies. "In the previous year the amount authorized was $116,400, and this year, in face of a curtailment of expenditures generally; a cutting down in the salaries of civil servants by ten per cent.; a cutting down in sessional indemnities of members and senators by ten per cent.; and a cutting down in the wages of railway employees by more than ten per cent.—as we have heard to-night, it is twenty-five per cent.—we are launching out on what might be described as a luxurious expenditure. The Minister made reference to the tourist traffic. I venture the statement that our tourist traffic is not attracted here by the merits of the Trent Canal; the tourists come to see something far more attractive than that. So that an expenditure of $17,000 more this year than was spent last year in a matter of this kind looks to me like extravagance run riot."

Fortunately, however, Hon. Dr. Manion was able to convince the House that there were water powers along the canal that must be kept up, and while there was no income from the traffic, there was a yearly revenue from water powers, land rent, transmission and telephone lines, etc., amounting to some $95,000 every year, so that the vote was allowed to pass.

It will be galling to the people of the whole district bordering on the Trent Waterway to learn that not a member from the canal constituencies was on hand to correct the crass ignorance of other members of Parliament in regard to the importance, if only from a tourist viewpoint, of this inland waterway, one of the finest cruising routes on the continent and the summer playground of many thousands of tourists, who spend large sums of money each year.

The Examiner would suggest that the Trent Waterway Association should lose no time, if they have not already attended to this detail, in sending to members of the House their descriptive literature showing the possibilities of the waterway and the part it is playing in attracting a considerable share of the $200,000,000 American tourists spend in this country every year.

Mr. Munn, for example, might be told that the "odd gas boat" he talked about include dozens of superb cruisers whose owners make lavish expenditures along the route of the canal; that, in fact, the visit of ten of these cruisers would put into circulation in this part of Ontario a sum very close approximately to the vote passed by Parliament.

MACDONALD AND DISARMAMENT.

Threatened with a recurrence of the eye trouble that recently compelled him to undergo an operation in a London hospital, Premier Ramsay MacDonald has not permitted this to interfere with his determination to attend the Geneva Disarmament Conference. This international gathering has been hanging fire for quite a time now, and even yet the outlook is none too propitious for any considerable forward movement. The outlook in Germany is still uncertain and will so remain until the result is seen of the general election to the Prussian diet which comes next Sunday. Then will follow the French appeal to the people early next month, also an uncertain quantity, due in part to the numerous parties and the lack of any clear outstanding issue, though there seems to be general agreement among the various leaders that the security of France from military aggression must remain the keynote of the national policy. Here the French attitude touches that of Germany which, apparently, continues to demand fulfilment of the Allied pledge to reduce armaments to a point corresponding to the obligation imposed on the former enemy.

Meantime the discussions at Geneva have been mainly academic, the only pratical suggestion coming from the United States with Ambassador Gibson's declaration in favor of the abolition of such weapons of offensive warfare as tanks, heavy mobile guns and poison gas. This, however, is not a particularly impressive gesture, for it leaves the crux of the disarmament movement untouched and provides no real relief for the overburdened European taxpayer. Something much more radical and decisive is required if the conference is to be roused from its coma and break the political deadlock which is now preventing real constructive action. All countries, indeed, appear to have been simply marking time without getting anywhere in particular. Now, however, with the arrival at Geneva of Mr. Stimson, United States Secretary of State, the friends and supporters of disarmament are indulging in another spell of optimism, more especially as conference opinion seems to be now crystallizing in favor of the recent suggestion coming from a group of the lesser powers that disarmament should come in successive stages, and be accompanied at every step by careful revision.

This is the point at which the British Prime Minister proposes to intervene at the peril of his own physical break-down. Nothing could more vividly demonstrate his engrossing personal interest in the success of the disarmament movement and his conviction that the revival of European prosperity is intimately concerned with a reduction of military and naval expenditure. He is generally expected to intervene in the discussion in a striking way, and that he and his British colleague, Lord Hailsham, will also participate in the private interviews where the conferees will endeavor to reach a preliminary understanding on reparations and on debt problems in general. Mr. MacDonald's anxiety to attend the conference in person is attributed to his intention to deliver a pronouncement that will replace him in the position in European affairs he occupied before he was compelled to turn his exclusive attention to the restoration of British conditions. Some authorities, indeed, predict that he will, to some extent, at least, indicate his willingness to support the French proposal to place the weapons of aggressive war under the control of the League of Nations and otherwise strengthen its efficiency as an instrument of general security.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Recent figures would seem to indicate that any change in the trade between New Zealand and Canada would necessarily have to be an improvement.

Cheer up! There's lots of people in worst luck than us. Look at West York; it has to endure a political campaign.

If pension revision is delayed too long all the urgent cases will have been automatically removed from the pension docket.

On the other hand, as the Border Cities Star sees it, the depression has provided a handy alibi for those who didn't have any money in the first place.

When Hon. Ian MacKenzie described the Bennett administration as "a Government of millionaires for millionaires," he undoubtedly did so in the belief that it would tend to help the country out of its present difficulties.

A Scotsman committed suicide because he was unable to play golf. Thousands of others who can't play however, prefer to keep on trying.

In Lighter Vein

Of Higher Order.

Monarchs have their light moments, as well as other people. King Edward, for example, acted out a pun with a well-known tea merchant.

"Lipton," he said, "I think I shall give you an order shortly."

"That is exceedingly kind of Your Majesty," returned Lipton. "I shall have a price list sent at once."

A few days later the King handed the tea merchant his order. "Here's a surprise packet for you, Lipton," he said. "Please do not open it until you return home." He handed over a little box which, on opening later, Lipton found to contain the insignia making him a knight commander of the Victorian Order.—Vanity Fair.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, April 27.— A firm undertone was evident yesterday in the produce and dairy markets here. Prices of eggs in bulk were advanced, while other lines, such as butter and eggs, were unchanged.

Butter was generally at the 16½c line for No. 1 quality in car lots or less. Receipts continued moderate, at 300 boxes. Export trade to England has not yet started, stocks here being small.

The egg market was a little firmer, with extras at 16½c, firsts at 14½c and seconds 12½c to 13c per dozen. These prices were ½c above yesterday's levels. Receipts were 3,609 cases.

The cheese market held steady at 10c for current make and 12c to 12½c for summers. Loading for export was continued. Receipts were 494 boxes.

Potatoes were unchanged. New Florida No. 1 were $10.50 to $11, ex-track, with No. 2 quality quoted $7 to $7.50. Prices for old potatoes follow: New Brunswick Green Mountains, 80 lbs., No. 1, 43c to 45c; Prince Edward Island and Quebec Green Mountains, 15 lbs., fancy, 14c to 16c; P.E.I. Green Mountains, 90 lbs., No. 1, 55c; local whites, 80 lbs., No. 1, 30c to 40c. Car-lot prices were 10c cheaper per bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Increased anxiety over crop damage reports as to big abandonment of planted acreage, especially in Nebraska, put wheat prices sharply higher at times yesterday.

Giving additional incentive to wheat bulls were forecasters of heavy frost and freezing temperatures to-night in Western Kansas and Nebraska. Furthermore, for the first time in many months a decrease of world's available stocks of wheat made the total substantially less than was the case a year ago.

Wheat Closes Firm.

Wheat closed firm, ¼c to ½c above yesterday's finish; corn, ¼c to ⅜ off; oats, ⅛c to ⅜c up; and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 2c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 2. — Wheat traders marked time yesterday as the market idled through one of the dullest sessions in months to close ¼c to ½c lower for the day. May eased ¼c to 62⅜, July ⅛c to 64½c, and October ¼c to 67c.

There was no trace of any export worked overnight. Trading was wholly local in character and consisted of changing from May to July. Lack of offerings checked any tendency to lower levels, but there was never any great pressure to either buy or sell.

Bradstreet reported the available supply of wheat in Canada, and the United States had decreased 12,573,000 bushels. Wheat afloat and in Europe decreased 4,100,000 and total wheat available reported at 420,784,000 bushels.

Cash wheat and coarse grains were dormant. Prices were unchanged.

SON OF THE GODS

By REX BEACH

"I suppose the young man called her his lotus flower?"

"No; his Thousand Pieces of Gold—"

"How pretty!"

"—and his string of Rubies. When Chin Ting's father learned that she had gone to the festival against his command he wanted to boil her in oil. But her mother was more tender-hearted; she wished only to boil her daughter's hand therein."

"I'll bet! Parents are pretty much alike. I ran away from home to see the fireworks."

"Indeed?"

"Sure! The trouble is I'm not seeing them. The nearest I've come was—the other night. I had an awfully good time while it lasted." Alice semed to think, of a sudden, that she was overdoing her thanks or was talking too freely, for after another hurried word or two she said good night and hung up.

Sam read no more that evening. What did that friendly telephone conversation signify? Was Miss Hart unlike other American girls? She must be. Would he dare ring up Miss Hart after a proper lapse of time? How long should he wait? There is nothing in Chinese etiquette about telephoning young ladies. But this wasn't China; it was America. And he was an American—A moment and he shook his head at this reflection. He was nothing of the sort. He was a "Chink."—But at least he could send her some flowers. Of course! No possible offense in that. Magnificent flowers, too; she must learn that he did everything in a princely manner.

INSTALMENT NO. 3

A month passed. Trees had leaved out. The side street where Alice Hart roomed was dark at night for the branches of its elms met overhead and cast heavy shadows along the curb. Sam Lee stopped his car midway of the block and waited.

Alice was prompt, as usual, she materialized from the gloom, seated herself at Sam's side, and they were off.

In a breathless, earnest voice she thanked him for some gift he had sent her that day.

"Did you like it?"

"You know I like it. But how did you cultivate such taste in women's things? A girl should distrust any man who can select dresses. It's an indication of bad character."

Sam laughed, his companion drew her shoulders together, hugged herself, nestled closer to him.

Following that first telephone call Sam had sent Alice a box of flowers; they were the finest, the longest stemmed roses she had ever seen. A gift so expensive demanded acknowledgment, so she had called him again. They had chatted at greater length this time and somehow she had mentioned that car of his. In answer to his diffident invitation she had said of course she would enjoy a ride, any evening. That had been the beginning. Sam was not doing so well in his studies now as heretofore but he was happier and more contented that at any time since coming to Eastern and he was getting to know the roads outside the city by heart.

Alice's work at art school was confining; she was a country girl and she loved fresh air. These restful excursions had proved a blessed relief and she often declared it was nice to have a friend like Sam. Not a Spud Gorham or a Kicker Wade, but a dependable, solid friend like Sam, who possessed a serious mind and who respected girls.

Alice talked a good deal about her work, her ambitions and her sacrifices. Miss Hart was always in deep earnest about her art, but other matters she treated more lightly, and usually she was full of fun. There was a distinct charm about her for she had a curious knack of talking confidently about herself and her personal concerns, and of showing the warmest interest in other people's affairs. She was some indefinite number of years older than Sam—nevertheless, she deferred to his wisdom in a flattering manner.

Their friendship had proven very wonderful, deeply intoxicating to the boy; it had expanded him, he was a different person.

Alice had treated him with an odd mixture of friendliness and constraint at first; she had appeared to be attracted to him, nevertheless she had been suspicious, fearful of his advances. When he failed to make any, her shyness wore off and they became real pals. She was at all times eager to go out with him but diffident about being seen in public places and explained this on the ground that she lacked the means to dress becomingly.

One evening, however, she did consent to go with him into a small clam chowder place where they were not likely to be recognized and there they discovered an orchestrion which played discordantly when nickels were fed to it. Alice was surprised to learn that Sam could not dance and she volunteered to teach him; thereafter they dropped in whenever they passed the place. It was great fun and Alice declared he was rapidly becoming one of the best dancers she knew, if not the very best.

Pleasing as she was in most ways, the girl possessed one characteristic which disappointed Sam, she had a discontented mind and suffered periods of intense despondency; she was likely to break out in a vitriolic and utterly reasonless tirade against her luck, her condition, her lack of opportunity. This feeling of inferiority, amounting almost to a complex, mystified Sam, for he had never known the pains of self-denial, and poverty in Chinese eyes is no social bar sinister—not even a handicap. When he made this plain to her, she was surprised, she could not believe that he was in earnest or that he could cherish any real regard for her, a mere nobody. To be sure, she was a student, an intellectual, an artist, but what of that? Those things might count in China but not here.

Although she always appeared to Sam neatly and tastefully dressed, she nevertheless was overconscious of her poor appearance so he began giving her little luxuries which he felt sure she could not afford to buy; a box of lacy handkerchiefs, for instance, or a few pairs of gloves, silk hose and the like. When she protested he assured her they were mere trifles.

"Trifles to you, a wild extravagance for me," she told him.

Sam smiled faintly. "It seems to me you have so much."

"In Heaven's name what? Health, youth, a fair amount of good looks. How much will they bring?"

"The quest of knowledge is the most honorable of pursuits. You'll be a great artist."

"Never! Why? Because I won't have the chance. It takes time and money to become an artist. I'll go back to Bartonville with a smattering of art, just enough experience to make me hate everything else, and to keeping house, cooking, washing, playing nurse-girl. I can see it coming and—I'd rather die."

"We have a proverb which runs, 'The more unlikely I am to be successful, the more diligently will I study.' It's quite a fine thing to be steeped in the sayings and the philosophies of an ancient, thoughtful people; it's a short cut to experience. We Chinese children are taught stories, as well as apothegms, and many of them have to do with scholars who acquired culture, made much of themselves, under difficulties infinitely greater than yours. They're a spur to diligence; one of the very first stories we're told is about the boy who had no money for a lamp and caught fireflies to light the pages of his book."

"Your stories, I notice, are all about boys."

"There are too many women in China."

"There are too many women everywhere, and I'm one of the surplus. No fireflies come out way. We dream—of Paris, Life, and go back to our Bartonville and our patent wringer." Again the speaker uttered a resentful sound.

Following this conversation Sam made bold to present Alice with gifts somewhat more substantial than theretofore. Today he had sent her a dress, and in view of her ardent gratitude he took occasion, later in the evening, to broach another matter to which he had given much thought. He began cautiously by teling Alice something about his father. He had never said much about Lee Ying but tonight he informed her that the importer was a man of wide but unobtrusive charities. Lee Ying did much to help those deserving of assistance, regardless of race; he was deaf to no appeal. It was his money, for instance which the speaker lent so liberally to the boys who honored him with their friendship and his father approved of the loans. The old man was forever urging his son to do more for those less happily situated than he, arguing that help at this time might be of inestimable value to them in later life. Sam wondered if Alice would take it amiss if he offered her the same sort of assistance he rendered fellows like Gorham and Wade.

"You mean—money?"

"Exactly. Understand, it's not mine, it's my father's. He considers it a privilege to aid any one engaged in the pursuit of a higher science."

"I couldn't do that," Alice exclaimed hurriedly. "I feel wretched enough at letting you do as much as you've done. I—think I'd die if anybody found out. Please don't tell him anything about me; I don't want him, or anybody, to know."

"Have you told your people about me?"

"Good Lord, no! They're only looking for an excuse to send for me."

After a moment Sam announced gravely: "Under the circumstances, I'm afraid we'll have to give up these rides. I'd never forgive myself if I were to cause trouble between your family and you."

"Oh, Sam!" Alice laid a hand upon his arm and looked up into his face. "Don't you want to see me any more?"

He assured her quite honestly that he did not want to see her, that he wanted to see as much of her as possible. He could not tell her how much her friendship had meant to him. "I'm the loneliest, hungriest fellow in the college, and I find nothing incongruous or improper in our friendship. But I'm not blind. I understand why you meet me in the darkest spot on your street; why you refuse to go out in public with me. It's a hard thing to swallow."

For a while they rode in silence, then Alice inquired: "Is it my fault any more than yours?"

"No. It's the fault of a senseless, formless prejudice which I hate because I can't understand it. For that matter, I hate clandestine things, too. We can't go on like this."

"Why not?"

"For one thing I have a pretty stiff Chinese pride and for another I've been taught filial obedience. You owe it to your people to observe their prohibitions."

"Indeed?—You remember that girl in the Chinese story? Chin Ting, wasn't that her name? Well, her people forbade her to go to the Feast of the Lanterns but the boy contrived her escape. Clandestinely. I guess people are pretty much alike, the world over, Chinese or American—It's rather exciting to be clandestine. There's a kick in it." Alice laughed in her intimate "cozy" tone and leaned closer to her companion. His heart pounded at her touch. ""Don't let's get prudish in our old age, Sam. I'm not going to give you up. Not for some silly principle—some foolish prejudice. I'm too selfish."

PRICE CHANGES ARE FRACTIONAL

Bell and Montreal Power Gain Slightly in Toronto Trading.

IMPERIAL HIGHER.

TORONTO, April 27 (C.P.) — Prices moved in a fractional range, in continued dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day.

Bell Telephone and Montreal Power were strong spots, rising about a point and a point and a half, respectively. Other utilities did not fare so well, losses being recorded by Brazilian and Canadian Pacific. Food, mining and distillery stocks were practically unchanged.

Imperial and International Petroleum moved higher, but other oils were quiet and unchanged.

Ford "A" was one of the few industrials that changed, rising fractionally.

FIRE DAMAGES HASTINGS PLANT

Fire of Unknown Origin Breaks Out in Lavoie Knitting Plant.

DAMAGE IS $3,000.

HASTINGS, April 27.—(Examiner Correspondence.) — Fire of an unknown origin did considerable damage in the old Howard Block early this morning. It started in the stock room of the Lavoie Knitting Company, the yarn and woollen goods burning rapidly. The volunteer Hastings Fire Brigade responded quickly to the alarm and did fine work to confine the blaze to the south wing. The fire was checked in the Lavoie section, but water caused much damage to the two floors directly benea . About $3,000 was the extent of the loss suffered by the Lavoie Company, while Dr. Wilson's den, office below was damaged to about 1,000. The barber shop of W. Hubbell on the first floor was water-soaked and no estimation coul be made of the damage.

The blaze was discovered at 6.30 this morning by Mr. Edward Mouncey as he was passing the Howard Block at Bridge and Front streets. He heard a crack and looked up to see flames in the window. He immediatly turned in a general alarm. W. A. Lavoie was notified at Peterborough on his way to Toronto by the C.P.R. train.

LOCAL TRADER SELECTS LIST

Watch These Stocks and See How They Will Prosper.

IN NEXT SIX MONTHS.

There are a great many suggestions being made at the present time as to what would be a well selected list of stocks to buy at figures representing almost the lowest the stocks are apt to touch and guaranteeing a speculation as well as an investment return.

A local trader whose experience covers a period of years and who has both made and lost on the market but nevertheless is credited with being as shrewd as any trader here, gives the following list of stocks and figures at which to buy, keeping in view safety, minimum of investment, speculative possibilities and investment return.

It will be interesting to note these stocks and the prices and dividend returns on each six months hence.

Half Dozen Issues Hold Standard Trade

TORONTO, April 27 (C.P.).—Price action was somewhat mixed and confined to an odd half-dozen issues in dull forenoon trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange Market to-day.

Wright-Hargreaves met good demand and showed a net gain of 6 at 2.38 when taken at noon. Teck-Hughes was steady at $3.50, but Hollinger lost 5 of recent gain at $4.80. Among cheaper golds Bidgood was active and fractionally higher. Buffalo Canadian eased a couple to 29, and Bobjo was off a fraction.

Noranda moved up 25 to $15.50 around midday. International Nickel and Eldorado were just holding. In the oil section Peninsular Pete lost a small fraction to 2½.

MAY DIVIDEND PAMENTS DROP HALF MILLION FROM LAST YEAR

Estimate of $4,420,488 Next Month in Dividend Payments.

MANY OMISSIONS.

(By A. D. O'Halloran, Special to The Examiner. Copyright, 1932)

TORONTO, April 27 (SNS)—Dividend reductions and omissions again take their toll in the amount of cash disbursements to be made to the shareholders of Canadian companies in the month of May. An estimate of distributions for the month compiled from official declarations indicates that the total for May, 1932, will fall below the corresponding months of 1931 and 1930, and that the recession notable throughout the year 1931 and in all months of 1932 to date continues.

Dividend payments of $4,420,488 for May, 1932, are estimated from declarations to date, as compared with $5,095,274 in May, 1931, and $6,109,931 in May, 1930. There are still a few companies yet to hear from that will increase the total. No less than three corporations have rearranged their dates of payment to make distributions in the forthcoming month which has helped to make a more favorable showing as compared with the past two years. Quebec Power and Shawinigan Water and Power deferred action on payments ordinarily due in April and are making distributions at a reduced rate in May this year, and Claude Neon General Advertising has rearranged the quarterly dividend date and are making payment of an adjustment dividend of 2 1-3 per cent. on the preferred shares.

Dividends that will not be paid include that on the "A" ordinary shares of 25 cents by Beatty Bros.; the dividend on the first preferred shares of Frost Steel and Wire Company and on the preference shares of Simpson's Limited. In addition other corporations have announced reductions in the rate for the quarter. Shawinigan Water and Power rate has been lowered from 50 to 25 cents; Quebec Power from 50 to 25 cents; Canadian Car and Foundry from 25 to 15 cents; Foundation Company of Canada from 25 to 12½ cents; Humberstone Shoe from 60 to 50 cents; Dominion Motors from 62½ to 50 cents, and Service Stations preferred from $1.50 to 75 cents.

Mining corporations are treating their stockholders liberally, with Hollinger distributing almost $360,000; Teck-Hughes, $725,000, and International Nickel close to $500,000 on the preferred issue.

Imperial Bank is the only Canadian bank to make a distribution in the month, with most other banks paying at the end of the calendar quarters.

club and suffered a bad scalp wound.

Peter Veregin, president of the Christian community of Universal Brotherhood, was recently said to have ordered an eviction of all Sons of Freedom at Brilliant for alleged non-payment of dues and general insubordination, the plan being to concentrate them at Kressotva, above Pleasant Valley, where community houses and land were allotted for their use.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 27 (C.P.)—Toronto Stock Exchange market was firm to strong to-day. Gains, although fractional, prevailed in all sections. A limited number of issues, including Bell Telephone and Montreal Power, registered larger gains.

Bell Telephone finished 1 point higher at 86. Montreal Power came out practically unchanged from last night, rose about 1½ points in the third hour and jumped to 29¼ before the close to show a net gain over more than 2 points.

Oils were actively traded towards the close, all the leaders finishing above last night. International Pete led the advance with a rise of ¾ of a point.

C.P.R., Dominion Stores, Ford of Canada, Nickel, Noranda, Smelters, Walkers, both Common and Preferred, finished ⅛ to ¾ of a point higher.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 27. —(CP)— The stock market showed quiet firmness for the third successive session today. Adverse dividend news was largely ignored, and prices worked higher in light trading. U. S. Steel got up a point, and issues up two points or so included American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical, Coca Cola, Norfolk and Western, American Water Works, and Union Pacific. Delaware and Hudson pushed up five. The late tone was strong. The turnover exceeded a million shares.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 27. — (CP) — With total sales of 106,000 shares establishing a new low turnover for a full session this year Standard Stock and Mining exchange market turned in a dull performance today, prices closing with mixed changes.

Odd lots of Teck-Hughes, Wright-Hargreaves and Lake Shore changed hands at the close at advances over last night's finals, but Hollinger and Dome lost 5 apiece and McIntyre was off 25.

Buffalo Canadian was under pressure and down 3 among cheaper golds and Howey lost a cent. McKinley, Moss, Bidgood and Kirkland Townsite recorded small gains.

Noranda and Internation Nickel also handled in odd lots, were somewhat higher, but Eldorado lost a cent or so in quiet trading.

Canada Bud Shows Increased Profits

One of the few concerns that shows an increase in business for the quarter ending March 31st is the Canada Bud Breweries Limited. In a letter recently sent out to shareholders it is stated that profits for January and February were in excess of 1931 and that sales for March are ahead of the same month last year.

TEACHERS TO TAKE CUT.

SIMCOE.—Simcoe school teachers will be asked to take a general ten per cent. cut in salaries as the result of a special meeting of the Board of Education held last night.

More N.B. Coal To Be Used By Canadian Railways

SAINT JOHN, N.B., April 27. — (C.P.). — The percentage of New Brunswick coal used within the Province by Canada's railway systems will be doubled, it was predicted here by A. D. Taylor, M.L.A. for Sunbury, and himself a coal operator in the Grand Lake district.

Recently 30 per cent. of the coal used on railway lines in New Brunswick was produced in the Province. Last year, this amounted to 118,000 tons.

While the percentage will be increased from 30 to 60, the amount of New Brunswick coal used will amount to only about 175,000 tons, as the total tonnage requirements will be considerably less than last year owing to curtailments in rail operators.

MONTREAL HOME IS LIABILITY

cablegrams between himself and Tom Moore, chairman of the Trades and Labor congress and a director of the C.N.R. Mr. Moore is at present in Geneva. In effect it was Mr. Moore's conviction that the government were satisfied to leave the directors free to make extra allowances referred to, and that these were not considered as conflicting with terms of Sir Henry's contract. Sir Henry sought legal opinion on the matter and was informed that the action of the directors was within their powers.

"There appears to be some misunderstanding as to the purchase of the house in question which was for sale by the then owner." Sir Henry said, quoting J. Gill Gardiner, one of the directors. "The company however had nothing to do with any purchase. I simply leased the property."

Touching on the matter of expense accounts, Sir Henry said that this situation had become distorted in the public mind and had been portrayed by the press report tending to create the idea that there had been widespread wrong-doing. There was no ground whatever for that belief. Both in point of efficiency and honesty the personnel of the C.N.R. measures up to high standards.

Year's Travelling Expenses

Approximately $1,900,000 in 1930 and $1,600,000 in 1931 are repeatedly referred to as being entertainment expenses of the officials, and, in some cases, as being the entertainment expenses of the executive officers," Sir Henry said. "These amounts, in point of fact, represent a year's travelling activities on the part of 3,500 C. N. men, of whom 812 are officers."

The expenses included all payments at hotels, sleeping car fares, meals and necessary incidental expenses. The average of these travelling expenses worked out at about $40 a month per man whose duties called for expense disbursements. In 1931 the travelling expenses of the 712 officials amounted to $514,000.

Club Dues

"Another statement which has attracted wide attention is to the effect that the railway is disbursing an amount of $100,000 a year in dues for social club membership for officers and staff. There is nothing, either in 1930 or in any other year, to support this statement. The highest amount disbursed in any year on that account was $30,000, and no such payments are now authorized except after the most careful consideration by the board of directors as to the necessity of such club membership. As a matter of fact, it is a well-known practice of large business organizations to have their officers become members of important clubs where contact is made with prominent and influential men. The C.N.R. was no exception to the prevailing practice. For dues in business clubs the railway expended in 1930 and 1931 an average of $18,016." Sir Henry closed with an expression of appreciation of the services of the officials of the road.

Dr. Peter McGibbon (Cons., Muskoka) declared that in spite of Sir Henry's statement, he did not believe in the "underhand" manner of doing business. Sir Henry and the board should not have gone beyond the terms of the contract.

Cleared the Air

The statement of Sir Henry cleared the air, in the opinion of Hon. W. D. Euler (Lib., Waterloo North). Perhaps the preceding Government may have been to blame in a measure, but if so that "blame" lay in its desire to keep the railways out of politics. He deplored these things being broadcast throughout the country. They should have been referred to the board of directors.

Answering R. B. Hanson (Cons., Yonk Sunbury) chairman of the committee, Mr. Euler thought the function of the committee was to examine the estimates and financial phases of the railway, and if necessary, report what findings it may make, to the directors for appropriate action.

J. D. Chaplin (Cons., Lincoln), disagreed with Mr. Euler. He thought Sir Henry's action in accepting those extra emoluments was inexcusable and wondered if Hon. C. A. Dunning, former Minister of Railways, knew anything about these matters. He would like to have Mr. Dunning appear before the committee to give evidence in this respect.

Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, emphasized that under the present administration there had been no interference with the railways. He had had all these matters under consideration for a long while, and had found it necessary to warn the railway's executives that they had become too enthusiastic about the future of the system and were spending too much.

He took issue with Mr. Euler, and expressed his view that the committee's function was to examine all phases of the railway finances, without interfering with the efficiency of the board.

Estate Of J. A. Beatty Is Valued At $296,385

The Toronto General Trusts Corporation, Harold A. Morrow, and Margaret Jane Beatty will shortly make application for the grant of letters probate to the will of the late James A. Beatty, who died on March 28, leaving on estate having an inventoried value of $296,385.64. Under the testator's will his widow, Margaret Jane Beatty, is bequeathed the household goods, furniture, motor cars, etc., as well as a life interest in 85 per cent. of the net annual income, the balance of the net income being payable to the deceased's sister, Mrs. Edith Annie Elizabeth Liddy, during her lifetime.

Upon the death of Margaret Jane Beatty and Edith A. E. Liddy, but subject to the payment of $60.00 per month to Mrs. Dorothy M. Sykes, sister-in-law, in the event of her surviving, the net annual income is payable to the testator's daughter, Catharine Mary Beatty, during her lifetime, the capital passing upon her death to her issue in equal shares.

DAMAGE ACTION

he stated. "It cut my eye and I lost my sight. I was breaking a big lump of coal at the time and a piece flew up and struck me."

After bathing the eye carefully, Dr. Cragg was called to attend him the next day. "He couldn't do anything and the eye broke and ran out," he stated. He was off duty for more than a month; his sons tending to his work at the buildings.

It was the end of July before he concluded treatment with Dr. Cragg. Later he went to an eye-specialist, Dr. O'Connor in Kingston and was under his treatment for nearly three years. An abscess formed on the eye and Dr. O'Connor advised the removal of the eye and that was done, witness said, Dr. N. D. Buchanan and Dr. M. Yelland performing the operation about November 1, 1929.

During this time he continued in the employ of the county as caretaker of the buildings, his son doing his duties.

Dismissed in 1930

In October, 1930, he was dismissed, he said.

"Did you get any notice?" asked Mr. Hall.

"None. They just called me into county council and told me I was through," he continued. "I was a salary man and hired by the year and I felt I should get six months' salary."

"What did you do?" asked Mr. Hall.

"I stayed in the residence. They ordered me out, and I did not go. They sent the bailiff, but I remained in the residence until I was advised I could not keep it," replied Mr. Mahood.

Later he went to the Compensation Board, but was not given any compensation. He then began the action for damages against the county.

Before his accident in 1925, witness said, his health was of the best. His eyes were good and he did not require glasses.

Soon after the accident he noticed that his uninjured eye, the left one, did not have as good sight as previously and it continued to get worse. His hearing also suffered. His right hand lost its grip.

He said that because of his poor eyesight he could not now return to his former occupations of butcher and stone mason. Since his dismissal from the county's employ he has had no work, he said, because there is none that he is capable for.

No action was taken by him against the council previously to his dismissal, he said, because he considered that he was being properly treated as long as he was given employment. Most of the members of County Council knew of his accident he said.

He said he was married and had three children under the age of twenty-one.

Cross-examined, Mr. Mahood said he did the sweeping, dusting, keeping clean of corridors, cleaning windows and cutting grass around the court house. All his life he had been using tools, being four years occupied as a stone mason. He succeeded "Cap" White as furnace tender in February, 1929.

Asked by Mr. Kerr as to who instructed him to use the axe to break the coal he said: "It must have been the Council they hired me." He secured the key to the furnace room from Mr. Elliott where the tools were.

The handle of the axe started to come out almost from the first. Mr. Elliott knew of the accident to his eye and was frequently in the house when Dr. Cragg was dressing his eye, stated witness. He never consulted any lawyer about the injury to his eye until he was dismissed from the county's employ, he said.

About 16 or 18 years ago, he said, he had to have part of his foot amputated when it became jammed between two heavy weights. Later the whole foot had to be cut off. When he enterd the employ of the council his eyes ran water.

Re-examined, Mr. Mahood said the water running from his eyes never troubled him previous to the accident to his eye.

Robert Mahood, son of the previous witness, said that after the injury to his father's eye he and his brother did his father's work. He used the old axe to break the large chunks of coal.

Robert M. Graham said he was a truck driver who had been accustomed during the past twenty years in handling coal. He stated that there are large lumps of coal which require to be broken up and hitting coal with a blunt end of an axe is dangerous since the coal splinters fly. He displayed a sharp-pointed instrument in court which he claimed was called a coal-pick, or miner's pick, for breaking up coal.

Cross-examined, he said, the pick had been sent from the Alberta mines when Alberta coal was introduced here. He also produced a coal breaker used by railway engine firemen.

Earl Mahood, son of the plaintiff, said the only instrument available for breaking coal in court house cellar when his father was employed there was an axe.

Donald J. McLeod, who said he had been a stationery engineer for 30 years and is now employed at the Nashua Paper Company, said a coal pick is used generally on a locomotive. But, he said, generally in stationery plants a sledge is used. He judged an axe to be a very ineffective tool for breaking coal because of the danger from flying splinters.

GORDON GIVEN FULL DAMAGES IN COURT CASE

Judgment for Full Amount of Claim Given by Chief Justice Rose.

ALL THREE LIABLE

Case Arose Out of Lending Money to Erect House in Toronto.

Judgment or the full amount of his claim of $3,100 was given Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., yesterday afternoon by Chief Justice Rose againts Mrs. Jessie H. Perrin, her husband, A. A. Perrin, both of Toronto, and formerly of this city, and W. Gladstone Brown, Toronto, contractor. The case was the first completed during the present session of the Supreme Court of Ontario here, Chief Justice Rose giving his judgment late yesterday. Two cases were settled out of court, but two more still require the attention of the court.

The judgment was for Mr. Gordon against all three of the defendants in the action, except on two notes totalling $800 on which A. A. Perrin was not held liable, also for five per cent. interest on the notes from the time stated in the statement of claim up to the time o fjudgment and full costs.

The promissory notes were rendered to Mr. Gordon by the defendants for loans advanced by him to them early last year in order to assist them in building a house in Scarborough Township. Chief Justice Rose held that Brown and Mrs. Perrin were partners in the enterprise and therefore Brown was liable equally with Mrs. Perrin. Mr. Perrin's name was signed to all the notes except the two on which His Lordship did not hold him liable.

Brown's Evidence.

Continuing his testimony yesterday, W. Gladstone Brown said that he had never been asked to repay any of the loans made by Mr. Gordon to Mrs. Perrin.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hall, he said he was in partnership with Mrs. Perrin in building houses and that the houses completed were held in both Mrs. Perrin's and his name. He stated that he secured the lumber and materials for the home on his own credit since Mrs. Perrin was not known as a builder. He was aware, however, he said, that Mrs. Perrin was borrowing money to construct the house.

A. A. Perrin, next witness, declared that he had invested no money in the house and that he was not otherwise financially interested. He merely filled the role of messenger between his wife and Mr. Gordon.

Cross-examined, he admitted that his signature on the note given to Mr. Gordon made him liable for the payment of the note. Other notes for varying amounts signed by witness in the same way were produced by Mr. Hall. "I signed those merely to get money for Mrs. Perrin,' he said.

"You think you can wriggle out of paying them now on a technicality ' 'asked Mr. Hall. "If Mrs. Perrin fails to pay, you know you have promised to pay?"

"That's the legal aspect," Perrin replied.

"Did you ever go to Mr. Gordon's office and offer to pay these notes?"

"No, sir."

In reply, Mr. Gordon said that the deed offered by Ironside was objectionable because it had a vendor's lien and a mortgage upon it. He said that Mrs. Perrin and Brown had met him in his father's office in Toronto just previous to getting the money from the Woodmen of the World, and at that time they promised to pay the loans he had advanced to them.

Mr. Perrin had never raised the point of being merely on endorser of the notes until th hearing of the action, Mr. Gordon said.

Counsel for defendants questioned Mr. Gordon closely concerning Mr. Gordon's statement that he was not the defendant's counsel, but was merely acting as a consultant, and that his father's firm was their solicitor.

J. W. Gordon, father of G. N Gordon, who said he had been practising law in Toronto for 55 years, stated that he, Alexander L. Elliott and his daughter were members of the firm. He told of the proceedings he had undertaken as solicitor for the Perrins and Brown. He maintained that his firm were solicitors to the Perrins and Brown, and acted throughout in that capacity. R. R. Hall, K.C., acted for Mr. Gordon and W. H. Ford of Toronto for the defendants.

KITCHENER FIRE LOSS $100,000

Blaze at Furniture Factory Gets Good Start in Early Hours.

PLANT FLOODED.

KITCHENER, Ont., April 27 (CP) Damage estimated at $100,000 was caused early to-day, when fire broke out at the plant of the Wunder Furniture Company, Victoria street. Starting shortly before four o'clock, on the third floor in the finishing department, flames broke through into the floor above which was crowded with stock, tumbling chairs and tables by the hundreds into the flames below.

The plant was re-opened Monday after a temporary layoff. Many employees were taken back on that day when a number of large orders were received.

The first and second floors of the plant are flooded with water.

Ask Probe of Funds Used In Hindenburg Campaign

MUNICH, Germany, April 27. —(C.P.)—The headquarters of Adolph Hitler's National Socialist Party announced to-day that a resolution would be introduced in the Reichstag when it convenes May 9, asking for the appointment of a committee to investigate what, if any, public funds were spent for the election campaign of President Paul von Hindenburg.

Motions also would be presented, the announcement said, calling for the dissolution of the Reichstag and the revocation of the emergency decree dissolving the Nazi storm troops promulgated by President von Hindenburg before the Presidential run-off election.

SOWING WHEAT NEAR FENELLA

While Sawing Wood Man Has Collar Bone Broken.

FENELLA PERSONALS.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FENELLA, April 27. — While Frank Shearer, Harwood, was engaged in sawing wood, he was struck by a stick with such force as to break his collar bone. Mr. Shearer is resting comfortably at his home.

Owing to the cold and backward weather, very little work has been done on the land in this district, although one farmer near the village was seeding wheat on Friday. Should weather conditions remain favorable during the coming week, spring work will be in full swing. Fall grains and seeds have wintered well. Strawberry plants that were straw-covered give promise of a vigorous plant growth.

At a meeting of the Fenella Dramatic Society held on Sunday evening at the close of divine service it was decided to use the funds of the Society to erect new steps leading to the entrances to the church.

The county stone crusher, which was in opeartion at Brisbin's, about ten miles south-west of Fenella, resumed work on Monday morning, with W. Jones in charge.

St. John's Choir To Stage Concert

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The choir of St. John's United Church, Campbellford, will stage a grand concert on the evening of May 3, in the auditorium of the church. This will be a feature event and will no doubt attract a large audience. The program will be divided in three parts. The first will be given over to a concert of high class musical talent including vocal selections, chorus, and instrumental numbers. The second part will be given over to orchestral numbers and the last portion of the program will be the presentation of a minstrel show. This entertainment will suit the taste of all people.

SPRING RECITAL AT MILLBROOK

Pupils of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham Present Delightful Program in Town Hall.

LARGE AUDIENCE PRESENT.

MILLBROOK, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—The town hall was well filled on Friday evening for the enjoyable program presented by the pupils of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, Helen Annesley Staples and Mary Elizabeth Carveth, in their annual spring recital of poetry and music, the assisting artists being Mrs. Bingham, who was heard in contralto solo numbers, J. Edward Fisher, concert pianist and accompanist, of Toronto, and his youngest son, Master Earle Fisher, boy soprano of St. Jude's Church, Toronto.

Honoring the bi-centenary of Franz Joseph Hayden, which was celebrated over the civilized world in March of this year, Mrs. Bingham appropriately chose for the opening of the program two selections by this famous composer, "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," and "She Never Told Her Love," from Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." Mrs. Bingham's rich contralto voice was never heard to better advantage than it was on Firday evening, and the stage setting was effectively but simply arranged with dark curtains at sides, and background, the singer, wearing an evening dress of sheer ivory georgette with ruffled satin ribbon trimming, amethyst necklet, and cluster of violets heading the long ends of the satin girdle, being discovered seated on a low stool in the centre of the platform, as the curtain rose, and her opening selections were sung.

"The Fairies of Caldon Low" (Mary Howitt), one of the competition numbers for the Durham County Musical Festival to be held at Bowmanville May 18, was the initial selection given by Mary Elizabeth Carveth, her gracefulness of gesture and other movements, with a marked ability in facial expression to suit the lines spoken, faultless memory work, being outstanding characteristics of her rendition of this, and her later number, "Madelaine Vercheres" (Drummond), with a quaint little recall, "The Morning Glory Plant."

Master Earle Fisher won warm applause for his every appearance during the evening, and though apparently suffering from a cold, resulting in some hoarseness, yet his notes even in the higher register, were clear and true, soaring out with resonant sweetness. His first numbers were "To a Hill-top" (Cox) and "To Me Thou Art a Flower" (Rubenstein); and in the second instance, "The Chorister" (Sullivan) and "Under the Greenwood Tree" (Bury), probably the one in which he was heard to best advantage during the program. His final group of songs was "I Passed by Your Window" (Brahe) and "Friendship" (Marzias).

J. Edward Fisher excels as an accompanist, a role which he filled for practically every number throughout the program, with the exception of his own piano solos, when he delighted the listeners with his interpretive ability in connection with the compositions chosen, his appealing lightness of touch and the finished technique of his playing. For his initial numbers Mr. Fisher chose "Visions," by Tschaikowski, followed by "Serenade," by Hammer and in the next part of the program he played "A Hymn to Nature" (Beethoven) and "The Lost Chord" (Sullivan), the audience demanding a recall for the latter well-known selection.

Helen Annesley Staples' initial entrance upon the stage was in "The Happy Prince," by Oscar Wilde. The setting for this story-poem was cleverly arranged, a raised, square pedestal, with pointed gold cornices, simulating naturally the top of the tower, on which the statue of the Happy Prince was placed.

Posing as the statue, Miss Staples wore a tunic, knee length, of gold satin, a gold dagger thrust into the girdle, with a large ruby in its hilt, gold-laced sandals, and a cloak of diaphanous material caught from the shoulders. A colored light that seemed to tell of sunshine and passing clouds played always on the head and shoulders, bringing into relief the shining wreath of laurel worn in the hair. Mr. Fisher played the piano accompaniment, the music being by Lehman.

Mrs. Bingham's second number was an "Irish Reel" (Molloy), and was particularly well chosen, the merry lilt introducing a pleasing variety that caught the fancy of the listeners, and almost set their feet moving.

After Master Earle Fisher's final solo group, Miss Staples made her bow in "The Highwayman" (Alfred Noyes), and again the stage setting was most effective, the open window of the country hostel, with curtain drawn back, and the maiden standing in its light watching the road for her highwayman lover, making a strong appeal. A long dress of bright red, with black satin laced girdle, red costume jewelry and a dainty lace cap on her dark tresses was the appropriate costume chosen for this number, which was given in such realistic fashion, the listeners almost held their breath as the arrival of the soldiers was depicted, the maiden bound, finally giving her own life to save that of her lawless lover. The descriptive piano accompaniment by Mr. Fisher helped greatly in the interpretation of the poem by the speaker.

The program closed with a quaint romantic comedy, "Yellow Roses,"

Hottest Autumn In Seventy Years

BUENOS AIRES, April 27. The hottest day of an autumnal season in which temperatures have been higher than for seventy years sent the thermometers to 86.7 degrees Fahrenheit yesterday. Weather forecasters said no cooler weather was in sight in spite of isolated showers in the northern and southern sections.

with the scene going back to the year 1878, the stage being coslly arranged as a living-room in the home of Mrs. Beverly (Mrs. W. McKee Bingham), with comfortable sofa chairs, fire-place and old-fashioned pictures and spindle-legged table. Miss Staples took the part of Colonel St. Clair, looking the part exceptionally well in black frock-coat suit, silk hat, shoulder cape, white woollen muffler and buttoned gaiter boots.

high protection tariff policy of his government as being necessary under present conditions. "To safeguard the very life-blood of this country," Canada, in the midst of world-wide depression could "not afford to set an example to all Christendom and let down its tariff barriers and become the dumping ground for the world."

Mackenzie King was equally as assertive in opposing the policy. It was a policy of exclusion, not protection, he urgued and contracted trade to such an extent that Canada's commerce had been cut in half in two years.

Both leaders touched problems relating to the Imperial Economic Conference. "Don't place Empire relations on a dollar and cents basis," said Mr. King. The conference, he added, would be a failure if a spirit of bargaining and national selfishness permeated the discussions.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, replied Premier Bennett, set an example for "bargaining" at Empire conferences. In 1902, the late Liberal leader, proposed trade and tariff conditions in negotiating with Great Britain. In 1930, at the conference in London, added the Prime Minister, he had followed in Laurier's footsteps.

ST. LUKE'S PLAY IS BIG SUCCESS

Three-Act Comedy Drama, "The Empty Room," Repeated To-night.

PLAY WELL ACTED.

Kidnapping mystery and romance were the three principle ingredients in a thrilling and delightful three act comedy drama entitled "The Empty Room", which was presented in St. Luke's Parish Hall last evening by St. Luke's Branch of the A.Y.P.A.

Directed by Stanley E. Curtis, the play was well staged and was tendered a good reception by the audience. It is to be given again to-night at the Parish Hall, and will probably attract another large following. Throughout the three scenes there is much well-handled material, providing real wholesome entertainment of a high order.

The plot revolves around the scheming of an unscrupulous woman, whose chance of obtaining a fortune is made possible by a great similarity in appearance between her son and her wealthy brother-in-law's son.

Following the kidnapping of the wealthy young man, which incidently introduces a strong element of mystery, a young newspaper reporter and the "light of his eye", who acts as private secretary to the ambitious mother aid materially in unravelling the succeeding events.

The play was well acted throughout, the addition of two subtle and rather amusing romances rounding out the evening's entertainment. A rather difficult double role of Anthony Allison was cleverly played by Ormie Heap. Other outstanding characters were Tom Ferguson (Douglas Bethune), who was continuously in a trance over the bewitching Peggy Palmer, played by Miss Eleanor Bothwell. Retta Reeves, (Miss Margaret Guthrie), the brave young wife struggling to protect her weak husband against a domineering mother, was another difficult role well portrayed. Miss Krant starred as the scheming mother, Edith Allison.

Miss Alice Bradshaw was entrusted with the part of Barbara Ferguson, the heroine, while Norman Heath took the part of the young journalist. Other members of the cast were: Nora, who first saw the lights (Miss Agnes Moore); Larry Ferguson, typically young Canada, (Mr. H. Bousfield); Fredericka Ferguson, with an identity, (Miss Margaret Bethune); Florine, with no curiosity whatever (Miss Roma Reid); Ned, a chauffeur, (Mr. Ray Pammett); Constance, who lived with Francies (Miss Hazel Seymour); Judge Lennox, the family lawyer (Mr. V. Sedgwick).

The Rev. G. J. Bousfield, rector of St. Luke's Parish acted as the genial master of ceremonies.

RUSSIA OF OLD CHANGING FAST

Montreal Doctor After Trip, Believes Communist Idea is "Working."

LITERATURE IMPROVES.

MONTREAL, April 27.—(C.P.) — The most striking change in modern Russia is in the psychology of her average citizen, Dr. M. Gold, Montreal specialist in obstetrics and gynaecology, said here on his return from a visit to the land of his birth. The introspective Russia of old, given to abstruce speculations and anti-social habits has been replaced by an alert, business-like type, interested in living and in being happy.

On the whole the Communist idea is "working" in Russia, he thought. It was comprising in different places with ideas not originally included in the Communistic scheme, but a generation was growing up in the new idea and having nothing but a Communist background, the new generation accepted the present regime as being the natural order.

A "white collar" job was not necessary to acquire social status, Dr. Gold reported. Even the intelligentsia, which at first had held aloof from the mass is beginning to accept the Communist standards, he noted. Even literature was adopting the idea of mass production and standardization of pattern. Literature, as pre-revolution Russia knew it, is now non-existent.

Hospitals suffered in many cases from lack of facilities and the great number of people who imagined themselves ill in order to obtain dispensation from work. Dr. Gold said. Despite these handicaps the medical profession was doing notable work in Russia.

Don't Keep Your Dollars Where They Can't See Daylight . . .

THE DOLLAR down deep in the sock; imprisoned in the boodle bag or locked up in the strong box is surely blinded to to-day's bargain opportunities. Get them out; get them working; give them the chance to see the light of to-day's bargain opportunities.

At to-day's prices . . . the lowest in 15 years that dollar can work for you as it never has before . . . in clothing, furniture, food, furs, almost all things it can deliver from 40% to double what it purchased in years when you spent it freely. Now is the time to store commodities, not dollars.

The purchasing power of the dollar is to-day at its fullest . . . hold on to it and it will shrivel up as surely as to-day's bargains will fade and disappear with the return of higher prices. That return is very near at hand . . . so near that the procrastinator is sure to be caught napping.

B. C. GOVERNMENT DETERMINES TO HALT SCHOOL BOMBINGS

Offers $2,000 Reward for Arrest of Those Responsible for Sabotage.

IN DOUKHOBOR DISTRICT.

VICTORIA, April 27 (C.P.).—Determined efforts to identify miscreants responsible for a long series of bombings of school buildings and other structures and tampering with railway tracks in the interior of British Columbia have been launched by the Government with the announcement of a reward of $2,000 for information leading to the discovery and arrest of those responsible for sabotage in the Doukhobor areas.

R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General, made the announcement following special efforts to trace those responsible for attempted train wrecking and bombings. In addition to the usual police stationed in the Doukhobor districts, 16 special constables have been sworn in under an intensive system of patrols. Guards have been stationed on public buildings.

Premier S. F. Tolmie announced negotiations were being conducted with the Federal authorities in connection with protection of public property on the main transportation system of the Province.

Marmora

Mrs. Ann Wellman of Trenton is visiting her son Mr. T. C. Potts.

The Men's Club of St. Paul's church are visiting Trenton next Monday evening as the guests of St. George's Men's Club.

The Parochial Council held its quarterly meeting in the rectory on Monday evening.

The First Marmora Company of Girl Guides held another fine meeting at the White Hall on Monday evening. Three Guides were announced as having passed their test for an athletic badge. Preparations have been completed for the visit to Havelock next Saturday evening when the Havelock Company entertains. Two games were played in rollicking style, after which some favorit. songs were sung. The meeting wound up in the usual way, with the singing of Taps. The attendance included forty-three Guides and two visitors.

Millbrook

Mr. A. A. Watt, Manager of the local plant of the Lindsay Creamery Company, and the Millbrook Coal Company, has leased Mrs. W. Archer's house, King St. East, his wife and family having joined him here this week. At present Mr. and Mrs. Watts and family are with Mrs. H. McLeod until the home they have taken is in readiness for their occupation.

Mr. Norton McBrian, of Oshawa, visited his sister, Mrs. A. Wilson, and his mother, Mrs. McBrian, here on Saturday. Mr. Kearns and son, of Peterborough, were guests of Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. McBrian on Sunday.

Mr. J. Edward Fisher, of Toronto, who was in town for the recital of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham's pupils on Firday evening, remaining over the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Bingham, gave a very pleasing recital of organ music after the regular service in St. Thomas' Anglican church on Sunday evening. Selections played included, "The Lost Chord," Handel's Largo," "Moonlight and Roses," and other numbers. Master Earle Fisher, boy soprano of St. Jude's church, Toronto, youngest son of Mr. Fisher, sang during the recital.

Members of other congregations in the village went to St. Thomas' church, following the close of services in their own places of worship, and had the pleasure of hearing the organ recital and Master Earle Fisher's singing, service in the Anglican church not beginning until 7:30 p.m., and the after part not until about nine o'clock.

Rev. S. H. Pickup, minister of St. Giles' church, Toronto, was a week-end guest of Dr. and Miss Jean Russell, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Russell, Bailieboro. Rev. Mr. Pickup, with his host and hostess, Dr. Alfred and Miss Russell, attended divine worship at St. Andrew's church, Millbrook, on Sunday morning.

Miss Isabelle Dawson, of Bailieboro, spent the week-end in the village, the guest of her school friend, Miss Beatrice Jones.

Mrs. A. Wilson was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Kearns, of Peterborough, for a brief stay last week.

A grass fire, that threatened to spread beyond control, on the lawn of Mr. Kerr's residence, corner Centre and Union Streets, led to the ringing of the fire-bell about ten-thirty on Saturday morning. A prompt response on the part of the firemen and other helpers from the downtown section, who formed a bucket brigade, had the fire under control shortly, and it was not necessary to take out the fire-engine.

SOCIAL EVENING BIG ATTRACTION

Splendid Talk, Dialogues, Songs Make Jolly Program at Havelock Church.

HAVELOCK, April 27.—The social evening sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society of Knox Presbyterian Church, held in the school room on Monday evening, April 25th, was an outstanding success; a large number being in attendance, despite the inclement weather and a counter-attraction in the town hall, where a dance was held. The program, which had been carefully prepared, was an excellent one, each number being particularly good, and something sure to interest the most exacting on the list.

The lecture by Mr. Will Platt was perhaps the outstanding number, and proved most interesting. Mr. Platt, who has travelled a great deal, and has a pleasing address held his audience from the beginning to the very last word. His topic, "Egypt," was a familiar one, as Mr. Platt was at the time of the Great War, residing in that country. With the help of a large map, Mr. Platt took his listeners to that part of Egypt where the writer of the first five books of the Bible, Moses, was born. He described the appearance of the country, its inhabitants, and their customs. The only fault that could be found with the lecture was that it was all too short. However, it is hoped and expected that Mr. Platt will at some time in the near future again favor the audience with a continuance of the same interesting talk.

Some Comedy

The dialogue, "Aunt Elizabeth's Missionary Tea" was well done, and proved to be an exceedingly funny one. Mrs. Will Martin as Aunt Elizabeth; Mrs. Robert Scott as Marion Belmont, her niece; and Mrs. Russell Green as the missionary from San Francisco, were all good. The plot of the dialogue hinged on a case of mistaken identity, and the embarrassment of Marion, who has no use for visiting missionaries, and who speaks her mind to the visitor, believing her to be entirely different personage, was one of the high lights. The dialogue closed with a missionary hymn, by three ladies who took part, accompanied by Miss Marguerite Martin.

A sextette, "Dear Annie Laurie," a refined parody on the original "Annie Laurie," was much enjoyed. Miss Maud Sexsmith, Mrs. S. McQuigge, Mrs. Jamieson, Messrs. Albert Wilson, Fred and Will Platt, comprised the sextette.

Two lovely old numbers, "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "The Church in the Wildwood," sung by the sextette with the addition of Mesdames Martin, Green and Scott, were well received. A monologue by Mr. Fred Platt, "Billie's Rose"; a selection on Hawaiian guitar by Mr. Albert Wilson accompanied by Miss Katie Anderson; and a girls' chorus by Misses Madeleine Armstrong, Dorothy Wright, Reta Buchanan, Marguerite Martin, and Vaughan Rorke, "Long, Long Ago," rounded out a very fine program. Rev. Mr. Brown was a most efficient chairman, and at the conclusion thanked those present for their attendance, and for the splendid order maintained during the program. Refreshments were afterwards served by members of the W.M.S. and the evening was brought to a close by the Benediction by Mr. Brown.

Two eleven-year-old boys were recently found guilty at Folkestone, England, of being "cat burglars."

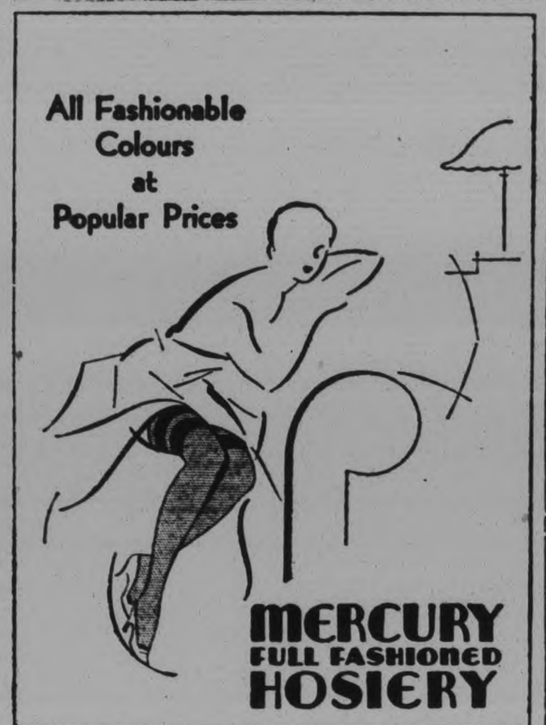
IMPERIAL TOBACCO COMPANY OF CANADA, LIMITED



Trent River

Mrs. James Longmuir was a week-end visitor in Peterborough with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Linton, Miss Ilene, the Misses Mary and Helen Coxwell of Campbellford spent over Sunday at the former's cottage.

The little four year old son, Carleton, of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Longmuir of Old Havelock corners, met with an accident that might have proved fatal while visiting at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gardner of Norwood Friday. Finding a can containing arsenate of lead the little fellow swallowed a few grains. Drs. Carleton and Sutton of Norwood were immediately summoned and succeeded to counteract the poison in time. The child is recovering.

Hepaticas are in bloom. Several bouquets were gathered in the neighboring woods on Sunday.

Trent River cheese factory opens Thursday for the season with Geo. Brooks manager, assisted by Wilfrid Cook.

Burial services for Mrs. Wharton Duff were conducted in disused St. Mary's Chapel at Orton, Scotland, the coffin being conveyed there on a farm cart draped in Duff tartan.

BANQUET CLOSES Y. P. MEETINGS

Fairview Young People Hold a Most Successful Banquet.

BRIDGENORTH NEWS.

BRIDGENORTH, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—Fairview United Church Young People brought their winter mid-week meetings to a close with a very successful banquet on Friday evening.

The tables were set in the Sunday School rooms and had everything to eat that could be desired. About seventy were present.

The program consisted of community singing, readings and several toasts.

Miss Olive Bell made a very gracious and enthusiastic toast mistress. The following toast to the Young People was proposed by Harold Lewis and responded to by Edith Deck; and a toast to the parents was proposed by Mildred Harrison and responded to by Fred Bell. The toast to "Our Country" was proposed by Erma Deck and responded to by Fred Brown. The toast "Our Church" was proposed by Fred Bell and responded to by Rev. R. J. Merriam. Each speaker had prepared his address with care and delivered it with commendable ability. There was considerable wit and humor especially in the address of Mr. Bell and Mr. Brown.

The ice went out of Chemong Lake on Thursday afternoon. The bridge was left quite free from injury, for which all concerned are glad.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Davis of the 14th of Smith took dinner with the Nixon's on Sunday.

On Wednesday Mr. John McIlmoyle of Smith moved from the home of Mrs. Aaron Harrison to Reg Bell's house at Selwyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bradburn are back in their summer home on the 16th of Smith.

Mr. John Davey and family of Peterborough have just moved into a cottage in Chemong Park, where they will spend the summer.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bell of Selwyn visited her sister, Mrs. H. Bradburn on Wednesday.

Rev. R. J. Merriam made several pastoral calls in Selwyn district on Wednesday and Thursday and took tea Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Steward Sanderson.

A new garage and service station is being opened by Harry Ingle in Bridgenorth. He has made many improvements on Thomas Davis' work shop.

GOOD PROGRAM AT LEAGUE MEETING

Ford Group Leads Attendance at Petherick's Corners Gathering.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence) — Forty-seven league members were in attendance at Thursday evening's league service with the Ford group having a decided lead. The meeting was in charge of the citizenship convener, Aylmer Petherick being in charge with Fred Fry as leader. Vice-president George Brunton was in charge of the business session. The president, Roy Fry was appointed the league representative to the official board The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. John Simpson, the devotional talk "Service Stations" by Rev. F. G. MacTavish was a very interesting address throwing new light on some phases of Christian service A reading by Gladys Simpson, vocal trio, Elsie Forde, Evelyn Barnum and Fred Barnum was well received. Aylmer Petherick took the discussion topic followed by a contest which was won by the Durant group.

CAVAN INSTITUTE HOLDS MEETING

Music in School of East Durham is Discussed by the Members.

CAVAN, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—Cavan Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. D J. Hunter, Cavanville, on Thursday with 24 members present.

The president, Mrs. J. W. Perrin presided. The members were requested to answer the roll call with "a housecleaning suggestion." The secretary, Mrs. R. S. Staples paid tribute to the memory of two members of the Institute who have recently passed away, also to two other Institute families who have lost a loved one.

During the business session, a topic of interest was "Music in the Schools." The secretary had been instructed at the last meeting to secure information on the subject. She brought letters from Col. Snider, P.S.I., Mr. Summers and Mrs Robb, a qualified musical instructor, giving much information. Col Snider also expressed his willingness to address a meeting at Millbrook, May 3rd, when he would give any assistance required concerning the inauguration of the teaching of music in the schools of East Durham. It was decided to accept his kind offer and endeavor to have school boards of the schools and members of the Women's Institute notified to attend the meeting.

Mesdames Kennedy and Whitham sponsored a motion "That we should make application to the Department for a nursing course some time in July."

A letter was read from Mr. Putnam advising Institutes to grow liberal quantities of vegetables and advising them that bulletins are available concerning the use and preservation of vegetables.

The May meeting will be the annual election of officers. The roll call to be answered by paying the fee.

Mrs. C. Carr had charge of the following interesting program: solo, Miss M. E. Hunter, with Mrs. Whitham as accompanist; Mrs. Staples read "Her Job"; Mrs. E. Papineau contributed a piano solo. Mrs. Grace Sisson gave an interesting demonstration of quilts and mats, showing how handicraft is being revived, after which the meeting adjourned. Lunch was served and a short social time enjoyed.

Mrs. R. Matchett moved the vote of thanks to the hostess, Mrs. D. J. Hunter and the lunch committee.

APSLEY INSTITUTE PLAY IS SUCCESS

Draw for Door Prize at Play Was Won by Miss Brown.

APSLEY, Apr. 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—Under the direction of Rev. R. G. Hazelwood, the four act comedy drama, "The Road to the City" was performed in the Parish Hall on Friday evening after two weeks' postponement on account of the bad condition of the roads. The roads north of Apsley are almost impassable still in places and prevented many from coming from that direction. The play was sponsored by the Women's Institute, the proceeds to be devoted to the rental of the street lights which the Institute installed two years ago. The proceeds amounted to $23.45. The draw for the door prize was won by Miss Brown, while two prizes were won by Mrs. Theo. Wilson and Simon Windsor.

Between the acts the Apsley band played selections conducted by Mr. E. L. Blackwell.

The play, which contains several dramatic incidents, held the interest of the audience throughout, Mr. Hazelwood in the comedy role taking first honors. He also took the part of the invalid father, personating both characters very efficiently. Miss B. Scott as Jet Sanderson had a difficult role, especially in the third act when Jet becomes blind, but she interpreted the part exceedingly well. Miss M. Brown and Frances Stephens, two extremes, both had their parts well mastered as did Mrs. R. Tucker as Jet's mother. The men had good opportunities to display their talent, but did not make the most of them, the dramatic scenes being rather too humid to give the best effect.

The full cast was as follows: Robert Darnell, a country physician, Norman Wilson; Richard James, a man from the city, Russell Northey; Jud Judkins, a young farmer, Rev E. G. Hazelwood; John James, Richard's invalid father, Rev. E G. Hazelwool; Duke, a man of mystery, Roy Brown; Jet Sanderson, at the crossroads, Miss B. Scott; Toto Lee, her cousin, Frances Stephens; Milly Morton, a girl from the city Miss M. Brown; Mrs. Sanderson, Jet's mother, Mrs. R. Tucker.

PLAN TO ERECT SHAFT TO PEARY

Daughter of North Pole's Discoverer Commissions Veteran Skipper.

CAPE YORK IS GOAL.

NEW YORK, April 26 (C.P.)—Capt. Robert Bartlett, veteran Arctic explorer, is once more outfitting his schooner "Morrissey," for an expedition which will take him to Cape York, on the northern cape of Greenland. He expects to sail about June 1. His latest mission, however, is not one of exploration, but to honor the memory of Admiral Peary, discoverer of the North Pole.

The "Morrissey" has been commissioned by Mrs. Marie Peary Stafford, Admiral Pearys daughter. Accompanied by her mother and her two sons, Mrs. Stafford will take to the Northland a 60-foot stone shaft which will be erected on one of the Cape York Cliffs, in memory of the famous explorer.

Three-Sided Column

The monument will be a three-sided column of brown-grey stone, with one angle pointing due north. A large white "P" is to be set in the stonework, high on each side, while tablets commemorating Peary's work will be placed at the base.

Several men will accompany the party to do the expert work but the unskilled labor will be performed by native Eskimos among whom will be Octah and Ooqueah, two of the four who went with Peary and Matthew Henson to the North Pole.

Cape North the farthest bourne of civilization in the north, is within 14 degrees of the Pole. It is a dark, snow capped promontory, rising 100 feet or more above the sea-level.

PATRON SAINT IS HONORED

Successful and Well Attended Concert Held by St. George's Guild.

DELIGHTFUL PROGRAM

The patronal festival of St. George, Patron Saint of England was fittingly observed on Monday evening when a successful and well attended concert was held under the auspices of St. George's Ladies' Guild in the church basement. The rector, Rev. J. L. Hughes occupied the position of chairman and after the singing of the National Anthem made a few remarks regarding the object of the gathering. Later on in the program the chairman gave a short talk in which he pointed out certain characteristics which had made England the "great" country she is. Determination or "doggedness" was instilled from school days and it was England that was shaping the history of the world. He brought his talk to a close by singing (by request) "There's only one England," followed by "In an old fashioned town." The numbers on the program were all of high merit and were well received, most of the artists responding to encores. Perhaps the most unique feature of the evening was the wonderful playing of several well known tunes both sacred and secular, by Mrs. R. C. Braund, on the hand bells. Miss Gwen Parnell whose talent as an elocutionist is well known delighted the audience with her readings "Coptin Mc" and "Friday afternoon in school," and responded to encores. Miss Olive Prest contributed two pianoforte solos in her usual brilliant style, and was forced to respond.

Mrs. Elmer Frost and Miss Jean Hurl each contributed vocal solos in a pleasing manner, the former singing "Last Night" and "An Irish Lullaby," while Miss Hurl contributed "The Blackbird's Song," and "If you meet a fairy." Both ladies received encores.

Mr. F. C. Roberts was in good voice for his songs "Thora" and "I'll sing thee songs of Araby," as were also Mr. Barclay in his rendition of "Give me the open road" and Mr. Kinkcaldy who chose for his songs, "Bonnie Dundee," and "Drink to me only." A male quartet party composed of Messrs. Cairns, Binks, Barclay and Kinkcaldy, contributed the quartets "Row Boatmen Now" and "Passing by," returning with encore numbers.

Instrumental selections were played by Mr. F. Clark (banjo) accompanied on harmonicas by Messrs. Bert Arnott and H. McCannan. This was another high light in the evening's program, the audience applauding for more after each item.

The accompanists for the evening were Miss Olive Prest, Miss Aileen Rose, Miss Cairns, Mrs. F. McBride, president of the Guild thanked the artists also the chairman for providing such an enjoyable evening. Mr. R. W. Butler on behalf of the men of the church, seconded the vote of thanks. The whoole gathering was then heard to good effect by their singing the chorus of "Land of hope and glory," thus concluding the program.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS

Members and adherents of Zion congregation are overjoyed at the decision of the pastor, Rev. F. G. MacTavish to remain for another year. During their four years on the charge Mr. and Mrs. MacTavish and family have endeared themselves to all, and their decision is a most welcome one.

The final rush of the sugar season and the opening of the spring seeding almost clashed here this year. Much of the land is in poor condition for working yet but a start is being made, nevertheless. Alfred Barnum sowed a field on Friday being among the first to get under way. Wheat and clover stands are looking remarkably strong considering the open winter and rather late spring. Cheese factories are opening up here this week and the full activity of the farm community is in full swing.

Farmers in this locality are interested in the disastrous fire at the Campbellford pulp mills which has destroyed so much valuable pulpwood. A large quantity of this material was cut and trucked from here during the spring of 1931 and forms part of the pile destroyed.

At a short business session of Zion Sunday School members on Thursday evening reorganization was completed for the opening of school the first Sunday in May. Lindsay Watson was appointed official board representative from the Sunday School.

Several exhibits of American machines were shown at this year's Agricultural Implement Salon in Paris.

The Evening Guide of Port Hope says some very complimentary things about the local musicians who presented the program for the Port Hope Music Study Club on Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. H. A. Sculthorpe, Brown street. Several selections were presented by each of the visiting soloists. The Guide's report says, in part: "Miss Geraldine Collins has a beautiful mezzo-soprano voice and her closing number, "Ave Maria", with Deane Miner playing the violin obligato, was glorious. Deane Miner is well known as an accomplished violinist and his presence at a concert always spells success for the event. Mrs. Agnes Logan Greene is a clever pianist and the technical excellence of her playing is exceptionally brilliant. A dainty French-Canadian, Madam Sifroy Goulet, delighted everyone with her French-Canadian folk songs." At the close of the program tea was served by the convenor, Mrs. Howard Reeve, and her committee. Mrs. J. Winfield and Mrs. J. T. Daley presided at the tea table.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The question of whether it is preferable to buy food in bulk or in containers is baffling to many housewives.

• • • • • • •

There are many arguments on both sides to be sure, but just now the fact that the price is less for foods purchased in bulk weights decidedly in its favor.

• • • • • • •

It is to be expected that containers and the labor of putting ingredients, etc., into them will and should cost something. Nor is it suggested that this is not perfectly right and legitimate. Firms have to make this outlay and customers should not object to paying something extra when they buy package goods—if there is an extra charge.

• • • • • • •

The homemaker who believes it wise for her purse to buy in bulk has the opportunity to do so with a large number of articles. And it is for her to consider the points in favor of such a method.

• • • • • • •

One thing is that she may have her own containers, and each goes into its proper one when it reaches the kitchen.

• • • • • • •

It frequently happens that a shelf is burdened with two containers of exactly the same thing when a fresh supply is brought in, which comes in its own package. In order not to get right out of the article, it must be ordered before there is this chance.

• • • • • • •

And so for a time two packages must find space for themselves on the shelf. So if you are one of those who must buy in bulk, realize value of the extra shelf space.

• • • • • • •

When buying in bulk, care should be taken to handle containers carefully in which breakfast food is wrapped. Crackers when put into bags carefully will frequently have no more broken ones among them if they are handled with care and emptied on reaching the house.

• • • • • • •

A cartoon of package crackers can be badly broken too, if bounced about on its way to its destination, or if tossed down on a table or counter.

• • • • • • •

When buying containers for articles bought in bulk, be sure to get those which are large enough. Remember there is generally a residue which will take up some room in the container before the fresh ingredient is put in.

• • • • • • •

It is bothersome to have small quantities which cannot get in, and which must be stowed away in the bags or papers in which they came and give a cluttered look to the shelves.

• • • • • • •

But an advantage in getting food in packages is the little handling it gets before it reaches the consumer. Foods are carefully packed and when carefully handled they reach the consumer in excellent condition.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

163

A RULE AND ITS EXCEPTION

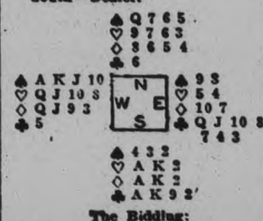
The minimum requirement for converting a Takeout Double of a suit bid of one into a Penalty Double is the possession of at least four sure trump tricks in the hand of the defending player who accepts this responsibility. This requirement has been found necessary because against suit bids honor-tricks, absolutely sure to win at no-trump, lose much of their certainty.

Holding four sure trump tricks and partner holding a minimum of 3 honor-tricks, generally speaking, any contract of one should be set, but there are exceptions and today's hand is a case in point.

Both sides vulnerable.

North-South 80 on the rubber game.

South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♣	Dbl.(1)	Pass	Pass(2)
Pass

1—A Double for a Takeout, of course. West is well prepared for a response of either spades, hearts or diamonds.

2—East has visions of a tremendous penalty and converts the Takeout Double into a Penalty Double.

Against the contract of one club doubled, West led the King of spades, following it with the Ace and another spade in response to his partner's "echo." To echo is to play a higher card of the suit when holding a lower one and thus request the continuance of that suit. East on the first round had played the 9 of spades and on the second round the 8, telling his partner that he could win the third round of the suit. East trumped according to his promise and led the Queen of clubs. South won with the Ace and next laid down the Ace and King of hearts and the Ace and King of diamonds. He continued with a heart and East was forced to trump as his hand at that time contained nothing else. South refused to win the first trump trick but won the second and thus made three club tricks, two hearts and two diamonds for his doubled contract and game.

It was well that South was not misled by the possession of 6 honor-tricks—and these honor-tricks all Aces and Kings — into making an unsound bid above the game score in hopes of reaching a Slam. His hand, it is true, contained the requisite honor-tricks, but playing-tricks are essential to the making of high contracts, and aside from his 6 tricks in Aces and Kings South's only hope of another is the establishment of a long club. Had he opened with two clubs and the bidding followed the same course as it did in the actual game, instead of scoring game and rubber, his opponents would have scored 200 points as a bonus for defeating the doubled contract.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: What is the 8 to 5 yardstick?

Answer: In every deal about 8 of the tricks will be won by honors as counted by the honor-trick table; the other 5 tricks will be produced from low cards developed under the control of the honors.

Treasure-Seekers Give Good Program

With the president, William Fell, in charge, a very entertaining program was enjoyed on Monday evening by nearly forty members of the Treasure Seekers' Bible Class of St James' United Church. This is the only mixed class in this very large Sunday school, and consequently the men figured largely on the program—which was exceptionally fine.

A reading, "The Vision," was contributed by Mrs. Munn in her usual pleasing style, and Miss Geneva Sedgwick, a general favorite, sang, "Jesus is Calling."

J. O. Fife, class teacher, gave a brief talk, stressing the social side of class life, while the pastor, Rev. Mr. Moorhouse, also commended the four-fold development of life.

Delightful vocal solos, "A Broken Heart" by George Cuffe, and "A Golden Deed," by E. Benson, were very much enjoyed.

Mrs. P. Sollitt acted as accompanist for all the vocal numbers.

The chairs were arranged in cosy groups, and a social hour spent when the class members became better acquainted.

Mr. Fell thanked the class for their loyalty, and announced that this initial social evening was the forerunner of a regular monthly event.

The social committee, with an efficient convenor in Mrs. Wilson, provided dainty refreshments.

Prayer by the pastor dismissed the gathering.

Lively Campaign In England

BEAUTY VS. BRAINS AT MARYLEBONE.

Gallant Captain Cunningham-Reid, whose attractions were such that he won England's prize heiress, is understood to appeal to the nursemaids, housemaids, and ladies' maids who are voting in the Marylebone by-election. His opponent, Sir Basil Blackett, is depending on votes of the maids' masters and mistresses who, it is claimed, admire him for his business sagacity. The campaign is one of the liveliest on record, and all England is awaiting the outcome with interest. Photo shows Captain Cunningham-Reid leaving the Town Hall after filing his nomination. At the left is his wife, and at the right Sir Basil Blackett.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE IMPORTANCE OF PROTEID FOODS.

If physicians who graduated ten or more years ago were asked what were the foodstuffs of the body they would say there were the five (a) proteids as eggs and meat, (b) starches as bread, potatoes, and other vegetables, (c) fats as cream, butter, and fat meat, (d) the mineral salts, and (e) water. Only the first three—proteids, starches, and fats—are really used as fuel.

However, to this list of five has been added the vitamins, which, while not separated out as food or in foods, nevertheless are absolutely necessary for growth and to maintain the health.

Thus, in these days there are the six varieties of foodstuffs, each one doing its definite part in building up the body, and giving it the necessary energy to do its work.

The proteids—meat and eggs—are found everywhere in animals and vegetables; their principal work as food is to supply the material to build up the body in growing children and to replace worn-out tissue in adults.

Proteids, while able to give the body some energy, are used because of the nitrogen they contain. This nitrogen must enter into the formation of every cell in the body.

And these proteid foods must be eaten every day; that is, a youngster must drink milk and an adult some meat or eggs, every day, if the body is to grow or have worn parts replaced. Of course, there are some vegetables rich in proteids—peas and beans—which, if eaten in large quantities, may replace meat or eggs to some extent.

It is this fact, then, that proteids must enter into the structure of the the body that makes them the important item in the food intake.

When you eat starches and fats it is quite possible to not only get the energy you need from them, but if you are not doing much work or taking much exercise, some of this fat will be stored away as fat in the tissues, as sugar in the muscles, and as glycogen or sugar in the liver Thus uyo can do without starches and fats for a considerable time.

Not so, however, with proteids. Proteids must be eaten every day because they are not stored as are fats and starches.

The thought then is that while starches and fats give you the energy to work, proteids—meat, eggs, milk, peas, and beans—enter into the structure of every cell, and some proteid must be eaten every day.

COTTESLOE W.M.S. PLANS PIE SOCIAL

Regular Monthly Meeting of Society Held at Home of Mrs. C. Jenkins.

COTTESLOE, April 27 (Special). The April meeting of the Cottesloe Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Jenkins recently, with eight present. Mrs. Webster, the president, was in the chair and took charge of the devotional exercises. Mrs. Gallagher had charge of the study book and Misses Lilian Tripp and Mae Webster gave "The Stewardship of Thankfulness." Each member gave an item from the Missionary Monthly, and the roll call was answered with a verse containing "wisdom." The secretary read a letter from Miss F. Dixon re the oale and Miss Mae Webster donated a quilt top for the same. A pie social is to be held on May 13, and Mesdames Webster, Jenkins, and McDonald are a committee to prepare a program and the other members a lunch committee. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Jenkins assisted by Mrs. M. Blakeley served lunch and a social half-hour was spent.

A new fish species recently found in their swamps of Pili, Calabanga and neighboring districts, have captured the appetite of people in Manila, PI., and trains carry large numbers of the fish to the city every day.

SPRING CLEANING TOPIC OF THE DAY

Now is Time for Every Individual in Community to Clean Up.

Spring cleaning! Housecleaning is being discussed! Dad is getting resigned to a bad day or two while mother tackles what she calls his "pig-stye of a den" and "tidies up" his beloved pipes, books and so forth, with the result that, for some time, he is unable to find anything he wants! But he, like everybody else, welcomes the blessed comfort of a spick and span home radiating "healthful cleanliness."

The Good Book says that cleanliness is next to Godliness, and it is a fact that clean and sanitary surroundings make for a feeling of comfort and well-being that generates a satisfied state of mind. So, when spring comes around, there is a general atmosphere of relief in the air—a feeling of dark days gone and healthful sunshine ahead.

Now is the time for every individual in the community to clean up inside and outside the home, even to the lane. Without healthful cleanliness one cannot enjoy healthy growth and springtime is growing time for all Nature. As a matter of safety, if not of personal pride, start your clean-up work now. Take that busy figure of the little old Dutch lady, with which you are all familiar, as your example. Always on the job, always bright and cheerful, always working for cleaner and more healthful surroundings.

Clean-Up Week has become a national institution. Every householder who values his family's and his own self-respect will take pride in pushing forward the campaign for cleaner and brighter surroundings.

Has Rubber Tires

A group of high railroad officials made a trip from Cleveland to Akron, O., and return in this rubber-tired coach, capable of 100 miles an hour. The tires permit quick starting and stopping, the inventor says, and an internal device prevents the tire from going flat when deflated.

7,000 FOWLS BURNED

And Thousands Saved in Unusual Fire on Poultry Farm in Sussex

Crawley, Eng.—Seven thousand chickens, including many one-day-old chicks, perished in a fire at a Sussex poultry farm at County Oak, near here.

Motorists and boy scouts passing along the London-Brighton road stopped and helped to save thousands of chickens that had been hatched the previous day.

Four large fowl houses and an incubator shed were completely destroyed, while part of the house in which the poultry girls sleep was badly damaged. Windows in the owner's house were broken by the intense heat.

SHORT CLASS SKIT IS MUCH ENJOYED

Cheerful Workers of St. James' United Church Hold Regular Meeting.

The Cheerful Workers' Bible Class of St. James' United Church held their regular monthly meeting and enjoyed a delightful social time last evening. Mrs. Thomas, 243 Princess street, lent her home for the occasion, and the class president, Mrs. William Atkinson, presided over the business session. About forty members were present and a most interesting and enjoyable program was given. Opening this, was a short devotional period led by Mrs. R. B. English, class teacher.

Mesdames H. Turner and J. Moynes gave two charming vocal selections, "The Little Log Church of My Dreams," and "My Mother's Lullaby," with quitar accompaniment.

A very humorous reading entitled "An Abandoned elopement," by Mrs. T. Byers, elicited much merriment and applause, as did also the group of solos contributed by little Joey McMahon.

Another pleasing number, was the duet, "List' to His Voice," sung by Miss Annie Payne and Mrs. Reeve-Newson, with accompaniment by Miss Olive Prest.

The little sketch, put on by six of the members, was also intensely amusing. This was entitled, "The New Camera," and like all new cameras, had a very busy time. The ladies taking part were Mesdames Pilley, Littlefair, Beatty, Woods, Jamieson and Casey, and all wore the quaint old dress of long ago.

Two clever contests which were a real test of wits were enjoyed. The prize winning group included Mesdames Grose, Copson, W. M. Wood, and Miss Olive Prest.

A pleasing variation in the program were the mouth organ solos by Mrs. Charlie Hill of Toronto, a former member of the class, who is a visitor to Peterborough this week. Delicious refreshments were served by the committee in charge, with Mrs. Glover, the capable convenor and her staff of assistants who were chosen by name alphabetically.

After thanking Mrs. Thomas for her kind hospitality, the very successful evening was brought to a conclusion.

THE MISTAKE OF A FAMOUS DOCTOR

Dr. Robert G. Jackson's paternal grandfather, father and eleven paternal uncles and aunts, and his own brother and sister, all died of heart disease. At 50 the great Sir Wm. Osler gave the doctor himself only four months to live, dying from heart disease and "general breakdown." He'd lived five years on the ground floor, unable to climb stairs. Four years after Osler gave him up he climbed the fifty storeys in Washington's Monument, up and down, and was not even tired. All a result of changed living habits—chiefly a change from civilization's disease-causing acid foods to alkali-forming Roman Meal. His 438-page book, "HOW TO BE ALWAYS WELL", tells the entire story—shows how anyone may be always well, by natural means. Remit $3.00 by P.O. order for a copy, or write for descriptive literature to ROBT. G. JACKSON, M.D., 502 Vine Ave., Toronto 9, Ont., or write for his free booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL", and sample of Roman Meal, and the new alkaline beverage "Kofy-sub".

IF YOU HAD A THOUSAND

MESSENGERS

Could you Gather this News?

If you had a thousand fleet men at your command and you called them in and said, "Go forth into the world, in all directions, and bring back news of things which will fill my life with more pleasure and more comfort—"

If you did, you wouldn't learn as many helpful facts about this world's goods as you do by reading the advertisements in your daily newspaper!

These advertisements tell you, first-hand, of countless things which will give you more pleasure and more comfort. They quote dimensions, sizes, colors, qualities, prices, so that you may buy as efficiently as a purchasing agent. They announce the new, the smart, the unusual. They save you many steps in shopping and many dollars on the year's purchases.

Each day, as you read your newspaper, messengers come to you with good news from the merchants in your community and manufacturers all over the country. These messengers are the advertisements. Read them and know the best the world is offering you.

IMPORTANT

When you ask for a product by name as a result of advertising do not accept a substitute—substitutes are offered not as a service to you, but for other reasons.

Bisons and Bears in Tie For International League Lead

SIXTH INNING WINS FOR HERD

Two Walks, Error and Three Hits Give Buffalo Club Six Hits.

BISONS' 10TH WIN.

(By the Associated Press)

Some excellent pitching by the White Sox farm hand, Joe Bartulis, has sent the Buffalo Bisons back into a tie with Newark for the International League lead.

Bartulis, starting his second game of the season, went the route against Jersey City in the league's only game yesterday and won in fairly easy fashion, 6—2.

Bartulis gave up only six hits and was never in trouble after the third inning when the Skeeters scored both their runs.

Willard Morrell, former Giant, pitched shutout ball for five innings but the Bisons hopped on him for six runs and the ball game in the sixth. In that frame Buffalo mixed two walks, coupled with an error by Morrell, and three hits for their half dozen tallies.

Tucker and Carnegie collected a single and a double apiece, drove in two runs each and scored one. Clyde Barnhard, veteran outfielder, was the only Skeeter able to solve Bartulis' delivery for more than one safe hit.

It was Buffalo's tenth victory in 13 games, and Jersey City's eighth defeat in twelve.

Rain and cold weather forced postponement of all other games.

SEEKS FIELDS' BOUT

CHICAGO, April 27 (C.P.)—Matchmaker Nate Lewis is continuing negotiations for a championship bout between Jackie Fields, world welterweight champion and Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver, in the Chicago Stadium. The only hitch is a stipulation by Jack Kearns, manager of Fields, that McLarnin promise a return bout should he win. Pop Foster, McLarnin's pilot, has said he will not agree to that condition.

DAVIS CUP TENNIS MATCHES THURSDAY

Rainville Meets Allison and Wright Engages Vines in Singles.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Marcel Rainville and Dr. Jack Wright will take the courts on Thursday against Wilmer Allison and Ellsworth Vines, respectively, in the first singles tests for the Davis Tennis Cup. On Saturday Wright will play Allison, and Rainville, Vines. The doubles teams for Friday have not been announced. Barring a last-minute shift, Allison and John Van Ryn, one of the most sensational teams that ever stepped in shoe-rubber, will play for the United States.

President Hoover made the draw for the singles yesterday morning, and afterward was photographed with the teams. The Canadians, Captain Garnet H. Meldrum, Rainville, Wright, Gilbert Nunns and Walter Martin, were presented to Mr. Hoover by Hume Wrong, Counsellor of the Canadian Legation, and "shot" for the papers, the movies and the talkies.

Canadian test matches wound up yesterday morning, when Rainville established his singles position by defeating Martin, 6—0, 4—6, 7—5, 6—4. He had previously defeated Nunns, 6—3, 6—4, 8—4.

From Minors To Majors

One of the reasons for the Detroit baseball club leading the American League is their new first-sacker, Harry Davis, favorite with the Detroit fans. In Harry Davis, Detroit has acquired the best looking first-sacker in the minors. It is understood that more than one major league club had their eye on Davis. At that it seems strange to find a minor league .314 batter taking the place of a man who hit .325 and drove in 87 runs in the American League; but that's just what has happened with the benching of big Dale Alexander. Last year, Detroit fans were anything but pleased with Alexander and this year they are no more so. Dale's performance at first seemed to have the skids and now the big boy is sitting on the bench watching Davis do his stuff.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

TRENTON, N.J.—Gorilla Jones, National Boxing Association middleweight champion, outpointed Young Terry, Trenton (12), retained title; Dick Powell, Akron, O., knocked out Al Reed, Newark, N.J., (2).

DES MOINES, Ia.—Eddie Anderson, Casper, Wyo., outpointed Paul Wangley, Minneapolis (10); Mickey Genaro, New York, and Tony Ligouri, Des Moines, drew (10).

INDIANAPOLIS—Roy Wallace, Indianapolis, and Sammy (Kid) Slaughter, Terre Haute, Ind., drew (10); Lou Vine, Indianapolis, stopped Harold Ferris, Marshall, Ill., (6).

LOS ANGELES—Mox Baer, Livermore, Cal., defeated Paul Swiderski, Syracuse, N.Y., by a technical knockout, (7); Jess Akers, Atlanta, Ga., defeated Wally Fraser, Inglewood, Cal. (6).

Yesterday's Stars

Babe Ruth, Yankees.—Made one spectacular catch and singled in eighth to put winning run in position to score against Senators.

Ed Durham, Red Sox.—Held Athletics to five hits and won 10-2.

O.H.A. Bulletin

Change of residence application forms will be available to the clubs this week. The O.H.A. executive will meet in June to deal with players' change of residence.

No player who has changed his residence or club since May 15 last shall be granted a certificate to play next season unless he has satisfied the O.H.A. of the bona fides of such a change, with complete information and definite information regarding the change of residence on the form supplied for that purpose.

Any player desiring to move from one C.A.H.A. branch to another C.A.H.A. branch cannot play hockey until he has resided in his new place of residence for at least one year. For this particular kind of a transfer the residence date is Jan. 1 instead of May 15. Transfers within a C.A.H.A. branch are governed by the May 15 residence rule.

O.H.A. clubs are remainded of the rule which compels the filing of a financial statement with the O. H. A. Secretary not later than April 15 each year. This statement must carry a complete record of all receipts and expenses for the season.

This is important. Although the last date for filing such statements is past, some clubs have not yet complied. This must be attended to at once. Failure to do so may bring about suspension of the offending clubs.

Wrestling Last Night.

Wilmington, Ded. — Gus Sonnenberg, 209½, Providence, defeated Lee Wykoff, 220, St. Louis, 49.00 (Wykoff unable to continue after fall out of the ring); Sam Cardovano, 196, threw Al Beveridge, 195, Boston, 11.25. Tony Frisco, 174, Wilmington, Del., defeated George Gemas, 194, Philadelphia; Andy Brown, 203, New York, drew with Jack Forsgren, 210, Minneapolis, 30.00.

New York, Brooklyn Elks — Jim Browning, 224, Verona, Mo., threw Al Mercier, 205, Montreal, 27.45; Joe Malcewicz, 200, Utica, N.Y., threw Pat McKay, 218, Memphis, 28.05; Carl Pojello, 182, Chicago, threw Pat Riley, 205, Boston, 18.20; Pat McGill, 219, Omaha, threw Bob Wilkie, 202, Buffalo, 9.27.

RED SOX WIN 10-2 VICTORY

Cellar Occupants in American League Drive Grove From Mound.

YANKEES WIN 6-5.

BY GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Beaten in six of their last seven starts, their pitching and fielding equally ragged and their morale not what it once was, the Philadelphia Athletics smarted to-day from the "unkindest" blow of all.

The Boston Red Sox, who in recent years have been just a warm-up for the American League champions, put the finishing touches yesterday when the larruped Lefty Grove, 10-2 and sent the Mackmen floundering into sixth place.

Such a thing is almost unprecedented since the Athletics started hitting the high spots three years ago. They trimmed the Sox 16 times last season in 20 engagements, Grove doing the honors three times, twice by the shutout route.

For five innings the glamorous Grove looked like his old self, allowing not a hit, but in the last four frames the Boston boys rattled the Shibe park fences with 10 solid blows, including a homer by Webb, and won going away behind the steady five-hit pitching of young Ed Durham.

Support is Poor

But if the big southpaw was ineffective, his support was far from air tight. Joe Boly, shoved back into his old job at shortstop by Connie Mack in a desperate effort to tighten up the inner works, committed two glaring errors. Dibrell Williams, the steady one of the last world series, touched off a six-run Boston rally in the sixth when he juggled a roller.

Eddie Rommel hurled the last two innings for the Macks after Grove was removed for a pinch hitter in the seventh and had little better luck than his predecessor, allowing four runs.

Yankees Win 6-5

While the A's were suffering, the Yankees were busy moving into second place in the league standing with a 6-5 victory over the Washington Senators, the first meeting of the year between the two staunch rivals.

The Senators made an uphill battle to tie the count in the eighth after the Yanks had scored five runs off Alvin Crowder in the first two innings, but it was to no avail. A walk to Lyn Lary, followed by Babe Ruth's smashing single and Gehrig's infield out provided Joe McCarthy's team with the winning score in the last of the eighth.

Only the two games escaped another day of rain and cold.

Leafs Open Series At Reading To-Day

BALTIMORE, Md., April 27.—The Leafs were denied the opportunity of obtaining some measure of revenge on the Orioles for past defeats when a thunderstorm and downpour shortly before the time scheduled for yesterday afternoon's game washed out the final tilt of the series.

Consequently, the Leafs departed at an early hour for Reading, where, to-day they will open a five-game series with the Keys, and where they expect replacements which will materially strengthen the faltering ranks of the team.

Officers Elected Roseneath A.A.A.

ROSENEATH, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence) — The annual meeting of the Roseneath A.A.A. was held in the town hall Wednesday night.

The following officers were elected for the season: president, Milton McMillan; vice-president, George Mouncey; sec.-treas., J. Hallett; directors, Rev. R. W. Paton, Dr. S. Ryan, M. D. Brown, Earl Waldie.

George Mouncey was re-elected manager of the team and Howard H. Lapp elected captain.

G. Mouncey, H. H. Lapp and M. Davey were appointed delegates to attend the league meetin.

With the exception of one or two, all of last year's players will be available this season.

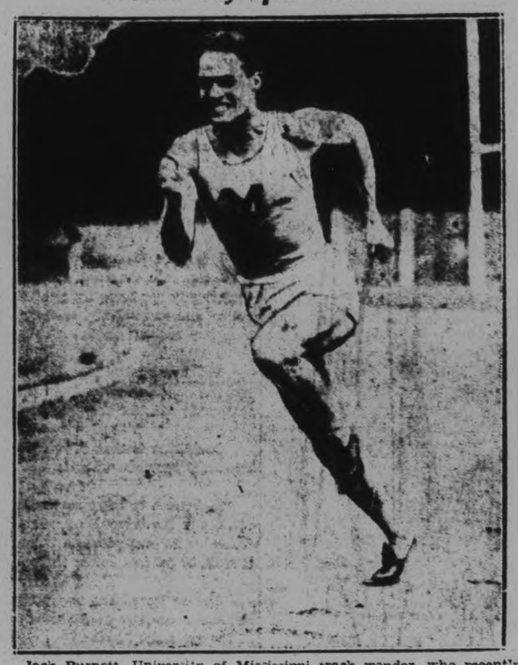
Soviets Begin Probe Of Low Coal Output

MOSCOW, April 27 (C.P.). — Gregory K. Ordjenikidze, president of the Supreme Economic Council of the Soviets, has been sent to the Donets Basin to investigate responsibility for the serious decline of coal production in the last few months which has threatened the steel and machine building industry.

Coincident with a report of his arrival at Stalino to inspect coal mines and metal works, the newspaper Pravda to-day sounded a new warning that the coal output in the Donets Basin was still unsatisfactory, having dropped almost 130,000 tons a day during April, and showing a tendency to decrease further.

Canadian farm flocks of hens and chickens increased by 5,325,000 between 1930 and 1931, the annual statistics for the latter year showing a total of 61,572,000 for these classes of poultry.

Breaks Olympic Record



Jack Burnett University of Mississippi track wonder, who recently broke the Olympic record for the 200-meters and who will run for a New York club this summer. He ran the 200 meters in 21.3 seconds, three-tenths of a second better than the Olympic record. University officials say that he consistently runs the American 100-yard dash in 9.6, or (with a slight wind behind his back) in 9.5 on occasion.

C.G.E. LEAGUE RE-ORGANIZED

Ten Teams Will Likely Compete in Inter-department Softball Loop.

MAY AFFILIATE O.A.S.A.

Followers of softball employed in the C.G.E. works started the season off last night when a re-organization meeting was held in the gate-house and a slate of officers elected to pilot the Inter-department League through the coming months.

Last year's executive consisting of Jack Cameron, president; C. D. Osterland, vice president and Don Emery, secretary was returned unanimously while the assisting committee will be L. Calladine, H. Darling, Ed Tracy, Jack Playford and Bill Bennett. Most of the officers have had valuable experience in promoting the game among the employees in former years and this fact coupled up with the enthusiasm shown by the department delegates at the meeting last evening indicates that this league should enjoy a banner year.

Seven departments are already listed as prospective entries with possibly three more to follow, and this total almost equals the number of teams which made up the circuit last season. However, three of the weaker teams failed to complete the schedule in last years' competition and the executive hope by securing the cooperation of all concerned to eliminate any possibility of a repetition of this condition during the coming season. Discussion uncovered the fact that most of the managers favored a strong eight team league, which would probably result in the teams being very evenly balanced, and would still accommodate every male employee who was interested in playing.

May Affiliate.

Another topic which was mulled over thoroughly was the question of whether or not the league would apply for affiliation with the Ontario Softball Association. Opinion favored affiliation because of the fact that this series at the end of the playing season should serve as a stimulant to better softball during the year but a decision will not be made until next Monday night when the next meeting will be held. Every department interested in entering a team should have at least one delegate at this meeting, Monday, May 2, is the date set for the closing of entries.

A decision was not arrived at regarding playing grounds but the games will be staged at either King Edward School grounds or else at the rear of the plant.

OPINIONS DIFFER ON SUBMARINES

Britain and U. S. Meet Opposition in View They Are Only Offensive Naval Weapon.

ITALY BACKS RUSSIA.

GENEVA, April 27.—Indictment of the submarine as the only offensive naval weapon by British and United States naval experts met with sharp opposition from spokesmen for the smaller powers on the naval commission today at the disarmament conference.

Rear Admiral A. D. Pound of Great Britain told the commission at yesterday's session the submarine was the only naval weapon dangerous to civilian populations. He was joined today by Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn of the United States delegation who declared battle ships and other surface vessels were entirely defensive.

The Russian member of the commission contended all surface ships were aggressive weapons and the Italian members agreed with this view to a great extent.

The Japanese defended submarines and charged that aircraft carriers were the most distinctively aggressive naval arm.

SEASON TICKETS TO SELL AT $5

Executive to Apply for Change in Date of Opening Game here.

GROUND IMPROVEMENTS.

Season tickets for senior baseball games in Peterborough this summer will be reduced from ten dollars to five. This was decided at a meeting of the executive in the "Y" last night. Holders of these tickets are entitled to attend the nine home games of the Petes, accompanied by one other person, having seats in the reserved section of the main grandstand.

There was a good representation at the meeting and several important matters took up the time. Following the reading of the minutes, a letter was read out from A. Gaskell of Lindsay, offering the club a good price on baseball bats. It was finally agreed that local sporting goods dealers should have the business here, unless their prices are too high. The matter of having the uniforms cleaned for the first game was also arranged.

Alderman George Macdonald promised to attend to the matter of obtaining the grounds and seeing if a few minor improvements could not be made to the stands at Stevenson Park. The question of transportation came up next, and the committee in charge of that was instructed to lineup a number of cars for each out of town game early.

Change Opening Date

The fact that June 3rd, the date tentatively set for the opening game in Peterborough, was not a general holiday but applied only to schools and banks, decided the executives to try to obtaine June 4th, a Saturday, for the opening game instead. They will apply to the league for this change.

Finances in general, and expenses for out-of-town trips in particular, came in for much discussion, with certain points cleared up and others left over for the present. There was also considerable talk concerning admission prices this year. It was felt that owing to the present economic condition here the season tickets should be reduced to five dollars from the ten-dallar charge of last year. This means that two persons may attend home games sitting in the reserved section directly back of the home plate, at a cost of about twenty-eight cents a game. This was passed, and the admission price to be charged at the gate will be decided at the next meeting.

Regarding the play-offs, the local executive voted that the league be informed Peterborough favors the first and second teams playing off at the end of the schedule, two out of three games, for the C.O.B.I. championship. The session then adjourned.

EVEN MONEY IS PAID ON ORWELL

Aga Khan's Dastar and Boussac's Hesperus Rank Next in Order.

TWO THOUSAND GUINEAS.

NEWMARKET, Eng., April 27.—(AP)—Orwell, three-year-old colt, owned by W. M. G. Singer and favorite for the Epsom Derby, today won the two thousand guineas, one of the three-year-old classics of the English racing season.

The Aga Khan's Dastur was second and M. M. Boussac's Hesperus was third.

Orwell, which raced most of last year without a name and won five of his six starts, is by Gainsborough out of Golden Hair. He is an 118 to 8 choice for the classic at the Downs.

Cameronian, winner of the Derby last year, also won the two thousand guineas.

The race is at a mile. Eleven ran today.

A. K. Macomber's Clistine, also a derby eligible, was unplaced.

The stakes were two thousand guineas with extras and total about £10,000.

Orwell won by two lengths with one and one half lengths separating Dastur and Hesperus.

The Singer colt was at even money, with Dastur 10 to 1 and Hesperus 25 to 1.

Bowlers Preparing Greens For Summer

Impending approach of the season has re-awakened great activity at the premises of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, Limited, and the greens committee under the leadership of Walter J. Oke have commenced to get the lawns into shape against the time when the first bowl shall trundle over the greensward signalizing the commencement of another summer's bowling.

Walter Oke and his committee are not alone in their labors. "Benny" Chesler as chairman of the games committee having been also wide awake of late, lining up the rinks—a job which has been almost completed. Still there are a few vacancies yet, and all prospective bowlers are reminded in their own interests, not to dally too long before reaching a decision. Vacancies are limited and early application should be made to Cecil Williamson, chairman of the membership committee.

Skips who have not yet reported their rinks are urged to do so at once.

A meeting of the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association has been called for this evening at the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Clubhouse, and a cordial invitation is extended to all followers of the game and to all prospective wood trundlers. It is anticipated that delegates will be present from Lindsay, Port Hope, Cobourg, Norwood, Hastings, Campbellford, Cannington and Stirling, for the purpose of arriving at individual tournament schedules that will not clash with the arrangements of other towns in the district.

SMITH TO TRY RACER.

CASUAL COMMENT

The annual meeting of the Central Ontario Lawn Bowlers' Association is being held this p.m. at eight bells in the Club House. Representatives from a flock of towns and villages around will be here, and anyone else interested is invited. Plans for friendly and competitive bowling throughout this part of the provinces will be discussed from various angles.

• • • • • • •

Meetings, meetings, and more of them! It seems as if every summer sporting organization in the city is swinging into action all at once, but this is the right time. E.P.L. managers and some of the senior baseball executives meet some night this week to discuss players. And the next East Peterborough League get-together is set for Saturday night at eight down at Duffus'.

• • • • • • •

Then there's the City Baseball League annual session called for tomorrow evening in Duffus' at 7.30 for the election of officers, etc. There should be a large turnout of those interested to get things moving in this loop.

• • • • • • •

The proposed reduction in prices of season tickets for Central League games here this summer was decided upon last night, the ante being reduced to a five-spot instead of a ten, as it was last year. This is a good idea and should work out better, with twice as many fans coughing up with a fiver, giving the club as much dough and more supporters. And the opening game will likely be held here Saturday, June 4th, rather than June 3rd, which is not a general holiday.

• • • • • • •

We were talking to Walter Gerow, elongated pilot of the Belleville veterans, at the Kingston meeting Saturday. He informed us that in his opinion Al Heckman was the finest righthand twirler to ever pitch in the Central League. He believed that Al was never given credit outside of Peterborough for his star hurling. And Walter ought to know all about pitchers and the Central League, having been around a long time.

• • • • • • •

Eight teams will probably make up the C.G.E. Inter-Department Softball League this summer. It was organized yesterday and should have another good year, with games being played at King Edward Park or back of the C.G.E.

• • • • • • •

Some twenty senior prospects worked out in the "Y" gym last night, some of last year's team and a bunch of others, including many of the best intermediate players here. Most of the boys are getting into pretty fair shape already, with big Deb Hillier leading the way shedding pounds right and left. The gym drills continue every evening at seven.

• • • • • • •

After bringing his race horses here for spring training for seven years in a row, Lou Bennett of Port Hope has deserted us for Belleville this spring. He says the reason is he can get his pacers on the track sooner there, and there are better facilities at that park than any other place in Eastern Ontario. Well, Lou has visited most of them in his turf career.

• • • • • • •

Reg. White, Toronto Premier Club lightweight, has been matched with Roy Hope for the War Veterans' boxing show here on Friday night. This will be Roy's most important scrap since he started, and he will be facing a shifty pug who socks like nobody's business. Paul Amato fights a good lightheavy in Cliff Rhamey in the main go, with Art Wood meeting George Prince in the all-Toronto semi-final, making it five Queen City mittsers all told. All told what? To "go get him," we supposed.

• • • • • • •

Mick McGee and Jack Gardner tangle in a ten-minute rassilin' match, one fall to a decision, with nothing barred but throwing the other guy out of the ring. Art Hunter is fighting George Spanis, a local newcomer, while another stranger to us, Keith Jarvis, battles Jack Watson, Joe DeNoble and "Irish" Jordan III. go on in the opener.

• • • • • • •

The show is being staged at the Legion Hall on Friday night by the Alpha Boxing Club for the benefit of needy local war vets. With its six good scraps and the grappling match, it should be good entertainment for both ring fans and followers of the grunt-and-groaners. Referee's name will be announced later.

• • • • • • • •

There were only three winners in the Turret Cigarette Hockey Contest around this district, none in the city. A Johnston, R. R. No. 1, Bobcaygeon, pulled down a $125 prize; W. S. Hinds, Frankford, gets a two-dollar william; while T. A. Mills, Bobcaygeon, wins one smacker. The first prize of five grand went to a fellow in New Brunswick, and the other big awards were scattered all over Canada. Oh, well, as somebody once said: "That money's tainted—'taint mine and 'taint yours!"

HOPE TO MEET TORONTO BOXER

Reg White of Premier A. C. Will Provide Plenty of Opposition for Alpha Star.

ON FRIDAY'S CARD.

Roy Hope gets his biggest test since he entered the ring when he meets Reg. White of Toronto, Friday night, at the Legion Hall. White hails from the Premier A.C. and is a tricky, hard-hitting lightweight who mixes clever boxing with fighting rushes all the time. Hope has shown he is too good for local and Lindsay 135-pounders and should be able to put up a great battle against the Toronto scrapper. He is fast, colorful and packs a kayo wallop.

Four other Toronto mittsers feature the card: Paul Amato, middleweight champ, meeting the husky light-heavy, Cliff Rhamey, in the main bout; and Art Wood, socking lightweight, facing George Prince in the semi-final. These boys come from rival stables in Toronto, and will fight hard for decisions. Amato won thousands of friends in Toronto two weeks ago by defeating Curly Duncan in the Eastern Ontario finals in what Lou Marsh described as "the toughtest three rounds I've seen either pro or amateur in thirty-three years." Amato was on the floor ten times in this slam-bang bloodthirsty fracas, but he won out. He has everything—speed, science, stamina and the sockology of a champ.

A ten-minute wrestling match with one fall or a decision is billed between Jack Gardner and Mick McGee, who have all the tricks used by modern grapplers. Art Hunter tangles with a former Barrie boxer, an unknown quantity here, in George Spanis. Keith Jarvis, also new to local rings, fights Jack Watson, who has been coming along fast lately; following the curtain-raiser by the kid battlers, Joe DeNoble and "Irish" Jordan III. The whole card sounds like plenty of action on this Alpha Club program to aid the Peterborough War Veterans.

Four Teams Entering City Lacrosse Loop

The lacrosse club applied last night's meeting entirely to city league affairs, and decided that the local league would be managed by the club executive together with one representative from each team. It is understood that Brock Street Rink may be ready Friday night for the first work-out of the Intermediate O.A.L.A. team.

About thirty promoters of the City League attended last night's meeting which is stirring up a lot of interest especially among the hockey players who are thinking of taking on lacrosse.

Two factory and two ward teams will constitute the city lacrosse league.

Brinton Carpet Company and the C.G.E. Company will be represented in the local group with an Ashburnham team and another from the central north end which is being organized by Jack Orde and will be coached by Ira Dundas.

Charlie McGillan will handle the Ashburnham team which Rube Brady is getting together; Eddie Foley will direct the C.G.E. entry, and Walter Firth and Tommy Hewitt have already got the Brintons in line.

BREAKS ENGAGEMENT WITH LORD WARWICK

Miss Margaret Whigham Was to Have Married Young Earl in June

London—Miss Margaret Whigham has broken off her engagement with the young Earl of Warwick because she has found "that she does not love him enough to want to marry him."

So ends a romance that society hailed as an "ideal love match."

The engagement was announced the day before the earl attained his majority.

It was at Assouan, Egypt, that Miss Whigham became engaged while on a tour with her parents.

The date set for the wedding was June 23, in the week after Ascot. St. Mary's church, Warwick, was spoken of as the scene of the event.

The earl received a civic welcome at Warwick recently to celebrate his coming of age and the announcement of his expected marriage. Miss Whigham and her father arrived at Warwick castle too late to join in the festivities.

The earl was entertained at lunch by the mayor and town council.

Eight beautiful girls were chosen as bridesmaids—Lady Bridget Poulett, Lady Patricia Moore, Miss Joan Stourton, Miss Molly Vaughan, Miss Baba Beaton, Miss Katherine Horlick, Miss Margaret Livingstone-Learmonth and Miss Priscilla Weigall.

There was to have been a short honeymoon and then a world cruise beginning in the autumn.

The earl is a lieutenant in the Grenadier Guards.

This is the twenty-second broken engagement of note in England this year.

South-End Entries Close On April 30

All entries for the South End Softball League must be in the hands of the secretary by April 30.

The league has seven teams to date—Peterborough Canoe, Peterborough Lock Co., Shamrocks, Orioles, Nationals, Royals and Quaker Oats, and would welcome another entry, making an eight team league.

Entries may be sent to F. Parsons, 588 Sherbrooke Street or 'phone 1847.

A meeting of the executive will be held early in May to draw up the schedule.

WEAK HURLING IS DOWNFALL OF THE LEAFS

Guy Cantrell Only One of Daly's Moundsmen to Hold Orioles in Check.

MICHAELS ALSO STANDOUT

Team on Whole Played Good Ball With Doljack and Bob Smith Among Stars.

BALTIMORE, April 27.—Although the Orioles won three of the four games played in the Baltimore series, the Leafs proved to be more difficult to overcome than was expected. Manager Tom Daly's twirlers were chiefly at fault, Guy Cantrell being the only moundsman of the eight who appeared on the hill to hold the Birds in check.

Guy was forced to step aside in the last frame of the opening game, while Barnes retired the last two, but nevertheless the big right-hander pitched a fine game in the first clash, registering the only victory of the series. It was a seven-hit effort.

It is true that the battling of the Leafs sagged in the first and third games, five and six hits being registered respectively, but they were held in check in these tests by Ken Holloway and by Beryl Richmond and Walter Tauscher in the third clash, and this trio represents about the best the Flock has to offer at present.

Michaels Going Good

Third-baseman Ralph Michaels made a fine showing at third and at bat. He is a tough lad to get away from there, especially in the pinches. He came through with seven hits in the four games.

Out in left field Frank Doljack displayed a lot of fine fielding even though he was charged with four errors, three coming in the final game. One of those three boots was on a ground ball that got away, but the other pair were charged on flows that bounced badly to the infield.

The Birds made 43 hits during the series, but the heavy gunners of the Flock had been held in check for some time and were about due to break loose. Eight home-runs were shot into space by the locals, while the visitors had half that many. Doljack's pair on Saturday made the Bird flippers wary and he didn't get much to hit at during Sunday's double bill.

Leafs Flashy Afield

Defensively the Leafs played well despite eight errors during the series. Roy Morehart at second pulled several flashy fielding plays, seeming to be particularly adept at going to his left and cutting down potential base hits back of the grass toward first.

Bob Smith performed well behind the plate, showing a brand of pepper that could well be copied by the rest of the teams. He and Michaels and Doljack were the live-wires.

Boxing Tournament In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27. — (C.P.)—Definite arrangements to hold a boxing tournament here Aug. 15 between United States and Norway, Sweden and Denmark, as part of the post Olympic games program, was announced to-day by William Coffman, chairman of the executive committee.

The boxing tournament will round out the athletic program here that includes the British Empire-United States track and field championships, Aug. 14, immediately following the Olympic games in Los Angeles.

A. C. Charlton, British consul general in San Francisco, attended to-day's meeting and informed the assemblage that plans were under way for a short wave radio broadcast hook-up for the track and field championships.

Lightning Kills Golfer and Caddie On Club Course at Maidenhead, Eng.

Maidenhead, Eng.—A member of the Maidenhead Golf Club and his caddie were killed by lightning at the 17th tee during a thunderstorm recently and a second member of the club was injured.

The victims of this extraordinary tragedy were: Frank J. Kelly, aged 70, of Bramleigh, Sloppenhangers Rd., Maidenhead, a director of Booth's Distilleries Ltd., and J. Miles, aged 15, of Bridge St., Maidenhead.

Mr. J. H. Edwards, who was playing with Mr. Kelly, was scorched and his clothing was torn. He was dazed and did not know for a while where he was or what had happened.

When the storm came up Mr Kelly stood near two hawthorn bushes with his umbrella up. The caddie, who had Mr. Kelly's clubs, took shelter under one of the bushes, and Mr. Edwards, carrying his own clubs, was standing near.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

CHIEFLY CONCERNING TAILS

Each one hath Mother Nature blest
With something that for him is best.
—Jerry Muskrat.

It is true. Old Mother Nature knows the needs of each, and each is provided with something especially suited to those needs, something which perhaps no one else has. If you envy some one else what they possess, you may be sure that some one envies you what you possess. And it is more than likely that the thing you envy some one else wouldn't do for you at all.

Jerry Muskrat, who was making his first visit to the pond of Paddy the Beaver deep in the Green Forest, and so seeing Paddy and Mrs. Paddy for the first time, couldn't keep his eyes from their tails as they sat on the roof of their house. Never had he seen such tails. Never had he dreamed that anyone could have such tails. Paddy's was a little the biggest, but then Paddy was a little the biggest.

As he sat there next to Jerry that tail was right in front of Jerry. Somehow it didn't look like a tail. Probably this was because it was so unlike any other tail that Jerry ever had seen. It was flat and very broad and fairly thick. It looked clumsy. It looked as if it would be more of a burden than an aid. Certainly it wasn't for ornament; there was no beauty to it.

"I beg your pardon," said Jerry at last, "but I can't help looking at your tail. Never have I seen a tail like it."

"And you never will," interrupted Paddy, "excepting on another Beaver."

"Don't you find it rather in your way?" continued Jerry.

"In my way!" exclaimed Paddy in a tone of surprise. "My tail in my way! I should say not! I'll venture to say that I get three times as much use from my tail as you do from yours. What do you use that flat-sided tail of yours for anyway?"

"I use it to signal with and to steer with when I am swimming, and sometimes to help in swimming," replied Jerry promptly. "I don't know what I would do without my tail."

Paddy chuckled. "You haven't named any use for your tail that I do not have for mine," said he. "But I have other uses besides. When you signal with your tail I presume you hit the water with it."

"That's right," replied Jerry. "I'll show you."

He slipped into the water and floated there for an instant. Suddenly he lifted his rubbery tail, turned it so that the flat side would strike the water, brought it down sharply and instantly plunged beneath the surface. In a moment he reappeared. "That is the way we Muskrats signal danger," said he as he climbed out on the roof of Paddy's house.

Paddy nodded approvingly. "We Beavers do almost the same thing when we are in the water," said he. "Now I'll show you how we do it."

In his turn he slipped into the water. He lifted his broad, flat tail and when he brought it down on the water it made such a report that Jerry jumped. It made him think of the report of a terrible gun. Then Paddy plunged just as Jerry did. When he came up he was some distance out in the pond. "Come on over here with me and I will show you other uses for my tail," said he.

Jerry dived in and swam after him. Paddy led the way to the shore and waddled out to a young tree. At the foot of this he sat up with his tail out behind him as a support. He called Jerry's attention to this. "Sometimes I use it to sit on," said he and doubled it under him to show Jerry how.

"And I use it to signal with on land just as I do in the water," continued Paddy. "When I am cutting a tree and it is about to fall I warn Mrs. Paddy to look out and I do it with my tail this way." He brought his tail down on the ground just as he had done on the water, and again it made Jerry jump.

"I wish I had a tail like yours," sighed Jerry.

Jungle Girl

Ever been to the jungles of Cambodia? No! Well, climb aboard an elephant with the Jungle Girls, the latest creation of Edgar Rice Burroughs, the man who gave Tarzan to the world; and she will take you for a ride that you will remember for a long time.

Here is the story of a surviving remnant of a civilization that is supposed to have been extinct for more than five centuries; it is also the story of the primeval jungle that sweeps unchanged over the civilizations of the past, engulfing the puny works of man. Tigers and elephants roam at will where mighty kings held sway, and primitive men hunt with bow and spear amid the tumbled ruins of the temples of strange gods.

To such a locale came Gordon King; here he faced the charge of My Lord the Tiger; here, with primitive weapons, he hunted, half naked, through the savage jungle; here he rode to battle upon the back of a war elephant of the Leper King; and here he found the one thing that comes down through the ages unchanged and unchangable—Well, you guess what Gordon King found.

Dr. A. Moir of Peterborough made a professional call in the vicinity on Sunday.

Mr. Harry Brown of Peterborough has rented the farm owned by the late Matthew Clark.

The Young People are practicing a play "A Dangerous Experiment" which they will present in the Orange Hall on Friday, April 29th.

Canon Robertson blessed the waters of the Tweed at the opening of the salmon fishing season in Scotland.

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If April 27th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m., and from 11 p.m. to midnight. The danger hours are from 9:10 a.m. to 10:10 a.m., and from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Astrological influences on April 27th will make it a sleepy day; a good time for introspection and self-analysis. Do not attempt to put over anything requiring your best brain and keenest wit! No outstanding events, either good or bad can be forecast.

The child born on this April 27th will be studious, a voluable talker and ambitious. It will have an orderly, methodical mind, occupied with a good memory. It will love popularity and desire fame. As an adult, it will exhibit qualities useful in a leader for either the business or social world.

Born on April 27th you are moody—two or three people all at once—and it is a gamble whether you will be high-spirited and optimistic or sunk in the slough of despond without enthusiasm for anything. You are an expert in self-love, and a past master of every direct and indirect procedure by which you may gain your pleasurable way. You can be delightfully amiable, full of pep and fun, but you are an entirely different being when crossed.

You are inclined to be a critic and a knocker, and it will be difficult for you to really see straight until you have learned to view things and people with a more understanding heart and tolerant eye. It is easy for you to acquire the habit of always taking the opposite side merely for the sake of argument. You are ruled too much by your emotions and pamper your desires too much to be logical-minded.

You take up new causes, pursuits or studies too eagerly, and they are usually incontinently dropped again. Too much having been expected of them, you are apt to abandon them before much knowledge or benefit has been derived. You are lacking in steady persistency and sober self-control. In many respects you are very clever, and you see through things much quicker than the average person. Your general knowledge is very broad.

Only Two Changes In Train Schedules

Only two trains over Canadian Pacific lines are affected locally by the new time schedule which comes into effect on Sunday next, while no changes of any consequence are to be made by the Canadian National Railways here.

The C.P.R. 5.25 a.m. westbound for Toronto has been altered and will on and after May 1st, leave Peterborough at 5.10 a.m. The only other change provides that the eastbound train for Montreal, which is now leaving Peterborough at 1.00 a.m., is to leave here an hour and five minutes earlier at 11.55 p.m. The train will leave Toronto at 9.45 p.m.

All the schedules are to be run throughout the season to Eastern Standard Time.

Miss B. Larmer of Oshawa is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. B. Dawson.

Mr. K. Barnard of Toronto spent the week-end the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnard.

Misses E. and J. Deyell of Peterborough spent the week-end the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Deyell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Lang entertained at bridge on Saturday evening. Among those present were Misses V. Wallace, J. Muncey and C. Barnard, and Messrs. J. and F. Barnard and M. Perrin.

The trappers in this district have lifted their traps for this season and report their catch of muskrats only fair. The quality however was excellent.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Milton of Toronto opened their summer home at Rice Lake over the week-end.

Owing to the soil still being wet and cold few farmers in the district have as yet done much on the land. Next week should see seeding at its height if the weather remains warm.

Mr. O. R. Pengelley of Brantford spent the week at his home.

Miss R. Staples was the guest of her parents at Cavan over the week-end.

For the first time in many years Argentina wheat is being shipped to Shanghai, China.

Lachine Canal Leak Holds Up 38 Ships

MONTREAL, April 27. — Repair work was being rushed today on a minor break in the Lachine canal as 38 vessels waited to get through to Montreal in the start of canal navigation this season. A leak developed yesterday as water was let in and it became necessary to hold up the flow at the upper end of the channel. Expectations were that the leak would be stopped in time to pass the vessels through sometime during the day. Most of them are laden with grain.

The weak spot developed near the tunnel constructed under the waterway last winter. Navigation through the canal opened last year on April 23.

TO USE TARIFFS FOR BARGAINING

Britain Will Take Care Not to Injure Intra-Empire Trade.

GRADUAL CHANGES.

LONDON, April 27.—(C.P. Cable.)—The possibility of tariff bargaining between the British Government and foreign countries, but presumably with the British Government adhering to its stand that no steps will be taken to injure intra-Empire trade, was indicated this afternoon in the House of Commons.

Major J. D. Colville, Minister of Overseas Trade, declared the Government shared the view of its Tariff Advisory Committee that the latest import duties—imposed last week—should not be reduced generally for 12 months, but that in the interests of British trade "some modification of these duties may be found expedient within that period if it is possible to secure in return important reductions in foreign duties promising substantial advantages to the British export trade."

The Advisory Committee recommended a total duty of 20 per cent. on nearly every line of manufactured goods and the new rates became effective yesterday. To the duties on luxury or semi-luxury classes are 25 or 30 per cent. and on semi-finshed steel, 33 1-3 per cent. for three months. On a limited number of articles the total duty is 15 per cent. These rates in the large majority of cases replace the general 10 per cent. duty imposed in March. All the duties carry Imperial preference until some months after the Imperial Economic Conference meets at Ottawa in July.

Before The Tide Turns

"Time and tide wait for no man."

Nor are the low prices of to-day and the turn of the tide toward higher prices going to wait for those who haven't the vision, courage and foresight to buy when prices are at the lowest ebb in 15 years.

And this changing of the tide as applied to prices is more than a mere simile . . . it's a certainty . . . price tides change as surely as ocean tides.

To-day's prices on food, clothing, furniture, furs, cars and other things are from 40% to 100% lower than they have been in years and lower than they will be before the turn of another season.

Don't be caught off your guard when it's so important that your savings be guarded.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 81 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Kraski spent a sleepless night. He realized that sooner or later Tarzan would discover the loss of his pouch of diamonds and that he would return and demand an accounting of the three Londoners he had befriended. So at the first streak of dawn the Russian left his bed of dried grasses and crept stealthily from the village. "There is but one chance in a thousand," he muttered to himself, "that I can reach the coast alive with these," and he caressed the sack of diamonds tucked in his shirt.

"But that chance is worth every effort. I have the fortune of a thousand kings in my possession. What can't I do with it in Paris or London!" Presently the verdure of the jungle closed about Carl Kraski the Russian as he disappeared forever from the lives of his companions. The mystery of his going did not bother his friends much. His footprints were discovered leading into the jungle and they concluded Kraski had perhaps walked in his sleep and that some beast of prey had finished him.

But in the Jungle fastness Kraski moved doggedly along the trail, rifle slung over his shoulder and a heavy automatic pistol grasped in his right hand. His ears strained for the first sounds of pursuit or other danger. Alone in the mysterious jungle he was experiencing a nightmare of terror. With every mile he traveled the value of the diamonds became less and less to him. Once Histah, the snake swinging [illegible] barred his way, yet he did not dare to fire.

He was forced to make a detour and emerged through the tangled mass of underbrush beyond the snake, with his flesh scratched, and bleeding from innumerable thorns. His clothes were torn and tattered and infested with vicious ants whose attacks rendered him half-mad with pain. He gore at his clothing seeking frantically to rid himself of the torturing pests, but clung like a grim death to his weapons and ammunition, and the precious sack from the Valley of Diamonds

REPORT BY GIBB TAMPERED WITH

Antigonish Member Voices Suspicions Regarding Port Recommendations.

"WARNED AT OTTAWA."

HALIFAX, April 27.—(CP)—Suspicion that the Gibb report on Canadian ports had been tampered with was expressed in the legislature yesterday by William Chisholm, K.C. (Lib. Antigonish) when a resolution on reciprocal markets for Nova Scotia products was discussed.

The resolution, sponsored by W. McL. Robertson, (Lib. Shelburne) opened up a debate on the question of whether or not the province was receiving fair treatment from upper Canadian provinces. So Mr. Chisholm spent a moment or two on the Gibb report.

It was his opinion, he said, that Sir Alexander Gibb had been warned by 'parties at Ottawa" to keep his hands off the Maritime ports and refrain from making embarrassing recommendations concerning freight rates.

The resolution under discussion urged pressure on federal authorities for the creation of reciprocal markets for Nova Scotia products within or without Canada."

MERCHANTS URGED TO BACK CHAMBER

John R. Marshall Addresses Members of Retail Merchants' Section.

The importance and value to the merchants of a city of co-ordinating with the Chamber of Commerce was briefly outlined by President John R. Marshall of the local Chamber, at a meeting of the Retail Merchants' Section held last evening.

Mr. Marshall's plea that the merchants should organize in themselves with the assurance that the Chamber of Commerce was solidly behind them, was enthusiastically received by the forty or so merchants present, and who were representative of almost as many branches of the retail trade.

In stressing the fact that the Chamber of Commerce is a nation-wide organization, the speaker pointed out the value of such an organization in dealing with the various problems which arise from time to time, more especially from a legislative standpoint. He could see no reason why the retail merchants could not be strongly organized here with great advantage to the merchants themselves and also to the city in general.

He spoke of the "Clean-up, Paint-up, Give-a-man-a-Job" Campaign which had been sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and the year-round activity undertaken by the Chamber's kindred organizations here and which provided an invaluable stimulus to tourist trade.

Mr. Marshall was optimistic as to the future welfare of the Chamber of Commerce, and could visualise a time when the merchants here would have a really strong organization with one of their representatives sitting in on the executive board of the Chamber.

QUEBEC'S AGENT GENERAL WEDS BELGIAN GIRL

LONDON, April 27.—C. P. Cable.)—Dr. L. J. Lemieux, Agent-General for Quebec in London, to-day married Mlle. Suzanne De Munter, only daughter of Dr. Fernand De Munter, physician to the Belgian Royal family and to the Belgian State Railways, in a quiet ceremony at St. James' church, Spanish Place. Bishop Butt, Vicar-General of Westminster, officiated.

Lt.-Col. G. P. Vanier, of the Canadian High Commissioner's Office in London, acted as best man and also represented Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner. The bride was given away by her father and her mother also attended the wedding.

Dr. Lemieux, who is 62 years of age, has represented Quebec in London since 1925.

The bride is 27 years of age.

CHAUTAUQUA IS BIG SUCCESS

Omemee Residents Were Delighted With Chautauqua Programs.

BACKED BY 25 MEN

OMEMEE, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence).— The Canadian Chautauqua Festival, which opened at Omemee on Thursday evening and continued until Monday evening, met with the enthusiastic response of the people, the attendance so increasing, that on Monday night, a well-packed house greeted the play, "Old Crusty Takes The Air." This annual event, for which twenty-five of the local citizens are financially responsible, was a success for the third consecutive season.

The first-class drama, "Bought and Paid For" launched the Festival on Thursday night, which proved as the plot unfolded to be a true-to-life story of strong moral fibre, presented by a company of talented professional actors.

Vierra's Hawaiians filled both programmes, afternoon and evening, on Friday, their six musicians all being celebrated native players and singers of Hawaii.

Hugo Brandt, a distinguished Polish pianist and composer, rendered some of his own compositions, which won the praise of his listeners. Elwood T. Bailey, in his inspiring lecture, "All Aboard," lifted his audience out of the depression for the time being at least, as he humorously pointed out the faults of the community collectively and individually.

Lindsay Family Is Nearly Suffocated

LINDSAY, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—Dr. and Mrs. Carscadden had a narrow escape from suffocation by smoke at four o'clock yesterday morning when fire broke out in their home. The fire was caused by a grate fire, which had been lighted Monday night, and which ate its way into joists on the side of the fireplace. Mrs. Carscadden was awakened by a smothering sensation caused by the smoke. About $300.00 damage was done the residence.

Ceased Operations.

The Dunsford Fur Company, which had a reservation on Emily Creek, ceased its operations yesterday and pulled in its traps, after having secured a couple of hundred pelts. The cold weather has greatly retarded the operations of the company. The price of skins today was quoted at seventy-five cents.

Gets Suspended Sentence.

W. G. Laurenson, of Cambray, pleaded guilty yesterday to the theft of fire engine governors, the property of James Crooks, of the same vicinity, and valued at $40.00. He was let out on two years' suspended sentence. William V. Mitchell, of Omemee, who is charged with arson in connection with the burning of A. Brooks' shack, was again remanded until May 4th.

The price of coal dropped $1.50 a ton here yesterday. The new prices are the same as those prevailing in Toronto at present.

Police Court

Two motorists were fined in police court this morning for infractions of the traffic by-law in driving their cars at excessive speed.

Clarence Taylor's accelerator was applied not wisely but too well on Charlotte street, and cost him $7.50 and costs, amounting to $10. A similar offense by Leslie Would on George and King streets set him back $10, plus $3.75. Mr. Would has a 1932 permit for driving, but neglected to have it in his pocket when he did his Kay Don stunt.

These fines this morning were incidentally a warning to other motorists that their bursts of speed should be confined to open stretches of highway, if any place, and certainly not on the city streets.

Two residents of Keene, in county police court each paid $10.50 ($5 and costs) for infractions of the Game and Fisheries Act. Magistrate Langley issued a stern warning that fines would be increased for the next offenders.

Weddings

CLANCY—LEVASSEUR

Margaret Aldora Levasseur, youngest daughter of Mrs. D. Levasseur of R.R. No. 11, and the late Mr. Levasseur, and Vincent Elmer Clancy, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Clancy of R.R. 6, Otonabee, were married quietly at the nine o'clock Mass at the Church of the Sacred Heart, yesterday morning, the Rev. J. J. O'Brien performing the ceremony.

The wedding music was played by W. Armstrong, and Miss Minnie Allen sang serveral times during the progress of the nuptial Mass.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Joseph Ranger, wore a pretty frock of pale blue lace and net, with little cape sleeves. Her straw hat and slippers were blue and she wore eggshell hose and lace mittens. Her bouquet was of Butterfly roses. Her only ornament was the gift of the bridegroom, a diamond-set pendant.

The bridesmaid, Miss Agnes Masterson, was in orchid net, with b ack hat and slippers and eggshell hose and lace mittens. She carried a bouquet of Briarcliff roses.

The best man was the bridegroom's brother, William Clancy.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, where decorations were carried out in pink and white. Abcut forty guests were present for the reception.

Later, Mr. Clancy and his bride left by motor for a honeymoon trip to Rochester, N.Y. On their return, they will live at R.R. No. 11.

The bride travelled in an ensemble of navy and grey, with tricoting coat and matching hat and accessories.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was a leather purse and to the best man a leather bill fold.

The young people received many handsome presents from a large circle of friends.

Leafs Receive Cut Of Play-Off Money

TORONTO, Apr l 27 (C.P.).—Members of the Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup winners, split the play-off "melon" here to-day. Each of the 14 players on the world's professional hockey championship team received $1,230. Coach Dick Irvin was voted a full share, while Trainer Tom Daly was voted a good portion. Earl Miller, not considered eligible to participate in the division, since he was only with the Leafs for a short time, was voted $300.

PLAN AIR ROUTE ACROSS ARCTIC

Judge Grimmson Suggests Paths Over Canada, Greenland, Iceland.

SURVEY UNDER WAY.

STOCKHOLM, April 27.—(AP)—Judge Gudmunder Grimmson of Rugby, N. D., who has been negotiating with authorities here and in Iceland in connection with establishment of a trans-Atlantic air mail service, left for home today saying that he was satisfied with the results he had attained.

The Danish government, he said, had given him permission to continue experimental flights for two years, at the end of which time it will give favorable consideration to granting the proposed line a concession.

Agree On Survey

Trans-American Air Lines and Pan American Airways entered into an agreement early this month to conduct the necessary survey and research ork for development of an air route across the North Atlantic.

Details of the project have not yet been made public. It is understood, however, survey flights will soon be made over the proposed course, which by way of Canada, Greenland, Iceland and the Aroes and Shetland Islands.

In addition to Judge Gudmunder Grimmson, the noted polar explorer, Wilhjalmur Stewansson, has been assisting in the study and planning of the northern commercial air route.

Last March the Parliament of Iceland passed an act granting the Trans American and their associated interest a 75-year franchise for the transportation of mail over Iceland on an air route between North American and Europe.

PROGRAM GIVEN IN MADOC HALL

Concert Presented by Members of Maple Leaf Mission Band.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

MADOC, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—A most interesting and entertaining concert was given by the Maple Leaf Mission Band of Trinity United Church on Monday afternoon, the children taking entire charge of the program, Miss Jean Whytock, the president, presiding as chairman.

The opening number was "Open Thy Windows, the Light Will Shine," the pianist being Phyllis Stokloser. The Scripture reading was given by Josephine Belshaw, followed by the recitation by Billy McBain. A piano solo, "Witches Flight" was well rendered by Jean Nickle, after which Mrs. Rutherford's group gave a play, "In Far Korea," in which the following took part in costume: Robert Bristol as Korean man; Donald Rutherford as Korean boy; Jean Whytock as Korean girl and Phyllis Stokloser as Korean bride; Mervyn Rutherford as Buddhist Priest; Canadian girls, Loreen Bennett and Harley Smith, and Canadian boys, Harold Lowry and Wellington Munro; Mac Reeves appeared as a Canadian Missionary, and a Canadian boy, Eric Dafoe, offered prayer for Canadian Missions at the close.

A song by four girls followed, Madeline Bailey, Helen Wellman, Helen Wade and Margaret White. Bryden Lowery gave a paper on "Jonah," after which a collection was taken and the offertory prayer offered by Jean Whytock.

Mrs. H. Bailey gave some information concerning the year's work of the Mission Band. "We have," she said, "thrity-four members, the largest number in several years. We meet for work on the first Monday of the month, and for the regular program on the third Monday of the month, right after the close of school. Each year this Mission Band contributes fifty dollars for mission funds, and this by the work of the children. They have two afternoon concerts each year, and one or two sales of home-cooking. Besides this, sometimes a special play is prepared. The Mission Band superintendent, Mrs. H. Bailey, and her assistants Mrs. Rutherford, Mrs. Burnside, Miss Garrett and Mrs. Lowery are to be heartily congratulated on the success of their young charges."

A piano solo by Phyllis Stokloser followed, and Mrs. Burnside's group gave the play, "Easter Comes to Korea," with all the players suitably distinguished. First came the crocuses, with pink floral caps, these being Madeline Bailey, Annie Roote and Lillian Embury, with their message; daffodils followed with yellow and orange floral caps, Shirley Rooke, Jean Nickle and Thelma Storring; lilies followed with white floral caps and were Betty Phillips, Iris Roberts, Laura Storing and Myrtle Roote; the messages given by these not being understood by the Korean children, Margaret White and Helen Wade (in costume), four Canadian boys came, bringing the Gospel message very clearly, making the Korean children rejoice, at the interpretation of the floral message of the others. Canadian boys were Murray Irwin, Bryden Lowery, Orley Bennett and Elmer Embury, and all closed by joining in "Jesus Loves Me, this I Know," with Jean Nickle at the piano.

Mrs. Lowery gave a poem and reading on "The Beauty of God's Springtime."

Loreen Bennett and Jean Whytock sang together after which the program closed with prayers. A bountiful treat of home-made candy was served to the guests and a hearty invitation given to attend any or all of the Band meetings.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSION FIELDS BEING UNFAIRLY DISTRIBUTED

Synod of Hamilton Also Hears Charges of Injustice to Students for Ministry.

NEXT SESSION IN LONDON.

BRANTFORD, April 27 (C.P.).—Charges of injustice to students for the ministry and unfair distribution of mission fields were heard to-day at the sessions of the Presbyterian Synod of Hamilton and London, continuing at Central Presbyterian Church here. Resolutions were approved at this morning's session, calling for arrangements of mission fields within presbyteries to secure the greatest economy consistent with effective ministry to the constituency and urging presbyteries to use every effort to make the augmented charges self-sustaining. They concluded "that the claims for work by our Canadian students in training for the ministry be recognized as having first place in appointments to the home field."

Rev. Dr. James Smart, Ailsa Craig, declared: "Under present conditions I would not dare to invite any young man of the Presbyterian Church in Canada to enter the ministry. There is a real situation to be met and I think we should have justice from the missions board and a fair distribution of fields.

Resolution Passes.

The resolution was approved.

Rev. Dr. James McKay, London, suggested that wherever possible two mission fields be placed under one minister with a student assistant. He felt the Church could yet advance without placing any heavier financial burden on the people.

Rev. A. L. Budge, Hagersville, secretary, thought that any charge should consider it an honor to have a smaller charge attached.

Approval was given to the transfer of Belgrave from Maitland to Huron Presbytery.

The next meeting of the Synod will be held in Elmwood Avenue Church, London, in April, 1933.

After the morning session a banquet was held, with an extensive toast list.

Obituary

ANNIE STEPHENSON

OMEMEE, April 27. (Examiner Correspondence).—Annie Stephenson passed away on Tuesday afternoon at her residence in the village after a brief illness.

She had resided here all her life and was held in highest respect and esteem by all who knew her.

Miss Stephenson is survived by three sisters one one brother—Rebecca Stephenson, Mrs. R. J. Adams and William Stephenson of Omemee and Mrs. (Dr.) Smith of Stouffville.

The funeral will be held on Thursday at 2.30 p.m. from Christ Church to Emily cemetery. The Rev. A. T. Weir of Omemee will officate at the services.

IN MEMORIAM

HOPCROFT—In loving memory of our dear mother, Catherine Hopcroft who died, April 27th, 1927.
She is not gone, she is just away
Upon that golden shore.
Where the light that shines so brightly
Shall shine for evermore.
—Sadly missed by Husband and Family.

IN MEMORIAM

TRUDE—In loving memory of Violet Mae, beloved daughter of Harry Pearson, who passed away April 28, 1929.
There the flowers from earth transplanted,
For our coming watch and wait,
In the Upper Garden growing
Just within the golden gate.
Though our hearts may break with sorrow.
By the grief so hard to bear,
We shall meet her some glad morning
In the Upper Garden there.
—Sadly missed by Father, Sisters and Brothers.

IN MEMORIAM

CASEY—In loving memory of Mrs. Robert H. Casey who died April 27, 1931.
'Tis lonesome here without you mother
There is such a vacant place
Where we never hear your footsteps
Nor see your smiling face
As we loved you so we miss you
In our memory you are near.
Loved, remembered, longed for always Bringing many a silent tear.
—Sadly missed by Husband and Family.

IN MEMORIAM

ROBBINS.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Joseph Robbins, who departed this life one year ago to-day, April 27, 1931.
Its lonesome without you, mother,
And sad the weary day.
For life doesn't seem the same to us—
Since you were called away.
We miss your kind and willing hand;
Your fond and earnest care.
Our home is dark without you, mother;
We miss you everywhere.
Sleep on in peace, dear mother.
Your work on earth is done.
You have gone where those who love you,
Will meet you one by one.
—Ever remembered by your loving husband and daughters.

MRS. HERRIDGE MOTHER OF SON

Rumor Baby May Be Named Richard Bennett After Distinguished Uncle.

BORN IN OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, April 28. (CP)—Mrs. Herridge, wife of Hon. William D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to the United States, and the only sister of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, gave birth to a son in hospital here to-day. The birth followed a Caesarian operation at 9.55 a.m. The child weighed seven and one-half pounds, which is the normal and healthy weight for a new-born infant.

Both mother and child were reported to be "doing well" and Mrs. Herridge and her husband particularly overjoyed.

It is believed that the young arrival will possibly be named Richard Bennett Herridge, after his distinguished uncle.

Nursery Ready

At the Canadian Legation in Washington, a nursery awaits the son of Canada's minister. Several weeks ago, its furnishing was completed, and situated on an upper floor of the legation, it is finished and equipped with everything of the latest for the care and comfort of the baby.

Mildred Mariann Bennett and Major Herridge were married here on April 14, 1931. It was a brilliant social occasion honored by the presence of Their Excellencies, the Governor-General and the Countess of Bessborough.

Major Herridge and Mr Bennett were at the hospital when the son and nephew was born. Before he left the Prime Minister was shown his nephew. Prior to this, Mrs. Herridge, at her own request, had been allowed to see her son.

Spanking Resented By 'Caygeon Woman

LINDSAY, Ont., April 28 (Special to The Examiner).—Fred Spratt, 70, of Boycaygeon, recently decided that times are hard and that his wife should use less butter on her bread despite the fact that the product is cheap now. He told her so often that she became angry and a family quarrel in which each struck at the other resulted in the wife being "paddled." Charged in court, Spratt was let out on suspended sentence, when his wife said that "bad temper" caused the pat, and he told the magistrate that he had thought his wife should live up to the promise she made to "love, honor and obey" him when they were married.

2,064 LODGINGS GIVEN AT HOSTEL

4,948 Meal Tickets Were Given Out During the Winter.

77 MEN FOUND WORK.

A meeting of the Hostel Committee of the Red Cross was held in Mayor Denne's office on Tuesday afternoon at which the following members were present: His Worship Mayor Denne, Alderman James Hamilton, Messrs. R. H. Turner, G. H. Thompson and R. M. Glover.

The following report was read by Mr. Bailey, who is in charge of the Hostel. Mr. Bailey has given exceptionally good service. In addition to his regular duties he has taken a keen interest in the men and the conditions in the Hostel have been excellent.

Total number of meal tickets issued from Nov. 20, 1931, to April 25, 1932, 4,948; total number of nights' lodgings from Nov. 20, 1931 to April 25, 1932, 2,064; number of situations found on farms for men and youths to date, 73; number of other situations found not on farms 4; temporary day's work found for men, 12; number of different occupations registered by the men, 100; cases requiring hospital treatment, 6; cases requiring medical attention, 12; number of pairs of socks given away to men, 60; approximate cost to the Peterborough Relief Association and Examiner Relief Association for fitting out men for farms, and furnishing them with railway and bus fares, $200; highest number of men staying in Hostel any one night, 37.

The matter of the continuance of the Hostel is in the hands of the Executive Committee of the Red Cross and activities after May first will be decided by that body.

$1,000 SETTLES DAMAGE CLAIM

County Will Pay $1,000 to F. T. Mahood, Former Caretaker.

NO JUDGMENT GIVEN.

On the advice of Chief Justice Rose, the $5,000 suit brought against the County of Peterborough by Frederick T. Mahood, former caretaker of the County Buildings, for alleged loss of his right eye in February, 1925, while engaged in his duties at the County Buildings, was settled when the county accepted the offer of R. R. Hall, K.C., counsel for Mahood, to cancel the claim on payment of $1,000.

The settlement came after the case had been heard all day yesterday and the two counsel had addressed the Court for two hours this morning.

Injury Serious Enough.

"I would like to see the plaintiff get something," commented His Lordship. "His injury is serious enough." He pointed out that whatever judgment was rendered, the case would likely be appealed, and more money spent in litigation without anyone benefiting. Chief Justice Rose made a similar suggestion yesterday afternoon, but it was announced to-day that the county would not agree to the $2,500 asked for his client by Mr. Hall. F. D. Kerr, K.C., counsel for the county, when His Yordship reiterated the suggestion to-day of a settlement as the better way of concluding the case, stated that the county was prepared to give $1,000 without costs. Mr. Hall immediately stated that his client would accept that amount.

Sittings Completed.

The sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario here were concluded a few minutes later when it was announced the other case on the docket, Ross Lobb versus Harold Lancaster, Jessie Lancaster, and John Faux, would not be proceeded with since Judge L. V. O'Connor had set aside a judgment he had rendered in favor of the plaintiff when the case was not contested by the defendants. Chief Justice Rose stated that he could not proceed with the case before him until Judge O'Connor had rendered his verdict in the County Court case.

Two Airmen Injured When Wing Hits Pole

QUILL LAKE, Sask., April 28. — (C.P.) — Pilot C. G. W. Gordon, nephew of Ralph Connor, the novelist, and Pilot McKinnon of Winnipeg, were injured when a Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's airplane crashed here to-day. The machine struck a telephone pole in taking off, one wing being torn away as the plane dived into a barnyard.

Gordon's injuries were slight but McKinnon was badly cut about the face and required medical assistance. The plane was badly damaged.

Gordon was prominent in the news last fall when he was lost in the Northwest Ontario wilds for several weeks.

COACH PLUNGES OVER HIGH BANK THROUGH HOUSE

Father and Son Asleep, Miraculously Escape With Slight Hurts.

HOME IN RUINS.

Passengers on Montreal-Chicago Flier Badly Shaken —Probe Starts.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. April 28.—Engineer James Groves and Fireman Shinning, both of Battle Creek, Mich. were scalded to death and two other persons were injured when the Maple Leaf passenger train of the Grand Trunk railroad, en route from Montreal to Chicago, was derailed here today and one of its baggage cars plunged off a high elevation embankment on a house.

Apparently none of the train's passengers was injured and none of the coaches overturned. Police and volunteer workers, however searched the ruins of the house for other possible victims. The two injured, neither seriously, were five year old Marshall Bradburn and his father, who were asleep in the house.

Miraculous Escape

The boy miraculously escaped death. He was in bed in the rear of the house while his parents slept in front. The heavy baggage car almost completely demolished the rear part and workers were compelled to fight their way through the wreckage to reach Marshall. Mrs. Bradburn was not injured.

The bodies of both the engineer and fireman were found in the cab of the locomotive. Both had been scalded to death by escaping steam.

The cause of the derailment could not be immediately ascertained and railroad officials were investigating. Conductor W. D. Mirfield of Port Huron, Mich., said he was unable to explain it.

The train had slowed down in passing through the city and was nearing the Union station, where it was scheduled to stop, when the locomotive suddenly left the rails and turned over. The baggage car directly behind uncoupled and hung over the embankment at a precarious angle.

Ambulances Rushed Up

The next baggage car, however left the superstructure and plowed into the house, which adjoins it. Police and private ambulances were rushed to the scene in the belief many of the passengers had been injured and worked for a half hour to extricate the boy from the wreckage.

Hospital attaches, however, said he suffered only cuts and bruises. The father's injuries were also slight.

Suspect Sabotage.

Authorities who were investigating the crash admitted they were taking cognizance of rumors that the wreck was an act of reprisal on the part of persons disgruntled with the New York Central Railroad because of a recent difficulty over extension of track elevation. Chief of Police John B. Kuespert, a veteran railroader, said he was working on the theory the train was deliberately wrecked.

I am convinced that the train hit something, he said. It just didn't topple over of its own accord.

Many Defective Chimneys Need Repairs

"Eighty per cent of the chimneys around town need repairs" a citizen who is closely associated with the building trades told the Examiner today. "If these repairs were made now it would provide a great deal of employment for bricklayers and their assistants."

And this work would appreciably improve the efficiency of furnaces and stoves.

"Chimneys are the most exposed part of a house" the Examiner's informant explained. "They are subjected to almost continual changes of temperature. In winter they are attacked from all sides. Snow and rain and frost causes freezing on the outside, and the heating coming up from the wood and coal fires sets up a thawing action. These constant changes first affect the mortar causing it to disintegrate, and driving winds aggravate the condition, until chinks are formed between the bricks.

There are two results to this wear and tear. Bricks become loosened and are a source of danger to persons because they may be blown down by the gale. And there is the possibility of serious personal injury.

On the other hand if there are cracks or holes where the mortar has worn or fallen out, you have a cross draft through the chimney which checks the updraft from the heating unit, whether it be stove or furnace. The fires don't burn as they should because there is not the full supply of air and its oxygen being drawn through the fuel. In fact many a furnace or stove may be "smoking the house" for this very reason. If anything there is a back draft from the defective chimney, and it is defective because the wind blows through cracks in the brick work.

People blame the stove or furnace; and very likely they not getting the full efficiency from the heating unit, not because of any default in it, but because of the chimney trouble. But in that situation the chimney is forgotten for the reason that it is out of sight on the roof.

The updraft is being cut off or checked by the cross draft through crevices in the chimneys which should be rebuilt, or at least new tops put on them."

This opinion comes from an expert who is not a tradesman, and it suggests the possibilities of this "Give a Man a Job" idea if the community would put their hearts into it.

"Be Sensible! No Reason For This 1932 Pessimism"

LABORITES WILL BACK DE VALERA

Action Practically Assures Passage in Dail of Bill to Abolish Oath.

BITTER ATTACK.

DUBLIN, April 28 (A.P.)—William Norton, leader of the Irish Laborite group, to-night announced that the Laborites would support President Eamon de Valera's bill abolishing the oath of allegiance to the Crown, thus practically assuring the passage of the measure in the Dail Eireann.

Norton's announcement was made on the floor of the Dail at the conclusion of two bitter attacks on the measure from a Farmers' deputy and a Cosgrave party man. J. F. O'Hanlon, a Farmers' deputy, declared at resumption of debate on second reading that "No amount of legal quibbling will convince me what we are engaged in to-day is either economic, honorable or patriotic."

Pro. J. M. O'Sullivan, former Minister of Education in the Cosgrave Cabinet, said the measure would bring a maximum of trouble and dishonor with a minimum of advantage.

Railway Employees Are Reduced 14,780

OTTAWA, April 28. — (By the Canadian Press.)— Since 1927 the Canadian National Railways have reduced the number of their employees from 106,196 to 91,416, the total at the end of 1931, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the C.N.R. told the Commons Committee on Railways and Shipping here to-day. Sir Henry presented the following figures showing the fluctuations in the past five years:

Year	Employees	Wages and Salaries
1927	106,196	$163,712,099
1928	110,158	173,264,215
1929	111,383	177,037,682
1930	101,046	159,980,994
1931	91,416	139,784,630

C.N.R. PENSIONS TO BE REVISED

Likely to be Made Contributory on the Part of the Employees.

UNIONS ONCE OPPOSED.

OTTAWA, April 28 (C.P.). — The management of the Canadian National Railways will take up very soon with the unions representing the employees, the whole pensions system now in force throughout the service to make it contributory on the part of the employees. The present system in force in the C.N.R. is non-contributory.

The announcement was made by Sir Henry Thornton to-day before the Commons Committee on Railways. He explained that there are three systems in use in the service. The old Grand Trunk pensions scheme was contributory, and is still in force, but for many years has been closed to new employees. The same in the case with the old Intercolonial pensions system.

The Grand Trunk contributory scheme became very unsatisfactory to the men, with the result that some years before the war a non-contributory scheme was put into force and employees were permitted to enter the new scheme. When the Canadian National system was organized the non-contributory system was extended over the entire service.

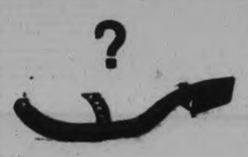
At that time, Sir Henry informed the committee, the railway unions were opposed to a contributory scheme being started, but with the march of years have come to look more favorably on the advantages of a contributory arrangement.

The question was raised by F. R. McMillan (Cons., Saskatoon). Sir Henry said he personally had been in favor of a contributory system all along, and when asked why it had not been put into effect sooner he replied that the employees some years ago had opposed any contributory scheme, but as their leaders came to know the management better and a mutual confidence sprang up they saw the advantages of a contributory system.

Only recently the employees, as represented by the trades unions in charge, approached us for a re-examination and a reconstruction of the pensions system on a contributory basis and we are going to take it up at once.

HAMILTON MILL BUSY.

HAMILTON, April 28 (C.P.).—An order for 1932 chassis-frame requirements of Ford Motor Company of Canada has been received by the National Steel Car Company, it is announced to-day. A number of men will be re-employed, and one department of the steel company will likely be busy all summer.



Toronto's Relief Bill Up Million

TORONTO, April 28 (C.P.). —Toronto's annual relief bill shows an increase of nearly $1,000,000 over the preceding year. The House of Industry to-day issued its annual report, which shows outdoor relief up to March 31 had cost the city $1,741,605. In all, 27,056 families were served with groceries costing $1,375,736 and fuel worth $285,674. Salaries and other expenses totalled $80 191.

SENATE DEBATE ON BEAUHARNOIS WILL BE WARM

Rhodes Budget Passes Commons With a Majority of Thirty-six.

TANNER LEADS OFF.

Report on Special Beauharnois Committee Debated in Senate.

OTTAWA, April 28 (C.P.).—The Rhodes budget passed the House of Commons yesterday with a majority of thirty-six. Coming as an anti-climax to the hubbub and disorder that featured the closing scenes of the debate Tuesday night, the House yesterday was business-like and speedy in supporting the first budget presented by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance.

The Senate stole the spotlight from the Commons when the debate opened on the report of the special Beauharnois committee which condemned two Liberal Senators, W. L. McDougald and Andrew Haydon, and censured another, Donat Raymond. Crowded galleries thronged the red chamber all day in contrast to the few spectators who watched the close of the long budget debate.

In the budget division, a solid Conservative force, together with A. W. Neill, British Columbia Independent, opposed Liberals, Laborites and United Farmers. The vote was 108 to 72. Previously, the House voted down 112 to 66 a Liberal amendment, criticizing the fiscal policy of the Government. In this vote, the third party group split two ways, five joining the Liberals and eight, including Robert Gardiner, leader of the United Farmers, siding with the Government forces.

Leads Off Senate Debate.

Senator Charles E. Tanner, Pictou, N.S., chairman of the Beauharnois committee, headlined the Senate debate with a speech lasting nearly four hours. In an exhaustive review of the evidence, he linked the three Liberal Senators with the Beauharnois power and navigation project. And the Senate was reminded the eyes of the public were focused on it; that it was not the place for men who placed its honor and integrity at stake and that it could not sit by idly and become an object of derision.

Only two other Senators took part in the debate yesterday, F. L. Beique and Lendrum McMeans. The latter said two of the three Senators—Haydon and McCougald—were charged with "a great crime" and he believed the reformation of the Senate, which periodically became a political issue, should come from within.

C.N. ADVERTISING BILL DEFENDED BY PRESIDENT

Claims He Aims to Reduce 1930 Total of $2,106,000 to $998,329.

STAFF CUT 84.

Thornton States Road Still in Infancy—Publicity Vital.

OTTAWA, April 28 (C.P.)—The Canadian National Railways may be Canada's 'enfant terrible' but it should be remembered also that the barefooted urchin sometimes grows up to be a great statesman" Sir Henry Thornton, president of the C.N.R., reminded the House of Commons committee on railways and shipping here to-day. The committee, which has displayed unwonted vigor in its annual analysis of railway matters this year, had under survey the details of the C.N.R. publicity department.

Sir Henry had shown that for 1932 he was budgeting for an expenditure of $998,329 for advertising and publicity, as compared with an aggregate of $2,106,000 in 1930. This budget, said R. B. Hanson (Cons., York-Sunbury), chairman of the committee, indicated a decrease of one million dollars approximately. What, however, had been done about overhead expenses? The department in his opinion was top-heavy.

Overhead S'ashed

Overhead, replied Sir Henry, had been cut down. It should be remembered that in times of depression it required just as much overhead, more brains, anxiety and vigilance than could be exercised by supervising officers in times of prosperity.

"That sounds fine" rejoined Mr. Hanson, "but I venture to say there is no industrial organization following that practise. You have a publicity manager who is drawing down as high a salary as any editor-in-chief of a newspaper in Canada. How do you justify that?

"I don't know what the salary may be of editors," sir Henry said, "but I can only say with regard to the administration of the Publicity Department that we are not paying amounts in excess of what is paid on other railways and similar services. It so happens that in industrial organizations it is necessary to have a publicity department, particularly in the C.N.R., because it is relatively an infant in point of years.

Unknown Outside Canada.

In 1923, continued Sir Henry, the C.N.R. was unknown outside of Canada and was confused with the Canadian Pacific. He recalled being frequently asked if he was president of the C.P.R. and if the C. P.R. owned the Canadian National. The majority of people in the United States, where the bulk of the tourist rail traffic came from, automatically selected the C. P. R, largely through the publicity of that system. The C.N.R. was like any other new enterprise. It had to establish itself.

In time as an industry established itself and proved the quality of its goods, it placed itself in a preferred position. So, in the initial stages of the C.N.R.'s existence, if the system was to get its share of traffic, it had to go out for it and make it clear to prospective clients what it had to offer. If the road had pursued any other policy it would not have got the traffic. In advertising the Canadian National, the system was advertising Canada.

Large Question.

This whole question could not be lightly answered or dismissed with a word, Sir Henry continued Everybody knew that all industrial enterprises had to get their wares before the public and had to advertise. The relation between the C.N.R. advertising expenditures and its gross revenues were not excessive. How far could be gone was a matter of experience and judgement.

This year we felt we must reduce our advertising expenditures, and we have done so. Sir Henry said. But to handle an advertising proposition intelligently requires experience and brains; and it can't be left to an office boy. It demands a knowledge of the business.

The matter of publicity he declared, had been the subject of discussions among the directors. Sir Henry added that the personnel of the department had been reduced by 84 in two years.

HONOR SLAYING VERDICT RESTS IN JURY'S HANDS

Darrow in Eloquent Plea Urges Golden Rule be Applied.

3 WEEKS OF ARGUMENTS.

Judge Sets Down Complicated List of Instructions for Jury.

(By William H. Ewing)

HONOLULU, April 28 (A.P.)—A jury of twelve men of different racial origins, after nearly four hours of deliberation, had not reached a verdict to-day in the trial of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and three others charged with slaying Joseph Kahahawai for vengence.

Judge Charles S. Davis ordered the jurors to retire for the night at 10 p.m., (3.30 a.m., eastern standard time), and to resume consideration of the evidence at 9 a.m. today (2.30 p.m. eastern standard time). They received the case late yesterday afternoon.

Massie, an officer of the United States Navy; his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, society matron, and Albert O. Jones and E. Lord, enlisted men, are charged with slaying a native who allegedly had confessed participation in a criminal attack on Mrs. Massie, wife of the officer.

Three Weeks' Hearing

After three weeks of manoeuvring, challenging, arguing and pleading, the case went to the jury along with a somewhat complicated set of instructions from Judge Davis.

The court rules the jury could find the defendants, with the exception of Massie, guilty of second degree murder, guilty of manslaughter, or not guilty. For Massie, Judge Davis said, the jury might make any one of these findings, plus a possible verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity.

A separate verdict for each of the defendants was ordered. Judge Davis also rules that evidence regarding the assault upon the accused naval officer's wife could be considered only as it related to Massie's mental state.

Relating to the defence contention Massie's mind went blank when he confronted the native with a pistol and heard him confess, Judge Davis instructed that if a plea of insanity had been introduced, the burden of proof was on the prosecution to show the naval officer sane.

RECORD BROKEN TO AUSTRALIA

Scott Flies 13,187 Miles in 8 Days, 20 Hours and 49 Minutes from England.

FACED HEAVY WINDS.

PORT DARWIN, Australia, April 28 (A.P.)—C. W. A. Scott, noted flier, landed here at 10.22 a.m. today after a flight from Lympne, England, in which he recovered his record for flights between England and Australia by beating the record of J. A. Butler 5 hours and 40 minutes.

Scott's time for the flight was 8 days, 20 hours and 49 minutes. Butler's time, which was a slight improvement over the former record held by scott for the 13,187 miles, was 9 days, 2 hours and 29 minutes.

Butler's flight was ended on Nov. 9 last year.

Scott was very tired when he landed amid the cheers of an enthusiastic crowd at the Litchfield airdrome. He said he was "through record-hunting" and would try for any more of them. He would go back to England, he said, "on a comfortable steamship."

He faced strong head winds all the time during the last few days, he said, and crossed the shark-infested Timor Sea in the teeth of a terrific gale.

IRWIN BLAMES PEACE FAILURES UPON MAHATMA

National Congress' Attitude Also Draws Fire of Former Viceroy.

LONG DIFFICULT PROBLEM.

University of Toronto Crowded for Inauguration of Massey Lectures.

TORONTO, April 28 (C.P.). — The Indian National Congress today stood indicted by Lord Irwin, former Viceroy of India, as minimizing efforts by the Round Table Conference to bring about agreement between all parties in India looking towards promotion of responsible self-government within the partnership of the British Commonwealth.

Lord Irwin, inaugurating the Massey Lectures, which are to bring annually to Canada a man of prominence from Great Britain last night told an audience of 2,800 at the University of Toronto the attitude of Mahatma Gandhi and his adherents rendered agreement between elements of Indian society difficult.

"So long as the Indian National Congress is satisfied with the assertion of its own claims, and is unwilling to make the wholehearted attempt by compromise or by abatement to meet the indefeasible claims of others, there is little hope," he said, "of agreement either with Great Britain or with the Moderate elements of the Hindu thought that are outside the Congress and anxious to bring the work of the Round Table Conference to practical results, or with the minority communities, or with the Indian States."

Gandhi's Failure.

He regarded as one of the major tragedies of the Indian situation the fact that "partly through temperament and often perhaps through circumstance," Mr. Gandhi has repeatedly disappointed many of his warmest friends by his failure hitherto to evolve, and win

LION MAULS MAN, BUT DAUGHTER CARRIES ON

"Show Must Go On," She Says and Does Dance in Cage

Manchester, Eng.—A girl of nineteen—after seeing her father attacked in a lions' cage, dragged round the floor, bitten, clawed, and terribly injured—coolly entered the cage and danced at a Manchester holiday fair.

"The show must go on," she said.

Two hundred people, mostly women and children, had stampeded in panic toward the exits of the exhibition tent when the lion attacked the girl's father, Captain Tom Purchase, a lion-tamer known all over the country.

The performance consisted of Purchase entering a cage with two lions, Nero and Pasha, and performing tricks.

His daughter, Rosie Purchase, then danced in the cage, while the lions were controlled by her father.

Miss Purchase had completed her act and was leaving the cage when Nero made his attack on her father.

Miss Purchase accompanied her father to hospital, returned to find that Nero had been driven into an adjoining cage—and asked that the show should go on.

The tent filled again and Miss Purchase entered the cage and danced beside Pasha while the other lion which had attacked her father raged in the next cage.

Metropolitan Star Weds For Romance

NEW YORK, April 28 (C.P.).—Gladys Swarthout, young Metropolitan Opera star, who recently bemoaned the fact that she was given boyish parts when her heart's desire was to be a Juliet, has found a romantic role to her liking—but it's off the stage.

The dark-haired contralto from Deepwater, Mo., is now Mrs. Frank M. Chapman, Jr., and has been for a couple of days, an announcement disclosed. She was married privately to Mr. Chapman, a concert baritone at Tenafly, N.J., this week.

Claims Banks Thwarted Will of President Hoover and Congress by Hoarding.

WASHINGTON, April 28. (A.P.) Strong indications presented themselves to-day leading bankers may be called in the United States senate's stock exchange enquiry to answer charges they are largely responsible for the recent tremendous liquidation of securities.

After the new steering committee which has assumed control of the investigation made secret plans yesterday for its future conduct, chairman Norbeck the Republican Independent from South Dakota, issued a vigorous statement assailing the big commercial banks for failing to pass on the newly expended credit with which the federal reserve system is seeking to infuse new life into the banks for failing to pass on the newly expanded credit with which the federal reserve system is seeking to infuse new life into the country's business.

Norbeck charged the banks with thwarting the will of President Hoover and Congress, and with extensive hoarding. He based the accusation largely on the great shrinkage in the total of loans on securities made by federal reserve members, during recent weeks. From March 9, to April 20, they show a continuous decline amounting in all to $309,000,000. In contrast during the past three weeks, he said, the reserve system has "manufactured credit wholesale."

Definite Threat

His statement carried the definite threat that if "these banks keep on forcing liquidation and refuse credit made available to them" he wolud recommend that the banking committee, making the stock investigation, go into this angle fully.

"If this liquidation continues," he said, "we must find out what part the bankers are playing in forcing down the value of American property to "junk" prices. The bear raisers are bad enough; the bankers should not help them!"

Secret planning was resumed by the committee to-day in preparation for further hearings, and there was an expectation agents would be despatched to New York to go through brokerage house records without any previous announcement.

Japanese Brigades Drive Toward Rebels

MUKDEN, April 28.— (A.P.) — Meagre reports here to-day indicated the three Japanese brigades which began a drive against Chinese rebels in Northern and Eastern Manchuria yesterday were carrying out their movements as planned but had not yet encountered the rebel forces.

Part of Generali Murai's brigade reached Hailin and General Yoda's infantry and artillery detachments arrived at Imienpo.

Because of the distances to be covered and the difficulties of transport once the railways are left behind, military officials expressed the opinion that it might be several days before the Japanese troops come to grips with any considerable force of the elusive rebels.

Premier Tardieu To Lose His Vote

PARIS, April 28.—(AP)—Andre Tardieu's physician informed him today that he may not go to Belfort on Sunday to vote in the election. The premier was ordered to spend three or four more days indoors although the laryngitis from which he is suffering was no worse this morning.

M. Tardieu will lose his vote for he is not permitted to cast it by proxy.

COUNTY CLERK DENIES CHARGE OF F. T. MAHOOD

Evidence in Damage Action Against County is All In.

BOILER MEN ARE CALLED.

Counsel Will Argue Case Before Chief Justice Rose To-day.

Testifying in Peterbdrough County's defence of the suit for $5,000 damages brought by Frederick T. Mahood, former caretaker of the county buildings, for alleged loss of his right eye through being struck by a piece of coal while in the course of his duties, County Clerk Ed. M. Elliott, yesterday afternoon said that Mr. Mahood had never complained to him of the accident, and that the first knowledge he had that Mr. Mahood had lost his eye was conveyed in January, 1931, in a letter from R. R. Hall, K.C., Mr. Mahood's solicitor.

Further, Mr. Elliott denied Mr. Mahood's statement that he had complained to him that the axe used in breaking the large lumps of coal was not suitable for the work. "He never spoke to me concerning any axe, nor did I know he was using one," declared Mr. Elliott.

Several local men who are engaged in tending large furnaces, gave testimony that an axe was generally used in breaking coal lumps, although other instruments were sometimes used.

The case is being tried in the Supreme Court of Ontario in session here before Chief Justice Rose. R. R. Hall, K.C., is acting for Mr. Mahood, and F. D. Kerr, K. C., is counsel for the county.

All the evidence on both sides was completed yesterday afternoon, and after the counsels' arguments to-day, Chief Justice Rose will deliver judgment.

First Defence Witness

Thomas G. Detcher, the first witness for the defence, said he was employed as furnace man for the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, for twenty-one years. He said he used an axe to break large chunks of coal, and preferred it to a sledge, since less pounding was required. He said he had no splinters fly from the blade of an axe, while he had had them fly from a sledge.

An axe was produced by Mr. Kerr, which Mr. Detcher said would serve very well in breaking coal.

W. H. White, fireman between 1911 and 1923, at the county buildings, said that steam coal was used in the furnaces in the buildings. He said occasionally he has to break extra large chunks by lifting them up and letting them fall on the cement floor. He said he never used an axe to break coal. He said using ordinary common sense an axe could be used quite efficiently in breaking coal.

Two sledge hammers were produced by Mr. Kerr, which witness said sledges of similar kind were customarily used in boiler rooms generally.

James Brownlee, present caretaker of the county buildings, said the same kind of steam

ISMET PASHA VISITS SOVIET

Will Be Tendered First Reception Ever Held for Foreigners in Kremelin Palace.

FRIENDSHIP TOUR.

MOSCOW, April 28 (A.P.)—Ismet Pasha, Premier of Turkey, accompanied by a party of 34 Turkish dignitaries arrived here to-day on a visit of friendship and goodwill.

One car of the special train on which the party travelled was occupied by a Soviet military guard of honor. The Turkish visitors were met at the station by Premier Molotoff; Maxim Litvinoff, Foreign Commissar, and other high Soviet officials who formally welcomed them with an impressive military ceremony at the station.

To-day was devoted to exchanges of official visits and to-night Premier Molotoff and Mme. Molotoff will entertain the visitors at the first Soviet reception ever held in the Kremlin Palace for foreigners. It also will be the first time Mme. Molotoff has acted as the State's official hostess at such a function.

The party expects to remain here until aftetr the May Day celebrations next Sunday, inspecting the various industrial developments around the Capital.

The newspaper Pravda commented to-day on the friendly relations between the two countries in an editorial headed "Peace reigns on the Bosphorus."

Kidnapping Mystery Continues Unsolved

HOPEWELL, N.J. April 28.—The Lindbergh kidnapping mystery stretched on toward the end of its second month without a solution to-day, although Norfolk intermediaries trying to get the baby back indicated fresh grounds for hope.

Meanwhile Salvator Spitale and Irving Bitz, two New York "go-betweens" named weeks ago by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to deal with the kidnappers, withdrew from the case. Their lawyer, Abraham Kresselman, said in New York the futile $50 000 ransom payment made by Col. Lindbergh prompted their withdrawal.

WESTERN ANGLICAN BISHOPS ISSUE ELOQUENT PLEA FOR AID

Predict Peace River Most Populous District in Canada in 50 Years.

MISSIONS MUST GO ON.

MONTREAL, April 28. (C.P.) — Continuing a series of services in which the aims and needs of the Church of England in Western Canada are being placed before Montreal congregations, Rt. Rev. R. J. Renison, Bishop of Athanasca, Rt. Rev. H. R. Sherman, Bishop of Calgary and Rt. Rev. G. A. Rix, Bishop of Caledonia, addressed crowded gatherings in different churches here last night.

No church, declared Bishop Renison, had done so much to develop Northern Canada as the Church of England "I am here to protest against any mission which will minister to a handful of Eskimos or Indians and leave to fend for themselves the thousands who are in my diocese. In fity years' time I believe the Peace River district will be the most populous in the whole of Canada. I come to you to speak on behalf of the Cinderella of the Canadian church." In the Athabasca diocese, he said, there was a series of homesteads with hardly a village in the place, with the exception of Grand Prairie. There were 31 churches in all and 70 places where worship was carried on. Sixteen ordained clergymen served the people.

Career Only Beginning.

The West was only beginning the church career, said the Bishop of Calgary, and it faced problems altogether different and far more serious than those of the long-settled parts of the country.

"There are people in this Eastern Canada who still have money to spare there are people who call themselves Christians and who call themselves Church of England men who have it in their power to give us help," declared the Bishop of Caledonia. He reviewed conditions in Northern British Columbia where, he said, mines were shut down, fish prices were so low that they defrayed hardly more than the cost of a motorboat's gasoline, growing of wheat represented a loss to the grower. "We do not expect God to answer our prayers marvellously, but we Bishops from the West have come to the East hoping that some individuals may be persuaded to play God," he said. "It is not a pleasant task bringing tales of woe," he went on, but he thought that "as the blood of the martyrs was the seed of the church, so today the difficulties that the people are going through may prove to be the salvation of the church. When people were willing to build churches with their own hands, it was a healthy sign."

Trapper Fined $10 And Costs At Wooler

CAMPBELLFORD, April 28. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Charged with unlawfully trapping muskrats in the township of Murray after having notice not to hunt or shoot them, Christopher MacDonald of Brighton township was fined $10 and costs by County Magistrate Floyd of Cobourg in Division Court, Wooler, on Tuesday. Action was brought against MacDonald by George Atwell of Campbellford who was represented by N. Alex MacColl. T. C. Thompson of Brighton appeared for the defence.

The case was a difficult one to judge, much of the evidence centering round the exact boundary location of Lot 16, Concession 10 of the township and whether that portion of Hickory Island in the river Trent opposite the mainland was included in the boundary.

The defense claimed that Atwell did not own this island and that trapping was legal. Atwell however had title to the full boundary. Hickory Island is situated below Bradley Bay.

Fraser Aylsworth of Madoc gave technical evidence for the plaintiff, having surveyed the lot, declaring that that portion of Hickory Island opposite the mainland was included in the boundary.

The case was adjourned from April 8, when it was impossible for the solicitor for the plaintiff to attend.

Fenella Lad At Play Fractures Leg Bones

FENELLA, Apr. 28 (Examiner Correspondence) — When Albert, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Adams, Fenella was playing in his father's farmyard, Tuesday afternoon, he met with an accident, breaking both bones in his leg, between the knee and ankle. His mother going into the yard sometime afterwards, found him lying beside the barn.

It is not known how the accident happened. Dr. Ryan, Roseneath, is attending the injured lad.

LIVESTOCK MEN FURTHER PLANS

Discontinuance of Fieldman in County Upsets Well Laid Plans.

FIELD WORK CUT OFF.

Thirty-five members of the Peterborough County Livestock Improvement Association met Saturday at the office of J. B. Nelson, local representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and laid out plans for the continuance of their work on the restricted basis resulting from the discontinuance of the assistance of their fieldman, William Knox.

The field work has been cut off in the economy measures applied by the government. A register of purebred livestock for sale will still be available for buyers at Mr. Nelson's office, and it is hoped that breeders, both sellers and buyers, will avail themselves of this medium of contact.

Looking over the records and the advance that has already been made toward the goal of greater improvement of the county's livestock the members of the Association felt that it was now entirely feasible to set their aim for a better bull area within the county for 1932. A committee will wait upon the county council in June appealing for the council's support in obtaining a census of bulls, and in preparing other preliminaries for this objective.

Officers Elected Chatauqua Program

CAMPBELLFORD, April 28 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).— The organization meeting of those sponsoring this year's Canadian Chatauqua program which will be seen in Campbellford on May 13, 14, 16 and 17, was held on Tuesday evening in the Campbellford Public Library. The meeting was addressed by Miss McLean, Chautauqua representative, who explained the program and enlarged on the different features to be shown.

The officers for this season were elected as follows: Chairman, G. A. Kingston; secretary-treasurer, J. J. Lewis Hay. Committees—Publicity, C. J. Windrim, G. A. Ironside, E. H. Greig, Rev. F. G. McTavish, S. A. Maguire; Hall and Property, N. Alex. MacColl, A. G. Thompson, the chairman and secretary; Campaign captains: Dr. H. B. Longmore, W. Henson, Andrew Milne, and E. H. Greig.

MELBA'S GRANDCHILD COMING TO ENGLAND

Pamela Armstrong Inherited Great Singer's Jewels

London.—Pamela Armstrong, Melba's 14-year-old granddaughter, to whom the great singer left a fortune and the collection of jewels presented to her by kings and queens, is to continue her education in England and France.

Melba adored her, and her will provided that Pamela should inherit the wonderful collection of jewels on attaining her majority, or on her wedding day.

Among the jewels is a small brooch of pearls and rubies presented to Melba by Queen Victoria.

Another wish of Melba's was that Pamela should retain the blue bag given her by the late Mr. Alfred de Rothschild and the kettle she always carried with her on her tours.

The jewels were valued for probate at £14,000. All income from her residuary estate after payment of the bequests was to go to Pamela's father and mother—Mr. George Armstrong, of Melbourne, Australia. Melba's son, and his wife—and afterwards to their child or children.

L. S. Stover, local baker, has just completed the installation of a new brick oven in his bakeshop on Canrobert Street. Local labor was employed for this addition, which has a baking capacity of 600 large loaves.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blake and family, of Oshawa, have taken possession of the Wellington Street house owned by Mrs. Malhoit, now resident in Toronto. Moving out of this property, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Scott have located in the Payne house on Inkerman Street.

P. C. Denyes was a business visitor to Toronto on Wednesday.

C. H. Davidson took his first business trip since his severe illness on Tuesday, when he journeyed to Oshawa.

Miss McLean, representative of the Canadian Chautauqua, was a visitor to town on Wednesday.

A by-law covering the operation and regulation of bowling alleys in the town of Campbellford was passed this week at a special meeting of the Town Council. This is the first by-law on the town's books covering this amusement. Action was taken after inquiries had been made by Gordon McLean of Belleville regarding the opening of a poolroom and bowling alley in the town.

The by-law, which became effective on April 23, calls for an annual fee of $25.00 for each alley, with a transfer fee of $2.00. Hours of operation are from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m., excluding Sundays. The penalty for violations of this by-law range from $5.00 to $50.00, exclusive of cost.

SENATE DEBATE WILL BE WARM

members on the committee, challenged the Senate to find any evidence in the report to convict a Senator of wrong-doing.

Senator Tanner accused Senator McDougald of withholding from Parliament on several occasions knowledge that he was interested financially in Beauharnois or other power projects. Senator McDougald, he said, used language "which was not candid and true"; his evidence was "unreliable" and, in some instances, incorrect. Generally, it was charged, Senator McDougald utilized his Parliamentary position to further his own financial interests.

[illegible]

Dealing with Senator Haydon, it was stated by Senator Tanner that he had collected between $700,000 and $800,000 in campaign funds from Beauharnois in the knowledge the company was dependent on the Federal Government for further actions. It must be inferred from the evidence also, said Senator Tanner, that Senator Haydon's legal contract with Beauharnois—by which his firm received $80,000—was contingent on an order-in-council being passed by the government approving Beauharnois plans. No member of the Senate, it was submitted by Senator Tanner, should place himself in the position of subordinating his trusteeship to personal cupidity or jeopardising the integrity of Parliament as a whole.

A distinction must be drawn between Senator Raymond and the other two, said Senator Tanner. It had been established he collected campaign funds from Beauharnois and the committee felt no Senator should place himself in the position of receiving contributions from a corporation dependent upon concessions from the Government.

IRWIN BLAMES PEACE FAILURES

support for, a considered and constructive policy."

In comparison with unity between communities in India and the identity of purpose shared by British India and the Indian states the former Viceroy considered the Mahatma's action and influence fail at critical points. "And when he talks of independence for India, his words repel the minorities as well as the vast number of all creeds outside the Congress party, and excite the resentment on the princes, who have given repeated proof in word and deed of their loyalty to the crown of Britain."

Outlines Conditions

Lord Irwin, during the course of his address, outlined conditions in India arising from historical factors from the vast differences in language, race, color, religion and caste which prevail. He considered the situation from the standpoint of economics, national health and from standpoint of a growing sense of nationalism spreading over a large part of the Asiatic continent.

Immediately before delivering his lecture Lord Irwin was the recipient of the honorary degree of doctor of laws from the university.

The former Viceroy will visit a number of Canadian cities before sailing for Great Britain, and has intimated he might be persuaded to speak at other points in Canada.

Obituary

STEPHEN A. PERRIN.

BEWDLEY, April 28. — The funeral of the late Sephen A. Perrin, a highly-respected citizen of this community, whose death occurred after a lengthy illness was held on Wednesday at 2 p.m., being conducted by Durham Lodge A. F. & A. M., of which the deceased was an esteemed member. Rev. J. M. Cressal, of Toronto, officiated, assisted by Rev. M. R. Kingsford of Gore's Landing, Rev. P. B. De Lom of Cobourg and Rev. Mr. Mason of Newcastle.

The late Mr. Perrin was a member of the Anglican Church, and an ardent church worker, having been joint founder of St. Anne's church, and held the office of Sunday school superintendent for some time, later being chosen as People's Warden.

Left to mourn his loss, besides his widow, are two stepdaughters, Mrs. P. Gosselin, of Peterborough; Mrs. J. Orrell of Belleville; one stepson, Percy Hanna, at home; also five brothers, Joseph, of Muskoka; John and Charles of Los Angeles; William and Fernundo, of Newcastle, and one sister, Mrs. Frank Evans, of Marion, Indiana.

Burial was made in St. George's cemetery, at Newcastle.

STEPHEN LEAHY.

Stephen Leahy died on Wednesday morning at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, following a lingering illness. He was 40 years of age.

A native of Peterborough, he was a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Leahy of Leahy's Lane, this city. Before going to Toronto ten years ago he was local salesman for the Ocean Blend Tea Company, the firm with which he was still engaged at the time of his recent illness.

Besides his parents he is survived by his wife and three children, Earl, Ilene and June.

The funeral is to be held from the residence of his parents, Leahy's Lane, at 8.30 on Friday morning, to the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Interment at St. Peter's cemetery.

HONOR SLAYING VERDICT RESTS

into his own hands, and the alleged fact that the deceased raviished the wife of one of the defendants cannot be considered."

To justify a second degree murder verdict, Judge Davis ruled, the jury would have to conclude the prosecution had proved the four persons killed Kahahawai and that they had intended to kill him. However, the jurist said it would be unnecessary for the prosecution to have proved premeditation if it had shown the defendants entered into an agreement, the reasonable consequence of which was the slaying.

It was ruled all defendants could be convicted of second degree murder or manslaughter if the jury found that they conspired on Jan. 7, last, the day before the abduction and slaying, to kill, to threaten with a pistol or kidnap the native, providing it determined that the killing was the result of such conspiracy.

Judge Davis said if the jury decided Massie killed Kahahawai and was insane at the moment, and had not planned the killing, then none of the defendants could be convicted unless the prosecution had proved a conspiracy to do things the reasonable consequences of which would be Kahahawai's death.

Penalties Vary

The penalty for second degree murder, the charge upon which the four were brought to trial, is 20 years to life imprisonment. Manslaughter calls for maximum penalty of 10 years in prison.

An intense plea in support of the insanity defence of Lieut. Massie and in behalf of the unwritten law, made by Clarence Darrow, and a fiery demand by public prosecutor John C. Kelley for conviction of the quartette, preceded the instructions.

Darrow, who in his 75th year came out of retirement to defend the four, argued the gruelling events preceding the abduction and killing were not the work of the accused and that therefore they could not be blamed. He asked the jurors to apply the goriden rule.

Reeve Nominations To Be Held May 3

CAMPBELLFORD, April 28 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).— To fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late J. Nelson Stone as reeve of the town of Campbellford, nominations will be held in the Public Library, Campbellford, on May 3, at 7.30 p.m. under writ issued by Mayor J. M. Bygott. Very little election talk for this office has been heard, and several whose names have been mentioned in connection with the reeveship have remained non-committal. However, the name of ex-Mayor C. H. Davidson has been freely mentioned as a possible nominee and up to the present he has not denied the possibility of his standing for election.

COUNTY CLERK DENIES CHARGE

coal was used in the furnace as in Mr. Mahood's time as caretaker. To break the chunks, he said, he used the back of the axe. He said the axe was standing beside the coal room door when he took over the job as caretaker. Mr. Mahood never advised witness that he had lost his eye by using the axe.

Cross-examiner, he said when he took over the job he was not aware that Mr. Mahood had lost his eye.

David Beavis, a furnace man of the city, said he used an axe and nothing else to break large chunks of coal.

Robert Rae, turnkey of the county jail for 48 years, said he recalled the time Mr. Mahood took over the furnace. He said the axe produced in court was in the jail yard, and was used for splitting wood for the jail stove. He said he missed the axe shortly after Mr. Mahood came and he found the axe in the boiler room. He did not remove the axe from the boiler room.

Cross-examined, he said he did not know whether or not there was an axe in the boiler room when W. H. White was handling the furnace. He said he recognized the axe because he had made the handle himself. This was the only axe he had ever noticed in the boiler room.

County Clerk's Evidence

Ed. M. Elliott, county clerk and treasurer, said that Mr. Mahood never complained to him that he was using an axe in the boiler room, the handle of which would come loose. He said the first intimation that Mr. Mahood had suffered an injury to his eye while in the county's employ was in January, 1931, when Mr. Mahood was confined to his house; witness said he understood Mr. Mahood had an infection in his eye and his inquiries were directed that way. When Mr. Mahood first entered the county's employ his eyes troubled, said witness, the tear duct appeared to be overflowing.

Cross-examined, Mr. Elliott said that only during the past four or five years has the county been insured in the Compensation Board. He said Mr. Mahood was responsible to the Property Committee for the proper carrying out of his duties.

Fred Eason, former reeve of Otonabee Township, said he was chairman of the Property Committee at the time Mr. Mahood was appointed as caretaker. Previous to his appointment Mr. Mahood assured witness that he knew the duties of the caretaker of the county buildings and was quite capable of fulfilling them.

Mr. Mahood asked witness for several new pieces of equipment, among them being a lawn mower, and these things were secured for him at once.

Charles Tanner, reeve of Lakefield, and chairman of the Property Committee of the County Council, was called, but did not testify.

This concluded the defence.

In reply, Mr. Hall called Mr. Mahood again. Mr. Mahood said that the axe produced in court was not the same as he was using in the boiler room when his eye was injured by the flying coal splinters. He used the axe produced merely to cut the groove in the cement in the boiler room.

Robert Mahood also stated that the axe exhibited in court was not the same used in the boiler room to break up the coal.

FRANKFORD GUIDES VISIT IN DELORO

Home Group Put on Program to Qualify for Entertainers' Badge.

MARMORA, April 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—Deloro Company of Girl Guides held an interesting meeting on Tuesday evening when the Frankford Guides were visitors. Commissioner Mrs. H. R. Haacke conducted the program which opened with a Guide prayer. Lieut. D. Haacke then welcomed the Frankford Company, introducing to the Deloro Company Commissioner Ketcheson and Capt. Haryett of Trenton, and to the Frankford Company, Commissioner Mrs. H. R. Haacke, Capt. Mrs. W. Regan of Deloro was unavoidable absent. Commissioner Mrs. Haacke then presented Lieut. D. Haacke with her warrant as lieutenant of the 1st Deloro Company. The ceremony of presentation of service stars to the Frankford Guides by Commissioner Ketcheson followed.

During the evening, the following Deloro Guides began their test for their entertainer's badge as follows: Audrey Mantle, piano solo and song; Bernice McInroy, recitations; Jean O'Neill, contrasting songs; Grace Hemphill, piano solo and song.

The Frankford Guides entertained their Deloro associates with a selection of Guide songs, closing with the Guide marching song, set to a drill. Games such as maze tag, rats and rabbits, and stations were then played to the merriment of all. Mary Hemphill was called to the piano that the pleasures of dancing might be enjoyed for the while. Lunch was served with Mesdames Mumby and Foster and Cubmaster W. Kerr giving appreciated help.

THE RELIEF PROGRAM.

Details of the plan by which the Federal Government proposes to assist the unemployed after May 1 when the present Unemployment and Farm Relief Act ceases to have force are anxiously awaited.

That the Ottawa administration will have to continue to furnish assistance in some form or other is certain, for many municipalities would be financially unable to carry on the task single-handed, and several of the Provinces are not in shape to assume the share of relief hitherto met by the Federal Government.

It has been intimated that henceforth only direct relief will be given, on the ground that such a method is decidedly less costly than the carrying on of public works, but there has been little information as to how this relief will be administered or as to the extent to which the Dominion will participate.

A statement from the Government is expected shortly, and municipal authorities, as well as thousands of unemployed and their families, will be on the anxious seat until the intentions of Premier Bennett and his colleagues are made clear.

THE VICE-REGAL VISIT.

The announcement that His Excellency Earl Bessborough, Canada's Governor-General, is to pay an official visit to Peterborough on Wednesday, May 25th, has undoubtedly been received with genuine pleasure by the people of this community, who as always appreciate the opportunity of extending a loyal welcome to the representative of His Majesty King George V.

Since coming to Canada Earl Bessborough has already won a place in the hearts of Canadians through his charming personality and the wisdom that has pervaded his public utterances. It has early been evident that he accepted the responsibilities of his position from a sense of duty and with the fervent desire to be of service to the Dominion and to the Empire at large.

Peterborough will be delighted to have as its guest, if only for a few brief hours, so distinguished a representative of His Majesty and to extend warm greetings to the new incumbent of Rideau Hall, not only because he stands for the Crown, but because he has displayed qualities of head and heart that ensure a successful administration of his responsible duties.

The only factor that will tend in any way to diminish the pleasure attendant upon the vice-regal visit is that the Governor-General will not be accompanied upon his occasion by his charming consort, whose gracious bearing has made her a prime favorite among the Canadian people.

A TEST FOR DRIVERS.

Motorists who are fond of speed—and that category includes a very large proportion of drivers—are inclined to ignore the fact that there is a very narrow margin between safety and disaster, and that margin is contracted in proportion to speed.

An insurance company in a very striking current advertisement emphasizes that fact forcibly when it points out that a car travelling at 30 miles—and to many drivers that is merely crawling—covers 44 feet in a second, and in the brief space of time of one-eleventh of a second moves four feet.

Increase the car's speed to 60 miles an hour and you will find the machine travelling 88 feet in a second; certainly there is little margin of safety there, for any one of a dozen likely emergencies cropping up at that speed is likely to develop into a major accident.

The same advertisement supplies a personal test for drivers in the form of ten questions, for each of which a possible ten points is allowed, and motorists are asked to apply these questions to their own driving technique and to mark their standing honestly, then ask themselves whether their average entitles them to the ranking of a good driver.

The Examiner repeats this test for the benefit of local motorists who may have missed it, and suggests that they check over these ten points and see where they should be ranked.

Here are the questions:

1. Do you keep your mind on your driving?
2. Do you keep in line of traffic?
3. Do you watch the movements of other cars and try to anticipate what they will do?
4. Do you watch for pedestrians, particularly children?
5. Do you slow down at schools, crossings and dangerous intersections?
6. Do you signal to the car behind when you intend to change your course?
7. Do you know the feeling of having your car under control?
8. Do you keep in line when nearing top of hill or a sharp turn?
9. Do you comply with traffic regulations, signals and signs?
10. Do you have your car brakes especially, inspected regularly?

THE PICKEREL SEASON.

Petitions are being circulated throughout the city and district calling upon the Department of Game and Fisheries to rescind the new order in regard to the closed season for pickerel and to restore the old regulation which allowed these fish to be taken on and after May 1st.

Under the law as it stands at present the pickerel season will not open legally until May 15th, and the petition points out that this restriction is a decided hardship as it eliminates two weeks that usually see pickerel fishing at its best.

In addition, it is submitted for the consideration of the Government that many unemployed men who might be able to replenish the larder with supplies of fish are prevented from doing so during the first part of May, generally the best period in which to take pickerel.

The Examiner is at a loss to know why the opening of the season has been deferred by the recent regulation; the change was not asked for by the Fish and Game Association, and there does not seem any reason for curtailing the season.

Public sentiment here is strongly in favor of a restoration of the old law, and it is to be hoped that the Minister of Game and Fisheries will recognize the reasonableness of the request set forth in the largely-signed petition and will see to it that the taking of pickerel in district waters is legalized as from May 1st.

THE FARMER AS CONSUMER.

A former Canadian residing in the United States has the following to say in regard to the condition of agriculture in that country:

"The chief reason for the so-called 'overproduction,' in reality under-consumption, that has cut down wages and dividends and created present unemployment conditions, is the impoverishment of the 40,000,000 living on our farms. Robbed by high tariff prices of the goods they buy; by high railway freight rates; and by high interest rates on loans, the farmers have been reduced to a condition in which they cannot buy one-half of the goods they need and should have. There can be no return of permanent prosperity until, by repeal of all the class legislation by which the manufacturing and financial interests have been enriched at the expense of the farmer agriculture has been made prosperous."

There is much to the contention of this gentleman. Certainly if high tariffs were an advantage to those engaged in farming, the farmers of the United States ought to be in a highly prosperous state, for there is no country that protects its producers more adequately. And yet agriculture in the United States, as everywhere else, is in sad need of encouragement. What is more, a depressed agriculture must of necessity mean depressed manufacturing.

Consider what it means to Brockville and scores of other Canadian communities to have a surrounding farming population that must be content to accept less than nothing for its products. The farmer is not only a producer but a consumer. There may have been a time when he was willing to live off his own farm, but for years he has gone to the town or village for much of his food. His clothing, furniture, and a great many other things used to be made on the homestead; nowadays they are procured elsewhere. In addition, he requires, if his operations are to be efficient, new implements and new equipment, for all of which he is dependent upon the urban community with its factories, its warehouses, its shops and its sales agencies.

When the farmer's income is reduced, as it has been reduced lately, the effect upon urban prosperity is immediate. Reduce the purchasing power of the farmer and urban sales are lowered, manufacturing operations are curtailed, unemployment appears. And the longer the farming population remains unable to engage in its normal spending, the greater becomes the measure of urban distress.

One authority a few days ago suggested that if the average Ontario farmer took the trouble to investigate his affairs, he would find that he was bankrupt. Certainly, the position of agriculture and those engaged in it is much more precarious and serious than it has been for many years. Moreover, the greater the difficulties in which farmers find themselves placed, the less, of necessity, are they able to patronize the mercantile and manufacturing establishments or the town or city.

Some people are disposed to dismiss the question with a statement that, however greatly he may suffer, the farmer is, after all, self-supporting. That is true in a few respects, but it does not help very much the urban communities, which are dependent for much of their own prosperity upon the farmer's purchases. When he is unable to make them at the normal rate, it is the urban community that feels it first.

A mistaken course has been pursued in this country, as in other countries, is apparently doing everything possible to assist urban centres, while ignoring the interests of the agricultural population, who must first experience something approaching prosperity before it can become general. Governments would have been far better advised to start with agriculture if encouragement was to be given, for until those engaged in it are assured a decent price for their output, there can be no possibility of general improvement.

It is ridiculous to think that milk, eggs and butter—to mention only three articles of farm production—are not worth more than they now command. The prime duty resting upon those who direct our affairs at this moment is to see that everything possible be done to assist farmers, to broaden the markets for farm products, to assure better prices for the agricultural output. Until that is done, we must look for a continuation of unfavorable business conditions.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Parliament has discovered that it is an expensive process to interrupt Mr. Woodsworth

Noting that Mr. Hepburn said at his Peterborough meeting that Mr. Ferguson's cleverness was not the kind he admired, the St. Thomas Times-Journal remarks that probably that is exactly what the High Commissioner thinks about Mr. Hepburn's cleverness.

When you give a man a job you not only help him and his family but you help business and industry as well.

Mr Cosgrave describes President De Valera's bill to abolish the oath of allegiance as "the greatest piece of political chicanery in history." And that is worse than any English paper has said about the matter.

IS IT GOOD BUSINESS?

To the Editor of The Examiner.
Dear sir:

To bring in 1,000 cords of wood in opposition to our wood merchants. It means this, there will be a delinquency in wood yard taxes as some of our yards are large taxpayers and cannot stand up under such competition. Men who have enjoyed steady employment will be thrown out of work; dealers who have helped the past winter in giving work by buying their wood and tying up much needed capital will be faced with a heavy deficit as a consequence. Many good men will be thrown on the relief next winter who heretofore enjoyed pleasant work with good money.

Why not be fair and give our wood yards a square deal. One thousand cords of wood means the loss of many hours work in cutting and delivery to those already employed and a possibility of hunger and cold to parents and children who previously have enjoyed a fair amount of comfort.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, April 28.—Butter prices on the local market continued to weaken yesterday until they reached nominal levels ½c to 1c below those of Tuesday. There was very little trading, as buyers learned of heavier supplies from Ontario points, and offerings of deliveries from the West at a lower price than previously. Western butter was quoted, for delivery at Toronto, at 17c, while the prices asked for Ontario makes was 16½c to 17c for No. 1 and 15½c to 16c for No. 2. There was no word of any exporting at Montreal, as the English market did not appear to be strengthening, and any easiness in the Quebec metropolis is generally reflected in this city.

Cream

Local cream buyers made their offers still lower yesterday, but the reduction was expected due to the weakness in butter. Country shippers were quoted 1c less per pound fat, or 18c to 19c for special, 17c to 18c for No. 1 and 14c to 15c for No. 2, f.o.b., country points.

Cheese

Cheese held steady on this market, new makes being quoted by brokers at 10¼c for large, 10½c for twins, and 10¾c for triplets. Prices to retailers were 11½c for new large; 11¾c for new twins; 12c for new triplets, and 14c for new stiltons.

Eggs

Receipts of eggs were fairly heavy, but though prices were steady, there was a firmer feeling on the market. Brokers offered graded eggs, in used cases, at 14½c for extras, 12½c to 13c for firsts, and 11c for seconds, with storage packed eggs at 15½c for extras, and 13½c for firsts. Country shippers were quoted 12c for extras, 10c for firsts, and 8c fo seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Retailers were able to secure supplies at 19c for extras, in cartons; 17c for extras, loose; 15c for firsts, loose, and 13c for seconds, loose.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 28.—Due to continued and prolonged cool weather, receipts of butter are running low in Montreal this week. Yesterday only 496 boxes arrived, and receipts were inadequate for current needs. As a result, the market is holding a steady to firm tone, even though the English market is reported weaker. No exports have been shipped yet, the supplies on hand being insufficient. The market here to-day remained at 16½c per pound for carlots or less of No. 1, fresh or regraded, with some dealers asking a shade more.

The egg market continued steady to a little stronger, with graded Ontarios and Prairie eggs quoted from 16½c to 17c per dozen for fresh extras; 14½c to 15c for fresh firsts, and 13c for seconds. Local ungraded receipts were 1c to 2c under these levels. Receipts were 3,984 cases. Prices to retailers were unchanged.

Cheese held unchanged at 10c for current receipts, and 12c to 12½c for summer make. Receipts were 326 boxes.

Potatoes were unchanged from yesterday's levels.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 28.—Sensitive to upturns in securities, the grain markets late yesterday soared a recovery from early weakness.

Transient setbacks in wheat prices were associated with failure of frost predictions that had threatened further damage to crops southwest and west. Besides, export demand for North American wheat was the smallest in some time. Curtailment of domestic country marketings of wheat, however, suggested no burdensome stocks on farms.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same as Tuesday's finish to ⅝c lower, corn unchanged to ¼c up, oats unchanged to ¼c off and provisions unchanged to 7c down.

Turpentine spirits, 56s 6d.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 28. — Absence of any trade worked for export and lower quotations for wheat at Liverpool had a depressing influence on grain prices here yesterday. Values at the close were ½c lower.

May closed at 61⅞c, July at 64c, and October at 66⅛c. Bulk of the trade was local, and fluctuations were held within narrow limits. Broomhall reported recent arrivals of foreign wheat in the United Kingdom were ample for present requirements. Foreign demand generally for North American wheat was dull. Decline in sterling also proved a hindrance to export.

Cash wheat and coarse grains continued their indifferent trade with prices generally unchanged to a fraction easier.

Why This Waste?

(Composed by the Bard of Lifford Line.)

To-day I walked through a sugar-bush,
And my heart was grieved to see
That the buckets had all been taken away,
And the spile removed from the tree.
For the sap was running upon the ground
In a flood that would float a ship;
While many a sad and hungry wee mouth
Would give a sweet smile for a sip.
But whether we smile or whether we frown,
Conditions will ever be so;
That the poor child weeps o'er his empty dish,
While the plates of the rich overflow.

SON OF THE GODS

By REX BEACH

A trifle thickly he told her, "I must either see more of you or—very much less."

"Very well, but with things as they are we ain't go out in public—Oh, gulp down that Chinese pride of yours! One of us must be practical. I've learned to look facts in the facts if you haven't. I used to be afraid of you—most fellows are so fresh when they get out alone with a girl—"

"How can we see more of each other?"

"I'm thinking—That valet of yours—"

"Moy?"

"Can you trust him? I mean, would he talk if—if I came to see you?—If you can't call on me without causing comment why shouldn't I call on you?"

"Would you—?"

"I don't know. If people persist in being so silly, must we let them interfere with our friendship? What they don't know won't hurt them—Sam! I want to see the lanterns."

FOURTH INSTALMENT

During the month preceding the close of the spring term Alice spent several evenings in Sam's apartment. She reveled in her boldness, the adventure delighted her, at the same time she was watchful, suspicious of him. When he treated her with the same unfailing courtesy that he had displayed on their automobile jaunts and took no advantage whatever of the situation she had created her distrust disappeared, she abandoned herself to a triumphant enjoyment of her exploit and assumed a sort of gay proprietorship over him and Moy and the place itself. Sam's quarters were filled with objects of Oriental art, anything she admired he gave to her. That was his Eastern way and a very pretty practice she considered it. He was ever obliging; when she wished to talk he talked, when she was blue he made her laugh with antics and absurdities. He could do many mystifying tricks of legerdemain and she called him a wicked magician; she was surprised to learn also that he was a musician of sorts and could play a number of instruments passably well. He could even improvise words, like a medieval minstrel, and sometimes he put on his Chinese robes and sang Chinese songs of his own making, to the accompaniment of a long-necked Chinese banjo.

That which delighted her above all, however, was to have him perform on a slim little silver pipe, or flageolet, which gave forth thin, flutelike tones.

As the spring semester drew to a close Alice confessed that her plans for the future were uncertain and as a consequence she was in a painful quandary. Her parents expected her to return home, but she knew very well what that would mean—the end of her career. On the other hand, she could not remain in the East unless she found employment for the summer and positions were rare. She was greatly depressed.

Sam spoke again of a loan but she would not listen to his suggestion. It was unthinkable; she still retained some self-respect. After all what would another year in the art school profit her without a finishing course abroad?

The worst of it was she and Sam would never see each other again. No more rides, no more chats, no more cozy evenings like this—It was all very well to talk about sacrifice, the stony road to success, but what more could she sacrifice? What more had she to give?—"Fireflies!" It takes a lot of fireflies to light the road to Paris—Poor Chin Ting! How she had longed to escape from her prison.

"You can see the Feast of Lanterns if you wish," Sam told her gravely.

"How?"

"By stopping over in New York for a week and allowing me to show you about."

"New York is too expensive for a Bartonville art student."

"I would consider it a privilege to entertain you as my guest."

Alice eyed the speaker in startled interrogation.

"You could go to some hotel—the very nicest—and nobody need know that you're my guest. I'll hold myself at your service, take you to the shows and the shops—"

"It would be lovely!"

"—and perhaps you would enjoy meeting my father. I want him to know you. He's a learned man, a philosopher, a person of importance. Very likely he could put you in the way of securing a position for the summer."

"Oh, Sam! Would you—? I've always wanted to see the New York shops. A position! You are a magician; you're a prince out of a fairy book. No. You're just a plain darling. Why, it may mean the chance I've been looking for—Sam, dear!" The speaker clasped her hands and strained at them, her voice grew husky, "I'll never, never be a misfit. Don't let me go back to Bartonville and—rust out on a sidetrack. Please!"

That car of Sam Lee's excited quite as much admiration on Fifth Avenue as it had excited on the college campus; wherever it stopped people gathered to look at it. Alice Hart felt something stir inside of her when she and Sam came out of a department store and stepped into it, she did her best to look rich and haughty and meanwhile she envied her companion's complete oblivion to the stares he evoked. It was an experience to be stared at, to be seen in company with a young man as perfectly groomed and as important as Sam Lee. Nobody seemed to take him for a—a foreigner.

Sam, she learned, had a subtle, unobtrusive way of commanding attention in the stores themselves, he was recognized as a somebody and his name was magic.

They had spent the morning sightseeing, in reality window shopping, for that was Alice's wish. Sam had shown her through art stores, silversmiths, antique shops at first, for his taste ran to exquisite things like bronzes, jewels, ivories and such, but she did not begin to enjoy herself thoroughly until they entered the stores given over to fashionable women's things. Thereafter she was in raptures.

They lunched together; for tea they visited a place she had always longed to see and lingered there. Soft music. Rich rugs and hangings. Crystal and silver and bronze and gilt. Sam Lee didn't look like a Chinaman. He looked more like a Spaniard or an Italian. Or a Rumanian, a Greek, a Russian—anything; one foreigner was about like another to Alice. How wonderful it—He was the dearest creature, really, and the nicest thing about him was his formality. He had never even tried to kiss her.

How nice it was to be in a place like this, how wonderful to afford to come here often. If she were an artist she could afford it. This was living. Yes, and Sam had seats at the most popular show in town for that evening.

When she returned to her room she received the culminating surprise of that gala day. On her bed were a number of packages from the shops she had visited and when, with trembling fingers, she opened them she found they contained all, or practically all, of the lovely things that she had most enthusiastically admired on their sightseeing tour. Here was a dinner dress, there an evening wrap, yonder a sport costume, a beaded bag, a hat—! Incredible. Alice gloated over them like a miser, her heart beats choked her. This was like Sam; he did everything regally. What extravagance!

For once Alice was eager to be seen in public, therefore she and Sam went to a night club after the theater. It was a maniacal place, the entertainment was wild, the dancing was feverish; she had never experienced anything like this and it intoxicated her. She was drunk, too, on her escort's praises; over and over again he murmured into her ear that she was the most ravishing, the loveliest creature in the place and she believed him. They danced until they were tired.

Sam did not kiss her on their way back to the hotel although she fully expected him to do so.

Another day of bliss, another night of revelry followed; a third and then a fourth. The young people spent most of their waking hours together; when apart they were constantly in each other's thoughts. Then came an evening to which Alice had looked forward with dread; Sam took her to see his father.

Thus far she had beheld only the opulent heart of ths modern Bagdad, she had seen nothing of the city itself, but Sam piloted her away from the calcium glare of the Rialto and drove south with her through streets that were dark and comparatively deserted, on between endless, towering walls pierced by blind windows. Elevated trains roared through these empty, echoing streets with the clangor of huge metallic dragons; the denizens were meanly dressed, furtively they passed from shadow to shadow. Here was poverty, dirt, garbage, the sights and sounds and smells of a life all too familiar to Alice Hart.

She shuddered, drew closer the silken wrap which Sam had given her and shrank against his side. Here was everything she loathed, back yonder the sky was ablaze; here the air was fetid, there it was heavy with intoxicating scents. She could never return to this. Who cared what Sam Lee was? He offered escape, he held her freedom in his hands and—he trembled like a leaf at her touch—She must act a part, she must be nice to his father for this was the deciding night of her life.

They came into a wholly different and distinctive quarter the sound and the smell of which proclaimed it to be Italian. The small, naked, iron-fenced park which Sam skirted was overrun with people.

"This is Mulberry Bend Park," Sam said. "It's where I played when I was a child."

"How strange to think of you coming from a place like this," Alice murmured in a stifled voice.

He nodded towards the south. "Down there a little ways is where the governor of the state was born."

A block or two between bleak, narrow walk-ups that ran high and then Sam swung his car into a street more brightly illuminated than the others and with startling suddenness the environment changed once more. New odors, strange and pungent and spicy, came to the girl's nostrils, new pictures greeted her eyes. The signs and the storefronts carried hieroglyphics, Oriental men crowded the sidewalks; they were yellow, flat-nosed, high cheek-boned, undersized, and they were wore ill-fitting, incongruous American clothes. Alice heard outlandish cries and words without meaning. The street ran bank full of pedestrians but the stream divided to let Sam's car pass.

(To be continued)

TOO MANY HOLD-UPS.

LONDON. — "Hold-ups are becoming an everyday thing in Great Britain and we cannot tolerate such importations," declared the judge at the Old Bailey to-day, when he sentenced two men convicted of armed hold-ups to 18 months, with 15 lashes, and 9 months with 18 lashes, respectively.

OILS IN DEMAND ON TORONTO MART

Volume Quite Light This Morning in Interlisted Issues.

TORONTO, April 28 (C.P.). — Stocks moved within a restricted trading range on Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. The list was narrow and the volume quite light even in the interlisted issues.

Oils still were in demand, with Imperial the standout. This issue added ¼ point to last night's close. International Pete did not show the same strength as at the close last night and the price sagged on a few odd-lot sales. B.A. Oil was firm, McColl still above 9, while Canadian Oil rose ½ point to 10.

In the Utility section prices were nearly all unchanged, although Montreal Power sold down about ½ point late in the morning. C. P.R. was soft with the rails in New York and eased on its former lower of 13. Consumers' Gas came out higher, but reacted to its former close of 142.

Ford of Canada, Walkers, Steel of Canada, Nickel, Smelters were unchanged for the most part. Page-Hersey Tubes moved up by degrees to 45.

MANUFACTURERS' HEAD RAPS TORONTO COUNCIL

TORONTO, April 28 (C.P.). — Charging the City Council with allowing consideration of political significance to influence them rather than considerations of sound civic policy, E. C. Burton, retiring chairman of Toronto Branch, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, addressed the annual meeting of the association to-day.

Mr. Burton declared the Toronto Council had a higher scale of pay than any other Government in Canada, and despite that, is now seeking to raise it still higher in direct opposition to economic tendencies.

Exchange Rates

TORONTO, April 28. — (By the Canadian Press.)—Exchange rates at noon to-day were as follows:

Pound sterling in Montreal 4.11.

Pound sterling in New York 3.66.

Canadian dollar in New York 88.

MINERS WAIT DEVELOPMENTS

NEW GLASGOW.—Having refused to accept wage reductions, delegates representing 12,000 Nova Scotia miners returned to the coal fields to-day to await developments.

MIXED TREND MINING LIST

Higher-priced Golds Quiet But Firm—Wright-Hargreaves Adds Cent.

BASE METALS EASY.

TORONTO, April 28. (C.P.) — Teck-Hughes was about the only bright spot in another dull trading session on the Standard stock and mining exchange market today. The general list showed mixed action, with changes confined to a narrow range.

Continuing yesterday's advance Teck sold as high as $3.80 and when taken at noon was up 15 from last night's final at $3.75. Wright-Hargreaves added a cent or so to its recent recovery and higher-priced golds as a group were quiet but firm.

Among the cheaper stocks Vipond lost a couple to 28 and McLeod River and Brownlee were fractionally lower. Howey, Buffalo and Moffatt-Hall appeared to be trying to improve their positions.

Base metals displayed an easy tendency. Noranda and Nickel dipping a few cents each to $15.50 and $6.50, respectively, and Amulet and Sherritt Gordon showing small losses at 8 and 30, respectively. Eldorado slipped a cent to $1.15.

C.N.R. MAGAZINE LOSS OF $42,000

Cost of Publishing Magazine in 1931 Was $105,196.

REVENUE WAS $63,188.

OTTAWA, April 28.— (C.P.) — The cost of publishing the Canadian National Railways Magazine for 1931 was $105,196, Sir Henry Thornton, President of the C.N.R., told the House of Commons Committee on Railways and Shipping to-day. Revenue amounted to $63,188, and net cost was $42,000.

A total of 1,036,150 copies was distributed but in the April, 1932, number the issue of free copies was discontinued. The railway officials hoped that, with this policy in effect, the net cost would be reduced in 1932 to $5,000.

WORTHLESS CHEQUES COST 26 MONTHS IN JAIL

NORTH BAY, April 28.—A term of 26 months in Portsmouth Penitentiary was handed out to Clarence R. Wilson, Sault Ste. Marie, remanded from April 11, when he pleaded guilty in North Bay police court to a charge of obtaining $45 by issuing of two worthless cheques when brought before Magistrate S. Weegar for sentence this morning. The 25 month term would also cover a one year determinate and one year indeterminate sentence to Burwash, given Wilson when convicted recently on forgery charge in Sturgeon Falls court, the Magistrate said. Wilson had a record and had served as much as 18 months for forgery previously.

Secrecy Continues In Curtis' Actions

NORFOLK, Va., April 28. (C.P.) John Hughes Curtis, chief of three Norfolk intermediaries in the Lindbergh kidnapping case, was reported out of the city again today.

Mr. Curtis, who yesterday brought back word from another secret mission that a number of obstacles had been overcome in their negotiations, was believed to be making another effort towards the conclusion of his work. It was not learned what time the Norfolk boat builder left the city, or what mode of travel he used.

STUDY SUPERANNUATION OF YUKON CIVIL SERVANTS

OTTAWA, April 28 (C.P.).—A ruling of the Justice Department that superannuation of Yukon civil servants is to be paid on the basis of salary only, whereas they pay five per cent. toward the superannuation fund on both their salary and living allowance, was considered by the Special Parliamentary Committee probing the civil service to-day.

It was brought out during the examination of Clarence V. Putman, chief of the organization branch of the Civil Service Commission, that the Justice Department ruling is applied to new civil servants in the Yukon, but not to the old ones.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEE PLEADS GUILTY TO THEFT

OTTAWA, April 28 (C.P.). — Pleading guilty to the theft of Government funds totalling $1,532, Jean B. Lachaine, former employee of the radio branch of the Marine Department, was remanded for sentence until May 10. He pleaded guilty to seven charges of theft.

Lachaine was arrested, along with C. H. Bordeau, another employee of the radio branch, ten days ago. Bordeau will appear in court to-morrow, charged with the theft of $12,985.

Flames Threaten Bobcaygeon Church

LINDSAY, Ont., April 28 (Special to The Examiner).—Word was received here to-day that a serious fire of unknown origin in Bobcaygeon on Tuesday threatened the Presbyterian Church, destroyed the church sheds, and destroyed one residence almost claiming three lives. Frank Forrest awoke for some unknown reason, and on opening the kitchen door found the room a mass of flames. He awakened Mr. and Mrs. Peters, who also occupied the house and the escaped in their night clothes.

A high wind threatened to spread the fire to the Presbyterian Church but the building was saved after a hard fight although the sheds were totally destroyed.

GASTRIC JUICE FROM THE HOG AIDS ANAEMIA

University of Cincinnati Announces Important Discovery.

GIVES SPEEDY RELIEF.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 28 (CP) —Once more the humble swine comes to human aid, this time in a pernicious anemia treatment announced today by the University of Cincinnati.

Gastric juice from hog stomachs, administered by hypodermic needle into the muscles give speedy relief to human anemia sufferers, according to Dr. Roger S. Morris, professor of internal medicine.

Today's announcement follows less than two months one about the same Cincinnati work in the journal of the American Medical Association telling how human gastric juice relieves pernicious anemia. Discovery of the potency of the hog extract, the new announcement states, opens a ready source for obtaining the gastric material.

STABBING CASE IS RE-CHECKED

Accused Tells of Struggle During Quarrel Over $25 Debt.

TRIAL CONTINUES.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., April 28.—James Sacco, 30, of Niagara Falls, Ont., charged with murder, second degree, was called back to the witness stand for a brief cross-examination, when his trial was resumed in county court here today. Sacco testified in his own defence yesterday and court adjourned at the conclusion of his testimony.

Sacco is accused of stabbing Edward O'Brien, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., last January. He testified he had known O'Brien for about two years and that the latter owed him $25. When he asked for the money, he said, O'Brien told him he could not pay. They quarreled, Sacco said, and O'Brien struck him. During the struggle, he said, he thought he saw a knife in O'Brien's hand and drew his own knife.

O'Brien lived for several days after the stabbing. His wife was a prosecution witness yesterday, but under cross-examinat on admitted O'Brien had told her in the hospital, he (Sacco) is lucky he isn't here instead of me. Defence counsel contended O'Brien had admitted that he would have killed Sacco if he had not been stabbed first. The case was expected to go to the jury late today.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 28 (C.P.) — After advancing for four successive sessions, the Stock Market backed up to-day and closed with a rather weak tone, although volume was under a million shares. Eastman Kodak, Auburn, Case and Union Carbide declined to new lows on re-actions of 2 to 5 points. American Telephone, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, American Can and Woolworth were off 2 to 3. U.S. Steel's loss was about a point.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 28 (C.P.) — Prices displayed an irregularly lower trend on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market in the afternoon to-day, closing changes among more active stocks practically all taking the form of recessions.

Teck-Hughes was a strong spot in the forenoon but reacted later to finish steady with last night. Wright-Hargreaves slipped 10, Lake Shore 40, and Treadwell Yukon 25. Among cheaper golds, Kirkland Lake Gold showed some buoyancy but Bidgood, McLeod River and Brownlee were all fractionally lower.

Noranda was a soft spot in the base metal section, price closing below $15 for a net loss of 75. International Nickel was off 30 and Pend Oreille and Eldorado lost around 5 apiece. Sales for the day totalled 164,000 shares, against 106,000 yesterday.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 28.—(CP)—Toronto Stock Exchange market rested in the latter part of today's session. Noranda was a weak spot, declining to 15 but other stocks remained much the same as they had been midway through the trading period.

C. P. R. while it did not close under its old low of 13, nevertheless was soft and resting right on that mark. Nickel was slightly easier towards the close, though the net loss compared with last night amounted to only ¼ point.

Brazilian, Bell Telephone closed unchanged and Montreal Power at 29 was above its morning price. Consumers' Gas brought 145 for the stock, with odd lots graded lower.

Ford closed higher at 9⅜ and Page-Hersey Tubes, opening at 44, ran up to 45⅝. Atlantic Sugar at 25 showed a good gain over its previous market price. Dominion Stores was firmed at 6½. Consolidated Bakeries up a fraction and Loblaw firm.

Some of the oils closed under their best for the day but the group as a whole stood firm.

COVERS QUARTER DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, April 28. (CP) — National Steel Corporation covered its dividend requirement by a small margin in the first quarter of this year. Reporting for that period to-day, the corporation showed net income of $592,799, equal to 27 cents a share. A year ago net income was $1,926,000, or 89 cents a share.

STEEL HEADS KNOW NOTHING OF PROPOSED COMPANY MERGER

Amalgamation Would Create Steel Concern With Ingot Capacity of 16,000,000 Tons Year.

$1,000,000,000 COMBINE.

CLEVELAND, April 28 (C.P.)—Prominent figures in the steel industry professed to be mystified today by reported negotiations for a $1,000,000,000 merger involving five of the country's largest steel companies.

The negotiations were reported in the Washington Post as having been brought to the attention of the Department of Justice.

The Post said the merger was tentatively outlined by representatives of Cyrus S. Eaton, of Cleveland, who defeated a proposed merger, two years ago, of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Steel Corp.

Companies involved in the new negotiations, according to the Post's information, are Sheet and Tube, the Republic Steel Corp., the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp., Inland Steel Corp and the American Rolling Mill Co.

Persons close to Eaton said last night, however, that they knew nothing of any such plans. A similar statement was given by Henry G. Dalton, chairman of Sheet and Tube.

A merger, such as described by the Post, would create a steel concern with an ingot capacity of approximately 16,000,000 tons a year—second in size only to the United States Steel Corp.

Interest of the department of Justice, the newspaper said, was confined principally to the fact that the merger would organize almost all of the steel industry into three big groups, the third being Bethlehem.

Eaton, until a few months ago, was one of the biggest figures in the steel industry. He organized the Republic Steel Corp. in 1929 by merging five companies, and in the following year was the most active force in defeating a merger of Sheet and Tube with Bethlehem. Eaton-organized holding companies were large owners of Sheet and Tube and Republic stock.

REPORT IS WANTED ON NEW TERMINAL

Committee of House Wants Full Details of Memorial Terminal.

OTTAWA, April 28. (C.P.)—A report is to be submitted to the Commons Railway Committee on the Montreal terminal situation by the Canadian National management, Sir Henry Thornton promised this at the request of L. G. Bell (Cons., St. Antoine).

Mr. Bell asked for a complete report as to whether the construction of the terminal was to be proceeded with, and the terms of the contracts including the Archibald contract which was with an Architect's firm, and which extended over a period of years. It is understood the contract has ended.

Chairman Hanson, of the committee, interjected that he had been informed that this particular contract had been a very extravagant one, and he was anxious that it be thoroughly explained in the forthcoming report. Other members asked that the statement include all commissions paid in the purchase of properties necessitated by the terminal.

Sir Henry undertook to supply all this information.

HASTINGS MAN GETS 7 MONTHS

Pleads Guilty in Belleville Court to Having Illicit Liquor for Sale.

BELLEVILLE, April 28 (C.P.).—Wilbert J. Simpson, of Hastings, was sentenced to seven months in the Reformatory by Magistrate Casement after pleading guilty of having illicit liquor for sale. He was apprehended in his car at Marmora by Provincial Constable Gray, and at the time seven bottles were found, six of which did not bear the excise stamp. The magistrate also ordered the confiscation of liquor and car.

IF YOU HAD A THOUSAND

MESSENGERS

Could you Gather this News?

If you had a thousand fleet men at your command and you called them in and said, "Go forth into the world, in all directions, and bring back news of things which will fill my life with more pleasure and more comfort—"

If you did, you wouldn't learn as many helpful facts about this world's goods as you do by reading the advertisements in your daily newspaper!

These advertisements tell you, first-hand, of countless things which will give you more pleasure and more comfort. They quote dimensions, sizes, colors, qualities, prices, so that you may buy as efficiently as a purchasing agent. They announce the new, the smart, the unusual. They save you many steps in shopping and many dollars on the year's purchases.

Each day, as you read your newspaper, messengers come to you with good news from the merchants in your community and manufacturers all over the country. These messengers are the advertisements. Read them and know the best the world is offering you.

IMPORTANT

When you ask for a product by name as a result of advertising do not accept a substitute —substitutes are offered not as a service to you, but for other reasons.

Y. W. PAGEANT FRIDAY NIGHT

Splendid Program Has Been Prepared for Annual Pageant.

IN OPERA HOUSE.

Pretty girls in old-time frocks of pantalette type, with Dresden hats on the sides of curly heads—Russian lovers in the gay chints of a peasant dance number—modern youth in sports outfits of white shorts with scarlet shirts and matching, saucy berets—little girls doing expert handsprings—Bo Peep in a jazz dress—dresses of green and rose for the pantomimic balloon dance—baggy trousers and wide hats for the Morris dancers of Elizabethan times—

They were all on the stage of the Grand Opera House last night, as they will be on Friday night, for this year's picturesque gymnasium pageant of the Young Women's Christian Association.

And the babies were there too—cunning Mickey Mice in long black stockings and headgear with wide black ears—little blackbirds capering in the garden—little dumbell-wielders in a cute drill.

The program this year promises to be especially good, with plenty of color and zip from start to finish.

The interpetive dancing numbers are gorgeously gowned and there is a great deal of the snappy tap dancing which always goes over so well.

The drills are all new. Swedish exercises which are quite difficult, will be shown, also club-swinging and dumbell exercises. A reed drill has decorated reeds and there is a wand drill to the tune of "Bend Down, Sister," with the girls singing that very catchy number of Charlotte Greenwood's, from Eddie Cantor's vivacious talkie, "Palmy Days."

To Stop a Cough In One Night

A cough may be Catarrhal with a dry tickling in the throat, or it may be accompanied by partial stoppage of the nostrils, and shortage of breath. Often there is a gagging in the throat, and every cough hurts you.

Coughs have a hundred different causes. Yours may be due to any of the following:

Asthma	Inflamed Throat
Exposure	Bronchitis
Enlarged Tonsils	Pneumonia
Inflammation	Croup
Stomach Disorders	Pleurisy

One remedy upon which you can rely to-day is Catarrhosone.

It's simply wonderful how quickly a bad throat or catarrh can be helped with Catarrhosone. Its healing vapor is carried along with the breath to the innermost recesses of the lungs, bronchial tubes and chest, making it impossible for the germ of Catarrh to live. Thus, soreness in the chest is at once alleviated—phlegm is loosened and ejected from the throat, old standing coughs are removed.

REMEMBER THIS—Just breathe Catarrhosone and it will alleviate most any Winter ill. Sold by all good chemists.

FINAL MEETING WARSAW SOCIETY

E. N. McDonald and Edgar E. Clark Are Guest Speakers for Occasion.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, April 28. — Over 60 members and friends of the Warsaw Y.P.S. met in the United Church basement on Monday evening for the closing meeting of the season.

During the winter well attended and successful meetings have been held.

The president, Harold Payne, was in the chair.

Miss Jean Munro delighted the audience with a piano selection, "Ben Hur's Chariot Race."

E. N. McDonald had kindly come from Cottesloe, and gave a short talk on "Some of the Important Things of Life."

Misses Daphne and May Payne gave a piano duet, "Japanese Fan Dance."

Edgar E. Clark of Norwood District Y.P.S., president, gave an address in which he noted that four months (which we cannot recall) of the year, are almost gone.

These four months are like four tracks across the snow. Let us see how straight we can keep the remaining eight. Most of us are just entering the prime of life. Life has been called a broad highway, stretching on and on, but sooner or later we come to a Y in the road, where we must make a choice. This is where we really start to build. By our actions, companions, and the life we live, we mould our life for time and eternity. By deciding to take the better way of life we may lose some of our former companions, may be scoffed at, but if we stand steadfast, eventually we will walk hand in hand with Christ. Let us take Him as our best Friend with us always. By so doing we will be remembered for good done.

Mr. Wilkenson gave the guest speakers a hearty vote of thanks for coming, and for heir talks.

An hour of pleasant social amusement followed. Miss Burgess arranged a poster contest followed by several round games, the tunnel, steal your girl, fruit basket, then supper, sandwiches, cake, ice cream, that was creamy, and tea. Then "Auld Lang Syne" was sung.

Westwood Debate Most Interesting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WESTWOOD, April 28. — The April meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the town hall on Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. J. E. Thompson, in the chair. The meeting opened with the Institute ode, after which the roll was called, each member responding by suggesting ways of raising funds for the Institute. Nearly all the members took part and many praiseworthy suggestions were offered, which will come up for discussion later.

In the business discussion it was decided that the members be divided into two groups, each member to be credited with a mark for her answer to the roll call, the losing side to provide a treat for the winners at the end of the year.

The feature for the day was a debate: "Resolved: That people were happier 50 years ago than they are to-day." The affirmative side taken by the president, Mrs. J. E. Thompson, while Mrs. R. C. Brackenridge upheld the negative side. Both speakers deserved much praise for their splendid points and fine delivery. The affirmative side received the judge's decision.

Because it was found that most accidents were due to young drivers, Stamboul, Turkey, will issue licenses only to married men of 25 or over.

INDIAN STATES REVEAL TREND TO DEMOCRACY

Reforms Introduced by Maharaja of Rewa Liberalize Courts.

GRADUAL ADVANCE.

NEW DELHI, India, April 28. — Two measures toward democratizing the State of Rewa have been introduced by its Maharajah.

These consist in the establishment of a State Council and a Chief Court. The council is charged with the responsibility of passing final orders on many matters, and advising the Maharajah on others. The court sees more powers delegated to the existing judicial system, and will be the final court of justice in the state.

The Bandhwesh Maharajah Saheb Bahadur of Rewa rules over a state of the Baghelkand Agency of Central India which has a population of 1,500,000. He is descended from a clan which ruled over the area in the tenth century.

The changes have been introduced in the state with a view to relieving the Maharajah of many of the details of government which he has heretofore undertaken personally. The vice-president of the new council is British.

The reforms are typical of the gradual advances marking the native states of India, where autocracy has held sway for centuries. Many of the leading native princes are now overhauling their administrations, with a view to the gradual introducing of democratic influences.

While these innovations will only take a modified form for many years to come, the tendency toward reform is now a definite characteristic of a number of states.

Sheaves of democratic control which have found impetus in British India have percolated into the states, which are now unable to retain their characteristics as water-tight compartments as in the former generations.

In announcing the developments in his state the Maharajah said he introduced them that he might better co-ordinate and direct his administration for the good of the people.

His subjects dwell in a sun-baked region that extends for 13,000 square miles between the United Provinces and the Central Province of British India. They are chiefly agriculturists in a small way.

Millbrook

Mrs. W. McKee Bingham was presented with a beautiful sheaf of hothouse flowers, after her second solo, at her recital in the Town Hall on Friday evening, little Patricia Staples, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Staples, looking very sweet in dainty blue organdie dress and bonnet, coming on the stage and offering the fragrant gift. The recipient smiled her thanks and kissed the wee maiden, the audience meanwhile, applauding warmly.

Mention of the presentation of the lovely bouquet was inadvertently omitted from the account of the recital previously published.

In the rifle shoot results, announced in The Examiner of Tuesday, April 26, the local participants wish a correction made since it was not the Millbrook Cadets who contented for the honors against the Peterborough Rangers' Rifle Association, but representatives of the Third Prince of Wales' Dragoons.

The local team included: B. B. Dawson, Principal of the Public School and Instructing Officer of the local Cadet Corps; Alvin Widdis; Bruce Freelove; E. J. Nattress; Jas. McIvor and George McIvor.

The annual cadet inspection will take place on the school grounds, Monday, May 8 3 p.m., Capt. Isbestor, of Military District No. 3, being the Inspecting Officer. All parents and friends of the cadets and any others interested, from the community and surrounding countryside, are urged to give support and encouragement by being present at the parade and inspection.

C.G.I.T. SERVICE AT MILLBROOK

Twenty Girls Take Part in Presenting a Bible Exercise Sunday Night.

BEAUTIFUL SETTING

MILLBROOK, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence). — A special service in St. Andrew's church on Sunday evening was sponsored by the Wide Awakes C. G. I. T. group, which presented a Bible Exercise, "The Light of the Word and the Cross," twenty members taking part, with Miss Frances Jones presiding at the organ.

As a setting for the Bible study, a large gold star was suspended over the pulpit platform, from which depended ruffled streamers of crepe paper, ten colors in all, each girl as she came to her place, picking up the streamer for the section of the Bible which she represented, the sash worn being of a matching shade and bearing in black letters on a white ground the name of the part of Holy Writ alloted to the individual participants.

An arch at the foot of the pulpit steps, on either side, bore the words, Old Testament, under which Marjorie Sayles stood, each reciting appropriate descriptive lines.

Miss Jean Burnham came first to the platform, carrying an open Bible, her lines containing a clarion call to the reading of God's Word; Martha Earle followed, with "Bible" on her sash, and appropriate recitation, the singing of "Holy Bible, Book Divine," following the words of each speaker.

The girls who then came, in turn, beginning with the one under the Old Testament arch, and completing the divisions of this part of God's Word were: Anna Rowland, "Law"; Dorothy McDowell, "History"; Ida Lunn, "Poetry"; Marjorie Hoskin, "Major Prophets"; and Madeline McDowell, "Minor Prophets." The song, in the centre of this half of the program, was "One Bible Verse Each Day."

In the interlude, dividing the two parts of the exercise, Miss Beatrice Jones came to the front of the platform and recited, "The Good Shepherd," all singing, "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

Naming the books, and describing their contents, in the New Testament section were: Mary Burnham, "Biography"; Bernice Smith, "History"; Helen Mitchell, "Pauline Epistles"; Bonna Clarke, "General Epistles"; and Bryar Edmunds, "Prophecy"; the songs including "God's Word is a Treasure," and at the close of the repitition of the "I am" promises of Jesus, "Just as I am, Young, Strong and Free."

Representing the Spirit of Light, dressed all in white and carrying a silver wand, tipped with Easter lilies, Miss Phyllis Kidd came within the altar railing and, as she turned the lights on the white cross there, all joined in singing, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory." Other girls who took part in this period of the Bible story were: Marjorie Vance, Ehtel Rowland, Margaret Fallis, Elma Davis and Evelyn Sexsmith, the Spirit of Light reciting appropriate lines at the beginning, between their parts as they placed ropes of red roses on the cross, and again after the last speaker had finished. A quartette, "Out of the Ivory Palaces," sung by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. McDowell, fitted in beautifully with the story, and the concluding lines were spoken by Miss Jean Burnham, when all sang softly, with bowed heads, "The Lord's Prayer."

While the music continued when the verses had been ended, those on the platform went slowly off, one by one, leaving but the lighted cross, with its burden of flowers; the star, and the gleaming colors suspended therefrom, the symbolism having a richer meaning as a result of the presentation of the Bible story as connected with them.

The C. G. I. T. members wore their middies and skirts, four of their number acting as ushers—Bryar Edmunds, Mary Burnham, Martha Earle and Helen Mitchell.

Norwood

St. Andrews' Young People's Guild held a very successful social on Monday evening in the Sunday school hall. A splendid program was given, vocal duets by Mrs. H. Godin and Miss Evelyn Godin, also Masters Victor and Bert Ferguson. Instrumentals on Hawaiian guitar by Mervin Baptie; violin duets by Miss Helen Buchanan and James Mullins, with Mrs. L. Sedgewick as accompanist. Readings by Melvern Ennis, Ruth Wildman and Grace Dean. Rev. A. C. Reeves gave a brief talk, "Jesus, Our Ideal In Prayer." After the program was concluded a contest and spelling match took place. Lunch was served and a very pleasant and successful social was brought to a close.

The April meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. C. C. Brown, Spring Street, on Thursday afternoon, with a splendid attendance of the ladies of the church. Mrs. Brown was convenor of this group, taking charge of the program. Mrs. J. Buck read the Scripture lesson. A vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. C. Renaud and Mrs. J. Edwards. Mrs. W. H. Buck gave a very fine paper on the life of Francis Willard. Mrs. C. Renaud rendered a piano solo.

At the close of this part of the meeting, Mrs. R. J. Leeper, president of the Women's Association, took charge when considerable business was discussed. Lunch was served at the close and a social half-hour spent.

Omemee

Mrs. Cain is visiting at the home of her nephew, Dr. Anderson, Kirkfield.

Mrs. Touchburn of Peterborough spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Bent.

Miss Thurston of Dunsford was the guest of Miss Sheriff recently.

The Rev. and Mrs. Blanchard were visitors to Lindsay on Tuesday.

For the first time the Drumm battery electric train took its place recently on the regular suburban passenger service between Dublin and Wicklow, Irish Free State.

Yes... her figure was marvelous

But her skin, Tragic!

By Julia Foster*

Hers was the kind of figure Paris dressmakers must dream about. Imagine my disappointment when I saw a blemished skin! Didn't she know this simplest secret of complexion care?

YOU can have that advice. The few simple instructions that have saved thousands of women from developing a "tragic" skin. More than 20,000 beauty experts have agreed on this easy home care for the complexion. Here it is. Follow it.

With your hands, work well into the pores of your face and throat a generous lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Then a thorough rinse with warm water to wash it away, followed by a cold rinse. Hot water should never touch your face. After this, in the morning, your make-up. At night, if your skin is dry, follow with oil or tissue cream.

QUAKER CEREALS SHOW INCREASE IN PAST YEAR

High Standard of Quality Maintained in Big Food Values.

WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION

Company Been Able to Maintain Scope on Manufacturing Activities.

The interesting fact that the sales volume of Quaker cereals not only maintained its normal level but actually increased during the past year was revealed in an interview recently with George A. Macdonald, Vice President, Peterborough, Ontario.

Mr. Macdonald pointed out the significance of this fact. It means, he stated, that despite the sensational drop in the prices of other staple foods, the price reductions which have been made on Quaker cereals are entirely satisfactory to the public. Moreover, it means that the public realizes that, for economy, Quaker cereals compare favorably with any other food. For instance, Quaker Oats can be served for less than a cent a dish. Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour makes two big pancakes for one cent. Quaker Corn Flakes cost under a cent a serving. And Muffets cost but a cent apiece.

Another factor which Mr. Macdonald mentioned as having been effective in maintaining and increasing the acceptance of Quaker cereals by consumers is the high standard of quality which The Quaker Oats Company has always maintained. People know that Quaker package cereals are not only among the biggest food values but also that they are in every respect pure, clean and dependable.

The steady advertising of the Quaker products is recognized as another important factor in their success. The Quaker Oats Company is one of the pioneers among food advertisers. It is the largest cereal advertiser in Canada. It recognizes that quality and price alone will fall short in securing maximum sales. Consumers must be constantly reminded. Every month in the year the advertising of Quaker cereals appears in all classes of publications.

This confidence in Quaker quality, built up over a long period of years, is one of the reasons for the world-wide reputation for strength and stability which The Quaker Oats Company enjoys. The users of Quaker cereals throughout the world number hundreds of millions.

Because the public has continued, throughout the present depression, to purchase Quaker products in increasing quantities, The Quaker Oats Company has been enabled to maintain the scope of its manufacturing activities. While the operations of many companies in a variety of industries have been slowed down, The Quaker Oats Company provides regular employment and income for its large staff of employees.

According to all available reports, the sales of Quaker cereals continue to be well maintained this year. Consequently the company has every reason to believe that 1932 will prove to be another year to add to the long list of successful years for Quaker cereal products.

WORLD WARNED ADDED LEISURE MEANS CHANGES

Society Shown It Must Prepare Itself for New Outlook.

EXAMINE CHARACTERS.

LONDON, April 28. — Is the community at large ready for leisure? Is it prepared to face the fact that civilization is rapidly approaching the time when, through modern invention and organization, all the labor necessary to supply the needs of the world could be accomplished in not more than three hours of each working day?

The questions were put by Mr. Gerald Heard to the members of the National Council for Mental Hygiene and of the Howard League for Penal Reform on March 16 in discussing the question of future penal methods.

"Civilization is about to enter an age," he said, "when men and women will have leisure to examine their own characters. The fact of freedom will afford time, too, for the dissection of that moral law upon which men are accustomed to act. The question arises as to how ready we are to undertake such an examination."

Only one way of handling the situation appeared possible, Mr. Heard said, and that would be an entirely new way.

Organization would have to see to it, first, that those least able to bear the social pressure of the times were placed in occupations where, reasonably adapted to their surroundings, they would be least tempted to manifest undesirable traits.

"And with adequate organization in this direction," said Mr. Heard, "any community should be able to rid itself of three-quarters of its normal computation of crime."

In the second place, organization would have to see to it that from the mass of the people were drawn those who were prepared to serve the community in the purest sense of service.

In the third place, some system would have to be evolved whereby those who served were not called upon to give without return.

"Too many of those who seek to serve by leadership to-day," said Mr. Heard, "do so on the basis of export without import. No leader of men should be allowed to work for more than three months without being granted a time for reflection—for summing things up—for rest."

"LIFE'S HARMONY" IS PROGRAM THEME

Literary Department of St. James' Young People's Society in Charge of Meeting.

"Life's Harmony" was the theme of a very interesting program presented by the Literary Department of St. James' Young People's Society, with the convenor, Ernest Davis, presiding.

Jean Hammond introduced the subject of the evening in a reading which told of the development of music since primitive times, especially in connection with religious thought.

The Scripture lesson was chosen, in connection with the central idea, from Psalm 33, verses 1 to 12, and was read by Mary Webster, while Alice Scott offered prayer.

The musical part of the program was contributed by the young men, and included splendid mouth organ numbers by Harold and Ashton Fife. "He Will Take Care of You," was the greatly appreciated vocal solo by Sidney Turner.

"A Few Moments with the Great Composers," proved an interesting feature of the program, when Zetta Wood told something of the life and work of Mendelssohn. Following this, Aileen Rose played one of his well-known hymn tunes. Continuing, Dorothy Drysdale read a short sketch of Mozart's accomplishments and Nina Andrus concluded with the story of Haydn. After each of these, Miss Rose gave one of their familiar compositions at the piano.

The topic of the evening, "What Does Poetry Do For Me?" was admirably presented by Miss Elmhirst of Keene. In her address, she stressed the benefits to be derived from the reading of good books or poetry and illustrated her point by quoting some beautiful selections.

During the business session, books were received for the beginning of a reading circle among the young people.

Rev. A. E. Moorhouse pronounced the Benediction, concluding this extremely inspirational meeting. The next weekly program is in charge of the first vice-president, Alice Scott, who announced that her theme would be in keeping with Mother's Day.

Miniature House In Window Display

A trim little house that looks like the very ideal of domesticity sits in the north show window of The Examiner, as a demonstration of the worth of Bird's Twin Shingles.

It is complete with pillared verandah, porch and steps, with tiny brass knobs to the white doors, and curtains on the little dormer window. With its green terraced approach and white paint, it is a dainty miniature of a home and its roof is made of the good-looking singles.

Samples of these Thick Butt Twin Shingles from the Bird factory are also displayed on wall cases, in the varied assortment of dignified colors which lend such an attractive air to any home.

Two Are Arrested For Stealing Plane

PORTLAND, Me., April 28. — Within two hours after they had received the first complaint ever made in Maine of the theft of an airplane, local police to-day recovered the machine and arrested two men on charges of larceny.

The men arrested were Benjamin J. Zebora, 29, a mechanic, and Edward S. Maloney, 27, a pilot. They said they were employed at Roosevelt Field, N.Y.

C.N. STEAMSHIP SERVICES ESTIMATES APPROVED

OTTAWA, April 28 (C.P.)—Estimates amounting to $1,260,000 to cover operating deficits of the Canadian National Steamships Services (including the West Indies operations), were approved by the House of Commons committee on railways and shipping to-day. These were divided as to $440,000 for the Canadian Government Merchant Marine and $820,600 for the C.N.R. (West Indies) Steamships.

The total was lower by $82,900 than the estimates of last year.

What is the Most Practical Annual?

What is the most practical annual that can be grown? This question has aroused interesting discussion in garden club circles and has developed some interesting conclusions. The most practical annual is the one that gives the most over the longest period for the least effort. There are varying opinions.

The purpose for which the annual is desired is a basic one in the discussion, whether for display, for cutting or the combination. There is a wide diversity of opinion, but the preponderance so far as can be observed to date is that for display alone the petunia is the most practical annual. It gives more bloom over a longer period with less trouble than any other annual. It is not of so much use for cuttings.

For display, value for cutting, and long blooming season, the zinnia seemed to be highest in favor. Close to the zinnia came the marigold, objection to the yellow, orange and brown red coloring of the marigold being made by some, but color is a matter of personal taste.

Shirley and other poppies came in for much favor, but the objection is their very short season of bloom and the difficulty in making them cutting material.

For cutting alone, the aster seemed to be the most highly regarded.

These are all annuals that every garden should have. They come in a great variety of form and coloring as well as height. The zinnia ranges from the little buttons of the liliput types to rivals of the dahlia in the giant forms. The marigold ranges from the huge globes of the Africans to the tiny little flowers that spangle the ferny foliage of the dwarf tagetes signata pumila.

Other annuals highly favored for cutting were the mourning bride and salpiglossis. The latter had only a few advocates, as many people find difficulty in getting free bloom for it.

Annual larkspurs are highly recommended for cutting, but their season is none too long. They are also highly decorative.

The selection of annuals should be based on both the cutting and the display feature. Some are of little value for cutting but highly decorative. Other are magnificent material for cutting. Both are needed in the well-balanced garden. Zinnias, marigolds, petunias, asters and poppies are fixtures in most gardens. Each year sees new colors and improved types in these fine annuals worthy of trial.

Radishes First Garden Crop

Everybody that starts a garden almost unanimously starts with radishes. They are the first seeds to come up, the first crop that the garden yields and the easiest to grow. They are also the hardiest and surest to produce. While a crop is certain, it can be speeded and improved in quality by giving the radish reasonable attention. Usually the seed is sown thickly and the plants are left to struggle for themselves, only a small portion of them producing good roots because they are so crowded they can't.

Thin sowing of the seed in the first place and thinning to two inches apart after they are up will give each plant a chance to do the best it can. The result will be better, large radishes several days earlier than if left to fight for their lives in a thickly planted row. Also they will be of more uniform size and regular shape.

Radishes grow well in the cool months. They must grow fast to be tender, crisp and of good flavor. They become strong and pithy in warmer weather. They require rich soil and plenty of moisture, in other words conditions promoting quick growth.

For the earliest type the sorts usually known as French breakfast are best; these are the round turnip-shaped forms that give about one good bite to a radish. Following them are the more substantial long-root types. A row of both types ought to be planted. Lately the handsome clear white icicle radish has gained great and deserved popularity not only for its fine quality, quick growth but for its clean and handsome appearance on the table.

Radishes are not fussy as to soil. They will grow almost anywhere if there is a reasonable amount of plant food in the soil. The one thing they won't stand is contact with fresh manure, a danger not likely in these times when stable manure is a rarity in gardens.

There is such an array of varieties, particularly of the globe-shaped type, it is a puzzle to make selection. There is very little choice among them, all being of very even quality. The factor to be used as a guide is the earliness, some being several days earlier than others. There is also the element of size. Some are larger than others. In these very early radishes, however, size is sacrificed to quick cropping. Radishes can go in as soon as the ground can be worked. Plant a week apart for succession.

Hedges Are Useful and Beautiful

Too often the hedge is thought of only as a barrier—a living substitute for a fence. But while a hedge serves for this purpose so admirably, its usefulness as an element in design and an ornamental addition in the planting scheme is not fully appreciated. Most every home grounds present opportunity for the use of hedge planting which will increase the beauty and effectiveness of the planting scheme.

Ordinarily we think of and speak of a hedge as being a row of plants close together to effect a solid mass of foliage. In the formal hedge, the plants are trained in geometric outline by periodic trimming. The informal hedge is trimmed to gain compactness, but the plants are allowed to develop more or less naturally.

In landscape design, the formal hedge is almost indispensable. Its uses are legion. That is why most every home grounds can use hedge treatments to advantage. The formal hedge can be used to bound and screen the architectural garden. It can be developed higher than one's head or, by using certain plants, it can be kept less than a foot high. Within the formal garden one often finds these low hedges bounding the flower beds and garden paths. In the most simple garden, hedges may be used to establish the lines and pattern of the design.

Where there is a formal terrace adjacent to the house, a hedge planted along the edge of this terrace will greatly enhance the appearance of this terrace. Often, in the case of small houses, a terrace with hedge planting is all that is needed to tie the house to the grounds.

Regardless of how the hedge is used it can fulfill its mission to the utmost only when it is properly maintained. The beauty it presents is directly proportionate to the care given it. The hedge does not require great work to be grown properly, but rather a little attention at the proper time.

The hedge which serves in place of a wall may be trained to a line similar to a wall. It may have buttresses, may vary in thickness and height, and take on all sorts of interesting forms if properly trained. All that is necessary to accomplish this is systematic pruning of the hedge during the growing season. The results are well worth the effort.

There are many plants available for hedge purposes, both deciduous and evergreen. The plants should be chosen according to the type of hedge to be developed, its use and location.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Embarrassed By Pimples on Face

Mrs. O. J. Benson, Seal Cove, N.B., writes:—"I was in a very nervous, rundown condition, and not able to do my own work.

My face was covered with pimples which was very annoying and embarrassing to me at times.

After taking three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I can do my own work, and the pimples have entirely disappeared."

CROPS REDUCED BY CLUB ROOT

Only Method to Make Badly Infested Soil Fit is Eliminate Rotation, 5 Years.

LIME HELPS

Farmers who grow turnips, cabbages, cauliflowers and related vegetables find that the yields of these crops are often severely reduced by attacks of club root. This disease is caused by a minute parasite which enters the underground parts of the plant and causes an abnormal swelling of the roots. The diseased parts ultimately decompose and the parasite enters the soil where it is capable of persisting for many years. Experiments conducted at the Dominion Field Labatory of Plant Pathology, Fredericton, N. B. reveal that the severity of the disease can be reduced by the observance of certain cultural practices.

Inasmuch as the parasite causing the disease is capable of passing through the intestinal tract of domestic animals unharmed and existing for many months in the dung, manure so contaminated should not be applied to soil intended for crops susceptible to club root. If there is some uncertainty as to whether the manure is free from club root, it is safer to apply commercial fertilizers. A soil which has become heavily infested with club root can only be rendered after such susceptible crops have been totally eliminated from rotations for 5 to 10 years. In addition every precaution should be taken to prevent the growth on such land of weeds susceptible to club doot, such as mustard, shepherd's purse and pepper grass.

Lime Helps

A certain measure of control can be obtained by soil treatment with lime. Heavy applications of lime (2 to 5 tons per acre) 3 to 6 months prior to sowing are usually necessary, however, for a commercially satisfactory control on most club root infested soils. The use of basic slag as a phosphatic fertilizer failed to control club root successfully and air-slaked lime was found to be of questionable value in preventing the disease.

The extravagant use of lime should not be resorted to if potatoes are included in the rotation on account of the tendency of lime to produce scab. Treatment of infested soil with disinfectants such as corrosive sublimate, formalin failed to reduce the severity of the disease. Contrary to ordinary belief, club root is not borne by the seed. In consequence, seed treatment is of no value in the control of this disease.

The most hopeful line of control appears to be the use of resistant varieties. Certain varieties of turnips tested at this laboratory appear efficiently resistant to be of commercial value on most soils moderately infested with club root. These include selections from the White Swede, Bangholm (Herning, Sludsgaard and Olsgaard strains). Certain new varieties recently developed at this labatory also show a favorable degree of resistance to club root even on heavily infested soils.

Raspberries Fine For Home Gardens

Raspberries are the most popular of the cane fruits with the amateur, and red raspberries are preferred to black, not only because they have fewer seeds and a finer flavor, both when fresh and in preserves, but because their habit of growth is more orderly.

Red raspberries ripen earliest of all the cane fruits and grow with canes upright and well furnished with leaves, so that they make an orderly row to provide a garden border or background. They send up suckers profusely for a limited radius about each plant and these must be dug up and used for new plantings or thrown away.

These cane fruits bear next year on wood which grows this year. After fruiting the wood dies and must be cut out. In order to make a planting last as long as possible before running out, the energies of each separate root system must be confined to a limited number of canes. This calls for cutting out each spring not only the last year's bearing canes, now dead, but all except the five strongest of the canes which grew last year.

It will assist in producing strong canes if summer pruning is done. Look over the plants and pinch off the terminal bud of each new cane which has reached a height of three feet, and where new canes have exceeded this height cut them off at three feet. In some cases growers prefer to keep the cane even shorter, as low as two feet or eighteen inches. It is also well to cut out immediately following the fruiting season all canes which bore fruit this year. But if preferred this may be left until next spring.

Summer pruning of the growing canes prevents them growing too high, which makes them easily broken by wind and snow; and it causes them to produce more branches and results in a heavier crop of fruit close to the ground, where it is easily picked.

If one is planning to make a raspberry plantation he may start it this spring. In the fall it is necessary to mulch the plants quite heavily with leaves or straw to prevent the frost heaving them from the ground during winter thaws.

Measuring Grain in Bins

OTTAWA, April 27—This is the time of the year when it becomes important to the farmer to know fairly accurately the quantities of grain he has available for seed or other use. A rule of thumb for determining the quantity of grain in a bin, which proves very reliable, is supplied by the Division of Field Husbandry of the Dominion Experimental Farms. To estimate the amount of grain in a bin multiply the length by the width, by the height of grain in the bin to determine the capacity in cubic feet and then divide this sum by 1¼, which will give the contents in bushels. Care must be taken to see that the grain is levelled off to ensure accurate measurement.

TIPS ON MAKING ASPARAGUS BED

Once Established It Will Prove Joy to Family Every Spring.

LITTLE CARE NEEDED

LIFFORD LINE, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—Every farm garden should have an asparagus bed. Once established it will prove a joy to the family every spring. As the crop is permanent from year to year, the bed should be placed at one side of the garden or in some location, where it will not interfere with the culture of the annual vegetable crops. Asparagus is very easily grown and requires very little care throughout the season, is compared with many other vegetables.

For starting a bed, one-year-old plants give the best results. Growing from seeds means another year to wait, and older plants do not always give as uniform a stand.

Use Healthy Plants

Use only healthy, stalky plants. Weak spindly ones give unsatisfactory results, if they grow at all. Any good garden soil of a loamy nature will grow asparagus. Enrich it well and put it in good physical condition.

Place the crowns of the young plants eight inches deep and two feet apart in the row. If more than one row is desired have them at least four feet apart. Cover the crowns at first with only about three inches of soil tramped down. The furrows will be filled gradually by cultivation as the plants grow. Cultivate the bed frequently.

Do not cut any asparagus the first season, nor for two seasons at least. Allow the plants to grow as quickly and as strongly as possible, in order that plant food in abundance may be stored in the roots for the production of more and stronger shoots in the after seasons.

Eight earthquake tremors were felt in Oban, Scotland, recently.

The Gardener —His Corner

Plant Nursery Early

The earlier trees, shrubs, rose bushes, climbers and such things are planted, the better. This also applies to herbaceous perennials. Just as soon as one can dig the soil is the best time to get these things in as there is then plenty of moisture in the ground and in this plentiful supply of moisture is the secret of successful transplanting. Spread roots out well and cover firmly with fine soil. A little commercial fertilizer dissolved in water will greatly help at this time.

No Hurry

The temptation is to sow all flower seeds outside as soon as the soil is dry enough in the spring, not thinking of the cold, frosty weather which is to follow, writes W. T. Macoun, Dominion Horticulturist. The result is that many seeds rot in the ground without germinating, and others germinate but soon after the plants appear above the ground they are killed with frost. Among the hardiest annuals and those which may be sown as soon as the soil is dry enough are the Sweet Pea, Virginian Stocks, Poppy, both the Shirley and California, Alyssum, Cornflower, Pot Marigold, Larkspur, Calendula, Coriopsis, Candytuft, Cosmos and Linaria.

Included in the more tender annuals which should not be sown until there is little danger of frost after the plants come up are the Nasturtium, Balsam, Zinnia, Marigold, Aster and the ordinary stocks. There is also the temptation to set geraniums, Petunias and other similar bedding plants outside too early, especially potted plants which have been inside in the winter. In most parts of Canada these should not be planted outside until nearly the end of May. Cannas and Dahlias should not be planted outside until danger from frost is practically over, although Gladiolus can be set out as soon as the soil is dry enough.

Rock Gardening

The secret of successful rock gardening is informality. One must guard against any awkward grouping of either stones or planting material. The rock garden is usually built into the side of a slope where is leads away from the regular flower garden or from trees and lawn. Irregular shaped stones are the best to use. These should be planted firmly to about two-thirds their depth to avoid heaving by frost and the pockets of soil in between should lead back into the centre of the mound so that moisture will not be cut off nor root development curtailed. Good drainage is essential. Practically all seedmen list suitable material for these little mountain ranges, but while there are literally thousands of Alpine plants from all parts of the world the number that are proving hardy in Canada is strictly limited.

The following varieties are recommended: The three best phloxes (obtainable in plants only), are: Subulata in white, pink and lilac; Amoena, pink and divaricate in white and pale lavender blue; Violas may be secured in many pleasing colors, there are two Primulas, the cortusoides, a rosy lilac, and denticulata, a white to lilac rose, two Arabis, the alpinus, a white, and the alpinus roseus, a pink. Other plants include Alyssum saxatile compactum (yellow); Aubretia, (various); Armeria, (rose and white) Calamintha alpina (purple); Campanula carpatica, (blue and white); Cerastium tomentosum (grayish foliage with white flowers); Cheiranthus allioni, biennial (orange); Dianthus deltoides (rose pink); Gypsophila repens (white); Helianthemum mutabile (various); Iberis semper-virens (white); Linaria (blue); Papaver alpinum (mixed, various); Saponaria ocymoides (rose); Saxifraga hybrids (various); Silene schafta (rosy-purple); Tunica saxifraga (pink); Veronica prostrata (blue); Lychnis alpina (bright rose).

For the Summer Cottage

It is quite feasible to have a fair garden at the summer cottage and there is no reason at all why the owner of a string of cottages or road side cabins should not have each supplied with a little plot of flowers and vegetables. Practically all annual flowers and vegetables can be started in flats indoors, later hardened by transplanting into cold frames or shallow boxes, after which they are ready to be moved to the permanent garden whether that be a few yards or a hundred miles away.

Arrangements can usually be made with some permanent resident in the locality of the summer cottage to prepare the garden and possibly plant some of the bulky and late vegetables such as potatoes and corn. The first nice week-end or holiday in the spring one can motor up, and superintend the work, planting those early vegetables like spinach, lettuce and radish.

Those that one transplants and are taken to the cottage garden in June or even July will include tomatoes, melons, cabbage, celery, egg plants and such things among the vegetables, and Zinnias, Cosmos, Marigolds, Petunias, Nasturtiums, Calendulas and other flowers. If it is possible to move these to the summer cottage some time in June then the seed should be sown in shallow boxes at home about the last of April, but if the first trip can only be made in July, seed should be started later so that the stuff will not be too big to move. In addition to the things mentioned, the cottage garden should also include as many of those staple perennials like rhubarb, mushrooms, mint, strawberries, and possibly asparagus, which will come on year after year with little attention.

THE ROSE BUSH —ITS PRUNING

Work Should be Done Soon as Plants Are Uncovered in Spring.

CUT ALL SUCKERS

Pruning is one of the most important factors in successful rose growing. It should be done as soon after the plants are uncovered in the spring as their condition of life and vigor is shown. If few large individual flowers, rather than a great crop of indifferent bloom are desired then hard pruning should be given with practically all bush roses. Climbing roses on the other hand require different treatment. While bush roses bloom on the growths that will be produced this year Climbing roses bloom only on last year's wood.

In pruning bush roses it is well to remove some of the oldest wood each year, particularly from plants that have been established for some time. The older branches thinned out should be cut to the ground and particularly those in the middle of the plant. When this is done space is left for the new growths and the sun is admitted for the benefit of the whole plant.

Methods Vary

For strong growing hybrid perpetuals the pruning need not be so severe as with the hybrid teas. It is a good rule in rose growing to deal most severely with the weaker plants. Many of the hybrid teas should be cut down within a few inches of the ground, leaving only three or four buds on each stem. Such strong growers as the hybrid perpetuals J. R. Clarke, Frau Karl Druschki, and Mrs. John Lang may be cut back from one to three feet according to the strength of the branches. In pruning climbing roses all that is necessary is to cut away the weak or damaged wood and shorten back the longest branches.

After the season of growth has commenced the rosarian must watch for new growths known as suckers, which come up through the ground apearing a few inches away from the plant. These are shoots from the Briar root that start below the point where the rose has been budded. These shoots should be ruthlessly cut away below the surface, states Dr. Macoun, the Dominion Horticulturist, in his Rose bulletin. Suckers are usually recognized by their paler shade of green, and a greater number of leaflets than are found on the named varieties of roses.

We Want Blatchford's because we want to be like the chick in the Blatchford Trade Mark, or like these:—

This Trade Mark of Blatchford's Chick Mash is from an actual photograph and is your guarantee of quality.

Leghorns—2½ to 3 lbs. at 10 weeks. "My mortality lowest on your mash than any I have ever fed. The Leghorn cockerels averaged 2½ lbs. at 10 weeks. Some weighed 3 lbs. I have yet to see their equal on any other feed."

Lost Only 4 out of 256. "I lost 4 out of 256. I started one of my neighbours but he would not take my advice until he lost 28 out of 250—then he changed to Blatchford's and not one died since."

What Blatchford's has done for others it can also do for you.

It costs only 1 to 2 cents to raise a chick for 30 days on Blatchford's Chick Mash; for 3 months only 8 to 10 cents.

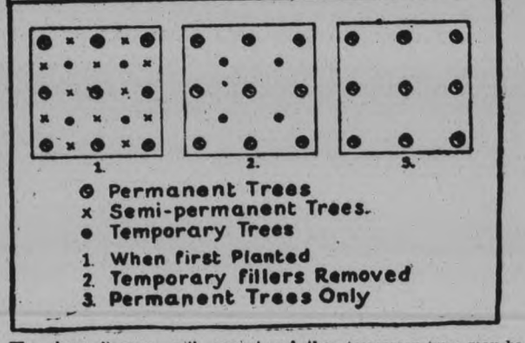
How to Plant the Home Orchard



The above diagram will prove helpful in securing the maximum returns from your orchard property.

The modern orchard is usually planted in a mixture of two or more varieties of fruits. There are good reasons for this. Some of the most desirable fruit trees do not come to bear for several years but eventually make large trees and are very long lived. Others are not long lived nor of large growing habit, but bear very young. We, therefore, classify the more important trees as "permanent", "semi-permanent" and "temporary". The general mode of planting is this: Permanent trees are spotted forty to fifty feet apart in squares. In the centers of these squares, also fifty feet apart, are the semi-permanent, or if none of these last are used, then temporary trees may be substituted. Finally, at a point midway between every pair of permanent trees, temporary trees are planted.

These last come to bear very early and the orchard, thereby, begins to make immediate returns to the owner. Later, when the semi-permanent are bearing and need more room the temporary trees are cut down. Still latter, when the permanent trees are fully deevloped and bearing, the semi-permanent trees are cut out and the orchard continues to bear a full capacity with no time lost. The time elapsing between the planting time and cutting out of the semi-permanent trees is usually 15 to 20 years. The land is much enhanced in value when the final trees are bearing. Altogether this is a very satisfactory arrangement.

MIXTURE OF RABBIT BRAINS MADE TWO POUND BABY GROW

Life of Surviving Twin Was Despaired of After Five Months' Care.

NURSE HAD POTION.

VANCOUVER, April 28 (Special to The Examiner)—While records are being combed in various cities to prove that babies weighing less than two pounds at birth live to become healthy, normal children, from Duncan comes the story of a child, now six years of age, which, weighing two pounds at birth, was kept alive through advice of a nurse and a potent mixture of rabbit brains. At least that is the way it appears to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tull of Sundrige, Duncan.

Patricia Tull was an incubator baby. When her five-pound twin died at birth all the attention of the family and doctors was lavished on the tiny mite which needed constant care. At five months she showed a little gain in strength, but three weeks later was losing weight so rapidly that doctors gave up hope.

But her nurse, who scorned newfangled ideas of modern science, did not despair. For weeks she had been pleading to be allowed to feed the child rabbit brains and she was allowed to have her way. From that day the child gained strength until at one year of age she weighed above average. To-day Patricia is a bonny child and in spite of the scoffing at the recipe which gave her a start her parents aren't so sure that rabbit brains don't contain the elixir of life.

Weekly Crop Report

Brant. — Horses moving fairly freely at good prices for quality of breed. Unseasonably weather has held up Spring work for another week. A few auction sales, a number at cash at which prices are reported very satisfactory.

Carleton.—Reports would indicate that over fifty per cent of the supply of hay remains unsold.

Dufferin. — At the Orangeville Horse Fair last Thursday, a good demand for horses was in evidence. Prices, however, were low, $125.00 cash was about the highest price. This was paid for at least one farm chunk and one general purpose colt of hunter type.

Essex.—Quite a fair acreage has been seeded, amounting to 40 or 50 per cent of the Spring crop. The fall wheat is in particularly good shape, except a few fields which were sown on untilled land or put in very late.

Frontenac.—The lamb crop is reported good so far, with only a few losses. The production of small pigs is also greater. Good seed oats in demand supply about exhausted.

Glengarry.—Maple syrup harvest poor this year, being only about 4 or 5 days when sap ran well. Seed otas very scarce, some farmers who sold oats at 20 cents a bushel last Fall now have to go out and purchase seed requirements at 45 to 60 cents a bushel.

Grenville.—Farmers are making enquiries for seed grain in excess to those of last year. It would seem as though there was a general move on their part to sow better seed and of standard varieties.

Grey.—Mr. John Camp, Markdale, reports that his flock of 13 2-shear sheep and 3 of last year's lambs gave him a total of 30 lambs of which 27 are living. Three ewes had triplets and these are raising 8 out of 9. Beef cattle are a very scarce commodity in Grey. Some big growers estimate only 50 per cent of usual crop. Several of our big feeders have not done so well the last couple of years; consequently they have not fed so many.

Haldimand.—Heavy snowfall on Tuesday last, while holding up seeding condition considerably, afforded much-needed protection to fall wheat and new catches during the succeeding cold snap. One creamery in county reports now that, during the month of February, 1932, their production was 27 per cent. over that of 1931.

Halton.—Spraying has been fairly general for the control of pear psylla and from observations I would estimate that the open winter has not caused any serious damage to fruit growers. Market for alfalfa seed still in hands of farmers seem to be slightly stronger, one outside buyer being in the district during the week and offering $5 to $5.25 to the grower for No. 1 seed. Market for cereals about the same.

Hastings.—Many farmers are carrying a large stock of pigs. Bull calves are being slaughtered at birth due to low veal prices.

Huron.—Some heaving has been noticed in sweet clover, but fall wheat and clovers have mostly come through winter in good condition. No growth noticed in orchards as yet. Livestock generally have wintered well. Total number of cattle about same as last year, probably reduction of about 20 per cent in number of fat cattle to be marketed in May and June, compared with last year. Due to low prices a large number will likely be turned to grass. A considerable number of stockers have been carried over to grass.

Kent. — Seeding operations, delayed by snow and rain during early part of week, have been renewed and are now fairly general throughout the country. Preparation and planting of tobacco beds are being hurried completed. The warning to growers of burley tobacco that a reduced acreage was advisable seems to have gone unheeded in many sections. Preparations to plant are indicative of an acreage comparable to 1931. Movement of finished steers to the market is below normal. A larger percentage of light cattle are in feed lots this year than is usual, and the majority of stock will be marketed off grass.

Lambton.—Majority of cattle being fed will be finished on grass. Several dealers preparing to grain their cattle while on pasture. Farm produce continues to fall in prices. Butterfat is quoted at 20c delivered on local creameries; eggs 10 to 12c. Fruit growers are looking for a good crop of fruit providing frost or weather does not injure setting of fruit bloom. Good development of fruit buds.

Lincoln. — Considerable demand for barley and early oats for sowing together, but supply of late oats is sufficient to meet requirements of trade.

Middlesex.—Fall wheat is in excellent condition and was commencing to show quite green prior to the exceptional winter conditions with heavy snow which developed on Tuesday. Some heaving of alfalfa and particularly sweet clover has been reported. Beef cattle have been wintered in better than average condition with indications that there will perhaps be more than the average numbers for late spring and early summer markets. Some operators have been wintering as many as 200 head. Sheep owners report strong lamb crop. Litters of young pigs have been very variable with one farmer reporting only one pig raised from three sows.

Muskoka and Parry Sound. — There is little change in livestock situation. Practically all reports received to date indicate that lambs are coming very strong this season, with high percentage of twins and very low losses. Eggs very plentiful. One store advertising them last week 3 dozen for 50 cents. Farmers near Bracebridge reported that they are having difficulty selling eggs at any price on local market due to heavy supply.

Lanark.—There is an ample supply of seed grain, registered barley selling at 75c a bushel; Banner oats, government grade No. 1, at 55 cents, and Alaska No. 1 at 62c.

Norfolk. — Broilers available in this county. Lots have been sold at 22 to 25 cents. Preparations being made to plant about as much or more flue-cured tobacco as in 1931.

Northumberland.—Fall wheat, alfalfa and other legumes seem to have come through the season thus far in good condition. Some heaving is reported but even this can be overcome by the judicious use of the roller.

Ontario.—Fat cattle going to market during next two months are likely to show a marked falling off from a year ago. The cattle are not in the country.

Peel. — No appreciable injury to winter wheat. Clover seedlings are heaved to a considerable extent in the heavy clay districts. It is too early to estimate the percentage of damage. Side roads are impassable since the recent snowstorm. Even the high-graded gravelled roads are cutting through with the ordinary traffic. Quite a number of work horses changing hands these days. Prices vary from $75 to $125, according to quality, however, the demand is for clean legged, drafty horses around three to six years of age.

Perth. — A carload of pure bred Holstein cows shipped to U.S.A., selling around the $100 mark. There has been a keen interest shown in the Grain Club being organized for the junior farmers in this county. This club will be in oats and we have a membership of 72. Considerable grain has moved during past few weeks. Still a fair quantity of Banner and O.A.C. No. 144 oats for sale: small quantity of O.A.C. No. 21 barley.

Peterborough.—Feed is beginning to get scarce and livestock not in as good condition as earlier in winter.

Prescott and Russell.—Still at least 70 per cent of hay in hands of growers. Market is practically dead, with only an odd lot being shipped here and there.

North. Simcoe.—Seems to be a scarcity of good seed oats and barley, especially the latter. Considerable demand for peas to seed as mixed grain, but there is such a small acreage of peas grown that many farmers will not be able to secure peas for mixture. No scarcity of seed potatoes. Huge supply of Certified Dooley potatoes throughout the county in addition to large quantities of commercial stock. Craighurst, which normally ships about 80 carloads of potatoes annually has to date sold about 3 cars only. Less than usual number of beef cattle in the stables at the present time. Finished steers have been moving out rapidly due to necessity of cashing in for current expenses and also to a certain extent to the threatened shortage of feed.

Renfrew. — Clover seems to have come through winter in fair condition, is especially good on fertile, well-drained land. Livestock appears to be in fair condition. Number of steers have been unloaded on the market this week, farmers not wishing to take a chance on holding them over for May and June markets. More steers were fed in the county this year, I believe, than usual. There appears to be more interest in the sowing of registered seed and the growing of registered grain this year than in previous years. In 1931 Renfrew County had the largest number of registered seed growers and there is no doubt but that this number will be considerably increased in 1932. Most of the seed cleaning plants have been running steadily for some time and one or two of the plants have been running nights to keep up with the demand for cleaing.

South Simcoe. — The Alliston branch of the Central Ontario Potato Growes' Associaiton marketed a quantity of Canada Fancy potatoes during the week. These are being put up in 15-lb. bags and are retailing in Toronto at 18c each, which nets the grower about 45c per 90 pounds.

Sudbury.—Although early to predict, the general impression is that fall wheat and new seedings of red clover and alsike clover are in most promising condition. Covering of snow during past two weeks was a great help.

Temiskaming. — Little change in livestock situation of district, possibly few more on hand than there were a few years ago, owing to the fact that there has been little demand at satisfactory prices and many farmers with plenty of feed have considered it more advisable to carry them over. Approximately 200 herds of cattle have been tested for T.B. during the past winter, with less than 1 per cent. reacting.

Victoria.—Fall wheat looks good. Clovers fair.

Wellington.—Fields of wheat and clover are looking pretty brown this spring, but so far seem alive. Good seed grain is hard to get. Many farmers are worried about their seed oats and many will use seed oats from the 1930 crop, which is quite unusual. Finished cattle for May and June will be scarce in Wellington. Not in two generations have so few finished cattle been in view for this market period. Some 48 head of good Holstein cows sold for an average of $128.00 each, at a sale in Guelph a week ago. Twelve to thirteen dollars a ton is being offered for good hay delivered by truck at Toronto.

SPRING RADIATES MORE CLEANLINESS

Urge in Every Home is to Have a Genuine Clean-up.

"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." So sings the poet. And just watch nature. Buds bursting in the sunshine, plants pushing their heads through the earth, birds busy getting their homes cleaned up for the tenants to come, everywhere the signs of rejuvenation and healthful energy.

And so in the home the housewife thinks of the past months of furnace stoking, the dirt and dust that must be lying in all the hard-to-get-at corners of even the most carefully looked after home, the litter in the yard, and all the accumulations of a dark and dreary winter. She, too, senses the spring atmosphere of rejuvenation — the urge to have a general clean-up. The house must be made spick and span from cellar to attic. She knows that healthy growth can only come with healthful cleanliness. Like the little Old Dutch woman whose picture is known from one end of Canada to the other, she knows the healthful results of "chasing dirt."

And so the "Clean-up Week" is a regular feature of our social life. The housewife takes a personal pride in making her home a credit to the community and a haven of safety for her family by practising healthful cleanliness at all times.

Dirt is a breeder of disease and a destructive element. Where rigid cleanliness is practiced it cannot exist. Hence the phrase "Healthful Cleanliness" and the hearty co-operation of medical men in pushing the "Clean-up Week campaigns.

MILLBROOK Y.P.S.

Members Entertain Carmel Group Presenting Them 60 Books for Their Library.

MILLBROOK, Apr. 28 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Young Peoples' Society of the Carmel Church were guests of the local Y.P.S. on Monday evening, the social vice-president, Miss Marjorie Sayles, taking the chair, and reading the devotional topic, "What the Sabbath means to the Christian," the selected scripture passage being read by Misses Dorothy McDowell, Eleanor Ferren and Sadie Rowland. Miss Phyllis Kidd presided at the organ.

Musical selections were provided by Gordon Jones, who played a piano solo, and Misses Bryar Edmunds and Mary Burnham who were heard in a piano duet. The words of welcome to the visiting young people were spoken by the pastor.

A missionary reading, "A Spotted Tiger Foiled," was given by Miss Jean Burnham, and a feature of unusual interest was the presentation of sixty books to the Sunday School library at Carmel, Miss Estelle Hetherington explaining that since the recent "library shower" held locally the shelves here had been filled, and the overflow was being passed on to the sister school, all the books being in good condition and a variety of authors represented.

Mr. Will Paterson, president of the Carmel Y.P.S. and Mr. Will Lunn, associate superintendent of the Sunday School, received the gift and made suitable acknowledgement, assuring the donors that the addition to their library shelves was decidedly needed and appreciated.

The social hour at the close was one of great enjoyment, a number of contests keeping everyone pleasantly occupied, and at its close homemade candy was served. Mr. Paterson voicing the visitors' thanks for the delightful evening the occasion had afforded, and all present joining hands and singing, "For They are Jolly, Good Fellows," and "Auld Lang Syne," before the gathering dispersed.

Mount Pleasant

A Sunday school class meeting of the United Church was held in the Women's Institute hall on Tuesday evening with a good attendance. The Scripture lesson was read by Miss Jean Shield. An invitation to meet with Ebenezer Young People was declined, with regret, on account of the bad condition of the roads.

Topic of the meeting was given by Mrs. Harry Sisson, "Bible Question." Miss McCamus gave a reading, "Jacob Riis," who wanted good homes for all the people, by Archer Wallace, after which the meeting closed with prayer.

A contest was put on by Juan Shield with the Misses M. McCamus and B. Tully as winners. Community singing was enjoyed, after which Mr. and Mrs. Shield served those present with maple sugar candy, popcorn and apples.

Mrs. Thos. Graham was hostess for the meeting of the Women's Association of the United Church, held at her home on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Graham were visitors in Peterborough on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Lowes and Mrs. W. H. Lowes, were visitors in Peterborough on Thursday.

Cavan

On Sunday evening in Cavan United Church, the pastor, the Rev. J. E. Whitham, preached an excellent sermon from the text, Acts 3:6—"Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I Thee."

Mr. Joe Barnard, of Bailieboro, assisted in the service. A choir of young men, with Mrs. A. B. Kennedy presiding at the organ, led the singing and contributed a sacred chorus, which was much enjoyed.

Messrs. F. and J. Barnard motored from Bailieboro and attended service in Cavan United Church on Sunday evening.

Mr. Oakley Carley, Toronto, visited friends in Cavan at the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Atcheson, Toronto, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Finney on Sunday.

On Sunday afternoon, May 1, Mother's Day will be observed by the Cavan Sunday school, when the Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe, of Murray Street Baptist Church, Peterborough, will be the special speaker.

Denton Massey Addresses Two Large Audiences

GREATER SPIRIT OF TOLERANCE IS PLEA OF MASSEY

Denton Massey Addresses Two Large Audiences at St. John's.

APPEALING MESSAGE.

Message Was Delivered Under Auspices of Men's Bible Class.

An eloquent plea for a more widespread spirit of tolerance, or cultivation of the ability to put oneself in the other fellows' place, was the gist of an appealing message, delivered during the course of an inspiring address last evening by Denton Massey, leader of York Bible Class, Toronto.

In his visit to St. John's Church at the invitation of the Men's Bible Class Mr. Massey was tendered a wonderful reception, the church being packed to capacity long before the time scheduled for the commencement of the service.

Great interest in the visit to Peterborough of Mr. Massey was anticipated, and the various Anglican congregations throughout the city were admitted by ticket. There were a great many members of the general public also present and it was found necessary to hold an overflow meeting in the Parish Hall which adjoins the church. Immediately upon completion of his address in the church Mr. Massey repafred to the other building where he again delivered another entirely different message to the other congregation.

His address at the church was preceded by Evensong conducted by Archdeacon the Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave. The full surpliced choir was present under the leadership of Frederic G. Mann, and during the course of the service an anthem was sung by a trio of boy soloists. The youthful choristers were V. Coleman, G. Perks and Roy Pitchford, who sang "God Shall Wipe away all Tears"—J. T. Field.

Welcomes Mr. Massey

Archdeacon Blagrave expressed pleasure on behalf of himself and the congregation at the visit of Mr. Massey who was he said exerting a tremendous influence for good throughout the whole Province in his leadership of York Bible Class and in his addresses which were broadcast by radio.

Dave Melton, leader of St. John's Men's Bible Class, also voiced a welcome to Mr. Massey who he said had been invited to Peterborough by President John E. Patte. He also mentioned the fact that York Bible Class which was commenced seven years ago with a membership of eighteen, now had a registration of 2,600 young men.

Of youthful appearance, Mr. Massey possesses a forceful, dynamic personality and in stressing various points throughout his address made frequent use of humorous and entertaining illustrations. It added greatly to the effectiveness of his address last evening outlining the more serious thoughts all the more vividly by reason of the marked contrast.

Would Follow Fire Reels

Taking his text fromb Ezekiel iii., 15, "I sat where they sat," the speaker was midway through his address, when in stressing a point he confessed, "If the fire reels were to go by this church now, you would be without a speaker. I would follow the reels." He added that he had often been "spanked" as a child for indulging his weakness to run behind the fire trucks.

As recently as the other day he had followed the fire engines at Toronto. They led him to a chimney fire at a dwelling house. There was no serious damage caused, much to the disappointment of a young lady whom he heard address someone nearby, "Oh let's go there is no fun here," she had exclaimed.

He termed that young lady's attitude as the intolerance of thoughtlessness. She had been unable to put herself in the place of the other fellow; had been unable to realize the amount of love and labor that was represented in that little home which in its security had caused her such disappointment.

Referring to his text, Mr. Massey said, "In these simple words the prophet Ezekiel says much. I sat where they sat. Who were they?" he asked.

Proceeding to explain the speaker stated that in the hey day of Ezekiel the children of Israel were languishing under Babylonian captivity. Coupled with the weight of captivity and their exile from Jerusalem they had become hard-hearted and rebellious.

"Hard-Boiled" Prophet

Ezekiel was selected to be the harbinger of God's message, but he was a firebrand and had a tendency to be "hard-boiled." However, the preacher contended, Ezekiel took the right attitude. He went among the Israelites and sat with them for seven days, having an opportunity to carefully weigh the situation. The result was that he saw the other fellows' point fo view and lost his bitterness and danger.

"We are continually perturbed about the other fellow," he remarked, "but do we really care. Do we sit where they are sitting. It fine to care, but what is the basis of our caring; are we really in a position to be helpfully sympathetic with our fellow men," he asked.

He thought that it would be wonderful if everybody could sit where the other fellow was sitting, and could really see his outlook on life and the problems with which he has to grapple.

"Do we dare to take things as we find them and pass judgment on a person after cursory acquaintance cutting him off if he fails to measure up to our standards," he demanded. "Where did we get our standards? Each one has his own standards. Yes, but there is one standard for us all and that standard was the life of Jesus Christ," he said.

He claimed that intolerance sprang from ignorance or thoughtlessness, and to such persons he would speak the words of Calvary, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do."

Mr. Massey laid emphasis on the need for a cultivation of a real spirit of tolerance. "In these days of hardship, when men and women are groping hopelessly and when the icy fingers of famine and bitterness are fastened upon the people and making helpless children out of strong people."

"We who are more fortunate," he urged, "must sit where the other fellow is sitting when we find ourselves becoming intolerant."

It is estimated that there was a combined congregation of 1,200 people to hear Mr. Massey's inspiring messages last night. Following the service at the Parish Hall, the speaker was presented by Mr. Patte with a Bible on behalf of St. John's Men's Bible Class, a gift which the recipient assured the givers was the most greatly appreciated he had ever received.

Before the service at the Parish Hall commenced, the Sunday School 25-piece orchestra gave sacred selections of music under the direction of Jack Marshall.

New Enthusiasm For Buried Gold Aroused

TREASURE DISCOVERED?

There is hectic excitement down at Mahone Bay, Nova Scotia, as another expedition is preparing to try and locate the fabulous treasure supposed to have been buried by the famous buccaneer, Captain Kidd. If there is treasure on Oak Island the pirate ghost must look on with amusement as expedition after expedition has failed and fortune after fortune has been expended in futile efforts to locate the well-secreted hoard of gold.

Letter Received By Hudson Bay Company Aptly Depicts Position Of Many Farmers

(By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, April 28 (C.P. Cable). — Presiding over today's annual meeting of the Hudson's Bay Company, Governor Sir Ashley Cooper read a letter to the company from a Canadian farmer which the governor described as representing tensely and tragically though not without humor, the position of many a Canadian farmer to-day.

The otter said:

"I got your letter about what I owe. Now be pachant. I ain't forgot you. Please wait. When I have the money I will pay you. If this was the judgment day and you was no more prepared to meet your Maker than I am to meet your account, you sure would have to go to hell. Trusting you will do this."

The meeting adopted the annual report and accounts and the Governor expressed confidence the work of the restoration of the company's fortunes had been well begun.

WATER DRILLERS HAVE TROUBLE

Lindsay Police Seeking Former Employee of Elsmure Hotel.

LINDSAY, April 28.— (Examiner Correspondence.)—Rev. R. T. Richards, B.A., B.D., of Port Perry, treasurer of the Bay of Quinte Conference and Mr. R. Strike, chairman of the Conference Laymen's Association, were in town Tuesday night attending a joint meeting of the committee of the United Churches. This meeting was held for the purpose of initiating arangements for the coming conference to be held here in June. Four hundred delegates will attend.

A warant has been issued by the local police for a young man named Bostock, formerly employed at the Elsmure hotel. According to the authorities the young man disappeared the other night, taking with him a sum of money from the cash register. It is alleged that he hired a local taxi, and, accompanied by a young girl, left for Peterborough.

The Brantford Drilling Co., which has the contract for drilling a well to provide this town with a supply of water, is encountering all sorts of difficulties. In sinking a pipe to the depth of eighty feet, it encountered some hard object in the earth curving upwards. The huge drill, of course, refused to work, and an expert was sent for. A large jack was borrowed from the C.N.R. and it took fully a week to extricate the pipe from the ground. The company has been under considerable expense, and . is doubtful if a sufficient flow of water will be secured.

The question of municipal gardening has been taken up by the Citizens' Relief Association, and about twenty-five people have signified their willingness to cultivate gardens. An appeal has been issued to citizens who have vacant lots to turn them over to the unemployed.

The members of the Toronto Maple Leaf Hockey Club paid Bobcaygeon a visit during the weekend. The boys put up at the Kenosha Inn and were right royally entertained.

Prominent Architect Dies At The Age of 49

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 28 —James Foulis, prominent architect, died suddenly here to-day, aged 49. Born in Scotland, he and his partner, Claude Findlay, had planned many fine buildings in many parts of the province, particularly in this section. He was in the Department of Public Works at Ottawa for some time, later locating at Sault Ste. Marie and, seven years ago, in Niagara Falls. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Sheila.

Spectacles recently introduced in Europe reflect the cards in a player's hand so that his bridge partner may see what he is holding.

Cop Shoots Victim: Kidnapper Escapes

CHICAGO, April 28.—Policeman Joseph Haller nipped a kidnapping right in the bud today. He shot the victim, but the criminal escaped.

In the early morning hours he heard the sound of crashing glass. Running to the scene he saw two men, apparently struggling from a building. Then one picked up the other and started for a parked car.

Officer Haller leveled his pistol. He shot down the kidnapper's victim. Haller pursued the fugitive but was outdistanced. Then he went back to the wounded man.

He was of wax and wore a $17.50 suit.

TREASURE HUNT BEING REVIVED

First Search Was Made on Oak Island Over Century Ago.

OLD MAN LEFT MAP.

HALIFAX, April 28 (Special to The Examiner)—The famous Oak Island, off the coast of Nova Scotia, is again the scene of feverish treasure hunting. Nearly 137 years have passed since discovery of convincing evidence that a vast fortune might by beneath its soil, and yet not a silver sou has so far been found.

Many attempts have been made in the past to tear the treasure from its grave in the bosom of Oak Island. The first inkling that there was such a hoard came from study of a map which an old man gave to a youth one day over 150 years ago in the streets of Bristol, England. The map indicated that a great fortune in jewels and doubloons was contained in iron-bound chests hidden in a pit approached by a series of tunnels constructed by skilled engineers for buccaneers.

The youth gave the map to an acquaintance who was sailing to Nova Scotia. This man became a pilot at the port of Halifax, and forgot the map, until, many years later, he found it at the bottom of an old trunk.

Adventurer Disappointed

The pilot thought that it would make a good foundation for a story to tell to the old salts of the harbor, and accordingly he brought it out and showed it off freely. An adventurer became interested, and persuaded the pilot to acquire the rights of Oak Island for himself. He was doomed to disappointment. Not only were the rights held by someone else, but the owner neither wished to sell his property nor was he interested in the map and its tale of hidden gold. Then for a quarter of a century, Oak Island remained undisturbed.

With the coming of settlers in 1795, the treasure question was revived, and three trappers, Smith, McGinis, and Vaughan, set to work to locate the pit. Within a few weeks they had dug some 30 feet down uncovering three platforms. The work was, however, too much for three men to accomplish alone, and they decided to seek help. No one would help them. It was said that the island was haunted, and that the pit would be the end of all those who violated its secrecy! There was nothing for it but to give up the project, and the men left the island.

For seven years the 30-foot hole remained as they had left it, and then a company, with a young doctor named Lynds at the head, decided to carry on the work. Their efforts were, however, also in vain. Tunnels were dug and shafts sunk, but, having got farther down, they found that they could not drive off the water. Lynds called off his workmen and the treasure remained undisturbed.

In 1893 the Oak Island Treasure Co. was formed, and more progress was made than ever before. The seekers had reached the last of the platforms, and plans were going forward for the final excavations, when the Atlantic again took a hand in the defence and water flooded the pit within 30 feet of the top. As the water rose funds sank, and finally the company had to admit defeat.

Of late years sporadic attempts by various people to locate the treasure, have met with failure, and now another great effort is being made.

46,000 PELTS SOLD IN CITY

Muskrat Catch This Year is Reported to be of Average Quality.

SEASON CLOSES APRIL 30.

Approximately 46,000 muskrat pelts have so far this season been handled by the five local fur dealers; this despite the fact that the season for trapping has been extended for ten days until April 30.

May 5 is the last day on which trappers may dispose of their muskrat catch, and in the intervening period the local dealers expect to handle many thousand more skins.

The business is divided among the five local fur dealers as follows, a check-up reveals: William Lech & Sons, Limited, 12,000 skins; Harry L. Jopling, 10,000; Barries, Limited, 8,000; T. Brightman & Company, 8,000; T. E. Curvin, 8,000.

The catch this year is reported to be of average quantity, much better than last year, and with a good quality skin. The prevailing market price to-day for No 1 muskrat skins, was stated by Mr. Jopling to be 70 certs, with a minimum price of 20 cents for badly damaged skins. The average price of skins is around 50 to 55 cents.

Comparing the quality of the skins this season with those of last season, which were generally of a poor quality, Mr. Curvin remarked that this year the hides are remarkably good, although the fur is not as good as it might be. "The mild weather experienced during the early part of the winter," he said, "had prevented the under fur of the muskrat from properly developing."

An official of Barries, Limited, told The Examiner that the skins this year were, generally speaking, of good quality, the best of the catch having been secured in the area between the Otonabee River and Rice Lake.

LONDON LOAN FOR INDIA QUICKLY OVERSUBSCRIBED

LONDON, April 28 (C.P. Cable)—The £10,000,000 loan in five per cent. bonds for the Government of India has proved one of the biggest successes on the London money market in recent years. Owing to the immense over-subscriptions the underwriters have allotted 40 per cent of the amount to applicants requesting £1,000 or more, and the smaller applicants will be given the rest.

The loan, which opened yesterday, started with a three-eights per cent. premium and is now at a five-eights per cent. premium. Three-fifths of the amount is being used to meet six per cent. bonds maturing in June.

DRAMATIC CLUB OF ALL SAINTS' PRESENTS PLAY

"The Gate to Happiness" is Well Presented by All Saints' Cast.

Two More Presentations.

"Be good and you'll be happy" might be described as the moral of the play "The Gate to Happiness" chosen as the three-act annual offering for this season of the Dramatic Club of All Saints Church.

Last evening, a very appreciative audience watched the unfolding of the three acts of this drama of human interest and heart appeal. The members of the Dramatic Club of All Saints Church upheld very ably their well-earned reputation in the past of presenting in capable fashion an interesting play.

Under direction of James Price, Senior, the play progressed to a happy conclusion, after the usual number of vicissitudes and heartaches enjoyed by the lovers of the piece.

"The Gate to Happiness" does not posses a villain. The nearest approach to one is the geneleman from New York, Rex Curtis, who does a certain amount of prevaricating in order to win the lady of his affections, but his efforts don't have their desired effect, and the lady passes on to her own choice of a husband.

Last night was the first night of three performances, and the slow tempo which was a noticeable attribute will probably warm up considerbly to-night and to-morrow night. Unlike most amateur plays, which usually suffer from too rapid a presentation, at least as far as dialogue is concerned, this play was remarkably easy and mild in the manner of conversation.

The part of the heroine, Eden Gay, who is, in reality, Carlotta, a dancer in the New York Follies, was well taken care of in the hands of Miss Jessie Maconomy, who had a difficult role to fill.

Her favored suitor was Stephen Blair, very satisfactorily enacted by Oswald Price, while Milton Fowler was equally good in the part of the second suitor of the pretty heroine —Rex Curtis from New York.

Mrs. E. LeBarr got a great hand at every appearance, as Aunt Sara Gay, whose good heart and rather acid tongue favorably impressed and amused her audience.

James Price, Senior, had the role of Oscar Gay, splendidly taken, with just the right touch for the drink-loving, lazy father, whose poor health offered a good excuse for lack of energy in seeking work.

Miss Gertrude Smith gave a very refined, likeable presentation of Mrs. Blair, wife of the Rev. Mr. Blair, father of Stephen a part played sincerely by Harry Carter.

Miss Gwen Lucas was Jenny Gay, in a very fine presentation of the little, ingenuous, lame sister, and Jack Dobbin did splendidly as Jack Gay, a somewhat lazy youth with a genius for the violin.

Last, but certainly not least, in a part all too brief, because of the strength of the presentation, was Miss Gwen Dobbin, as Bunny Gay, appearing only in the last act, in a surprise role very capably filled.

To tell the plot would be to spoil the play for those who will see it to-night and to-morrow night. It deals with human interest and has romance and suspense and comedy interwoven in its strands, in a very entertainig three-act presentation.

One especially taking little scene is the one where Aunt Sara and Oscar and Jack sit in the garden and converse, the two men idle through preference and inclination, Aunt Sara busy with needlework and nodding her gray head in punctuation and reproof. It is a well-done bit.

The costuming is up to date and attractive and the staging is exceptionally well done, with a very realistic back drop and setting.

James Price, Senior directs; Miss Gwen Dobbin is stage manager; Homer Lundy is Master of Properties and Miss Jessie Maconomy is secretary-treasurer.

A tuneful orchestra, under direction of Reginald F. Dyer, plays during intermissions. Last night, melodious Southern Airs made a special number, heartily applauded.

Stage furnishings are from the Peterborough Floral Company, the Canadian Department Stores and A Comstock and Sons.

That Body of Yours

By Irvine W. Burton, M.D.

RICH PURE FOOD

As a boy I was always interested in the lecture given by the travelling medicine show.

The medicine was usually a remedy that would cure all manner of ailments.

I rather doubted the ability of any remedy to do this and yet as we think about it, the remedy was for the 'blood', and as the blood nourishes all the tissues and removes all the wastes from them, anything that helped the blood do its work, would be a disease remover and body builder.

However your blood will be just as rich as the food you eat can make it, and just as pure as the waste removing organs—kidneys, skin, intestine and lungs—can keep it.

What does good blood need?

Plenty of iron and plenty of lime particularly, although there are other necessary elements.

The foods rich in iron are beef, liver, oysters, wheat, eggs, and spinach.

The foods rich in lime, are milk, cheese, buttermilk, cauliflower, beans, oranges, spinach and figs.

But these good foods cannot do their work of building up the body properly if wastes are allowed to accumulate in the system. This means that the blood must be kept moving vigorously if it is to carry the food products to the cells and carry away the wastes that remain from the action of the cells.

And the ideal method of strengthening the circulation is by regular outdoor exercise. If you can't play any of the outdoor games, you can try to walk some everyday, or if this can't be arranged try to exercise beside an open window.

Bending exercises with knees straight are especially valuable as they squeeze the liver, and help it to remove poisonous wastes from the blood. Bending also helps to send wastes further down the large intestine thus preventing absorption of wastes into the blood from the large intestine.

Slow jogging (stationery running or skipping is perhaps the best exercise of all, as the muscles of the heart as the entire body is lifted off the ground with every step.

The thought then is that there are times of course when good blood remedies may be necessary but you can keep your blood rich by eating the foods mentioned above which contain iron and lime, and you can keep it pure by regular exercise. The oxygen of the air burns up wastes quickly when you exercise.

WARKWORTH Y.P. QUITS FOR SUMMER

Many Visitors Attend—Treasurer Shows Balance—Contests Held.

WARKWORTH, Apr. 26 (Examiner Correspondence)—The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Y.P.A. was held on Monday evening, when a large number from the congregation joined with the members for their closing meeting for the summer.

After the devotional exercises and a short business period Eric Merrells as co-convener of the social committee took charge. The program opened with a piano selection by Miss Blanche Baker. This was followed by community singing of old favorites.

Rev. Mr. Duncan gave a short address speaking in highest terms of the interest taken and the splendid programs put on by the different conveners throughout the year. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Rev. G. R. Duncan for the help he had rendered in these meetings. The treasurer's report was read which showed a good balance on hand. An interesting picture contest naming the different cities and towns in Ontario was a special feature of the evening's entertainment, after which Mrs. J. Armstrong and her assistants served a lunch.

Mr. Harry Nelson has charge of the Power Oil Filling Station which has recently been opened.

Miss Dorothy Richardson of Kingston is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. E. J. Richardson.

Mr. B. J. Garbutt of Drayton was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Garbutt.

Miss Janet Dick of Toronto is spending a week with her parents, Mr and Mrs. John Dick.

Mr. J. B. Thompson of Toronto is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thompson.

Dr. Arnold Henry of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Henry.

Handy Recipes

By Edith Barber

RHUBARB TARTS.

Line individual tins with pastry and fill with following mixture:

One cup rhubarb cut in small pieces 2 teaspoons melted butter; 1 egg; 1 cup sugar; ¼ teaspoon salt; 2 soda crackers rolled fine.

Beat egg until light, add remainder of ingredients and mix together. Arrange strips of pastry lattice fashion over the tarts and bake about twenty minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit).

INDIVIDUAL RHUBARB SHORTCAKE.

Three cups rhubarb; 1¼ cups sugar; shortcake dough.

Place rhubarb, cut into inch pieces, with sugar in top of double boiler and cook about half an hour over hot water until rhubarb is tender and syrup is thick. While rhubarb is cooking, mix and bake individual short cakes. Split shortcake and put the hot rhubarb between and on top.

BAKED RHUBARB WITH RAISINS.

One quart diced rhubarb; 1 cup or more sugar; 1 cup raisins.

Place rhubarb in alternate layers with sugar and raisins in baking dish. Cover and bake in moderate oven about half an hour until fruit is soft.

SCALLOPED SALMON.

Two cups (1 pound can) salmon; 2 tablespoons butter; 1 slice onion; 2 tablespoons flour; ½ teaspoon salt; pepper; 1 cup milk; 1 cup buttered crumbs.

Melt butter and cook onion in it until yellow. Remove onion, stir in flour and when blended add milk. Stir over fire until smooth and thick. Flake salmon and add to sauce. Pour in flat greased oven-proof dish, cover with crumbs and bake fifteen minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit).

SALMON SALAD.

Two cups salmon or tuna; 2 cups celery; mayonnaise; 1 tablespoon capers or 2 tablespoons minced pickles.

Flake the salmon, add the celery and capers, sprinkle with salt. When just ready to serve mix with the mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce. Hard-cooked eggs may be used as a garnish.

STRING BEANS WITH CELERY.

One can string beans; 1 stalk celery.

Open a can of string beans, pour into a sauce pan and boil rapidly until most of the liquor has evaporated. Have ready the celery, which has been cut into dice and cooked in a very little salted water until tender (about ten minutes). Combine celery and beans, add one-quarter cup cream and season with salt and pepper to taste.

PEAS WITH ONIONS.

Open a can of peas, pour into a saucepan and add two tablespoons minced onion (one small onion). Cook rapidly until ready to serve. Add two tablespoons of butter and salt and pepper to taste.

BAKED CORN.

One can corn; 4 eggs; 1½ teaspoons butter; 2 cups milk; 1 cup dry bread crumbs or cracker crumbs; ½ cup grated cheese; 1 teaspoons alt; ½ teaspoon paprika.

Drain the corn, melt the butter, beat the eggs. Combine with the seasonings. Add the milk and mix well. Add the grated cheese. Fill a baking dish half full, add one-half the bread crumbs. Fill the dish to within an inch of the top. Cover with the remaining crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until firm, thirty to forty minutes.

YOUNG WIFE

Confides In Neighbour

Life was sad for Helen Balfour. Marriage, after three months, had begun to lose its gay romance.

One day, as she was hanging out her clothes on the line, she summoned up her courage and tearfully told her troubles to Mrs. Trimble, her kind-eyed next-door neighbour. Mrs. Trimble listened to her story patiently. She had two married daughters of her own and understood. She talked to Helen and encouraged her with helpful suggestions for making her housework easier, and, greatest of all, straightened out Helen's biggest trouble—the weekly wash.

Learns Laundry Secret

"Now washing's not such a terrible task," explained Mrs. Trimble gently. "First, use a good soap. I'd advise you to use the brand I always buy—Pearl White Naptha. You'll find it a good practical laundry soap, Helen, and a lot more economical than most. Then, soap your clothes and put them to soak overnight in cold water. You will find that, as the water temperature rises to the heat of the room, more dirt is loosened than would be if the water were cooling. In the morning, rinse your clothes thoroughly in warm water and you'll never have any more trouble with your wash."

Thousands of women have learned this valuable laundry secret. Get the Pearl habit yourself. Pearl means efficient work in less time and at less cost. That's something to remember these days.

A jolly evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Wood of Bensfort, this week, when friends and neighbors, numbering over one hundred, gathered to extend a welcome to the bride, formerly Miss Jean Knowles of Keene. After an address voiced by the Rev. Mr. Swayne, the presentation was made of a handsome chesterfield table, two occasional chairs and a fern stand, accompanied by an address read by Mr. Clifford Emberson, while the other members of the Young Men's Class of Bensfort Church presented the gifts. Mr. Wood expressed the thanks of himself and his wife, in an appropriate acknowledgment of these and several other individual gifts received by the bride and bridegroom. A brief program followed, including selections by Mrs. Frank Morrison, Mrs. S. Robinson, Miss Poole, Mr. Russell, Roy Whittington, Gomer Robinson and Mr. Wood. After singing "For they are jolly good fellows" lunch was served by members of the Young Ladies' Class, supervised by Mrs. H. Howson. The balance of the evening was spent in dancing.

To celebrate the joint birthday anniversary of Mrs. T. R. Mann, one of the oldest residents of Smith township, who on Monday attained her eightieth birthday, and her grandson, Mr. Clarence Mann, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Mann of Smith, who was twenty-five years old on the same day, a happy gathering took place at Mrs. Mann's residence, "Lakeview Farm." Mrs. Mann and her grandson have celebrated their anniversaries together ever since the latter's birth. Eight of her children were present for the occasion: Mrs. A. McGregor, Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. A. I. Edmison and Mrs. Sadie Hammond, all of Smith township, and Mrs. Bert Manning of Peterborough, also her three sons: Mr. J. Gordon Mann, Mr. Joseph Mann and Mr. Fred Mann, all of Bridgenorth. Another daughter, Mrs. L. D. Palmer of Shedden, Ontario, was unable to be present. Her only living brother, Mr. T. T. Milburn of Smith, was a guest, also Mr. Clarence Mann's parents, his sister, Miss Margaret Mann of Smith, and his brother, Mr. J. Earl Mann of Detroit, Michigan. The hostess and her grandson received their guests in the living room, which was prettily arranged with snapdragon, carnations and pussy willow branches. In the dining room, the table was done very attractively with a large bouquet of pink carnations in a central bowl and the same lovely flowers in silver bud vases. The absent daughter, Mrs. Palmer, sent the flowers for this purpose. Tea was poured by Mrs. A. McGregor and Mrs. J. G. Mann. A very entertaining program consisted of piano duetts by Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. J. Earl Mann of Detroit, readings by Miss Phyllis Moore, and a vocal solo by Master John Lewis, great grandson of Mrs. Mann. The two celebrants of the day received a lovely bouquet of cut flowers from the Gilmour Memorial Baptist church, of which they are members. During the afternoon and evening, seventy-five guests called to pay their respects and offer congratulations, while many messages of friendship were received during the day. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Edmison, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Manning of Peterborough, Mrs. S. L. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mann, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis and son John, Mr. and Mrs. J. Earl Mann of Detroit, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Millburn, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Milburn and daughter May, Mrs. W. Garbut of Douro, Mrs. Lewis Fowler, Mrs. J. G. Jopling, Mrs. Dr. Petterson, Rev. and Mrs. Wright and son John-David, Mr. and Mrs. Gratten Telford, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Evans Storey of Emily; Mr. Robert Scott, Mrs. Sage, Misses Lilby and Hattie Milburn, Margaret Millburn, Mary Garbutt, Ethel Garbutt, Ruth Scott, Marion Storey, Lillian McGregor, Phyllis Moore, Gladys Blewett, Edna Manning, Eunice Hammond, Margaret Mann and Messrs Fred Mann, Walter Garbutt, Harry Blewett, Gordon McGregor, Cyril Scott, A. Carter, Ernest Scott, Jim Moore, Donald Moore.

Y.M.C.A. VITAL SOCIAL AGENCY

Provides an Outlet for Boys' and Young Men's Surplus Energy.

PAYS REAL DIVIDENDS.

Under the heading "Youth Leads the Criminal Parade" the Literary Digest of April 23rd comments on the youthfulness of those committed for crimes of violence both in United States and England. In the latter country two-fifths of all persons found guilty of crime are below the age of 21 and two-thirds below the age of 30.

The article continues "Must discipline and reform be turned over to the police, the home seems to have given up the job. The modern home does not lend itself to character training as did its ampler and simpler predecessor. With small houses and apartments and automatice or mechanical devices, many home activities have completely disappeared. Handiwork has been nreplaced almost completely by factory-made goods. Dozens of other occupations once considered inseparable parts of home life, have been supplanted by interests without. This unfortunate condition is, perhaps, one of the basic causes for the increase in juvenile delinquency. The many little duties, jobs and recreations that once centered in the home have vanished or moved elsewhere. With them have gone the home ties and precious chances to inculcate wholesome habits of obedience and industry. Until we find other ways to train boys, we are unlikely to see any major improvement in the lawlessness that came in the post-war decade."

The Y.M.C.A. does in a most practical way provide for boys and young men activities which are the outlet for the surplus energy of youth and which provide in themselves a most valuable training in itsg ymnasium and swimming pool, its encouragement of hobbies and handicraft as well as character building study groups.

Prevention of delinquency is the wisest and least costly policy. Peterborough's investment in the maintenance of the Y.M.C.A. will pay real dividends in human values.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Those housewives who are in the habit of entertaining at parties know that they should be gay.

• • • • • • •

In Europe there is an expression used which means the same thing. "The humor of the party is good" is said when merriment prevails.

• • • • • • •

The word humor is used in the dictionary sense of "characteristic mood, the disposition of the mind or feeling." Should this fail to be good the entertainment is not a success.

• • • • • • •

It is a success or a failure just in proportion to the balance of such humor. Often there are entertainers secured to keep the humor good.

• • • • • • •

They may be personal friends of the hostess who can be relied upon to suggest some new idea, or be able to turn the trend of thought away from the less happy atmosphere descending upon the group.

• • • • • • •

With these considerations in mind the idea of stressing unpleasant thoughts at parties, immediately is recognized as unwise. There entertainment begins with a bad handicap.

• • • • • • •

It has to be forced ahead of it by sheer effort on the part of the hostess. For instance, the notion of poverty and depression as associated with paiety is incongruous, yet in past years, notably during the Great War, poverty parties had a certain wavering vogue.

• • • • • • •

Why make one's guests cast even a passing thought to troubles at a time when the hostess wishes them to be gay?

• • • • • • •

In truth, one must admit poverty and depression are not the stuff of which pleasant dreams or happy parties are made of.

• • • • • • •

Instead of pressing the thought of gloom on a party; instead of dressing in old clothes patched and stained with work; instead of considering lack and bad times, all of which are negative, is it not better to think constructively, to plan good things for one's guests?

• • • • • • •

Because the word depression seems to be uppermost in the minds of many, a hostess is doing a kindly thing when she helps her friends to forget trouble and banish sadness.

DOROTHY PARKER WOULD TRADE REPUTATION FOR FAMILY OF KIDS

Admits There is Something Ridiculous About a Woman Who Writes.

ONLY FULL-LIFE MARRIAGE.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Dorothy Parker would rather have babies. Her reputation as a writer, her cynicism, her withering wit and biting sarcasm she would trade for a family of kids.

"There's something ridiculous about a woman who writes," she said. "The only full life for a woman is marriage and babies.... Really! A woman can bear physical pain, but she can't bear mental pain.

"Moreover—Woman's life must be wrapped up in a man, and the cleverest woman on earth is the biggest fool on earth with a man."

Even in writing, Mrs. Parker insists, a woman can only write to a man.

The answer to those who wonder and ask why she doesn't write more than she does, is that she hates to write.

Mrs. Parker started writing cynical verse during the process of her education in a New York convent—a process that terminated when she applied a witticism to a widely-believed legend.

She lost her first job as a dramatic critic because three theatrical producers complained about her on the same day.

Taking a cue from automobile license plates, Auckland, N.Z., will have dog license collars a different color each year.

HAVE DOMINIONS BEEN CONSULTED?

Irish Question Member Says is Matter for Commonwealth of Nations.

LONDON, April 28.—(C. P. Cable)—Arguing the question affected the whole British Commonwealth of Nations Geoffrey Le Mander, (Lib.) asked in the House of Commons this afternoon whether the government was consulting the Dominion governments in connection with the controversy between Great Britain and the Irish Free State over the intention of President De Valera to abolish the oath of allegiance and retain the land annuities.

Mr. Le Mander pointed out several Dominions had already been in communication with the Free State government.

J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominion Affairs, was non-committal. The present issue was solely a matter of interpretation of the Anglo-Irish agreement which one party had repudiated, he declared. He refused to allow himself to be drawn further.

Later Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council and acting Prime Minister, refused to allow a debate on the Irish question saying no useful purpose would be served by a parliamentary debate at this juncture.

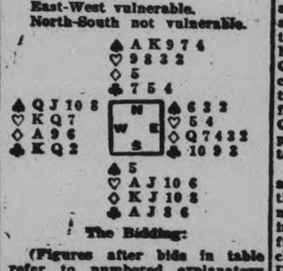
DECEPTIVE HONORS

When Longfellow wrote that things are not what they seem, he may have had in mind the manner in which the value of honor holdings is sometimes dissipated and tricks apparently certain to make fail to materialise at the Bridge table.

Mr. Samuel Ostrow of Erie, Pa., sent me the hand which I publish today, stating that he played it recently in a "family against family" game with Mrs. Ostrow as his partner. He sat South.

South—Dealer.
East-West vulnerable.
North-South not vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡	1NT(1)	3♡	Pass
4♡	Dbl.(2)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—West's hand is better suited to a bid of notrump than a Takeout Double. The hand contains 3-½ honor-tricks and is of even distribution. However, West's course at this time probably would not affect North and South's subsequent bidding.

2—West appears reasonably sure of a trick in clubs, the Ace of diamonds and 2 tricks in trumps. Perhaps a trick in spades may materialize. The Penalty Double, however, is questionable. Even if the contract is defeated 2 tricks, it merely increases East and West's honor count by 100 points.

West opened the Ace of diamonds and when Dummy dis closed a singleton in the suit shifted to the Queen of spades. This was a particularly undesirable lead from West's hand. The correct lead would have been the spade Queen. Dummy won this trick and the Declarer led the other high spade, discarding on it the club 6. A low spade was next led and the Declarer trumped and led the King of diamonds, upon which a club was discarded from Dummy. The Knave of diamonds was then led and trumped in Dummy and a club was led, which South won with the Ace. The Declarer next played the Ten of diamonds, West discarded his last spade and Dummy trumped. West was forced into the lead with a club and had no option but to continue this suit, Dummy trumping. A spade was led but all three hands were now void of anything but trumps. East played the 4 of hearts, South the Ten of hearts, and West won with the Queen but was compelled to concede the twelfth and thirteenth tricks to the Declarer. Although favorably situated the King, Queen of trumps guarded had produced but a single trick, due to the accuracy of South's play.

The opening of the club suit and its continuance instead of the diamond would have resulted no more favorably for the defending side. South would have refused to win the first lead of clubs and would have entered the Dummy with a spade and led the diamond, finessing the Ten spot and establishing the King, upon which to discard one of Dummy's losing clubs. Of course, if West continued the clubs, then South would have no more losers in that suit.

Question: How many tricks will 4 honor-tricks produce?

Answer: Eight honor-tricks will produce 5 low-card tricks. Consequently 4 honor-tricks will produce about 2-½ low-card tricks, or a total of either 6 or 7 tricks.

HAVE DOMINIONS BEEN CONSULTED?

Irish Question Member Says is Matter for Commonwealth of Nations.

LONDON, April 28.—(C. P. Cable)—Arguing the question affected the whole British Commonwealth of Nations Geoffrey Le Mander, (Lib.) asked in the House of Commons this afternoon whether the government was consulting the Dominion governments in connection with the controversy between Great Britain and the Irish Free State over the intention of President De Valera to abolish the oath of allegiance and retain the land annuities.

Mr. Le Mander pointed out several Dominions had already been in communication with the Free State government.

J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominion Affairs, was non-committal. The present issue was solely a matter of interpretation of the Anglo-Irish agreement which one party had repudiated, he declared. He refused to allow himself to be drawn further.

Later Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council and acting Prime Minister, refused to allow a debate on the Irish question saying no useful purpose would be served by a parliamentary debate at this juncture.

Some Dress Hints By Chanel, Worth

PARIS, April 28. A.P.)—Gowns that drape closely about the hips are being shown for evening wear this summer by both Chanel and Worth.

Chanel's evening skirts add fullness below the hip line, to end at instep length in an umbrella flare. Worth features very full evening skirts, with some uneven hems.

Among new summer materials, Worth employs embroidered linen for evening and also eyelet muslin, printed satin and striped chiffons. Striped chiffons are found in Chanel's collection, as well as striped organdies and colored pique.

Black is popular for evening, two outstanding costumes being Chanel's black organdie evening dress with uncurled ostrich boa and a black chiffon dinner dress with elbow puff sleeves. A silk net dinner dress trimmed with white Irish motives is shown by Worth.

The low backs for evening dresses are varied by Chanel with a diagonal line. Strap backs continue popular. Chanel shows no evening belts and uses some shirred trims. Fur trimmed boleros are featured at both houses.

Stripes appear in daytime wear as well as evening among patterns for both blouses and dresses.

PROBE CONDUCT OF INDIAN AGENT

Reserve Members Claim Official Unsympathet ic— Gives No Counsel.

MINISTER APPEALED TO.

OWEN SOUND, April 28 (C.P.).—Inspector of Indian Agencies, Thos. McGookin, of Ottawa, was at Cape Crocker Indian Reserve Wednesday morning to conduct an investigation into the conduct of Indian Agent Arthur C. Poste, who has held that position since 1929.

The Indian Council at a recent meeting, after passing a resolution expressing want of confidence in Poste, appointed a delegation to interview Hon. Thos. Murphy, Minister of the Interior, who ordered the investigation.

The Indians claim that Poste is unsympathetic toward them and he does not counsel or advise them. When complaint was made to the effect that Mrs. Bell, school teacher on the reserve, put soap in the mouths of the school children as a discipline measure, they say no action was taken by the agent.

Inspector McGookin promised to send in a full report.

CLEVELAND POET IS LOST AT SEA

Details of Death of Hart Crane While Aboard the Orizaba Lacking.

BODY NOT RECOVERED.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Verification of the fact that Hart Crane, Cleveland poet, had been lost at sea from the liner Orizaba was received by the Ward Line today, but details were still lacking.

First report of the poet's death was received by his uncle in Cleveland last night from a passenger on the Orizaba. The line immediately wirelessed for confirmation and late last night received the following message from the ship, which was made public today:

Hart Crane went overboard at noon today. Body not recovered.

RUMOR CLEVELAND POET LOST FROM SHIP AT SEA

CLEVELAND, April 28.—Confirmation of a wireless message saying Hart Crane, widely-known Cleveland poet, had been lost at sea, was sought today by his relatives.

The message, lacking details, was received last night by N. B. Madden, an uncle, from a passenger on the Steamer Orizaba, on which Crane was gound from Vera Cruz to New York.

The poet, who won a Guggenheim Foundation prize last year, sailed from Vera Cruz Saturday after spending nearly a year in Mexico.

Officials of the Ward line wirelessed the captain of the Orizaba for verification, but a reply was not immediately received. The ship is due at New York, Friday.

Francis A. Burdett, The Blind Builder, Dies At Age Of 68 In The Home He Built

WAYNE, N.J., April 28 (C.P.). — Francis A. Burdett, known internationally as "the blind builder," is dead here at the age of 68 in the home he built with his own hands after becoming totally blind.

He was stricken with blindness at the age of 50 after a prosperous career as a jeweller in Providence, R.I. An automobile accident and eyestrain caused the loss of his sight, and he came to Wayne to reside near his son.

He began his two and a half storey house on the Newark-Pompton Turnpike when he was 57, and, refusing to be daunted by his disability, did all the work himself. Thousands have stopped there each year since its completion to marvel at the accurate craftsmanship of a sightless man.

He was born in Birmingham, England, but came to the United States with his parents when he was two years old.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION NEWS

KING EDWARD SCHOOL.

King Edward Home and School Association was well represented last evening when a very interesting and educational program marked their April meeting.

A short devotional service opened the meeting at which the president, Mrs. H. Turner, presided, assisted at the table by the secretary, Mrs. S. Gillespie.

Letters of appreciation and cards of acknowledgment were read and after the routine business of the evening the meeting adjourned to the Assembly Hall and enjoyed the splendid program of vocal and instrumental music, sketching by Mr. McKinley and the very interesting and enlightening address on Ovaltine delivered by Mr. Shaw, manager of the local plant.

The history of Ovaltine from its discovery in Switzerland and its scientific development to its present perfect qualities was told with absorbing interest, making the new Ovaltine plant in Peterborough have a real meaning to both parents and children represented in King Edward Home and School.

The mouth organ selections by Harold and Ashton Fife were very much enjoyed as were the group of vocal solos contributed by Mr. McKinley, with accompaniment by Miss C. Milby and Mr. Shaw.

Miss Eleanor Shaw also delighted all with her piano solo.

The guitar duet by Mesdames Turner and J. Moynes met with the usual applause given these ladies.

Very pleasing vocal solos; "The Little Grey Home in the West" and "The Second Minuet" were sung by Miss Barrie, with fine effect, accompanied by Mrs. Corby at the piano.

The clever cartooning by S. McKinley was one of the high lights of the program and enjoyed by everyone.

Mrs. Henry Turner, the president, who was delatge to the Ontario Federation of Home and School convention brought to this session a very comprehensive and interesting report, speaking of the great privilege and inspiration such conventions afford the delegates.

Much appreciated too, were the charming vocal solo by Mrs. Bert Cutmore, accompanied by Ashton Fife and the piano solo by Mr. Shaw. Mr. Shaw and his daughter, Miss Eleanora, again delighted the audience with their piano duet.

A very pleasing feature was the social half hour, when the committee in charge served delicious refreshments. They were assisted in this by Mr. Shaw, who provided a generous supply of Ovaltine, and to the Sunshine Dairy for the milk and cream.

The meeting was voted one of the best during the term.

JUNIOR LEAGUE AT BELLEVILLE

Five Teams to Enter Prince Edward-Hastings County Loop.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

BELLEVILLE, April 28.—Junior baseball is on the upgrade in this district, the Prince Edward-Hasting loop meeting was held to lay plans for the coming season, with five teams signifying their intention of entering the competition. The Treasurer's report showed a substantial balance on hand, and it was decided to leave the membership fee at $5, the same as last year. Junior Moose, Belleville Athletic Association, Point Anne and Wellington were represented at the meeting, with Picton giving notice they would have a team.

A double schedule was decided upon, with the second and third place teams playing a sudden-death game to meet the first place team in a home-and-home series for the championship. Robert Redner, efficient President of the loop last year, will again hold the reins of office, with Vern Weir of this city as Vice-President and Gordon Delaney, also of Belleville, as Secretary-Treasurer. The local teams, B. A.A.A. and Junior Moose, will play most of their games at the conclusion of the senior games.

HOOVER'S DELEGATE LIST PASSES NUMBER REQUIRED

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Hardly noticed in the flurry attending developments in the Democratic race for the United States' Presidential nomination, President Hoover's list of delegates to-day had passed the number required for his renomination.

As certain as all that had been his selection as the choice of the Republican National Convention six weeks hence. Kentucky's 25 votes did the trick when they were added yesterday to his previous pledged and claimed total of 575, which was just three less than required to nominate.

GARNET WHEAT ROUSES DEBATE

Inferiority Compared With Reward or Marquis Argues Against Separate Grade.

SUGGEST ELIMINATION.

OTTAWA, April 28.—(C.P.)—The inferiority of Garnet wheat as compared with Marquis or Reward, has been advertised among the millers throughout the world, Major H. G. L. Strange, Director of the Research Department of the Searle Grain Company, told the House Committee on Agriculture today. But the reputation of Canadian wheat as a whole remained high throughout wheat buying countries. It was questionable then if this reputation might not be injured if a new grade were put on the market. The Garnet would certainly bring a lower price, he said.

Many of the millers had found little difficulty in mixing Garnet wheat with other varieties while one had expressed the opinion that a 50-50 mixture of Garnet and Reward made a superior product.

A study of opinion among the European buyers has indicated a general belief that Canada already had enough grades and that it would be a mistake to grade Garnet separately.

Loss To Farmers

If Garnet had been graded separately, Major Strange expressed the opinion that Alberta and Saskatchewan would have lost large amounts on their crops this year. The two provinces grew an estimated total of 29 per cent Garnet, or about 80,000 bushels. Based on a total of only 60,000,000 bushels of Garnet, Major Strange figured that if it had been graded separately it would have meant a decrease of $4,000,000 in the money taken by the farmers this year.

Major Strange threw out the suggestion that Garnet might be degraded one grade per year until it was eliminated, and said he had discussed this scheme with many farmers. None had opposed the suggestion.

Garnet had become popular because it filled a demand for a safer proposition for the farmer on account of its early maturing qualities. There was no onther similar brand when it was introduced. In the meantime new improved varieties had been perfected such as Reward. It was quite possible that these new varieties might replace Garnet and the problem would eventually right itself without any interference in the grading.

Freighter Aground In The St. Lawrence

QUEBEC, April 28 (C.P.). — The French freighter Aurillac, which went aground yesterday below Montreal, was still ashore to-day, according to advices received by the Signal Service Agency. It was reported that part of the wheat cargo aboard the ship is being discharged in an effort to lighten the vessel for the attempt that will be made to refloat her to-night. The Aurillac grounded during a snow-flurry and hazy weather, and is said to be lying on a muddy bottom.

OUTFIELD PROBLEM FACES LEAF PILOT

Sax May Be Shifted to Centrefield Berth—Cantrell to Hurl Opener.

READING, Penn., April 28.—Ollie Sax may crash into centrefield in the Toronto Leafs' lineup. This, Manager Tom Daly admitted today while discussing the potential makeup of his team after three days of idleness due to bad weather. The Toronto outfield is in an unsettled state, according to the new pilot of the Leafs, and may not be determined permanently for some time. Daly is quite satisfied with Frank Doljack in left field, and Hubble Walker in right, after abandoning all hopes of converting the latter into a third-sacker, but is not so content regarding the centrefield berth.

"Tommy Hughes was hitting the ball very well for us," declared Daly today, but his fielding was not so good. "I may play Ollie Sax in that position unless Art McHenry should start hitting left-handed pitchers. Sax can play the outfield. In the series with Reading, it will be Hughes, McHenry or Sax in centrefield, but have your own pick."

Although he is nursing a bad cold, Guy Cantrell, fireball artist, will go to the post for the Leafs in the deferred opening of the series with the Reading Keys this afternoon, according to Manager Daly. Cantrell has not been at his best this spring, but attributes his late start to bad weather and insufficient work. The Keys, while always troublesome with the stick, have always been rather consistent victims for Cantrell's speed pitching in recent years. Last season, they gained only one decision over Guy, while losing five games.

POLICE HUNT SUSPECT SOUGHT OVER THREE YEARS IN CANADA

Schnabel, Wanted on Charge of Wife Murder, Reported in Montreal.

COVERED HIS TRACKS.

MONTREAL, April 28.—George C. Schnabel, sought by police all over the continent since December 5, 1928, for the murder of his wife, Florence, whom he is accused of slaying here and throwing into an abandoned canal at Cornwall, Ont., was reported to have been seen in Montreal last week. This information was supplied to the local police from a reliable source and emanates from persons who knew Schnabel well.

The information contained an address where it was said Schnabel could be located. As soon as it was received three detectives were detailed. They are combing the city for Schnabel and all exits from the island are being guarded.

Schnabel was manager of a local industrial plant. In the summer of 1928 Mrs. Schnabel's brother, who lives in Philadelphia, anxious at not having heard from his sister for some time, came to Montreal to see if anything was the matter. Meeting his brother-in-law, Schnabel, he was told that Mrs. Schnabel was passing some time with friends in Cornwall, Ont.

Made False Statement

Dissatisfied with this explanation, Mrs. Schnabel's brother brought Schnabel to local police headquarters to Captain O'Donnell, who questioned the latter. At the end of this questioning the officer asked Mrs. Schnabel's brother what he wished him to do, and since there was no evidence on which to lay a charge against Schnabel he was allowed to go.

Schnabel returned to his Oxford Ave. home, while Detective McCoy was sent to Cornwall to see if Mrs. Schnabel was there. McCoy returned to Montreal with proof that Schnabel had made a false statement to his brother-in-law and he was put under suspicion. Watch was set about the Oxford Ave. home.

Despite this vigilance on September 4 Schnabel succeeded in escaping from the house with his two children, whom he put on a train at Montreal West and told them they would meet their mother at Cornwall.

When police found this out a warrant was immediately taken out for Schnabel's arrest.

Startling Evidence.

Detectives, however, had in the meantime unearthed evidence of such a startling nature that Dr. W. Derome, medico-legal expert, and Detective McCoy visited Cornwall for the purpose of exhuming the body of an unidentified woman who had been buried there in July, whose body had been found in an abandoned canal. At the exhumation this body was positively identified as that of Mrs. Schnabel by a dentist who had done work on her teeth. The Schnabel children, who by this time were with relatives in Hamilton, also identified the body as their mother's by the clothes she wore.

The body was brought here, an inquest held and Schnabel named as the slayer. A continent-wide man-hunt started for him, descriptions were broadcast over the radio, but so successfully had he managed to cover up his tracks that no news of him has been heard since until now.

DEVIL'S LOTTERY

The Calcutta Sweepstakes forms the basis for the title of this picture, which stars the glamorous Elissa Landi, with a strong supporting cast in Alexander Kirkland, Paul Cavanagh, Victor McLaglen and Beryl Mercer.

McLaglen is somewhat like Wallace Beery, in the way in which he seems to dominate a picture. He has a small role in this story, but he puts it over with that strong touch that makes him an outstanding actor.

Lord Litchfield, a patron of the turf, decided to invite to Portlock Castle, his country place, the four winners of the major awards in the Calcutta Sweepstakes. They are Evelyn Beresford, a beauty with an unsavory reputation; Mrs. Meech, a little middle-class Englishwoman with a prize-fighter for a son; Captain Maitland, a crippled war hero, and Stephen Alden, a young American.

Mrs. Beresford (Elissa Landi) has a rascally husband who has been cashiered for cheating at cards. Paul Cavanagh does his stuff in this role, in his usual masterly style in an unlikeable characterization.

Victor McLaglen is the huge son of the little Englishwoman, Mrs. Meech (Beryl Mercer).

The story, set in the romantic locale of an English country house, includes several romantic episodes of conventional type, a murder and a ghost.

Mrs. Beresford charms every man in sight, except for some reason, the prize-fighting Mr. Meech, and sails triumphantly through the production, which is very entertaining.

It has one very good minor actor, in the person of the little valet with the turned-up nose, who profits by the Sweepstakes in peculiar fashion.—Jeanette.

Gokey of the same address, driver of the car and mother of the dead girl, was critically injured.

Calgary To Extend Relief For Ten Days

CALGARY, April 28.—Relief to single unemployed men and women in Calgary, due to end May 1, will be extended until May 10.

This decision was made by the city council at a special meeting last night and followed the suggestion made by Premier J. E. Brownlee to Mayor Andy Davidson of Calgary and Mayor D. K. Knott of Edmonton at a conference in the Alberta capital when unemployment was discussed.

Between now and May 10, it is expected the federal government's future policy on unemployment will be announced. Once the federal government's plan is disclosed, the provincial government and municipalities will act as they deem necessary.

Blast Is Too Late To Wreck Fast Train

NELSON, B. C. April 28.—(CP)—An attempt to wreck an east-bound Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train from Vancouver at Thrums, about 16 miles west of Nelson, was made late last night when a high explosive shattered the switch at a passing track in that vicinity. The train had just passed over the switch when the explosion occurred. No one was injured.

The switch was a total wreck but no great damage was done to the track and traffic was not interrupted. The blast shattered the switch timbers and split in two the heavy base casting.

British Columbia and railroad police immediately started an investigation into the outrage.

Publisher And Actor Dies In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, April 28. (C.P.) The death of James D. MacDougall, 58, publisher, poet and movie actor, Friday night has just become publicly known.

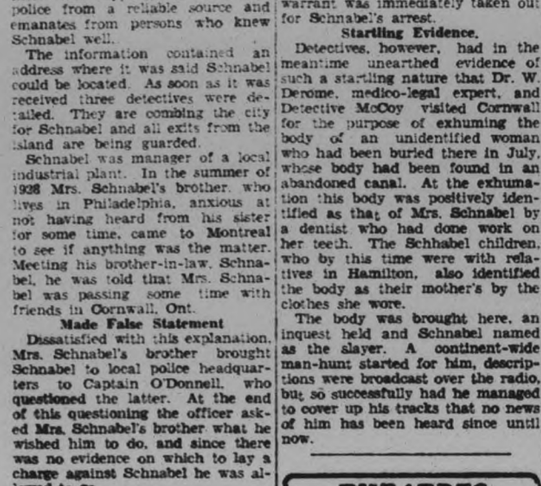
Born in Glasgow, MacDougall had lived in Canada and United States since he was a boy. He was editor and publisher of the Heather and Tartan, only publication west of the Rockey Mountains issued in the interests of Scottish organizations.

His clever Scottish dialect made him a popular figure at the Hollywood movie studios. One of his best roles was with Will Rogers in "So This Is London."

Before coming here, he was publisher of the Vanderhoof Times and Endako Star of Vancouver.

Sir Frederick Hall Is Taken By Death

LONDON, April 28.— (C. P. Cable.)— Another vacancy in the House of Commons was created today by the death of Sir Frederick Hall, Conservative member for Dulwich, Camberwell, since 1911. Sir Frederick, who was a member of Lloyd's and the Baltic and chairman and managing director of the Mercantile Marine Finance Corporation, and a former member of the London County Council, was re-elected in the last general elections by an overwhelming majority, the vote being: Sir Frederick Hall, Cons., 21,752; P. Hughes, Labor, 4,747; C. R. Cooke-Taylor, Liberal, 3,924.



Have You, The "Can't Afford It" Habit ?

THE use of that phrase does not suggest the inability to buy so much as the desire to practice rigid economy . . . to save . . . to deny yourself needed and necessary commodities.

But Man, oh Man, and you, too, Madam, how better and more effectively can you practice economy and thrift than to buy when prices are at their lowest ebb in years? How more certainly can you insure economy than to replace worn or out-of-date furniture than when new is selling for one-third of what it sold for 15 years ago? Or to stock up on food products when they are 40% less than at any time since the war? Or clothing when $53 to-day will buy you what you paid $100 for in 1912?

What you really cannot afford to do is not buy because you cannot afford to miss to-day's low levels . . . prices that are an actual boon to reduced incomes . . . to the practice of sensible, far-sighted economy.

Central Ontario Bowlers Review Prospects

DISTRICT LAWN BOWLERS ELECT DR. DALEY, PORT HOPE, PRESIDENT IN SUCCESSION TO MARK BREDIN

Eight Clubs of Central Ontario Prepare for Second Season.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Group Organized Last Year Reviews Initial Success.

On the solid foundation of last summer's highly successful operations, the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association held their second annual meeting here last night at the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club. The 1932 administrative officers were elected as follows:

Hon. Pres.—H. B. Rosevear, Port Hope.

President—Dr. James T. Daley, Port Hope.

Vice-president—Capt. Hugh McCullough, Cobourg.

Secretary-treasurer—Harold Battey, Port Hope.

Executive—E. A. Hircock, Cobourg; W. J. Oke, Port Hope; Dr. H. G. Carleton, Norwood; James Mackay, Lindsay; G. E. Karley, Brighton; George Woodley, Belleville; K. J. Whitty, Stirling; and Harold Freeman, Peterborough.

Mark Bredin of Peterborough, the retiring president, was chairman, and after welcoming the delegates from the district bowling clubs, he briefly reviewed the new Association's progress and results. Mr. Bredin said that the response to the call for last night's meeting was a convincing evidence of the satisfaction which the new Association had left throughout the district, and was an earnest for another season's tournaments without any clashing of dates.

J. W. Mayneord of Peterborough, the 1931 secretary-treasurer, reported a cash surplus of $21.27.

The 1932 Membership

The membership of clubs for the approaching summer definitely includes Cobourg, Lindsay, Port Hope, Belleville, Norwood, Brighton and Peterborough, with fairly strong assurance that Stirling will be in the fold.

The Oshawa and Cannington clubs will not be affiliated this year, but Belleville has come into the Association, and other prospects are Campbellford, Tweed, Madoc and Hastings. It was stated that both Port Perry and Bowmanville are at present classed in the doubtful list, but both may renew their membership.

J. D. Fitzpatrick stated that he had been in conversation with Walter Wiggins of Campbellford, who had expressed the opinion that the Trent club might decide to line up with the Central Ontario group. The Campbellford club was looking forward to a more active season than last.

May Extend Executive.

If any of the Clubs that are not represented on the executive determine to throw in their lot with the Central Ontario Association, it was provided that their presidents shall be members of the central executive. This applies to Bowmanville, Port Perry, Tweed, Campbellford, Madoc, Hastings and any other clubs in the district.

The membership fee remains at five dollars for each constituent Club.

As a convenient guide and reminder for the district bowlers it was decided to have printed a large card showing the schedule of tournaments, with dates, hours of starting, and other information, and that two cards be sent to each Club to be displayed in their quarters. One card will also be sent to all the other bowling clubs in Central Ontario from Toronto to Kingston, and any of their rink or doubles entries will be welcomed at the district tournaments.

A special effort will be made this year to give the smaller clubs every assistance. Jack Fitzpatrick recommended that for their open tournaments these clubs might send out invitations specifying the number of rinks they could accomodate from each outside club, and that al lthe competing entries should be on time.

Promotes Bowling.

The Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association was organized a year ago for the specific purpose of enabling the district clubs to avoid conflict of open tournament dates. By that harmony of arrangement the clubs have every opportunity of participating in each others' games, and thereby expanding the sport and its enjoyment throughout the district membership. This was agreeably accomplished last year, and the executive immediately began last night the listing of the tournament dates for the new season.

Colombia has just ruled that an identification card must be presented to postal authorities to obtain register, insured or parcel-post mail and money orders.

Bowling Marathon To Be Staged Here

Something unique in Peterborough's bowling history is being inaugurated next week at the Duffus Bowling Alleys. A 5-Pin Marathon Bowling Contest will be run off by one hundred local bowlers, the rules calling for each bowler to play ten straight games in one evening. Money prizes totalling fifty-five dollars are put up.

The contest will start Tuesday evening and run the rest of the week, with three main prizes going for the three having the highest pinnage, first, second and third. For the most consistent bowling in ten games, a three-dollar prize is offered. A blind score representing the total for ten games wins two dollars. Bowlers may play alone or in groups. One hundred per cent. of the entry fee will be returned in prizes, in addition to the other two mentioned above. Each bowler will pay $1.50 for the right to bowl the ten straight games and try for the prizes.

Marathon bowling has never been tried here but has proven very popular in New York and other eastern states. Ten games in a row will mean about one hour of steady bowling, and this should appeal to the outstanding pin-spillers of the city. To those who were sounded out on the plan to introduce the contest here, it met with strong approval. Those desiring entrance, up to one hundred in number, should enter their names this week with Bert Duffus.

Pair Of Peppers With Cards

Meet Raymond Pepper and Pepper Martin, who expect to make things hot for their National League rivals and thereby uphold the Pepper tradition. Pepper Martin will be remembered as the hero of the late World's Series between the St. Louis Cards and the Philadelphia Athletics, all but winning by himself the championships for the Cards. Raymond Martin is the heavy slugging outfielder of the Rochester Club of the International League, who came to the Cards this season. They are here shown as the season opened in St. Louis.

MOUND WORK IS JERSEY CITY CLUB'S WEAKEST DEPARTMENT

Several Brooklyn Farm Hands Will Be Sent to Club Once Merger Completed.

FOUR GAMES POSTPONED.

(By The Associated Press)

A return of the hot stove season to the International League has given the boys a chance to do some deep figuring about what effect the prospective sale of the Jersey City Skeeters to the Brooklyn Dodgers will have on the league pennant.

The sale of the Skeets, which has not yet been completed but which is expected at any moment, furnished one of the principal topics of interest, yesterday when all four scheduled games in the circuit were postponed because of cold weather. Negotiations have been going on for some time between Brooklyn and Jersey City but the most recent report was that a few details still remained to be ironed out before the transaction could be formally announced.

Sent Reinforcements

The dope going around the circuit is that as soon as the Skeeters change hands a flock of Brooklyn farm hands will be sent across and the result may be that a third farm club will be up there disputing honors with Rochester and Newark, which have made great progress with players sent out by the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees.

Among the players listed to be farmed out are Earl Mattingly, Phil Gallivan and Arthur Jones, who helped pitch Hartford to the Eastern league championship last year and who would be very helpful to the wobbly Jersey mound staff. Al Cohen, outfielder and Bobby Reis and Jack Warner, infielders. Most of the Jersey players who belong tothe New York Giants are expected to stay with the club.

Pitching is Weak

So far pitching has been Jersey City's greatest difficulty. In the 12 games which have left the Skeets tied with Reading for fifth place, 32 pitchers have worked, an average of close to three a game, and among them they have allowed 10.5 hits and slightly over seven runs a game. The Jerseys have done fairly well at bat, scoring an average of 6.5 runs a game, and the addition of three reliable pitchers looks like enough to make them a good team.

In addition to starting a lot of talk, yesterday's cold weather erased the opening game of the crucial series between Newark and Buffalo, now tied for first place. Weather permitting, they will start to-day and play three games of the series. Other games on the schedule are Rochester-Baltimore, Toronto-Reading and Montreal-Jersey City.

CHICAGO SOX DROP TIGERS TO 2ND PLACE

Windy City Club Takes 4-3 Win From Detroit Despite Six Errors.

FERRELL COPS FOURTH.

Hornsbymen Ring Up 5th Straight Victory at Phillies' Expense by 8-4 Count.

(By Gayle Talbot, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

For a team shot with injury and illness, the Chicago Cubs have managed thus far to get around surprisingly well in the National League.

They stood at the head of the class to-day, a half-game ahead of the Boston Braves, and they have made their upward surge despite the fact three of their greatest stars, Hazen Cuyler, Elwood English and Burleigh Grimes have been out of the line-up.

Even with Grimes, world series hero, too ill to start in the opening weeks, the Cubs have received the steadiest pitching in the league. Eight of 12 pitchers have gone the route.

Lance Richbourg, obtained from Boston, has been filling Cuyler's outfield spot in fine style, and Bill Jurges has done so well at shortstop English will have a hard time jarring him loose.

Fifth Straight Win

Each knocked across two runs as the Hornsbymen rang up their fifth straight win yesterday at Pittsburg's expense, 8 to 4. Pat Malone had a bad first inning, in which the Pirates banged him for four hits and as many runs, but he settled down to allow them only one blow the last eight frames. He and Richbourg each hit a home run.

As the Boston Braves were held indoors by cold weather, the victory put the Cubs in front.

The one other National League tilt saw the Cincinnati Reds, battling to keep away from their old basement berth, slug out a 6 to 4 win over the Cardinals. George Grantham hit four singles and Babe Herman came through with two singles and a double to lead the assault on Sylvester Johnson.

Yankees Gain Lead

The American League leadership also changed hands, the Yankees squeezing ahead by the process of remaining idle while the Detroit Tigers dropped a 4 to 3 decision to Chicago. The White Sox committed six errors, three of which figured in the Detroit scoring, but Sam Jones managed to keep ahead until the ninth inning. Then, when the Tigers threatened, his old Washington mate, Bumps Hadley, went to the rescue and struck out two men to end the game with the bases loaded.

Wes Ferrell limited St. Louis to five hits in registering his fourth straight victory, 7 to 1. Earl Averill led the Cleveland assault on Stewart with a home run and a double.

The cold wave that has curtailed the major league program this week held on at New York and Philadelphia. Walter Johnson, between snow flurries at New York, predicted his Washington Senators would win the flag.

George Grantham, Reds— Hit four singles and scored twice to help capsize the Cardinals 6 to 4.

SOFTBALL TROPHY NOW ON DISPLAY

Cavendish Cup Presented for Lakefield District Competition in 191.

LAKEFIELD, April 28 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Cavendish Lumber Company's handsome silver baseball trophy is on display in the window of The News office and is one of the handsomest ever offered in Lakefield. This trophy was presented by the late W. D. Lummis, president of the Cavendish Lumber Company, in 1911 for local competition to stimulate interest in baseball. The local baseball league will be remembered by the older fans as belonging to the "days of real sport." The High School team won the cup in the last year it was competed for, and it was held by them ever since. The cup will be the trophy for the local Softball League, and as it was rather stained and dark Mr. George Stenner volunteered to clean it and now it is restored to its pristine beauty and is a daily reminder to the boys of the coming season's schedule.

The High School will probably enter a team to win it back for at least one more year. The more teams, the merrier the league.

Badminton Club Closes

The Lakefield Badminton Club is concluding their season's play with a dance, which promises to be one of the jolliest social events of the season. The dance will be held on May 9th (Friday) in Melody Inn with a very fine program of dance music and some decided novelties. The club has made a great success of the social evenings which have been held monthly during the season, and this will really be a social evening on a much more ambitious scale. Enthusiastic committees are at work on the details of the dance and plan to make it the best ever held by the club.

RINK MADE READY FOR BOX LACROSSE

Practises Will Likely Be Held Next Week—Tto Stage Wrestling Shows.

The Brock street rink has been turned into a summer arena for box lacrosse, with a new dirt floor, wire netting, improved lighting, reshingling of the roof and other work being done. It will be completed by the end of this week, with box lacrosse practises being held there next week.

Eight men have been working two weeks getting the place in shape for the new summer sport. About one hundred loads of dirt from Joe Firth's East City pit have been dumped over the wood and sawdust floor, being graded and rolled to result in a hard, though springy, dirt floor four inches in depth. F. Barrett has strung up wire netting all around the sides some four or five feet above the rail to protect the spectators from wild balls. More electric lights will be installed this week.

One side of the roof is being completely re-shingled but the other side is in good condition. The work at the Brock is under the direction of Mr. Harold LaPlante who said that not only lacrosse, but boxing and wrestling shows would be staged there through the summer. Approximately one thousand dollars will be spent in fixing up the arena, to have it suitable for these summer sports.

The pores of your skin are like a net. They catch and hold dirt, bringing blackheads and skin eruptions.

If you think soap and water alone will remove pore-dirt, try this:

After washing and shaving rub Pompeian Massage Cream into you skin—around the nostrils—in the crease of your chin. Pink when you start, it soon rolls out in tiny pellets—dark grey with dirt.

Result: A clean skin—clearly lighter—the healthy skin of the athlete in the pink of condition.

CASUAL COMMENT

Anyone interested in the City Baseball League should drop into the Duffus Board Room at 7.30 this evening where the annual meeting is being held. There should be a good representation on hand to elect the best possible officers for this loop. The senior ball club will sort of "father" the minor one this summer.

• • • • • • •

Tomorrow night at 6.30 up at the Court House, the Church Softball League holds forth in the Public School Inspectors' office, reorganizing for the year. They hope to have another strong league going this year, and entries will be made at this time, as well as the election of officers, and other business.

• • • • • • •

At the O.B.A.A. meeting in Toronto recently, Peterborough was entered in four classes: bantam, juvenile, junior and senior. No mention is made of the intermediate class. Perhaps, the East Peterborough League neglected this until after their re-organization meeting, which will be Saturday night at eight in Duffus'.

• • • • • • •

With a fine dirt floor being just about ready at the Brook now, the four City Lacrosse League teams will be getting lined up and holding workouts within a week. The outfits are Brintons, C.G.E., Ashburnhams and a northend squad. The best players will be split up among them, but will represent Peterborough in the O.A.L.A. group.

• • • • • • •

Inter-Alley Bowling League results for the other night are: Group 1, "Y" 2 points, Duffus and Knights 1 each; Group 2, Knights 3 points, Duffus 1; Group 3, Duffus all 4 points. Play-offs, which will likely be three games at the three local alleys on one night, total pinnage counting, will be run off some night next week. Leaders are Duffus No. 1, Knights No. 2 and Duffus No. 3.

• • • • • • •

Here's one for the books: In Group 1 games Tuesday at the Duffus Alleys, the Duffus team lost all three games but had a higher pinnage total than either Knights or "Y". Sounds funny, but here's the scores for the three games:—

Duffus	Knights	"Y"
1159	1130	1165
1189	914	1210

• • • • • • •

The marathon bowling competition to start at Duffus' next Tuesday is something new and may prove popular. The bowler has to roll ten games in a row one evening, money prizes being given the fellow dumping the most pins, second and third. And the most consistent bowler wins a prize too, that is the one who has the least changeable scores in all ten games. It's not as strenuous as marathon dancing, but a guy is liable to do a bit of perspiring along about the eighth or ninth game.

• • • • • • •

The Central Ontario lawn bowlers held a successful pow-wow here last night with Dr. James Daley of Port Hope being elected president. Harold Freeman, of this town, is on the executive. Eight places had representatives on hand, and six other towns and villages will likely have entries in when the schedule is drawn up.

On Friday night, Central plays at King Edward to open the Public School Baseball League. Curtains were due to go up with a double-header yesterday, but the managers wisely decided to call them off for a while because of the cold weather. Next week, the kids go right to it with six games listed.

The rockers and jabbers will perform at the Legion Hall tomorrow night under the auspices of the War Veterans, with the Alpha Club staging the fight show. It sounds like a pretty fair card for devotees of the tin-ear game, with five good Toronto pugs doing their stuff, in addition to the local "simon pures" and a grappling match.

• • • • • • •

This being the in-between season for sports, the boxers are holding the centre of the stage, and they've put on some fine bouts here lately. Fight fans want action thrown at them in large chunks, and they don't mind kicking when they don't get it. But the last couple of shows at the Legion Hall left nothing to be desired that way, and to-morrow night's card should be at least as good.

CANUCK ATHLETES AT PHILADELPHIA

Hamilton Track Stars Defending Two Titles Won Last Year.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28. (CP) Composing the largest list of entries the event has ever known, 421 athletes from colleges in many parts of the country to-day awaited starters' signals at the annual relay carnival of the University of Pennsylvania.

The first arrivals in Philadelphia were the tracks and field stars of Hamilton Collegiate Institute from Hamilton, Ont. A short while later an aeroplane brought a load of athletes representing the University of Florida from Jacksonville to the Camden airport.

The Canadians, coached by Capt. Cornelius, track tutor of the 1924 and 1928 Canadian Olympic teams, are here in defence of two titles they won last year—the two mile and the interscholastic medley. They went through a brisk workout on Franklin field where the carnival will hold forth to-day and to-morrow.

Capt. Cornelius, somewhat doubtful of the ability of his two-mile team to retain the crown, expressed optimism over the prospects of the relay team. "It is one of the best I have ever coached," he said. Fred Shaver, one of the best half milers in Canadian scholastic ranks, ran a half mile last week in 1.56—the fastest a Dominion schoolboy has done in a long time.

Other members of the relay team are Ed Burrow, N. Downes and Earl Moore. The two milers are M. McGillivray, Moore, Downes and Shaver.

PEDEN-FIELDING REPRESENT LEAFS

Preparations Rapidly Going Ahead for Six-day Bike Race at Toronto.

TORONTO, April 28. (C.P.)—For the first time in many a year, Toronto is to have a six-day bicycle race. Shortly after mid-night Sunday, ten teams will start the long, weary grind at the end of which will be a pot of shekels for the winner. From early Monday until the following Saturday, the riders will race around the 12-lap-to-the-mile track, with five series of sprints each 24 hours.

Willie Spencer, promoter, has lined up a large number of carpenters awaiting the zero hour to-night. Shortly after the Deglane-Maleiewicz wrestling match, hammering will resound through the arena, as the hammers swing into action. They are to lay 26 miles of British Columbia fir in readiness for the race.

The track is to be two laps shorter than the usual distance, and the country's most noted riders will do their pedalling on the speedway.

The teams are:

Dorothy Peden and Ref Fielding, representing Toronto Maple Leafs; Alfred Letournier and Henri Lepage, representing Les Canadiens, Montreal; Reggie McNamara and Al Crossley, a United States team; Polly Parrott, Winnipeg and Pierre Gachon, Montreal; Bernhardt Stubecke and Tony Schaller, Germany; Foravanti Baggio and Saveer Van Slambrouck, Italy; Martis Declerok, Belgian-Czechoslovakian team; Marcele and Rene Boogmans, Belgium; Harry Horan, Newark, N.J.; and Jules Audy, Montreal, representing the Montreal Marcons; Freddie Zach and Laurent Gadou, Swiss-Canadian team.

Miners Will Be Given Few Days More Work

SYDNEY, N.S., April 28 (C.P.).—Closing of No .14 Colliery, which would displace 700 miners with about 2,800 dependents, has been postponed for one week following a conference at Halifax between Premier Gordon S. Harrington, Sir Newton Moore, president of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, and H. J. Kelley, general manager of the Corporation, it was learned here to-day.

The reprieve is understood to be granted for the purpose of allowing time for a statement more satisfactory to operators and men.

Notices posted at New Waterford Collieries prior to the reprieve stated that men displaced at No. 14 would not be allowed to take the places of men now working at other mines in the New Waterford area.

Denmark has banned the making of street shoes of imitation leather.

East Ends Capture Second-Half Honors

The East Ends captured the second half of the Ladies' City Bowling League at the Duffus' Alleys last night, with 58 points. The schedule is not yet complete, the following teams having postponed games to play yet: South Ends 3, Quakers 1, and East Ends 1. The playoffs will commence soon between the East Ends and the Nashua team, winner of the first half.

Helen Charlton is leading the league for high three with 672, with N. Hepburn on top with high single of 280. This is the way the six ladies' team now stand, the East Ends being safe in first place:

West Ends	58 points
Rinkydinks	46 points
Nashua	44 points
Centrals	40 points
Quakers	16 points
South Ends	12 points

HOPE AND HUNTER HAVE RING HOPES

Local Pair Will Be Seen in Action in Friday Night's Fight Card.

Art Hunter and Roy Hope are two of the most promising boxers in Peterborough, both being young and teachable athletes who should have a good ring future ahead. These boys will be seen on the War Veterans' amateur boxing show at the Legion Hall tomorrow night, Gord Garwood of the Alpha Club directing it.

Hunter meets George Spanis, former Barrie bantam, who has been travelling good in gym. workouts. He shows plenty of speed and ring sense as well as a good wallop, and should make the flashy Art step at his best. Roy Hope has chosen a real test in Reg. White, Toronto Premier A.C. lightweight, and this will probably be one of the best scraps on the program. Hope hits hard and often, being perhaps the most colorful mittzer in the city now. White has an edge on experience and there is not likely to be much difference when they meet.

Little need be said of the two main bouts, the Queen City fighters being well known. Paul Amato, Dominion middleweight champ in 1931, Ontario titleholders now and probable Canadian Olympic middle, has to go out of his class for a real fight. He meets Cliff Rhamey, good Premier Club light-heavy, in the main go. His stablemate, Art Wood of the Parkdale Club, tackles George Prince in the semi-final. Prince is another Premier scrapper and ought to extend the Ontario lightweight finalist. Both boys have kayo wallops, so the bout may not go the limit.

After the Jordan-DeNoble opener, Keith Jarvis fights Jack Watson. Then it's Art Hunter against George Spanis, followed by Roy Hope and Reg. White. A 10-minute, one-fall wrestling match to a decision between Jack Gardner and Mick Magee comes next, with all the color and acrobatics of a London-Sonnenburg affair. The two main bouts finish it up, making in all a promising-looking program for followers of the mat and the mitt sports.

O.B.A.A. EXPECTS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Association Looking Forward to Affiliation of More Leagues and Clubs Than Ever.

TORONTO, April 28.—The annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association was one of the most successful that has taken place in years. The outlook for 1932 is most encouraging, the association looking forward to more leagues, clubs and players than ever before.

ONLY WANTS SOLID SOCK AT SCHMELING

Sharkey Does Not Care if Anybody Sees Match on June 16th.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Big and bellicose as ever, perhaps even more of both, Jack Sharkey drove into town to-day to express some of the strangest sentiments that ever fell from the lips of a prize-fighter.

"I don't care," he said, "if there aren't 10 people out to see me fight Max Schmeling June 16. I don't care if there are only the two judges and the referee. All I want is one solid smack at the Dutchman."

Jimmy Johnston, little mogul of Madison Square Gardens' boxing world stared at him in amazement.

"But John," he gasped. "You mean....You don't....Not no cash customers."

Sharkey was very firm about it.

"In these times there won't be many customers anyway. You aren't fooling anybody talking about $1,000,000 gates and 80,000 people. I don't care whether anybody comes except Schmeling. I'll ruin him."

Sharkey visited the battle ground in Astoria, where steam shovels are gouging out the basis of the Garden's new outdoor stadium.

"This won't be finished b June 16, either," he announced with finality. "Don't try to tell me. I've done plenty of pick and shovel work in my time. I know. You're just trying to fool the people."

HUDSON EIGHT STANDARD SEDAN FOR FIVE PASSENGERS

AT HOME

to anyone and at any time

To see and feel the textural excellence of the new Hudson Eight upholstery is to discover new depths of ease and beauty.

Here, draped to the contours of wide, divan-like cushions and bolstering arm-rests, swelling with the soft high roll of seat backs, or strictly tailored and flat fitting to the side panels and roof, are interior fabrics loomed almost to the richness and pile of furs.

What Hudson designers have done to fashion them to new forms for restful and agreeable travel behind the swift and silent pace of the 101-horsepower Hudson Eight engine, Hudson colorists have matched to perfection in the lovely new pastel tones of these stuffs and fabrics.

Arm-chair ease and drawing-room charm in which you are proud to be "at home" to anyone, at any time.

Yoked with these rich fabrics and upholsteries to provide the last word in satin-smooth riding quality are important standard equipment advances — Hudson new-type lateral seat cushion springs, Hudson Full-Range Ride Controls, Hudson splayed rear springs—which we seek the opportunity to demonstrate to you at your very earliest convenience.

Visit your nearest Hudson dealer today. A demonstration will convince you that Hudson is rightly acknowledged "Pacemaker for 1932."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

JERRY GOES WITH PADDY.

Each has some blessing all his own,
Though sometimes to himself unknown.
—Old Mother Nature.

"Yes," replied Jerry Muskrat to Paddy the Beaver. "I wish I had a tail like yours. I've always been satisfied with my own tail until now, but now that I have seen your tail I realize that my tail isn't so much after all."

Paddy chuckled. "No you don't," said he.

"Don't what?" asked Jerry looking puzzled.

"Don't wish you had a tail like mine," replied Paddy. "You may think you do, but you don't. You can and do use your own tail in all the ways for which you have any need."

"But I can't use my tail for a support and I can't sit on it, and I can't signal on the ground with it because it does not make noise enough, and you can do all those things with your tail," protested Jerry.

"And when would you ever want to do any of those things?" demanded Paddy. "I have to sit up to cut trees and so need my tail for a prop and for a seat, but you don't cut trees and so don't have to sit up as I do. I have to go some distance from the water to do some of my work and so does Mrs. Paddy; we need some way of signaling. You don't have any such need. If we should exchange tails I would have very little use for yours because it is too small and the wrong shape for me, although just suited to you. You would have little or no use for my tail because it is too big and heavy and the wrong shape for you, while just the right shape for me. I long ago got over envying other people what they have. It is a waste of time and a foolish habit. Suppose we go up to the upper pond and I'll show you where I get my bark to eat."

This suited Jerry and he followed Paddy. He had to swim his best to keep up. When they reached the second dam Paddy led the way around the end of it. Jerry found that this pond was not quite as big as the other, and the dam, being new, did not look as solid as the old one. Paddy led the way across this pond. On the farther side he waddled ashore and back some distance to a little grove of poplar trees. Jerry followed, but didn't feel easy so far from the water. Paddy sat up beside a young poplar, using his tail as a prop. Jerry wondered what he was going to do. It didn't enter Jerry's head that Paddy intended to cut that tree. It was too big for Jerry to even dream of such a thing. So you can imagine how surprised Jerry was when Paddy opened his mouth and drove his great front cutting teeth into the trunk of that tree and then pried out a big chip. Jerry thought at first that Paddy had cut that chip out to eat, but Paddy paid no attention whatever to that chip. Instead he cut out another.

"What are you doing that for?" asked Jerry.

"Why, I'm cutting down this tree," explained Paddy in some surprise at the question.

"Do you mean that you think you can cut down that big tree?" cried Jerry in a tone of unbelief.

"Watch me," replied Paddy. "I not only think I can; I know I can. I have cut trees twice as big as this one." He drove in his teeth and pried out another chip.

Meanwhile Jerry was growing more and more uneasy. He didn't like being so far from the water. He didn't want to admit or show that he was afraid, but he was. Paddy didn't appear to notice and went on with his work. Presently from way over on the other side of the pond there sounded a sharp report. Instantly Paddy dropped to all four feet and started for the water as fast as he could go. Jerry, being smaller and lighter, could run faster and reached the pond first.

"What was that?" he panted as Paddy slipped into the water.

"That was Mrs. Paddy signaling danger," replied Paddy. "It was just a warning. You didn't hear her plunge after it. She has seen some enemy and was letting me know. We were not in any real danger, but we might have been without that warning. That is all."

ONE OF THE 57

An entirely different menu for every meal is hard to manage, but you can always make meats—and especially left-overs—attractive by using Heinz Tomato Ketchup in the cooking. And be sure to pass the Ketchup bottle around the table.

The same perfect, vine-ripened tomatoes—the same quality and master touch that has made Heinz Chili Sauce and other tomato products the preference of millions, has caused Heinz Tomato Ketchup to outsell all others regardless of price. It is the most popular coaxer of appetites in the world.

Let the big red bottle add colour and flavour to every meal. It costs very little.

TOMATO KETCHUP

Here is one of the many puddings you can make with ST. CHARLES!

Everybody loves corn starch pudding, especially the children. Here is a simple way of making the best corn starch pudding you have ever tasted.

1½ cups St. Charles Milk	¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups water	2 eggs, beaten
6 tablespoons sugar	1 tablespoon butter
4 tablespoons corn starch	1 teaspoon vanilla

Dilute milk with water. Blend sugar, corn starch and salt and mix with one-half cup of milk. Scald remainder of the milk in top of a double boiler. Add the corn starch mixture to hot milk, stir until the mixture is smooth and thick. Cover and cook over hot water fifteen minutes. Add the eggs and cook just long enough to set them. Remove from the fire. Add the butter and flavoring. Turn into mold and chill.

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If April 28th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:45 a.m. to 8 a.m., from noon to 2 p.m., and from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. The danger periods are from 10 a.m. to 11:15 a.m., and from 4 p.m. to 5:10 p.m.

A multiplicity of events on April 28th will make it difficult to focus much time or attention on any one line of endeavor. Unforeseen difficulties will present themselves between you and the fulfillment of your dreams. Resist the influences of others, and listen to the dictates of your own heart!

Children born on this April 28th will have courageous spirits, both mental and physical, and the will-power to stick to one thing. They will have constant and faithful natures, will always "play the game," and will be able to make friends very easily.

You present, if born on April 28th, to the world a slightly aggressive nature and an assertive manner. Inside, however, you are a most sensitive being, and your brusqueness is only an acquired and affected trait to cover up your real inferiority complex. You are too conscientious and too timid to ever bluff your way through the world; you are always ready to deliver "the real goods." Work of a public capacity would not appeal to you; you are far happier working behind scenes. You are good at figures, do not slight details, and are a methodical thinker.

There is a strain of solitariness in your nature, and people must come to you; you do not go to them. Although not a solicitor of companionship, when your own is sought no one can be more ready or approachable. Circumstances permitting, you quickly bury yourself in books, and are dead to the world about you. You do not judge people by the standard of perfection, and you see your fellow beings through tolerant eyes.

Temperate in all things, you do not squander your reserve forces, and you usually feel fit and have an even temperament. You are wise enough to differentiate between things worth your worry and things which are not. You are capable of enjoying life, but you seldom display much enthusiasm about anything. Harmony within the home is shown in your horoscope—good relations between both parents and children.

RYLSTONE SOCIETY PLANS TO HOLD BEE

Missionary Members Hold Monthly Meeting at Home of Mrs. Fred Rutherford.

RYLSTONE, April 28 (Examiner Correspondence)—The ladies of the Rylstone Missionary Society held their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening, April 20th at the home of Mrs. Fred Rutherford.

Business was transacted and it was decided to have a quilting bee in May. Program committee for next meeting Mrs. Ed. Anderson, Mrs. Alex. Green, Mrs. Will Allan.

Next meeting will be held at Mrs. Robert Mumby's. Program was given as follows: reading, "We never know where it will end," Mrs. Chester Mieklejohn; "I am counting on them," reading by Mrs. Fred Rutherford; "The end of the way," reading, Mrs. Alex Green.

Madoc

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reid of Millbrook spent the week-end with relatives in Madoc.

Mrs. Harry Govier and son Harold have returned home after spending several days with friends in Ottawa.

Messrs. D. Pullman and M. Smith were week-end visitors in Toronto.

The Young Peoples' Society of Trinity United Church had a very good attendance at the play "Merton of the Movies" given by Belleville talent on Monday evening in the Empire Theatre under the management of Miss J. Tuite. During the evening several musical numbers were given, and younger members of the society sold home-made candy during the intermission. The financial returns were very satisfactory to the Y.P.S.

Ice Floes At Sault Hindering Shipping

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 28.—Vast quantities of ice, packed by a 30-mile northwest wind into the Whitefish Bay yesterday are coming over the rapids today, impeding operations at the ship canal, where it blocks the approaches.

Vessels passing up the lake yesterday reported that the ice was unusually heavy and windrowed.

Drift ice covers the entire river from the Sault to Brush Point. The north side of the channel from Point Aux Pins to the Canadian Locks was clear yesterday, but today the entire river is packed with the ice, making its way down.

Catch Current Prices

Before The Tide Turns

"Time and tide wait for no man."

Nor are the low prices of to-day and the turn of the tide toward higher prices going to wait for those who haven't the vision, courage and foresight to buy when prices are at the lowest ebb in 15 years.

And this changing of the tide as applied to prices is more than a mere simile . . . it's a certainty . . . price tides change as surely as ocean tides.

To-day's prices on food, clothing, furniture, furs, cars and other things are from 40% to 100% lower than they have been in years and lower than they will be before the turn of another season.

Don't be caught off your guard when it's so important that your savings be guarded.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 82 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Night found Carl Kraski still cold and hungry, and panting from exhaustion. He slept in the crotch of a great tree while the hunting carnivora roared and growled through the blackness of the jungle about him. Shivering with terror he would start to wakefulness as the long hours of a fearful night dragged out until it seemed that dawn would never come. But come it did and once again he took up his stumbling way toward the west.

Toward noon there came to his numbed sensibilities the suggestion of human voices not far distant. Quickly he shook himself in an attempt to concentrate his waning faculties. He listened intently and, with a renewal of strength, rose to his feet. Cautiously he crawled forward. Now he heard the words of white people. At a turn in the trail he saw a clearing beside a muddy stream. In it was a rude hut thatched with grasses.

Eagerly he dragged his steps toward it. He heard a woman's voice raised in anger and the deep tones of a man replying. The man's voice was that of the supposed dead Esteban and the woman's belonged to Flora Hawkes. Kraski called Esteban by name and the false Tarzan, followed by the girl came from the hut. Had Kraski not heard his voice, he would have thought Esteban was Tarzan of the Apes, so remarkable was the resemblance.

For a moment the two stood looking at the strange apparition before him. "Don't you know me?" cried the Russian, "I am Carl, Carl Kraski!" The girl started forward but Esteban held her back. "Help me," pleaded Kraski, "I am nearly done." The way to the coast is there!" said the Spaniard, "and water is behind you. The jungle is filled with food if you have the nerve to get it. Keep moving, it's not healthy for you here!"

Illegal Operations Cost 5 Girls' Lives

OKLAHOMA City, Okla, April 28 (C.P.)—The disclosure that five girls have died here recently as the result of alleged criminal operations was made to-day by County Attorney Lewis R. Morris, investigating the deaths of two University of Oklahoma co-eds.

The co-eds, Mrs. Frank Lee, 17-year-old secret bride of a university athlete, and Virgina Lee Wycoff, died here a few days ago.

Dr. Richard E. Thacker, physician and surgeon, charged with murder in the recent death of Miss Robbie Lou Thompson, 21 year old telegraph company employee, has disappeared. Police throughout the country will be asked to search for him.

FIRE DESTROYS AIRPORT

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., April 28—Damage estimated at $200,000 was caused by fire of unknown origin here today. A hangar and 10 aeroplanes were consumed by the flames.

Carl Schneider former German war pilot and John D. Egurre, were seriously burned.

IN MEMORIAM.

HALL—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Jeanette Wright Hall, who departed this life April 29, 1931.

Oh, why was she taken, so young and so fair,
When earth held so many it better could spare;
Hard was the blow that compelled us to part,
From one whom we loved and so dear to our hearts.

—Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Wright and family.

IN MEMORIAM.

FRANKS. — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, George Franks, who died one year ago to-day, April 28.

We mourn for him, and he with better reason
Might mourn for us instead.
There is no sorrow, sin or wintry season
For those we call the dead.
Be not too sad for him—he has just departed
Cloud-like, beyond our sight;
His sunlit eyes in wonder are lifted
Unto eternal light.
And some who loved him, kinsmen long departed,
Loved ones, unseen for years,
Will fling their loving arms about him, happy-hearted,
Weeping with thankful tears.
It almost seems his spirit reposes
Upon light air above;
Sweet as the drifting scent of roses,
Kind as the breath of love.
He is not lost; for death but came to free him—
And though afar he roams.
We can but wait and hope to see him
In our eternal home.

—Inserted by Wife and Daughters Till and Jean.

IN MEMORIAM.

FRANKS—In loving memory of Mr. George C. Franks, who departed this life April 28, 1931.

There the flowers from earth transplanted,
For our coming watch and wait,
In the Upper Garden growing
Just within the golden gate.

Though our hearts may break with sorrow,
By the brief so hard to bear
We shall meet him some glad morning
In the Upper Garden there.

MANAGER THANKS CITY FOR FIREMEN

Pulp Mill Manager Very Grateful for Service Rendered During Fire.

Acknowledging the efforts of the various fire-fighting units whose united efforts prevented last Saturday's $125,000 pulpwood blaze from spreading to and destroying the mill premises, Elie Brunelle, manager of the Hydro Electric Pulp Mill, forwarded a letter to the editor of The Campbellford Herald, which reads in part as follows: "We wish particularly to thank the members of the local fire brigade who, with the co-operation of many of our citizens worked valiantly, involving the loss of food and rest, from the beginning to end of the outbreak until there was no further danger of damage. It is only in such times that we can learn to appreciate the fire brigade at their true value to the community."

"We would also like to say how much we appreciate the kindly and neighborly action of the Canadian Johnson Motor Company, Limited, of Peterborough and the Peterborough City Fire Department in coming to our assistance when we were in dire need of additional help. We feel certain that on account of their efficient service, a great calamity was averted, and we can only express our deep sense of gratitude for their generous aid."

"Of the long and bitter struggle on the part of the employees of the mill, too much praise cannot be given. These men worked continuously at their posts of duty for 24 hours, enduring cold and hunger, resolutely battling with the devouring element. Their faithful service is deserving of highest commendation."

Harry Wood, superintendent of the Canadian Johnson Motors at Peterborough, also states that he received a letter from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission at Toronto, in which was stated, "We were very pleased at the performance of the Johnson-Tremblay pumping units you provided for fighting the fire. Will you please let us have the rating of gas consumption for such units?"

Obituary

MRS. THOMAS GILMOUR.

The death occurred to-day of Barbara Taylor, widow of the late Thomas Gilmour, at her residence, 168 Stewart Street. She was 70 years of age.

A native of Scotland, Mrs. Gilmour had resided in this city for some years, and was held in highest esteem by a great number of friends. Her husband predeceased her 20 years ago in Scotland. She is survived by two sons, Donald and Robert, and four daughters, Mrs. Ernest Payne, Mrs. Thomas Craig, Mrs. James Isle, and Miss Barbara Gilmour, all of this city.

The funeral is to be held on Saturday at 2 p.m., from the family residence, where a service is to be conducted by Adjutant Pafe of the Salvation Army. Interment at Little

KENRED EARDLEY-WILMOT

Kenred Eardley-Wilmot former manager of the Bank of Montreal here died at Perth this morning to which town he was transferred as manager twenty-five years ago, and where he had lately been living in retirement.

Mr. Eardley-Wilmot who had a long and honored career of service with the Bank of Montreal, came to this city as manager of the local branch in succession to W. H. Hogg, at the time of the old Ontario Bank failure. The local branch of the Bank of Montreal was at that time situated in the premises now occupied by the Peterborough Club. He was transferred to Perth branch as manager some time later, leaving here in the year 1907.

It is stated by his former business associates here that Mr. Eardley-Wilmot was a popular favorite in Peterborough, being possessed with a kindly and genial though somewhat retiring nature. In his younger days he was an enthusiastic cricketer. While residing here in the residence now occupied by E. S. Martin, retired bank manager on Hunter street, Mr. Wilmot-Eardley was an active member of Peterborough Curling Club and also of Peterborough Club.

R. Miles Hamilton who was accountant of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal and who served under Mr. Wilmit-Eardley expressed genuine regret when informed by The Examiner today of his old colleagues passing.

"Mr. Wilmot-Eardley was a fine type of Englishman," he said, "and had many friends in this city." He added that his old associate was at one time accountant with Bank of Montreal at Guelph and Hamilton. He undertook his first manager-ship at Almonte from which place he was transferred to Peterborough.

Musing on the old days in the bank service, Mr. Hamilton remarked upon the splendid esperit de corps which existed between the various branches and proudly exclaimed, "we who belong to the old school were brought up in the true traditions of the Bank of Montreal". He believed that with the various amalgamations that have since been effected that spirit had been greatly undermined.

Mr. Wilmot-Eardley he stated was a man who had grown up in the bank service, and who had always respected and held inviolate its highest tradition.

The funeral is to be held in Perth at 2.30 p.m. on Saturday.

$30,000 MINE FIRE.

Vacancies Filled In Asbestos Board

MONTREAL, April 28 (C.P.) — Two new directors were appointed to-day to the board of the Asbestos Corporation, at the annual meeting called to fill the vacancies caused by the resignation to-day of Lord Shaughnessy, of Montreal, and of the Hon. Jacob Nichol, of Sherbrooke, Que. The vacancies were filled by the appointment of R. W. Steele, Montreal, vice-president of the Dominion Securities Corporation, and E. A. MacNutt, Montreal, vice-president and treasurer of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada.

The annual financial reports were approved. Col. R. F. Massie, Toronto, continues as president.

TROOP TRAIN BOMBING PROBE ENDS QUIETLY

TOKYO, April 28. (AP)—A foreign office spokesman said to-day that nothing which comes out of the investigation of the recent dynamiting of a Japanese troop train in Manchuria is likely to disturb the relations between Japan and Soviet Russia.

The newspaper Nichi Nichi quoted the Minister of War to-day as expressing the belief that nothing serious would come of the investigation, although there might be a formal protest to Moscow if it should be found that Russian officials of the Chinese Eastern Railway were involved.

TORONTO NURSE SUICIDES

PEORIA, Ill.—Lydia Deddock, 49, a nurse from Toronto, leaped to her death from the eleventh floor of the Pere Marquette Hotel to-day. She left a note saying ill health caused her to commit suicide, and $160 she left was to be used to cremate her body. She has a sister, Margaret, in Toronto.

CHARGED WITH ARSON

MONTREAL.—J. Ernest Lariviere, notary, charged with arson, is to-day held at Provincial Police headquarters following the disallowance of his habeas corpus application by Mr. Justice Boyer in the Superior Court. He is one of several men charged with arson in connection with fires which recently occurred in Montreal and Ottawa.

DIES FROM BURNS

ST. CATHARINES.—John Caughill, 80, died in hospital here to-day, from burns received last Wednesday. It is believed Caughill placed a hot pipe in his pocket or dropped a lighted match.

NINE MONTHS FOR THEFT

ST. CATHARINES.—Melville G. McConnell, former manager of the Hussman Fur Company here, was to-day sentenced to nine months' definite and two years indefinite on conviction of theft of $3,820 from the company. McDonnell disappeared from the city March 24, but gave himself up Tuesday.

CAFE THIEF GETS $14

LONDON, Ont.—No trace has been found of the sneak thief who walked into the Blue Bird Cafe, Dundas street, last night, and ordered a meal. While the proprietor was absent the thief looted the till of $14. The affair is the third of its kind here in a week, although it is the only one in which money was secured.

GETS REFORMATORY TERM

KITCHENER. — Previously convicted of possessing counterfeit coin moulds, John Dremkoski was sentenced to-day by Magistrate Weir to two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory. For also being in possession of a still he was fined $500 or six months' imprisonment. Failure to pay the fine will bring another six months.

LORD IRWIN VISITS WELLAND

WELLAND.—Lord Irwin, former Viceroy of India, arrived in Welland to-day accompanied by Hon. Vincent Massey, and was met by Major J. R. Bond, of Niagara Falls, representing the Niagara Parks Commission.

The party remained here only a few minutes before proceeding to Niagara Falls.

CAR IS DITCHED DRIVER INJURED

C. W. Lea of Toronto, Was Admitted to Nicholls Hospital Last Night.

INJURIES NOT SERIOUS.

Speeding is claimed by police to have been the cause of an automobile accident near Fraserville on the Port Hope Highway last evening, and as a result of which C. W. Lea, Alhambra avenue, Toronto, traveller, is in Nicholls Hospital. Mainly facial injuries Lea's condition is not thought to be serious. He will probably be charged with reckless driving upon his discharge from hospital, it was stated this morning.

Lea, it is learned, was driving in the direction of Peterborough shortly before seven o'clock last evening and when about a mile-and-a-half beyond Fraserville his car veered over to the left side of the road. Leaving the pavement it careened along the shoulder of the highway for a distance of 87 feet, after which it leaped into the air for a further distance of 25 feet 7 inches. It then continued on for 37 feet in the ditch before striking the bank head-on and turning over on its left side. Unchecked in its momentum the car then skidded along on its side for another 20 feet 6 inches, coming to rest in a badly battered condition and facing in the direction of Toronto. In all it travelled a distance of 170 feet 1 inch after leaving the pavement on the wrong side of the road.

The injured man was conveyed to Bailieboro and was attended by Dr. A. L. Russell, afterwards being ordered to Nicholls' Hospital to which place he was conveyed in Constock's Ambulance.

Traffic Officer A. E. Hornick investigated the accident.

KIWANIS CLUB ADDRESSED BY BERT S. WEMP

Ex-Mayor of Toronto Declares Aviation Made Rush—Bagot Treaty Obsolete.

GROWTH OF FLYING.

Development of Aviation Has Eliminated International Boundaries.

Bert S. Wemp, former Mayor of Toronto, and who possesses a distinguished civil and war flying record, was guest speaker at the noon luncheon of the local Kiwanis Club at the Empress Hotel to-day.

Introduced by his brother Kiwanian Roy S. Wemp of this city, the speaker gave a concise and brilliant address on the development of aviation, particularly as it relates to the Rush-Bagot Treaty made between the United States and Great Britain one hundred and fifteen years ago, and the anniversary of which was observed by Kiwanis International to-day.

The remarkable developments in aviation, the speaker contended had left the Rush-Bagot Treaty so obsolete that it now means nothing at all, unless it is that it makes the friendship between Canada and the United States stand out with more prominence and emphasis.

Eliminated Boundaries.

The development of aviation had, he said, eliminated such things as international boundaries and fortifications, and every passenger plane at the present time was a potential bombing plane by night and could swoop across into another country and bomb cities and factories and return within a short space of time to the security of its own country.

If aviation had not developed the Rush-Bagot Treaty which limited the operations of gunboats on the Great Lakes would still lay claim as a source of protection in the peaceful relationships between the United States and Canada.

"What you are really celebrating to-day," he remarked, "is the long continued peace between these two great countries. May such a happy condition long prevail."

He believed that if only the countries of Europe could understand each other as Canada and the United States did, there would be no need for a League of Nations, but, unfortunately, the opposite conditions existed and boundaries were strongly fortified against attack, although they were not impervious to an assault from the air.

Other interesting points which the speaker touched in stressing the developments of the past twenty to twenty-five years was the fact the ordinary passenger car to-day possessed a speed far in excess of the speed that could be attained by cars a few years ago. And he predicted just as the car has now come to be considered as a thing for transportation and pleasure, so also would the next generation look upon the airplane from the same standpoint.

He recalled the fact that while he was in the air service during the late war, the planes at first only had a speed of a mile a minute as compared with a speed of 415 m.p.h. at the present day.

Speed of 1,000 M.P.H.

"You will see greater developments of speed in the near future"

Citizens Shiver As City Quakes

BRAWLEY, Cal. April 29. — An earthquake of sharp and heavy intensity shook the city at 8:50 a.m., today.

The city was thrown into nervous excitement, recalling that two years ago a series of quakes shook the city, tumbling buildings and causing extensive damage.

No damage was reported here.

CONTRACT IS LET FOR ICE SUPPLY

Allin Ice Company Tender of $200 Is Accepted by Committee.

TENDERS FOR COAL.

The Allin Ice Company's tender of $200 for the supply of ice at the city drinking fountains in Victoria Park, Confederation Square, King Edward Park and at the city hall corner was accepted by the Property Committee of the city council last night on Ald. Cotton's motion, seconded by Ald. Holland.

The Sanitary Ice Company's bid of $196 was conditioned on the provision of new locks for the ice boxes. The committee wished to pass this contract around, and as the Sanitary Ice Company had it last year and new locks would probably bring the two bids to a level price, the Allin Company was awarded the contract for this summer.

Coal Tender

Prices for next winter's coal were also received by the committee, and the contract for filling the bins at the city hall was let to William Scott and Company of Ashburnham at $7.75 a ton for Red Jacket on Ald. Holland's appeal for consideration of the company across the river. He also persuaded the committee to accept McCarthy and Johnston's $14.25 price for five tons of nut coal for the new public rest room. Supplies for the Queen Mary Hospital were referred to the Board of Health, and for the fire hall to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Max W. Peters quoted $35 for repainting the smoke stack at the incinerator, and this work was left with the chairman, Ald. Tuggey.

Ald. Holland moved, seconded by Ald. Cotton, that the City Trust Commission be requested to discontinue the old public lavatory building and to make a gift of the wash basins to the Children's Shelter.

Ald. Tuggey said he was not certain about the date of the opening of the new rest room. He understood that the City Trust Commission had insured the new building for $7,000, and as it was practically fireproof he considered that $3,000 would have been sufficient protection.

SUSPECT FREED

MEGANTIC, Que. — Napoleon Chartier of Montreal, detained here for questioning in connection with the murder a week ago at Tetagouche, N.B., of George Smith, aged storekeeper, was released today. Police decided he was in no way involved in the crime. Smith was shot during a hold-up.

FOUR JAPANESE WAR OFFICIALS HURT BY BLAST

Bomb Explodes Under Stand at Review at Hongkew Park.

EMPEROR'S BIRTHDAY.

Police Arrest Chinese Almost Torn to Pieces by Infuriated Mob.

(By Morris J. Harris, C.P. Staff Correspondent.)

SHANGHAI, April 29.—The four highest ranking Japanese military, naval and diplomatic officials at Shanghai were seriously injured about noon to-day when a bomb blew to bits a reviewing stand on which they were seated at a military review in Hongkew Park in honor of the birthday of Emperor Hirohito.

Scores of foreign military officers also narrowly escaped serious injury from the bomb. They were grouped around the platform, but had left a few minutes before the explosion occurred.

The Japanese military headquarters announced this afternoon that the most seriously injured were General Yoshinori Shirakawa, Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese Forces here; Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, Naval Commander-in-Chief; Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese Minister to China, and Major General Kenkichi Uyeda, who commanded the Shanghai battle at the beginning and was superseded by General Shirakawa.

Critical Condition

General Shirakawa was rushed to a hospital suffering from serious injuries to his right side and to his face. He was operated upon immediately and was said to be in a critical condition.

M. Shigemitsu, the leading Japanese non-military leader here and head of the Japanese deelgation to the recent peace parleys, was severely injured in both legs. He was reported unconscious.

Admiral Nomura suffered injuries to his left eye and General Uyede was torn in the chest and abdomen.

Kuramatsu Murai, Japanese Consul-General, who was also on the platform and was at first reported seriously hurt, later was said to be unharmed, as also was Y. Kakabata, President of the Shanghai Japanese Residents' Association, who sat beside him.

The bomb was tossed into the middle of the platform by a man in the great crowd spread out before it. At first the thrower was believed to have been a Korean, but later Japanese police said the missile was thrown by a Chinese.

Crowd Attacks Man.

The huge crowd immediately closed in upon the man they believed had thrown the bomb and he was rescued by the police and dragged away. Military officials said hew as taken immediately to Headquarters, alive but badly injured. Seven other Chinese were arrested the accus. of implication in the bombing.

Military officials expressed the opinion that the incident probably would result in a drastic tightening of Sino-Japanese relations.

Rumor Bishop For Ross' Post

OTTAWA, April 29.—(CP)—The Ottawa Journal publishes the following today:

Lieut.-Col. William Avery Bishop, V.C. the greatest living fighting airman—the man who shot down 72 German 'planes in the Great War — is being prominently mentioned for the post of Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario in succession to Hon. W. D. Ross.

It is understood Col. Bishop's appointment is being favorably considered by the government. It is felt it would meet with popular approval as a fitting recognition to the Canadian ace of aces of war time.

JURY DISAGREES OVER STABBING

Dismissal Ordered After Sacco Case Debated 10 Hours.

NEW TRIAL NOT DECIDED.

LOCKPORT, April 29 (C.P.). — After deliberating the case of James Sacco, of Niagara Falls, Ont., charged with murder, second degree, for more than ten hours, a county court jury to-day reported a disagreement and was dismissed.

Deliberations were resumed at 8 a.m. this morning, and the disagreement was reported when court convened. The district attorney's office said no decision has been made as yet in regard to a new trial.

Sacco is accused of fatally stabbing Edward ("Stick") O'Brien, Niagara Falls, N.Y., last January.

The jury received the case early last night and was locked up at midnight when they were unable to reach any verdict.

AVOIDING FURTHER TAXES

WELLINGTON, N. Z.—Announcement of the government's decision to avoid further direct or indirect taxation was made in the House of Representatives this evening by Downie W. Stewart, Finance Minister.

The Mystery Man will certainly be downtown to-morrow to witness the automobile parade. He must be accosted as Mr. Clean-Up and the winner must have a sales slip for some goods of any amount bought in a local store that day. The prize for Saturday is $5 in cash.

If not caught on Saturday the same conditions exist, namely, he must be accosted as Mr Clean-Up and have a sales slip for any purchase made on Moinday, the prize on Monday being $6, and it will increase one dollar each day until he is found, up to Saturday evening, May 7, when the prize will be $11 if he is not captured until the last day of the contest.

HOARE STATES FORMER POLICY TO BE CONTINUED

Claims No Order Can Be Kept Unless Progress Made Toward Self Government.

LABORITES CRITICAL.

Churchill's Speech Features 5-Hour Debate—Surprises House by Mildness.

LONDON, April 29 (C.P.). Cable). — There can be no question of the Government of India making a bargain with the Nationalist Congress in order to secure Mahatma Gandhi's co-operation in progress towards Indian self-government, Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for India, told the House of Commons this evening.

During debate on the India Office estimates, Sir Samuel stressed the Government would continue with its dual policy of "order and progress," the policy approved by Parliament following the Indian Round Table Conference here last autumn.

A feature of the debate was the speech by Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, and so-called leader of the "Die-Hards," which was much milder in tone than his previous speeches on Indian policy. It was interpreted as an attempt to realign himself with Stanley Baldwin, Conservative Leader, with whom Mr. Churchill broke on the question of Indian policy.

Must Move Toward Goal.

Sir Samuel declared the Government did not believe order could be maintained unless progress toward the goal of self-government was being made; at the same time progress was impossible without order in India. He challenged anyone to produce a better policy, or to give any reason for thinking the Government was not carrying out the spirit and the letter of the policy laid down following the round table conference.

The Secretary for India said the Government was prepared to consider the position if Mahatma Gandhi now languishing in jail at Yeroda, was disposed to restore the

AVIATOR READY FOR OCEAN HOP

Reichers Covers 1,786 Miles Montreal to Havana in Nine Hours.

SATISFIED WITH TEST.

HAVANA, April 29. — (A.P.)—Lou Reichers, Arlington, N.J., flyer, had satisfied himself to-day that he will be able to make the trans-Atlantic flight he plans to make this summer from Newark, N.J., to Paris, by way of Harbor Grace, Nfld.

Reichers landed here at 6:225 p.m. last night at the end of a non-stop flight from Montreal. This flight was made to test the plane in which he plans to make his trans-Atlantic hop, perhaps beginning May 10.

He made the trip from Montreal in nine hours and three minutes. The length of this flight, he said, 1,786 miles, is approximately the distance he would have to fly over water from Harbor Grace to Ireland. The fuel tanks of his low-winged monoplane carried 470 gallons of gasoline when he left Montreal.

Rats Walk Wire While Cats Wait

LURAY, Va., April 29.—Wire-walking rats are adding to the strange things that are happening these days in "Ol' Virginny."

On the farm of Frank L. Koontz, the rats travel on a wire clothes line stretched between the corn crib and the smoke house without even a disdainful glance at hungry cats that wait patiently below. When two meet on the accommodating wire, one rat retreats to the corn crib to allow the other to pass.

DAIL CONTINUES DEBATE ON BILL REGARDING OATH

Vote 78 to 62 for Session to Last Until Second Reading is Concluded.

LABOR BACKS DE VALERA.

Cosgrave Charges President Showing Unwarranted Haste to Shove Bill Through.

DUBLIN, April 29 (A.P.)—President De Valera's majority in the Dail voted to-day for a continued session which may last until midnight to-morrow to conclude the second reading stage of his bill to abolish the oath of allegiance to the Crown.

The vote was 78 to 62 on the President's motion to continue the session if necessary until that time. The Labor bloc, whose support was uncertain up to last night, voted with the Government.

Former President Cosgrave, leading the opposition, asserted that Mr. De Valera was showing unwarranted haste and was trifling with the Dail in his campaign to jam the bill through.

The nine Labor members announced last night at a tumultuous session that they would back the government. With their support Mr. De Valera figured he would have 81 votes against a possible 72, assuring passage of the measure on second reading.

Mr. De Valera's face was drawn with fatigue as he took his place in the Dail this afternoon. He only smiled wearily and jotted down a note when General Richard Mulcahy fired a question at him:

"If the oath goes, what recognition of the Crown is De Valera prepared to have?"

The General appealed to the President and the Government deputies to defer a decision on the bill and to take the week-end to think it over.

30 DAYS; THEN DEPORTATION

LONDON.—Thirty days in jail and deportation at the end of that time was ordered in Police Court to-day for Joseph Hooke, 33, loud-talking immigrant from Ireland. Hooke was arrested at the instigation of the City Relief department.

The Ecuadorian Government has been authorized to negotiate tariff reciprocity treaties, especially with neighboring countries.

PROVINCES ASK NO SUM NAMED FOR RELIEF USE

Bennett, Gordon Advise House of Decision at Recent Parley.

PROGRESS IS MADE.

Resolution Seeks Power to Make Agreements for Direct Aid to Unemployed.

OTTAWA, April 29 (C.P.).—Maintaining a steadied pace towards the goal of prorogation, the House of Commons yesterday gave consideration to unemployment and post office estimates. The temporary turn of the political spotlight from the Commons to the Upper House, where the conduct of three Senators implicated in the Beauharnois project is being debated, left the members unperturbed in their efforts to clean up the remainder of the sessional legislative slate.

On the vital question of relief to the unemployed and to farms, considerable progress was made. Voting of supply for the Post Office Department, though, met with opposition, with no appropriation being passed after a discussion of three hours.

Debate on Resolution.

Debate on unemployment and farm relief was precipitated on the resolution of the administration for power to make agreements with the provinces for direct relief to the unemployed. The resolution further proposes that the Government give assistance to the products of lands, forests, sea and mines, and make loans to the provinces. The peace, order and good government provisions of the Unemployment and Farm Relief Act, which terminate at theend of the month, are not specifically mentioned in the resolution, which is quite lengthy.

Suggesting that the resolution was rather broad in terms, Rt. Hon. MacKenzie King, Opposition leader, thought that a specific amount should be named as the sum to be spent to meet prevailing world-wide economic conditions by way of relief.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, answered by assuring the House that the Premiers of the several provinces who assembled in Ottawa recently for the Dominion-Provincial unemployment conference had taken the emphatic ground that a measure of this character for various reasons should not, under existing conditions, set out any amount to be expended.

Provinces' Stand.

While a bill predicated on the discussion will be presented to the House, intimation was made from the Government benches that the Provincial representatives had taken the ground, in view of the financial drag, they could no longer continue the present indirect relief plan of public works. The purpose of the Dominion was to give its assistance after May 1 to direct relief. So far as Dominion public works were concerned, expenditures in this regard would be authorized by estimates only and no new works of this character would be started under a relief plan. Such of the public works already under way for relief purposes and considered advisable to push ahead would be proceeded with.

U.S. IS OPPOSED TO GERMAN PLAN FOR ABOLITION OF BATTLESHIPS

Adoption of Scheme Would Mean Revision of Whole Defense System.

STIMSON SEES MACDONALD

GENEVA, April 29 (C.P.). — Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain and Henry I. Stimson, United States Secretary of State, continued their conference here to-day. Later Stimson had luncheon with Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League.

Meanwhile, at a meeting of the Disarmament Conference Naval Commission, Senator Claude A. Swanson, member of the United States delegation, voiced opposition to the German and Italian plan for abolition of battleships.

Battleships, he said, are the backbone of the United States Navy which is entirely defensive and a menace to no one. If battleships were abolished, he decared, the whole United States defence scheme would have to be revised.

Brazil's first motion-picture convention was held recently in Rio Janeiro.

Find 20-Foot Hole Under Pavement

DETROIT, April 29.—Acting on complaints from automobile drivers who said the pavement of Woodward Avenue, Detroit's principal thoroughfare, "seemed to sink" as they drove over it, city officials last night found a hole 20 feet deep, under the pavement near the Kirby Avenue intersection.

Traffic was re-routed and the street closed for two blocks while city employes tore away the paving. They found an excavation beneath the pavement large enough to hold a street car and several automobiles.

THREATENS MAYOR STEWART

TORONTO — Mayor William Stewart has been threatened again. A scribbled note to-day told him he was to be put on the spot tomorrow and de-nite arrangements the Chief Magistrate might make he can't avoid ...

Crude oil produced in Mexico last year filled 33,000,000 barrels.

BANDIT MEETS TOUGH VICTIM

Storekeeper Beats Up Attacker, Takes His Revolver and Cap.

THUG ESCAPES.

HAMILTON, April 19.—When a bandit entered the butcher shop of Fred Sanderson, 554 Burlington St. east, last night, he not only failed to collect any loot, but departed hastily, minus his revolver and cap.

The man entered the shop and asked for a pound of butter. The butcher turned his back for a moment and when he again faced his customer, the intruder, was pointing a revolver and demanding that he "stick 'em up."

Mr. Sanderson closed with the would-be bandit and a furious struggle ensued in which the gunman struck him several times on the head with the butt of his weapon. The fight ended with the bandit fleeing, leaving the weapon in Sanderson's possession. Police were today attempting to trace the assailant.

An Example of the 'Give-a-Man-a-Job' Idea

An example of the "Give a Man a Job" idea in practice may be seen at the Campbell Dairy plant, Park and Sherbrooke Streets, where a high lattice fence has been built on the Park Street side of the property.

This improvement was not a pressing need, but it certainly enhances the appearanceof the dairy premises, especially when finished off with a coat of paint. It meant a small job for some one looking for work, although it could have been postponed indefinitely.

The most helpful spirit behind the "Give a Man a Job" appeal will be the inclination to do now some work which might be delayed.

The home owner whose chimneys are sound might find work for a bricklayer in what is called tuck-pointing of brickwork and stonework. John Hornsby, the architect, who has nothing to gain from this kind of repair work, suggested to this column that many a house in Peterborough needs pointing, and to that extent would provide more work for bricklayers.

Nearer the ground level, it seems, there is more moisture affecting the foundation and lower part of the wall. This means freezing and thawing at certain season of the year, breaking up of mortar and leaving a condition which will gradually become worse. It is also noticed sometimes in the arches over cellar windows. And once more the reminder, if you have any of this work to be done eventually, why not call in the bricklayer now.

Do you know what flashing is? You see it around the contact of roof and chimney or in other parts of a building where rain is likely to leak through. If you have any repairs to be done in that class of work you can help the tinsmith by calling him in to fix it up and make the flashing thoroughly water tight.

MISUSE OF POSITION CHARGED BY MEIGHEN TO TWO SENATORS ENTANGLED IN BEAUHARNOIS NET

Personal Interests Placed on Higher Plane Than Public Duties.

SENATE IS ON TRIAL.

Hon. George P. Graham Makes Impassioned Defense for Senators.

OTTAWA, April 29 (C.P.). — Condemning Senators Andrew Haydon and W. L. McDougald for misuse of their public positions, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative Leader in the Red Chamber, led the attack yesterday that may lead to their attempted expulsion from Parliament. There was abundant evidence, said the former Prime Minister, that both men placed their own personal interests on a higher plane than their public duties and capitalized their positions to further their own ends.

Senate Under Disrepute.

In a speech filled with fire — something quite unusual in the Senate — and the type of oratory that characterized him when he led the House of Commons, Senator Meighen told the Senate it was on trial before the people of Canada. Two members, through their associations with Beauharnois, were accused of conduct inconsistent with their high offices. This charge reflected over the entire Upper House dence. Suspicion and ill-drawn inpurge itself in the eyes of the public. And, he added, it was no time for party politics. The Senate as a whole was under disrepute and must render a definite and unmistakable decision.

The Senate was debating the report tabled earlier in the week by the special committee investigating three Liberal Senators, Andrew Haydon, W. L. McDougald, and Donat Raymond in the light of their associations with the Beauharnois power and navigation scheme. A rebuke was issued to Senator Raymond and Mr. Meighen drew a distinction between him and the other two. At the same time, he drew attention to the committee report which said no Senator should become interested in a company dependent largely on Government concessions and acting as intermediary for campaign funds from such companies.

The other side of the case was presented by two Liberals who were on the committee, Rt. Hon. George P. Graham and A. B. Copp. Senator Graham said "Our conduct today is mere piffle," if the Senate could find nothing better to do than attempt to run down two members for great problems were to be faced, especially in view of the Imperial Economic Conference and he thought the Senate would be doing a greater work for the public if it grappled with some of them.

The committee report, said Senator Graham, was not based on evidence. Suspicion and ill-drawn inferences formed its basis. The findings were not warranted by the facts and evidence and he appealed to the Senate to consider the report in a way that might be ex-

NEGRO BATTLES IN DEATH CELL

Tear Gas Used, Warden Stabbed in Hour's Fight to Lead Victim to Chair.

TRIPLE EXECUTION.

EDDYVILLE, Ky., April 29.—The Grimmest drama ever enacted within the walls of Western State Penitentiary here marked the execution to-day of three negroes in the electric chair. Only after a guard had been stabbed and tear gas bombs had been brought into use to subdue the third of the trio were the executions completed.

After resisting for an hour and a half efforts of officers to lead him from his cell in "Death Row" to the small room in which the electric chair is located, Walter Holmes, 31, of Chicago, surrendered and followed his two companions in death.

The other two men, A. B. Cooksey, 23, of Madisonville, Ky., and Charles Rodgers, 23, of Chicago, went to their deaths peacefully.

Douses Officers

When prison officers then went to Holmes' cell, Holmes threw a bucket of water on them. The water previously had been put in the cell for drinking purposes.

Holmes then brandished an iron pipe, broken from a water connection and defied the guards to take him. After efforts to conciliate him proved of no avail, Warden Tom Logan ordered the officers to use tear gas bombs to dislodge the prisoner.

Three tear gas bombs were hurled into Holmes' cell before he capitulated. As he walked out into the "Death Row" corridor he smiled faintly and puffed at a cigarette.

CHILE'S ARMY IS MOBILIZED

President Prepares Carabineers for Trouble on May Day.

REDS ACTIVE.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 29 (C.P.). —Chile's army of 18,000 carabineers was mobilized to-day, standing ready for whatever may happen next Monday, when extremist groups have called a workers' mass meeting and a May Day general strike.

The carabineers were mobilized under powers of the state of siege declared by President Juan Esteban Montero on April 7, following a run on the National Bank. The siege has never been lifted. They will function under the orders of the Minister of the Interior.

Meanwhile, Communist activity increased among university students and the Communist groups called for a renewal of the hunger strike among sailors jailed after last September's naval revolt.

Mrs. J. G. M. Wilson who represented The Examiner Relief on the Peterborough Relief Association asked, through Mr. Glover, to be relieved for the time being, of her work in connection with the activities of the Association. Mrs. Morrie made reference to the excellent work done by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Glover and by all the ladies who have been identified with the work of the Association.

The President was asked to send a letter of appreciation to Mr. Hammond, accountant, for the work he has given to the Association, and to Mr. Bailey, caretaker of the Red Cross Hostel for the work and interest he has taken in the Hunter street rooms.

It was decided to discontinue the Hunter street rooms after April 30. Mr. Joseph Bell has kindly donated the room for the month which was greatly appreciated.

The meeting decided that commencing May 1st, only exceptionally urgent cases with no other source of relief could be undertaken.

The work of the ladies of the Peterborough Relief Association has been very effective and sympathetic and only those who have some idea as to what these ladies have done, can fully appreciate their efforts. This was the expression of the male members of the committee present. Some of those who have been most active the past season are Mrs. Ada Craig, East City, Mrs. Frank Millard, Miss Large, Mrs. J. J. Lynch, Mrs. Houghton, Mrs. Stillwell, North Monaghan, Mrs. Helson and others.

SURGE ABSORBER ABLY EXPLAINED

J. M. Thompson Addresses Members of Engineering Institute.

ENGLISH INVENTION.

"Ferranti Surge Absorbers" was the highly technical topic of an address delivered last evening by J. M. Thompson, designing engineer of the Ferranti Electric Company before members of the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

A. B. Gates was in the chair and called upon S. O. Shields, an old classmate of the speaker, to introduce Mr. Thompson to the group of engineers, mostly representative of the electrical branch of the profession.

The surge absorber, a protective apparatus, is a recent development and was first applied in England. Its use is more general in Europe than on the American continent.

Great interest was shown by the engineers in Mr. Thompson's address as was evident by the keen discussion which ensued, and which at one point developed into an argument between speaker and a member of the audience as to the respective merits of the Ferranti Surge Absorber as against the lightning arrester, in more common use in America.

Shells In Firewood Bring Serious Count

WOODSTOCK, N.B., April 29.—(C.P.)— Arthur Marsden, of McKenzie Corner, will appear in police court on Thursday on a charge of attempted murder as a result of allegedly placing a stick containing four cartridges in the yard of Walter Kingdon, a neighbor. His intention, it is charged was that the stick would be picked up and used as firewood in the Kingdon home. Four holes had been bored in the stick as places for the cartridges, of thirty-eight calibre. Kingdon's child picked up the stick and took it to his mother, who became suspicious and split it open.

No evidence was taken when Marsden appeared in court yesterday, a remand until Thursday being ordered.

Runaway Girl Is Nabbed By Police

BELLEVILLE, April 29.—After a short chase, Canadian National Railway Constable Robert and Provincial Constable Kelly succeeded in capturing two men and a young Lindsay girl in the vicinity of the C.N.R. station here. Appearing before Magistrate Mitchell yesterday morning, the young girl stated that she had left home to escape the drudgery of home life. She stated that her father had beaten her without provocation. She and one man had come from Port Hope to here on a freight train. Rev. Beauchamp Payne of St. Thomas' Church is getting in touch with the Lindsay authorities.

DEADLOCK SEEN UPON VERDICTS IN MASSIE CASE

Prosecutor Flatly Refuses Defense Proposal to Agree to Majority Decision.

ACQUITTAL FAVORED.

Jurors Out Over 24 Hours — Stand Rumored Eleven to One.

(By William H. Ewing)

HONOLULU, April 29 (A.P.)—Apparently deadlocked while defence and prosecution engaged in a side manoeuvre, the 12 men striving for a verdict in the case of four persons accused of the slaying of Joseph Kahahawai carried on today after having given watchers a few tantalizing glimpses of their jury room drama.

The first brief tableau came late yesterday after the case had been in the jurors' hands nearly 24 hours. The seven jurors of Anglo-Saxon blood left the deliberation room to stand on a balcony while light rain was falling. The other five, three Chinese, a Portuguese and a Hawaiian, remained inside.

For a few moments the seven conversed but they could not be overheard by the watchers. Except for the racial aspect of the act, observers found nothing significant in it. Thereafter the jurors could be seen from a distance going to and fro in the room and moving to and from the balcony, but they exhibited no signs of heated debate and generally leaned listlessly against the balcony rail.

Eleven to One

Late in the day Montgomery Winn of defence counsel expressed the belief the jurors were standing either 11 to 1 or 10 to 2 for the defence, and suggested to Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley that he agree to a verdict on that basis. Kelley flatly rejected it.

Subsequently it was understood Winn's statement regarding the balloting was not based on definite information, but on his belief a majority of the jurors favored the defendants.

Keeley said he had learned the result of the first ballot but he declined to share his information with newspaper men.

The jury is balloting separately on each defendant, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U.S.N., his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, United States Navy enlisted men. Massie admitted firing the fatal shot after Kahahawai assertedly confessed participating in the attack last Sept. 12 on the naval officer's wife, Mrs. Thalia Massie. The defence pleaded insanity in behalf of Massie and touched on the unwritten law.

Keeps Courage Up

Her courage not a whit diminished as the hours of suspense dragged by, Mrs. Fortescue was cheerful last night.

Mrs. Fortescue expressed regret when asked for an interview, saying Clarence Darrow, chief of defence counsel, had forbidden it. In a steady voice she asked about report from the jury room and was told of rumors that the jurors were standing 11 to 1 for acquittal.

"It seems that I heard that some time ago" she said, laughing cheerfully.

At 10 o'clock last night, when they retired, the jurors had been out 29 hours and 40 minutes They have asked no advice from Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis. Deliberations were to resume at 9 a.m., (2.30 p.m. E.S.T.)

Jury is Debating On Stabbing Case

LOCKPORT, N., April 29. — (C.P.).—After more than seven hours of deliberation, a county court jury considering the case of James Sacco, 30, of Niagara Falls, Ont., charged with murder, second degree, was locked up at midnight. The jury resumed its deliberations this morning.

Sacco is accused of fatally stabbing Edward (Stick) O'Brien of Niagara Falls, N.Y., last January.

LEADER LOST TO ARGENTINE

General Weiburn Taken by Death—Led 1930 Revolution, Put County on Feet.

NATIONAL HERO.

BUENOS AIRES, April 29 (C.P.). — Wailing sirens atop newspaper office buildings told Argentina this morning that Jose Francisco Uriburu, leader of its 1930 revolution, was dead.

Although the news had been expected since yesterday afternoon on account of despairing reports from the general's bedside in Paris it stunned the thousands who believe that if the nation has produced a hero in the twentieth century to rank with the great General San Martin, it was this 63-year-old soldier who came from retirement twenty months ago to lead a revolution against the ousted President Yrigoyen.

His own pronouncement on the task he performed, made when he surrendered the office of Provisional President last February, was this:

"I have maintained order in the Republic. The nation's credit abroad has been upheld. I have saved Argentina from the bankruptcy into which the deposed Government was precipitating it."

Ardent Patriot.

When General Uriburu sailed for Europe on March 12 to rest, recover his health, and observe political conditions, he was the object of both extravagant praise and bitter malignment here, in about equal measure. Since then the number of those who maligned him has grown smaller, and to-day most of these conceded that the country had lost an ardent patriot.

General Uriburu was a soldier all his life. He retired in 1929 as a lieutenant-general, but emerged again when he led the Cadets to the Government House in September, 1930, and seized the Government from which President Yrigoyen had fled.

Backed by an overwhelming support in the nation, he plunged at once into an effort to solve the country's problems, and within 18 months he had turned an adverse trade balance into a favorable balance of $70,000,000. Argentina alone among the nations of South America, continued, under him, to meet its foreign debts. He kept the budget nearer solvency and instituted sweeping decrees shifting the burden of national finance from import duties to internal revenues.

RAIL CHANGES BRING PROTEST

Lindsay Claims Three-day-a-week Service Into North Will Hurt Business.

TWO FIRES.

LINDSAY, April 29. (Examiner Correspondence).—Acting on instructions received from Provincial Police in Hastings County, W. A. Fanning, proprietor of a local repository was arrested yesterday by Chief of Police Lawler and Provincial Constable Nelson. He was taken to Madoc yesterday afternoon to face a charge of false pretences in connection with passing cheques for the purchase of cattle.

It is understood that representations were made before the Railway Board at Ottawa by Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C., M.P., yesterday to the proposed curtailment of train services on the Haliburton and Coboconk lines. It has been announced that a three-day-a-week service will be inaugurated on both lines instead of the daily service as at present. Should the change become effective, it will prove a great inconvenience to the people of the north as well as seriously affect business conditions in Lindsay.

A spark lighting on the roof was responsible for the total destruction of the fine brick residence of Mrs. James Kett, of Sadowa, in the northern part of Victoria County. Most of the contents were saved. Mrs. Kett was badly burned about the face by flying embers.

A brick residence on Victoria Avenue, occupied by W. Fee, and owned by Rev. F. Johnston, of Toronto, was badly damaged by fire yesterday. The blaze, which is believed to have started by a spark from the Haliburton train, broke out in the roof and did considerable damage before it was extinguished.

His Worship, Mayor Alcorn, who sailed last night for his native land (Ireland) was the recipient of a presentation from the members of the council. The chief magistrate was presented with a steamer rug.

John Edward, who resides southeast of Janetville, was taken to the hospital on Thursday, suffering from painful injuries. The young man was struck by a flying board while working in Graham's saw mill. He sustained serious internal injuries and a fractured thigh.

Charles Lamb, a local taxi man, was given a ten day sentence in the police court yesterday by Police Magistrate Jordan for intoxication while in charge of a car. His license was also cancelled. He was also assessed $117.00 or three months in jail for having liquor illegally.

FOUR JAPANESE HURT BY BLAST

here, although they declined to predict what steps would be taken.

American Suspected

Among the suspects arrested by the Japanese after the bombing was W. S. Hibbard, an American employee of the government of the international settlement.

They took him to military headquarters where his legs and hands were bound with ropes, he said, and he was subjected to questioning for three hours. Later Hibbard was released.

Late this afternoon it was learned that Consul general Kuraimatsu Mrai, who previously was reported uninjured, had his left leg shattered by a bomb fragment and that Y. Kawabata, president of the Shanghai Japanese residents association also was seriously injured, a number of fragments of the bomb having penetrated his body.

Japanese military officials also said they had obtained a confession from a Korean and that he was the man who threw the bomb. Six other men, said to be Chinese, also were arrested and were being held for investigation. The Japanese said the Korean intended to assassinate the entire group of officials on the reviewing stand.

The military authorities to-night withdrew some of the patrols they threw about the area following the explosion, but the soldiers remained in complete authority following the end of the fighting here the municipal police had resumed their duties in the Kongkew area but they were taking no part in the investigation to-day. The Japanese had re-established their own guards at their consulate and along the nearby streets.

Heavy Fire Damage In Foxboro Village

BELLEVILLE, April 29.— Driven by a strong northwest gale, fire which originated in the home of Joseph Moore of Foxboro, completely destroyed the house a large barn across the road and a garage. The house was owned by the Foxboro cheese factory. According to Mr. Moore, the fire started in the kitchen chimney, and it gained headway so rapidly that within two minutes of its discovery the western wall of the house was aflame.

None of the contents of the house was saved. The barn and garage were the property of Wesley Henderson, cheesemaker of Foxboro, and he states that all factory supplies were burned. Little insurance was carried and the loss will be heavy.

MISUSE OF

pected from a court of justice. He likewise pleaded for the banishment of party politics and a fair deal for the two accused Senators.

Question for House of Commons

The suggestion was advanced by Senator Graham that no Senator be the custodian or collector of campaign funds. That was a matter for members of the House of Commons.

The case against Senator Haydon, as summarized by Senator Meighen was that he permitted his legal firm to accept a retainer from R. O. Sweezey, then president of Beauharnois, contingent upon the passing of an order-in-council by the Dominion Government. This, it was contended, was a misuse of his position as a Senator.

The second charge against Senator Haydon was that he collected campaign funds from Beauharnois in the knowledge the company must receive further concessions from the Ottawa Government.

Turning to Senator McDougald, Senator Meighen accused him of acting in a way that no public man should act. He charged him with withholding from the Senate information that he was interested in Beauharnois while a member of a committee investigating power projects in the same section of the St. Lawrence. In other instances, his evidence was incorrect and wrong and his conduct was not in line with candor and truth.

No Direct Evidence

In his defence of Senator McDougald, Senator Graham observed that if a Senator could not sit on a committee, simply because he was interested in some company, then most of us will have to get out of the Senate or out of business. There was no direct evidence that linked Senator McDougald with misuse of his public position, said Senator Graham; on the contrary was his evidence that he had not abused his public trust, which must be accepted if he were not to be judged as perjuring himself.

"I want to look in the face of every member of this House and say that never in my life have I seen a nobler character than Senator Andrew Haydon," proceeded Senator Graham. "In my opinion he stands as an honest and respected man, unworthy of these attacks."

There were few men in the Senate, said Senator Graham, who had not collected campaign funds. Beauharnois money was paid to at least one Conservative collector.

Two-day Battle With Jap Forces Sees 200 Slain But Lines Stand.

TANKS, POISON GAS USED.

TOKYO, April 29. (C.P.)—A two-day battle between General Murai's Chinese rebels, in which 200 rebels were killed without decisive advantage to either side, has been fought near Hailin, Manchuria, Japanese despatches from Harbin said to-day.

The battle continued all Wednesday night and Thursday morning, the Rengo News Agency reported. Afterward, it said, the insurgents, estimated to number 6,000, held their strongly entrenched position four kilometres from Hailin.

Correspondents of local newspapers, as well as the Rengo Agency said the insurgents apparently attempted to use poison gas. They also were reported to be using improvised tanks, constructed on motor trucks.

Obituary

MRS. FRANK McGOWAN.

TWEED, April 29 (Examiner Correspondence). — The funeral of the late Elsie McGowan was held at her residence on South Victoria Street., Rev. E. B. Cook, of the Tweed United Church, officiating.

Following a lengthy illness, deceased passed away at Belleville Hospital. She was the wife of Mr. Frank McGowan, and daughter of the late Fred Geraldi and Mrs. A. Smart of Renfrew, and was born at Renfrew, where she spent her childhood. Being of a genial disposition she made many associates and friends not only in lodge and church work, but especially with the children. There were many beautiful floral tributes received from town and outside friends.

Interment was made in the family plot of Victoria Cemetery, where the members of the Order of the Eastern Star assisted with the services. Besides her husband, there are left to mourn her loss a mother, Mrs. A. Smart of Renfrew, and five brothers, Alexander, Fred, George, Maxwell, and Mert.

GILBERT LOHNESS

CAMPBELLFORD, April 28 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Funeral service for the late Gilbert Lohness of Frankford was held on Wednesday, April 27, at his family residence, two miles north of that town. Interment was made in Frankford Cemetery.

Death occurred on April 25 after an illness of three months, due to nervous prostration. Born in Frankford district, he has resided there all his life. For many years the late Mr. Lohness has been affiliated with the Faith Mission at Trenton and took an active interest in their work. The funeral was largely attended.

Surviving are his wife, five sons and one daughter.

GILBERT LOHNES.

FRANKFORD, April 29 (Examiner Correspondence). — The funeral was held on Wednesday of Gilbert Lohnes, who died suddenly on Monday, in his 55th year. After a short service at the home on the Glen Ross Road, the cortege left for the Frankford Cemetery, where interment was made in the family plot. The clergymen officiating were Revs. F. Loft, A. S. Doggett, W. Ball, and the Rev. Lee.

Mr. Lohnes was a life-long resident of the vicinity and was highly respected. He was a farmer and thresherman, and also was a large property owner in the village. He leaves to mourn his loss his widow and five children, who have the sympathy of the entire neighborhood.

IN MEMORIAM

TRUDE. — In loving memory of a dear Mother and Wife, who passed away April 28, 1929.

Gone from us her smiling face,
Those happy, cheery ways.
The heart that won so many friends
In the happy bygone days.
No one knows how much we miss her,
Some may think the wound has healed,
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within the heart concealed.

—Sadly missed by S. W. Trude and son, Harold.

IN MEMORIAM

GRAY.—In loving memory of our dear son, Royden C. Grey, who departed three years ago, April 29, 1929.

Gone from us but not forgotten,
Never shall thy memory fade;
Loving thoughts shall ever linger
Round the spot where thou are laid.
We weep with grief that one so dear
Can no more share our smiles or tears;
But think with joy that God has given
The hope to meet again in Heaven.

Big Orange Rally At Brighton May 4.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 29 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—A big rally of the Orange Order of Northumberland County will be held at Brighton on the evening of May 4, which will be featured by several outstanding speakers and prominent members of the order. The meeting will be an open one, matters relative to the policy and principles of the order being under discussion. Speakers will include Rt. Wor. Bro. Harold Shipman, Grand Master of Ontario East; Rt. Wor. Bro. H. A. Graham, Past Grand Master of Ontario East; Rt. Wor. Bro. Robert H. White, Past Grand Master of Alberta, and Bro. R. Noakes, Grand Master of the Orange Young Britains of British America. Other speakers will be heard including dignitaries from the L.O.B.A. and O.Y.B.

KING'S WHARF

The closing meeting of the Young People's League of St. John's United Church was held Friday evening. Devotional vice-president Miss Marguerite Ranson took charge of the program. The scripture reading was read by Miss Dorothy Ranson. The topic for the evening was taken by Mrs. Gayton Kimble. A reading "Happy Folks" was given by Bobby McIsaac. A reading "Neighbors" by Miss Dorothy Ranson. A solo was rendered by Bobby McIsaac accompanied by Mrs. Fred White. A reading "Honorable Position" was given by Miss Marguerite Ranson. An address was given by Rev. Mr. Gardiner.

Stanley Thurston from Reaboro has purchased the farm of the late Richard Murtha for a ranch. He has erected a wire fence around it and intends putting a windmill on the well for his water supply.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ranson were business visitors to Lindsay Saturday.

SAVES in 3 ways
1. KEEPS hands from getting red.
2. MAKES silks, linens, woollens, wear longer.
3. COSTS less because you get richer suds with less soap.

saves you money in any cleaning task and keeps hands white and smooth
By Hilda Doran Ross

THRIFTY Canadian women use Princess for fine laundry and the children's clothes, for dishes and for the family washing—in fact, for every household need.

Princess saves your clothes and it saves you money because—being a pure soap—it gives richer, more abundant suds with far less soap used.

Princess contains no harsh, free caustics or adulterants of any kind; it cannot harm fine silks, linens or woollens. Nor can it harm your hands. Women who use Princess regularly say that instead of making hands rough or red it actually keeps them smoother—whiter—lovelier.

FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1932

GOOD BUSINESS.

There is every reason to feel optimistic over the prospects offered by the clean-up, paint-up campaign, which is linked up intimately with the give-a-man-a-job idea.

It is good business, and The Examiner is satisfied that Peterborough citizens are sensible enough to appreciate that fact.

It is good business in many ways; in the first place, it is good business for a property-owner to improve the condition of his house at a time when the cost of such improvements has seldom been lower; it is good business to have the city as a whole cleaned up, freshened and renovated, and above all, it is good business to give some jobless man the opportunity to earn a little money at a time when he most needs it.

Every dollar spent for materials means business for somebody and work for others; every dollar spent in wages helps in exactly the same way.

Put a few thousand dollars in circulation in Peterborough in the course of this campaign and the benefit from that expenditure will rapidly extend in an enlarging circle that will reach hundreds of our citizens.

Don't be satisfied to sit back and let others do it; if there is work to be done around your factory, your store or your home, get busy and help a lot of other men get busy; the cumulative effect may prove a surprise.

ORGANIZATION NEEDED.

It was unfortunate, to say the least, that Trent Canal estimates should have been discussed in the House without, as The Examiner has pointed out, a representative of the district bordering on the waterway being heard in support of the vote for this enterprise.

The explanation probably is, that the matter came up on Friday after the majority of Ontario members had followed their usual practice of going home for the week-end, but it will strike most people that, knowing that the Department of Railways and Canals estimates were to be considered on that occasion, the members of canal constituencies should either have waited over until Saturday or have arranged that the Trent Waterway estimates would be held over until a later date.

Every member whose riding touches the Trent Canal should be vitally interested in seeing that Parliament is given a fair picture of the waterway, and The Examiner is of the opinion that they should work in co-operation in the interest of this undertaking which means so much to the tourist industry in this part of Ontario.

With a proper organization of all the members from the Bay of Quinte to Georgian Bay, it is impossible to think of Trent Canal estimates being disposed of in the House without a friendly voice being heard.

If there is any chance offered during the present session to make up the ground lost last week, The Examiner would suggest that all the members of the district affected should give Parliament a little education as to what the canal is and as to its importance.

IN REGARD TO PRICES.

The feeling against lower prices, as a consistent policy, and not as an instrument of unfair trade, is hard to understand except in terms of unenlightened selfishness, says the Alexander Hamilton Institute. For, no matter what the extraneous issues, prices are the absolute measure of standard of living, and lower prices, with relation to wages, mean higher standards. It is a paradox how high prices have become associated in the public mind with high standards of living, just because at the tail-end of an era of prosperity prices are inflated.

Before the crash in 1929 the markets had become saturated with goods at the contemporary level of prices. The acuteness of the situation was probably due to the ending of the particular impetus given to demand by the unprecedented ease with which consumers could borrow to spend. The condition was known as over-production, a misnomer. There was over-production, at the contemporary level of prices, but there is never such a thing as absolute over-production while more goods can be sold at lower prices.

Below the price level were vast markets for goods. And had the price-setters of industry attempted to widen the circle of buyers by lowering prices, instead of fighting one another for the existing high-price market, there probably would have been no sudden collapse in prices, and no depression. The greater volume and the reduced selling expense would probably have collaborated in higher net profits; immediately and continuing.

Under a strictly capitalistic economy, it is almost hypercritical to advocate the passing along of excess profits to the consumer. Furthermore, the statement seldom means exactly what it says. It really means that when the spread between production costs and prices gets excessive, and especially when selling costs become abnormal, prices must be reduced. This is the "better" of "bigger and better" business. It is the aspect overlooked in the late lamented decade.

IRRESPONSIBLE DRIVERS.

Several motorists who had been exceeding the speed limit on city streets have appeared in Police Court this week and have been fined by the magistrate.

While The Examiner has no desire to see anybody's pocketbook lightened in times like these, nevertheless the evidence given by these cases of activity on the part of the city police department against careless and reckless driving will be welcome to all who have been impressed by local traffic conditions.

As this paper pointed out a few days ago, there is a decided need of a check-up that will curb the speedster and the take-a-chance driver who ignores traffic regulations and acts as if he and his car were the only things moving on the street.

There is no excuse for the fast driving over intersections, nor for the speeding through school areas, that has been going on here in recent months; the law is clear, and the most glaring offenders should be made to understand that those who flout the regulations will have to be prepared to pay the price.

Some of the driving on local streets is beyond all reason, and there will be no improvement until the guilty parties are compelled to realize the folly of their actions; it should not be necessary to wait until a reckless driver gets into an accident before laying a charge against him; in fact, the commonsense principle would seem to be to cure him before he does do damage to a pedestrian or to some other motorist.

Ordinary educational methods have failed; the police and the courts should try their hand.

CANADA'S EXPORTS TO BRITAIN.

When the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, as Canada's High Commissioner in Great Britain, warns exporters and those intending to export that they must change their methods if they wish to make progress in the British market, he is repeating advice that has been given by many others interested in the development of a larger Canadian business with the Motherland.

"Time and again," the High Commissioner told a Toronto audience recently, "I have run across cases of Canadians sending goods to England without any effort to provide them in the form and manner desirable or adaptable to English requirements. In this connection, there seems to be three great defects retarding our trade in the Old Country.

"Firstly, Canadian exporters seem to lack any appreciation of consumers' taste, or of what can be most easily handled and distributed.

"In the second place, there seems to be a complete lack of standardization of most of our products. New Zealand, Australia, California, almost all other countries or exporting regions, have standards and brands for their products that mean quality and uniformity to British merchandisers and consumers. We are lamentably out of the picture in this way.

"Finally, three is no continuity of supply of our products, a weakness that I have been told of repeatedly by our trade commissioners in Great Britain. Purchasers over there often will purchase a Canadian article or produce once, and may not be able to get the same thing again for months afterward. I have often wondered if it would not be a good thing to establish some authority at Ottawa to regulate the forwarding of our goods to the British Isles."

Mr. Ferguson's remarks run parallel to the contents of an article contributed to a recent issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal by the Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in which he states that the departmental representatives in Great Britain find themselves handicapped in their efforts to maintain the flow of Canadian products in that country by lack of uniformity of quality and the indifference regarding continuity of supply on the part of Canadian exporters. "Due to these handicaps, while the department has been doing its best to develop the market for Canadian products and has met with a considerable measure of success, the results accomplished are not so great as they would be were more attention paid to these two points. The complaints regarding lack of continuity of supply have been made in regard to a number of commodities, including cattle, bacon, eggs, butter and canned goods, while lack of uniformity of quality has been periodically alleged against certain others. In some cases exporters are fully aware of these shortcomings and are not to blame as they are dependent upon the primary producers. On the other hand, lack of continuity of supplies is, it is regretfully noted, frequently due to the spasmodic interest shown in export trade by Canadian producers."

"The situation is one that calls for immediate remedy," says the Minister, "and an appeal is made to the various interests concerned to do their utmost to ensure that not only uniformity of quality be secured, but that the Canadian products in demand in the United Kingdom should move in an uninterrupted flow. In that way the benefits that should accrue to the Dominion from the preferences under the new general import tariff of Great Britain will be more fully secured."

It is clear that if Canadian producers, particularly of foodstuffs, wish to make progress in the British market, which may be opened more widely to them as a result of the deliberations of the Imperial Economic Conference, they must take steps to assure the export of goods of the highest uniform quality, as well as to guarantee a steady supply of such commodities on the market in question. If such assurance is not given, through action on the part of groups of producers or through governmental supervision of exports, any concessions that may be given to Canadian producers by the British Government will be comparatively valueless.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The flying record to Australia has again been shattered. The Antipodes are now just round the corner from the Strand.

Mr. Bennett and Mr. King are on speaking terms, it is announced, but the report doesn't show any signs of the two leaders becoming pals.

Reading the Senate battle over the Beauharnois matter will bring back political memories of yesterday.

According to a newspaper heading, the C.N.R. is seeking new economies, and The Examiner is satisfied that that will be all right with the people who have to pay the bills.

Interpreted

A father was giving some advice to his son. At the end of the lecture he said:

"Now, my boy, you understand perfectly what I mean?"

"Yes," said the youth. "It boils down to this: If I do well, it's because of my illustrious forebears; if I fail, it's my own fault."—Good Hardware.

A Good Example.

Place for Hosea

The speaker was addressing the gathering on "The Major and Minor Prophets." His discourse had already lasted more than an hour, and his audience was becoming restless.

"And now," said he, "we have discussed at great length the major prophets; and, coming to the minor prophets, I ask you what place shall we give to Hosea?"

To the consternation of all present, one of the listener arose quickly and, reaching for his hat, said: "He can have mine; I've got to go."—Methodist Protestant-Recorder.

BONDED TO STEEL PLATES

Rubber used in the Floating Power engine suspension on the new Dodge Six and Eight is bonded to the steel plates through a special process similar to welding. During a recent test one of these mountings supported a 500 pound bale of cotton for several weeks and the rubber connection was still rigid.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, April 29.— A firmer feeling in eggs was again apparent on the local market yesterday, and the prices asked by both ordinary and storage-packed supplies. Brokers made sales of graded eggs, in free, used cases, at 13c for extras, 13c for firsts and 11c for seconds, while storage-packed eggs sold at 16c for extras and 14c for firsts. Prices to country shippers and retailers were steady. Country shippers were quoted 12c for extras, 10c for firsts, and 8c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Retailers were offered supplies at 10c for extras in cartons, 17c for extras loose, 15c for firsts loose, and 13c for seconds loose.

Butter

There was a fair demand for butter, but supplies were more than sufficient, and were piling up. Brokers were offering the various grades at prices steady with those of Wednesday, at 16¼c to 17c for No. 1 solids, and 15¼c to 16c for No. 2. Prices to retailers for creamery prints were unchanged at 21c for No. 1 and 20c for No. 2.

Cheese

Quotations on new cheese were also steady. Brokers asked 10¼c for large, 10⅝c for twins, and 10¾c for triplets. Retailers were quoted new makes at 11¼c for large, 11¾c for twins, 12c for triplets, and 14c for stiltons.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 29. — Butter and egg prices advanced yesterday on the Montreal produce and dairy markets, while cheese and potatoes held steady.

The butter market today ranged from 16½c to 16c per pound for No. 1 quality. Receipts were 860 boxes, largely made up of No. 2 grade.

Egg Prices

Eggs were generally 17c per dozen for fresh extras, 15c for firsts and 13c for seconds, these prices being for graded Ontario and Prairie eggs. A better demand was in evidence. Receipts were 2,520 cases. Prices to retailers were steady.

The cheese market remained steady at 10c for current receipts and 12c to 12¼c for summer make. Receipts were 581 boxes.

Potatoes Unchanged

Potatoes were unchanged, prices being: New No. 1 Florida potatoes, $10.50 to $11 per barrel, ex track, with No. 2 quality at $7 to $7.50. Old potatoes: New Brunswick Green Mountains, 80 lbs., No. 1, 42c to 45c; Quebec Mountains, 80 lbs., No. 1, 40c to 45c; P.E.I. Green Mountains, 90 lbs., No. 1, 55c; local whites, 80 lbs., No. 1, 30c to 40c, with car-lot prices 10c per bag cheaper.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 29.—Big breaks in grain prices yesterday followed heavy downpours in drought areas of wheat territory.

It was estimated by some unofficial authorities that as a consequence of moisture relief, the United States 1932 wheat yield would be 100,000,000 bushels or more in excess of the latest Government forecast. A maximum fall of 3¼ cents a bushel pitched the wheat market to below prices current immediately after the April official crop report had indicated sensational damage and a probable 1932 domestic winter wheat harvest of only 458,000,000 bushels.

Rye at Season's Low.

Corn collapsing with wheat reached the bottommost quotations since 1899. Rye outdid the present season's low price record.

Wheat closed shaky, 2⅝c to 3⅛c under Wednesday's finish; corn, 1⅜c to 1⅞c down; oats, ⅝c to ⅞c off, and provisions showing 10c to 20c decline.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 28. — Responsive to lower wheat quotations at Liverpool, and a brighter weather map over winter and spring wheat lands in the United States and Canada, grain values drooped perceptibly yesterday. Prices at the close revealed losses of 2¼c to 1⅝c for the day.

May eased 2⅜c to close at 59⅛c. July 2¼c to 2c to 61⅞c to 62c, and October 2c to 1⅞c to 64¼c to 64¼c

Export trade was a minus quantity.

The market showed considerable activity, and the long, dull pauses which had characterized previous trading sessions this week were absent. Ostensibly the main factor in the decline was the weather conditions. The trade, however, inclined to the belief that these conditions did not justify the break.

Seeding conditions over the Prairie wheat fields were reported yesterday as favorable. Similar reports were received from Southern Russia, and a fair surplus of wheat was reported in Argentina.

Demand for Nos. 4 and 5 wheats at fractionally better spreads featured the cash wheat section. Coarse grains declined in sympathy with wheat.

M.P.'s SHOULD KNOW BETTER

The Editor,
Peterborough Examiner,
City.

Dear Sir:

I read with feelings closely akin to disgust, the article in your Editorial Column "No Champions For the Trent" in your issue of April 27th. Such ignorance and utter disregard for the facts is bad enough in any Canadian citizen but in a member of the Federal House, it is unpardonable. The figures on the tourist traffic for this district are sufficiently convincing in themselves, but for the further information of Messrs. Munn and Carmichael, etc., I quote from a letter recently received from an American citizen resident in Pittsburg:—

"If you have never made the whole trip to Georgian Bay through the Trent Waterway System, I can assure you from my own experience, that you are going to have a very beautiful and interesting trip next summer. I have travelled a great deal in my own country, in many foreign countries, and in almost every part of Ontario, and nothing that I can think of can touch the natural beauty of the Trent Waterway System." It is hardly necessary to say that this letter was unsolicited and came to me in the ordinary course of business. It was decidedly fortunate for this district and the whole of the Trent Waterway, that Dr. Manion was in a position to refute, to some degree at least, these statements.

Yours sincerely,
Fred L. Roy.

Patrolman Gambles With Death And Wins

NEW YORK, April 29.—Patrolman Jack Kennedy of the Nassau County police took a thousand to one chance in a gamble with death today, and won.

For four years Kennedy has been paralyzed from the waist down, the result of a bullet in the spine received when he entered a thicket at Woodmere, L.I., to learn why an automobile was parked there without lights.

"I've got to get well and go back to work," he told the doctors. "What is my chance in an operation."

"A thousand to one against you," they said.

"I'll take the chance," he decided. "If I don't come through my wife and child can live on the smaller pay."

So they operated today, taking the right leg off at the hip. Sheer will power carried him through, Dr. Henry Milch said.

Kennedy went on the operating table a wraith of a man shrunken by illness from 240 pounds to 130.

SON OF THE GODS

By REX BEACH

He was saying something about Chinatown—it was nothing like it was painted—there was no local color—it was a gigantic fake, but Alice heard him indistinctly. These Chinamen recognized Sam Lee's car and they knew Sam Lee; they were gaping at her. And why not? A white girl with one of their own people! A white girl in an evening wrap. Of a sudden she felt frightened, half naked. She had never anticipated anything like this.

Sam stopped his car in front of a building which rose several stories above its neighbors and helped his passenger out. They were facing a fine store, a bazaar, now dimly lighted; alongside of it was a tiled entrance and into this he led her. The place was clean and shiny with brass and white marble but there were unrecognizable odors in the air. Opium probably! Alice grew faint, her knees weakened. Where was Sam taking her? What would be the end of this hideous experience? A panic seized her.

She saw it all, now, and understood the significance of his gifts, his attentions. How cunningly he had arranged everything, how patiently he had bided his time. An oily, wily, Oriental maneuver. She was tempted to bolt and run but it was too late, the elevator gate had closed, she was being rushed upward, out of and away from the world. She wanted to scream but feared to offend her companion. She wondered if she would ever be heard of again.

FIFTH INSTALMENT

The elevator stopped. Alice stepped out in a spacious hall, really an anteroom, elaborately finished in carved teak wood. Through this Sam led her into a room that caused her to gasp. It was splendid, it quite took her breath.

Some spell had been put on her, she reasoned, for a moment ago she had been in the slums and now she stood in a temple of enchantment. This airy, spacious room was a museum of treasures, it was softly lighted, it had an atmosphere of benevolent calm and dignity.

Benevolent ca'm! Dignity! That's how Sam had described his father's dwelling place and the words were aptly descriptive also of the owner, a tall old Chinaman who rose and came forward to meet Alice, and who was now bowing ceremoniously, raising and lowering his clasped hands in the Chinese manner.

Lee Ying! He was a patriarch and an aristocrat. His voice was pleasant, his speech was slow and precise, his words were well chosen; he carried himself like a noble.

"You honor my poor house," he told his visitor with a benignant smile. "Its contents and the grateful contents of my heart are yours. Sam has often often spoken of you in terms of the most respectful admiration and it is generous of you to favor an old man with the light of your countenance."

Alice acknowledged the stately greeting with what composure she could summon for her terror of a moment ago had not entirely dissipated itself. Sam came to her rescue by saying:

"Miss Hart is a stranger in New York and of course she has never seen this part of the city. I'm afraid it frightened her a little bit."

"Oh, no!" The girl laughed in more relief than she cared to show. "I wasn't exactly frightened—just bewildered. It's all so strange and dumbfounding. But I'm having a marvelous adventure. Coming here is the most marvelous of all."

"Sam never told me—I had no idea, people lived so sumptuously in this part of the city. Or anywhere else, for that matter. I'm another Alice in Wonderland—Are those trees, out yonder, and flowers? Or just a part of the dream?" The speaker gazed round-eyed towards the farther end of the room for it seemed to her that she was looking out into a growing garden, a riot of bloom and foliage. She saw live, luscious, green leaves and heard the tinkle of running water.

Talking as he went, the old man led her out upon the roof of the building itself and along a graveled walk, bordered with shrubbery, to a breast high-coping where she looked down upon the swarming chaos that is Chinatown. Atop this modern, fireproof structure that housed his store, Lee Ying's home stood in a yard of its own. Alice was in a lofty garden hung high above the lights and the clamor of the streets; evergreens and rose bushes were bejeweled with drops from a recent watering, the air was fresh and cool and earthy smelling up here. Yonder, to her left, down a formal pathway of slender cedars, stood a little Chinese pagoda with curling eaves over which a riotous wistaria clambered. Midway of the path was a pool, the abiding place of lazy goldfish with long, lacy fins, and into it a fountain dripped its liquid music; here and there amid the shrubbery were stone and porcelain figures, the play-in-the-garden people Sam called them. They were images of merry little Chinese children, absurdly proportioned animals and queer, capering gnomes with upflung arms and open mouths.

The lights from the house, and it too had been modeled along pure Chinese lines, flooded the garden with an artificial moonlight wholly entrancing; it was a fairy bower, a place for birds to nest and for lovers to meet.

When the visitor had exhausted her exclamations she was led back indoors and Lee Ying said: "Our poor possessions are commonplace in our eyes but you have the discerning eyes of an artist. If you see anything of beauty, if anything here interests you it would give me pleasure to tell you its history and the story of its making."

"Everything interests me."

"—and some of those stories run back into the mists of antiquity."

The girl nodded. "I'm sure they do. I've never seen many nice things, Mr. Lee. But I love everything beautiful and old and rare."

"Very well. We will become more quickly acquainted by exploring each other's tastes and distastes. But you must not permit a garrulous old man to tire you with his hobbies and his enthusiasms. Sam will warn me if I trespass upon your patience and when you weary we will entertain you otherwise. Young people are always hungry and we have your own peculiar foods and delicacies which may prove pleasing to you."

Alice had never imagined any Chinaman could possess such learning, such culture, such perfect poise as his; never had she received such gracious courtesy and gratifying deference as was accorded her during the next hour. Her lightest word was listened to, her every wish anticipated, her aged host betrayed a warmth of friendliness that was delightful. His home was an Ali Baba's treasure cave and Alice found herself wondering how rich he was. He must have millions, for she saw rugs and paintings, ivory and jade, jewels and porcelains, fit for a king's collection.

"And so you are studying to become a famous artist," Lee Ying smiled cordially upon her and nodded his head. Alice had explored the house, the extent and the appointments of which astonished her, she had partaken of strange foods, she had drunk tea that was more fragrant than orange blossoms, now she was sitting with father and son.

"I don't hope ever to be famous," she disclaimed, modestly. "To be successful in a small way and to make myself self-supporting is as much as I can expect."

"How do we know? It is fitting that beauty like yours should create more beauty. It is a divine endeavor."

"I don't mean to say I'm not ambitious but—" Alice shrugged hopelessly.

Sam, who had done little talking thus far explained deferentially that Alice's parents discouraged her further studies.

The elder man looked his distress. "I grieve with you, for it is a noble calling. And yet I cannot urge you to ignore their wishes. If they were willing for you to continue I would esteem it a privilege to be of assistance.

Sam's face lighted, he turned proud, triumphant eyes upon the guest.

Alice flushed and stammered. "Oh, they'd be—delighted. They don't mind anything except the cost. We're dreadfully poor, you know. Father works hard enough but he's so—incompetent, so impractical. And of course I—Well, it's too marvelous to be true, Mr. Lee, and I don't know how to thank you—I'm terribly economical, really, and expenses at Eastern are low—"

Both she and Sam were surprised at Lee Ying's next words. "I understood that your dream envisioned something more ambitious than that."

"You mean—Paris?" faltered the girl, unable to credit the old man's words.

"I do. Why not speed your arrow towards the moon? It will fly the farther." The speaker was addressing Alice but his attention was focused upon Sam. "Time passes, youth is impatient of delay. The road is difficult but the longest journey begins with a step."

"Oh! Mr. Lee!" Alice gasped; she clasped her hands over her breast, her eyes widened, her lips parted. "Paris! That's my dream!"

Sam's expression had altered, a look of dismay flickered over his face. What children they are, mused the old man. And how transparent. It had not taken him long to weigh the girl, to read her character and to appraise her worth, now he felt only contempt for her. For Sam he experienced a sincere compassion inasmuch as he knew the boy and had watched him carefully these several days. Sam was blinded, dazzled; motes were in his eyes. Where was his perception? Where was his pride? A tigerish resentment stirred in Lee Ying's breast. His boy, a Son of the Gods, to fall a victim to this vain, self-seeking creature! She was common in fiber, she was crude, and instinct told the elder man that she was the sort who would readily barter her body and her talents for the gratification of her ambitions. An artist, indeed! Ambition! Lee Ying could have strangled her.

Suavely he promised Alice that she could sail for Paris on the next ship if she chose. His attorneys would arrange her transportation and see to her passport, a sum sufficient to meet her requirements would be deposited with his Paris bankers and against it she could draw as and when she chose. Henceforth she was her own mistress, her future was her own. Gracefully he warded off her hysterical effusions of gratitude.

When finally she left, she was almost servile in her thanks, and yet a new confidence, a new determination was in her. Lee Ying suspected that she credited her physical charms, her magnetic beauty with enchanting him.

When he had finished his final obeisance and the elevator door had closed, he expelled a noisy breath of disgust, he spread his fingers and shook them delicately as if to rid himself of some contaminating touch.

What beastly creatures were these low, conniving white women. If Sam could only understand. But he had absorbed a Western reverence for the sex. Poor boy, they would cause him nothing but suffering! Here was a situation that could have been handled simply, expeditiously, economically, in any country less "civilized" but more truly cultured than America. Why was it these Occidentals saved their useless women and drowned their kittens. It was a mistaken sentiment.

INTERLISTED ISSUES JOIN MINING DROP

Lake Shore, Teck-Hughes and Buffalo Canadian Suffer Under Liquidation.

SILVER SHARES STRONGER

TORONTO, April 29.— (C.P.) — Lack of buoyancy to mark action on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange Market to-day, with interlisted stocks adding to yesterday's recessions.

Lake Shore changed hands $26, a 50-cent decline from last night's level, and Teck-Hughes was off another 4 to $3.57. Buffalo-Canadian appeared to be suffering under some heavy liquidation, price dropping another 5 to 23. Vipond was off a cent to 27 and McLeod River a fraction to 3.

Silver shares were somewhat stronger, Eldorado gaining 4 to $1.14 and Mining Corp. 5 to 75. Noranda and International Nickel were both easy, former dipping 25 to $14.60 and the latter 45 to $6.10. Oils remained in the discard.

NICKEL EQUALS LOW OF 6 1-8

Fresh Break in Wheat Prices Fails to Inspire Confidence With Public.

LEADERS SOFT.

TORONTO, April 29.—Several issues pierced through old lows on fractional declines on Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Among these were C.P.R. at 12¾, Ford of Canada at 8½, Noranda at 14½, Nickel equalled its low of 6⅛, and Dominion Stores sold down to 16, its bottom on the recent reaction.

The market was soft throughout, but very little stock came out on the resumption of the decline, which probably accounted for the narrowness of the fluctuations. The local market was weak with New York, swaying with the mood of that centre. The fresh break in wheat prices did not help inspire confidence with the Canadian public.

Brazilian, Montreal Power, Steel of Canada were among other leaders easier compared with last night's finals. Smelters dropped 1¾ points to 38.

Beverage stocks continued firm and oils gave a fair display, although there was some concession to the general market tone by Imperial Oil and International Petroleum.

B. C. TIMBER TO BE USED IN NEW LONDON HOUSES

LONDON, April 29.—(C P Cable)—In line with its recent decision to use empire timber as much as possible the housing committee of the London county council has instructed its contractors to order British Columbia timber for use in the construction of London County council houses.

At the same time it is announced that A. C. Bossom, Conservative member of the House of Commons for Maidstone, Kent, who is architect and an alderman of the London County council, will give a luncheon at the house of commons when the timber possibilities of the Empire will be discussed.

RELIGIOUS LEADER PASSES

From the Y.M.C.A. secretarial training department in the school for Christian workers which he established in connection with his church here in 1856 grew the present Springfield College.

Two-Year-Old Boy Picked Up On Street No Anxious Parents Have Claimed Child

No anxious parents up to 3 o'clock this afternoon had sought the whereabouts of a two-year-old boy, who was found at 11.45 this morning by John Edgar, inspector of the Children's Aid Society. The little child, dirty and alone but apparently happy, was picked up by Mr. Edgar on George street near Dublin street. Inquiries made among the residents of that district brought forth the information that the child was not known there and had not been noticed in the neighborhood before.

While Mr. Edgar pressed his inquiries further, the child was left in the care of a sales' girl in a confectionery store. After enjoying some buns and a drink of milk the little boy became sleepy after his wanderings, and the girl took him to her boarding house on Dublin street khere he was put to bed for his afternoon nap.

No inquiries by his parents had been made for him at the police station, and at 3 o'clock Mr. Edgar was still engaged in trying to locate the child's parents.

TARDIEU'S OPPONENT LEON BLUM DROPS FROM ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Succumbs to Premier's Illness —Severe Attack of Laryngitis.

HERRIOT GOING STRONG.

(By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

PARIS, April 29 (C.P.Cable).—Leon Blum, leader of the Socialists, the main party of the left in the last chamber of deputies, is out of action, like Premier Andre Tardieu. Constant speaking in the French general election campaign, which ends with the first ballot on Sunday has brought an attack of laryngitis upon both Blum and Tardieu.

Premier Tardieu has been laid up for a couple of days and it is highly unlikely that he will be able to cast his vote in his own constituency of Belfort territority on Sunday. His last speech of the campaign was read from Belfort last night by Pierre Cathala, under-secretary to the prime minister.

Leon Blum, who has been campaigning in the south, was unable last night to say more than a few words. His speech was read by a colleague.

Herriot Still Fighting.

But Edouard Herriot, former premier and chief opponent of Premier Tardieu, is still going strong. At Lyons last night he replied to Tardieu's demand as to which way the radical-socialists-Herriot's party was going. The radical party, said Herriot, is and will remain free. When the time comes it will consider means to give France a truly republican government. All I have said for my part is that if by chance it should be invited to assume all responsibilities with the sole help of the socialists, I should refuse, and I should advise my friends to refuse.

(The socialists, the largest individual group in the last chamber, are considerably more leftist in tendency than the radical-socialists, who would be more correctly described for Canadians as Liberals).

Herriot, who led the government of the left cartel after the elections of 1924, when Leon Blum had a considerable share of the direction of affairs, added: I know too well what proceedings we should have to expect and how a government established on a broad basis would necessarily have to resist them . . . it is for us alone to determine the differences which lie between us and the socialists.

Watch Radical Socialists.

Both Premier Tardieu, leader of a loosely knot combination of the right and right centre parties, notably the democrat and left republicans; and Leon Blum, dominant figure on the left of the chamber, have during the campaign paid marked respect to Herriot's radical-socialists, who are practically the centre party and in a key position if the general elections should not result in any major party re-alignment. Herriot's speeches have kept the right and the left uncertain as to which way he would swing. Roughly speaking, he seems to have left the path open to co-operation with either one of them, if the elections should place him and his radical-socialists in a position to decide the nature of the next government.

OFF GOLD STANDARD

HELSINGFORS. — The government to-day announced that Finland would remain off the gold standard at least until the end of the present fiscal year.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, April 29.— (C.P.) — Toronto stock exchange market sank gradually into lower ground to-day, with final prices approximately at the lows for the day. The list was narrow but in some of the leaders volume suggested additional liquidation. The market took its cue from Wall Street, there being nothing in the local situation to set a trend.

C.P.R. which made a new low mark at 12½ closed ¼ point below last night at 12¾. Ford left off near its new record low of 8½ while Nickel closed at 6, the lowest this present stock has ever sold. Noranda made a new bottom for the year under 15. Smelters dropped below 38 to show a net loss of more than 2 points. There also were fractional declines in Bell Telephone, Brazilian, Montreal Power, Imperial Tobacco, Dominion Stores, Steel of Canada and most of the Oils. This latter group was moderately firm during the early trading but finally softened with the rest of the market.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, April 29 (C.P.). — In sympathy with the decline on the New York Stock Exchange, prices on the Montreal Stock Exchange worked fractionally lower at the close. After a quiet morning session a substantial volume of selling came into the market and prices dipped.

Canadian Pacific Railway was the feature of the day. After establishing a new low level for the year at 12¼ sold up to 13, where it closed with a gain of ⅛ over yesterday's closing quotations. Montreal Power was the active leader and after opening at 29 eased to 28¾, where it finished the day with a loss of ¼. Brazilian Traction also recorded a new low at 9, off ½, while International Nickel equalled its low for the year at 6, down ¼. Abitibi at 1, and Lake of the Woods at 4½ both registered new lows and lost half a point.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 29 (C.P.). — Stocks steadied slightly in the late trading to-day after an average dip into new low ground for the bear market, but the closing tone was heavy. Santa Fe, off about 3 points, was one of the few rails to make new minimums, although virtually every industrial went through the old low. American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Eastman, General Electric, U.S. Steel, Union Pacific, American Can., Sears Roebuck, and Western Union were down a point or more net. Transactions approximated 1,200,000 shares.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 29. (C.P.) — Losses predominated among price changes at the close of an irregular session on the Standard stock and mining exchange market to-day. A slight improvement in turnover among cheaper issues resulted in total sales of 201,000 shares against 164 000 yesterday.

Teck-Hughes, easier in early trade, firmed late in the day to finish up 4 from last night's final. An odd lot of Hollinger turned over at a 10-cent decline but other higher-priced golds were steady.

Eldorado moved up in the forenoon but reacted later to complete the day unchanged. Mining Corp. was somewhat stronger at 75 in the base metal section. International Nickel registered a new low for the year and a loss of 20, Noranda was down 10.

U.S. Players Are Doubles Winners

WASHINGTON, April 29. — (CP) —With Mrs. Herbert Hoover and other notables in the gallery, Canada and the United States renewed their Davis Cup tennis series today on the courts of the Chevy Chase club.

Marcel Rainville and Dr. Jack Wright of Canada, took the court for Canada, against Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, United States doubles champions. A last minute shift in the Canadian plans sent Rainville into action in place of Walter Martin.

The United States team was victorious in the two opening singles matches yesterday.

Weather conditions were ideal except for a gusty breeze. The players were presented to Mrs. Hoover just before the match.

Van Ryn and Allison won the first set 6-2.

Van Ryn and Allison took the second set 6-1.

C.P.R. At New Low On Montreal List

MONTREAL, April 29 (C.P.). — Under the active domination of Montreal Power and the establishing of a new low for the year by Canadian Pacific Railway, prices on the Montreal Stock Exchange moved lower in the quiet morning session to-day. Montreal Power was again active leader and dipped half a point to 28½. Canadian Pacific, which was second to Montreal Power in activity, slipped ⅝ to 12⅛, a new low for this year. International Nickel equalled the year's low level when it sold at 6, at which quotation it was off ¼ from yesterday's closing price. Brazilian Traction also turned downward and lost ⅛ at 9¼.

Consolidated Smelters declined ½ at 38½, and Canada Cement was ⅝ lower; McColl-Frontenac held unchanged at 9.

TIME GRANTED

STOCKHOLM.— Extension until the end of May of the moratorium granted the Kreuger toll companies was approved by the government to-day.

KIWANIS CLUB

he prophesied, "and if the speed of the airplane is only increased by 100 per cent. we shall have planes capable of attaining a speed of from 800 to 1,000 m.p.h." he said.

Addressing the remarks to one section of the club members who laughed at this statement, the speaker remarked that people laughed twenty or more years ago when told that the automobile would be designed to go at a greater speed than 15 m.p.h.

Developments in civil aviation had been phenomenal in Canada alone during the last three years. Last year according to official figures not yet issued the number of miles flown by civil pilots was over 7,400,000. In the United States last year commercial and army pilots flew a total of 9,000,000 miles.

It is interesting ton ote that Mr. Wemp commenced his flying career 21 years ago, and at one time held the passenger flight record in the Don Valley. In the early days of the War he went overseas, and had charge of the air operations as Squadron Commander at the bottling up of the Zeebruge harbor. He was one of the first airmen to receive the Distinguished Flying Cross from His Majesty the King and is also holder among other decorations of the Croix de Guerre and the Order of Leopold.

Following completion of his address he was tendered a vote of thanks on motion of Charles Shaw.

The program for the day was in charge of vice-president Dr. E. H. Wood, who called upon Victor Coleman, boy soloist, who was present with his music instructor, Frederick G. Mann. Victor, a gold medallist at Toronto Exhibition, sang two numbers which were well received.

During the course of the program thanks was extended to L. J. Pettit and his committee by the club, for the remarkable work they had accomplished in connection with the recent Kiwanis Musical Festival.

Included among the guests present were Messrs. R. M. Glover, Allan Neal and Dr. M. F. White of Lindsay.

HOARE STATES

relations that existed during the round table conference (when Mr. Gandhi represented the Nationalist Congress).

But Mr. Gandhi must disassociate himself from the civil disobedience campaign, the Secretary declared. There could be no question of making a bargain with the Nationalist Congress as a condition of Mr. Gandhi's co-operation.

Referring to the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, Sir Samuel emphasized there was no desire to dictate to the delegation which will represent India, and which has already been appointed. India's interests must be paramount and any recommendations made by the Indian delegation must be subject to the approval of the Indian Legislature.

Labor View Critical.

Labor members severely criticised the Government's policy and George Lansbury, Parliamentary Labor leader, declared it was "bound to fail."

The debate ran for five hours and the high spot for the members of the House was Mr. Churchill's intervention. He congratulated the government on the "change in policy" in arresting Mr. Gandhi and enforcing the drastic special ordinances, which have resulted in thousands of Nationalists being imprisoned, the confiscation of Nationalist funds and a general stoppage of subversive movements.

Sir Samuel appeared to be taken entirely by surprise as Mr. Churchill continued in a serious and conciliatory tone. If Mr. Churchill's purpose really was to line himself up again with the bulk of the Conservative party in sponsoring the steps being taken towards creating a federated India with self-responsibility except in certain safeguarded matters, he suffered a mild rebuff at the end when Sir Samuel said plainly there had been no change in policy.

Sir Samuel asked Mr. Churchill also, not to make the mistake of supposing there was any difference of opinion between himself (Sir Samuel) and other members of the government.

COURT WINDS UP SIX YEAR CASE

Bank of Portugal Awarded $1,610,392 Against Old London Printing Firm.

SWINDLE BY DUTCHMAN.

NEW YORK, April 29 (C.P.). — The New York Times to-day publishes the following special cable from London:

After six years of litigation involving costs of £195,000, the House of Lords Judiciary Committee, Britain's highest judicial tribunal, has finally settled the so-called Waterlow case in favor of the Bank of Portugal.

The court awarded the bank $1,610,392 and costs against the old-established London printing house of Waterloo & Sons, regular bank note printers for the Bank of Portugal. Frauds on which the action was based were committed in 1924 by a Dutchman named Marang, who deceived Waterlow into printing 580,000 bank notes which the Portuguese Bank had not authorized.

Both Victims.

"No suggestion has been made or can be made against the honesty of Messrs. Waterlow," said Lord Sankey, Lord High Chancellor, in delivering judgment. They, just as much as the banks, were victims of the Marang fraud.

Apart from the huge sums involved, the case is of unusual interest as illustrating the stern impartiality of British justice. The Waterlow company is probably the best known printing house in England, and its chairman, when the frauds were committed, was Sir William Waterlow, later Lord Mayor of London. Yet all three British courts which have handled the case have pronounced in favor of the Portuguese Bank.

Good Future Seen For Routes By Air

PORT DARWIN, Aus., April 29. — (C.P. Cable). — There is a good future for commercial air routes and there is no reason for delay, said C. W. Scott, British airman who established a new record for the England-Australia flight, in an interview here to-day.

Scott, who arrived here yesterday after establishing a record of eight days 20 hours and 49 minutes, said he could have done better, but he was quite satisfied. The worst part of the flight was the last stage, a four-hour flight over the Timor Sea from Java. Scott said he was blown 100 miles to the west of his course and was quite thankful when he sighted Darwin.

Belgium's national railway will spend nearly $1,725,000 for 250 new passenger cars.

TO COUNT VOTES FOR DEAD MAN

French Officials Will Follow Rule After Election Next Monday.

CANDIDATE DIED TUESDAY.

PARIS, April 29 (C.P. Cable). — The Ministry of the Interior, which in in charge of the arrangements for the French general elections, in which voting takes place May 1 and 8, has decided that votes cast in the second district of St. Etienne for Antoine Durafour must be counted. Durafour died three days ago and was buried to-day. He was Radical-Socialist member of the last Chamber of Deputies.

The Ministry took an important step in making this decision, ruling that once the day for withdrawals from the first ballot has passed—in his case last Saturday—all votes registered must be counted, even if the candidate dies after nomination or publicly announces his retirement. The votes cast for Durafour may necessitate a second election if the poll happens to be a close one, for there are four candidates in St. Etienne and to be elected on the first ballot one of them must have a majority over all the others combined. The remaining candidates include a Radical-Socialist, a Democrat-Republican, a Socialist and a Communist.

50-YEAR-OLD FLAG GIVEN TO MUSEUM

Societe Des Artisans Makes Presentation at Chateau De Ramezay, Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 29 (By The Canadian Press)—A flag made 50 years ago for the Societie des Artisans Canadiens-Francais was recently presented to the Antiquarian and Numismatic Society of Montreal and placed in the Chateau de Ramezay. It is of cream silk, now browned with age, and centred by a coat of arms with the motto: Justice, Economie, Bien Etre. The full style of the society is worked above and below the crest.

In making the presentation Col. Bedard, president of the Societe des Artisans Canadiens-Francais, told how the flag came into existence six years after the founding of the society in 1876. At an assembly of members called to discuss participation in the St. Jean Baptiste parade to be held on June 26, 1882, it was felt that greater dignity would be added to the society if those taking part could march behind a flag. Articles of the constitution did not provide for such expenditures so the money was raised by public subscription. Of the $38.10 collected $35 paid for the making of the flag, 30 cents covered the cost of two pairs of white gloves for its bearers and the remainder $2.80 was used to supply a bandolier for the president. It was a proud contingent of members that kept step behind the standard bearer of the society that June day.

Quilting Bees Held In Cordova District

CORDOVA MINES, Apr. 29 (Examiner Correspondence) — A delightful day was spent on Thursday last at the home of Miss Elsie Spencer, when a number of friends gathered there at a quilting party. Masdames Dan Ellis, Boaks, C. Chard, Gilbert Steenburgh, Isaac Spry, Peacock, Fitzpatrick, Hay Bowen, D. Spry were the busy workers who helped finish two beautiful pieced quilts. A sumptuous chicken dinner and supper was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Charles Chard, and Mrs. Gilbert Steenburgh.

On Friday an all day quilting party was held at the Free Methodist parsonage, under auspices of the ladies of the church. About twenty-three were present, and three quilts were completely finished, binding and all. These quilts will be for sale to any one wishing to purchase the same. Dinner and supper were served by the ladies of the church, and a half hour of social chatter was enjoyed over the teacups.

Miss Hilda Thompson spent the week-end with Marmora friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Youmans and Mr. and Mrs. Eleasear Youmans spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Peacock.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Barrons and family accompanied by Mrs. Vanvolkenburg motored to Oshawa over the week-end. Mr. Barrons returned home Monday, but Mrs. Barrons and the children and Mrs. Vanvolkenburg will remain in Oshawa for a week.

PIONEERED DESIGN.

Engineering predictions that the "all-steel, seamless body is" the automobile body of the future" indicate that Dodge, in introducing mono-piece body construction four years ago, has pioneered another important advancement in automobile design.

CLEAN-UP WEEK IS COMMUNITY AFFAIR

Now is the Time to Clean-up Thoroughly—Get Rid of Winter's Dirt.

As we are entering the Spring season, we look forward with expectancy and anticipation to clear spring air and sunshine. Springtime is the most glorious season of the year. For its fullest enjoyment it brings certain responsibilities, too. It is the growing season and to assure well-being in the fullest sense we must be assured of a condition of Healthful Cleanliness.

So important is this that Clean-Up Week becomes a community undertaking which means an individual responsibility. Now is the time to clean up thoroughly and make the corners and the hard-to-get-at places spick and span. Clean up the house and the yard, and the alley as well. When you "chase dirt" completely away you are assured of better health.

Nothing more strongly symbolizes the spirit of Healthful Cleanliness than the little Old Dutch lady chasing dirt and would be a worthy ensign for this clean-up campaign. The reward of a successful "Clean-Up Week" is the pride of a spick and span community, a spick and span home, and the added enjoyment and comfort which Healthful Cleanliness brings.

If you can give a man a job just phone Hugh Robertson at 571.

On his return from Europe, he was assigned to special duties in connection with the Fisher Body Corporation and more recently has been directing special advertising work in Canada.

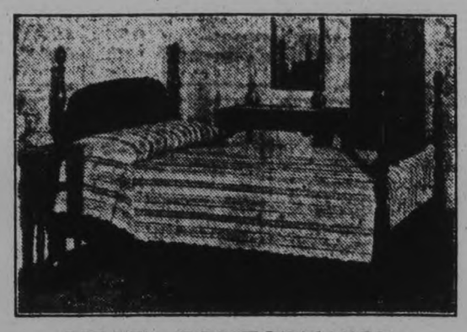
We remember best the things we learn between the ages of 10 and 18, accoding to the headmaster of Eton College, England.

Early Pioneer Carried Coin For Years For He Was Not Able To Get It Changed

TRENT RIVER, April 29 (Examiner Correspondence)—In speaking of the scarcity of money amongst the early settlers, Hugh Lovekin (who came from Ireland to Clarke Township in 1796)) used to relate an incident which occurred. Being a young man he had to go to Smith's Creek (afterwards Port Hope) to answer the roll call on training day, June 4. He took along a pack of furs, in order to get a little money. It was a very hot day. He was not sure whether he could reach there in time to answer his name without abandoning his pack. However, he finally reached Smith's Creek, covered with perspiration and very much fatigued. Having performed his military duty he sold his furs, receiving amongst the money a doubloon, sixteen dollar gold coin, which he kept for six or eight years before he could find a person able to change it. At last this was done by a Mr. McIntosh, who came to Darlington and opened a store many years afterward.

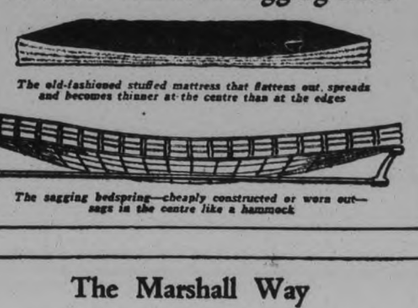
WHICH IS YOUR BED?

SAGGED-UNCOMFORTABLE



NEAT—COMFORTABLE
"Marshall Equipped"

The Two Causes of Sagging Beds



The old-fashioned stuffed mattress that flattens out, spreads and becomes thinner at the centre than at the edges

The sagging bedspring—cheaply constructed or worn out—sags in the centre like a hammock

The Marshall Way

The Marshall Spring Mattress cannot sag, flatten out or spread—always neat, attractive and comfortable

The Marshall Cable Spring—very strongly constructed—cannot sag—a good support for your mattress

Marshall Box Springs—the finest support for your mattress at a moderate price

The difference is under the covers

Oh! that sagging bed—no matter how carefully you make it each day—you just cannot make it look right. Its dejected sag spoils the appearance of the loveliest room. It's the old-fashioned stuffed mattress, flattened out and thinner at the centre, or the sagged bedspring, that causes the unsightly sag—and, more important, robs you of healthy sleeping comfort.

We heartily recommend Marshall Sleep Equipment as a sure cure for the sagged, uncomfortable bed. Marshall Mattresses are not only good looking—they provide luxurious comfort that is just as lasting as their good looks. Marshalls will not spread, sag or become lumpy.

Marshall Cable or Box Springs are the finest supports for your mattress—guaranteed sagless. No mattress can stay up neat and level if the bedspring under it sags. Make sure that your bedsprings do not spoil your beds. The new Marshalls for 1932, now on display, feature beautiful new tickings—a distinctive new hand-built edge—greater values than ever. Come in and see them.

FREE—Your Chance to Win a Marshall

The Marshall Company is giving away four Marshall Spring Mattresses to the first four persons whose names are drawn in the Marshall Better Bedding Week Drawing.

Simply clip this coupon, fill in your name and address, then call on us and see the new Marshalls for 1932. We will mail your coupon for entry in the drawing. It is all FREE, you are under no obligation to buy, but your entry must be made during Marshall Week, May 2nd to 7th.

The drawing will be made on May 18th. Clip this coupon now.

BOARD PLANS RELIEF WORK

Encouraging Letter is Received by Council From Premier Henry.

ARMOUR HILL DRIVEWAY.

Interpreting a letter from Premier Henry as an encouragement to carry on relief work during May, the Board of Works last night decided to continue this co-operative system and to include in next month's work any projects which have been recently contemplated.

Hon. Mr. Henry's letter of last Tuesday said in part: "I suggest that you carry on as you have been doing, with the confident hope that the governments will be prepared to meet the municipalities where the need is urgent."

The sentiment of the Premier's suggestion seemed to the members of the Board to warrant their proceeding with local work on the same basis as last year. Mayor Denne stated that the number of men who have been seen on the streets was an index of the need of employment, and the council would surely be advised in taking the most encouraging view of the Premier's letter.

To Buy Top Soil.

Five hundred loads of top soil will be bought for use in completing the three park improvements, one on Armour Road at the end of Douro street, where the council last year laid the foundation for a small park which it is expected will be largely used, when completed, by the young people of that section of the city; also along the outer fringe of Inverlea Park, which is to be levelled with the new curb, and finally on the Hydro Park, now taking shape at the north end of Water street opposite the Auburn factory of Canadian Woollens and Worsteds Limited.

Mayor Denne suggested that if the soil was to be purchased, tenders should be called for the advantage of a competitive price. He believed that 500 loads might be got at less than one dollar a load.

The Board felt that these three parks should be properly completed now, and Ald. Tuggey moved, seconded by Ald. Macdonald, that the details be left to Alderman Hamilton and City Engineer Parsons.

Ald. Cotton put Parnell street on the list for grading, and a smilar treatment around the home plate of the softball diamond used by the girls' teams in the Riverside bowl.

Armour Hill Driveway

The increasing use of the scenic drive in the Ashburnham Memorial Park on the top of Armour Hill requires the regrading and probably the widening of the roadway. City Engineer Parsons said the present roadway is twenty feet wide, allowing ample room for cars to pass one another. Mayor Denne proposed that the grader be sent up there to smooth out the surface and also build up the outer edge of the road as a protection to motorists.

The Armour Hill park has become an attraction for visiting motorists as well as those from the city and district, and is regarded as a new scenic asset to the city. The motion for the improvement of the road was made by Ald. Turner and seconded by Ald. Cotton. They also put through a motion instructing the chairman and city engineer to lay a cinder path on the west side Armour Road north of the "finger post" at the corner of Park Hill Road.

A cinder path will also be laid on the north side of Hilliard street from Anson street, and on Mayor Denne's motion, seconded by Ald. Stocker, the street corner at the east end of Crescent street in front of the main gate of the Little Lake Cemetery will be rounded in a wider arc to elliminate the present danger to motor traffic.

Mayor Denne said that this was one of the most dangerous corners in the city and should be broadened, reducing the sharp turn.

NEW FEATURES IN THE DE SOTO SIX

Smartly Distinctive, It Sells at Lowest Prices in De Soto History.

DeSOTO

The new De Soto Six, strikingly individual in appearance and presenting highly advanced features of operation and construction, is the finest De Soto ever built, and it sells at the lowest price in De Soto history. This new product of the De Soto Motor Corporation of Canada offers a degree of driving convenience entirely new to its class. It co-ordinates many of the outstanding engineer improvements of to-day in a car of smartly distinctive balanced design and performance.

The 1932 De Soto is instantly recognizeble by the alert dash of its rounded racing car radiator and the sweeping beauty of its Anglo-European custom type hood and deep, overhanging fenders. "It is fully as original and advanced as a performer, offering flashing acceleration and more than 70 mile an hour stopwatch speed, with a 75 horsepower six cylinder engine.

The principal engineering features of De Soto Six are: Floating power, lector, free wheeling, constant mesh transmission, double drop, x-girder-braced frame, safety steel bodies, weatherproof hydraulic brakes with the extra life of the new centrifuse brake drums. Isotherm aluminum alloy pistons.

Nine body models, five standard and four "custom" types, comprise the new line. The standard models are the two-door sedan, the four-door sedan, the roadster, the coupe and rumble seat coupe. The custom line includes the five-passenger sedan, the roadster, the convertible coupe and the convertible sedan.

All are available in a wide range of striking colors; all are smartly tailored in the advanced style with interior appointments and fittings.

The new De Soto 6-cylinder engine is of the generally approved L-head design now used by 80 per cent of automobile manufacturers. It has a 3¼ inch bore with a 4¼ inch stroke. Piston displacement is 211.5 cubic inches. The engine develops 75 brake horsepower.

Floating power, that new principle of engine mounting acclaimed by Chrysler engineers as the outstanding development in automotive engineering in recent years, is a feature of the new De Soto.

In silent gear selection De Soto presents a new, effortless ease of motoring by skilful coordination of the benefits of the automatic clutch, free-wheeling and constant mesh transmission gears. This permits shifting without clashing or noise into and out of any gear without touching the conventional clutch. It calls into service the fuel saving and smoothness of free-wheeling on the straightaway, while providing an immediate lockout of free-wheeling when the braking power of the engine is required.

CANADIAN CLUB FAILS TO ELECT NEW PRESIDENT

Four Vice-Presidents Will Carry On Until President is Chosen.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Following the example set this year by several other women's societies, the Women's Canadian Club yesterday, at their annual meeting, failed to elect a president. The nominating committee recommended that a committee of the four vice presidents carry on until such time as a president may be appointed.

The other officers for the year will be as follows: Mrs. R. C. Blagrave, 1st vice president Mrs. F. D. Kerr, 2nd vice president; Mrs. H. A. Morrow, 3rd vice president; Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, 4th vice president; Mrs. William Tinker, recording secretary; Mrs. T. P. McCullough, corresponding secertary; Miss Mamie Rogers, treasurer. The executive committee consists of Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Mrs. L. A. Potvin, Miss Florence Edwards, and Miss E. J. Aldridge.

Miss S. A. Tomkins, who occupied the presidential chair last year, but refused re-election this year, on account of many absences from the city, presided at yesterday's meeting, which was held in the auditorium of the Public Library, and was exceptionally brief, owing to the failure to appear of the scheduled speaker of the afternoon.

The secretary, Mrs. T. P. McCullough, gave a review of the past year's activities and the financial report was given by the treasurer, Miss Margaret Hamilton, showing a balance on hand of $86.

Miss Tomkins, in a short speech, referred with gratitude to the assistance given her by Mrs. Adrian Macdonald, the corresponding secretary of the past season.

FLOATING POWER ON PLYMOUTHS

Hundred Thousand New Plymouth Cars Being Driven by Motorists Throughout World.

PLYMOUTH

Experimental Plymouths and regular production Plymouths were submitted to every gruelling laboratory and road test that could be encountered by a motor car through several years of use in any part of the country. A 30,000 mile trip to the four corners of the continent and a 10,000 mile journey were two of the tests to which the car was subjected. Every condition of weather and road that a motorist will meet was experienced.

When Floating Power was first conceived and early experimental cars built, all the resources of the Chrysler engineering laboratories, among the finest and most complete industrial laboratories in the industry were concentrated on the new Plymouth.

Radiators, exhaust pipes, springs, rubber mountings as well as all movable parts, were shaken, pounded, twisted or rotated literally millions of times by specially designed testing machinery before passing final engineering inspection.

More than a dozen experimental cars were turned over to highly trained and specialized test drivers who put thousands of miles on them over roads and on steep mountain grades.

As a fitting climax to this comprehensive series of tests, the first two production cars were sent west on a 10,000-mile journey, according to the engineers. From Detroit these new Plymouths sped direct to the alkali wastes of Death Valley, 233 feet below sea level, where the thermometer registered 134 degrees. The scorching alkali dust, powdered sand and griarled topography of the parched valley shook the nerve of the engineers but they say failed to conquer the Plymouths.

From the intense heat of this desert waste the cars climbed swiftly up the ten-mile grade to the heights of Mt. Wilson. Within the space of a few hours these remarkable cars were called upon to function in the 134-degree heat of Death Valley and in the chill of the mountain peak above the clouds.

The test caravan making the 30,000 mile trek which started a few weeks later consisted of two Floating Power Plymouths and two models of competing automobiles. To test the strength of the steel bodies and attempt to shake the engine loose from its rubber mountings, the engineers claim to have tumbled a production model Plymouth over and over down a steep and gravelly hillside. During these tests, it is stated, the rubber mountings were not affected and the car was driven back up the hill under its own power after each attempt.

Floating Power was introduced on the new Plymouth cars early in July of 1931.

Approximately 100,000 new Floating Power Plymouths are now being driven by motorists throughout the world.

Decrease Is Shown In Number Of Births

According to a bulletin issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, births registered in March in 34 cities of Canada numbered 7,010 deaths 4,607, and marriages 1,696 as compared with 7,436 births, 4,168 deaths and 1,506 marriages in March of last year, giving a decrease of 6 per cent. in births and increases of 11 and 8 per cent. in deaths and marriages respectively.

For the three months, January-March, births showed a decline of 3 per cent. and marriages of 4 per cent. while there was an increase of 1 per cent. in deaths.

KEEP BRITISH CASH AT HOME

Press Backs Policy of Diverting Funds to Reconstruction Within Empire.

LOOKS TO OTTAWA PARLEY

LONDON, April 29 (C.P. Cable)—Suggestion of the Federation of British Industries that British funds should not be loaned for the purpose of financing reconstruction schemes in foreign countries, today were stamped with editorial approval by The Morning Post.

The policy of diverting British finances to reconstruction work at home and within the Empire, rather than allowing it to be used by trade rivals, the newspaper said, can be thoroughly recommended to the attention of our statesmen and leaders of finance.

It added, obviously such a plan, if it is to work at all, must entail some abatement of fashionable doctrines of economic self-sufficiency and conscious collaboration of monetary policy in directing the flow of capital.

The Federation also endorsed the view the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa next July should explore opportunities of bringing about the maximum mutual understanding looking towards adoption of a common Empire monetary and industrial policy.

UNSETTLED SUIT OF 1914 REVIVED

Montreal Power Company's Claim Against Contracts Returns to First Court.

MONTREAL, Apr. 29 (By The Canadian Press)—A suit for $15,536.99 brought by the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated against Quinlan and Robertson, Limited, contractors, started originally in the Superior Court here on January, 1914, returned recently to Mr. Justice Surveyer of that court after making its way by slow stages over 18 years, successively through the Superior, Appeal and Supreme Courts.

The action arose out of the breaking of a gas main under the Lachine Canal while Quinlan and Robertson were conducting dredging operations. The power company sued the contractors, but the latter pleaded that the work was being done for the Minister of Rails and Canals and that the company was merely his agent. Any damage to the gas main, therefore, should be paid for by the federal department. Pleading the case on the merits the contractors declared that if the gas main was damaged it was because the power company had furnished the contractors with an incorrect plan, which misled the workmen as to the location of the main.

In 1925 Mr. Justice Surveyer rendered judgment holding that the contractors were agents of the federal minister. This judgment was upheld by the Court of Appeals but versed the decision and sent the case back to the Superior Court for assessment of damages. Argument on this phase of the case was heard and the action taken under advisement.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

It's fun to drive the Car that starts a Vogue!

WHAT A THRILL TO HEAR EVERYONE SAY, "THERE GOES THE CAR I'D LIKE TO OWN!"

IF YOU HEAR someone say . . . "Quick . . . look at that car" . . . you can bet it's a DeSoto.

DeSoto has "clicked." It's news. It's a vogue. The "smart thing to do." In January it was the sensation of the Motor Shows. Now it's "The Hit of the Highway."

It's daringly different. Not because of minor refinements . . . but because the whole car has been designed with brilliant new flair . . . new rhythm.

And then when you drive it—you'll discover every luxurious feature that you can possibly think of. Floating Power that banishes vibration at any speed . . . perfected Free Wheeling . . . completely Automatic Clutch with Silent Gear Selector . . . Hydraulic Brakes . . . Safety-Steel Body . . . everything!

Wait! Don't forget the biggest feature of all. The price tag. It says . . . $975 and up! Can you beat that? At last there's a real thrill in thrift.

The new low prices of the various DeSoto models are as follows: Business Coupe, $975; Two-door Sedan, $975; Coupe (with rumble seat), $1025; 4-door Sedan, $1055; Roadster (with rumble seat), $1065; Custom 4-door Sedan, $1145; 7-Passenger Sedan, $1260. All prices f.o.b. factory, Windsor, Ontario, including five wire wheels and standard factory equipment (freight and taxes extra). Duplate Safety Plate Glass, available for Coupe $17.50, 4-door Sedan $29.50.

AND NO ONE SHOULD MISS IT!

In the Automotive World...

Nearly 5,000,000 Visiting Cars

Canada will soon have to start baking extra millions of loaves of bread, making extra millions of pounds of butter, and stocking up the pantry generally. Company is coming. This year, as usual, motor tourists from the United States will throng the highways across the Dominion. It's the great summer playground of the automobile, and there seems no reason to doubt that the customary influx will soon commence. Last year a total of 4,909,989 cars entered Canada from the United States for touring purposes, a decrease of 499,000 compared with 1930. Of the total, 3,439,492 cars entered for a day's run; 1,469,753 for a 60-day period; and 744 for a period up to six months. Ontario attracted 3,691,720 cars; Quebec, 645,935; New Brunswick, 300,068. Prince Edward Island, the sea-girt Island province, had only one automobile entered from the United States during the year. It was admitted for a sixty-day period.

Blind, Yet Knows Cars

He has been blind since the age of two, but Eric Davidson, now 16 year old, is keenly interested in the latest automobiles. Eric lives in Halifax, where at the time of the explosion he lost his eyesight while standing in front of a window when the terrific munitions blast came. Just the other day, while the General Motors Maritime Salon was in progress at the Nova Scotian Hotel in Halifax, this youth was observed in the act of appraising the newest car creation. He climbed into each car, felt the upholstery, examined the gearshifts and the instrument dash. Questioned about his evident enjoyment of the shiny new models, Eric confessed that he took a great deal of pleasure in "looking them over." His pick from the whole display was a Pontiac open model. He likes all open models better than closed ones.

Proper Use of Speed.

Some motor car owners see no reason for making fast cars if they cannot be driven fast, but experts explain the matter very simply. To have a satisfactory cruising speed an automobile must have a high top speed, but to drive much above the cruising speed is neither economical nor sensible. Those who misunderstand the performance characteristics of the modern automobiles are the ones who are getting into trouble with the authorities. Speeding in defiance of safety is just a bad habit that is nowise explained by the present-day high available car capabilities.

"Bookmobile" Is Latest Library Plan

A novel plan to make library books available in the homes of the rural as well as the urban centres was forecast at a recent meeting of the Ontario Library Association.

The distribution will be done through "Bookmobiles." Briefly, the system will be to select a unit, usually a county, and from a central point circulate books to groups of people regularly. The system has brought about a revolution in the service in England, where in 1926, about 97 per cent in the country and in towns were supplied with adequate library facilities. In Canada, British Columbia has already begun the system, it was pointed out.

Car of the Future.

It will be a long time before automobile designers need admit they have reached the limit of their capabilities.

"It is a question of education as much as engineering and designing," said C. L. McCuen, director of engineering for Oldsmobile, when asked his opinion on the probable course of enginering development. "The public will not accept radical ideas at once, but must be educated through a process of gradual development. Because of this factor in human nature, the engineers and designers have been able to keep ahead of public demand. It is safe to predict that improvements as outstanding as any of the past will be seen in the future. These will include new body lines offering less wind resistance and providing more comfort and new beauty; quieter engines and chassis; decided advancements in transmissions; engineering refinements that will make driving easier and reduce the amount of service required."

Great Interest In New Models

Not for years has public interest in the new car models been as great as this year. Attendance at all the larger motor shows was most encouraging from the standpoint of those who expect to see interest crystalize into sales later on. Word from Halifax, where General Motors of Canada recently held their Maritime Salon, tells of an attendance of 8,000 people at the display in the Nova-Scotian Hotel. Actual sales were good and the list of prospects quite satisfactory.

Pimples Disfigured Face. Burned Badly. Healed by Cuticura.

"I had been troubled for about a month with pimples which were fairly large. They were scattered all over my face and disfigured it. The pimples festered and became very itchy, causing me to scratch, and when I did they would break and then burn badly. They made me feel very uncomfortable and kept me from sleeping many a night.

"A friend told me about Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample of each. I purchased more and after using two cakes of Soap and one box of Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Katherine Shick, Oak Bank, Man.

21 REASONS

why it's wiser than ever TO CHOOSE THIS SIX TODAY!

1 Chevrolet pioneered the six-cylinder engine in the low priced field because this is the one type of power plant that strikes a perfect balance of smooth performance and maximum economy. It is necessary to have six cylinders to get multi-cylinder smoothness and motoring pleasure.

2 Drivers of sixes never want less; and anything more than six cylinders means a sacrifice of economy! As a matter of fact, the Chevrolet Six costs less to operate than any other full-size car, regardless of the number of cylinders. Naturally, more than six cylinders would mean greater expense for gasoline, oil and upkeep.

3 The new 1932 Chevrolet Six is a proved car. It represents the fullest development of the basic multi-cylinder principle which has resulted in highest satisfaction to more than 2,000,000 Chevrolet Six owners.

4 The Chevrolet Six is the lowest priced car combining Silent Syncro-Mesh gear shifting and Free Wheeling. Chevrolet's Free Wheeling is easily controlled at the will of the driver, and gives the finest features of this up-to-date engineering achievement.

5 Smarter, roomier Bodies by Fisher are exclusive on Chevrolet in the lowest price field. Fisher hardwood-and-steel construction is the safest and most durable known to the industry. Chevrolet upholstery is of strictly high quality.

6 New, reduced prices and easy terms. Compare the delivered price, including license fee, before you buy. GMAC offers you convenient payment terms spread over a period of months.

7 Immediate delivery of any standard or special model. You can drive a new Chevrolet Six today! Your present car will probably take care of the down payment.

8 The Chevrolet motor is mounted on thick rubber blocks, utilizing the most modern and efficient method of preventing vibration and obtaining the full advantages of six-cylinder smoothness.

9 Longer, low-swung wheelbase . . . giving big car comfort and riding qualities.

10 Stronger, more rugged frame with five sturdy cross members runs the full length of the body. Protected gasoline tank.

11 Four long springs, with four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers.

12 Stabilized front fender design . . . preventing vibration . . . another exclusive Chevrolet feature.

13 Down Draft Carburetion with heat control . . . for quicker starting . . . faster "pick-up".

14 Powerful, long-wearing, enclosed four-wheel brakes. Chevrolet has a separate emergency brake system.

15 Insulated driver's compartment . . . keeps out dust, heat and drafts.

16 Fisher non-glare VV windshield, easily adjustable with one hand for ventilation.

17 Harmonically balanced crankshaft with forged-on counterweights.

18 Improved clutch mechanism; requiring no lubrication.

19 Chevrolet's tested overhead valve system is easily adjustable, ensuring permanently quiet and efficient operation of the motor.

20 Completely equipped instrument panel, including oil pressure gauge, engine heat indicator and carburetor heat control.

21 Built in Canada, of Canadian materials, by Canadian workers.

LESS WORK FOR DRIVERS OF CHEV.

In New Models Free Wheeling is Simplified, Quiet and Quick Shifting From Low to Second.

The many improvements on the 1932 Chevrolets are so numerous and technically listed that they are somewhat of a task for the layman to understand. Yet each improvement found in the 1932 models gives the car owner and driver considerably less to do and at the same time simplifies all those movements that he is called upon to perform, whether it be guiding the car through congested traffic or at ease on the country highway.

The outstanding improvement in the new 1932 Chevrolet is the combination of a syncro-mesh transmission and an expanding-spring type of over-running clutch, (free-wheeling). Additional speed through an increase of 20 per cent in horsepower gives high speed up to 65-70 miles per hour. Faster acceleration and smoother operation at all speeds is also apparent. These improvements in performance are contributed by the combined effect of down-draff carburetion counter-balanced crankshaft and an improved type of engine mounting.

Those features of the car that are within reach and sight of the driver have received very careful thought and improvement in the 1932 Chevrolet. Even the gasoline gauge has been redesigned and a baffle plate added to the gas tank—improvements that combine to insure acuracy of the gauge reading and prevent any "flickering" of the dial hand.

The graceful hood with the four ventilator doors on each side panel is fronted by the new radiator with the grille, an integral part. The shell of the radiator curves inward gracefully at the bottom to give the effect of setting down snugly between the fenders. Radiator shell and headlamps are Chromium plated. Sport models have miniature duplicates of the headlamps as standard equipment.

The 1932 model includes a phaeton, roadster, sport roadster, coach, standard sedan, sport sedan, three-window coupe, five window coupe, sport coupe, landau phaeton, cabriolet and a five-passenger coupe.

Considerable thought and care has been displayed in the open models with all doors extended to the bottom of the sill, improving the lines and appearance and permitting more complete closure. A chromium-plated windshield frame permits the wiper suction pipe to be concealed inside and the entire windshield is fitted at a greater angle with a single hinge.

The phaeton top, with a chromium-plated moulding at its front, has a decidedly custom-built appearance. It folds into a very small space. The rear back seat is arranged to pivot forward to provide space for the storage of side curtains. A carpet kick-pad is built at the back of the front seat. The roadster top is also custom built in appearance and has a chromium-plated moulding at its front edge. When folded, the top is flush with the body, and covered by an attractive, close-fitting snap-on cover which eliminates the usual boot.

On all closed bodies an attractive streamline front has been adopted, with sloping front pillars blending gracefully into the curving top. Moulding lines are carried along the pillars and along the edge of the top just over the doors and windshield. A heavy steel reinforcing structure strengthens the pressed steel body pillars.

All models with single width front seats, have a releasing lever at the left of the seat which permits of adjustment to any required position for comfortable driving.

SNYDER'S COVERINGS SET THE VOGUE

Careful buying of the world's choicest coverings—at rock-bottom prices—requiring an investment the small manufacturer couldn't possibly undertake—is one of the secrets to the wide range of beautiful coverings offered in these suites—English repps, tapestries, novelty cloths—a gorgeous assortment of long-wearing, harmonious coverings—are to be seen at your Snyder dealer's.

Snyder Quality Is Positively Unquestioned

$129.50

Be sure to see our special value in a smaller suite for those whose living-room space is limited.

$129.50

There has been far too much straight price-and-bargain advertising.

People have learned their lesson. Now they know that merchandise made down to a ridiculous price is seldom worth its price. The swing today is back to quality at a fair price.

When we tell you that the suite pictured in this advertisement at $149.50 is extraordinary value we mean it. Snyder's reputation is behind it. Sani-Bilt Week is a Dominion-wide institution. It gives our factory sufficient mass production to cut our manufacturing costs far below normal. This saving is passed on to you through Snyder dealers for one week only.

Snyder's use only the choicest of new, clean upholstering materials. You don't have to speculate. You don't have to doubt. From the staunch hardwood frame outward every detail has the most rigid supervision.

This is your opportunity of the year. Lasts only a week—don't miss it!

This suite is extra big—big, roomy and the soul of comfort. Deep seats, extra high, moss-filled back, roll arms, walnut finish show-wood—and positively moth-proof guaranteed! The new fireside button-back is large and the design of the whole ensemble is modern, practical, beautiful.

Galvin-Mahoney: That whereas the 1931 council having accepted the application of Plaxton, Hueston & Company for township road insurance on condition that it be placed with the General Casualty Company of America and whereas about February 25 this council received notice from the firm of Plaxton Hueston & Company, that the General Casualty Company was withdrawing from municipal insurance, and asked the approval of the council in transferring this insurance to another company:

Therefore, be it resolved, that this council disapprove of the transfer of this insurance to another company, and demand rebate due the municipality on premium from Feb. 25 to May 25, and that the clerk be instructed to send a copy of this resolution to Plaxton, Hueston & Company.

Mahoney-Hayes: That the council adjourn to meet on May 30, at 10 a.m., as a court of revision of the assessment roll.

Belmont Institute Is Planning Bazaar

BELMONT, April 29 (Examiner Correspondence)—Planning for the bazaar to be held in the Township Hall on Wednesday, May 4th, was the chief business transacted at the Women's Institute meeting in Belmont town hall on Thursday afternoon, April 21st.

It was decided to take out a membership in the Havelock and Belmont Horticultural Society, recently formed, and to use the premiums obtained to improve the memorial plot around the township hall. The bazaar committe reported splendid progress, and between forty and fifty pieces of fancy work all ready for disposal. It was decided to hold the bazaar in the township hall on Wednesday afternoon, May 4th, and to serve a hot dinner at a very reasonable price.

Mrs. T. P. Lancaster vice-president of Havelock branch was present and gave a most interesting talk on foreign countries, and conditions there. A vote of thanks to Mrs. Lancaster was afterwards moved, and passed. A short period of community singing was followed by a reading by Mrs. Jason Roe. This brought the program to a close. The next meeting will be the annual one, and election of officers, and will be held in the hall on the third Thursday of May.

100TH ANNIVERSARY.

Faith in Courts Must be Upheld Mulock Affirms.

ORILLIA, April 29 (C.P.)—Justice must be administered so every man will feel he has the protection of the law, and evil will result if the man in the street loses faith in the machinery of justice, said Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of Ontario, in the course of an address before the Canadian Club here last night.

Members of Judiciary

Members of the Ontario Judiciary who were connected with the early history of Orillia were guests of the club. Sir William's grandfather settled in South Orillia in 1834. Hon. C. A. Masten was a teacher in the local high school at one time; Hon. D. Inglis Grant is a son of a former Minister of an Orillia church; Judge H. D. Leask, Junior Judge of the District of Nipissing, lived here in his youth; Judge John T. Mulcahy, Judge of the County of Renfrew, was born here; Judge M. B. Thorpe, Judge of Leeds and Grenville, is a native of this town, and Judge J. D. Moon, Judge of the District of Parry Sound, is also a descendant of early residents of the district.

The banquet was held in recognition of the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the first white men who came with the definite intention of making their homes here. Of the seven judges who sat at the table reserved for guests of honor, Sir William Mulock was the oldest active judge in the province, and Judge Moon the youngest.

JOYCE WETHERED RETURNS

LONDON, April 29 (A.P.)—Joyce Wethered, England's leading woman golfer, is returning to active competition only to captain the British squad against the United States team at Wentworth, she has made plain; and she may not even play in the British women's tournament at Taunton a week later.

Her entry in the Surrey County Championship, which she won yesterday in a walkaway, was merely to sharpen her game for the team matches.

Three Names May Go From Movie Star List

CONTRACT DISPUTE.

A possibility that three of the first names of Hollywood, Marlene Dietrich, film actress; Josef Von Sternberg, her director, and James Cagney, film actor, may be eliminated from the screen arose in a contract dispute between the celebrities and two of the major producers. Deadlocks grew between the studios and the screen celebrities over questions of salary and the rights of actor and director to interfere with story material. Photo shows Cagney (1) and Miss Dietrich (2).

"This Is Nothing Compared To 1883" States Nonagenarian Of Depression

WINIPNEG, April 29 (Special to The Examiner). — Born 25 years before Confederation, Alexander Calder, business man of this city, lays unchallenged claim to be the oldest Rotarian and the oldest travel-ticket agent in the world.

His friends assert he is the sunniest old gentleman in Winnipeg. He came here as a mere stripling of 35 summers in 1879.

Western Canadians may think that the depression of 1930-32 is severe, but Mr. Calder scoffs contemptuously at it.

"Hard times don't exist to-day in comparison with some previous depressions," he said. "Depression? Why, this is nothing compare to the depression of 1883. At that time there just wasn't any money in this part of the country at all. There's plenty of money in Canada to-day, but those that have it are afraid to use it. Sooner or later capitalists will realize that their money isn't much use to them lying idle. Then they'll begin to put it to work again, and the depression will be over.

"But the depression of 1883—that was different. We were practically down to the old system of barter. Nobody ever got paid in money. On pay days, employers would give their men orders on the various stores for their wages. I suppose the storekeeper in turn got credit from the employer."

Bobcaygeon Homes Destroyed By Fire

LINDSAY, Ont., April 29 (Special to The Examiner).—The village of Bobcaygeon had another serious fire on Thursday afternoon—the second in two days—when the frame residence of S. J. Hill and the brick residence of Mrs. Vannest were totally destroyed together with contents. The blaze started in the kitchen of the Hill home and fanned by the high winds quickly spread to the Vannest residence. Insurance carried by both parties will not nearly cover the loss.

PLANE RECOVERED

WINDSOR, April 29. Stolen from the Walker airport early Tuesday morning, a biplane was returned to the field early yesterday afternoon by John Barr, its regular pilot and part owner. The ship was recovered at Miller City, 32 miles southwest of Bowling Green, Ohio.

INQUEST HELD INTO DEATH OF MISS DAVIDSON

Something Should Be Done to Stop Sale of Worn-out Cars.

DECLARES CORONER.

Half Accidents Caused by Decrepit Cars is Dr. Young's Opinion.

That the accident might have been avoided if better judgment had been used by all persons concerned was the finding of the coroner's jury which last evening inquired into the death of Miss Adelaide Davidson, of 453 Mark Street, who suffered fatal injuries when struck by a car driven by Victor Coombes, aged 18, of 261 Townsend street, on the evening of April 21 while crossing, in company with her sister, Mrs. Isabella Hall, the north intersection of George street at Simcoe street.

The inquest was conducted before Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. Fifteen witnesses, including several who were spectators of the accident, and four passengers of Coombes' car gave testimony.

Coombes said that last October he purchased the car for $65, it being a light touring car, 1926 model. Two constables testified that they had found the brakes on the car "just fair," and one said that the steering wheel "was wobbly."

Stop Sale Cheap Cars

"Something should be done to stop the sale of these cheap worn-out cars," declared Coroner Dr. Young in addressing the jury. "Suppose all dealers and individual car owners as well are anxious to get rid of them because they have served their purpose, and sell them for about what they can get. They are not going to spend any money to get the brakes relined before selling them, because the price they can get for them would make that unprofitably, and those that buy usually haven't the money to go to that expense. It is my opinion that half the accidents are caused because of these cars, which are not fit for the road, are being driven freely about."

The complete verdict of the jury read as follows:—

"From the evidence submitted, Miss Adelaide Davidson came to her death at 7.50 p.m., April 21, 1932, near the intersection of George and Simcoe streets in the City of Peterborough through being struck and knocked down by a motor car driven by Victor Coombes. The deceased sustained a fracture at the base of the skull. In our opinion the accident might have been avoided if better judgment had been used by all parties concerned."

Identified Body

Robert W. F. Davidson identified the body of the woman struck by the car as that of his sister, Miss Adelaide Davidson.

Constable Joseph Wheeler was called to the scene of the accident, he stated, and found Miss Davidson lying in the middle of the roadway on George street, 26 feet north of the Simcoe street crossing. The car which had struck her was about four feet north of Miss Davidson. Victor Coombes admitted to the witness that he was the driver of the car and that he was about opposite the Dominion Bank when he first noticed the two women crossing George street.

He stated that he tested the brakes of Coombes' car and found them in fairly good condition, just passing the test for brakes. Marks on the road indicated that previous to striking the two women, the car had travelled 17½ feet straight north on George street, then veered to the east, and then sharply to the west onto the centre of the road where the accident took place.

Old Touring Car

The car was a touring type which had seen many years of service, the constable stated. Miss Davidson was dressed in a dark dress, he said.

Dr. T. G. Louden, next witness, said he had attended Miss Davidson as she lay on the pavement on George street immediately following the accident. Death, he stated, was due to a fracture at the base of the skull, which he judged was caused through contact of Miss Davidson's head with the pavement. There were no indications of broken bones.

Edward Austin declared that he was talking in front of his store, about 100 feet north of the scene of the accident, when his attention was attracted to the accident by a woman's scream. He saw one woman reel after being struck by the car. When he reached her, the left front wheel of the car was between her legs. Miss Davidson was bleeding at the mouth, she uttered no word but was moaning, he said.

Pushed by Car

Joseph Kennedy said he was standing idly in front of Eaton's store when he heard a woman scream. He looked out on the pavement from between two buses, parked at the corner, and saw a car pushing a woman along the pavement. "It pushed her about ten feet," he stated. He said that the car was a little to the west of the centre of the road.

Edward Donoghue was walking north on the east side of George street near the Dominion Bank, when he saw Coombes' car swerve to the left near the north intersection of Simcoe street and then heard a scream. Donoghue did not desire to estimate the speed of the car, but thought it was going at a moderate speed. He said he did not go out onto the road to see if anyone was injured.

Not Looking

Sifroy Goulet stated that he was driving south on George street at Simcoe street when the accident occurred. "I remarked to the other passengers in my car that there were two women, who were not looking where they were going," he said. "I saw them crossing George street just before they were struck. I practically had to stop my car to let them pass. They were walking in the safety zone. I passed and then heard the screams. I did not see the accident." He estimated that Coombes' car was proceeding at about 15 miles an hour when he noticed it crossing the intersection.

North of Safety Zone

Sidney Middleton, a bus driver, was seated at the wheel of the Jackson Park bus, on Simcoe street at the northeast corner of George street, at the time of the accident. He saw the women crossing George street about four feet north of the safety zone. "They didn't seem to be making any fuss," when Mr. McElderry asked if they were running. He estimated the speed of Coombes' car as 15 miles an hour.

He said Coombes' car was little over on the left side of the road. One woman fell on the running board and was brushed out of danger, but the other fell in front of the right wheel and pushed along for about 10 feet.

Frank Shearer, also a bus driver,

Some On City Of Saskatoon's Relief Are Not Experiencing Too Hard Times

SASKATOON, April 29 (C.P.). — Some of those on city relief are not experiencing too hard times, the Saskatoon City Council learned, when two orders, recently filed by stores and supposed to be confined to 24 staple articles named by the Council, turned up. Articles bought included canned salmon and lobster, stuffed olives, shelled walnuts, chocolates, tobacco and French grapefruit.

The stores which filled the orders will get no more business from the city, and the probable outcome is that the city will operate its own relief store.

Aldermen also have heard of unemployed trying to obtain cash for their food vouchers, while one man asked a well-known gasoline firm to give him gas for his auto instead of the coal oil designated by the relief officer.

MONO-PIECE BODY ON DODGE AUTOS

Pioneered by Dodge It Insures Safety and Silence for Sixes and Eights.

Mono-piece body construction, which was created and developed by Dodge Brothers four years ago, results in notable gains in strength, rigidity and consequent safety.

This type of body construction was made possible only by entirely new processes of rolling steel and the very recent advances made in the arts of metal stamping and welding.

Mono-piece bodies go a step beyond anything that has yet been done in establishing a complete continuity of body structure. The continuous rolling mill, as developed just a few years ago, has made possible steel sheets large enough to meet Mono-piece requirements.

Developments in the art of idle work have considerably reduced the number of component parts necessary for the complete body assembly, while the new methods of electric flash welding make it possible to join the parts together so perfectly that there is no line of weakness at any joint. In fact, tests have shown the joint to be the strongest part of the structure.

Because of the greater capacity of the present-day presses used for stamping out body panels, shrouds, cowls, tops, etc., there are many parts that now are made as one stamping which formerly took several separate pieces of metal.

At approximately the same time that these developments in giant presses reached a point where the number of parts was not only reduced but the parts themselves were of superior quality and form because of the ability to secure deeper draws, the welding industry forged ahead with still more striking developments.

New methods of electric welding make it possible to fuse two pieces of steel together so they are actually one. Steel buildings are being erected today in which the entire framework is welded together as one piece. The prediction has been made that riveting, except for special purposes, will soon be obsolete.

Certain it is that in the new Dodge mono-piece body it is impossible to find a line of weakness. Complete unity of the entire structure is secured.

This means safety, long life of the car and quietness for the car owner. Noise in a car is produced by the relative movement of one part to another. When the body is one-piece construction, as on the Dodge Six and Eight, there cannot be relative motion. For this reason the body is silent.

This same relative motion resulting from stresses and strains causes a body to be known as old. It is one of the chief reasons for cars being traded in for new ones. The lack of relative motion in the Dodge mono-piece body helps keep the car young.

Will Try New Plan Surfacing

Board of Works to Experiment in Resurfacing Burnham Street.

PURCHASE OF ROAD OIL

T. A. Rehill Gets Contract to Supply City With Cement.

An experiment in road surfacing will be made by the Board of Works on Burnham Street.

Alderman Hamilton, chairman, introduced the proposal, suggesting that there should be some effort to get better results from the street oiling that is done every summer. Last year Burnham Street was reconditioned but not oiled. If it were treated with a two-inch top dressing of fine broken stone of almost traprock quality, which could be obtained from Nassau, then rolled and oiled with a final coating of sand, the result should be a more durable road than the city has been generally making.

The stone could be trucked from Nassau and broken up in the city's Ashburnham pit, with a last short haul to Burnham Street.

City Engineer Parsons estimated the cost at from 30 to 50 cents a square yard, and the total expenditure on Burnham Street, from Hunter to Charles Street, would probably be less than $2,000.

Ald. Cotton moved, seconded by Ald. Tuggey, that the chairman be authorized to proceed with this method, and a year's traffic would indicate its value as a surfacing material. Incidentally, Mr. Parsons said that the city should have a new and more efficient road oiler. It would cost between $5,000 and $6,000, but would pay for itself twice over in five years. However, the Council's budget permits no $5,000 extras, and much as the machine may be needed to get the best results from oiling the roads, it cannot be considered this year.

Purchase of Road Oil.

Purchase of road oil was referred to Ald. Hamilton and City Engineer Parsons, with power to act in getting the lowest possible price.

Prices were received by tender from the Imperial Oil Company, Crescent Oil Company, and the Currie Products.

The Imperial price is 9½ cents a gallon, but Ald. Turner pointed out that there was no information as to whether the price included the sales tax.

Supply of Cement.

The T. A. Rehill Company's tendered price of cement, $2.88 a barrel, sacks returned, was accepted on Ald. Cotton's motion, seconded by Ald. Tuggey. It is understood that this is Canada Cement Company product. The only other tender was submitted by the Peterborough Hardware Company.

Preston Latchford asked the Board to construct a sewer on Princess Street, west of Maud Street, where he purposes erecting two houses.

City Engineer Parsons said that a 100-foot extension would not complete the sewer utility on that street. He recommended that the sewer be laid on Princess Street from George Street to Maud Street. This suggestion was adopted by the Board.

On Ald. Tuggey's motion, seconded by Ald. Macdonald, it was decided to extend the sidewalk on O'Carroll Avenue. Both sides of the avenue to Aylmer Street will be provided with a cement walk. Another walk will be laid on the

HOME FURNISHING COMPANY PASSES ANOTHER MILESTONE

Observing the 24th Anniversary of Opening Up Business.

SALE OPENED TO-DAY.

The Home Furnishing Co., 204-206 Charlotte street, are celebrating their 24th business birthday by offering price reductions on all lines of Fine Furniture that are quite sensational in their savings.

From a modern furnishing house, founded in 1908, this concern has, by square dealings and selling on the closest margin of profit, built up a business connection of which they may well be proud. Scores and scores of Peterborough homes have been furnished by this progressive establishment, and many a young couple starting out in married life have found both profit and pleasure in furnishing their "nests" from the Home Furnishing Co.'s store.

Evidence of the public confidence vested in this expanding business, and the favor it enjoys from an ever growing clientage, is seen in the handsome and commodious new premises erected by the company last year. In this modern building Peterborough enjoys the distinction of presenting one of the finest furniture houses in the Province, headed by Mr. Harry Florence, a comparatively young executive of wide vision and energetic business aggressiveness. And not only are these premises brand new and modern, but so also is the merchandise they house—lovely suits for living, dining and bed rooms, occasional chairs and odd pieces that charm; to say nothing of kitchen furniture, floor covering and stoves—all priced away down for this big anniversary sale.

The Home Furnishing Co. always features Kroehler living room furniture, and this year the Kroehler people are co-ordinating with Mr. Florence in his anniversary event by making possible the offering of Kroehler suites and individual pieces at prices so low that the savings are history-making. This make of furniture is known Canada over for its high standard in quality and beauty of design, and never before have they been priced so low; not even last year when prices generally were considered to have reached rock bottom.

A visit to the Home Furnishing Co.'s store during this, their 24th birthday observance, will be found of interest to men and women who must needs these days shop where their dollar buys the most. See page advertisement in this issue.

Handy Recipes

By Edith Barber

FRENCH ICE CREAM.

One tablespoon flour; 1 cup sugar; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 egg; 2 cups milk; 1 quart thin cream; 2 tablespoons vanilla.

Mix the flour, sugar and salt; add the egg slightly beaten, and milk gradually. Cook over hot water twenty minutes, stirring constantly at first, until it thickens. When cool add cream and flavoring. Strain and freeze.

PHILADELPHIA ICE CREAM.

One quart thin cream; ½ teaspoon salt; ¾ cup sugar; 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix ingredients and pack in salt and ice—one part salt to one part ice—and freeze.

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM.

Cut two squares of chocolate into pieces and boil three minutes with half a cup of water. Add to ice cream mixture and follow directions.

FRUIT ICE CREAM.

Allow equal amounts of fruit and cream. Crush the fruit, sweeten to taste, add to the cream and freeze according to directions.

MAPLE PARFAIT.

Four eggs; 1 cup hot maple syrup; 1 pint cream.

Beat the eggs slightly and pour maple syrup on slowly. Cook until the mixture thickens, cool and add cream beaten until stiff. Mold, pack in salt and ice, and let stand three hours, or pour in tray of automatic refrigerator and let stand three to four hours.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Household confusion and home confusion may or may not signify the same thing to homemakers, but there is a subtle difference.

* * * * * * *

The first has to do with the arrangement of things; the neatness and systematized adjustment of articles in rooms, closets, etc., so that the house is in order.

* * * * * * *

When the homemaker is doing this work she is said to be "setting her house in order." The housewife who keeps her rooms in excellent shape is said to have a "well-ordered house."

* * * * * * *

This latter expression is altered just a trifle to a "well ordered household" when it signifies that the personal affairs of the individual members of the family have been so adjusted that each person's life fits in with that of the others, and yet each pursues his or her own affairs without obstruction.

* * * * * * *

Co-operation of members is essential to make things run smoothly for each has a share in the success of the venture. Also it does not preclude members assisting each other to further separate interests.

* * * * * * *

It does mean that each one's task or job is respected and that each one goes about his or her own work without its being encroached upon by another.

* * * * * * *

When there are young children in a family they must be guided, and it falls upon the mother, chiefly, to see that play and occupations make a well-rounded day and a sufficiently long night for the welfare of the members to be looked out for.

* * * * * * *

The fathers help mother to direct their ways to admonish, encourage and rear the children to become fine citizens. The children of a well-ordered household are far on the way to becoming good citizens.

* * * * * * *

When children begin to have pronounced individualities, there is apt to be a period of readjustments, difficult alike for the children and the parents.

* * * * * * *

At this time there is apt to be a certain amount of home confusion. Nothing seems of so much importance to a child at this stage, as the things which concern him.

* * * * * * *

Hard as it is for parents to tide over such a time when they delight in a well-ordered home and household, the fact that this is but a passing period is a soothing thought.

* * * * * * *

During this time the importance of all persons realizing the rights of every member of the family and that others' time and work are equally as valuable as theirs is a great aid to the good order of the establishment.

* * * * * * *

Then the scales of the family have a true balance.

INQUEST HELD

was in the George street bus, which was parked on George street at the north-east corner of Simcoe street. He heard a scream and saw one woman struck. "The car was angling toward my bus when I saw one lifted in the air and fall upon the car," he stated.

Within Zone

"I just got a glimpse of one woman taking a step just as the car struck her," said Lawrence Gibson, bus driver, who was sitting in a bus behind that driven by the previous witness. "From where I was sitting it looked as though the woman was just about on the safety zone when struck and she was in about the centre of the road."

After the accident, he observed that there was only one light burning on Coombes' car.

Beside the Driver

Frank Hully said that he was in the front seat of Coombes' car when the accident occurred. "We were going about 12 miles an hour," he said. "We slowed down about the middle of the Simcoe street intersection and the driver blew his horn and paused. He then swung to the right. I then noticed the women who were walking easterly across George street and were about halfway across."

He estimated that they were about four to six feet north of the safety zone.

"They were struck on my side of the car," Hully said. "One was hit and was knocked down. The other was brushed aside and out of danger."

A moment later Coombes' car hit another car which was moving south on George street. "The left front fender of our car struck the right rear fender of the other car."

Bound For Legion Hall.

Robert White, 149 Stewart street, said he was riding on the left side of the rear seat of Coombes' car during the accident. He stated that the party in the car was going to the Legion Hall, having left his home about 18 minutes to 8 o'clock. The car had passed the bus parked in front of the Dominion Bank when he first noticed the two women pedestrians. He said the driver blew his horn several times and cut first toward the east. "As the ladies seemed to move in front of our car, the driver then turned sharply to the left," he said.

This witness also remembered striking another car which was going south on George Street.

Mrs. Alice White, wife of the last witness, said she was seated in the centre of the rear seat of Coombes' car. She said she did not see Miss Davidson or Mrs. Hall before they were struck by the car, but recalled that Coombes had blown his horn twice while crossing the Simcoe street intersection.

Blew Horn Twice

Mrs. Sarah Coombes, mother of Victor Coombes, said she was riding in the rear seat on the right side. She also said that her son blew the horn twice and swerved first to the right and then to the left.

She said that her son had purchased the car in November. He had a temporary driver's permit first and then later secured a driver's license. She said her son would be 18 years of age in May, and that he was employed in the Lockworks.

Driver Testifies.

Victor Coombes, driver of the car, said that he had always understood that he would be 19 this May. He had been working in the Lockworks for three and a half years and had steady employment. He said he bought the car from Jack Hay, of East City, on November 26, 1931, for $65, paying $35 down and the balance in January. He learned to drive a car last summer, he said.

At the time of the accident, he stated, he had the lights on bright. About two weeks before the accident he secured his driver's permit, he said.

"We were in about the centre of the intersection when I first saw the ladies who were about four feet north of safety zone and about the centre of the road. I blew my horn when I first saw them and slackened speed. They stopped and I turned to the right. Later when they moved again to go across, I swung to the west, releasing my brakes and thinking I could go around them. If another car hadn't been there I would have missed them."

He said he was about 12 feet from the women when they stopped.

Tried to Go Around

"Instead of putting on your brakes you tried to go around them?" questioned Mr. McElderry.

"Yes," was the reply.

"If you had put on your brakes you would have stopped before hitting them?"

"I did put on my brakes after I saw I couldn't go around them."

"It was too late then?"

"Yes."

He explained that he was going 15 miles an hour when he was 12 feet from the women.

"Can you explain," asked Mr. McElderry, "how it was on this occasion with the streets busy with people, you knocked these women and killed one?"

"No, I can't just explain it," Coombes replied.

In reply to Coroner Dr. Young's questions, he stated that he had spent about five dollars on repairs for the car since he purchased it.

Steering Wheel Bad

Constable John Naples said that he had tested the brakes on Coombes' car. "I figured the brakes were not in very good condition," he said. "I found that the steering wheel was wobbly and it was hard to keep the car on its course."

The constable said that the marks on the road indicated that the brakes on the car had never been put on hard or locked.

The jurors were: L. L. Magnire, Samuel Fanning, R. W. Carson, L. Collins, Earl Kidd, Harry Nelson, Max Martyn, S. T. Harris, James Skinner, Stan Kereghan, Samuel Touchburn and Malcolm McIntyre.

LAD IS BURNED

WINDSOR, April 29. When grass in a vacant lot in which he was playing took fire, Robert Gaines, 4, of East Windsor, was badly burned about the legs and lower part of the body. He is in Metropolitan General Hospital and Dr. St. John Wigle, who is attending him, says he will probably recover. It is reported that the prompt action of a neighbor woman saved the little lad from being more seriously injured.

The members of the ladies' section of All Saints' Bowling Club assembled at the home of Mrs. E. W. Fisher, Dalhousie Street, past president of the club, on Wednesday evening, and presented her with a beautiful silver flower basket holding a bouquet of King Alfred daffodils. The presentation was made by Mrs. R. Page, president of the club for this year, and the accompanying address was read by Mrs. Miller, expressing the appreciation of the club for the work done by Mrs. Fisher last year, and the many happy times enjoyed. This was signed by Mrs. Page, president, and Mrs. G. Foster, president for the year 1930. Mrs. Fisher expressed her thankfulness in a few words. Bridge was played, with prizes being won by Mrs. G. Foster and Mrs. W. H. Hughes. The prizes were donated by Mrs. R. Price and Mrs. C. Curtis. Dainty refreshments were served, and before dispersing all joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Park Street Choir Guests Of Church

The members of the choir of Park Street Baptist church were guests of the choir committee and ladies of the church at a banquet last night in the Sunday School room. Rev. C. V. McLean of St. Andrew's church was the guest speaker, and the program included banjo selections by Frank Clarke and readings by Miss Parnell, also impromptu speeches by Stewart Young, Stanley Young, Tom Henry, Lloyd Graham, C. Corbett, G. Batley and J. Garside.

The toast to the King was given by Maurice Dunkley, and the other toasts were to the Church by Mrs. Nicholls and replied to by Mr. Newble; the Choir, proposed by Mr. B. Smith and responded to by H. Northrop; and to the Ladies by Mr. N. Hamilton and responded to by Mrs. Masters. Mr. J. Mabee was chairman.

The choir greatly appreciated the kindness of the ladies in providing an excellent repast.

FASHION SERVICE

Dashing and gay is this little model with its military air.

It is marine blue dotted crepe silk. The vest in plain crepe that tones with the print is trimmed with brass buttons. Note the pert bow that finishes the neck.

Isn't the skirt smart? It's slimming too.

And think of it, you can copy it exactly—and how you'll adore it! And at a surprisingly small outlay.

Style No. 2776 is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust.

Sheer woolen in vivid green is ever so smart for this model. For summer, white waffle woolen is stunning.

Size 16 requires 2¾ yards 39-inch with ½ yard 39-inch contrasting.

Be sure to fil in the size of the pattern.

Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Price of book 15 cents.

Price of pattern 15 cents.

Extend Walk to Park.

Another suggestion to extend the sidewalk on the north side of McDonnel Street from the factory of Canadian Woollens and Worsted, Limited, to Monaghan Road and then north on the west side of the boundary to Park Hill Road opposite the entrance to Jackson Park was regarded as a desirable improvement and convenience for the public.

The work was authorized on Ald. Turner's motion, seconded by Ald. Cotton. Notice will be given of the Council's intention to build this sidewalk.

Broadcasting Report Is Delayed For Week

OTTAWA, April 29.—(CP)— Unforseen delays caused by other demands made upon the time of the members of the House Committee on Radio Broadcasting will make it impossible to prepare the report for parliament before next week, it was learned today. Hon. Dr. Raymond Morand, (Cons.-Essex East) was called out of town today and will not return until next week.

There had been expectations that a report would be ready for presentation today or the first of next week. Several private meetings of the committee were held this week.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

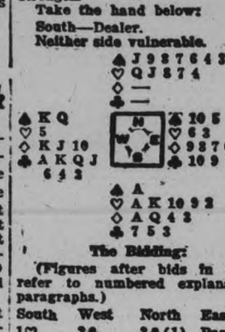
THE WORTHLESS ACE

Aces and Kings are the ordinary symbols of power in the game of Contract Bridge—Aces because they control the first round of the suit, and Kings because, as second in command, they can usually be expected to account for a trick to the fortunate holder, regardless of whether or not the hand is played on the attack or the defense.

There are deals, however, in which Aces must bow to deuces, and Kings take rank below the treys. These hands are of the suit type; that is, they should never be played at notrump because the element of distribution overbalances the usual controlling factor of honor strength.

Take the hand below:

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡	2♣	3♣(1)	Pass
3◇(2)	Pass(3)	5♡(4)	Pass
6♡(5)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—The first indication that Aces and Kings were being quoted below par in this deal. An Overcall in opponents' suit is sometimes justified, even when holding as meager a supply of honors as North held in this instance. In support of a heart bid, North's hand is so strong that it is unnecessary to look for a better declaration.

2—Showing another biddable suit. There is no occasion for any jumping of the bids, as North's Overcall of the opponents' bid suit, after his partner had opened the bidding, is the equivalent of a Forcing Takeout and neither partner is permitted to drop the bidding until a game contract is reached.

3—West's hand justifies a further bid, but he heeds the warning and hopes that even if his clubs are worthless, he may find a spade trick and perhaps a diamond to contribute to the defeat of a Slam contract by North and South if they embark upon it.

4—North's hand is not strong enough for a direct Slam bid but does justify a Slam invitation.

5—Assured of no losing clubs by his partner's illuminating bid, knowing from his own holding there are no losers in spades, and now promised more than adequate trump support in hearts, South correctly bids for a Slam.

It is, of course, unnecessary to point out that the contract was made. In fact, an extra trick was scored as distribution had made of no effect West's strong honor holding.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: How many tricks will 5 honor-tricks produce?
Answer: About 8.

Gross Destruction By Youth Of City Is To Be Found In Many Public Places

Every window in the older of the two display buildings at the Exhibition Park have been broken by a gang of boys living and roving about the south end of the city.

One hundred and four of the shrubs planted by the city on the cross streets from King street north to Weller, between Park street and Monaghan Road, have been destroyed.

Parenthetically it might be added that one of the principal residential sections of the city is embraced in that boulevarded area of the west end when the Parks Committee has been for several years engaged in the commendable work of trying to beautify the city.

Recently when an employee of the city remonstrated with a group of boys on one of the west-end streets about the damage they were doing, one of them said, "What the h——'s it to you. This is public property. Whata you go to say about it?"

To the Pollyanna brotherhood, especially those who know the least about what is going on in the city, and who doubtless are earliest to bed at night, the youth of to-day are a splendid product of our society. Just where the extensive and deliberate destruction of public property fits into that opinion will be beyond the ken of the average citizen who has his doubts about various things as they are.

The two instances of damage by youths are entirely authentic, and confront the city council and directors of the Exhibition with an opposition to public effort for improvement that is extremely discouraging. It is understood that the Exhibition has been thinking of police action, but there is a tendency to avoid bringing boys directly in contact with police station and court atmosphere.

FACES CRUELTY COUNT.

HAMILTON, April 29.—Yesterday afternoon Magistrate J. H. Campbell, St. Catharines, opened the trial in Smithville of Wm. Clayton, Caistor farmer, charged with cruelty to his livestock. It is charged by the Humane Society that Clayton starved his 34 head of cattle and horses who were said to be in a very weakened state when the society took action.

Fire Department To Inaugurate Campaign

Alderman Jack McNabb, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, has arranged with Chief Gimblett of the Fire Department to start off the Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Give-a-Man-a-Job Campaign by the Fire Department giving their usual fine co-operation. Downtown streets will be flushed commencing to-night, setting a good example to the rest of the city. The campaign is showing possibilities of excellent results.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

AN ORGANIZATION THAT WANTS TO KEEP YOU WELL.

I believe the public and the dental profession are to be congratulated on the fact that it is considered only good sense to have the teeth examined once or twice a year. The patient saves money, saves his teeth, and is spared considerable pain by this arrangement.

Just why the public and the medical profession have not completed a similar arrangement, whereby the patient undergoes a thorough examination at least once a year is easy to understand. For hundreds of years disease was looked upon as something that could not be prevented, and the public is not fully awake to the fact that that day is past, that disease is not "an accident" against which no precautions can be taken, for during recent years many diseases have been made preventable through the advance of medical science.

In children's diseases there is not now the dread of diphtheria, of scarlet fever, of infantile paralysis and other diseases, as there was a few years ago.

With adults there is no longer the danger of typhoid fever, pernicious anaemia, diabetes and other diseases, because medical science can not only cure many ailments, but can also prevent them.

Why then do people die of many ailments if they may be prevented?

Simply because they have not learned that it is unwise to wait until disease comes, that they should see their family doctor and get a thorough examination at least once a year.

Just as you arrange to see your dentist, although you know of no cavity or root infection in the teeth, so also should you see your doctor while you are in good health and know of no reason why you shouldn't remain in good health.

Now you are interested in your health because it is your biggest asset. Do you know that some other organization wants to keep you well, wants to prevent your death? The insurance companies naturally want you to remain well, and pay your premiums, because they must pay over a considerable sum of money to your dependents when you die.

What are they doing about preserving your health?

They are actually providing the physical examination free of charge to policy holders, and paying the doctors themselves.

You can rest assured that if it pays the insurance companies to keep you well, it should certainly pay you to get this annual physical examination.

GREATER POWER, HIGHER TOP SPEED, ADDED RIDING EASE

These Are Among the Features Which Characterize the New 1932 Pontiac Cars.

ECONOMY IMPROVED

Greater power, faster pick-up, higher top speed, the comfort of ride control and the fresh beauty of line and color of finer Fisher bodies render the new 1932 Pontiac Six, on display at the Motor Show, a car of outstanding appeal in the low-price field.

Synchro-mesh transmission with quiet second gear is combined in this smart new car with controlled free wheeling, presenting ease of driving control that simplifies driving even in complex traffic. And Pontiac's ride control is rendered even more effective by a longer wheelbase of 114 inches, by lubricated and enclosed springs and by rubber cushioning which prevents metal to metal contact at 47 points in the chassis.

Choice of six body models is offered in the new Pontiac Six chassis—the two and four-door sedan, custom sedan, coupe, sport coupe and convertible coupe, all finished with the fine workmanship for which Fisher is noted.

Among the exterior features that first strike the eyes is the rakish 10-degree angle at which the windshield rises to meet the unvisored roof.

The smartness of line and the contour of the new and finer Fisher bodies is matched by richly-appointed interiors, all finished with the same careful attention to detail that marks the well-appointed home — expensive fabrics — "tied-down" springs—luxurious, high-backed seats.

The new Pontiac motor is the most powerful ever used in this car, now developing a full 65 horsepower at only 3200 r.p.m., giving flashy speed and getaway and providing ample reserve power. The cylinder head is entirely new and so carefully designed that it raises the compression to a point that exacts from regular grades of fuel the maximum in efficiency and performance, making it unnecessary for the motorist to buy higher-priced fuels to obtain spirited performance. Against this cylinder head the hand-fitted, triple-ringed, electro-plated pistons pack the fuel mixture at a pressure of from 113 to 115 pounds to the square inch.

Economy as well as power is improved in the new Pontiac Six. Although it always has been noted for thrifty operation, the 1932 Pontiac Six operates with the economy of cars built for economy alone. The carburetor of the new engine is of an extremely economical type, with three feed jets of graduated size which supply exactly the quantity of fuel needed at low, intermediates and high engine speeds. Further, Pontiac's "economiser" provides still another assurance of maximum mileage by metering and controlling the amount of gasoline that can reach the carburetor at speeds up to 50 miles an hour. Beyond this point, the added fuel required for full power is admitted to the mixing chamber. Instant acceleration is assured by an "accelerator pump" built into the carburetor. This pump traps a small additional amount of gasoline when the accelerator pedal is suddenly depressed, and feeds it into the mixing chamber, thus temporarily enriching the mixture.

The new Pontiac six uses very little oil, due largely to the comparatively cool temperatures at which the motor operates and to the close fitting piston and rings.

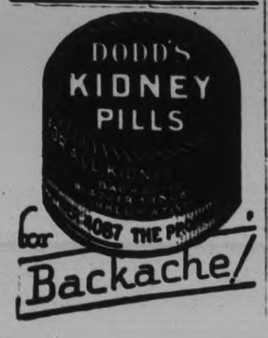
Riding low and on rubber in a stronger, sturdier frame, reinforced by six cross members instead of five as formerly, the Pontiac Six engine is a big, easy-running power plant with every vital part built to oversize dimensions. Contributing largely to the strength of the motor is a new crankshaft which is eight pounds heavier than before.

Full pressure lubrication reaches every moving part of the engine, including the piston pins which receive oil under pressure through holes rifle-drilled in the webb-reinforced connecting rods.

Big Bendix self-energizing duo-servo brakes provide maximum of braking power with minimum effort, while the three-spoke steering wheel and steering gear, operating on roller bearings, makes steering so easy that the car responds to the slightest touch.

Many other improvements contribute to the long life and reliability which are inherent in the new Pontiac Six.

The Canton of Berne, Switzerland, has ordered that all automobiles carry rearview mirrors, direction indicators and windshield wipers.



DEVELOPS SPEED OF 72 MILES P.H.

Remarkable Performances of Willys-Knight Cars Under Most Gruelling Tests.

Willys-Overland cars have proved their metal in many gruelling contests and some of their performances include a number of stock car records.

The Silver Streak 65 h.p. engine of the new six develops a speed on top of 72 m.p.h. and 48 m.p.h. in second.

This engine, with the 1932 refinements and improvements, was placed in the chassis of a roadster and put through a continuous run on the Indianapolis Speedway. With a change of drivers every eight hours, the car kept up its grind on the famous rought brick track, day and night, week after week, and early in December, 1931, had accumulate more than 50,000 miles in less than 50 days—at an average speed of more than 50 miles an hour, and is still continuing over the highways.

During the terrific test the engine required no adjustments whatever, of 11-5 cents a mile, which included gas, oil, greasing, tires, etc., based on actual garage charges.

"The ability of this car to average more than 500 miles per quart of oil is a tribute to its in-built qualities, while the low total cost per mile is believed to be a record for economical operation, which in all reflects credit on its stamina. This test was officially observed," according to Willys-Overland officials.

Another Willys-Overland Silver Streak six has travelled to date well over 40,000 miles at a cost of 1¼ cents a mile, which includes all expenditures. It travelled at a speed of more than 70 miles an hour over the greater part of the continent.

"In neither case have the engines of these cars been touched.

"It is pointed out that both of these engines in a short space of time have accumulated as much mileage as the average car does in five to eight years.

"In addition to the 'Silver Streak' Motor and the twin-sleeve Willys-Knight engine, other features of the new Willys-Overland cars include free-wheeling, safety glass, double-acting shock eliminators, both front and rear, powerful four-wheel brakes, double drop frame, oversize tires, Float-O oil device, fingertip control, bodies insulated against noise, drafts and vibrations, engines mounted in rubber, luxurious upholstery, bugle-type horn, full force feed lubrication, form-fitting seats, adjustable front seat, adjustable steering post, narrow rim, steel centre, steering wheel, composite wood and steel bodies, wire wheels, inside radiator filler cap, flame arrestor, steel running boards, fuel pump, slanting windshields, visorless front.

RIDER CONTROL ON OLDSMOBILE

Smooths Out the Bumps in the Roughest Roads—See the Eights and Sixes.

Driver control over the action of springs and shock absorbers on any type of road is standard equipment for 1932 on Oldsmobile. Both the Oldsmobile Eight and Six are equipped with this ride regulator device, which heretofore has been confined to cars materially higher in price.

By means of the ride regulator the driver literally can smooth out the bumps in the roughest road and can compensate for additional weight in the car so that the same comfortable ride can be had whether one or five passengers be carried.

Every motorist has experienced the unpleasant jars and pitch of a car on a rough road when his shock absorbers have been set for smooth highway driving. Under such conditions the shock absorbers practically fail to function. Conversely, if the absorbers were set for rough roads they would neutralize the smooth spring action desired to take up the indulations of paved highways.

Since the widespread adoption of shock absorbers by the motor car industry several years ago, engineers have been seeking to remedy this condition. The result is the ride regulator as adopted by Oldsmobile. This consists of a dash control which acts through a series of rods attached to the frame to vary the size of the valve openings in the double action hydraulic shock absorbers. If a "free" or easy shock absorber action is desired, the valves are opened to permit the easy flow of the oil in the absorbers on both the compression and rebound movements. The "firm" position, such as is required on rough roads, restricts the valves and tightens the action of the shock absorbers.

The regulator can be set instantly to any position throughout the range to give the individual driver any riding condition desired.

TELEPHONE TAX IN EFFECT MAY 2

All Long Distance Calls Costing Over 15 Cents Will be Taxed.

FIVE CENTS ON THE CALL.

On and after Monday next, users of long distance telephones will pay a Federal Government tax of 5 cents on all calls for which the charge is over 15 cents.

Requested to give an explanation of the manner in which the new tax will be levied, H. H. J. Johnston, district manager of the Bell Telephone Company said that regardless of the basic rate for long distance calls a 3 cent tax would be payable on every call over 15 cents.

For instance he explained a three minute conversation between Peterborough and Bethany is 15 cents, and not subject to tax. But the moment the conversation exceeds the three minute period the cost is boosted beyond 15 cents and is therefore subject to the 5 cent tax. On the other hand, he continued, a call from Peterborough to Winnipeg costing anything from $2.00 up to $3.75 according to the hour at which the call is made, is only subject to a tax of 5 cents.

The long distance operators at all the telephone exchanges will make use of a new formula, with the introduction of the tax. To a subscriber who enquires the cost of a long distance call to Toronto for example, the operator will reply "the charge is 55 cents, including 5 cents Dominion tax."

HOT SPOT FOR TRAFFIC OFFICER

Pity for the poor traffic officer who stands shivering in the blizzard while he keeps vehicles moving may soon be obsolete. An electrically-heated uniform and shoes for traffice policeman operating from metal plates on the heels of the shoes which contact with a low-voltage storage battery supply of electric current when the officer is standing on plates set in the street pavement, was demonstrated at Schenectady early in March by the General Electric Company. Despite the fact the temperature was below freezing, and the traffic patrolman was located on a particularly blusterous street intersection, he was kept comfortably warm in his electric garments.

SILENCE AT THE WHEEL

Fifty-one weeks of the year she is heard and not seen. For one week she is seen and not heard. This is all part of the day's work with Lilian Dawson, a young sky who attracted crowds to the Cadillac exhibit in the National Motor Show of Canada by demonstrating the simplicity of driving the newest Cadillac models. Visitors to the National Motor Show saw Miss Dawson on the driver's seat of a stripped chassis, noiselessly manipulating the gear-shift lever without saying a single word, because she was not allowed to answer questions, a demonstrator being on hand for the purpose. When Miss Dawson went back to her regular job after the Motor Show, she did practically nothing else but answer questions. She is a telephone operator.

THE NEW LAMP LIGHTER

The photoelectric tube, or "electric eye", is now on the job to turn on the highway lights. The control of the lights is mechanical. The photo-electric tube is enclosed in a box exposed to the north sky. Sufficient darkness, no matter at what hour, causes de-energization of the device, and the lights are switched on. Intermittent flashes had no effect since the tube is governed by a timer. In the morning a sufficient amount of light in the sky turns off the light. Heavy rainclouds are sufficient to cause the tube to do its duty.

PONTIAC NUMBER ONE

Beginning its seventh year of service with a trip of 1200 miles, Pontiac Number One, owned by W. E. Rohrer of Pontiac, Mich., is apparently out to put some interesting figures on the mileage dial before it stops seeing the world. Mr. Rohrer, who averages 100 miles a day, has already driven this 1926 coupe over 125,000 miles. He says fuel and oil consumption are exceptionally low, and he has spent nothing for upkeep. Increase in car values in recent years is well illustrated by comparing Rohrer's car with the 1932 engine of 36 horse power and the engine of 36 horse over and the wheelbase was 110 inches. Today's Pontiac has a 65-horsepower motor and wheelbase of 114 inches. In addition, today's buyer gets synchro-mesh transmission with quiet second gear, free wheeling, ride control, a stronger chassis, cushioned with rubber at 47 points, and smart Fisher bodies in which every provision is made for comfort and convenience.

SILVER-STREAK MOTOR

. . . . . in the 1932 Willys-Overland Sixes and Eights

THE performance of the Silver-Streak motors which power the 1932 Willys-Overland Sixes and Eights is indeed remarkable—even in this day of super power plants.

In sustained high speed—in flashing get-away—in effortless hill climbing—in smooth operation, the Silver-Streak has few rivals.

The sensational performance-ability of the Silver-Streak has been amply proven on the testing grounds of the continent. Averaging 1,000 miles a day for days on end over the rough bricks of a famous speedway—rolling up thousands of miles 'cross-country over all types of roads—standing up under the most gruelling punishment—creating 16 new official A.A.A. speed records—placing first and second in the Pike's Peak Hill Climb—astounding critics with speeds of over eighty miles an hour—such is the background of the Silver-Streak as it comes to you today.

Inspect the 1932 models now on display. You'll appreciate their ultra-smart appearance, their charming fitments, their quality-car luxury, their BIG-CAR roominess—and as for the Silver-Streak Motor—

MUCH WORK NEEDED TO OUTFIT WORN CARS FOR SUMMER SEASON

Oldest Vehicles Require Complete Overhauling.

ADJUST BRAKES.

In summing up the spring preparation program, service authorities declare that it must include a larger proportion of cars five, six, seven, and even eight years old than ever before. For the oldest of these vehicles, it is recognized that nothing short of a complete overhaul can restore them to a condition of efficient performance, but the cars are not worth the money this would cost.

In many cases, the amount needed to make an old car safe and efficient, plus the small trade allowance it will bring, will cover the cost of a used car of more modern design. This is recommended as the solution of the spring car preparation problem for this class of owners.

For those with more modern cars who would like to replace them but cannot, an economical spring preparation procedure is suggested. It is one that involves attention to many features of the automobile but on a sufficiently modest scale to keep down the total cash outlay. Safety is rated as the most important consideration.

The first item recommended for attention is the brake system. Only a complete relining of the brakes will restore efficiency to many cars which have gone more than 30,000 miles on present lining. Where linings have been worn threadbare, motorists may find that brake drums have been scored and distorted in shape. In the worst of such cases, new linings alone will not give maximum stopping performance. It may be necessary to regrind or replace unduly worn drums.

Safety First.

Next among the car's safety features which should be carefully checked is the steering. There is a considerable range of adjustments to compensate for wear in several parts of the steering mechanism. Taking advantage of it will make a great difference in the ease and precision with which the car may be guided. The replacement most likely to be needed, if any, is that of the kingpin bushings. Worn bushings are a prolific source of steering instability in the form of shimmy and wheel wobble. Serious wear dictates replacement for safety.

Owners of older cars who find headlighting inferior should look to the condition of reflectors. Replating or replacing reflectors often is the only solution of the problem of inadequate illumination.

In making the car safe for spring driving, many owners will be compelled to think of new tires. Cold weather operation favors tires that have worn thin, but warmer pavements and higher speed driving will bring blowouts to many tires that went through the winter successfully. Motorists who cannot replace seriously worn tires, however, can reduce the danger of a blowout by driving with greater care and at lower speeds.

Motorists who want to carry their spring-time car maintenance programs beyond the consideration of safety will find the engine still the proper place to begin.

Cleaning the Crankcase.

The first step should be to put the lubrication system back on a warm-weather operation basis. This involves more than a mere change from a lighter to a heavier grade of oil. The crankcase should be dropped and thoroughly cleaned. Sludge collected in the grooves at the bottom of the case can be removed by washing it out with kerosene. The screen at the top of the case likewise should be thoroughly renovated, with particular attention given to the strainer at the base of the oil pump. While the crankshaft is thus exposed, engine operating efficiency and silence will be helped by having the main and connecting rods bearings tightened.

This renovation and tightening process will prove an economy not only in the prevention of bearing and lubrication system troubles, but in its favorable effect upon oil consumption.

If he does not do anything else, the car owner at least should see that the crankcase is flushed out thoroughly with one of the special flushing oils before the change from a cold weather to warm weather lubricant is made.

A still more important flushing operation—one that the motorist can do for himself—is that of the cooling system. When the anti-freeze can be removed without fear of another cold snap, the radiator should be thoroughly drained. The system then should be filled with a pre-mixed solution of sal soda in the proportion of one pound to three gallons of lukewarm water. This should be left in the system for at least ten minutes while the engine runs, giving the solution a chance to scour the inside of radiator and engine water jackets. The process should be repeated until the last bit of rust and scale is eliminated and fresh water flowing through the system comes out undiscolored.

Change Oil.

The first sustained appearance of warmer weather should mark the replacement of the lighter winter grade of lubricant in the transmission and differential. Low viscosity fluid grease or oil left in the latter will tend to work past the retaining washers of the rear axle and destroy brake linings, in addition to providing inadequate protection of the gears. It may prove well to replace the washers in cars in which they have seen long service.

As to the remainder of the spring preparation program, it should include a thorough cleaning and lubrication of the chassis. All moving parts of the brake linkage should be cleaned of rust and lubricated. Tightening of the anti-rattle brackets on a mechanical brake system will eliminate many noises.

If the amount of fluid in a hydraulic brake system was increased to compensate for cold weather, or if a fluid of a different viscosity was introduced into the system, the reverse change should be made at this season. The same treatment, of course, should be given hydraulic shock absorbers.

Snow and ice covered pavements impose many unusual and racking strains upon body hold-down bolts, and the small expense of having them tightened in advance of the heavy spring and summer driving season will be found justified.

Modern clutches carry a heavy burden and merit one or two forms of attention, particularly at this season. To avoid serious clutch trouble, the motorist should be sure to have the amount of free play in the clutch pedal checked. A minimum of one inch of free movement before the clutch begins to disengage is recommended in nearly all cars. It is a precaution against clutch spring, yoke and release bearing wear.

"TARZAN, THE APE MAN."

This is one of the most thrilling talkies seen here in a long time. It goes far beyond those interesting pictures, "Chang," "Trader Horn," and their ilk, that contained so much of adventure and thrilling escapade. The onlooker wonders just how some of these episodes could be filmed with such a semblance of perfect reality, especially the scenes in which the wild beasts do their stuff: The elephant stampede of the pygmie village, the fights of Tarzan with the huge lion and the tiger, the water picture where the rhinos and the crocodiles pursue the fleeing adventurers. They are just about the last word in animal adventures.

The quest for that almost mythical place, the lost mountain range where the elephants of Africa go to die, when their last moment approaches and they feel the event stealing towards them, is the theme of the tale, which brings into its unfolding the picturesque figure of Tarzan of the Apes. Lady Greystoke is not here, nor is Numa, the golden lion. But here is Sabor, the tiger, and Tantor, the elephant, coming with faithful loyalty to Tarzan's assistance in many a critical moment. And here, too, is that cry of the infuriated bull ape, spoken of so often in Edgar Rice Burroughs' strips that picture the story of Tarzan, ringing out over the myriad noises of the jungle. And here is Cheeta, the friendly little monkey who does her bit for Tarzan.

Johnny Weismueller has a superb role in this talkie, and takes it marvellously. Neil Hamilton and C. Aubrey Smith are the supporting masculine actors, and Maureen O'Sullivan is the heroine. Gay Parker, daughter of the intrepid trader who sets out in search of the elephants' dying place. Some people may like Maureen O'Sullivan, with her staccato conversation, her inane manners and her voice like dry chips. This talkie is a splendid one in spite of her, not because of her.

The details are marvellous. Pygmies lurk in the jungle and hurl their poisoned arrows at the travellers; there is strange talk in the dialects of the forest; there are many huge black men in the piece; there are jungle animals galore, from the friendly little monkeys and friendly huge elephants to the ferocious tiger and lion and the terribly hideous ape of the pit; there are little bird cries and weird calls from animal to animal; fierce elephant trumpetings and hoarse cough of the enraged lion; curious native dances and monotonous native music; there is sustained and prolonged interest that keeps the attention rivited on the screen for every moment of a very real picture.

"Tarzan, the Ape Man" is a wonderful talkie that should not be missed.

—Jeanette.

Prominent Lawyer Has Lost His Voice

It's serious enough when an ordinary citizen loses his voice, but its an incalculable disaster when a lawyer's vocal chords refuse to emit the spoken word in anything above a whisper. That's what happened during the night to one of the city's leading lights of the Bar.

Yesterday he had a case in the Supreme Court of Ontario here, and he was very chagrined, when on some technicalities advanced by three defence counsels, Chief Justice Rose set the trial aside until the next session of the court.

To-day it was another story. In a low whisper he told The Examiner, "I'm glad that case didn't go on yesterday." In the same whisper he explained to the surprised reporter that during the night he had lost his voice. How he conducted his practice during the day is a mystery. It would be tough giving advice to an argumentive client in a whisper. Perhaps, he will regain his full vocal power to-night.

TOLL BRIDGE MADE FREE

Mr. P. J. Pybus, British minister of transport, recently cut a tape across the 145-year-old toll bridge over the River Trent at Gainsborough as a symbol that the bridge, which was bought from the owning company for £130,000, is henceforth to be free.

2 extra exposures to the roll of Kodak Verichrome Film V116 and V120

You can get the new 8-exposure roll in regular Kodak Film 116 and 120 as well as in the "fast-seeing" new Verichrome

MILLIONS of picture takers now know what infinitely better snapshots they get with Kodak Verichrome Film.

Even beginners, using inexpensive cameras, are getting picture results comparable with those of the experienced camerist.

Now, this remarkable new film gives you still greater value for your money. Two extra picture opportunities to the roll, at no price increase. In fact, 8-exposure Verichrome costs you less per exposure than you formerly paid for 6-exposure regular film.

This week-end, load your camera with Verichrome. No bright light needed. Dull days or fine, in the shade, regardless of weather conditions, Kodak Verichrome gives you the most satisfactory pictures you've ever taken.

Your Kodak dealer has the new 8-exposure rolls—two extra exposures without extra cost, a third more for the same money—in the two most popular sizes: 2¼ x 3¼ and 2½ x 4¼ inches.

Carrying Out Orders And Court Etiquette

Victor Coombes, 18-year-old driver of the car which knocked down and caused fatal injuries to Miss Adelaide Davidson, aged 64, on the evening of April 21 at the corner of Simcoe and George streets, was remanded again to-day. The date for the preliminary before Magistrate Langley was refixed to May 3.

Bail of $6,000, fixed on Coombes' first appearance a week ago, was not reduced. Coombes, unable to raise the bail, has been confined to jail.

Humorous incidents occur around police court. One with inside information about a case which was fixed for hearing to-day could not help but smile when a constable was despatched from the court room to shout out three times through echoing corridors of the police station the name of the accused. The accused is a youth who is now detained in Detroit by police for illegal entry into the United States. The constable knew full well that the youth whose name he was calling was confined in far-away Detroit, but still he bawled out his name. If asked the reason for the waste of voice, he would of replied, "Just carrying out orders and court eitquette."

STORK CHOOSES CHEVROLET

Pullman cars on transcontinental trains frequently boast of the stork as a passenger, but it is not often that this well-known bird condescends to ride in a motor car. Let the railways claim a monopoly however, a Poplar Plains, Man., mother writes to General Motors of Canada that her baby boy, Andrew, was born in the family Chevrolet touring car en route to West Selkirk Hospital.

HIGH STANDARDS OF DODGE AUTOS

In Requirement the New Models, Sixes and Eights, Positively Deliver the Maximum.

"There was never a time when mechanical quality, lofty standards of beauty and all-round efficiency for the office, the home, recreation, business have received such matter-of-fact acceptance—nor when public expectations in this regard ever have been so high," said Russel Paige, general sales manager for Dodge.

"In every department of automobile requirements, the new Dodge Sixes and Eights deliver the maximum, because in producing this car the demands and expectations of the time have been carefully considered and met.

"In viewing for the first time," Mr. Paige said, "one is struck by the lower, longer construction; the streamline effects achieved by the gracefully slanting windshield construction blending into cowl and top; the new radiator lines with the artistically designed radiator emblem.

"In examining the built-in excellence of the entire car's construction with its multitude of new features including Floating Power, automatic-clutch, free-wheeling, silent-second transmission, new spring construction, steering shock eliminator and new bridge-type frame, one sees why the new Dodge cars are graphic portrayals of Dodge dependability.

"In driving the car for the first time,' the Dodge executive declared, "one notices at once the absolute lack of vibration due to the Floating Power engine suspension One also notices the complete quietness of the engine and the smoothness of operation due to the automatic clutch and free wheeling, which permit instantaneous gear changing at any speed. It is truly a car of quality and indicates a perfectly engineered and manufactured motor car.

"Combined with this smoothness is a high degree of flexibility obtained from this perfectly balanced construction. Women will be attracted by the minimum strain imposed upon the driver owing to the new clutch and steering features.

"If a driver is to get comfortably through traffic the car must accelerate rapidly and be capable of split-second gear changes. With all traffic moving faster, the new Dodge cars are brilliant performers. The powerful, flexible smooth-running engines pick up with amazing rapidity and absence of effort. The lack of vibration is apparent.

"Easy steering," Mr. Paige pointed out, "has been brought to a high degree of perfection. The pressure of a single finger against a spoke of the steering wheel is sufficient to keep the car true to a straight line or turn it to right or left. This easy steering and insulation against road shock reaching the driver makes driving at all speeds a rare pleasure and makes parking against a curb or in a garage a simple matter.

"As in former years, the new Dodge cars are equipped with self-equalizing, internal expanding four-wheel hydraulic brakes which bringh the car to an easy yet positive stop on all four wheels.

AN ADMIRAL'S COLLECTION

Admiral H. E. Grace is making a house-to-house van collection at Portsmouth for the Portsmouth hostel for boys and will take anything from a penny to a pot of jam.

"Hurry, doctor ... hurry!"

THE CRY of a child in the night ... a hurry call to the doctor ... a quick, sure trip by motor car ...

In thousands upon thousands of cases, the dependability of an automobile may be a matter of life and death.

Dodge is proud that Dodge cars have long been the physician's favorite. Dodge is even prouder that the roster of owners of the new Dodge cars shows that this preference continues to grow.

The modern Dodge—with its up-to-the-minute engineering—its Floating Power, its speed, smoothness and effortless action—its beauty, luxury and comfort—continues to earn today, as it always has, a reputation as the most dependable car on the road.

This unique character—this combination of all that is modern with all that is sound and fine—makes the new Dodge Six and Eight the ideal choice for the doctor. Or anybody else who wants a sure result when he buys a motor car.

34 McLAUGHLIN BUICK MODELS

Increased Comfort, Greater Economy. They Attain the Highest Standard of Fine Car Building.

During Peterborough Automobile Revue Week demonstration rides in the new McLaughlin-Buick for 1932 will prove the ease with which the car is handled, the almost perfect roadability because of the new ride regulators, and the uncanny action of the power operated clutch. No matter how long the driver is at the control he will always have efficient company in the form of Wizard Control—free-wheeling and the new silent syncro-mesh transmission combined with the automatic clutch at his instant command by mere contact of the left foot to the control button.

With thirty-four smart, freshly styled models, grouped in four brilliantly engineered series, with enhanced beauty, satisfying comfort and increased economy, McLaughlin-Buick for 1932 sets the highest standards ever attained in its many years of fine car building.

Worthy of inclusion, with these advancements are new Valve-in-Head Straight Eight engines, with high compression that makes possible an increase of three miles per hour in speed; an efficient, simply operated ride regular permitting instant adjustment of the riding qualities of the car to any kind of road that may be encountered; improved carburetor, fuel system, and oil temperature regulator; quicker starting; better cooling; a new vacuum pump giving positive wind-shield wiper action at all speds, and many other improvements.

Newly designed bodies by Fisher are roomier, with long low lines and custom-like smartness.

Models entirely new to the line are a brougham, three special all weather phaetons, a 5-passenger coupe on all wheelbases, new convertible coupes and special sedans on all wheelbases.

From radiator to tail lamp every line of the 1932 McLaughlin-Buick is new, yet the ensemble retains the individuality that has always made McLaughlin-Buick distinctive. The slender radiator shell, newly designed on oval lines, has chrome beaded shutters. Fenders are long and racy. Headlamps are harmoniously bullet-shaped, with fender parking lamps to match.

The interiors, including upholstery and fitments, are in keeping with the mechanical refinements and exterior beauty. Special riding comfort is obtained by large deeply upholstered seats.

Closed cars have wood finished mouldings, two series being genuine walnut wood. Ash trays are placed in all front compartments, with double trays in the rear. Special models have silk robe rails. All doors have embossed panels. Floor carpets are velvet, silk finish being used on side curtains.

Body insulation, pioneered by McLaughlin-Buick to dampen our mechanical and road noises as well as to give protection against both heat and cold, has been improved and extended. Opening around the brake, clutch and starter pedals, the gear shift lever and brake lever, are closely fitted with heavy felt.

An improved door-locking system, operated by an upturn of the door handles, makes it possible to lock all from the inside, preventing unwelcome intrusion. To lock the car when leaving it all doors are locked from the inside by the door handles, except the right front door, which is locked by a key from the outside.

NEW GRAHAM EIGHT BEAUTIFUL MODEL

And Features Many Important Chassis Innovations—New Type Fenders with Side Valances.

Considerable interest this spring centres around the Graham Blue Streak Eight, one of the outstanding cars of the year. Its departure from the conventional is conspicuously apparent in the modernly styled streamline bodies, but visitors at the show will be equally interested in its many important chassis innovations.

The most strikingly new mechanical developments of the Blue Streak Eight are the deep banjo frame, outboard springs, and cradled suspension, all exclusive features, high compression and the aluminum cylinder head. Others include full range free wheeling, syncro-silent gearset, resonated muffling, hydraulic centrifuse brakes and shimmy and wheel tight free steering gear.

The bodies of the Graham eight depart boldly from conventional practice. On the new banjo frame, which has permitted the lowering of the body without decreasing road clearance, the Graham engineers have created a new type of car. While the radiator and hood, the air-foil fenders, and the streamlining effects are instantly noted as being different, the new effect is not so much in the details as in the ensemble, which gives an impression of unity.

Studied omission of exterior accessories and systematic concealment of units that would detract from the smoothness of its flowing contours are apparent. There are no fender or headlight tie rods across the front, no parking lamps on fenders or cowl, no exterior radiator cap. The radiator grill and the hubcaps are the only units showing an extensive use of chromium plate.

The new type fenders, with their deep valances, besides giving a pleasingly new line of grace, effectually conceal the working parts of the under carriage. This concealment is carried out all around by the smoothly finished metal trim, front and rear. The back of the car is notably clean, the lines and contours of the body, the fenders, and the fuel taken cover combining in a graceful molded contour—an aesthetic as well as practical aerodynamic step ahead.

Parking lights are provided by an extra bulb inside the headlights. Inside hood latches are used. The radiator filler cap is under the hood. The aeroplane type instrument board indicators are in three round dials under convex crystals.

Equally striking are the chassis feature. Chief of these is the deep "banjo" frame, with the rear axle extending through the expanded side rail (instead of under a narrowed kick-up), providing a flat platform foundation for the body and a frame of greatly increased strength and stiffness, cradled low between the springs, to which it is attached by outboard mountings, spacing the spring 8 inches wider in the front and 6 inches wider in the rear than in previous models. This makes for lateral stability as well as lowness.

DIXIE AND ROSIE NOT TO BE PARTED

Old Circus Pals Bought by the Same Zoo

Whipsnade.—Dixie and Rosie, the elephants which toured the country together for years with Bostock and Wombwell's menagerie, are not to be parted.

When the show closed recently it was announced that Rosie had been bought by the zoological society for the Whipsnade zoo, near Dunstable, Bedfordshire, and that Dixie was to be sold elsewhere. The zoological society, however, has now also bought Dixie.

Both elephants are being trained to carry children round the grounds.

Parking facilities at the Whipsnade zoo have been extended to accommodate 7,500 cars and 115 motor coaches.

CHAPTER ERECTS MEMORIAL BASE

57th Regiment Chapter, I.O.D.E. Hears Address on Cadet Training.

PUBLIC DEDICATION.

The April meeting of the 57th Regiment Chapter, I.O.D.E. was held in the Armouries yesterday afternoon with a large attendance, The Regent, Mrs. T. W. H. Young, presided.

Mrs. Sharpe, for the sick and visiting committee, reported 66 visits made during the past month.

Two new members, Mrs. A. E. Borland and Mrs. C. H. McWilliams, were welcomed into the Chapter.

It was decided to have an afternoon bridge in the Armouries, with Miss Mamie Rogers acting as convenor, assisted by Mrs. F. G. Mann, Mrs. B. Poole, Mrs. M. H. Park, Mrs. H G Park, Mrs R. H. Parsons, Miss A. Price, Mrs W. H. Peryer, Mrs. W. R. Pierey and Miss Rush.

Arrangements were made for placing flags on the graves of soldiers in Little Lake and St. Peter's cemeteries on Empire Day and Mrs. B. Poole was made convenor.

A resolution was passed that a donation of $10 be given the Upper Canada Tract Society.

It was decided to postpone the May meeting for one week and hold it on Thursday, June 2nd as a number of the officers and members expected to be in Toronto during the week of May 22 to 28 attending the annual national meeting of the I.O.D.E.

Plans were discussed for dedicating the memorial base for the flag at Little Lake cemetery in memory of soldiers buried overseas. The Chapter has recently purchased a base and the flag staff to be erected in the soldier's plot at the cemetery. It was decided to have a public dedication ceremony on June 3rd which will be announced more fully later.

R. C. Cummings of the Collegiate staff gave a very fine address on the cadet training in the schools, pointing out that this training developed character which might be sub-divided under three headings: 1, Unselfishness; 2, Loyalty; 3, Determination. The boys develop their powers of leadership and are helped morally and mentally. Their patriotism is increased and they make the best of citizens. He explained that they were not, on account of their training, compelled to fight for their country, but in case of emergency and volunteers are asked for these boys would be qualified for leadership. For the coming inspection he desired that the boys of the different platoons have something to compete for and asked the assistance of the Chapter.

It was unanimously passed that the Chapter present a shield for competition, with Mrs. R. E. Clarke as convenor to purchase same.

Mrs. R. G. Cottrell gave a fine report of the annual provincial I.O.D.E. meeting held in Hamilton recently and a hearty vote of thanks to both Mr. Cummings and Mrs. Cottrell was voiced and warmly applauded.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which afternoon tea was served by Mrs. G. Melton, Mrs. W. H. Andrews and Mrs. Peryer and a social half hour enjoyed.

Singer Outstrips Trolley for Noise

NEW YORK, April 29—Lily Pons, diminutive Metropolitan Opera star, can make more noise than a street car. Science has proved that she is 10 decibels louder than an electric car, and only 20 decibles quieter than a whole subway express, except when the express is going around an ungreased curve.

A decibel is a "unit of noise" and delicate machines have registered the output of every noise-making institution in New York. The score, to date, is:

Lily Pons, 75 decibels; Benjamin Gigli, 77 decibels; full orchestra, 96 decibels; applause, 80 decibels; street car, 65 decibles; subway express, 95 decibles; airplane, 105 decibels.

FINDS MILLION IN OLD CELLAR

Story of Ancient Stock Certificates Comes Out in Bigamy Action.

SPIRITS PLAY PART.

LITTLE VALLEY, N.Y., April 29.—Faced with a charge of bigamy, Archie Campbell, of Buffalo, has told a story of finding buried treasure worth nearly $1,000,000. His counsel, Robert P. Galloway, of Silver Creek, contends that the desire to wrest the treasure from Campbell is the real motive behind the bigamy charge and other actions pending against him.

A hearing of the bigamy charge before a magistrate in Little Valley, Cattaraugus county, yesterday, was adjourned for a week, to enable Galloway to draft a more complete and detailed story of the treasure trove.

The treasure, according to Campbell, consists of a tin box packed with musty stock certificates, once of comparatively small value. Campbell says he found it under the cellar wall of a ruined house in Pananama, N.Y., near Chautauqua Lake, which was built by James W. Pease, who died more than 40 years ago.

The box, Campbell said, contained an old ink well, an old candleholder, a paper that looks to me to be a will, some water-soaked papers that looked like stock certificates and $500 in old money.

I spent the money. I gave the ink well, the candlestick and the will to a lawyer. And I kept the certificates.

Campbell said he had the certificates verified and exchanged for more modern stocks. Shares of one stock worth nearly $800,000 at present prices, and a number of shares of two other leading stocks, which he claims to have received in the exchange, would bring the present value of his find close to $1,000,000.

Campbell claims he was led to the box by guides from the spirit world.

Weddings

O'BRIEN—GOOLEY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday morning at eight o'clock at the Sacred Heart Church by Rev. J. J. O'Brien, when Irene E. Gooley, daughter of Mrs. Ellen and the late Mr. Gooley, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Joseph R. O'Brien, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. O'Brien.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Leo Gooley, looked charming in a gown of white embroidered lace, bridal veil and orange blossoms, white brocaded slippers and white kid gloves. Her bouquet was of Premier roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid, Miss Matilda Gooley, sister of the bride, wore a frock of poppy blush crepe, black hat and shoes, white kid gloves. She carried a bouquet of carnations and sweet peas.

The bridegroom was assisted by his brother Lawrence.

The wedding music was played by John Armstrong. During the signing of the register Rosewig's "Ave Maria," was sung very sweetly by Miss Margaret McCarthy.

Dinner was served to seventy guests at the bride's home. The decorations were in pink and white, the table centered by the bride's cake. In the evening a reception was held in the Canadian Legion Hall, which was attended by about four hundred people.

Later Mr. O'Brien and his bride left by motor for Niagara Falls, N.Y., the bride travelling in an ensemble of chocolate crepe trimmed in eggshell with matching accessories. On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

Obituary

MRS. MICHAEL CACCAVELLA.

Mrs. Michael Caccavella died this morning at her residence, 506 Elm street, in her 36th year.

A native of Italy, Mrs. Caccavella came to Peterborough with her parents twenty-six years ago, and received part of her education at Sacred Heart School. She was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Besides her husband she is survived by her father, Mauro Giardino and two brothers, Carman and Nicholas; also twelve children, Joseph, Morris, Anthony, Frederick, Dennis, Michael and Carmen, and Viviana, Lena, Theresa, Grace and Annie Maria, all of this city.

The funeral is to be held on Sunday from the family residence at 2.30 p.m. to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

MRS. HATTIE WEBBER McCLENNAN

The funeral of the late Mrs. Hattie Webber McClennan took place on Wednesday afternoon, April 27, from her late residence, 326 Charlotte street, to Little Lake Cemetery.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION NEWS

PRINCE OF WALES.

The April meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association was held in the kindergarten room of the school, with a large number in attendance.

The roll call showed an equal number of parents of pupils in Miss Huffman's and Miss Milburn's rooms, so each will have the honor of holding the banner for two weeks.

The Cheerio entertainers, under the leadership of H. J. McCannon, rendered several musical numbers, which received hearty applause.

Max Peters sang a solo and also gave a reading.

Bob Orr and his company of Corn Poppers from May's School delighted the audience with their musical selections.

Mrs. G. A. Spicer, the president, who was the delegate to the Home and School Federation in Toronto during Easter week, gave a very excellent report of the proceedings.

Mr. Munro, principal of the school, moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Spicer, expressing his appreciation of her very fine report.

Mrs. E. Wand, delegate from the Home and School Council at the Federation, also gave a splendid report of that section.

Frank Clark was heard in a banjo solo.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, followed by the service of dainty refreshments, under the convenorship of Mrs. F. Elliot and Mrs. Pearson, and a social hour enjoyed.

YANKS WIN ANOTHER.

Heavy Slugging is Feature of Cincinnati's 7-6 Victory at Pittsburg.

(By Gayle Talbot, A. P. Sports Writer)

Seven of the eight National League clubs double-shuffled their outfields before the start of the current race, and there is reason to believe the Cincinnati Reds picked up the winning hand. In Babe Herman, Chick Hafey and Taylor Douthit the Reds appear to have the greatest combination in the circuit, barring possibly the holdover outfield of the Waner brothers and Comorosky at Pittsburgh.

None of the six other contenders thus far has been able to place a trio in the field to compare in effectiveness with Dan Howley's three. Herman and Hafey are knocking the cover off the ball, as was to be expected, and Douthit is upholding his reputation as one of the greatest fly hawks in the game, an important item in the spacious Cincinnati Park.

Reds Wins Opener

They were the big guns yesterday as the Reds opened at Pittsburgh with a 7-6 victory. Herman knocked in three runs with a homerun and a single. Hafey smacked a double and two singles and Douthit gave up with a pair of singles. Between them, they accounted for seven of the team's twelve hits off four Pirate pitchers.

The Brooklyn Dodgers who apparently didn't do so well in the scramble for outfielders, broke a five-game losing streak at the Phillies' expense, 11-5. Max Carey's pupils finally got their batting eyes and pounded four pitchers for 14 safeties, including home runs by Frederick and Rosenfeld.

The celebrated Dizzy Dean made his maiden start for the St. Louis Cardinals and went out after five innings under a hail of hits as the league leading Chicago Cubs won another, 12-7. Lance Richbourg, substitute outfielder, drove in four of the Cubs' runs with his double and two singles and scored twice.

Cold weather held up the Giants' opener at Boston.

In the American League, the Washington Senator inflicted more casualties on Connie Mack's pitching staff in scoring a 10-4 triumph. Rube Walberg was punched for 11 hits and seven runs before he retired in the seventh, and Deshong had little better luck.

The Yankees fell on Danny MacFayden, ace of the Boston staff, for 10 hits to take the opener with the Red Sox, 5-1. Lefty Gomez pitched a brilliant game, allowing only three singles.

Cleveland ran its winning streak to five straight with an 11-2 decision over the luckless Chicago White Sox. Earl Averill featured the Indians' assault on three hurlers with a home run and a single.

Detroit's prize rookie, Whitlow Wyatt, met his first reverse when the St. Louis Browns jumped him for seven hits and five runs in the first four innings and then held on behind George Blaeholder to win, 5-4.

Swedish Nobles Yet Keep Old Tradition

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 29 (By The Canadian Press)—The Swedish House of Nobles, the ancient national body of Swedish Noblemen, recently held their solemn assembly in the "House of Knights," known as the finest specimen of old Stockholm architecture. The heads of the noble families gathered in the beautiful memorial hall, the walls of which are covered with the coats of arms of the noble families, and opened their meeting by paying reverence to the oldest and most aristocratic of Sweden's families, the Brahes, recently extinct by the death of the last Count Brahe, which has played such a prominent part in the history of Sweden.

Before the reforms of 1866, the House of Nobles acted as the Swedish House of Lords. It is quite a wealthy institution, for its total assets now amount to more than 19,000,000 kronor ($5,277,780).

The House also has no fewer than 210 benevolent funds with a combined capital of about 1.3 million kroner ($356,110), enabling the directors of the House to pay out annual subventions and scholarships to children in need of financial support for their education as well as pensions to widows and orphans.

Checker Tournament Held At Frankford

FRANKFORD, April 29. (Examiner Correspondence)—On Monday, April 25th, a checker tournament took place in the Community Hall between Cobourg and Frankford teams:

In all, 48 games were played, resulting in 30 wins for Frankford, 12 for Cobourg and 6 tie games.

Cobourg was represented by the following: C. Hyde, F. Greer, H. Richardson, W. H. Patterson, W. H. Maybee, A. Cooper, E. Crowe, W. Leonard, C. Leonard, L. Roberts, E. Morton and E. Fash.

Those playing for Frankford were: W. J. McNair, J. Snider, B. Longy, N. Davis, H. Hadley, G. Harrison, R. Hadley, A. Flindall, W. Hinds, J. Peacock, P. Flindall and I. Strikpy.

After the games were played the visitors were taken to the cafe where a sumptuous repast awaited them.

LOCAL YACHTSMAN MAY PARTICIPATE

The dinghy races of the Olympic Games will be held at Los Angeles July 17th to the 20th, inclusive. The boats used will be unlike the dinghies sailed in this country, being manned by one person only, and are twelve feet in length instead of fourteen.

The boats have an almost flat bottom, and are shaped somewhat like a broad "V", with the sides nearly straight. The sails are Marconi-rigged using a mast about 19½ feet high. There are no spreaders but one fore-stay and two side-strays. These dinghies are more heavily constructed than Canadian boats and carry 95 square feet of sail against 140 feet carried by the Canadian fourteen-foot boat.

The race course consists of a three-mile triangle inside the breakwater of the Los Angeles harbour. In order to insure equal conditions for all competitors, the boats will be supplied by the Olympic Games' Committee and will all be built from the same mould. The sails will be as nearly alike as possible, and both sails and boats will be drawn for by lot. Seven days before the first race, the sails will be allotted and these will be retained by the competitors until the series of races is over. The boats are to be allotted before each race.

One challenge only will be accepted from each country. The application of Reg. Dixon of Peterborough is already being considered, and if acceptable, he will leave the end of June to compete in this event.

Leeds Grandstand Burns Rapidly As Rugby Match Starts

Leeds, Eng — Twenty thousand people were watching a Rugby League match between Leeds and Halifax on the famous Headingley ground at Leeds when the main grandstand caught fire. It was entirely destroyed.

The game had been in progress only 12 minutes and it was at once abandoned.

People on the stand rushed from the blazing tiers and nearly a score of women fainted in the stampede. One woman sprained her ankle and was taken to the ambulance station on a stretcher.

LEAFS GROUP HITS TO WIN OVER READING

Timely Batting Gives Toronto 8-5 Decision in Opening Game.

CANTRELL GOES ROUTE.

Doljack Leads the Offensive With Two Doubles and a Single.

READING, Pa., April 29. — Tom Daly's Leafs broke out with a concentrated batting rampage here yesterday and smashed their way to an 8-5 victory in the opening game of the series with the Keys to escape from the International League cellar. Luckily, the Leafs were hitting, as Guy Cantrell, their fireball artist, was none too effective, and weathered a stormy session only by pitching his best in the pinches.

Frank Doljack, who finished the 1931 season with Reading, was pretty rough on his former mates in setting the offensive pace for the Canadians with two doubles and a single, but he had plenty of help from his own colleagues, as timely drives were also contributed by Morehart, Fritz, Hughes, and Cantrell in the Leafs' best collective hitting exhibition of the season.

The Canadians smacked the offerings of George Kirsch, a curveball specialist, for 13 ringing blows, while the Keys had a fair total themselves with 11 off Cantrell. Ray Fritz banged out a home run over the right field wall with empty sacks in the third inning, while Jim Poole duplicated the feat for Reading in the seventh under similar circumstances.

Cantrell in Frequent Trouble.

Cantrell was in trouble frequently, while his control none too steady, but he was laboring with a rather severe cold. He gave an exhibition in the fifth inning that probably saved the game for him. The Keys loaded the bags with none out when McMillan singled, Poole walked, and Whitman beat out a bunt, but failed to score. Horn forcing McMillan at the plate on a slow hopper to Cantrell, Legett striking out, and Krasovich grounding out to the infield.

BEARS TAKE LEAD

Like any other collection of sluggers, the Buffalo Bisons can be stopped by good, smart pitching.

Harry Holsclaw, sensational New ark recruit, proved that anew yesterday when he set the Bisons down with six hits and pitched the Bears to a 5—2 victory that gave them undisputed possession of first place in the league standing.

Newark won the ball game in the last half of the sixth by scoring three runs off Joe Bloomer to gain a 4—1 lead. Andy Cohen made it 5—1 with a home run in the seventh. Jack Winsett personally accounted for Buffalo's final tally by driving the ball into the centre field bleachers in the ninth.

It was Holsclaw's third victory in four starts. He suffered his only defeat in a 11-inning battle with Montreal.

Ray Starr, ace right-hander of the Rochester Redwings, dropped his second game in four starts when the Baltimore Orioles won a 5—4 decision. Starr allowed only five hits but walked 11 men and hit another. He lost his own game in the eighth when he walked two, both of whom came home on Baxter Jordon's double. Jordan previously had hit a home run with one on in the fifth. Ken Holloway gave Rochester six hits including home runs by Pucinelli and Fisher.

Jersey City and Reading dropped into a tie for seventh place by dropping decisions to Montreal and Toronto respectively. The two Canadian teams went into a tie for fifth position.

Yesterday's Stars

Johnny Frederick, Dodgers—Collected home run, double and two singles against Phils' pitching.

Babe Herman, Reds—Aided in defeat of Pirates with home run and single, driving in three runs.

George Watkins, Cardinals—Found Cub hurling easy and collected double and four singles.

Vernon Gomez, Yankees — Held Red Sox to three hits.

George Blaeholder, Browns—Pitched effectively in pinches and beat Tigers, 5-4.

Earl Averill, Indians—Clouted fourth homer of season to aid in defeat of White Sox.

Fred Marberry, Senators—His relief pitching featured victory over Athletics.

CANUCKS LOSE AT WASHINGTON

Dr. Wright and Marcel Rainville Give Fine Display in Davis Cup Play.

EXTEND AMERICANS.

WASHINGTON, April 29—Dr. Jack Wright of Vancouver, Canadian tennis ace, forced the phenomenal Ellsworth Vines, champion of the United States, to five sets in the first round of the Davis Cup play here yesterday afternoon. Canada lost both the Wright-Vines match and the contest between Marcel Rainville of Montreal and Wilmer Allison, the pride of Texas, but the Canadians, whose chances had been considered slight, won the admiration of a thousand spectators with their skill and spirit. Vines defeated Wright 8—6, 3—6, 6—4, 3—6, 6—2. Allison defeated Rainville 6—2, 6—4, 6—4.

The tennis-playing doctor from the West, a veteran cup player, put up such a battle against the lanky, lackadaisical Californian, taking his cannon ball service and smashes from the half court when possible and at other times coolly letting the impossible slip that even the cynical press gallery was worked up. After the rest period following the third set, Wright came from behind with apparent ease and ran out five games to his opponent's one. Spectators who had generously applauded without favoritism fell silent as it became a question whether the champion of the United States was to lose.

Are cheap clothes holding your man back?

The man in the picture is getting along. He may not be as brainy as your man, but he always looks deserving of more money—and he gets it.

If your man pays less than $24 he will eventually find the cheap suit very costly.

If a first-class suit—a suit that makes a man look successful—could be made to sell for less than $24, Tip Top Tailors would make it.

Many men had paid forty, fifty, sixty dollars or higher for clothes before they learned about Tip Top Tailors and even then they didn't get the style, the fit and the wearing quality of Tip Top Tailored clothes.

This type of man gets more money because he is always dressed for advancement

Hundreds of thousands of customers create for Tip Top Tailors a tremendous buying power. This means big savings. These savings go to Tip Top customers in the form of extra refinements, extra values.

Tip Top customers can select their clothes from a wide variety of patterns, expertly designed styles and woollens from the choice weaves of world-famous mills. Their clothes are cut and tailored by skilful craftsmen to 21 personal measurements. Tip Top Tailored clothes fit.

Clothes don't make the man—but they help a lot. Don't let cheap clothes hold your man back. Encourage him to buy his next suit or topcoat at Top Top Tailors.

21 Personal Measurements

Perfection in the fitting of a Tip Top Tailored suit begins in the store when the tailor takes 21 of your personal measurements. And your suit will be cut singly, by hand, as marked on the cloth you have selected. It will be tailored individually with your measurements as a guide. It will be inspected and checked against every entry on your measurement chart. That is why Tip Top Tailors can guarantee the fit of every garment they make.

HARRY DINSDALE RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF CITY LEAGUE

Junior, Juvenile and Three Bantams Entered at Organization Meeting.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

At a well-attended City Baseball League annual meeting in Duffus' last night, President Harry Dinsdale was re-elected for 1932. Five teams, one junior, a juvenile and three bantams were entered, the entry date set, and other seasonal business discussed.

Just before the general meeting started, a number of the City League representatives went to the "Y" to decide with representatives of the senior club and the East Peterborough League who the chairman of the local Baseball Commission would be. Alex Kay the unanimous choice.

The officers elected for the City Loop for this year were: President, Harry Dinsdale; vice-president, Art Moffat; secretary-treasurer, Len Foster. The executive will consist of these officers and the managers of the teams.

The teams entered last night were: Juniors, Foster's; juveniles, Maple Leafs; bantams, Ralph's, All Saints and Rotarians. It is hoped to have four teams in each of these divisions this year. All entries must be in at the next meeting, which will be held May 12th.

The opening date of the playing schedules was set as the 24th of May. Those present agreed that a Spalding baseball should be used again this season at all league games. Various other matters pertaining to the league, clubs, possible entries, and games came in for much discussion, but nothing further could be done at this time, and the meeting was adjourned.

OLYMPIC PROSPECTS CARDED ON TO-NIGHT'S FIGHT BILL

Paul Amato and Art Woods Among Most Colorful Fighters in Dominion.

GOOD LOCAL BOUTS.

Two Olympic prospects feature the amateur boxing show at the Legion Hall this evening, one being an almost certain Canadian entry. He is Paul Amato, who won the Dominion middleweight title last year, and so far this year has captured the Ontario one. Paul is a fast, clever boxer who can hit and take it. His durability in the ring is something to marvel at. But in to-night's main bout, he meets a light-heavyweight from a different club, and it will be no disgrace if he meets defeat. Cliff Rhamey, his husky opponent, is rated good in Toronto, so the deadliner here ought to be interesting.

The other real prospect for the Games in Los Angeles this year is Art Woods, classy socking lightweight, who battles George Prince in the semi-final. Art is due to fight the Quebec champ, at the Lions' Club show in Toronto, Monday, and he will try to polish off Prince in a hurry. But the latter is no dub, having fought the best of them, and his experience and boxing skill will pretty well balance this bout.

Reg. White, of Toronto, meets Roy Hope in what should be an excellent battle, while Art Hunter is matched with George Spanis, Keith Jarvis goes on against Jackie Watson, after the DeNoble-Jordan curtain-raiser. A ten-minute wrestling bout between Jack Gardner and Mick Magee promises plenty of action, as well.

Baseball Schedule

PRINCE EDWARD LEAGUE.

BELLEVILLE, April 29.—President Robt. Redner of the Prince Edward-Hastings County Junior Baseball League has issued the following double schedule. The schedule opens on May 30 and a tight race for the championship is assured, with Belleville Amateur Athletic Association, last year's winners, slight favorites.

The schedule:

Monday, May 30—Picton at Wellington.

Wednesday, June 1—Moose at B.A.A.A.; Pointe Anne at Picton.

Friday, June 3—B.A.A.A. at Point Anne; Picton at Junior Moose.

Saturday, June 4—Wellington at B.A.A.A.

Monday, June 6—Junior Moose at Point Anne.

Practises

SUGAR BOWL

To-morrow afternoon at 1.30, the Sugar Bowl softball team will workout at Central School grounds. Anyone trying for a place should be on hand.

MY VALET

Members of the My Valet girls' softball team will practise from two to three at the Oval to-morrow afternoon, and the manager requests a full turnout.

FOSTER JUNIORS

The Foster Juniors are practising at the Exhibition Grounds tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 and all junior material interested should attend, as places may not be open in another week.

KING GEORGE WINS INITIAL BALL TILT

East Enders Hook Up With Queen Mary in Public School League Opener.

King George and Queen Mary Schools opened the Public School Baseball League with a postponed game yesterday at the former school grounds, King George winning 4—2 in five innings. A strong wind, and the earliness of the season made perfect baseball out of the question, but both teams turned in a surprisingly good performance before a large crowd of school rooters.

Neither team countered any in the first frame, and the East City nine crossed the plate twice in the second. Both sides scored a brace of runs each in the third to finish the scoring. The pitching was fair with the fielders having little to do, and the batters scarcely having their hitting eye yet. The teams:

Queen Mary.—Harding, LeClair, Leith, Clark, Millard, Kelly, Chesher, Mortimer and Whiteside.

King George.—Hopcroft, cf; McLean, 2b; Gardner, c; Legon, lf; Burton, p; Hepburn, 2b; Earle, ss; Macdonald, 1b; Gardiner, rf.

Umpire—Bill Calladine.

Alary's Kandy 1st Field Of Eighteen

NEWMARKET, Eng., April 29—(CP)—M. E. De St. Alary's brown filly, Kandy, to-day won the thousand guineas prize Spring stake for three-year-old fillies from a field of 18 other top flight competitors.

Kandy won by a length from Somerville Tattersall's Thorndean with Lord Woolavington's Saferaturn third a length further back. The race was at a mile.

Kandy, which won at odds of 33 to one, is by Alcantara II out of Kiao Tehau.

Plander Earns 1st Victory At Montreal

MONTREAL, April 29 (C.P.)—Two-fisted body punching earned Emile (Spider) Pladner of France the first decision in an elimination to decide the logical contender for the bantamweight championship now held by Panama Al Brown.

At the Forum here last night Pladner pounded out an earned decision over Bobby Leitham, Canadian titleholder at the bantam weight, in ten interesting rounds. Two of the judges voted for the fiery little Frenchman, while one called it a draw.

The local lad took a count of eight in the second round when he received a right cross on the jaw. It was the only knock-down of the match. Leitham crumpled and went to the floor in what many thought was a knockout. He regained his feet, however, and clinched until he recovered his poise.

CASUAL COMMENT

With nothing else on in sports' circles around town to-night, the benefit boxing show at the Legion Hall ought to get a good play. It starts at 8.30 and consists of six fights and a wrestling match. Five Toronto scrappers will be seen, the Amato-Rhamey headliner, Art Woods and George Prince in the semi-final, and Reg. White going on against Roy Hope, of the Alpha Club.

• • • • • • •

Among the prelims are the Art Hunter-George Spavis scrap, Keith Jarvis-Jack Watson go, and the DeNoble-Jordan curtain-raiser. The grappling event features Jack Gainer and Mick Magee, ten-minutes to a decision, or one fall settling the winner. The Alpha Club is staging the card for needy local war veterans, so not only will fans get plenty of entertainment for their shekels, but they'll be helping a worthy cause.

• • • • • • •

At the Lawn Bowling Association meeting the other night, it was pointed out that some of the towns and villages of Central Ontario, not connected with the association, might benefit by joining. For one thing, it means that the various tournaments held in this part of the province would not conflict with each other, and that is rather important, we would imagine.

• • • • • • •

Incidentally, it was decided that the annual meeting for '33 would be held the last Wednesday of April here. And the annual Final District Tournament will be the second week of September. This city is considered central and therefore the best place for the yearly meeting.

• • • • • • •

Bill Prindible will again act as O.B.A.A. convenor here, that association requesting the same men to act again this year. In a bulletin just issued, the convenors are all thanked and praised for their work last year, which by the way isn't always a cinch. But Bill says he is willing to tackle it once more.

• • • • • • •

The senior, intermediate and minor baseball executives here have agreed upon Alex Kay as the ideal chairman for the local Baseball Commission, if he will act. They got together last night at the "Y" and discussed the matter, and no better man could have been picked.

• • • • • • •

The Belleville Nationals are having a boxing show down there on Monday evening, in which two Peterborough scrappers appear. Ned Minicola is billed to meet George Semark in the main bout, while Jack Gardner is matched with Scotty Kline in the semi-final. They are return fights, both Peterborough fighters having won in this town.

• • • • • • •

At a recent athletic gathering, a fellow made the ridiculous suggestion that our accounts of what transpired at these meetings should be more or less censured before appearing in print. We must point out that we are not publicity agents for any league or club in the city, and our copy is not available for censure before appearing in print. While we are always glad to boost local sports, our job is to report what is going on to the sports followers, with this column being mainly for comments. We just thought we'd clear this up at this time.

• • • • • • •

But, returning to baseball, Manager Art Primeau has called a senior practice for to-morrow afternoon at James Stevenson Park at 2.30, weather permitting. Every player in the city figuring he has a possible chance of catching on should turn out for this workout. All places are still open on the team.

• • • • • • •

Harry Dinsdale was re-elected president of the City League at the annual meeting last night, a good move. So far one junior, one juvenile, and three bantam teams have been entered, and it is hoped to have four in each division. Entries close at the next meeting, May 12. With a good bunch of officers, a fine City League should get under way on the 24th of May.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

THE GABBLERS ARRIVE.

I wonder how they get that way
Who talk a lot yet nothing say.
—Paddy the Beaver.

Satisfied that there was no immediate danger and that Mrs. Paddy's warning had been merely to let him know that he should be on guard, Paddy at length went back to his job of cutting down a tree. Jerry Muskrat, however, was a bit too nervous to go quite so far back from the water. You see, he was not used to it.

"If you don't mind," said he, "I'll watch you from here near the water and will help Mrs. Paddy keep watch while you work. Two will be better than one. Don't you think so?"

Paddy grinned, but he turned his head so that Jerry didn't see that grin. "Certainly," said he gravely. "It will be fine to have you on guard. I shall feel a lot easier in my mind as I work. I'll soon have that tree down. Hello, here comes Mrs. Paddy to join us. What was your signal for, my dear?"

"Old Man Coyote was prowling about the upper dam so I signalled to let you know that you should be on guard and to let him know that I knew he was about. He understood all right, for he trotted off at once. He knows how useless it is to try to catch one of us when we know he is about and never wastes any time that way," replied Mrs. Paddy. "Do you want me to help you cut that tree?" she added.

Paddy shook his head. "No, thank you," he replied. "I have it more than half cut through already. But when it falls I will be glad to have you help cut it up. Just you see that our friend here keeps out of the way when I signal that the tree is about to fall."

"Oh, I'll keep out of the way. You may be sure of that," cried Jerry.

So Paddy went back to work and Jerry and Mrs. Paddy sat on the edge of the pond keeping watch. By and by Jerry heard a slight cracking sound. This was followed at once by a loud thump. Paddy had slapped the ground hard with his big flat tail.

"Does that mean danger?" asked Jerry anxiously, preparing to dive into the water.

"No and yes," replied Mrs. Paddy. "It doesn't mean that there is danger from an enemy, but it does mean that there is danger for any one who may be where that tree is about to fall. It is a warning to get out of the way. We are quite safe here because we are beyond the reach of that tree. Here it comes!"

Jerry looked up to see the top of that tree slowly bend toward him. There were more cracking sounds and the top of that tree came down toward him faster and faster. Jerry sat still as long as he could, but when he was sure that tree was going to crash down on him he made a hasty dive into the water just as the tree hit the ground with a crash. Mrs. Paddy hadn't moved and when Jerry popped his head out of the water and looked back she was sitting just where she had been and that fallen tree was several feet beyond her. Jerry was chagrined as he swam back. Mrs. Paddy saw this.

"Don't let that trouble you," said she. "You must have felt that you were right under that falling tree. I know I would have had I not seen so many fall that I have learned to judge them. They always look as if they are going to fall a lot farther than they do. Now here comes Paddy and we'll take a swim before cutting up that tree. If Yowler the Bobcat or Old Man Coyote heard the crash of that tree they know just what it meant and may come over here to try to catch us at work cutting it up. It isn't good sense to stay there after such a crash."

So all three entered the water and swam about for awhile and finally went ashore on the other side of the pond. It was just as they left the water that they heard a sound that caused all three to listen. It was a faint, distant gabbling which grew louder as they listened.

"Honker the Goose and his flock!" exclaimed Paddy. "Did you ever hear such gabblers as they are? I wonder if they will stop here. I hope so."

Paddy's hope was fulfilled, for a little later Honker and his flock settled in the lower pond where his house was.

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If April 29th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., and from 9:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger hours are from 6:30 a.m. to 8 a.m., and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The astrological influences spell gloom and discouragement on this date, but victory may be wrung from defeat through persistent and hard work. Social affairs will not be spontaneous successes, and more than the usual outside stimulation will be needed to create a good time and happy feeling.

The child born on this April 29th will have a sunny disposition, considerable self-assurance, a love of adventure and considerable nervous energy. It will have an abundance of elemental strength and raw material, and only a bright future, from both a material and spiritual standpoint, can be predicted for it.

Born on an April 29th you are not a brilliant person, but you are blessed with a comprehending spirit. You have a substantial, rather than a facile, mind. You should be in some sort of business where you are in contact with human beings, not customers or lodgers. You must be of service to humanity in order to be happy; you want to feel that you are needed. You are a pioneer, not a standpatter; you look forward, not backward; you are willing to blaze the trail and to make your own experiments. You have considerable pride but no self-pity. You are reserved but not self-conscious.

If you like a person you are uncritical and extreme in your loyalty and you are capable of deep and genuine feeling. You, however, have a saturation point for abuse, and it is difficult for anyone to regain your good graces once they are lost.

You have plenty of grit, are able to grapple with difficulty, and to set yourself to conquer circumstances. From the Stars, it is foreseen that you will not always be sailing in calm waters, but you never lose your nerve or allow your spirits to drop too low. You are destined to be the victim of unscrupulous and selfish associates. If you pass by your first loves, a happy marriage is in store for you with an understanding companion.

One secret of getting ahead

You need good health to succeed. Many a man has seen his chances go because he was too sick to keep pace with competition. Often his poor health was due to constipation.

This ailment frequently causes headaches, loss of energy, sleeplessness. It takes the "punch" out of your day's work.

Try eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Science shows this delicious cereal supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

NIAGARA FALLS LAWYER IS GRANTED DIVORCE

TORONTO, April 29.—Hartley F. Upper, barrister of Niagara Falls, has been granted a decree nisi by Mr. Justice Jeffrey on his application for a divorce from his wife, Margaret Hazel Upper. The parties to the action were married in Hamilton in June, 1915. There are no children of the marriage.

On Oct. 28, 1923, Mrs. Upper secured a judgment for alimony. At that time, the barrister says, the evidence of W. L. Sneath, of Welland, named co-respondent, in this action, was not available. He first brought action for divorce which was heard by the Senate committee. The committee's recommendation that the marriage be dissolved through the passing of an act, was defeated in the House of Commons.

CLAIM VAST STORES OF RADIUM CASHED IN DAVY JONES' LOCKER

Landslides Crashing Down Mountain Sides at Sea Bottom Are Described.

AT GEOPHYSICAL UNION.

WASHINGTON, April 29 (A.P.)—Vast stores of radium cached in Davy Jones' locker, and landslides crashing down mountain sides at the bottom of the sea, were described by scientists to-day before the American Geophysical Union.

The Gulf Stream, meanwhile, was stripped of its reputation and weather-breeder and wanderer, and classed as just one of the half a dozen ocean zones of varying temperature off the North Atlantic Coast.

Sediments on the bottom of the Pacific Ocean are from four to nearly twelve times as rich in radium as ordinary rocks on dry land, according to figures quoted dy C. S. Pygott, based on samples dredged up from the sea floor. The most radium is in the deeper parts of the ocean bottom, remote from land, and Piggott estimated the total hidden there at about a billion tons.

Caused by Oxidation

The radium is sent to the bottom mostly by oxidation in the sea water while some is carried down by skeletons of tiny sea creatures and dust particles, he explained.

Landslides, not earthquakes, are the immediate cause of many of the great submerged valleys under the sea, said Dr. Francis P. Shepard. The sliding takes place along the steep slopes at the edges of continent, where there are fine sediments that slide easily. Earthquakes merely jar them loose.

There is little evidence that the Gulf Stream changes its course with the seasons, Dr. Phil E. Church asserted, and the stream, being comparatively small in area, probably affects the North American climate little compared to the large warm water area to the southeast of it.

EXPECT SENATE VOTE TO-NIGHT

Motion For Expulsion of Senators May Be Delayed Day or Two if Report Carries.

CHANCE TO RESIGN.

OTTAWA, April 29.—(C.P.—Barring any unforeseen development, the Senate will vote to-night on the motion for adoption of the majority report of the Senate Enquiry Committee containing findings against the conduct of Senators W. L. McDougald, Andrew Haydon and Donat Raymond in connection with the Beauharnois project.

Discussion will be continued in the Upper Chamber this afternoon by Senator Lynch-Staunton, who may be followed by Senator Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader. Senator Archibald Gillis and a number of others are also on the list of speakers.

If the report is carried, it is stated that proposed motions for the expulsion of Senators McDougald and Haydon and a third for the censure of Senator Raymond may be delayed for a day or two. According to well-informed reports, the delay, assuming that the report is carried, will be for the purpose of affording the opportunity for Senators McDougald and Haydon to resign should they so desire before proceeding further.

Salvage Tug Stands By Stranded Craft

MONTREAL, April 29. —(CP)— The salvage vessel Lord Strathcona and a lighter arrived alongside the grounded oil tanker S. S. Cymbeline today but were waiting for the weather to moderate before commencing operations. It was stated here today by officials of J. F. Whitney and company, steamship agents.

A strong, offshore wind prevented attempts to move the Cymbeline which ran aground Wednesday near Bagot Bluff, Anticosti Island, while bound for Montreal with a cargo of oil. The Whitney company, agents for the owners, declared that it was hoped the Cymbeline would be afloat tomorrow. They had no report on the damages sustained by the tanker.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 83 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

"You cannot send him away," cried the girl, "not even YOU could be so cruel!" Then turning to the Russian: "O Carl! Save me from this beast." For answer, Carl Kraski levelled his automatic and fired at the Spaniard. The bullet missed its target. Before he could bring his rifle into action, Esteban threw his heavy spear whose barbed shaft tore through Kraski's heart. Without a sound the Russian fell dead.

Esteban wrenched his spear from the prone body. As he did so he saw the little sack fastened to Kraski's waist. This he took into the hut. The girl crouched in a corner, sobbing: "You beast!" "Yes," he cried with a laugh, "I AM a beast. I am Tarzan—Tarzan of the Apes. Who dares call me—otherwise, dies!" His voice trailed off in a brazy mumble.

© 1931, by Edgar Rice Burroughs. Inc. rights reserved.

The girl looked at him and shuddered. "Mad!" she thought. "I am alone in the jungle with a madman." To one reason Esteban was mad; with the madness of his caste, who lives his part. So prevalent had the Spaniard become in the interpretation of the role that he might have deceived Tarzan's own friends in outward appearance. But with the perfect form was the heart of a craven.

"He would have stolen my mate," muttered Esteban, "me, Tarzan of the Apes—Lord of the Jungle. Easily I slew him with a single stroke. You would love a weakling when you could have that of the great Tarzan!" "How I loathe you!" cried the desperate girl. "A beast—yes, you are lower than a beast!" "You are mine, though," gloated the Spaniard, "and you shall never be another's! I would kill you first."

IN MEMORIAM

JAMES—In loving remebrance of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. John James who departed this life April 29th, 1931.

Her loving smile and kindly ways
Are pleasing to recall.
She always had a cheerful word
And was dearly loved by all.
—Ever remembered, son Ralph and family.

JAMES—In loving memory of my dear wife, Mary E. James, who departed this life one year ago to-day, April 29, 1931.

I lost my sole companion.
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss her more
As I walk through life alone.
The one I loved has gone to rest,
Her fond true heart is still;
The hand that always helped me
Now lies in death's cold chill.
—Sadly missed by her sorrowful husband.

JAMES—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. J. C. James, who departed this life, one year ago to-day, April 29, 1931.

What is home without a mother?
What are all the joys we meet
When her loving smile no longer
Greets the coming of our feet?
You were very true and patient
Through the years you struggled on.
Dear mother, we think of you,
And think of how you died—
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
To those who have a mother—
Cherish her with care;
There will never be another
To fill her vacant chair.
—Sadly missed by her daughter, sons and grandchildren.
